WANTED—All the girls in this and adjoining towns and villages to call at our place and see the magnificent line of rings. We will make a record of the size ring you need, also the pattern and when your friends call will tell you just what you like. Mat. Bruhy, Jeweler. Catherine, wife of John Hirschboeck, who formerly resided in this village, died on Sunday at her home, 384 Park place, Milwaukee, aged 59 years. The funeral was held on Tuesday morning at 8:30 o'clock from St. Peter and Paul's church, Milwaukee. Interment was at Calvary cemetery. Notice to Patrons. All patrons of rural deliveries must keep the road open and the snow removed at the point where the mail boxes are located otherwise the carriers are not obliged to deliver or take up mail. This is essential and every farmer should bear this in mind. There is another important ruling. Where stamps are not in hand and patrons will put letters in their box with the necessary amount for postage it is required to place the money in paper. Unless this is done the carriers are not obliged to take the letters. The people on the rural routes should do everything in their power to aid the carrier for his lot is a hard one at the best. We would suggest that the patrons keep stamps in the house and affix them before mailing. DUNDEE DOINGS. Mrs. Charles Baetz is the happy possessor of a fine new piano. Malcolm Bell, of Fond du Lac, was a business caller here Saturday. Thomas Egan, of Plymouth, was a caller in town one day last week. Gilbert McDougal went to Fond du Lac Saturday, returning Monday. Anthony Hebert is quite seriously ill with rheumatism and is under the care of Dr. O'Neil. Mr. Granger, residing south-west of the village, is also seriously ill.

Schleif-Glass Nuptials. At five o'clock Tuesday afternoon, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Schleif, in the town of Auburn, the Rev. J. C. Huecker united in marriage their daughter Christina and Oscar J. Glass. The bridal procession marched in the following order to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, rendered pleasingly by Miss Rosella, Glass, to a beautiful arch constructed of smilax and white ribbon. The bride was attended by the Misses Kathryn and Charlotte Schleif and Lillian Glass, and the groom by Messrs. Eugene, Walter and Fred Schleif. Emma Glass and Rose Schleif acted as flower girls. The bride was attired in white wash chiffon and carried white chrysanthemums. The bridesmaids wore white and carried white roses. Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple received the congratulations of the families and then repaired to the dining room where a bountiful repast was served. The table decorations were red and white carnations and asparagus ferns, while the dining room was tastefully decorated with most festooning. Mr. Oscar Glass is one of Campbellsport's most prominent young men and certainly has a bright future before him, while Miss Schleif is a lady of pleasing appearance and has a host of friends among her young acquaintances. Those in attendance were: Will Ferber, wife and family, Mr. and Mrs. Will Schleif and family, Philip Schleif and wife, Washington; Charles Schleif, Nome, Alaska, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Perschbacher and family, West Bend; Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Glass, Chris. Litscher, Will Weisenberg, Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Huecker, Campbellsport; Andrew Felten, M. J. McCullough, Campbellsport. A very pleasant surprise was the unexpected coming of Charles Schleif from Nome, Alaska, after an absence of fourteen years. He brought with him rare specimens among others an inkstand consisting of 20 different kinds of ore, gold nuggets, stick pins, napkin rings, etc. Mr. and Mrs. Glass received several valuable as well as useful presents. They will be at home to their friends in Campbellsport where they will reside on December 15, 1904. Death of J. J. Engler. John Jacob Engler, a well known farmer residing near Elmore, died at Milwaukee last Saturday of heart failure. Mr. and Mrs. Engler went to Milwaukee November 23rd to visit relatives. On Saturday he visited the pension offices in the government building and was returning to his daughter's home when taken ill in front of the Germania building on West Water street. He was removed to the Emergency Hospital where he died a few hours later. Mr. Engler was born Sept. 17, 1839, in Sevelen, St. Gall, Switzerland. In 1852 he emigrated with his father's (Gallus Engler) family, came to Wisconsin and cleared the farm since known as the Engler farm. In 1867 he married Wilhelmina A. F. Backhaus, whose relatives him with seven children: Arnold A., of Madison, S. D.; Louisa M. (Mrs. C. Hangartner), of Jurber, Okla.; Edward U., of Billings, Okla.; Margaret E. (Mrs. Wm C. Janke), of Milwaukee; John J., of Fred. W. and Wilhelmina C., at home. He is survived also by two sisters, Mrs. Christina (Jacoby) Lay of Wayne, and Mrs. Margertha Roecker of Chicago. All of his family and both sisters were present at the funeral. Deceased was an uncle of H. J. Lay and a brother-in-law of Otto Backhaus of this village. The funeral services for Mr. Engler were held Thursday afternoon at the family home, at the German Reformed church in Elmore and at the village cemetery. Rev. John Moser conducted the services and the G. A. R. burial service was also read. Members of the Isaac Hendricks Post 246, G. A. R., acted as pallbearers and accompanied their comrade Engler the honors of a military funeral. Their departed fellow-member battled for his country as a private in the Second Battery, Wisconsin Light Artillery and served three years, then received his honorable discharge Oct. 14, 1864. The funeral was largely attended. WAUCOUSTA WHISPERS. A. C. Buslauff transacted business at Fond du Lac Tuesday. Miss Dora Raehling went to Forest for a few days this week. L. DON'T LIKE HER EPIGRAPH.

