ASHFORD ACTIONS. Peter Braun and wife, of Lomira, called on their parents Sunday.

John Kiddinger and wife, of Oakfield, called on their relatives Sunday. Mrs. Regina Berg, of Freeport, Ill., is visiting friends and relatives here for a week.

Mrs. William Schill and children, of Elmora, called on friends in our burg Sunday. Miss Mary Fritchel attended the funeral of her uncle, Max Schmidt, at Le Roy last Monday.

Mrs. Schill and children, of Auburndale, returned home Monday after a two week's visit in this vicinity. Peter Reimer and sister Katie, returned home last Saturday from Stanley, Wis., where they had been visiting the past month.

Rev. M. Schmidt received the sad news of the death of his father last Tuesday. The funeral took place from St. Andrew's church at Le Roy last Monday; eight priests officiating. Deceased was 83 years of age. He is survived by his wife and eight children. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. William Dreikosen Jr., were agreeably surprised by their neighbors last Sunday evening on the occasion of their wedding. All had an enjoyable time. Mr. and Mrs. Martin Berg were also honored on the same evening, which was the fifth anniversary of their wedding. The evening at the latter occasion was spent in playing Schafkopf and dancing until a late hour when all departed wishing Mr. and Mrs. Berg many more such happy occasions.

Don't forget the old man with the fish on his back. For nearly thirty years he has been traveling around the world, and is still traveling, bringing health and comfort wherever he goes. To the consumptive he brings the strength and flesh he so much needs. To all weak and sickly children he gives rich and strengthening food. To thin and pale persons he gives new firm flesh and rich red blood. Children who first saw the old man with the fish are now grown up and have children of their own. He stands for Scott's Emulsion of pure cod liver oil—a delightful food and a natural tonic for children, for old folks and for all who need flesh and strength.

The complications arise when Mrs. Southdown attempts to break up the flirtation between the two. She is aided by Benson, a down who, for Mrs. Benson's benefit is made to appear in a comedy over some pretended indiscretion of Mrs. Southdown. The complications that follow come in rapid succession and involve all the characters. The Mendonish Choral Club is under the direction of Mrs. C. C. Henry. All arrangements for the "Fest" are completed and everything is being done to make things pleasant and entertaining for everybody. Mr. Frank Schoenbeck has charge of the dinner and has made all his arrangements to serve nothing but the best and plenty of it. He says there will be a comfortable seat for everybody at the first table no matter how big the crowd. Persons of good moral character who have settled in this county before January 1, 1858, or who have resided in the county for twenty-five years and more may become members of the club by signing the constitution and paying one dollar to the secretary. There are no annual or other dues. Persons desiring to join the club can do so at the office of the secretary at any time before the meeting or come to the meeting without further invitation and join them. G. A. KUECHENMEISTER, Secretary. ATTENTION FARMERS. Having bought the creamery of L. Rosenheimer, of Kewaskum, and we now contemplate changing same into a modern separator creamery, we have decided to hold a meeting at Ziegler's hall Tuesday, February 24th at 2:30 p. m. It will be of interest to any farmer in the vicinity to attend. H. J. GRELL BUTTER & EGG CO., Johnson Creek, Wis. CARD OF THANKS. We wish to extend our thanks to our friends for the assistance and kindness shown during the illness, death and burial of our beloved father, Philip Schmidt, and to all who attended the funeral. CHILDREN OF DECEASED. Baby sleeps and grows while mamma rests if Rocky Mountain Tea is given. It's the greatest baby medicine ever offered loving mothers. 35 cents. Miller & Son.

Fatal Railroad Wreck.

