Washington, D. C., May 25.—The President today issued the following proclamation:

"Done at the city of Washington this twenty-fifth day of May, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-eight, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and twenty-second.

WILLIAM MCKINLEY, President.

Secretary of State.

Washington, D. C., May 25.—Secretary of State John Hay today announced that the President has called for 75,000 more men, but that the enlistments will be open.

The regulations referred to in the proclamation under which the call for volunteers is made have not yet been prepared and it is thought that there is no occasion for a hurry in the first proclamation which called for the first 75,000 men.

It is further stated that the decision to issue an additional call for volunteers was not reached until the cabinet meeting yesterday afternoon, and that the President's decision is a determination to press the campaign actively and vigorously from now on.

Washington, D. C., May 25.—[Special.]—Adj. Gen. Corbin said this afternoon that the volunteer call is required to furnish under the last call for the President.

Among the states how many men they are expected to furnish, and as the membership of the army is being increased, it is thought that the call for volunteers will be taken from able-bodied citizens.

It is understood that many recruits under the second call will be assigned to regiments whose term of service is at its maximum. This will take nearly a third of the total number called for.

Senator Mitchell said this afternoon that he believed a course would be followed that was taken during the Civil war. Companies would be organized and organized companies and regiments would be sent to Cuba.

Madison, Wis., May 25.—[Special.]—Gov. Scofield has called for 75,000 more volunteers. Immediately on hearing the news this afternoon he called for 75,000 more volunteers. Spooner asking him to use his efforts to have the cavalry troop and battery of artillery included in Wisconsin's quota.

WHAT MERRITT WILL DO

To Administer Existing Spanish Laws and Not to Introduce Reforms for the Present.

Washington, D. C., May 25.—At yesterday's session of the cabinet it was decided that it was inexpedient to attempt any new form of government in the Philippine islands, and Gen. Merritt will therefor be instructed to accept things as they are and postpone administrative reforms until he has acquired a thorough knowledge of the people. He will step into the shoes of the present governor-general as soon as the latter has departed.

His chief officers will be appointed by the President and will be given full powers to enforce the Spanish laws that exist so far as it may be done without oppression, and to collect the customs and internal taxes that have been imposed by the existing government. He will not touch the existing laws, customs and traditions of the island that are consistent with good government, but will not introduce any innovation until the destiny of the colony is determined.

The Philippines have always had a military government, with a captain-general responsible only to the ministry at Madrid. He has enjoyed an enormous patronage, appointing governors, judges, alcaldes and military posts, and has been as powerful as a monarch in Cuba. He has collected and disbursed the revenues, which have amounted annually to between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000, and as he has been a satisfactory amount of tribute to Spain he was not annoyed with the existing government.

A governor-general of the Philippines, like the governor-general of Cuba, has usually been able to accumulate a fortune in three years.

REBEL CHIEFS REPENT.

At Least Madrid Advises Say Insurgents Offer Their Services to Spain.

Madrid, May 25.—10 a. m.—An official dispatch from Manila announces that the majority of the chiefs who took part in the last insurrection have presented themselves to the Spanish governor-general, offering their services to Spain. It is said here that the Spanish prisoners of war in the United States have again been explained that they are treated as captives.

DENIES CABLE IS CUT.

Cable Company Claims to be Working with San Juan.

Kingston, Jamaica, May 25.—10 a. m.—The Western Cable Company denies that the cable lines from Santiago de Cuba to San Juan de Puerto Rico have been cut. The company says that Porto Rico messages will be received.

SECOND CALL PLANS.

President Asks for Additional Volunteers.

ASKS 75,000 MORE MEN

Enlistment will be Open—No Recruiting from National Guards as a Body.

Washington, D. C., May 25.—The officials of the war department are not yet prepared definitely to announce their program with respect to obtaining the 75,000 volunteers called for yesterday by the presidential proclamation. There will be some consultation on the subject between the President and the war officials before a conclusion is reached. It seems, however, to have been determined to fill their maximum strength of 100 and more regiments of the volunteers already called for.

This was permitted in order that as great a number of the National Guard as possible, thus giving an opportunity to their officers to hold their full rank in the volunteer ranks.

The maximum number of the volunteer regiments in many cases is far below the maximum prescribed by the law. Approximately 30,000 or more men will be required to recruit these regiments to their full strength, after all, will not leave such a great number to be obtained under the second call.

PUT THE CORN TIGHT.

Naval Officer Comments on Certera's Position.

SANTIAGO'S "BOTTLE."

Commodore Schley Can Easily Keep the Spaniards Trapped in the Harbor.

Washington, D. C., May 26.—The naval authorities have advanced another stage in their calculations on the status of Admiral Certera's fleet at Santiago de Cuba. They not only have good reason to believe that he is bottled up, but as an officer expressed it today, "the cork in the bottle," and it is practically impossible for the fleet to make an exit from the harbor day or night.

