Mr. Hansen was an amateur Peter Hansen died yesterday after a long illness. Mr. Hansen was an amateur actor of more than ordinary ability and he took active part in scores of plays produced mainly on the stage at Dania hall. In November, 1898, he celebrated at Dania hall his twenty-fifth anniversary as an actor, his first appearance occurring in the fall of 1873 at the old Belle City hall. His last appearance was in the role of the Jolly Miller in a three-act comedy entitled "The Traveling Student," a character he much admired and which brought out his best histrionic points. Of late years he kept a tavern. He was born in Denmark in 1840 and emigrated to America in 1863.

SNOW CLEANSES AIR.

Chicago Experiments Show Its Effect Upon Street Germs. The cleansing effect upon the atmosphere of snowfall is illustrated by a report of the Chicago board of health. On January 18 shallow glass dishes containing the usual preparation favorable to the growth of atmospheric germs were exposed to the gir for three minutes in exposed to the air for three minutes ten different localities within the half mile bounded by South Water, State and Adams streets and Fifth avenue. After seventy-two hours' incubation hese showed an average of 630 colonies these showed an average of 630 colonies of growing germs, the greatest number, 1050,being found at the northeast corner of Dearborn and Washington streets, a few feet above the street level; the least, 330, in the south court between the city hall and the county building, and the next fewest, 335, on the roof of the city hall, about 130 feet above street level. On the 21st snow fell to the equivalent of 0.28 of an inch of rain, and this experiment was repeated on the 22d. The average colonies from these latter exposures numbered 66, ranging from 19 at the southeast corner of La Salle and South Water streets, to 180 at the southwest corner of Washington and Fifth avenue. The atmosphere was nearly 90 per cent, purer on the 22d after the snowfall than it was before.—American

A PROFESSOR at Northwestern University says that the users of cigarette constitute but a small portion of the honor students and the majority of them are of low grade of scholarship. He argues from this that the use of the cigarette results in mental deterioration and that it is responsible for the weak minds of the smokers. With all due respect to the erudition of the learned professor we suggest that he is arguing with his premises and deductions transposed. Is it not more likely that family at Beechwood, weak minds are responsible for the cigarette habit, rather than vice versa?

Repairing Neatly Done

Never thought of such sign for a medicine did voi Well, it's a good sign i Scott's Emulsion. The boo has to be repaired like other things and Scott's Emulsion i. the medicine that does it.

These poor bodies wear out rom worry, from over-work rom disease. They get this and weak. Some of the new ones are not well made-and all of the old ones are racked rom long usage.

Scott's Emulsion fixes all kinds. It does the work both inside and out. It makes soft bones hard, thin blood red. weak lungs strong, hollow places full. Only the best materials are used in the patching and the patches don't show through the new glow of health.

You can do it yourself—you and the bottle. This picture represents the Trade Mark of Scott's wrapper of every bottle. Send for free sample-

CHAPTER XXX.—(Continued.) must tell you that it can only lead to ruin and the gallows. Have you ever known one who has thriven at it?"

"That have I," he answered, readily. "There was Kingston Jones, who worked Hounslow for many a year. He took ten thousand yellow boys on one job, and, like a wise man, he vowed never to risk his neck again. He went into Cheshire, with some tale of having newly arrived from the Indies, bought an estate, and is now a flourishing country gentleman of good repute, and a justice of the peace into the bargain. Zounds, man! to see him on the bench, condemning some poor devil for stealing a dozen of eggs, is as good as a comedy in the playhouse."

"Nay! but." I persisted, "you are a man, judging from what we have seen of your courage and skill in the use of your weapons, who would gain speedy preferment in any army. Surely it were better to use your gifts to the gaining or honor and credit than to make them a stepping-stone to disgrace and the gallows?"

Returned His Burial Money.

Rev. R. A. MacFadden of Chelsea, who was one of the speakers at the Phillips Andover alummi dinner, told of an interesting experience while traveling in far-off Cairo. He said he was taken ill, and it was supposed he was going to die. His traveling companions contributed Sc2 to pay his burial expenses, and is it was said there was no hope for his recovery, they left him and continued on their journey. "But I recovered, said Mr. MacFadden, "and when I finally got home I had to go around and return the money that had been accombed by the bodd of a common station." "Boston Journal.

For the duty which we so to make the heart of the weak overrides all other duties and is superior to all circumstances, and I for one cannot see why the coat of the soldier should harden the heart of the man.

