A tea party was given by Mrs. Paas last Thursday evening, and the occasion was enjoyed by all who attended.

C. R. Van de Zande and Ernest Martin went to the Cream City last Monday; also, J. R. McCullough.

A new hotel and saloon was opened Wednesday evening, in the building known as the old McCullough store, by J. Clifford.

Wm. Wedde made a business trip to the Cream City last Wednesday. I. Klotz, Sr., also had business in Milwaukee one day this week.

Mrs. L. J. Wrucke has returned to her home in Milwaukee after spending a few weeks with her brother-in-law, H. A. Wrucke, and family.

The dance and raffle held by Martin & Damm was a success financially and socially. John Kohler had the lucky number and won the guitar-zither.

Ernest Martin left last Tuesday for a cycle trip to Oshkosh and other places in that vicinity. He left with the intention of being absent about a week.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Schimmelpfening and daughter, Lorene, left last Wednesday for Milwaukee, S. D., to visit relatives and friends. They will be absent about a month.

The picnic held by the Ladies' Aid society, in Bannons' grove, was well attended, and the occasion was enjoyed by all. Socially and financially, it was a success.

Mrs. J. Arimond gave a tea party to a few of her friends last Thursday. After tea, singing and music was enjoyed by all until 9 p. m., when all left for their respective homes.

At a meeting of the School board, last Thursday, Prof. H. A. Wrucke, who has taught here for the past three years, was re-engaged as principal; and Miss Margaret Fellenz, who has taught in this vicinity for a number of years, has been engaged to teach the primary department. In selecting the above named teachers, the board secured the most experienced and best educators in this vicinity.

ABOUT THAT BASEBALL GAME.

If the management of the Wayne baseball club could get the leading players of the National league with so little expense as they get 50 per cent. of their players from Kewaskum, they would have had Nationals at Wayne last Sunday in order to save $1.50. But, this don't make any difference, 11 tallies in one inning, together with a 2-base hit by the smallest player in the game, was all O. K., even though Kewaskum's home-runner was in the box.

We would advise a good (?) citizen of Washington county not to use such language about a certain player of the opposite side as was used July 18, 1897, at Wayne, without any reason, whatever.

The Wayne Leaders were satisfied with the umpire last Sunday, but wait till they get another—if from heaven he would be unable to satisfy them, as he would be just. But, the fellow who officiated last Sunday was all right because he did not pass judgment on sharp practice. For instance, one of the Leaders went to bat and interfered with the catcher fielding a ball by hunting it to foul ground after having had two strikes called on him. Moreover, it should be remembered that an official league or a Beach association ball should be used, and a new one at that—not one used for a whole year's practice—and, when that is ripped, put in a home spun. If they want to play the national game, they must proceed according to the rules thereof.

BOLTONVILLE BUDGET.

Nic. Weingartner is visiting relatives in Michigan.

Miss Ella Grimes of Chicago is visiting relatives here.

Miss B. Andrews of Milwaukee is visiting at the home of W. R. Wescott.

Grandma Duncan, who spent the past year in Minnesota, has returned.

The Ladies' Aid Society met at the home of Mrs. R. A. Gordon last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Rourke of West Bend spent Sunday with J. H. Neibler and family.

Mrs. Livingston and children, from the Cream City, are guests of Miss M. Kenney and family.

Miss Emma Haentz of Milwaukee and Miss Broth of Chicago spent a few days with relatives here.

Wm. Weingartner of South Dakota returned home on the 16th inst. after spending a month visiting relatives here.

MARRIED—At Kewaskum by Justice Altenhofen on last Sunday, July 18, 1897, Lulu, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Strohm, to William Brigham of New Prospect. The bridal party left last Monday for a tour to Onion river and other places. The best wishes of a host of friends accompanied them on their journey of wedded life.

NEW CASSEL NUGGETS.

Otto Host's mother is visiting him this week.

Barley is being rapidly harvested in this vicinity.

Dist. School Board No. 12 met last Wednesday evening.

Dr. E. J. Orvis of Milwaukee was a caller here last Tuesday.

