POPULISTS AT WORK.
Considerable Opposition to Bryan Manifested.
Kewaskum's Friends Seem to Have an Upper Hand, However.

THE SILVER PARTY.

New Organization in Session at St. Louis.
Programme will be the Endorsement of Democratic Nominees.

St. Louis, Mo., July 22.—The delegates to the national silver party convention were slow in assembling at the Grand Music hall and there were only a few visitors to fill the galleries when J. J. Mott, chairman of the national committee, called the convention to order. He was tardy and it was not until 12 o'clock when he stepped to the platform and rapped for the delegates.

Butler in the Middle of the Road.
Butler said just before the recess: "I do not want to be a middle-of-the-road man. I am a middle-of-the-road man, but I do not want to be a middle-of-the-road man. I am a middle-of-the-road man, but I do not want to be a middle-of-the-road man."

There was no night session, owing to an accident which destroyed the electric light in the hall about 6 o'clock and the wires were blown down. Despite this, the delegates assembled in the hall and waited for over an hour in total darkness for the lights to be turned on. A danger of a fire was brought in for the use of the newspaper men. One was placed on the chairman's table, and another in the middle of the pit.

For nearly an hour the crowd kept up a chorus of cat-calls and personal attacks whenever the hall stopped playing. At 8:45 Chairman Butler appeared on the platform and called the convention to order. He announced that the delegates were not to be able to report to-day, and that as, owing to an accident, there was no light, he would declare the convention in adjournment until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

JOHN BULL'S CAUTION FOR A GOLD TICKET.

Wants a Hole Left in the Fence So the Lion May Crawl Out.

Washington, D. C., July 18.—England's established policy of trying the best of every bargain lurks in the arbitration correspondence made public by Secretary Olney last night. Since last February an even dozen letters have passed between the diplomatic offices of England and the United States touching the Venezuelan question. The subject is still under discussion. The letters now published cover the negotiations up to June 22.

This correspondence is of vast importance in the future of the world. It marks the first effort of nations to do away with war. It reveals the two sides of the question, the one being the desire to establish a permanent peace, the other being the desire to maintain the status quo. It shows the progress of the world towards a more peaceful and just future.

Francis G. Newlands, Temporary Chairman of the National Silver Party Convention.
The hall had been attractively draped with flags and bunting, but the atmosphere was so close and hot that it was almost suffocating when Chairman Mott came forward to call the convention to order. The delegates for the moment ceased the use of fans and restlessness from the torrid summer day. The hall was filled with a sense of anticipation and excitement.

The delegates for the moment ceased the use of fans and restlessness from the torrid summer day. The hall was filled with a sense of anticipation and excitement.

Mr. Newlands was finally interrupted by applause from the delegates. Less than 100 people occupied the grand hall, the applause from that quarter was feeble. When the temporary chairman had finished the roll was called by states to give the names of the delegation of the committee on credentials.

WISCONSIN VILLAGES.

Get Relief from the Dilemma in Which They Were Placed by the Supreme Court's Recent Action.

Upon the broad ground of equity, Judge Johnson last Saturday dissolved the injunction of William Worm, restraining the officers of the village of Waunatona from exercising their functions, the court holding that the existence of the village is valid. This decision was given despite the decision of the Supreme court in the now famous case of North Milwaukee, in which it was held that the law providing for the incorporation of villages was unconstitutional. The village of Waunatona was incorporated under the same law as that under which it was incorporated in the North Milwaukee case.

GEO. NUGENT, Editor.

EVERYTHING seems to be going Alt-gold's way lately. His law partner, who died recently, willed the Governor $40,000. As a mark of esteem the gift is a treasure.

THE constitutionality of the last state apportionment act is being tested at Madison before the Supreme court, but it is doubtful whether a decision will be rendered in time to cut any figure in the state election "this load of polls."

THE Chicagoose, who recently complained because he only found drinking fountains for horses in Milwaukee, would have learned that cattle are about all that drink water in the Cream City had he visited the Pabst brewery. We speak from experience.

