POWER KNOCKED OUT.

Declares that He will Make an Appeal and Has but Just Begun to Fight.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 2.-Judge Lochren of the United States circuit ourt dissolved the temporary injunction sued in the case of Peter Power against the Northern Pacific Railway company y means of which Power sought to prevent the Northern Pacific from retiring he preferred stock of the company in any other manner than by the use of the arplus net earnings of the road.

After the decision was made an effort as made by the plaintiff's attorney to ave the court fix the amount of bond which would be required in order to ap-peal from the decision and to stay al. further proceedings in the lower court pending the appeal. Judge Lochren re-fused to allow a supersedeas bond in any amount to be given.

Judge Lochren held that the Northern

PARDON FOR BARTLEY.

Former Nebraska Treasurer Who Stole $201,000 is Set Free by the Governor.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 2 .- Joseph S. Bartley, former state treasurer, convicted of the embezzlement of $201,000 and sentenced to the penitentiary for twenty years, is a free man. Gov. Savage pre-sented him with a New Year's gift in the shape of an unconditional pardon.

The document was delivered to the family and Mrs. Bartley, the three children and C. O. Whedon, his attorney, in a carriage, started immediately for the penitentiary. Two hours later Mr. Bartley was at his home. He wait he ley was at his home. He said he appre-ciated the elemency of the governor and was overjoyed to be again with his family, but declined to discuss his futur Bartley in all has spent five years and Bartley in all has spent live years and seven months in prison, one year of which was in Douglas county jail previous to his final sentence. His total shortage has been placed at slightly over $500,000, but he was convicted on the charge of stealing $201,000 in a lump

Gov. Savage, who last July paroled Bartley for sixty days, and later sur-rendered him, justifies his action by declaring the sentence of twenty years was excessive, largely the result of public clamor. The governor also expresses the belief that the Bartley shortage came as a result of his effort to bolster up weak banks at a time when values were depre-ciating, and that he personally profited little, if at all.

REBELS PUT TO FLIGHT. Ligutenant Rhodes and Two Order

lies Attack Twenty Filipinos and Kill Four of Them Manila, Jan. 2.—Lieut. Charles D. Rhodes of the Sixth cavalry, accompanied by two orderlies, when within six miles of Manila came across twenty armed insurgents in a cuartel, or barracks. The insurgents shouted "Americanos!" and Lieut. Rhodes feigned a retreat. But in reality he took the cuarte in flank and drove out the insurgents, capturing two rifles, three revolvers and some ammunition. Rhodes then burned the barracks down and proceeded to Manila. Four of the insurgents were killed.

Gen. Wheaton's report from the Island-of Samar indicates that little has been accomplished there. The attitude of the natives is even more unfriendly than ever before. Gen. Chaffee probably will ever before. Gen. Chaffee probably will the island in order to investigate he state of affairs prevailing there. Gen. Bell has recovered from his riding accident, and will now renew ag-gressive operations in Batangas.

EXPLOSION KILLS FIVE. Of Twelve Others Who Were Badly Injured Three will Probably Die.

Macon, Ga., Jan. 2.—The boiler of an engine of the Central of Georgia railway exploded at the shops in this city this morning killing five men outright and badly injuring twelve others, three of whom probably will die. Among the dead are Tosh Hodges, an engineer, and J. M. McDonald, machinist.

Of the other dead men two are negroes and the other's body is so badly mutilated it is impossible to tell his color. The heads of two of the victims were completely severed and were found 100 feet frem the bodies. The explosion wrecked the roundhouse in which the engine was standing. Wabash, Ind., Jan. 2.—As a result of a collision with a light engine on the Michigan division of the Big Four eight miles north of this city yesterday afternoon, Jack Trick, a farmer, is dying, and his daughter, Farry, 16 years old, is dead.

Helena, Mont., Jan. 2.—Governors and attorneys general of five Northwestern states who have been in conference here have decided upon definite plans to defeat the proposed consolidation of the Northern Pacific, Great Northern and Burlington railways.

The plan of campaign against the merger in brief is that suit shall be brought immediately in Minnesota, the other states giving Gov. Van Sant their moral support in the fight. If the suit fails in Minnesota action will be taken in another state, where the law is different, and the fight will be continued until every legal method to prevent the merger is exhausted.

His daughter, Farry, 16 years old, is dead.

Trick, Mrs. Kelly, a relative, and the girl were driving home. As they got at high speed, its signals not being heard by Trick. The rig was demolished, and the occupants, with part of the buggy, landed on the pilot. Trick was thrown against the boiler, Mrs. Kelly was on top of him, and Miss Trick rested on the drawbar projecting from the pilot.

