Washington, D. C., April 18.-The secretary of state received a cable message this morning from Mr. Squires, United States charge at Pekin, dated at Pekin, April 18, saying that the "winter palace occupied by Von Waldersee accidentally destroyed by fire. Gen. Schwartzkopf, chief of staff, fatally burned." This incident may prove more serious than appears on the surface. It is known from diplomatic communications received in Washington that intense feeling has been aroused among the Chinese over the occupation of the Empress Dowager's palace by Count Von Waldersee and his military staff. This was graphically set forth in a letter recently received here from one of the foremost officials at Pe-kin. He described in detail the manner in which the palace had been turned over

Moreover, it is known that this mili-Moreover, it is known that this military occupation of the imperial palaces was a moving clause for the rejection of all overtures for the return of the imperial family to Pekin. Now that the palace is entirely destroyed it may have a bearing on the re-turn of the imperial family. While there stroyed it may have a bearing on the return of the imperial family. While there is no longer the objection that the palace is occupied by the foreign commander, yet a new objection is created in the removal of the palace itself, for, under Chinese usage the imperial family must occupy those exclusive quarters reserved for them within the prohibited precincts.

The Assembly on the 12th killed Mr. Cady's bill forbidding the marriage of white persons with negroes. There was a lengthy debate, in the course of which the author said his bill had been treated as a joke, whereas his intentions had been serious. The bill was killed by a vote of 58 to 33. The committee on claims introduced a bill to limit the expense of contested election cases hereafter to $500. The bill was piaced on the calendar in its regular order. A resolution by Mr. Whitson limiting speeches in debate to ten minutes, brought out quite a discussion, and was adopted after having been amended so as not to apply to special orders. The osteopathists fought out their battle this morning and lost after a hard struggle which included a call of the house. The fight was not on osteopathy itself, but upon the McComb bill, known as the medical bill, which was killed by a vote of 53 to 33. Adjournment was taken at noon until the evening of the 15th.

The Hagemeister bill which was passed by the Senate in place of the Stevens primary election bill, was received in the Assembly on the evening of the 15th and was referred to the committee on privileges and elections. It is expected that a report will be received before the end of the week. Gov. La Follette sent two bills back to the Assembly without his approval. They were the Babb bill authorizing towns to vote aid in the erection of wagon toll bridges over navigable rivers and the education committee bill, authorizing joint school district No. 3, of the towns of Summit and Oconomowoc in Waukesha county to borrow money. Both vetoes were sustained, the only dissenting vote being that of Mr. Babb. By a viva voce vote the committee recommendations cutting the appropriation for G. E. Vandercook from $2250 to $1300. Mr. Benson secured the passage of his bill for the destruction of noxious weeds, stating that the farmers in the southern part of the state wish especially to be rid of wild barley, which is a great pest there. The Hartung dog license bill imposing a state tax on canines in localities where the local municipal government exacts none excited some little discussion. The money so received is by the terms of the bill to go into the state school fund. It was passed 53 to 26. The Cady vagrancy bills were passed. The state affairs committee bill providing for fire escapes on public buildings was passed. The Jones bill relating to the collection of water and light rates was killed. The Roehr bill and the McComb bill were both special order, but they were laid over so that the details of the compromise might be arranged. A residence in Washington has increased these troubles. A few bottles of your medicine have given me almost complete relief, and I am sure that a continuation of them will effect a permanent cure. Peruna is surely a wonderful remedy for catarrhal affections."-J. D. Botkin, Congressman-at-Large.

Congressman botkin is one of the most influential and best known men in the State of Kansas. Whatever he may say on any subject will be accepted by the people as the truth. Mr. Frank Richter, of Winona, Minn., says in a letter to The Peruna Medicine Company.

"As a remedy for catarrh I take pleasure in recommending Peruna for catarrh of the stomach. I know what it is to be afflicted with this awful disease and consider it my duty to say a word in behalf of the remedy which gave me such relief. Peruna cured me, and I know it will cure any one else who suffers from this disease. It gives me great pleasure to testify to the curative effects of this medicine. Peruna is a well tested and frequently used remedy, and for catarrh of the stomach it is unsurpassed.

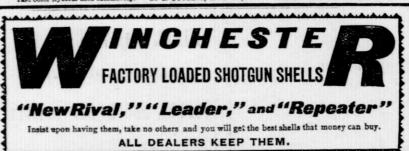

"My catairh was principally located in my head and stomach. I tried many remedies without success. I tried several doctors, but they were unable to cure me. I read of Peruna in the papers and five bottles cured me."—Frank Richter.

