PURSUING THE BANDITS FIFTEEN ARE DEAD.

Men Who Held Up Burlington Train are in Hiding.

CAPTURE IS DIFFICULT. Body of the Robber Killed by the Express Messenger Remains Unidentified.

Savanna, Ill., Aug. 7 .- The five bandits who held up the Burlington limited near Marcus at midnight last night are believed to be hiding in the densely wooded bottom lands along the Mississippi, and baum. The ceremony will take place on Thursday evening, August 14, at 7 o'clock, in St. Peter's Lutheran Church. A reception will follow at the home of the bride's parents, 746 Main streef. Mr. and Mrs. Rosenbaum will be at home after September S at 19 Eleventh The body of the robber killed during he fight is still here unidentified.

One arrest has been made. When the Burlington train from the north pulled in at 4:20 o'clock this afternoon the passengers pointed out a stranger whose actions they said had been suspicious. He was taken into custody and examined. He gave his name as Burt O. Dell and he was a clammer. He does not look like a train robber and his cap-ture is not regarded as being significant. An actual witness of the train robbers was found yesterday afternoon. Barney Miller of Sabula, Ia., just across the river from Savanna, was camping with his wife half a mile from the scene of the holdup. Mrs. Miller saw the train come to a stop and watched it, for she knew it to be an unusual occurrence. Then she saw the engine and two cars leave the others and proceed up the track, and a short time afterwards came the explosions. She awakened her husband and they watched closely, realizing that a train robbery was going on under their eyes which they were unable to

After the explosions the Millers saw the engine uncoupled and run up the track to the bridge over Apple river, which flows directly into the Mississippi, which flows directly into the Mississippi. There it was stopped and a moment later started on again. It was afterwards found six miles from Apple river with the steam run down. At the point where the train was robbed the railroad is fully three miles from the river and the intervening country is rough and sandy bottom lauds. The railroad is on the high bluff, so that the movements of the train were plainly visible from the opposite shore.

Apple river is navigable for small boats Apple river is navigable for small boats and a widely accredited theory is that the robbers had hidden skiffs in the bushes near the bridge and with their aid had reached a hiding place on the banks of the Mississippi. From the neighboring bottom lands they can proceed either way at night and eventually reach a place of safety miles from the scane of of safety miles from the scene of

This theory is borne out by the stateent of a man named Garrow, who keeps rowboat livery near the Burlington epot. He looked at the face of the on and then said that the man had attempted to hire a boat from him last Sunday, saying that he wanted to go fishing near Marcus. Garrow refused him the boat, for he did not want his property taken so far by a

He states that after the express and buffet cars had been detached he heard a shot alongside the tender of the engine. a shot alongside the tender of the engine. This was while the bandits were climbing onto the engine to take the cars away from the main body of the train. Immediately he heard an agonizing yell from one of the men: "Why in hell did you shoot me?" The answer he does not remember distinctly, but in substance it member distinctly, but in substance it was that it was a mistake. The wounded man was laid in the engine and left while they all went back, Mooney and Expressman Boyle under the tender care of a robber with a big gun and the rest of the bandits to blow the safe. This operation took an hour or over. Engineer Mooney says that had any of the train crew killed the robber some of them would have had to die to play even. As was they were used firmly but not oughly. He says that when the injured andit was placed on the engine he had only one wound and that was in the head. His theory is that after getting up the road with the engine after having made the haul and after leaving Mooney behind, they decided the man could not live and in order that he might not make

Upon one occasion he moved road bridge. The second came down a short distance west of La Veta and swept away a railroad bridge and considerable track. The third occurred at Huerfano station, twenty-two miles north of Walsenburg, where the big iron railroad bridge was wrecked and carried downstream. A long stretch of track was washed out, allowing nine freight ars to go into the ditch.

The fourth cloudburst came down near Santa Clara, eighteen miles south of Walsenburg. Several houses were washed from their foundations and much other damage was done. The cloudburst turned Deer creek into a raging torrent, a fire. carrying away all bridges across it.

The damage will run into six figures. The storm, however, broke a long-continued drouth and will prove of great benefit to farmers and stock growers. Congress Not Having Granted Reciprocity, Cuba Must Issue Bonds to Pay Debts of Island.

Havana, Aug. 7 .- Regarding the status of the proposed Cuban bond issue high officials say that the Platt amendment and the Cuban constitution can be complied with. The Congress of the United States, not having approved reciprocity, cannot prevent Cabans seeking money to face the existing crisis and pay recog-nized and valid debts.

It is the intention to negotiate a proper loan in the United States. The bonds will be payable in American gold and are to be advertised in New York. There is no intention to contract debts with Europe which might cause difficulties for Cuba or the United States.

It is believed the loan proposition can be brought within the provisions of the Platt amendment and that it will not be necessary for President Palma to yeto the bill.

Young Boy Injured.

Captures a Curiosity.

MILWAUKEE, AUGUST 7, 1902. EGG AND DAIRY PRODUCTS.

It is believed that Burrows was temporarily insane when he attacked the two young men, who were out riding their bicycles at the time of the assault. The names of the two men are W. L. Wentzel and Paul Schmiedl. The former was shot through the calf and in the face, while the latter sustained injuries about the head, face and left arm. Burrows fired several times at them while they were passing his farm.

