AGAINST SCRIP HOLDERS.

Washington, D. C., May 28.—Binger Hermon, member of the general land office, today announced his decision in the Chicago lake front case, reversing the decision of Commissioner Lamoreux and denying and rejecting the application of Harvey M. La Follette and Matthias Kemmer to locate McKee scrip on the lands. This allows the government to stand for the benefit of the grantees. The commissioner holds that the McKee patent applies to all lands in the tract situated to the shore line, that accretions to the shore line are to be held under the McKee patent and, thirdly, that there was ample justification for rejecting and holding a covering. The lands involved were valued at upwards of $15,000,000.

Communications should be accompanied by the name of the writer; not necessarily by publication, but as evidence of good faith on the part of the author. Write only upon one side of paper; and, in giving names and dates, be careful to make them plain and distinct.

GEO. NUGENT, Editor.

It seems that Uncle Sam only recognizes Cuban insurgents as starving Americans.

NEW YORK people will remember Jesse Grant as the man who charged them $750 for attending his own father's funeral.

ROBERT FITZ-IMMONS has lately announced his intention of learning to sing. This accounts for the previous announcement that it will be at least two years ere he re-enters the prize-ring.

Now days, when a rich man is caught stealing a small amount, he is pitted and charitably termed a kleptomaniac; but, when a poor man is caught in a like act, he is called a thief and treated accordingly.

AND now comes the news that intoxicated tramps created a riot in Portage during the past week. It seems that a crowd of drunken hoboes are about as dangerous as a like amount of fire-watered Indians.

THE baseball umpires should strike for an increase of salary, as the fines which they are imposing upon players increase the receipts considerably. It would also help pay the surgical bills of the 'pises who are being unmercifully pummeled by the players.

THE girls of Cleveland have petitioned the board of control of that Ohio city to change the name of Kissam street to Ellendale avenue. If that thoroughfare derived its name through Ellen Dale having kissed Sam in public there, the board may grant the prayer of the petitioners.

THE National Shoe and Leather association, which represents the tanning and leather manufacturers of the country, wants the proposed duty on hides removed from the senate schedule; but it is more than likely that the farmers and stock raisers of the country are opposed to any change in that portion of the schedule.

THE Chicago bridge-tender who could not understand English enough to know that the party addressing him wanted a boat, is said to be responsible for the drowning of some boys who drifted out into the river on a raft. However that may be, he is certainly a good example of the need of more civil service in Chicago politics.

It now seems to be in order for every burg in Badgerdom to cast a slur upon the city which did not limit its progress to the acquisition of Ft. Howard; so, "here goes!" Kewaskum never sought the new State reformatory, because we knew Green Bay to be the only place in Wisconsin wherein one would prefer to spend his time in prison.

THE leading millers of Minnesota do not want Milwaukee millers to use the word "Minneapolis" or "Minnesota" on brands of flour manufactured in the Cream City; but, the most that can be done in this direction, will not prevent use of the term "made from Minnesota hard wheat" on brands of flour manufactured outside of that state.

THE Chicago Chronicle is illustrating the Cuban situation quite strikingly. On the 16th inst. it contained a cartoon representing Uncle Sam feeding a Cuban rye-bread under guard of one of our war vessels, while Weyler viewed the novel spectacle from an elevation in the distance. Last Sunday the same journal contained a cartoon of jingo senators threatening to kill the tariff bill if the President refuses to sign the Morgan resolution.

In regard to the foul shown in the New York verisopie exhibition of the Carson City mill, James Wakely says: "I lost more money on Corbett than any other man. I would certainly have made a protest if I thought a foul had been struck; but, I did not, and do not now. I saw the blow on the jaw delivered. Corbett went down slowly after he was hit in the stomach—sort of doubled up—and, as he was going, Fitz hit him on the jaw. I don't care what the picture shows; I've got my eyesight, and know that Corbett was not hit while on his knees."

MR. CARNEGIE, it is said, "will soon make a donation to charity." Although the iron king makes much money there, he is not the kind of a man who would begin charity at Home(stead). It is intimated that the donation may be so formed as to "give Mr. Carnegie's employees a better idea of the old masters, the great writers and the classical composers." This is refreshing, in view of the fact that most of his employees now spend their spare time studying Carnegie mastery—especially that portion of it which enables a man to support a family on a salary of from 60c to $1.75 per day.