O. S. Raymond went to Fond du Lac last Tuesday on business.

Mrs. H. P. Eames is having the old postoffice room replastered.

J. P. Hustung transacted business in the Cream City last Thursday.

Rev. A. T. Miller and wife went to Sheboygan this week on a visit.

Mrs. J. V. Harter and his sons are here from Milwaukee visiting relatives and friends.

J. P. Loomis of Clark county is visiting relatives and friends here, since last Wednesday.

Michael Hoey returned to Chicago last Wednesday after a few weeks visit with relatives and friends here.

J. S. Thompson's Milwaukee boarders left for that place last Wednesday, after enjoying a 2-weeks' stay here.

The Lutheran picnic was largely attended last Sunday, and some of those who were in attendance acted worse than the inhabitants of heathen lands, where missionaries are working. A little more missionary work is evidently needed at home.

DUNDEE DOINGS.

Quite a few people are camping at Long lake this week.

Wm. Murray has accepted a proposition to work in Fond du Lac.

Jerry Clifford of Waldo is visiting at the home of Mrs. J. Clifford here.

Haying is about finished and farmers are commencing to cut grain.

Miss Gertrude Corbett and Miss Mary Kilooin are attending summer school at Fond du Lac.

Rev. McFarland of Eden and Rev. Downs of Oseoka spent Tuesday fishing on Long lake.

Mrs. A. F. Lindow and son Edwin of Milwaukee visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Arimond the past week.

Mrs. Lambert Schenk was taken quite sick last Wednesday evening. Dr. H. J. Weld was called, and she is some better, now.

Owing to some difficulty in making cheese, the Baetz brothers were compelled to call a Madison expert to help them out this week.

The dance given by the baseball club, last Wednesday evening, was a slim affair. Boys, if you want to draw a crowd, advertise judiciously.

Some of our village people, who transacted business in Fond du Lac the past week, were: R. J. Romaine, E. J. Arimond, E. Garrety and Ed. Murray.

Do not miss the ball game between Edenites and our boys tomorrow (Sunday) afternoon. The home nine fixed up their grounds, so they have as good a field as can be found in the country.

Laurence Michel, who has been running the Acme roller mills here for the past ten months, has given up his lease and contract, and rented a saloon in St. Cloud. E. J. Arimond will conduct the milling business hereafter.

As exchange says: "A Texas murderer is to have a brass band at his execution. He should go the whole length and have fireworks in the evening." Perhaps he is among those who believe that he will be long on fireworks and short on music, in the other world.

THOUGHTS OF THE PAST.

I was sitting alone at my cottage door,
One sunny afternoon;
The busy bees flew buzzing past,
Bringing their honey home;
On a tree near by a little bird
Was singing its sweetest lay,
But I heeded it not for my heart was sad,
And my thoughts were far away.

I thought of my happy childhood's home,
And of scenes to my memory bright,
Of dear father and mother, now both gone,
And buried out of sight;
And I thought of the time when I, a child,
Knelt in prayer at my mother's knee,
With brothers and sisters kneeling round—
Oh what a happy lot were we.

And of friends and companions of other days,
When all the world seemed bright and gay,
Some now are sleeping the last deep sleep,
While others are far away;
Dear, noble friends, constant and true,
With hearts of the purest gold—
Oh, I'd give the world to be with you
In the jolly days of old.

And the dear old farm—our father's farm—
With its meadows and woods so rare,
Oh, there's never a spot, in all this world,
Half as beautiful to me as there;
For, was there ever another home like ours,
Filled with laughter and frolic and fun,
With never a thought of trouble or care,
But happy as the day was long.

There was work, it is true, but willingly done,
And while the shadows of the evening grew,
We'd gather on the old-fashioned porch
And all the songs we knew;
Oh, days of my youth, sweet childhood days,
You have gone forevermore,
And my heart it sighs, but all in vain,
For the happy days of yore.

ST. KILLAN SHARPS.

Kilian Strachota has purchased another engine.

John Hustung of Campbellsport and Andrew Puck of West Bend were here last Saturday.

Jos. Strobel of the town of Ashford has sold his 80-acre farm to Frank Gitter for $5,200.