The engine was stopped and the engineer and fireman dragged forth the victims. Miss Trick was unconscious, her skull was fractured, and she did not regain consciousness. Trick was unconscious and will not live. Mrs. Kelly was hurt slightly.

The indifference shown in Havana was remarkable, and in view of the withdrawal of Gen. Maso it is probable that the figures published were fixed up for the sake of appearances.

The Republica Cubana says that the shameful behavior of men like Gen. Gomez makes the people doubt and distrust everything. It speaks of the Maso element as the last of the Cubans. It declares that they will continue to fight, but implies doubt of their success. Continuing, the paper says it is a shame tinuing, the paper says it is a shame that perhaps 30,000 Cubans, about the number willing to sell their country for jobs, should be able to dupe the patriotic

The Spanish press attributes the vic-tory to the official element. These pa-pers say it was felt that Senor Palma was the candidate of the United States, and it would therefore be useless to oppose him.

The Diario de la Marina says that the indifference shown was extreme. The Cuban democracy acquiesced that all authority has come from the United States, and therefore the less they intervene in the elections the better. he elections the better.

New York, Jan. 2.—Gen. Thomas Estrada Palma, the newly-elected President of Cuba, has received many dispatches and telegrams of felicitation from various parts of Cuba and this country. Gen. Palma was particularly pleased with a cable message from Gibara, Santiago province, which is his native state.
This dispatch read: "Oriental patriots salute you as the first President of Cuba"

The Cuban President-elect was reticent as ever regarding the policy of his administration. He said in an interview:

"I have not had the least ambition to fill any public office; in fact, I all along refused to allow my name to be put forward as a presidential candidate. I am disappointed that there should have been any dissatisfaction over the election. I consented to the use of my name only at the last moment, when it was too late to withdraw. But I thought that absolute harmony prevailed and that Gen. Maso had consented to accept the vice-presidency. I really would have preferred to have been allowed to stay out of politics and attend to my private affairs."

In the mixed quartette competition there were two entries, one from Milwaukee and one from Neenah, but the Milwaukee quartette withdrew and the prize of $20 was given to the Neenah quartette.

To David Thomas of Carroll college, Waukesha, was awarded the prize for the recitation of "The Storm." Miss Addie Schmidt of Neenah won the prize in the alto solo competition.

At the afternoon session the principal event was the male chorus competition. Two of the most difficult songs had been chosen, "Cambria's Song of Freedom" and "The Day is Done."

The prize offered was $200 and was awarded to the Northwestern Glee club of Vendocia, O.

Pewaukee, Wis., Dec. 31.-[Special.]-Miss Dollie Yule, a teacher in the public school of this place, and Charles Jones, a well-known young business man, left here secretly yesterday morning and were married at Waukegan, Ill. The anouncement of the elopement was a great surprise to the friends and rela-Break Through Ice at Sheboygan great surprise to the friends and relatives of both and the news has caused a great sensation in Pewaukee and in Hartland, the home of the bride.

Miss Yule is 25 years of age. She is the daughter of Edmund Yule of Hartland. She secured a place in the local school in September and has been very popular with the students. Charles Jones is the son of William Jones, a local meat dealer and a member of the cal meat dealer and a member of the school board. school board.

In his capacity as a member of the board of education William Jones entertained Miss Yule at his residence and introduced her to his sons. It was soon whispered about that Charles Jones was desperately in love with the young lady.

whispered about that Charles Jones was desperately in love with the young lady, but that he had not proposed to her. He used to meet her afternoons when she left school and they would take long walks. In the evening he would accompany her to the social gatherings in the village. The young people of the village felt sure that some day he would propose, but they were sure that he had never breathed a word of love to her. Appearances, however, are deceptive.

Early last week the couple decided to get married. A mutual friend was consulted and they were advised to wait until the school term was over and then go to the home of the young woman in Hartland and be married in conventional style. They at first decided that that would be the better course, but after a few days they found that it was too difficult to wait and made up their minds that they would elope.

Yesterday morning Miss Yule boarded that they would elope.

Yesterday morning Miss Yule boarded a train for Milwaukee. Just as the last car was passing the end of the station platform Charles Jones jumped on the smoker. Neither seemed to know of the other's presence on the train until Milwaukee was reached, when they met in the depot and bought tickets for Waukegan, In.

