Colombo, Ceylon, March 25.-The news that Maj.-Gen. Sir Hector MacDonald, commander of the British forces in Ceylon, idel of the Highland Brigade in the South African war, was to be courtmartialed created a profound sensation in military and social circles. That a soldier who has exhibited the utmost gallantry and bravery on the field of battle should have such serious charges preferred against him has astounded everybody. Sir Joseph West Ridgway, the governor of Ceylon, was authorized to convene a court-martial to try Sir

While army officials and many of his brother officers were aware that charges were pending against Geu. MacDonald no intimation of their nature leaked out until the dinner of the officers of a Highland regiment March 21, at which MacDonald was not present. Lord Roberts, the commander-in-chief, paid tribute in a speech on that occasion to the Highland officers who had served with distinction, but did not mention MacDonald. This attracted considerable notice and the sensation was increased when another speaker, who was not aware of the facts in the case, lauded MacDonald as a typical Highland soldier, and found that his remarks were received in cold silence by a majority of the officers present.

MAROONED ON ISLAND.

Stevens Point Woman and Child Without Food or Shelter for Fifty Hours.

Stevens Point, Wis., March 26 .-Trapped by a flood on an island without sufficient food or shelter for fifty hours was the experience from which a farmer's wife and infant child were rescued yesterday. Both are ill from the exposure and lack of food. The woman was marooned while returning home from Stevens Point afoot. She, her husband and child were crossing the fields to short-en the distance and had to pass two gul-leys. One was filled with water a foot deep. This was forded in safety. The next was a raging torrent of five or six feet of water. The man decided that he must cross and reach home to feed the stock. It was decided that the mother seed which should be seed to be seed t stock. It was decided that the mother and child should turn back. The woman retraced her steps. Upon reaching the other gulley she found the water had risen so that she could not cross safely with the baby in her arms. She was trapped on an island. Yesterday morning her husband came to see if he could cross and get to town, where he supposed his wife and child were in safety. Instead he found the nearly famished woman and baby where he had parted from them. He could talk to his wife, but could not reach her. He hurried back to their home for food. He tied some biscuits together and contrived a slingiscuits together and contrived a sling-not arrangement, with which he suc-eeded in getting them to the island. He secured the aid of neighbors and a raft was built. On this the woman and child

A Weak Stomach

Indigestion is often caused by over eating. An eminent authority says the harm done thus exceeds that from the good food you want but don't over-load the stomach. A weak stomach may refuse to digest what you eat. Then you need a good digestant like Kodol, which digests your food with-out the stomach's aid. This rest and the wholesome tonics Kodol contains soon restore health. Dieting unneces-sary. Kodol quickly relieves the feelsary. Kodol quickly relieves the feeling of fulness and bloating from which some people suffer after meals. Absolutely cures indigestion.

Kodol Nature's Tonic.

Mrs. Fred Unrath, "After my first baby was born I did not seem to regain my strength although the doctor gave me a tonic which he considered very superior, but instead of getting better I grew weaker every day. My husband insisted that I take Wine of Cardui for a week and see what it would do for me. I did take the medicine and was very grateful to find my strength and health slowly returning. In two weeks I was out of bed and in a month I was able to take up my usual duties. I am very enthusi-astic in its praise." Wine of Cardui reinforces the organs nancy and childbirth. It prevents mis-carriage. No woman who takes Wine of Cardui need fear the coming of her child. If Mrs. Unrath had taken Wine of Cardui before her baby came she was. Her rapid recovery should commend this great remedy to every expectant mother. Wine of Cardui

Aticura

The agonizing, itching, and burning of the skin, as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair, and crusting of the scalp, as in scalled head; the facial disfigurements, as in pimples and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants, and anxiety of worn-out parents, as in milk crust, tetter and salt rheum, - all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Resolvent are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy have made them the standard skin cures, blood purifiers and humour remedies of the civilized world.