Chris. T. Leibl of Lomira is looking for a cream-colored horse, which escaped from his yard last Monday.

Misses T. and C. Heisler, who have spent several weeks with relatives and friends here, will return to Beaver Dam this week.

A. Strachota and Jos. Hoerig left last Monday for Winona, Minn., where Jo. has property to sell. They will likely be back by tomorrow.

Miss Blanche Goets, who was a guest of the Strachota family for some time, returned to her home at West Bend last Monday morning.

Jos. Mck and his daughter, Maggie, made a trip to the town of Hartford last Wednesday, where they visited his brother-in-law, John Strup.

George Trabant celebrated the 20th anniversary of his birth last Monday, at Peter Flasch's place, in an elaborate manner. A grand supper was partaken of in the evening, mixed with many congratulations and witticisms. The evening was spent in a most social manner, and all went home with the satisfaction of having had a very pleasant time.

A novel incident occurred during that picnic at Schrauth's park. Martin Berg's horse became enchanted by the swaying strains of music and began to dance, then broke away into a mad gallop and circled around the dance-platform, only to rush for the flag-staff when the band changed its tune to that of a patriotic air. There the spirited steeds halted, as the staff is erected within two feet of the brink of a precipice, and Martin had to look for a new shear and pieces of harness.

The afternoon of July 18th, last Sunday, was a most happy one for the young people of St. Killan. It was spent at Schrauth's park. However, the arrangements for the turnout were made most effectively on the sly—so much so that none of the older people knew about it until the picnic was over. The young folks here are evidently capable of organizing a secret society, as even the girls were mum for two weeks.

About 2 p. m. they stormed Andrew Schrauth's for his park, which is located upon a hill. They climbed the hill like a heap of ants; and, once up, off they went, singing, dancing, playing, etc. Music for the programme was furnished by Peter Strobel and Schmidt's band.

About 7 p. m. the party broke up, some going home while others went to a hall or a party elsewhere. A very pleasant time was had, so much so that the following date was "blue Monday" for many of the youngsters. Among those who took part were the following, viz: Messrs. A. S. and P. Strachota, P. Strobel, F. Strobel, W. and J. Bugel, M. Bergs, D. Schrauth, J. J. Altenhofen of Kewaskum, Misses M. and T. Strobel, K. Schmidt and Katie Strobel of Kewaskum, Blanche Goetz of West Bend, and Th. and C. Heisler of Beaver Dam.

ST. MATHIAS SIFTINGS.

Farmers in this vicinity are busy harvesting.

Miss M. Thinnis is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. Rinzel.

John Merties has engaged to work for E. Ferber at New Cassel.

Mrs. P. Laubach of the Cream City is a guest of her mother, Mrs. P. Schladweiler.

Jacob Schaefer and family from Kewaskum Sundayed at the home of H. Fellenz.

The mission feast of the Lutheran congregation was well attended last Sunday.

Herman Volz and family of Boltonville and Mrs. C. Volz called on Jos. Volz and family at Five corners last Sunday.

Bernard Klunke and family, Anton Walter and family from St. Michaels, were callers on Wm. Rinzel and family last Sunday.

A number of our young people attended the raffle and dance at P. Fellenz's, in the town of Scott, last Saturday, and they report as having had a most enjoyable time.

ELASTIC STARCH has been before the people of the United States for twenty-three years, and is without doubt the greatest starch invention of the Nineteenth century. Last year its sales reached the unprecedented number of twenty million packages. It is prepared upon scientific principles by men who have had years of practical experience in fancy laundrying. It makes ironing easy, restores old summer dresses to their natural whiteness, and imparts to linen a beautiful and lasting finish. It is the only starch manufactured that is perfectly harmless, containing neither arsenic, alum nor any other substance injurious to linen, and can be used even for a baby-powder. (C20)

Misses Emma and Louisa Dengel returned home last Wednesday from a 3-weeks' visit with relatives at New London.

Mrs. C. Dahlke and daughter Adel will leave today for Chicago, where they will pay a long visit to Mr. and Mrs. E. Greenway.

John Witig left here last Tuesday for Menasha, with the intention of spending the balance of the week visiting his uncle there.