The gastric juice is secreted by the mucous follicies of the stomach. When this juice is normal it digests (dissolves) the food without producing any disturbance whatever. If, however, the gastric juice is normal, digestion causes many disagreeable symptoms. This condition is known as indigestion. Peruna will cure this.

It was generally supposed on Deeside that old Peter Chrystie had some very good reason for harboring such vermin on his farm. He was supposed to be paying blackmail for some of the sports of his youth. Sawny Bean called himself a laborer, but no one ever saw him do more serious labor than making wicker baskets and twining rabbit "grins." It was universally agreed that poaching was the honestest part of Sawny's work. And he was not thought much the worse for it in that part of the country, where contempt of the game laws is taken into the system in early youth along with the "Mother's Questions." But there were dark whispers affoat that set various burglaries, minor and major, petty larcenies of hens and ducks. and even the crowning iniquity of sheep-stealing, to the discredit of the master of "Sawny Bean's Hole."

Sawny had a tribe of children running about his door, so close to one another in age and size that they seemed to over-

He was said to have stolen some of them, but the accusation disproved itself, for it was unlikely that Sawny would willingly add another to the hungry mouths about his dwelling. It was much more likely that sundry children of misadventure and sin had been, for due consideration and add to Sawny's flock for received, added to Sawny's flock, for burden.

Minister and elder passed him by. The Cameronian minister had made one brave attempt on him; but Sawny had assumed his most idiotic expression and mumped unintelligible sounds, so that the minister had passed on, commending him to God as one mentally afflicted. It was not generally known that at the back Sawny's as one mentally afflicted. It was not generally known that at the back Sawny's house abutted upon an old sandhole, while above the birches and alders of the Hanging Shaw feathering the steep slope almost wholly concealed the space. Here almost wholly concealed the space. Here here was a most extraordinary collection of miscellaneous rubbish; and had the armers of the neighborhood had any dea of the neighborhood had any dea of the number of things lifted from heir several 'arms, they would long ago have organized a raid and pulled Sawny's hout his ears. But have organized a raid and pulled Sawny's rickety erections about his cars. But things about a farm have a way of disappearing temporarily and turning up again unexpectedly after months or years; so most of the farmers simply grumbled or swore, according to their kind, and blamed the carelessness of the men for their losses. Here were, among a debris of miscellaneous articles, coulters of all sizes, "shilbins," or cart rails of manifold design, corn-feed dishes, bushel measures, luggies (milking pails), harrow teeth, a deer horn mounted on a plate and with an inscription (from the plate and with an inscription (from the big hoose, wandered off by itself at the spring cleaning). Deeper in the cavern at the back of the sand-hole were barat the back of the sand-hole were barrels, most of them containing dogs of high and low degree. These had all of them "fellowed a gentleman." as the advertisements say. Generally they followed Sawny with their feet braced against the road, while that kindly gentleman applied the leverage of compulsion by means of a rope over his shoulder, and encircling their necks. Sawny had an ininterest in letters, at least as far as the workly Cairn Edward paper was consekly Cairn Edward paper was con-med. He went over regularly to Neth-Neuk on the evening of the day on nich it arrived, and got Peter Chrystie dogs lost, which were thought worth an advertisement. Sawny would turn up at the place indicated with the animal in town and a plausible tale, but if no advertisement appeared within three weeks at the latest, there was a plunge in the loch some dark night and an empty barrel "to let" in the cave. Sawny was never in any danger of starvation, nor, to do him justice, were the towsy children who tumbled over each other in front of his door. Many an honest man's children went with empty bellies when Sawny's surrounded a well-stocked broth-pot. He believed in the good old monkish plan commcuorated in the ballad verse:

The monks of Melrore made guid kail

The monks of Melrose made guid kall On Fridays when they fasted; Nor wanted they guid beef and ale As lang as their neighbors' lasted. There were few things to which Sawny would not turn his hand, except honest abor. An outcast by birth and training, his war with society was very real, though as yet it had never been a very deadly one. Sawny had, it is true, no abrupt line of distinction between the acts which he was prepared to commit and those which he could not risk. But he had that kind of animal cunning which generally kept him without the op-eration of the civil arm, though hardly ever for a single day of his life wholly within the law. He accounted it, for in-stance, perfectly righteens, to short a stance, perfectly righteous to shoot a "gamey" or "salmon-watcher," who was, if possible, a degree more vile in his eyes; but having once traveled to Dumfries to see an execution, almost the last that was ever held there in public, he returned home with an odd feeling of constriction home with an odd feeling of constriction about his Adam's apple, and a resolve like adamant not to trouble the hangman. It struck him that it would be a decidedly-uncomfortable thing to be hanged so early in the morning. Sawny liked to lie long in bed, and in the good poaching seasons he kept decidedly-fashionable hours. Really, he was in little danger of capture, though many a trap was laid for him. He had the native instinct of woodcraft. Eyes and ears were born with him which enabled him to hear and see things silent and black to commoner organs. As the spectroscope tells us that we do not see the danger of capture, though many a trace where the had left them alone, but the alone a time with him in his profession. French by education, child of the asphalte and the coulisses of Paris, though of English blood, Herbert Peyton had drifted into that most dangerous though most lucrative of occupations—that of the spy who makes capital from both sides out of his secrets. The pasteboard Napoleon who at that time ruled the destinies of France liked to believe that the secrets of the world were poured into his ear, and that he had his spies at the council boards of the revolutionary societies of all European nations. His chief of secret police found Herbert Peyton, with his accurate and extensive knowledge of dramatic circles and his polyglot unscrupulousness, a tool fit for his hand. Peyton had been brought up among the men of "'48." and had enjoyed their confidence after they had to flee from the rigor of the new empire. Of all these men, Felix Durand had been the greatest political force. An orator, he could fire his countrymen, and his words were

In Brakate that Makes History.

Kansas' inhabitants are among the most active, tolerant and versatile on the globe. They give fads :...d hobbies of all kinds at hospital receptions. Maine has had prohibition in one shape and another for over fifty years, but Kansas' brief experience with it has attracted far more attention from the country than it won in the half a century in which it has been in operation in the parent state. Just now, through that law, Kansas is contributing to "the gayety of nations." The entire gamut of the human emotions—tragedy, melodrama, burlesque, farce—has been swept by the events in which Kansas has participated. Across the pages of the story of Kansas in the past forty-five years have passed as striking and picturesque characters—John Brown, Jim Lane, the guerrilla, Quantrell; John J. "I Followed Mrs.Pinkham's Advice and Now I am Well."

A woman is sick-some disease peculiar to her sex is fast developing in her system. She goes to her family physician and tells him a story, but not the whole story

She holds back something, loses her head, becomes agitated, forgets what she wants to say, and finally conceals what she ought to have told, and this completely mystifies the doctor.

Is it a wonder, therefore, that the doctor fails to cure the disease? Still we cannot blame the woman, for it is very embarrassing to detail some of the symptoms of her suffering, even to her family physician. This is the reason why hundreds of thousands of women are now in correspondence with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. To her they can give every symptom, so that when she is ready to advise them she is in possession of more facts from her correspondence with the patient than the physician can possibly obtain through a personal interview.

Following we publish a letter from a woman showing the result of a correspondence with Mrs. Pinkham. All such letters are considered absolutely confidential by Mrs. Pinkham, and are never published in any way or manner without the consent in writing of the patient; but hundreds of women are so grateful for the health which Mrs. Pinkham and her medicine have been able to restore to them that they not only consent to publishing their letters, but write asking that this be done in order that other women who suffer may be benefited by their experience.

Mrs. Ella Rice, Chelsea, Wis., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:-For two years I was troubled with falling "Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—For two years I was troubled with falling and inflammation of the womb. I suffered very much with bearing-down pains, headache, backache, and was not able to do anything. What I endured no one knows but those who have suffered as I did. I could hardly drag myself across the floor. I doctored with the physicians of this town for three months and grew worse instead of better. My husband and friends wished me to write to you, but I had no faith in patent medicines. At last I became so bad that I concluded to ask your advice. I received an answer at once advising me to take your Vegetable Compound, and I did so. Before I had taken two bottles I celt better, and after I had taken five bottles there was no happier woman on earth, for I was well and I did so. Before I had taken two bottles I left better, and after I had taken five bottles there was no happier woman on earth, for I was well again. I know that your Vegetable Compound cured me, and I wish and advise every woman who suffers as I did to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Believe me always grateful for the recovery of my health."—Mrs. Ella Rice, Chelsea, Wis.