It is felt that this condition of the Spanish fleet is not only important from the present strategic standpoint, but of momentous concern to the entire future of the war, as the crippling of Certera's fleet is a blow which Spain possesses to make a prolongation of the war impossible.

That Admiral Certera went to Santiago de Cuba is a matter of course. At the same time it can now be stated that not only Certera, but Commodore Schley in official confirmation of the existence of this trap. It rests now, as it did from the beginning, on the fact of Certera's being in a position to be accurately advised.

The naval authorities were extremely anxious to secure an official confirmation from one of the American commanders and had this been done the fact would have been made public at once.

But lacking this, the department gave to the public all the facts, namely, an expression of belief that the Spanish fleet was in Santiago harbor, and that Certera had been seen at no other point and also that cumulative evidence from Sampson and Schley is being most anxiously awaited.

The naval officers are now turning their attention to inquire whether it is possible for Admiral Certera to get out of Santiago harbor. They hold that the answer is impossible, and that being so, the career of the Spanish admiral is at an end.

REBELS NO LONGER.

Gen. Maximo Gomez Protests Against the Use of the Word Insurgent.

New York, May 26.—Tomas Estrada Palma, the representative of the Cuban republic in New York, has not received the first copy of Las Villas, the war bulletin which is published by authority of Gen. Gomez at the headquarters of the Cuban revolution. It contains the official news statement of the army of liberation, and is an interesting publication.

Printed, of course, in Spanish, it comprises three columns on two sides of a sheet about 10 by 14 inches. The paper has a greenish tint and the type is set up and printed at Gen. Gomez's headquarters in Las Villas. The first number, under his direction, was issued on May 10, 1898, and is designated as "Supplement A" and contains a half-column account of the battle of the bay which was fought on the first day of the war.

It is interesting to note that the title of the bulletin is "The Cuban Republic," and that the word "insurgent" is not used.

Maximo Gomez, commander-in-chief of the Cuban army, takes this opportunity to protest against the use of the word "insurgent" in the bulletin.

He says that the word "insurgent" is a term of reproach, and that the Cuban army is not an insurgent army, but a regular army.

MEMORIAL DAY.

Next Monday, May 30th, is the day that has been set apart for the beautiful and patriotic national custom of decorating with flowers the graves of those who have in their lifetime served their country in her days of peril. They are the nation's dead, and royally are they remembered. Memorial day is simply the outward sign of this remembrance, not the remembrance itself, for that takes in every day in the year. On other days this remembrance is individual, on this day national. On other days the people mourn their departed friends, bestowing on the last resting places of loved ones the evidences of never-dying affection, but on Memorial Day they bring their tributes of affection to a common center and there give outward sign in the presence of the world to the undying reverence with which a grateful people hold in memory the heroes who have in times past fought the battles of their beloved country. The universal observance of Memorial Day gives testimony to the patriotism of a united people. Its observance is one of the most beautiful customs that has ever sprung into being. Wherever a soldier's grave is found, there are also to be found the tokens of a patriotic remembrance on this day of honor for the nation's dead. The fact that he was among those who gave their services to the country, braving the perils of the battlefield, the privations of the long and weary march, the dangers of disease and the inconveniences of the camp, entitles him to a share in the visible evidence of this national devotion to his memory. Whether he died in battle or of the wounds received in the deadly struggle, from the ravages of disease or from other causes which had no connection with the times of war does not matter. When he passed to the Great Beyond he became a member of the grand army of heroes who are there encamped, waiting for the reveille that will usher in the resurrection, and as such has his equal share in the honors accorded to their memory. His individuality is merged into the grand assemblage of the nation's dead. That he dared to die for his country puts him on the same plane with those who did.

Memorial Day comes this year under different conditions than ever before. From the time it sprung into being until this year it has been annually observed in times of profound peace, undisturbed by the threatenings of war. For the first time in its history, the history of a generation, it finds the nation engaged in warfare and another army of the brave sons of the country gathered to uphold the honor of the flag against the efforts of a foreign foe to desecrate it. This year, as the people of America assemble to give their testimony of remembrance to the nation's dead, they must also give thought to those who have taken their places as the defenders of the national honor. This should make the observance of Memorial Day doubly impressive, mingling with thoughts of the dead the thoughts of living heroes who in the time to come will be entitled to the same reverence. Those who have gone before fought for the country when it was assailed by foes from within; those who have gone forth now to war will defend it from the attacks of a foreign enemy. The blood shed by the former was not shed in vain, for the new array of patriots represents a reunited country, and those who strove against the flag in those times of civil war are now among its foremost champions. Thus Time brings his changes and Providence works out its plans for the ultimate redemption of the human race, now chastening through affliction and again rewarding national prosperity.