At noon they arrived in the Illinois mecca for runaway couples and after securing a license went to the home of Rev. W. E. Toll, the Episcopal minister. Shortly afterwards they emerged from the house, husband and wife.

They will spend a few days at Waukegan and then will return to Pewaukee.

Considered a Remarkably Good Showing Considering the Bad Weather During Exhibition. Madison, Wis., Dec. 31 .- According to a statement issued by Secretary John M. True of the Wisconsin state board of ag-True of the Wisconsin state board of agriculture, that organization will have $6135.89 with which to begin the new year. Considering the discouraging loss caused by the bad weather during the week of the last fair this balance in the treasury is most gratifying. The receipts for the year were as follows: On hand January 1, 1901, $7410.23; received from entry fees and all other sources except gate admissions, $7183.08; special state appropriation for improvements on the gate admissions, $7183.08; special state appropriation for improvements on the grounds, $25,000; annual state appropriation, $4000; received from 10 per cent. of the premiums, $2002.17; received from gate admissions, $11,637; total, $57.-232.38. The disbursements of $51,096.40 were approximately as follows: For improvement of grounds, $18,000; premiums and purses, $20,000; special attractions and music, $2500; advertising, $3500; administration expenses of fair. $3500; salministration expenses of fair, $3500; ad-ary of secretary, expenses of members of board and similar expenses, $2500; mis-cellaneous bills, $1000.

An interesting feature of Mr. True's annual report will be a table of the num-ber of series of the leading crops raised annual report will be a table of the number of acres of the leading crops raised during the year (1901), together with the yield per acre and the approximate value of the different crops. This is the first time anything like this has been attempted by the secretary. He got some of his figures for this compilation from the returns of the local assessors to the ecretary of state. The table is as follows:

The county peace officers have stepped in and interfered to make this city what the people voted by a large majority last spring, namely, a no-license town. "Blind pigs" have been cleaned out and closed up and have been cleaned out and closed up and their stocks shipped out of town. Druggists have been interviewed and given pledges to live right up to the letter and the spirit of the law. Physicians will co-operate and issue prescriptions for liquors only when they know for a positive certainty that they are needed and will be used for medicinal purposes solely.

It is refreshing to note that President Roosevelt is opposed to the custom of docking horses' tails. The three carriage horses which were purchased for him not long ago in New York are Kentucky thoroughbreds with long tails and manes. Mr. Roosevelt impressed upon his agent the fact that he must consider no docked horses eligible to a position in the White House stables. Most lover's of horses like them best in their natural condition, with only such modifications as careful grooming and becoming harness, but the President's action is important in that it sets the example for a great many thousands of horse-owners who do not think of the animal's comfort, or o anything else except being in the fashion. If the fashion of the White House is not to dock the horses' tails the flock of fdshion-followers will go that way like so many sheep, and animals which have not already suffered mira, from this barbarous and cruel custom will be allowed to enjoy immunity. Aside from the cruelty of the process itself-and despite the reports of interested persons, it does involve torture to the victim-a horse is maddened almost to the point of being dangerous when fly-time comes and the natural brush is not there to whisk the tormenting insects away. In the case of the cropped ears and tails of dogs intended to fight there is the slight excuse that the dog will be injured more severely by the teeth of other dogs, if his ears are left long, than he will by there is no such excuse for the dockthat it looks like a shaving brush, and County. he is certainly not comfortable. accessible and of excellent quality, there are other anthracite deposits which may be brought into general use within a few years that will remove all anxiety concerning the supply. The bituminous and semi-bituminous coal deposits are practically inexhaustible, and they extend from the Atlantic to the Pacific, some of the Southwestern states and territories being to a large extent beds of coal.—Baltimore American.

Mikado is a Poetic Sovereign. The most poetic sovereign in the world is probably the Emperor of Japan. His love of poetry, it is asserted, increases with years. The Japan Maji says that "scarcely an evening passes that als majesty does not compose from twenty-seven to thirty of the thirty-one syllable couplets called 'Wa-ka.' These are handed to Baron Takasaki for examination. Baron Takasaki has held his present position since 1892, and he declares that the number of couplets composed that the number of couplets composed by his majesty from that time up to the end of last March was 37,000. The Em-press also is very fond of writing verse, but her majesty's pen is not so prolific as that of the Emperor. She composes about two complets twice a week."

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly falling to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional disease, and therefore requ

OF THE SNARE ON THE WESTERN ROAD.

