A Million Dollars For a New Stomach is His Offer-Riches Cannot Always Buy Health

When you are inclined to envy the rich, remember that John D. Rockefeller, multi-millionaire, one of the very wealthiest men the world has ever known, has troubles for which all his wealth cannot compensate. Mr. Rockedoctors pronounce incurable. Instead of being permitted to enjoy life to its full, to eat what he likes without dis-tress, to partake of tempting viands and the delicious dainties of the epicure and the gourmet, Mr. Rockefeller is obliged ubsist on a diet of tepid milk and lime water, such as you would feed to a colicky baby. Is it much wonder that he offers a million dollars of his many millions for a new stemach that shall perform its duties without distress and danger?

If Mr. Rockefeller would spend fifty cents for Camp's Curative Remedy, he might secure the relief he seeks, promptly and permanently. But the price is too small in the millionaire's eyes. He would spend a million, but would hesitate to spend half a dollar. Thus the price of wealth, in his case, is perpetual suffering, while those of us possessed of less money and greater perspicacity profit by the truth and take the road to health that thousands have traveled before us.

There is no question about the efficacy of Camp's Curative Remedy in all cases of stomach and digestive disorders. It of failure to do so the purchaser's money will be promptly refunded. All drug-gists sell it, giving you your choice of powder or tablet form at the low prices of 25 and 50 cents. Under such liberal terms and at such a small price, the man, woman or child who continues to suffer with any illness of the stomach has only himself to blame.

Decline of Bark Industry in Maine.

Again this year the peel of bark in eastern Maine will be small, compared with that of other years. The cause ascribed is overproduction and the low price which has been ruling for the past year, namely, $6 a cord. The bark industry, according to the lumbermen, is slowly going out of Maine. A large part of the old growth has been cut off, and the bark of the second growth is not as heavy and is more inclined to curl, not being worth much to the tanneries. In addition, operators are obliged to go peing worth much to the tanteries. In addition, operators are obliged to go farther into the woods for stock, and the expense of getting it out is greatly increased. With the decline of the bark industry has come a decline in supplying telegraph poles and ties.—Lewiston Joursel

When Coffee Shows What It Has Been Doing.
"Of late years coffee has disagreed with me," writes a matron from Rome, N. Y., "its lightest punishment was to make me 'logy' and dizzy, and it seemed to thicken up my blood.

"The heaviest was when it upset my stomach completely, destroying my appetite and making me nervous and irritable, and sent me to my bed. After one of these attacks, in which I nearly lost my life, I concluded to quit and try Postum Food Coffee.

"It went right to the spot! I found it not only a most palatable and refreshing beverage, but a food as well. All my ailments, the "loginess' and dizziness, the unsatisfactory condition of my blood, my nervousness and irritability disappeared in short order and my sorely afflicted stomach began quickly to recover. I began to rebuild and have steadily continued until now. Have a good appetite and am rejoicing in sound health, which I owe to the use of Postum Food Coffee." ### BRUSH YOUR STRAW HAT!

That Is the Way to Keep It Protected from the Marring Effects of Rain. "Yes, I know." said the hat man. "people never think of brushing their straw hats, the straw doesn't seem to be a hat made to be brushed, the dust doesn't show on it so much, and so they brush all their other hats and let their straw hats go.

"But if they would brush their straw "But if they would brush their straw hats as they do the others they would keep fresh and good looking much longer; this not so much on account of the brushing itself as because of the protection that brushing it, keeping it clean, gives it from the effects of moisture.

"What puts a straw hat out of business, in appearance, is rain. Let drops of rain fall on a dusty hat and every drop spreads and fixes the dust on which it falls and makes the hat dingy. The same rain falling on a clean hat would same rain falling on a clean hat would have far less effect on its appearance. "Brush your straw hat, and the ribbon too, just as you would any other, and you will have the satisfaction of keeping it in fair condition, a hat fit to wear the season through."—New York Sun.

An Actor's Subterfuges. "Every actor prides himself most upon his ability to 'fake' when it is neces-sary," said James Fulton. "I remember sary," said James Fulton. "I remember once, when I was young in the business, we were playing fly-by-nights and the heroine was supposed to kill the heavy. The audience was primed up to the climax, as only the one-show-every-threemonths-town audience can be. 'Now die' she cried, and pulled the trigger. Snap went the hammer against a dead cartridge and the villain lived. Snap went the gun again—the heavy still stood waiting the report. Snap! for the third time, but no flash of powder followed. The heavy threw up his hands and, doing the stage fall, cried, 'My God! I've been shot with an airgun."

An Important Legal Victory.

Allen S. Olmsted, of Le Roy, N. Y., has the courage of his convictions. He is the inventor and proprietor of "Foot-Ease," a well-known proprietary article of merit and enjoying a large sale all over the world. Mr. Olmsted has been a heavy advertiser and, backed up by the superior quality of the article he has offered to the public, has been able to make a trade-mark of great value. Others have noted this with jealous eye and have sought, by underhand methods and by according to steal—"steal" is the word excepting to steal the way ne treated the best public school going, giving me a handsome allowance."

"And then, just when I really did think he was the best, kindest, justest man on earth and everybody said you would inherit everything, he suddenly introduced a little girl on the scene, a ward, he was to be his adopted daughter, and then for the first time gave the best public school going, giving me a handsome allowance."

But in Alice Smith's case it only meant to the men who were fortunate enough to the marry them.

But in Alice Smith's case it only meant a curious accent when speaking English, with odd-sounding phrases, faulty grammar, and a look about her of a smartly dressed pretty girl drawn from a rather low grade in society—"shoddy," as Mrs.