Bathe the affected parts with hot water and Cutioura Soap, to cleanse the surface of crusts and scales, and soften the thickened cuticle. Dry, without hard rubbing, and apply Cuticura Ointment freely, to allay itching, irritation, and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and, lastly, take Cuticura Resolvent to cool and cleanse the blood. This complete treatment affords instant relief, permits rest and sleep in the severest forms of eczema and other itching, burning, and scaly humours of the skin, scalp and blood, and points to a speedy, permanent and economical cure when all other remedies and the best physicians fail. As evidence of the wonderful curative properties of Cuticura Remedies and of their world-

The Hon. Mr. Justice Finnemore's Letter.

"I desire to give my voluntary testimony to the beneficial effects of your Cuticura Remedies. I have suffered for some time from an excess of uric acid in the blood; and since the middle of last year, from a severe attack of Eczema, chiefly on the scalp, face, ears and neck, and on one limb. I was for several months under professional treatment, but the remedies prescribed were of no avail, and I was gradually becoming worse, my face was dreadfully disfigured, and I lost nearly all my hair. At last, my wife prevailed upon me to try the Cuticura Remedies, and I gave them a thorough trial with the most satisfactory results. The disease soon began to dissappear, and my hair commenced to grow again. A fresh growth of hair is covering my head, and my limb (although not yet quite cured) is gradually improving. My wife thinks so highly of your remedies that she has been purchasing them in order to make presents to other persons suffering from similar complaints, and, as President of the Bible Women's Society, has told the Bible women to report if any case should come under her notice when a poor person is so afflicted, so that your remedies may ROBERT ISAAC FINNEMORE, (Judge of the Natal Supreme Court.)

The giant locomotives some time ago adopted by the Northeastern Railway Company for working the heavy mineral traffic from the Durham coal field to the Furness and West Cumberland districts are regularly hauling forty laden coke wagons over the Pennine Chain, despite the heavy gradient, the line at the Stainmore summit, near Kirkby Stephen, attaining an altitude of 1378 feet above sea level. The number of empty wagons for each locomotive has within the last few days been increased to sixty, which gives an average train length of nearly

Our Army in Mexico. Men who study military achievements nd record of great events in military story, but they do not find a record of history, but they do not find a record of victories more remarkable than those which the American army achieved in the Mexican war. In many respects this army was the most effective for its size that the world has ever produced. Nearly all of the renowned leaders of the Union and Confederate armies in the subsequent Civil war were veterans of the Mexican war. When the event is ecalled that the City of Mexico, containing 200,000 inhabitants, was cap-tured by Gen. Scott's army of 5000 Americans, the odds against the invading force may be comprehended. At Buena Vista, Cerro Gordo, Contreras, and Cherubusco overwhelming forces confronted the American soldiers.—San circumstances. The City of Fez-Quaint, Ancient and Most Oriental of Towns. A long line of gray walls, broken here and there by battlemented towers and topped by the while buildings of the Sultan's palace and a few minarets-such tan's palace and a few minarets—such is the traveler's first view of Fez as he approaches the capital by the main caravan road. It is an unattractive apapproach, for the last eight or ten miles of the 175 that lie between Tangier and the largest and most important city of Morocco pass over a plateau between level, unbroken stretches of corn-growing country, bounded on the north by bare hills, and farther away, on the south, by a range of rugged mountains.

One sees little but its gray, monotonous walls appearing on the horizon. Yet it is an ideal site for a city and Mulai Idris, an ideal site for a city and Mulai Idris, its founder and patron saint, did not err in fixing upon it as his capital when, early in the Ninth century A. D. he laid its foundations. There is a picturesque story told of the origin of its name; for Fas, as the Moors call it, means a "hoe" in Arabic, and it is said that as Mulai Idris turned the first sod he cried, "Here I plant my hoe"—a tradition almost identical with the naming of Kairouan by the great Okba. The main entrance to Fez, the Bab Segma, is an unworthy gateway for such a city, for it consists of little more than an archway cut in the wall, with no pretensions to size or decoration.

There is a second gateway on the right, in the wall that incircles the palace gardens, through which on the great feast days of the year the Sultan rides to pray at the "Msala" near by. The "Msala" itself is a short, white crested wall, with a niche or mihrab facing the East, and is situated only a few hundred yards away on the slope of the hill. Insignificant enough in itself, it presents on state occasions a marvelous picture.