The circumstances which surround Memorial Day this year should result in a more extended observation of the solemnities of the day. They should put more fervor into the prayer for the salvation of the nation and the happiness of its people. They should inspire the orator to nobler figures of speech in his offerings of praise to the heroes of the past, and in his delineation of their sacrifices in behalf of their country. More than that, they should cause the whole population to turn their thoughts for a brief interval to their duties as citizens, one of which is to participate in the observance of the ceremonies of Memorial Day and thus add their mite to the weight of evidence which will prove that the people of the United States are really united in patriotic feeling and ready to maintain the honor and dignity of their country, let the cost be what it may. Join the nearest gathering on that day and do your part in the patriotic ceremonies!

"I would not be without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for its weight in gold," writes D. J. Jones of Holland, Va. "My wife was troubled with a cough for nearly two years. I tried various patent remedies, besides numerous prescriptions from physicians, all of which did no good. I was at last persuaded to try one bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which promptly relieved the cough. The second bottle effected a complete cure." The 25 and 50 cent bottles are for sale by L. Facts About Havana.

Havana is the capital of Cuba; it is the most important city in the West Indies and one of the principal commercial marts of America. Situated on the northern shore of the island, on an inlet of the Gulf of Mexico, its harbor is one of the finest in the world. The entrance through a narrow, strongly fortified channel, three-eighths of a mile long. The channel opens into a large basin capable of accommodating 1,000 vessels of any size. Havana was founded in 1519; its population is about 250,000. Railroads run from there to Cardenas, Cienfuegos, Mantanzas and other important places in Cuba. Since 1741 yellow fever has broken out frequently in the city, and its ravages are severe during the hot months. With the exception of tobacco factories, Havana's manufactures are unimportant. More than a hundred factories there are engaged in the handling of tobacco, and many of them are of large size. An extensive trade in exporting tobacco is done. Most prominent among the public buildings are the opera house, one of the largest in the world; the cathedral built in 1724, containing, it is believed, the remains of Christopher Columbus, transferred from St. Domingo in 1795, and the palace of the governor-general of the island. Its public parks and promenades are among the most remarkable in the world.

The city has a university, an excellent botanical garden and a number of scientific, educational and benevolent institutions.—Exchange.

Robbing the People. The advance made in the wholesale and consequently the retail prices of ordinary staple food articles, since war was assured, is unwarranted. There is absolutely no sense in the advances; they represent no necessity, no condition, nothing whatever but the power and greed of monopolists who manipulate the markets. All the articles of food upon which prices have advanced are produced in this country in abundance, so far as this country's consumption is concerned. We have every prospect of producing more of them this year than ever before, while there is a practical certainty that we shall export less of them than usual while the war lasts.

And, as we will export less of them than usual, they ought to have declined in price. They would have done so but for the rapacity of speculators, who only want an excuse for robbing the people in their homes.—Exchange.

The Naval Strategy Board. The Naval Strategy board, which sits in a quiet chamber in the Navy department, is an important factor in the war. It is composed of four of the ablest and most experienced men in the navy. It originates the plan of action, deciding upon the missions and locations of the vessels and fleets, leaving the evolutions and details to the commanders. The board is supplied with the finest and most accurate maps which the government can procure. The Hydrographic office sends it complete plans of the harbors in which there is a present interest. The board receives telegraphic reports of the movements of the fleets and vessels of the navy, and all information of the movements of Spanish war vessels, as soon as it is procured, is sent to them. The board is composed of Rear-Admiral Montgomery Seward, Capt. A. S. Crowninshield, Capt. Alfred T. Mahan and Capt. A. S. Barker. The latter is from Massachusetts and the others are from New York. All of them saw active service in the Civil war. Admiral Seward graduated at Annapolis in 1856 and had reached the rank of lieutenant when the war began. He took part in the actions at Vicksburg, Fort Fisher, and was in nearly all the important naval fights. Capt. Crowninshield graduated in 1863, and from that time on was in the thick of the fight. Capt. Barker left the academy in 1861. He was at the capture of New Orleans and saw a great deal of service during the war. Capt. Mahan enjoys the reputation of being, perhaps, the greatest living authority on naval warfare and history. He also was in the Civil war, but did not see as much active service as his colleagues. He organized the Naval War college at Newport and arranged its curriculum with a view to the study of naval strategy. He has devoted his time largely to naval literature and his books on various subjects are regarded as standard authorities. His best-known work is his "Influence of Sea Power Upon History." This is a standard authority in England and has been translated into French and German.

People who criticize the Strategy board so freely should stop to consider that it is composed of men who have better information about the matters they are dealing with than the public can possibly have.—Baltimore Sun.

Do Not Be Caught. A sharper has put up a new trick on farmers, and he has been operating successfully. He claims to be an agent for the United States government having authority to buy horses for the army. He visits the farmer, buys two or three horses, gives a check for an amount larger than the purchase price, gets the difference in cash and then disappears with the horses. The farmer presents the check for payment and finds he has been swindled. A man who will allow himself to be taken in by a trick so transparent as this scarcely deserves a better fate.—X.
