A Vanished Bridegroom.

BY AMY MILLER.

Author of "Haunted Lives," "The Slave of the Lamp," "In the Silent City," "The Scarlet Key," "The Romance of a Wedding Ring," etc., etc.

CHAPTER II.—(Continued.)

Iris was perfectly satisfied with the arrangement, as she would never feel so happy in her life, and she must have been the most exulting of brides to have even glanced at the shadow lurking in the background, when such a devoted and adoring bridegroom as Jocelyn was by her side. There was even a charm in feeling that all around them were the same as she was in the city. It was like being alone together in a vast wilderness. He had almost as little part in his own life as she had in hers, and she thought, as she looked at him, that she would have been glad to have been a stranger in a strange country which was "home" to her now, because it was his.

They dined rather early, and then Iris turned with some natural reluctance to some business-looking letters that had been waiting for him. "Nothing of much importance, I expect," he said. "Still, I must glance over them."

One or two were put aside at once. Another arrested his attention, and was read with some interest. "I shall have to go out, Iris," he remarked. "This must be seen to at once."

"You won't be long, Jocelyn?" he asked, with a questioning look. "What a question to ask me!" he answered, laughing tenderly. "I shall not be gone more than half an hour, I hope. I wish I need forgetful, but I don't."

Of course it was childish and absurd, but she hated to let him go. She watched him go down the steps, and out into the dark, rainy street. The brightness of the morning had been fleeting.

Not till after he was out of sight did she return to the cheerful sitting room. It was well furnished and well kept, and tokens of his thoughtfulness were everywhere. Fresh flowers, books, papers, new music. She sat down by the fire, wondering if an angry girl, who would beget a forgetful husband, and a husband who would beget a forgetful wife, would beget a forgetful husband and a forgetful wife.

"No," Iris replied, gaspingly. "Jane has told me something which which would beget a forgetful husband and a forgetful wife. I should like to see her."

"Jane is telling her story again, insisted that it was Mr. Carew, and no other woman she had seen. She described his dress down to the minutest detail, though she had never seen him."

"That day was but the first of many weary days for the girl so lately united to the lover she adored. She sought in vain among the friends and acquaintances for some clue to his disappearance. But he was a stranger in a strange land, and moreover, he was in the habit of deceiving all who came in contact with him. He would not give away his name, and he would not give away his address."

"It really seems most unaccountable," Mrs. Carew said. "I should say that Mr. Carew has probably met with some accident."

"That soothing suggestion came from Miss Wilkinson, the landlady of the house to which Jocelyn had brought his bride. She was an excellent person as a landlady, but rather too conversant with what she herself called 'the ways of the world' to be especially sympathetic when matters took an unexpected turn, and worry appeared likely to rest upon her."

"There was little to eat in any food and none of it seemed to do me any good. It seemed the more I ate the poorer I got and was always hungry before another meal, no matter how much I had eaten."

"Then I commenced a fair trial of Grape-Nuts and was surprised how a small saucer of it would carry me along, strong and with satisfied appetite, until the next meal, with no sensations of hunger, weakness or distress as before."

"I have been following this diet now for several months, and my improvement has been so great all the others in my family have taken up the use of Grape-Nuts with complete satisfaction and much improvement in health and brain power."

"American people undoubtedly eat hurriedly, have lots of worry, thus hindering digestion and therefore need a food that is predigestion and concentrated in nourishment." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Look in each pack for the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

ESCAPE FROM JAIL BY CLEVER RUSE.

Two Men Held at Juneau for Burglary Surprise Deputy Sheriff and Lock Him in Cell.

Juneau, Wis., June 8.—John Fletcher and Charles Brandon worked a neat scheme on Deputy Sheriff William Kocler.

When Kocler commanded them to turn in for the night, Brandon asked for a drink of water, and as he went to get it, he slammed the door behind him and locked it. The turkey then entered the cage to unlock the door for him, but he soon turned the key that Fletcher jumped upon him from behind and threw him into the cell and locked the door upon him.

An examination of the door lock revealed that Fletcher had prevented the door from locking by holding the catch back with a piece of wire.

The men were in jail for robbing a jewelry store at Neesho last February, where about $500 worth of jewelry was taken. They were arrested in Milwaukee and the jewelry was found in their possession.

DOCTOR ADVOCATED OPERATION—

PE-RU-NA MADE KNIFE UNNECESSARY.

MRS. EVA BARTHO, 133 East 12th St., New York City, N. Y., writes: "I suffered for three years from leucorrhoea and ulceration of the womb. The doctor advocated an operation which I dreaded very much, and strongly objected to go under it. Now I am a changed woman. My period came; it took time to get it, but I felt so much better. I kept taking it, as I dreaded an operation, and I am today in perfect health and have not felt for fifteen years."—Mrs. Eva Bartho.

Mrs. Senator Roach, of Larimore, N. Dak.; Mrs. Senator Warren, of Cheyenne, Wyo.; Belva Lockwood and Mrs. General Longstreet, of Washington, D. C., are among the prominent ladies who endorse Peruna.

Miss Mariel Armitage, 36 Greenwood Ave., Detroit, Mich., District Organizer of the Royal Warranted and Temperance Society, writes as follows:

"I suffered for five years with uterine irregularities, which brought on hysteria and made me a physical wreck. I tried doctors from the different schools of medicine, but without any perceptible change in my condition. In my despair I called on an old nurse, who advised me to try Peruna, and promised good results if I would persist and take it steadily. I kept this up for six months, and steadily improved, and when I had used fifteen bottles I considered myself cured. I feel now a grateful, happy woman to-day."—Miss Mariel Armitage.

Miss Louisa M. Riley, 23 Davenport St., Cleveland, Ohio, writes: "I wish to add my indorsement to thousands of other women who have been cured by the use of Peruna. I suffered for five years with severe backache, and when weary or worried I was unable to get to bed."

Miss Nellie Holmes, treasurer of the Young Woman's Temperance Association of Buffalo, N. Y., strongly advises all suffering women to rely, as she did, upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—Your medicine is indeed an ideal woman's medicine, and by far the best I know to restore lost health and strength. I suffered miserably for several years, being troubled with menorrhagia. My back ached, I had bearing-down pains and frequent headaches. I would often wake from restless sleep, and in such pain that I suffered for hours before I could go to sleep again. I dreaded the long nights as much as the weary days. I consulted two different physicians, hoping to get relief, but finding that their medicine did not seem to cure me, I tried your Vegetable Compound on the recommendation of a friend from whom I was visiting me."

"I am glad that I followed her advice, for every ache and pain is gone, and not only this, but my general health is much improved. I have a fine appetite and have gained in flesh. My earnest advice to suffering women is to put away all other medicines and to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Miss NELLIE HOLMES, 540 No. Division St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Miss Irene Crosby, prominent in Social Life in East Savannah, Ga., adds her testimonial to the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—It always gives me pleasure to find an article of real value and unacquainted with. I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound well calculated to relieve and cure the various troubles arising from irregularities and menstrual pains."

"Much suffering could be spared if we only paid more attention to proper living and diet, but as long as we do not do this, your Vegetable Compound has come to the front as a true friend in need. I have been very pleased indeed with the relief it has brought me. I find that I have perfect health now, and that my mind is also more clear and active since I used your Vegetable Compound. It has been of great benefit to me, and I gladly recommend it. Very sincerely yours, Miss IRENE CROSBY, 313 East Charlton St., East Savannah, Ga."

Remember that every woman is cordially invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham if there is anything about her case or symptoms she does not understand. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and is cheerfully given to any ailing woman who asks for it.