Rochester began to think, then checked desp Others have noted this with jealous eye and have sought, by underhand methods and by copying, to steal—"steal" is the word exactly fitting the crime—the benefits to be had from confusing the mind of the public. Mr. Olmsted engaged eminent counsel and brought his dishonest competitors right up into the Supreme Court of New York State, which recently granted an injunction with costs, restraining the offenders from making or selling a foot powder resembling Allen's Foot-Ease in outward form or design or otherwise, the article which Mr. Olmsted had made a household word on two continents. This is where Mr. Olmsted showed the courage of his copylctions, for another man might have smarted under the sting of imitation, unfair competition and substitution, and accepted the situation with sour grace without doing anything in particular. The entire advertising fraternity of the United States owes a debt of gratitude to Allen's S. Olmsted, of Le Roy, N. Y., the owner of the trade-mark "Foot-Ease," for taking this firm stand against the buccaneers of trade who, having no inventive power themselves, are always willing to profit by another's brains and, by methods akin to those of the bushranger, become social highwaymen in stealing the benefits of long, extensive and clever advertising.

Two ladies are said to have been mobbed in America who went out to shop in such vast crinolines that they could hardly get through the shop doors. I do not know which is the greater nuisance to others, a lady puffing out her petticoats like an inflated balloon or one wearcoats like an inflated balloon or one wearing a long train. I am inclined to think the latter, for the lady occupies more space. What grace or beauty there is in a train trailing after a woman I have never understood. A peacock has a fine tail conferred on him by nature. But when he wants to show it off the feathers are stiffened and form a fan. The bird is not so silly as to suppose that he would add to its adornment by dragging his tail limp behind him. Possibly, however, were the lady peacocks adorned with tails they would do this.—London Truth.

Four Facts For Sick Women To Consider

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has an Unequalled Record of Cures-Mrs. Pinkham's Advice Is Confidential, Free, and always Helpful

FIRST.-That almost every operation n our hospitals performed upon women becomes necessary through neglect of such symptoms as backache, irregular and painful menstruation, leucorrhœa, displacements of the uterus, pain in the side, burning sensation in the stomach, bearing-down pains, nervousness, dizziness and sleeplessness. SECOND .- The medicine that holds the record for the largest number of absolute cures of female ills is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It regulates, strengthens and cures seases of the female organism as nothing else can.

For thirty years it has been helping vomen to be strong, curing backache, nervousness, kidney troubles, all uter-ine and ovarian inflammation, weakness and displacements, regulating menstruation perfectly and overcoming its pains. It has also proved itself invaluable in preparing for childbirth and the change of life.

THIRD.-The great volume of unso licited and grateful testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time published by permission, give absolute evidence of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice.

FOURTH .- Every ailing woman in the United States is asked to accept the following invitation. It is free, will bring you health and may save your

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women.-Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to romptly communicate with Mrs. Pink-am, at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. From symptoms given, our trouble may be located and the nickest and surest way of recovery advised. Out of the vast volume of ex-perience in treating female ills Mrs. Pinkham probably has the very knowl-edge that will help your case. Surely, any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.

"According to that theory, I was to have two wives then," said Sir Halco bitterly, "for he also stipulated that Violet was to remain here on the same terms—until my imaginary and visionary future wife 'rearranged the household to suit her convenience.'"

"You are not destitute of sense, Halco, and I put it to you—would it be possible for you to marry Violet under the changed conditions? Could you carry on this place in the style it is now on two, or even three, thousand a year? It is not your fault—she nor no one can blame you; you are not mercenary or fickle. If the money had been left to you, or to her, or even a fair proportion of it, you would have asked her to marry you, even if this Alice Smith had been left ten times as much. A LIFE ALWAYS THREATENED BY NERVOUS PROSTRATION.

One Who Broke Down from Six Years of Overwork Tells How She Escaped Misery of Enforced Idleness.

"I had been teaching in the city schools steadily for six years," said Miss James, whose recent return to the work from which she was driven by nervous collapse has attracted attention. "They were greatly overcrowded, especially in the primary department of which I had charge, and I had been doing the work of two teachers. The strain was too much for my nerves and two years ago the crisis came.

"I was prostrated mentally and physically, sent in my resignation and never expected to be able to resume work. It seemed to me then that I was the most miserable woman on earth. I was tortured by nervous headaches, worn out by inability to sleep, and had so little blood that I was as white as chalk.

"After my active life, it was hard to bear idleness, and terribly discouraging to keep paying out the savings of years for medicines which did me no good.' "How did you get back your health?"

"A bare chance and a lot of faith led me to a cure. After I had suffered for many mouths, and when I was on the very verge of despair, I happened to read an account of some cures effected by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The statements were so convincing that I somehow felt assured that these pills would help me. Most people, I think, buy only one box for a trial, but I purchased six boxes at once, and when I had used need of more medicine.

"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enriched my thin blood, gave me back my sleep, restored my appetite, gave me strength to walk long distances without fatigue, in fact freed me from all my numerous ailments. I have already taught for several months, and I cannot say enough in praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills "

Miss Margaret M. James is now living at No. 128 Clay street, Dayton, Ohio. Many of her fellow teachers have also used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and are enthusiastic about their merits. Sound digestion, strength, ambition, and cheerful spirits quickly follow their use. They are sold in every drug store in the Forld.

Some 20,000 soldiers are to be furnished with the new orthopedic shoe, a type of shoe which will be tested practically, with a view to its adoption in the military service for troops on the march. It is a shoe which is supposed to follow the exact outlines of the foot, being broader at the top than along the sole. "It is not much for beauty," as one of the army officers remarked, but it is supposed to have the qualities of comfort which will be appreciated by soldiers in the field. The soldiers are now provided on the march with the so-called marching shoe, of which some complaint has been made because of its unyielding sole. In the test shoes which are now being manufactured it is provided that the shank will be thinner, so as to give more play to the foot.
