FOND DU LAC NEWS.

Spire is Wrecked. Fond du Lac, Wis., July 1.-[Special.] During a severe electrical and rain storm Saturday night the spire of St. Feter's Lutheran church in East First street was struck by lightning and badly wrecked. The clock in the tower was stopped, the hands pointing to 11:35 at the time. It was found to be only slightly damaged.

The Jefferson school on Ninth street was also struck, but the damage was comparatively small.

Reports from the country districts are that many buildings were struck by lightning and many cattle were killed during the storm. August Kraus of Taycheedah lost two cows, John Krebsbach of the same town lost the same Judge Thompson at Cincinnati Issues Order to Machinists.

ABLANKETINJUNCTION

President Shaffer to Investigate Recent Cut in Prices by Sheet Steel Combine.

Cincinnati, O., July 3 .- A temporary restraining order was issued today, on application for a blanket injunction by the Metal Trades' association of Cincinnati. The petition charges that the strikers have used coercion, violence, intimidation and boycott to prevent men timidation and boycott to prevent men from accepting employment without the sanction of the Machinists' union. This movement is in line with yesterday's dec-laration by the employers that they will not submit to alieged interference with their business. The temporary injunction was allowed until Judge Clark shall re-turn from Chattanooga, when argument will be heard for a permanent order. will be heard for a permanent order.

STATE FAIR TO BE HELD SEPT. 9 TO 13.

Board of Agriculture Says that M

waukee was Responsible for Madison, Wis., July 3.—Secretary John M. True of the Wisconsin state board of agriculture has begun sending out copies of the premium list of the next state fair, to be held in Milwaukee September 9 to 13. The address of the board of managers is as follows:

The fourth annual state fair, under the direction of the Wisconsin state board of agriculture, will be held at State Fair park, Milwankee, September 9 to 13, inclusive, 1901. clusive, 1901.

The three previous fairs held under the board's management have steadily improved in all departments, until the fair of 1900 was pronounced by fairgoers "the best all around exhibit ever seen in Wisconsin, and the equal of the best held in the country."

consin, and the equal of the best held in the country."

The generous financial and moral support given this third exhibition by the city of Milwankee made it possible to attain the success gained.

The state, through the Legislature of 1900-1901, has enabled the management to so improve its fair grounds and buildings that it feels confident that the fair of 1901 will be even more attractive and satisfactory than that of 1900.

The leading livestock associations of America now recognize our fair as one of the best livestock shows in the country, and accordingly have given us liberal donations from their funds, to be offered as special prizes, thereby insuring large livestock exhibits of the best specimens the world affords.

This board has adopted the rules and regulations governing the world's best shows, and has selected judges of the highest rep-

This board has adopted the rules and regulations governing the world's best shows, and has selected judges of the highest reputations, in their respective fields.

The public can rest assured that every effort will be put forth to make the coming fair the equal of any ever held in its spirit of fairness to all concerned.

We feel that we are in position to ask all citizens of our great commonwealth to grant us their undivided and hearty support in making the fair of 1901 worthy of our great state of Wisconsin.

President George McKerrow of the board has gone to Canada to purchase some fancy livestock for his farm at Sussex. He expects to be in Madison the middle of next week when another meeting of the state sanitary livestock meeting of the state sanitary livestocl board will probably be held.

DOCTOR IS STABBED. Two of a Gang of Gamblers Attack Several Gentlemen in an Appleton Saloon.

Appleton Saloon.

Appleton. Wis., July 2.—[Special.]—
Two of a gang of five gamblers, who have been making their headquarters in this city and have been making themselves obnoxious in this vicinity for the past few weeks, were arrested here last night and appeared before a local justice today, on a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm. The two men entered a local saloon last night evidently looking for trouble; they made some insulting remarks and finally assaulted a number of gentlemen who happened to be there at the time, and the fight in self-protection, which followed, culminated in the total extermination of the "grafters." Dr. Hettinger, a reputable dentist of this city, who was one of the three gentlemen whom the toughs assaulted, received a severe cut with a knife, about five inches in length, just below the heart; his clothing was hadly cut in a number of places, which shows that the knife was used with a vicious intent. The men, who have been stopping at one of the best hotels in the city, have been closely watched by the local police since their arrival. The two now in custody give their names as Taylor and Witticker, and say their homes are in Milwaukee.

