Senator McGillivray returns to Madison tomorrow. He regards Speaker Lenroot as a probable rival.

Mr. McGillivray's home is in Black River Falls. He has been a member of the state Legislature since 1890, having served in both houses. In 1897 and 1903 he was honored by being selected to nominate Senator John C. Spooner. He has been prominent at all times in the work of the Legislature, and during the last session he stoutly opposed the plan for an expensive capitol building and carried his point.

Mr. McGillivray was sponsor for the "anti-trust" bill. He has served three terms in the upper house of the Legislature.

The most significant testimony thus far has been given by John Mitchell, the foreman employed by the contractor in charge of the job. Mitchell said that when he arrived the morning of August 8, he discovered that a large piece of earth had fallen from a corner of pier No. 8, and that one-half hour before the crush came he and others saw that pier No. 9 had began crumbling. That for that half hour the crumbling continued while the whole force of men were kept working at pier No. 8 with a desperation born of the knowledge that the safety of the entire building depended upon getting it shored up in time.

Will Hear Case in October.

The justice said that he had carefully examined the record presented by Hoch's attorneys and his study of it satisfied him that there was enough doubt to justify the review of the entire case by the supreme court. The case will come up at the October term of the court at Springfield, Ill.

Hoch has been confident that the sentence of hanging would not be inflicted.

Hoch is Unmoved.

Hoch was smoking a cigar when told of the issuance of the writ. "I am not guilty of this horrible murder," he said, "and now I will have the opportunity of proving myself innocent before the highest court in the state. I never have felt that I would go to the gallows. I may be guilty of other crimes, but never of that murder."

Rice was on his way from Wisconsin to the Portland fair and stopped over a few hours in Salt Lake City. He had in his possession $400 and a railroad ticket. A stranger claiming to be a resident of Rice's state engaged him in a friendly conversation and proposed that they adjourn to a nearby saloon and get a drink. They were joined by two other men. A game of dice was proposed, but Rice insisted that he did not play. However, he declared that he had the money if he wished to take part in the game. He pulled out his roll and had no sooner got it fairly in singht when one of the men grabbed it and passed it to one of his confederates, who ran out of a back door and escaped.

Without Much Ado. President Roosevelt presented a silver cup to a baby boy born to James O. Brzezinski, one of the secret service agents stationed at Oyster Bay, L. I. It happened like this:

The President heard of the baby, and could not recall Brzezinski.

"Who is Brzezinski?" he called from the library window to Secretary Loeb, who was just then mounting his horse preparatory to leaving the grounds. The secretary described Brzezinski.

"I don't seem to remember him," said the President, "but, anyhow, you'd better order a nice silver cup for the baby. It may encourage some of the other boys," he added, with a meaning look at Secret Service Agent Sloan, who was standing near by. President Roosevelt presented a silver

Dr. Fond of Liverpool airs a new appendicitis theory in the London Lancet.

He says that appendicitis and other such ailments can often be attributed to antimonial poisoning, and the source of the antimony taken up by man is said to be the rubber rings which are frequently used to close bottles.

Dr. Pond has proved that such rings consist of almost one-third their weight of antimony. The antimony is not only dissolved by mineral waters containing alkalis and organic acids, but these rubber rings soon become brittle and some of the compound falls into the vessels.

President Is Strong. strength of the President's positiin is that he commands the confi-dence of both sides. He has already ac-complished much, using his good offices to impress on each side the necessity of mutual concession and both sides have already yielded a great deal to his persuasion. Only a single point still separates them, but it is, as it has been from the beginning, the crux.

The Roosevelt Compromise. It was Mr. Roosevelt's compromise.