Miss Daisy Blackwood's experience in the Christian Endeavor wreck, as related to the editor of the New London Press, appears on this page.

Henry Stark has finished his contract of building the new sidewalk on Main street so far east as L. S. Guth's store, where the curbing terminates.

The proprietor of the Madison house, J. B. Blake, made last Sabbath, it having been the 37th anniversary of his birthday.

William Fleischmann of the Gem market, now drives a trotter from C. C. Schaefer's livery stable. Willy says the horse is all right and well worth the price paid.

Up to the time of going to press, not a single citizen had caught the Alaska gold-fever—at least not to such an extent as to reduce the population of Kewaskum.

H. B. Kaempfer has purchased D. T. Keeley's interest in the Pilot of West Bend, so now Mr. Kaempfer is editor and proprietor of that paper. Success to you, Henry.

A complete line of engine trimmings, valves, steam gauges, packings, rubber hose, heavy sheet-iron, etc., is constantly kept in stock at my machine shop.—N. REMMEL.

Mrs. R. Wolf and daughter Wanda of Milwaukee were guests of C. Dahlke and family last Monday and Tuesday. After a short stay at Mrs. Hartman's, in the town of Scott, they will return to the Cream City.

William Andred went to Milwaukee last Wednesday to attend the funeral of his sister's husband, who died last Monday. The deceased was the head-cook of the Republican house in the Cream City.

Tickets for the excursion, from Milwaukee to Kewaskum on Aug. 1st, will be good for the return trip until Wednesday, Aug. 4th, inclusive. So, Milwaukeeans desiring to visit relatives or friends in this vicinity, will thus have a good opportunity.

Henry Sebranke, the skilled miller whom H. Backhaus & Co. hired some time ago in the Cream City, left for Chicago last Saturday to visit his uncle and returned yesterday. Henry Polzin assisted about the mill during the absence of Mr. Sebranke.

The prognosticator who predicted that the present month would prove to be the coldest July experienced for many years, is likely the same fellow who predicted that mosquitoes would be comparatively scarce this summer, as both predictions are proving true.

While Justice Altenhofen is not posing as a disciple of Hunsberger, his initial nuptial knot was tied so neatly and agreeably, last Sunday, that Kewaskum may eventually become the matrimonial mecca of the surrounding country. Next!

A hot specimen of the national game is promised as the leading attraction here tomorrow afternoon. The cracker-jack club of Kewaskum will play with a like team from Campbellsport, provided the latter accept the challenge sent them.

W. H. Brigham of New Prospect and Lulu N. Strohm of Boltonville were united in marriage by Justice J. Altenhofen, in the parlor of the Central hotel, last Sunday at 3 p. m. The occasion was duly celebrated at the home of the bride's parents.

We are in receipt of the Wisconsin State Fair premium list, a copy of which may be had by any of our subscribers who send a postal-card to T. J. Fleming, Milwaukee, Wis. The fair will be held in the State Fair Park at the Cream City from Sept. 20 to 25th.

The following have been engaged to teach in the West Bend high school during the coming term, viz: D. T. Keeley, principal; Miss Bowen of Broadhead, first assistant; Miss Naber of Mayville, second assistant. No change has been made in the other departments.

Our village presented a quiet appearance last Sunday, as most of the young people were out of town. Some attended a basket picnic at Schrant's in Elmore, others attended the picnic in Bannons grove at New Cassel, while quite a number witnessed the baseball game at Wayne.

Carl, the 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kaum of the town of Barton, was dragged to death on the 14th inst. He was exercising a horse and tied the halter rope about his own body. The animal ran away, dragged the boy over rocks and stumps and kicked him in the head.

Doctors Adolph A. Wendel and Alfred W. Berger announce that they have formed a partnership under the name of Wendel & Berger, and have moved their dental offices to suite 12 and 13 of the Birchard block, 105 Grand avenue, Milwaukee. Office hours: From 9 a. m. to 12, and from 2 to 5 p. m.