The young men hastened to a neighboring farm, where they were attended to. Word was then sent to the city and the authorities were notified. Sheriff Potter organized a posse, which consisted of Under Sheriff Spalding, B. A. Bowen, Eugene Robbins, A. Montag, R. Abrahams and C. Williams. were passing his farm.

The young men hastened to a neighboring farm, where they were attended to. Word was then sent to the city and the authorities were notified. Sheriff Potter organized a posse, which consisted of Under Sheriff Spalding, B. A. Bowen, Eugene Robbins, A. Montag, R. Abrahams and C. Williams. When this posse reached the scene of the assault last evening they found Burrows marching up and down in front of his house, carrying a gun, and it was decided to wait until morning before attempting to capture lim.

Early this morning the posse again went to the farm of the young man. He was still on guard and when the officers arrived he opened fire with his gun. He then retired to the cellar and after reloading, he again fired upon the men. R. Abrahams and A. Montag were struck by the shot and both sustained painful wounds.

Visit Milwaukee, the Most Beautiful City in America-Low Excursion Rates.

The Milwaukee Association of Job-The Milwaukee Association of Job-bers and Manufacturers has made ar-rangements for two excursions to Mil-waukee during August. Any merchant, manufacturer or dealer in Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, North and South Da-kota and Northern Michigan is entitled o a rate of one and one-fifth fare for the round trip, not alone for himself and family, but for any one actively engaged in his business.

All that is necessary is that you ob-ufacturer in Milwaukee a membership card entitling you to the rate, and full information without cost. Tickets for the two excursions will be on sale August 16 to 30.

In addition to displays by merchants generally, the large wholesale millinery houses will have their fall opening during all of that time, and it will be well for milliners to remember the date.

CHAPTER XI. A week passed—the most eventful week in the girl's life-for it was marked by more things than the steady improvement of the patient. Lois attended to her school duties as regularly and efficiently as ever, as she took a pleasure in them, for she saw their results in the children. Her afternoons were spent in the sick room. For a few days she disguised the feeling that drew her thither under the garb of duty. She had taken upon herself, she told herself, the task of nursing the smuggler back to strength and having assumed her burden it was her obligation to bear it to the end. This served well enough for a little while. The subsequent discovery that she was happy only when near the man and restless and disquieted when away from him came to her almost as a shock.

She had never been in love and she was at a loss at first to identify the new feeling. For at least twenty-four hours its ate me far from you." classification eluded her. After baffling the officers of two states, after a wonderful flight of nearly 400 miles across Oregon and Washington, Tracy was hunted down by four citizens of the little farming town of Creston and a sole deputy sheriff. Sheriff Gardner and posse arrived in time to guard the work had already been done.

The posse that will share the reward was made up as follows: C. A. Straub, deputy sheriff; Dr. E. C. Lantes, Maurice Smith, attorney; J. J. Morrison, rail-

Lucas, arrived here at 10 o'clock and a twenty-minute stop was made for breakfast. Engineer John E. Mooney when seen told a vivid story of the hold-up. He said: La Crosse, Wis., Aug. 6.—The Burling-ion No. 47, which was held up near

He said: He said:
"The robbers stopped the train by swinging a white light. As soon as it stopped two men jumped into the cab and covered us with revolvers. One of them told the fireman to cut off the engine. After this was done the man who gine. After this was done the man her up half a mile. Then they ordered me to jump off and we walked back to wards the train, where we were joined wards the train, where we were joined by the express messenger and another robber. They took us to the rear of the buffet car and toid us to sit there. One of the robbers left us. They worked for an hour blowing open the safe and finally brought the engine down again and all of them got aboard it. A few feet from the train they told me to jump off and run, which I most assuredly did. They ran the engine up seven miles and left ran the engine up seven miles and left her dead."

Covered with Six Guns.

Mr. Mooney says that he has been runfifteen years ago and this was his first experience and he sincerely hopes it will be the last. Six guns staring one in the face is none too pleasant a sensation to experience. Mr. Mooney believes that the robbers killed one of their own number of the company of the co ber, either purposely or accidentally. Several shots were fired, some by the robbers, and the rest by the express mes-senger. The dead man was dumped off a short distance from where the affair a short distance from where the affair occurred, the robbers having taken his body on the engine when they started off. Mr. Mooney says that all of the occurred, the robbers having taken his body on the engine when they started off. Mr. Mooney says that all of the men wore masks but that while one was holding a gun in his face the handkerchief which concealed his entire face except the eyes fell off and that he managed to get a good look at him. He could identify him, he says, as the young man had a sandy complexion, was about the says in height and ware good and confidential information as to the

A MISPLACED TIP. Proposed Beneficiary was the Uncle of the Queen. Robert Barr writes in the Saturday Evening Post of Philadelphia of his early experiences in England, and tells this story regarding the tipping system:

"When I say I never gave a tip, I ought perhaps to add that once upon a time I offered one, which, to my sur-prise, was not accepted. I engaged to write for an American paper so cles on the London parks, and I asked a friend how I could get accurate infor-mation regarding them.

"'Nothing simpler,' said the Englishman. 'Drop a line to the ranger of Hyde Park and he will set you right.' "I wrote a courteous note to the rang-er, and told him I did not mind parting with a dollar or two if he could put me in the way of writing an interesting article. My communication was ignored, so fearing I had not offered enough I again said sarcastically, and I am amazed your munificence has not met a readier response, for the ranger of Hyde Park His Royal Highness the Duke Cambridge, uncle to the Queen, and am sure his expenses must be large."