D. W. Fenner, a wealthy lumberman of Peebles, O., has a hunting knife of antique workmanship, which came into his possession in a novel manner. While he was engaged in sawing timber at one of was engaged in sawing timber at one of his Adams county mills the saw suddenly ran against an obstruction in a huge thirty-foot log. On backing the log from the saw and investigating the cause of the trouble it was found that the saw had run against a hunting knife seven and one-half inches in length, which was firmly imbedded in the middle of the log. The point of the knife was found to rest within four inches of the heart of the tree and was about five feet above the ground. The handle of the knife, which was of bone or deer horn, was pointing upward at an angle of about 45 pointing upward at an angle of about 45 degrees in t. position which showed that it had probably been stuck in the tree by a passing hunter many years ago. Three inches of solid oak extended beyond the end of the handle. Gov. Herreid, Formerly of Wisconsin, will Appoint Kyle's Successor.

Aberdeen, S. D., July 2.-United States Senator James H. Kyle died at his home in Aberdeen at 6 o'clock last evening. Senator Kyle was stricken ten days ago. His trouble was of malarial origin, and resulted in a functional affection of the heart.

Gov. Herreid, Republican, will make Gov. Herreid, Republican, will make the appointment to succeed Kyle in the United States Senate ad interim. The Legislature will sit in January, 1803. Gev. The Republicans lost the Legislature by a close vote. A long contest followed and Kyle was finally chosen as a compromise candidate of the Fusionists for the United States. During his first term the tide of Populism was at its height and Kyle cast his fortunes with Peffer, Pettigrew and Sockless Simpson. He early interested himself in labor legislation, and when the Pullman strike occurred sought to amend the law so that the interference by strikers with mail trains should not be a misdemeanor under United States laws but should be under United States laws, but should be tried under the laws of Illinois, which state was then largely dominated by Gov. Altgeld. Kyle's resolution was scathingly denounced by the late Senator C. K.

In the latter part of his term Kyle In the latter part of his term Kyle drifted away from his socialistic following, and in the latter part of his term became a Democrat in politics. This estranged the radical element of his party, and in 1897, when he was a candidate for re-election, a very bitter fight arose against him in the ranks of the fusionists, who again held the Legislature by a narrow majority. The members of the Farmers' Alliance who were in the Legislature opposed his re-election, and a deadlock lasting six weeks was the result. deadlock lasting six weeks was the result. This was terminated by the election of Kyle by the Republicans, assisted by thirteen fusionists, and from that time until his death Mr. Kyle classed himself as an independent. He fell out with his colleague, Pettigrew, and got over into the Republican camp for the purpose of controlling the distribution of patronage.

Senator Kyle was born near Xenia.

"Now," he said, "many accounts will be settled at one volley. It is well to have only one term-time and one payday. You'll find that I told you true, Nelly Anderson, when I said that some day I would make you pay sweetly for that knife in my side. Now, you will see your precious cub die first."

It needed the strength of three men to separate mother and son. The spy ordered the men to lead him to the wall apart from the others. Walter stood proudly erect. He only found time to say to his mother:

"Dinna greet, mother. It'll no' be lang an' it'll no' be sair."

There was muttering among the men.

"We should be fighting men, not slanghtering children," they said.

The Communards fell in heaps, many of them at the first fire. Herbert Peyton turned in the last access of despair, and fired his revolver at the rapidly approaching line of regulars. Then he threw up his arms, spun round on one foot, and fell heavily on his face to the earth. An officer with a tricolor sash came toward the pale line of saved prisoners.

"This way," he said, leading the way through the gate. "Let them fight it out. A little blood-letting is always good for Frenchmen!"