William Karsten, an old resident of West Bend, who has been in ill health for some time, attended suicide last Monday while stopping with his niece, Mrs. Joseph Zettel. He tried to bleed himself to death with a pruning knife, but Mrs. Zettel prevented him. Mr. Karsten is 72 years of age, and it is believed that his poor health and the intensely hot weather unbalanced his mind.

A farmer living west of town, who feeds much milk to his swine, now has it down fine. He turns a certain number of cows into the hog-pasture, where they are milked dry by the pigs. The rosters are said to have become so attached to the practice that, on seeing the critters coming, they set up a "wooh!" which only ceases with the satisfaction of having milked all the cows within the inclosure.

Last Sunday evening a party of friends surprised Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Miller, who "turned the tables" on the party by announcing that the anniversary of his birth would occur a few months later. However, the visitors were assured that they were welcome, and William and his estimable wife soon made the visit so pleasant for their guests that the latter rather regarded their blunder with favor.

The Vaudeville show given in the Marx hall by a German company from Milwaukee, last Sunday evening, was better than the audience expected. No dance was held after the performance, however, owing to the slim attendance usually found at in-door entertainments during the summer season here. We hope the company will have better success at Jackson, where they show to-night; also at Newburg, tomorrow (Sunday) night.

The excursion on Sunday, Aug. 1st, a week from tomorrow, will undoubtedly be a large one, as many tickets have already been sold by members of the Star social circle. The organization has been in existence over fifteen years, and many of the members are leading business men of the Cream City. The annual ball of the club, which is invariably held in the West Side Turner hall, is ranked with the leading social events of the season in Milwaukee.

A new wrinkle, in the way of harvesting grain, was witnessed on Theodore Stirm's farm, 2 miles east of here, last Wednesday. On going outdoors to ascertain the cause of unusual tooting and snorting in the neighborhood, a farmer saw a traction engine pulling a self-binder around a piece of barley. The operators claim the plan is practical and that they cut 3 1/2 acres in 1 1/2 hour.

The following is a complete list of the names of those who have complied with Village Ordinance No. 6 by paying their dog tax for 1897:

THE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR WRECK. Experience of Former Resident Who Was Less Fortunate Than the Kewaskum Delegates.

Miss Daisy Blackwood of Deperre, (who formerly resided in Kewaskum) relates her experience in the wreck at Turner, Ill., as follows:

We reached Chicago a little after 10 p. m., Tuesday, June 29. We were scheduled to remain there an hour. The cars seemed close, when we were not in motion, and so we gathered at the car-steps and walked up and down the platform.

On our car ("Garrisons") and the next ("Cold Springs") I found many old friends and spent the time in Chicago very pleasantly, renewing old acquaintances and forming new. While there, I wrote a card home, closing with: "All prospects are good for a delightful trip," as indeed it seemed.

It was nearly 11:30 p. m. when we pulled out of Chicago. Some of the older people had retired. The berths of three sections had been made up. Everyone now began to think of retiring, but we had to await the motion of the porter, who was not very swift.

In the meantime we talked, sang and engaged in good-natured railery at the porter's slowness. However, many of us now have reason to thank him for that very trait, as those who had retired were the most severely injured.

It was some time after midnight when our berths were ready. I went to the dressing-room, removed part of my clothing and put on my wrapper for the night. I put on my hat and cape as a convenience way of carrying them, and returned to my berth. My friends stood in the aisle wondering what could be done with our surplus baggage, which would not go under the lower berth. I said I would take it into the upper berth with me.

WHEN THE CRASH CAME. Ascending the step-ladder, I entered the upper berth, and was about to put my satchel in the rack when the crash came. The berth split in the middle and folded upward; and had I been lying down, I do not know what could have saved me from a broken back. I was thrown down into the aisle, together with bedding, broken boards, glasses, etc. I knew this meant a wreck, and my first thought was "all is over," though there was no special terror in the thought. My next thought was "I am not injured, I feel no pain." I then looked for my friends; they were near by, apparently uninjured and able to extricate themselves without difficulty.

It was about 1 a. m. when the collision occurred. Our train was the fourth section of the overland train, which leaves over the Northwestern for Omaha every night. Owing to the enormous business done to the convention, the train was run in a number of sections. Our section was taking water at West Chicago, or Turner, thirty miles from the city. Section 5, which left Chicago ten minutes later, ran into the rear of our train.