Words Placed on His Aunt's Tomb Resented by Relatives.

A monument recently placed in the cemetery at Wellington, O., has raised a storm of protest because of the inscription which is upon it. The monument, it is alleged, was ordered by a nephew of the deceased lady, and it is said that he is responsible for the epigraph, which follows:

MARY M. LEWIS.
Died Nov. 29, 1898.
Died June 18, 1904.

I don't care what you say.
She would have her own way.
I would have had my own.
She will have to submit to God.

It is claimed that the motive of the author was not to reflect upon the character of the departed, yet the ladies of this place take a different view of the matter and have made vigorous protest. An effort will be made to remove the stone from the cemetery.

Increased Demand for Small Coins.

The demand for small change to supply the retail trade is rapidly increasing, as shown by a statement issued by the United States mint. The demand is generally taken as a criterion of the prosperous condition of the United States and is considered one of the most accurate gauges. The following figures represent the smaller coinage at the mint since President Roosevelt became president: $5,540,000 in half dollars, $7,800,000 in quarter dollars, $5,800,000 in dimes, $4,600,000 in nickels and $2,900,000 in cents. This makes a total of $23,000,000 of subsidiary silver and minor coinage during three years. The nickel coinage during the three years mentioned represents about one-fifth of the entire nickel coinage of the country and the cent coinage represents about one-seventh of the entire cent coinage of the organization of the federal government.—Philadelphia Press.

QUEST TRAIL RECORDER.

In making the quest trail recorder in a bucket filled with water they place a compass needle in a horizontal position through which by slow degrees the water finds its way inside. This opening is so proportioned that it takes one hour for the shell to fill and sink. Then a watchman calls out, the shell is emptied and the process is begun again.

The Pills That Cure Sick Nerves

Mrs. Dora B. Frazier, No. 140 Althea St., Providence, R. I., has been cured of Nervous Prostration by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

She says: "I suffered for three years and was several times at the point of death. My weight went down to seventy-five pounds. I was afflicted with nervousness, dizziness, swooning spells, swelling of limbs, sleeplessness and irregularities. I had a good doctor but he could not help me. The first box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did me good and continued the same until I was cured. I am now perfectly well.

These pills are a specific for all disorders of the nerves from neuralgia to partial paralysis.

THIRTY-ONE ARE KILLED.

Number of Hunting Accidents Exceeds That of Last Year.

SOME TAKEN FOR DEER

Cases of Careless Hunters Shooting Wildly Are Not as Numerous as Heretofore.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 30.—[Special.]—The hunting season which closed today has been prolific of accidents. There have been thirty-one deaths due to the various hunting accidents, since September 7. Some of these were cases of persons being mistaken for deer, but more from the accidental discharge of the gun.