OF the forty-five states in the union, Alabama will hold her state election on August 3; Vermont, September 1; Arkansas, September 3; Maine, September 14; Florida and Georgia, October 7. With the exceptions of Louisiana, Oregon and Rhode Island, which have already held their state elections, the balance will hold their state and national elections on the same date—November 3.

THE call for a Democratic state convention has been issued, and the apportionment entitles this county to 5 delegates. The convention will convene in Milwaukee on Sept. 2; and, as presidential electors are to be nominated, it is pretty generally admitted that the silverites of the party will predominate, especially in view of the fact that the National platform and candidates favor free coinage.

THE old-time Republican, Philetus Sawyer, has made his word as good as his bond by giving the latter to the state as a guarantee that he will never ask nor take back the money which he paid into the treasury as bondsman of ex-treasurers who failed to turn over interest on state treasury funds. It was the proper thing to do under the circumstances, and Philetus proved equal to the task—be it said to his credit.

THE Indians who were imported from New York to Alpena about a year ago, owing to their "prowess" as bark-strippers, were recently paid off by the tannery company and loaded with such huge "jags" by saloon-keepers that their loins were subsequently trucked into the hold of a ship and freighted back to New York, where they will undoubtedly regain their ability as bark strippers subject to future orders from Alpena. Thus it appears that even lo, the poor Indian, is becoming a victim of our importations of cheap labor.

THERE is no fear of either Bryan or McKinley worsening matters any. The question is: Which will benefit us the most—a mere change of our tariff policy or a change of our tariff and our financial policy, both? Everybody admits that the government does not derive enough revenue from the present tariff and both Bryan and McKinley favor increasing our revenue. So, a choice between the two candidates for president will depend upon the financial plank of their respective platforms, as personally either would prove to be eminently fit for the presidency.

THE Chicago Inter-Ocean of last Sunday had the following: "The meaning of 16 to 1 is made clear in the law. Section 11 of the original coinage act of 1792 provided that the proportional value of gold to silver in all coins which shall by law be current as money within the United States shall be as 15 to 1, according to quantity in weight of pure gold or pure silver; that is to say, every 15 pounds weight of pure silver shall be of equal value in all payments to 1 pound weight of pure gold, and so in proportion as to any greater or less quantities of the respective metals." In 1834 the ratio was made 16 to 1; and there are now 371 1/2 grains of pure silver and 41 1/2 grains of copper alloy in the American standard silver dollar, and 23.22 grains of pure gold and 2.58 grains of silver and copper alloy in the gold dollar. The full weight of the gold dollar is 25.8 grains, and the silver dollar is 16 (or, to be entirely accurate, 15.98) times as heavy, or 412 1/2 grains. When converted into foreign money, say in the payment of a debt in London, the 23.22 grains of pure gold are compared with the 113 grains in the sovereign, and the sovereign is reckoned at $4.86 65-100 of our money. So with the gold coins of all other countries, the amount of pure gold in our dollar is compared with the amount of pure gold in their standard coin and the value determined accordingly; so, coinage adds nothing to its value. The secretary of the treasury is required by law "to preserve the parity between the two metals," and ample means have been provided for him to do so; and, in consequence of this policy, every dollar of currency in this country (whether a silver dollar, a government paper dollar, or a national banknote) is the equivalent of the gold dollar. The stock of money in the United States, according to the official statement of the treasury on July 1, 1896, was as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Currency type and Amount. Includes Gold, Silver, Government notes, Bank notes, and Total.

THE Republican congressional convention of this district will convene in the St. Charles hotel at Milwaukee on Aug. 22.

THE way some newspapers put bolting Democrats on the back nowadays is only equalled by the praise bestowed upon "middle of the road" Populists.

SOME of the remedies offered for the army worm are about as good as the directions once given by the peddler of a bed-bug exterminator. After a hotel proprietor had purchased a dozen bottles, he asked how it should be applied. "Why, catch the bugs," replied the peddler, "and pour it down their throats." However, we note that some farmers are succeeding with the remedy published on our local page last week, as witness the following from Black River Falls: "The farmers have dug trenches around their farms and placed a log therein; and, as the army moves only in the afternoon, a team is hitched to the log, when they begin their march, and is kept moving rapidly around the farm, thus crushing myriads of the worms and saving neighboring crops." In concluding, we beg leave to remind our farmers that scattering Paris green upon their crops is not only dangerous but needless, as salt will answer the same purpose.