CAUSE OF THE ACCIDENT. The engineer had not seen the warning of the block signal a short distance back, and when he came nearer the station and saw the red-lights of our train, he vainly tried to apply the air-brakes on his train.

The engine struck our car (the rear one) with terrific force. The obstruction afforded by the car ahead of us ("Cold Springs") was such that our car broke about the middle, the trucks passing right under "Cold Springs," while the latter acted as a razor and literally scraped the top off our car.

KILLED IN THE NEXT BREATH. Mrs. Shipman, who was instantly killed, was in the next berth to me, and was only a thin-board partition between us.

WOUNDED IN ALL DIRECTIONS. All around could be seen men and women with blood streaming down their faces. Some, who were badly injured, were imploring aid for friends who were pinned under the paraphernalia of the sleeping car.

ESCAPED FROM THE CAR. Diagonally from me was an open window. Somebody shouted: "Get out through this window!" The girls with me hastened to do so, but I was held by some object pressing against me until released by a gentleman who happened by, whereupon I too let myself out the window. Two men outside caught me and let me down carefully to the ground. I still had the small satchel, which I had in my hand when the crash came, but there was not an article of clothing in it. As soon as we were on the ground, somebody took us into one of the undamaged cars. However, we learned that the car would soon be on; and, having only a light wrapper and shoulder-cape, I could not remain. My friends were more fortunate, as they were not dressed for bed, but they would not go on without me, so we all got out of the car.

HUNTING FOR BAGGAGE. A gentleman near by pulled a fur cape from the debris and put it around me. I asked him if he would help me find my baggage, and we started out. Two boys in their teens, who voluntarily joined our party, proved to be valuable aides. "Have you seen a gray dress? Have you any telescopes there? Were questions which they kept up until we found the dress, but it was soaked with water, so that I could not put it on. I found my shirt-waist lying beside the track. In the pen-pocket was my fountain-pen, as good as when I last used it. After we had gone to all the different places where baggage had been collected, they insisted on my going to the hotel, while they continued the search for the telescope.

AT THE HOSPITALS. It was 3 a. m. when I reached the hotel. The parlor and sitting rooms had been turned into a hospital and doctors were dressing the wounds of the injured. A woman was wringing her hands and asking for her husband, while other ladies endeavored to pacify her. Finally, they only restrained her from rushing back to the scene of the disaster by announcing that her husband was a corpse in the next room. During the next four, two more corpses were carried through the room wherein I sat. At about 7 a. m. the boys appeared with my telescope, which was badly smashed, but the clothes inside were in good condition.

Preparations were begun at once for a special train to convey the injured to St. Luke's hospital, but it was almost noon before we actually started. When we reached the hospital, those who were not seriously injured were taken to the dining room, where a beautiful dinner was spread for us. After this, each one was given in charge of a nurse and taken to a room. My opinion was confirmed, that my injuries were not serious, and my next anxiety was to get home and assure my friends that I was not dangerously injured.

REPORTERS. Reporters were very much in evidence, both in West Chicago and at the hospital. While in the reception-room, awaiting a cab to the depot, I had my last interview with one. It was exceedingly weary, and the doctor in charge must have seen it, for he said: "Don't talk to him; don't say a word if you do not feel like it." The reporter asked a few more questions, which I answered shortly and then said I did not wish to talk any more. He then turned to the doctor and asked if he might go into some of the rooms and take pictures of the injured. The doctor replied with some warmth, that he could not, whereupon the reporter said sneeringly: "It must be that things go on here which ought not to, if they cannot be made public." When last I saw the slim young reporter, he was moving rapidly toward the exit, with the muscular doctor firmly holding his coat-collar, and his feet twinkling in the air. A minute or so later a Chicago friend, who had heard I was at St. Luke's, came out to see me. I sat chatting with him when the doctor entered. I hastened to explain that it was a friend of mine and not a reporter, which occasioned a smile on the part of himself and the bell-boy, who witnessed both scenes.