Entering through the Bab Segma one passes for a short distance along a street. passes for a short distance along a street lined with little shops, where dried figs and raisins, walnuts and groceries are exposed for sale. A sharp turn to the right leads one into the outermost of the public squares of the palace, an oblong inclosure, surrounded by high walls and pierced at each end by great gateways. On the right is the facade and entrance to the arsenal, a particularly hideous mixture of bad Oriental and worse European taste, while straight in front is the "Gate of the Lion," a fine archway in modern Moorish style, somewhat spoiled by its gaudy coloring, which time is happily softening. It is under the shade of its heavy roof that one of the several governors of Fez holds his public court and deals out what he calls justice. He and deals out what he calls justice. He sits cross-legged, attended by secretaries, in a deep niche in the gateway, while in a semi-circle before him squat his dozens of whiterobed and redcapped soldiers. Before him kneel the plaintiff and defendant, both talking volubly at the same time, and each calling God to witness. time, and each calling God to witness that the other is a liar—which is prob-ably true.

A second public square lies beyond this trehway, on to which open the gates of the private precincts of the Sultan's balace, with their guards of soldiers, probably fast asleep. It is from this second square that the routes to old and new few respectively divide. The letter seen Fez respectively divide. The latter consists of the upper and more modern town and contains the palace, the "Mellah," or Jew's quarter, and a district almost entirely official, but boasts little of interest.

Haste of Surgeons.

Without doubt there is a disposition on the part of some surgeons to use the knife on slight provocation. With modern aseptic surgical methods, cutting has come to seem to them as much a matter of course as the administration of a dose of calomel seemed to their predecessors of two generations ago. Under such circumstances there is a natural tendency to perform operations without in all cases giving due weight to the wishes of patients and their friends. This is particularly true in public hospitals, where treatment, not of persons but of cases, becomes inevitable. There a Chicago court, which gives $3000 damages to the husband of a woman who to give it, the surgeon commits a viola-tion, or trespass, on the body of the patient.—New York Tribune.

Mrs. Eva Bartho, 133 East 12th Street, New York City, writes:—"I swifered for three years with what is generally known as leucorrhea, in connection with ulceration of the womb. The doctors advocated an operation which I dreaded very much, and strongly objected to go under it. Reading of the value of Peruna, I thought it best to give this well-known remedy a trial, so I bought three bottles of it at once. Now I am a changed woman. Peruna cured me; it took nine bottles, but I felt so much improved I kept taking it, as I dreaded an operation so much. I am to-day in perfect health, and have not felt so well for fifteen years."—Mrs. Eva Bartho.

MISS LOUISE MAHON.

Peruna is such a perfect specific for each case that when patients have once used it they can never be induced to quit it until they are permanently cured. It begins to relieve the disagreeable symptoms at once. The backache ceases, the trembling knees are strengthened, the appetite restored, the digestion made perfect, the dull headache is stopped and the weakening drains are gradually cured. These results certainly follow a course of treatment with Peruna.

Barbara Alberty, corner Seventh and Walnut streets, Appleton, Wis., writes as follows in regard to Peruna:

These women get up in the morning tired, drag themselves through their daily duties tired, only to go to bed at night as tired as before.

Mrs. Kate Mann, 806 Bathurst Street, Toronto, Ont., Can., Vice-President of the Ladies' Ald Society, writes:—"I am pleased to give praise to Peruna for the blessed relief I found through its use. I suffered for years with backache and dragging down pains and often had to go to bed and stay there when I was so busy that I could illy be spared. It was therefore a simple godsend to me when Peruna was brought to my aotice. Every drop seemed to give me new life, and every dose made me feel much better, and I promised myself that if I found that it cured me I would advocate it so that other suffering women should know of it. I have been in perfect health for one year, I enjoy work and pleasure because in such fine health, and no trouble seems too heavy to bear when you are in good health. Peruna has simply been a household blessing, and I never will be without it again."—Mrs. Kate Mann.
