JUDGE NEWMAN DEAD.

The Well-Known Jurist Succumbs to the Injuries He Received by a Fall.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Judge A. W. Newman of the Supreme court died a few minutes before 12 o'clock today. Since last night he has been in a comatose condition, from which he never rallied. He grew steadily worse until death came.

Justice A. W. Newman was born at Durban, Greenville county, N. Y., on the eastern slope of the Catskill mountains, April 5, 1834. His parents were English and his mother, Patty Rogers, was a descendant of the Kewaskum.

After being admitted to the bar in 1857 he came to Wisconsin and remained for a time at Alhambra, now Alcona, in Kewaskum county, but later settled at Trempealeau, on the Mississippi river, where he entered upon the practice of law. This region was newly settled and his practice extended to several counties, and in those times a dry goods box covered with a blanket served for a bench for the circuit judge.

Judge Newman was a modest man and never sought official preferment, but was elected to this position in 1888. He was appointed circuit judge and also elected to this position in 1892. He was elected district attorney and served eight years. He was state senator for the terms 1894 and 1896. He served until the Supreme bench.

"DEAD" PEARLS HIS FAD.

An Ohio Banker Who Has a Queer Collection of Fresh Water Pearls.

Mr. J. H. Harris of Waynesville, O., a banker and collector of fresh water pearls and archaeological specimens, has lately acquired a large number of what he calls "dead" pearls.

His collection, varying in numbers and value, as he has at different times sold from and added to it, was for the first time exhibited to the general public at the Paris exhibition in 1873, where it attracted much attention.

He often runs across curios that are outside of the regular line, and he has secured what could perhaps not be found in any other collection in this country.

The real value of these dead pearls is very small, their worth lying only in their oddity and rarity. Many of them are of a dark brown or nearly dead black color, and they vary from these through the shades of lighter brown and very dull yellow.

During a conversation between the two gentlemen it developed that the traveler had in his possession a quantity of what appeared to be pearls, but which were totally unlike anything heretofore classed with these valuables.

"I've jolted up against a great many hard hearted and uncharitable people in my career," said the man with the shabby silk hat, "but about the worst specimen I ever came across was one I called on this afternoon.

"Did he treat you rudely?" "No. It was his silent sarcasm that wounded me. The servant ushered me into his library, and while I waited my glance happened to rest on a decanter on the sideboard.

"You were quite alone?" "Of course. I had set the decanter down on the table with great care just as the gentleman came into the room. Then came the shock."

"Certainly not. But he had rigged the miserable bottle up with one of those music box arrangements which start a tune whenever it is picked up and set down again. Just as I opened my lips to explain my error it began to play 'Just Tell Them That You Saw Me.'"

WEST BEND BLORE.

Regular term of the Probate court next Tuesday.

This week the machinery and tools of the button factory is being moved into its new quarters. Room is now provided for about 100 hands.

The annual meeting of the West Bend Mutual fire insurance company was held in this city last Tuesday and was fairly well attended.

A number of our citizens, last Sunday, attended the funeral of Mrs. L. Burges of Fillmore. The sudden and sad death of Mrs. Burges cast a gloom of sorrow over all who knew her during life, as attested by the large concourse of sorrowing friends following her to the last resting place.

Mrs. Barbara Bollhuter, an old and respected resident of the town of Polk, died at her home on Sunday evening, Jan. 9th, in her 81st year.

On Wednesday last Rev. Wm. Leich of Polk and Miss Hilda Wolfram, daughter of Fred. Wolfram of this city, were united in matrimony at the home of a congregation in the state of Ohio.

The employees of the Brewing company were busy harvesting the annual crop of frozen water last week.

Report has it that the pretended editor and proprietor of the Schlesinger-ville Batscheffer has left for parts unknown. If the report should prove true, there will be not the least occasion for mourning at the departure of an individual whose judgment of the taste of the reading public was so humiliating to the editorial fraternity that his arrogant assertions and insinuations against the press of Washington county were judiciously ignored by all.

The people of Washington county, as a rule, are charitably inclined and usually lend a helping hand in promoting legitimate enterprises.

Mrs. Susie Yeager of Rineville, Ky., who is 91 years of age, recently wrote the following interesting reminiscences: "I went to school with Abraham Lincoln. I remember 'Abe' Lincoln well as a little bit of a fellow.

"Abe' Lincoln was well as a little bit of a fellow. He was then 7 years old, and I was 10. 'Abe' and his sister Nancy walked several miles to the schoolhouse, which was situated on Knob creek, where it joins Rolling Fork, in La Rue county, then a part of Hardin. My father, Zachariah Riney, was the teacher. This was in 1816, but I can see the old schoolhouse now.

"A number of our people attended the opening dance in Koch's new hall at Beechwood last Saturday night. A birthday party was held at the home of F. Kaas last Thursday evening in honor of the 46th anniversary of Jo. Atehofen's birth.

"This quaint and interesting letter discloses the humanness of the boy Lincoln, as well as the vivid memory of his old-time schoolmate.—New York Tribune.