It was Mr. Roosevelt's compromise provision which Baron Komura formally presented at yesterday's meeting in which Japan agreed to entirely withdraw Articles Ten and Eleven (surrender of interned warships and limitation of Russia's naval force in the far east, and to substitute for Articles Five and Nine (cession of Sakhalin and indemnity), a new article providing for an arrangement by which Japan should get legal title to the southern half of Sakhalin, which she possessed before the treaty of 1875, while Russia should redeem or repurchase her title to the Krupps Receive Word to Send $11,250,000 deem or repurchase her title to the northern half of the island for 1,200,-000,000 yen, or $600,000,000.

While it is Mr. Roosevelt's proposition in substance, the Associated Pressis informed that as offered yesterday it varies slightly from the terms of compromise as the President suggested to both sides. In exactly what particular cannot be ascertained. Russia, it can be stated, while rejecting the compromise because it included remuneration for cost of the war under another name, was willing and indeed offered the island of Sakhalin by not only restoring the status quo existing before the treaty of 1875, but to de-limit the frontier and forever renounce all claim to the southern half.

HOW A FRIEND-SHIP GREW

The Story

Whether Hand Sapollo got a more enthusiastic welcome in homes where Sapolio was an old and tried friend. or where it was a stranger, is a question. Where women had come to rely on Sapollo for rapid, thorough cleaning in every part of the house except the laundry, they commenced without loss of time, to avail of this new prize. Grubby little hands, and stained, workworn older ones, whitened, softened, and smoothed out as if by magic, callous spots disappeared, and complexions cleared. Children ceased their strenuous objections to the scrub-there were people who had not learned to prize Sapolio. To these the advertising of Hand Sapolio came as a surprise. Sapolio, a scouring soap, adapted for the hands, the face, the general toilet? Impossible, it would be horrid. Who ever heard of such a use? Finally a bold shopper carried home a cake. Does it look like kitchen Sapolio? No one is sure, and a cake of that is bought, and comparison made. Behold a family using both the Sapolios for every conceivable purpose, and comparing notes! After easily and quickly cleansing a greasy pan with Sapolio, Jane thought the other would be gritty, and was astonished at the smooth, dainty lather. Another was certain it would harden the hands and could scarcely realize how soft and "comfy" they felt after the washing.

Then began the excitement of adventure; what would the new soap NOT do? A girl tried a shampoo. Her hair, pretty, soft and silky "went up" perfectly, with none of the unmanageableness that generally exists for a full week after the usual process. A man used the delightful lather for shaving, and felt no need for cold cream afterwards. A pimply face was treated to a dally bathing with the full suds, and came clear. Tartar on the teeth ylelded and

And so it is everywhere, those who know the "elder brother" welcome the newcomer, for the sake of the first known, and those who meet both for the first time are plunged into a whimsical worry as to which they could better spare if they had to make a choice.

TRY HAND SAPOLIO. Its steady use will keep the hands of any busy woman as white, untanned and pretty as if she was under the constant care of a city manicure. It is truly "The Dainty Woman's Friend," in the suburbs dare to offer this insult to a lady? Evidently a relative, and a near one, for Morland was his mother's name, and his own Christian name suggested a family connection. Yet she had never spoken of any such person.

Three other letters, of preceding dates, showed that "Louisa Morland" kept accurate reckoning. There were half a dozen more, from a firm of solicitors. Some of these were merely formal acknowledgments of letters received and forwarded, but one stated that they "were instructed by Lady Morland to inform Mrs. Anson that Sir Philip Morland declined either to see or hear from her."

That was all. Philip sprang up with face affame. He was alone in the house now, alone with his dead mother.

The boy noted that ther eyes were large and blue, that she wore a great shining ornament in her hair, and that she appeared to be dressed in somewhat fanctiful manner, though the big cloak she wore concealed the details.

The door of the mansion opened, and servants came running out.

Suddenly the boy received a violent blow on the side of the head.