THE history of prominent St. Louisian says of Richard M. Scruggs, the millionaire merchant who was recently arrested in New York on a charge of smuggling diamonds: "The value of Mr. Scruggs to the generation in which he lives and his place in public esteem are indicated by his noble record, at the bottom of it a sterling manhood and a lofty Christian." That sentence, if true, would be worth more than all the diamonds which Mr. Scruggs could possibly hope to acquire in this world and prove more creditable to his memory hereafter than the highest marble shaft purchasable with his riches. If the Gotham charge proves true, however, he will at least be accused of having been avaricious to a fault.

WILL IT PRODUCE A WAR WITH SPAIN?

It is international law that when a great civil war exists in any country and neither country seems able to get the mastery, other nations have the privilege of granting belligerent rights to the contending parties. This concession of belligerent rights is always to be considered an unfriendly but not hostile act. When England granted belligerency to the Confederate states, before the first battle was fought between the North and the South, it was considered a very unfriendly act, but not a hostile act, for she had the privilege of so acting under the law of nations. France followed England in conceding belligerent rights to the Confederate states, and so also did Spain. These were certainly unfriendly acts, but our nation did not consider them so hostile as to justify a declaration of war.

The United States senate has, in pursuance of a similar policy, adopted the following belligerency resolution, introduced by Senator Morgan of Alabama: Resolved, That a condition of public war exists between the government of Spain and the government proclaimed and for some time maintained by force of arms by the people of Cuba, and that the United States of America shall maintain a strict neutrality between the contending parties, according to each all the rights of belligerents in the port and territory of the United States.

If it passes both houses, the President, in view of the grave possibilities which may come out of the resolution, may withhold his approval. But if he returns it to the senate and it passes both houses by a two-thirds vote, it will become the law of the land, and then the President may issue his proclamation granting belligerency to the Cubans.

The record of the senate shows that there were 18 Republicans, 19 Democrats and 4 Populists who voted for the resolution. The negatives consisted of 12 Republicans and 2 Democrats, McEnery of Louisiana and White of California.—Evening Wisconsin.

THERE is no condition more conducive to disorder and revolution than that in which crime triumphs through the corrupting use of money. When money can secure immunity from merited punishment or privilege under the laws, the plain people are made to feel that justice is impossible. There is more anarchism in the exhibition of the power of money to purchase immunity from punishment under the law and to buy special privileges in legislation than in all the mouthings of anarchistic cranks.—St. Louis Republic.

The proposition to establish a permanent census bureau is welcomed, perhaps, because of the general sentiment that any change in the present system must be for the better. Here the country is spending millions to get out statistics which are so old when they are published as to be valueless except as ancient history. What do people care in 1897 about the number of farm animals and farm mortgages seven years ago? What they want to know is the present condition of affairs.—Baltimore Sun.

As we anticipated, the governor has directed the State Board of Control to make an investigation of the State Industrial school at Waukesha, according to the prayer of the petitioners. This is right. The state cannot afford to have any reasonable suspicion resting upon the management of any of her institutions, much less to tolerate inhumanity towards any of its wards.—Appleton Post.

Those Iowa burglars who attempted to rob a bank by the old jimmy and dynamite route are sadly behind the times. What they should have done was to secure positions as directors for their friends, and the positions of cashier and president for themselves. After that, all would have been plain sailing.—Omaha World-Herald.

It is said the animals were purchased for the use of the war department, and that they have been and are now used by that department. NOW IS THE TIME TO GET A HOME.

The Chicago & North-Western Railway has just published a newspaper called the North-Western Home-Seeker, giving facts about the great state of South Dakota and the advantages it possesses for the pursuits of agriculture, dairying and cattle raising. Lands can be had at present upon most favorable terms, and there is every indication of large immigration into the state this season. Correspondence is solicited from intending settlers, and a copy of the paper will be mailed free upon application to W. B. Kniskern, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago, Ill. (35)

AN OHIO OUTRAGE.

The weather man stationed at Cleveland, O., has been subjected to a grave injustice at the hands of a local magistrate named Ong. He was obliged to go to jail because he refused to attend court and testify whether it rained or not on a certain day. Did the wretched Ong ever hear of a weather man who knew anything about the weather? Ought not the very title of "weather man" make the bearer sacred from any attempts to extort from him information about the weather? But, even supposing that this particular weather man did happen to know what the weather was on the day in question, was it fair to drag him into court and force him to stultify himself? If the day was "fair," it is altogether probable that the weather man is on record as having predicted a blizzard. Surely, the weather man is entitled to some protection, and if he is badgered in this fashion he may get into the habit of occasionally making correct predictions which would seriously impair his usefulness. The public has learned to look for the opposite of what the man at the weather-helm predicts. But, if courts are to be encouraged in sending the weather man to jail, the public will be thrown back on the more uncertain goose-bone.—X.