It is all very well to be able to say the right thing at the right time; but it is a good deal better to be able to refrain from saying the wrong thing at the wrong time.—Boston Transcript.

"I once knew a man," said the imaginative boarder, "who was so fat that he was actually taller lying down than standing up. What do you think of that?" "It strikes me," said the cheerful idiot, "as pretty tall lying."—Indianapolis Journal.

"To give the cold shoulder" is said to have originated in a practice once common in France, and during the Norman days in England also. When a guest had outstayed his welcome, instead of the haunch of mutton or venison usually served at dinner, a cold shoulder of mutton was placed before him as a hint that he had better go.

Pulitzer of the New York World got his start by buying the St. Louis Dispatch at a sheriff's sale for $1,300 in 1878. The paper was then 20 years old and hundreds of thousands of dollars had been spent on it. He amalgamated it with the Post, and imported the brilliant Col. Cockerill, who soon had the united papers on easy street.

"I strongly object to being stared at," said Bismarck once, "and an opera glass leveled at me at fourteen paces is almost as objectionable as a revolver would be." Bismarck, however, does not object to being interviewed. "I refused myself to three diplomats," he said one day, "but I received four journalists and learned more from them than I could have from the diplomats."

A queer old specimen was recently brought to the Erie county penitentiary, where he had been sentenced from a western New York county. When he was brought up for examination the following dialogue occurred: "What is your name?" "— — — — —" "Your age?" "Seventy-nine." "What is your religion?" "My religion! Great guns! Has a man got to be religious to get in this place?"—Buffalo Express.

"Didn't Mr. Spooner stay rather late last night, Dora?" Daughter—"Perhaps it was rather late, pa; but, we were so busy discussing the question, as to whether it is healthy to sit up late, that we took no heed of the flight of time." Parent—"Well, the next time Spooner comes, you may conclude the discussion by informing him that I'm authority for the statement that it's apt to prove fatal in his case."—X.

The man who was tending bar in a Western town went anxiously up to the proprietor and said: "There's a feller out there with red-skin shoes and horse-blanket clothes who's tryin' ter git ter laugh onto us." What's he doin'—running down the place?" "No, he's callin' fer fancy drinks that we ain't got." "What did he ask for?" "A B. and S." "A B. and S.? Lemme see; that's all right. B. and S. stands for Bryan and Sewall. Give the stranger a silver fizz."—Washington Star.

While in St. Paul one morning two travelers hurried into a restaurant for breakfast; and, after waiting an un-usual length of time, the more impatient of the two called a waiter in no uncertain terms. The hash-slinger immediately begged pardon for any seeming neglect, saying: "The waiters are on a strike." With this the second party broke in with: "What they striking for—something to eat?" and a dozen other hungry patrons enjoyed a laugh which made them the center of attention until the waiter and the proprietor had given them everything they called for.

It is a matter of surprise that the universality of the bicycle has not produced an extensive vernacular. As a matter of fact, the "slang" expressions in general use, as gathered by an Eastern contemporary, are but few. Cyclist is a legitimate and comprehensive word that is shorter than wheelman or wheelwoman. In far away New Zealand, the awful word "cyclodonna" has been coined as a substitute for wheelwoman. In many Western towns the fair rider is called a "bloomer" without regard to her costume. The word "scorcher," as indicating a speedy cyclist, is fairly enough upon the language. In Chicago, however, the "scorcher" is called a "scoot." The technicalities of the machine have led to attempts upon the part of young men to coin expressions. "Your tire is punctured" indicates that the story you are telling lacks the probable element of truth. Reckless statements are called "coasting." A very ancient yarn is a "century." A young couple showing a mutual fondness are said to be "riding tandem." A man leading a fast life is "geared too high." An old fogey is referred to as a "high wheel." A chapman is known as a "pacemaker." A cheap bicycle is called a "gaspipe" machine. A professional racer is a "pro."