Under such conditions barometric pressure remains fixed rather than variable, yet many whose business or hobby it is to record such facts observed a rapid shrinkage of the mercury column between the hours of 6 and 7. A deluge of rain fell for many minutes, and was followed, about 7:30 p. m., by a mad turmoil of thunder and an astounding electrical display not often witnessed beyond the confines of the giant mountain ranges of the world. So violent and unnerving was the outburst that the social life of London was paralyzed for the hour. Theater parties, liners in the fashionable restaurants, the greater millions anxious to get away rom offices and shops, those eager alike to enter and leave the charmed circle of the four-mile radius, were ruthlessly bid-den to wait while the awesome forces of nature made mad racket in the streets. All horseflesh was afraid. The drivers of cabs and omnibuses were unable to make progress. ON THE EDGE OF THE PRECIPICE.

On Friday evening, March 19, a thunder storm of unusual violence broke over London. It was notably peculiar in certain of its aspects. The weather was also distributed to the shrunken form, so placid, so resigned, what shaken by the vicious blow, was nevertheless able to see clearly the pale, handsome, but dissipated features of his handsome, but dissipated features of his handsome, but dissipated features of his picturesque profanity, happened to be stopping at a hotel in Plymouth, N. When she awoke at 6:30 o'clock in the morning she arose to look for the garments she had worn the day before. They were not to be found. Her shoes alone were in their accustomed place. Her gold watch was missing. On a chair lay her undergarments, wrinkleh and covered with mud.

A. T. Glaze is today celebrating the fifty-fifth anniversary of his coming to Fond du Lac. The father of the newspaper business in this county, he has been connected with the press without interruption in all those years, with the exception of six, when he worked in his uncle's job office. Mr. Glaze founded three papers, the Fond du Lac Commonwealth. The forms of the first edition of the local Commonwealth were made up by Mr. Glaze and run off by him on a handpress. Too Large for Grave.

For the first time in the history of Brooklyn cemeteries a burial permit was refused by the officials of Holy Cross cemetery on account of the size of a body. Patrick H. McGee died weighing about 400 pounds. It was first found impossible to obtain a coffin large enough to hold his body, and a coffin made to order was found to be too large for a single grave. Dr. Melvin M. Page, Page Optical Co., Erie, Pa., writes: "Taking too many iced drinks in New York in 1895 sent me home with a terrible atack of kidney trouble. I had acute congestion, sharp pain in the back, headaches and attacks of dizziness. My eyes gave out, and with the languor and sleeplessness of the disease upon me I wasted from 194 to 122 pounds. At the time I started using Doan's Kidney Pills an abscess was forming on my right kidney. The trouble was quickly checked, however, and the treatment cured me so that I have

Doctor Brigham Says

MANY PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The wonderful power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the diseases of womankind is not because it is a stimulant, not because it is a palliative, but simply because it is the most wonderful tonic and reconstructor ever discovered to act directly upon the generative organs, positively curing disease and restoring health and vigor.

Marvelous cures are reported from all parts of the country by women who have been cured, trained nurses who have witnessed cures and physicians who have recognized the virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and are fair enough to give credit where it is due.

If physicians dared to be frank and open, hundreds of them would acknowledge that they constantly prescribe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Com-pound in severe cases of female ills, as they know by experience it can be re-lied upon to effect a cure. The following letter proves it.

Dr. S. C. Brigham, of 4 Brigham Park, Fitchburg, Mass., writes: "It gives me great pleasure to say that I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound very efficacious, and often prescribe it in my practice for female difficulties. "My oldest daughter found it very beneficial for uterine trouble some time ago, and my youngest daughter is now taking it for a female weakness, and is surely gaining in health and strength.

"I freely advocate it as a most reliable spe-cific in all diseases to which women are sub-ject, and give it honest endorsement." Women who are troubled with painful or irregular menstruation, bloating (or flatulence), leucorrhœa, falling, inflammation or ulceration of the uterus, ovarian troubles, that bearing-down feeling, dizziness, faintness, indiges-tion, nervous prostration or the blues, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences, and be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegeta-ble Compound, and then write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for further free advice. No living person has had the benefit of a wider experience in treating female ills. She has guided thousands to health. Every suffering