Just after sunrise I was awoke by one of the mayor's servants who brought word that the Honorable Master Wade was awaiting me downstairs. Having dressed and descended, I found him seated by the table in the sitting-room with papers and wafer-box, sealing up the missive which I was to carry. He was a small, worn, gray-faced man, very creet in his bearing and sudden in his speech, with more of the soldier than of the lawyer in his appearance.

"So," said he, pressing his seal above the fastening of the string, "I see that your horse is ready for you outside. You had best make your way round by Nether Stowey and the Bristol Channel, for we have heard that the enemy's horse guard the roads on the far side of Wells. Here is your packet."

I bowed, and placed it in the inside of my tunic.

"It is a written order as suggested in the council. The duke's reply may be written, or it may be by word of mouth. In either case, guard it well.

Strange wild scenery, my mind naturally turned towards the past. I thought of my father and my mother, of the old carpenter and of Solomon Sprent. Then I pondered over Decimus Saxon, his many-faced character having in it so much to be admired and so much

"I should advise you also," he continued, "to carry sword and pistol as a protection against the chance dangers of the road, but to discard your headpiece and steel-front as giving you too warlike an aspect for a peaceful messen-

Covenant's ironshod feet rang sharply, in spite of my carre, upon the cobblestones, but looking back I saw that the blinds of my faithful friend's room were undrawn, and that all seemed quiet in the house. At the north gate a guard of half a company was stationed who let me pass upon hearing the word. Once beyond the old walls, I found myself out on the countryside, with my face to the north and a clear road in front of me.

It was a blithesome morning. The sum was rising over the Brendon hills, and heaven and earth were ruddy and golden. The trees in the wayside orchards were full of swarms of birds, who chattered and sang until the air was full of their piping. There was lightsomeness and gladness in every breath. The wistful-eyed red Somerset kine stood along by the hedgerows, casting great shadows down the fields and gazing at me as I passed. Farmhorses leaned over

At a little village over the hill I fell in with an outpost of horse, the commander of which rode some distance with me and set me on my road to Nether Stowey. It seemed strange to my Hampshire eyes to note that the earth is all red in these parts-very different to the chalk and gravel of Havant. The cows, too, are mostly red. The cottages are built neither of brick nor of wood, but of some form of plaster, which they call cob, which is strong and smooth so long as no water comes near if. They shelter the walls from the rain, therefore, by great overhanging thatches. There is scarcely a steeple in the whole contray-side, which also scens strange to a man from any other part of England. But higher yet is the waterfall in the San Cuayatan canyon in the state of Durango, Mexico. It was discovered by some prospectors ten years ago in the great barranca district, which is called the Tierras Desconocidas. While searching for the famous lost mine, Naranjal, a great roar of water was heard. On the other hand, their greed might be stronger than their loyalty, and might lead them to hand me over to justice in the hope of reward. On the whole, it would be best, I thought, to say nothing of my mission, and to keep my papers secret as long as possible. But I nothing of my mission, and to keep my papers secret as long as possible. But I could not but wonder, as I was dragged along, what had led these men to lie in wait for me as they had done. The road along which I had traveled was a lonely one, and yet a fair number of traveiers bound from the west through Weston to Bristol must use it. The gang could not lie in perpetual guard over it. Why had they set a trap on this particular night, then? The smugglers were a lawless and desperate body, but they did not, as a rule, descend to foot-paddery or robbery. As long as no one interfered with them they were seldom the first to break the peace.

Then why had they lain in wait for me, who had never injured them? Could it possibly be that I had been betrayed? I was still turning over these questions in my mind when we all came to a halt, and the captain blew a shrill note on a whistle which hung around his neck.

The place where we found ourselves was the darkest and most rugged spot in the whole wild gorge. On either side him with a bottle of Daffy's clixir, when in an instant, without warning, I was dashed violently from my horse, and left lying half conscious on the stony track. So stunned and shaken was I by the sudden fall that though I had a dim knowledge of shadowy figures bending over me, and of hoarse laughter sounding in my cars, I could not tell for a few minutes where I was nor what had befallen me. When at last I did make an attempt to recover my feet, I found that a loop of rope had been slipped round my arms and my legs so as to secure them. With a hard struggle I got one hand free, and dashed it in the face of one of the men who were holding me down; but the whole gang of a dozen or more set upon me at once, and while some thumped and kicked at me, others tied a fresh cord round my elbows, and deftly fastened it in such a way as to night me compiler. men who were holding me down; but the whole gang of a dozen or more set upon me at once, and while some thumped and kicked at me, others tied a fresh cord round my elbows, and deftly fastened it in such a way as to pinion me completely. So dark was it that I could neither see the faces of my attackers, nor form any guess as to who they Passing through the entrance, which

TO STEER BY ELECTRICITY.