XXXI.

OF THE MAID OF THE MARSH AND THE BUBBLE WHICH ROSE FROM THE BOG.

All Bridgewater was in a ferment as dashed it to pieces, with such effect that the whole army fled, and we had the execution of them to the very gates of Leith. Seven thousand Scots lost their lives, but not more than a hundred or so of the honest folk. Now your majesty will see through your glass that a mile of bog hand intervenes between these villages, and that the nearest one, Chedzoy, as I think they call it, might be approached without ourselves entering the morass. Very sure I am that were the lord general with us now he would counsel us to venture some such attack."

"It is a bold thing, with raw peasants, to attack old soldiers," quoth Sir Stephen Timewell. "Yet, if it is to be done, I know well that there is not a man born within sound of the bells of St. Mary Magdalene who will flinch from it."

it."

"You say well, Sir Stephen," said Monmouth. "At Dunbar Cromwell had veterans at his back, and was opposed to troops who had small experience of war."

"Yet there is much good sense in what Maj. Hollis has said," remarked Lord Grey. "We must either fall on, or be gradually girt round and starved out. That being so, why not take advantage. That being so, why not take advantage at once of the chance which Feversham's ignorance or carelessness hath given us? Tomorrow, if Churchill can prevail over his chief, I have little doubt that we shall find their camp rearranged, and so have cause to regret our lest expectation. have cause to regret our lost opportun-

Yet a little while ago I could make out, through my glasses, the long lines of horses picketed on the moor beyond the village. Behind, in Middlezoy, are 2000 militia, while in Chedzoy, where our attack would fall, there are five regiments of regular foot."

"If we could break those all would be well," cried Monmouth. "What is your advice, Col. Buyse?"

"And yours, Col. Saxon? Do you agree with the opinion of your friend?"

"I think, with Maj. Hollis, your majesty, that Feversham, by his dispositions, hath laid himself open to attack, and that we should take advantage of it forthwith. Yet, considering that trained men and a numerous horse have great advantage by daylight, I should be in favor of a camisado or night onfall."

"The same thought was in my mind," said Grey. "Our friends here know every inch of the ground, and could guide us to Chedzoy as surely in the darkness us to Chedzoy as surely in the darkness as in the day."
"I have heard," said Saxon, "that much

A general chorus of approval from the whole council showed that the prospect of at last coming to an engagement was welcome, after the weary marchings and delays of the last few weeks. "Has any cavalier anything to say against this plan?" asked the King.
We all looked from one to the other, but, though many faces were doubtful or desponding, none had a word to say against the night attack, for it was clear that our action in any case must be hazardous, and this had at least the merit of promising a better chance of success than any other. Yet, my dears, I dare say the boldest of us felt a sinking at the heart as we looked at our downcast, ad-faced leader and asked ourselves. sad-faced leader, and asked ourselves whether this was a likely man to bring so desperate an enterprise to a success.

With so many children to take care of and to protect from climate and disease, these wise and prudent sisters have found Peruna a never-failing safeguard.

A letter recently received by Dr. Hartman from the Ursuline Sisters of Cleveland, Ohio, reads as follows: Four Interesting Letters From Catholic Institutions. "We have lately given Peruna a trial, for though the medicine was not new to us, we had not tried it sufficiently to testify to its worth as we are now ready to do. "We find Peruna an excellent tonic, and a valuable remedy for catarrhal affections of the throat. We have recommended it to our friends and have good reports from them as to its merits." Yours respectfully, URSULINE SISTERS. URSULINE ACADEMY. CLEVELAND.O.

Dr. Hartman receives many letters from Catholic Sisters all over the United States. A recommend recently received from a Catholic institution in the Southwest reads as follows:

"Some years ago a friend of our institution recommended to us Dr. Hartman's Peruna as an excellent remedy for the influenza of which we then had several cases which threatened to be of a serious character. west reads as follows:

For years I suffered with catarrh of the stomach, all remedies proving valueless for relief. Last spring I went to Colorado, hoping to be benefited by a change of climate and while there a friend advised me to try Peruna. After using two bottles I found Peruna, and since the new to courts, colds and catarrhal diseases afthe head. Peruna. After using two bottles I found myself very much improved. The re-mains of my old disease being now so slight, I consider myself cured, yet for a while I intend to continue the use of Peruna. I am now treating another patient with your medicine.