Twelve serious injuries have been reported, some of which may result fatally. Though the number of accidents reported is greater than last year, the number of cases of persons being mistaken for deer is markedly less.

The List of Dead.

The list of dead and injured is as follows:

HENNING, JOHN, of Green Bay, killed at Harris, Mich., September 7, by companion who thought he was shooting at partridge.

MEADE, BERT, Winona, Minn., killed in Trempealeau county, November 7, by accidental discharge of gun.

KEMPSTER, GEORGE, killed accidentally at Ellettsville, Ind., by Harry E. Jones, a hunter.

Where the Bad Eggs Go.

A poultry farm, whether ducks, geese, chickens, turkeys, or guinea fow, accumulates a large and malarious surplus of eggs that refuse to develop into chicks. The average farmer could not care if there is anything on earth that is utterly worthless, it is a rotten egg. Millions of such eggs are used every year in preparing linen dressing for gloves and bookbinding—an industry that is largely carried on in New York and other large cities. They are also used in manufacturing shoe blacking, and even the shells are made into fertilizers. The eggs that have not yet lost their virtue also have

Across the Frontier.

CHAPTER VII.

Paul Hazard was over the frontier before he saw an English face. Then, at a station, a voice spoke his name. "Hazard! The very last man I expected to see!"

He put the passport into Paul's hand, and said the next instant he had vanished amid the crowd, and Paul strode up to the barrier. "Luck favored him now, for the official who had refused to pass him, had given place to another, who glanced at the passport, then at the bearer, and nodded assent."

Paul glanced the train as it was on the point of departure, and as he was borne back through Russia, the facts clearer and clearer grew before him. "Rudy's love was great indeed. As he recalled her sweet looks, her words, he felt he could stake his life on their truth. She loved him well enough to sacrifice, and he would do the same for her, a life's happiness."

Then he recalled that he had no money. No matter—a trifle like that should not delay him. He reflected on a thing more important. He had seen knowledge of the church he had been to. What if it were so difficult to find it? What if he should be driven wrong, and precious moments be wasted?

At an early hour, it rang in Paul's head. He should be too late—one minute too late. He would not be too late. Rudy was his life, and he would not let her go. He would not let her go. He would not let her go.

He said nothing, but ran towards it. He was a young athlete, as well as a powerful man. He had excelled in long jump and high jump at Cambridge, and he had made short work of this Russian barrier.

CHAPTER VIII.

Rudy Mendas stood within the porch, which was wide, and deep, and crowded. She was clad in white—not a bridal dress, but a simple, elegant, and graceful gown.

Her hands were clasped and held away from that dreadful stain; her face was as white as her gown; her eyes were almost closed in exhaustion.

Paul looked at his watch, and calculated that half an hour's delay would make a difference of ten minutes in waiting; if he lost that Rudy would be Frikhenhoff's wife before he could reach her.

He had no time to lose. He had no time to lose. He had no time to lose. He had no time to lose. He had no time to lose.

A prominent Southern lady, Mrs. Blanchard, of Nashville, Tenn., tells how she was cured of backache, dizziness, painful and irregular periods by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Gratitude compels me to acknowledge the great merit of your Vegetable Compound. I have suffered for four years with irregular and painful menstruation, also dizziness, pains in the back and lower limbs, and fullness sleep. I dreaded the time to come which would only mean suffering to me.

"Better health is all I wanted, and cure if possible. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought me health and happiness in a few short months. I feel like another person now. My aches and pains have left me. Life seems new and sweet to me, and everything seems pleasant and easy.

A Severe Case of Womb Trouble Cured in Philadelphia.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been cured of severe female troubles by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was nearly ready to give up, but seeing your advertisement I purchased one bottle of your medicine, and it did me so much good that I purchased another, and the result was so satisfactory that I bought six more bottles, and am now feeling like a new woman. I shall never be without it. I hope that my testimonial will convince women that your Vegetable Compound is the greatest medicine in the world for falling of the womb or any other female complaints."—Mrs. MARY COOK, 266 1/2 Birch St., Philadelphia, Pa.