Jules slipped upstairs, changed his waiter's clothes for the uniform of an officer of the regulars, and over this he drew the blue blouse and wide cotton trousers of a common workman. These had seen much service. He slipped out quickly, and was soon lost among the crewd of fugitives who were hurrying hither and thither to get away from the sound of firing, which now seemed to increase, and to encircle central Paris like a ritg.

Meanwhile, in the prison of Mazas, Waiter and his grandfather sat hand in haad. There was only one chair in the little chilly cell, floored with octagonal flazs, so Walter sat on Saunders' knee, and they spoke softly of the good tumes they would have when they returned to the little farm by the waterside, where the little child help to others—at once an atonement and a compensation for the mistakes and unhappinenses of her life. The "Hoolet" took one quick look round to see if the "French lassie" was there. She felt instinctively where Walter sat, and as soon as she knew that Walter sat, and as soon as she knew that her rival was absent she smoothed her elf locks and turned all her attention to her Psalm-book. So they all stood up and sang with all their hearts:

"I had nae mind o't." said Archie, solemily, but rising, nothing loath.

So the two went their way down to talk to his mother, letting Archie go in aiene. As he passed through the dusky kitchen his heart beat faster, and at the door of the "room" he pausel a moment expectantly. In a moment Nelly Anderson came to him with the joy of surrender brimming in her eyes. Archie took a step forward, and as simply and innocently as a child she gave herself mto his arms.

That day Walter sat with his hand in Archie Grierson's in the little church of Whinnyliggate, to which the whole family, except Saunders himself, had gone, to do honor to the occasion of the last time when the young minister was to sit as a member in the little church which he had attended so long. He was to be ordained the following week, and married the week after. But Saunders said:

"Weel wad I like to come, but it will be more seemly for me that's an office-bearer to worship in my own congregation."

He was possessed of fine analytical powers of reasoning, and was of a mechanical turn of mind. In the latter respect it was said of him by patent lawyers that he saw so readily through every patented device, and that it appeared to him so easy of accomplishment, that he was apt to place all patented improvements in the domain of mechanical skill, rather than in that of invention, and hence had a leaning of mind unfriendly to the validity of a patent. Whatever may be said of this criticism with respect to mere improvements upon old devices, it is certainly true that with respect to inventions in new fields of discovery he was most liberal, and zealous to protect them. cision of the Supreme court. state. This remarkable change was due entirely to a remedy recently introduced here. It is called Dodd's Kidney Pills, and many people claim it to be an infallible cure for Kidney Diseases, Rheumatism and Heart Trouble. Mrs. Freeman heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and almost with the first dose, she grew better. In a week, her head aches and other pains had gone. and she had left behind her all her illness and days of misery. A medicine that can do for any one what Dodd's Kidney Pills have done for this lady is very soon to be universally used, and already the demand for these pills has increased wonderfully in Pawnee and Hodgeman Counties, where the particulars of Mrs. Freeman's case and its cure are known. -Berlin has on the average only twelve railway as a connecting link between the West and the far East are not to be enjoyed by foreigners, writes a St. Petersburg correspondent. This season the best known but by no means luxurious route by the steamers on the River Amur has been closed to all but Russian subjects. Englishmen in Vladivostok have applied in vain for a pass home through Siberia; and Englishmen in St. Petersburg equally anxious to make the journey in the reverse direction have endenied any facility for reaching their destination. Like the Trans-Casmian stead.

In China liquids are sold by weight and grain by measure. John buys soup by the pound and cloth by the foot. A Chinaman never puts his name outside of his shop, but paints instead a motto, or a list of his goods, on his vertical signboard. Some reassuring remark is frequently added, such as "One word hall," "A child two feet high would not be cheated." Every single article has to be bargained for, and it is usual for the customer to take his own measure and scales with him.

Best for it.

Like the Trans-Caspian startegic lines, the Great Siberian route is merely a pudding-bag railway—a cul de sac some 4000 miles in length, leading only into the wilderness of the ever-frozen North.