Englishman Invents a System Great Navel Value. interesting experiments in regard to the utility of electricity for steering vessels have been conducted during the week aboard the Earl of Crawford's steam yacht Valhalla in Cowes Roads, in the presence of the inventor—R. An important part of the system is a contrivance for steering from any part contrivance for steering from any part of the ship. By leading three wires throughout the length of the vessel it is possible to have any number of steering positions either above or below the water line, with simple electrical connections to the three wires the three wires.

The Beet Sugar Industry. A most important article, giving Messrs. Oxnard's and Cutting's views on the beet sugar industry in this country, appeared on the editorial page of the New York Evening Post of Dec. 12, and as every household in the land is interested in sugar the article will be of universal interest: "The Evening Post bids the heartiest welcome to every American industry that can stand on its own bottom and make its way without leaning on the poor rates. Among these self-supporting industries, we are glad to know, is the production of beet sugar. At all events, it was such two years ago. We publish elsewhere a letter written in 1899, and signed by Mr. Oxnard and Mr. Cutting, the chiefs of this industry on the eastern side of the Rocky Mountains, showing that this was the happy condition of the trade at that time. If parties masquerading as beet sugar producers are besieging the Pres-

Cutting was probably written for the purpose of inducing the farmers of the Mississippi valley to go more largely "He'll never deal a card or drain a glass of the right Cognac again."
"There you lie, mine goot vriend," said the injured man, in weak, quavering tones. "And I will prove that you lie if you have a flaschen in your pocket."
"If Pete were dead and buried," the first speaker said, "a word about strong waters would bring him to. Give him a sup from your bottle, Dicon."

There was a great gurgling and sucking in the darkness, followed by a gasp from the drinker. "Gott sei gelobt!" he exclaimed, in a stronger voice. "I have seen more stars than ever were made. Had my kopf not been well hooped he would have knocked it in like an ill-staved cask. He schlags like the kick of a horse."

No water could be seen, however, as a sharp turn cut off our view of the outlet. In this rocke, girt space, which may have been sixty paces long and thirty across, there were gathered great piles of casks, legs and cases; muskets, cutlasses, there were gathered great piles of casks, they again the form the draw the manufact about upon the floor. At one end a high wood fire blazed merrily, casting strange shadows along the walls, and sparkling like a thousand diamonds among the crystals on the roof. The smoke was carried away through a great cleft in the roofs. Seated on boxes, or stretched on the sand round the fire, there were seven or eight more of the band, who sprang to their feet and ran eagerly towards us as we entered.

"Have ye got him?" they cried. "Did not be exposed to reverses by possible changes in the tariff, they proceeded to show that the industry stood in no need of protection. into the cultivation of beets for the sugar factories. This was a laudable motive for telling the truth and showing the large profits which awaited both the beet grower and the manufactories. This was a laudable motive for telling the truth and showing the large profits which awaited both the beet grower and the manufactories.

Meyer's Removable stood in no need of protection.

"The beet sugar industry, these gentlemen say, 'stands on as firm a basis as any business in the country.' They point out the fact-a very important one-that their product comes out as a finished article, refined and granulated. It is not like cane-sugar grown in the West India islands, a black and offensive paste, which must be carried in wagons to the seaboard and thence by ships to the United States, where, after another handling, it is put through a costly refinery, and then plying the domestic consumption are very great. We have no doubt that Messrs. Oxnard and Cutting are within bounds when they say that 'sugar can be produced here cheaper than it follows:

can be in Europe.' The reasons for "The sugar industry is, after all, merely an agricultural one. We can undersell Europe in all other crops, and sugar is no exception.' "It follows as naturally as the making of flour from wheat. If we can produce wheat cheaper than Europe, then naturally we can produce flour cheaper, as we do. "But the writers of the letter do not depend upon a-priori reasoning to prove that they can make sugar at a profit the fact that under the McKinley tariff of 1890, when sugar was free of duty, the price of the article was 4 cents per pound. Yet a net profit of $3 per ton had been started in bygone years, back in the sixties and seventies of the nineteenth century, and had failed, because the projectors did not understand the business. Since then great progress has been made, both here and abroad, in the cultivation and manipulation of years ago is now entirely feasible. The industry is already on a solid and en-000 tons of beets per annum at a profit