Fireman Henry Vanderbrook instantly killed and Engineer George Sensida and brakeman Ducey Died From Their Injuries Thursday Night. Views of the Wreck are Shown on the First Page of This Issue. A special fast freight train going south at 3:15 last Wednesday afternoon was wrecked 4 miles north of here, near Chris. Becker's place, and the entire train was demolished, crushing and burying the locomotive and the three men on it. Thirteen or fourteen cars left the track and eleven of them together with the engine rolled down the fifteen-foot embankment. The crash came so suddenly it is believed the men had no time even to think of jumping. Contraction of rails, due to the intense cold, is believed to have caused the destruction of the train. The dead are: Fireman Henry Vanderbrook, aged 26, Green Bay. Brakeman W. J. Ducey, aged 25 years, married, 652 Buffalo street, Milwaukee. Engineer George Sensida, Green Bay. The body of the fireman was terribly mangled and cut into pieces by the wreck and died instantly. Engineer Sensida was thrown just slightly ahead of the engine, and lay there for nearly an hour with the water from a leak in the engine running over him and freezing around him. It was 5 degrees below zero at the time, and it was an hour before they were able to get him to the Becker residence. He suffered probably as much from the intense cold as he did from his shock. He also had his legs crushed and the lower part of his body mangled. Brakeman Ducey was found fifteen feet from the scene of the wreck with his head against a barbed wire fence, the sharp points clinging to his scalp. Both Sensida and Ducey died Thursday night. Conductor W. McEachern, of Milwaukee, and brakeman George Ballis, of Green Bay, who were on the rear of the train, escaped injury. The noise of the crumpling cars attracted the attention of several persons on surrounding farms and soon they were present to give aid. While some were hastened to summon more aid the remaining trainmen led the small party to the rescue of those buried under the wreckage. Fred Biedel, the brakeman on the rear end of the train, ran to Campbellsport, two miles distant, to telegraph for relief while Chris. Becker's son came to Kewaskum to notify the agent here. A wrecking train was sent from Fond du Lac at 5 o'clock and at 8 o'clock a second wrecking train was sent from Milwaukee bearing Assistant General Claim Agent B. A. Little, Thomas Hayden, a brother-in-law of Ducey, and Mrs. Ducey. An engine took this party from Kewaskum to the wreck. Traffic was delayed until after 1 a. m., when the first train passed through. Before that time all trains were run via Sheboygan. In the evening Justice of the Peace H. A. Wrucke, of Campbellsport, acting for the coroner, impaled a jury which viewed the remains of the dead and adjourned to meet today at 10 o'clock. The wife of Engineer Sensida, of Green Bay, was at the bedside of her husband all day Thursday. He gradually grew weaker during the day but recognized his wife at all times. The North-Western put forth every effort to make things comfortable for the injured. Assistant Claim Agent Little, of Chicago, took up headquarters there and remained for the time being. Temporary telegraph offices were established directly opposite the Becker home and messages were constantly going over the wire advising the relatives as to the condition of the injured. The track was cleared so that traffic was resumed, but the wrecked cars and engine and lying in practically the same condition as immediately after the wreck. The engine is lying on its back, and blood marks the spot where the fireman met his death. Hundreds of people from this vicinity were at the scene to see the wreck on Thursday and all say it was the worst ever seen. The spot at which the accident occurred is one where, it is said, railroad men have feared an accident might take place because of the steep grade. Thursday night at the Becker home Engineer Sensida, during one of his conscious spells, said he had feared an accident at that spot. The course is a straight one at that place and the trains passing there make fast time. For a long distance there is a high embankment, and at the point of the accident the elevation is between fifteen and twenty feet. From the condition of the track after the debris was removed it could be seen that the train had run several hundred yards after the cars jumped the rails. The tracks were twisted and broken in a hundred places. The train was divided almost equally in two, a half being on each side of the embankment. The engine was on the right side, while the tender was in the opposite ditch. The first men to arrive on the scene of the disaster aside from Conductor McEachern and brakeman Fred Bullis, who were in the rear coach, were Joseph Haug, William Firkas and Christian Becker, whose respective farms are close to the spot. One of the pathetic features of the accident was the administration of the sacraments of the Catholic church to Engineer Sensida, who after he was taken out of the ruins and regained consciousness thought he would die and called for a priest. One of the farmers, while Becker was gone for a doctor, set out for Campbellsport and within half an hour Father July was at the side of the sick man. Kneeling upon the side of the track the priest administered the sacrament to Sensida and said a few prayers of the church.
