

PARALYSIS CURED

Case Seemed Hopeless but Yielded to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Mr. Kenney has actually escaped from the paralytic's fate which has seemed a short time ago hopelessly down. The surprising report has been fully verified and some important details secured in a personal interview with the recent sufferer.

"The doctor," said Mr. Kenney, "told me that if I would take any length of time I would have to give up work altogether, and he told my friends that the paralysis which had begun would in time involve my whole body."

"Just how were you afflicted at this time?" Mr. Kenney was asked.

"Well, I had first hot, and then cold and clammy feelings, and at times my body felt as if needles were being stuck into it. These sensations were followed by terrible pains, and again I would have no feeling at all, but a numbness would come over me, and I would not be able to move. The most agonizing tortures came from headaches and a pain in the spine."

"Night after night I could not get my natural sleep and my system was wrecked by the strain of torturing pains and the effect of the opiates I was forced to take to induce sleep. As I took these, the terrible suffering I endured during this period often wonder how I retained my reason through it all."

But I recall very quickly when I was induced to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. The very first box seemed to help me, and seven boxes made me entirely well. There can be no doubt about the thoroughness of my cure, for I have worked steadily ever since and had it nearly four years ago.

Mr. Kenney is at present employed by the Merriman Hat Company and resides at 101 Amherst street, Amherst, Mass. The remedy which he used, and which has given him the satisfactory results, is sold by all druggists, or direct by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

IN ENGLAND.

Inconvenience of Losing One's Character in That Country.

In England no servant can get a really good situation—that is, a situation with a reputable, first-class family—without furnishing a "character" for her former employer, writes Elizabeth Banks, in the World Today. This character is a letter written by a reputed employer, but a personal interview between the lady who has been the girl's employer and the one who desires to be engaged is essential.

"I shall never forget the way in which the tragic aspect of the 'personal character' question was first brought to my notice. I had been asked by a friend, who was suddenly called out, to see the applicants she expected that afternoon in answer to her advertisement for a parlour maid."

A very fine looking young woman, of possibly 28, seemed to me to be in every respect what my friend needed, and even the level of her education was good. After I told her that I felt sure she would suit, she said in an embarrassed, halting sort of way:

"But, madam, I must tell you that there is a very serious thing to be taken into consideration about my former employer's character."

"You see, madam," went on the young woman, "I was engaged to a very excellent character when I left her. She did not like to part with me, and I was to whom she had given her level of education, and I became a maid to her."

"I cannot recall her, or I would write and ask her to furnish a character for me, but I am sure she would give me, although it is not customary, of course. Yet, even the level of her education, which I have been trying to get a situation for three months now, but it is so difficult to get a character for me, that I have given up."

The girl's eyes filled with tears. But it all ended happily. My friend engaged her on the spot, and she is now a happy servant in the home of a very successful business man.

SUFFERING UNTOLD.

A Kansas City Woman's Terrible Experience with Kidney Sickness.

Mrs. Mary W. Clark, 20th St. and Cleveland, Kansas City, Mo., writes:

"For years I was run down, weak, I am a member of the League of Women Voters, and my kidney secretions were too frequent, then I began to feel as if I were being pulled apart, and I was suddenly discovered that they also are competent to do the same thing. In other words, they begin to indicate that a general impression among psychologists that animals probably do not reason, they have no souls, and have no souls."

A TALE OF MYSTERY AND ADVENTURE.

By LOUIS TRACY.

Most probably this man had read long articles about him, for the story was on his lips of every penniless vagrant in the city. Indeed, the careful scrutiny bestowed on his face and clothes bore out this suspicion. Had he not changed his garments the stranger would have known his identity beyond question. But he was a man of mystery, and he would not hesitate to use it if forcible entry was attempted. He must sit quietly in the dark, listening for each sound, and watching bodily movements. What had he seen or heard? Above all, how much did he know of Philip and his affairs?

Well, the door was locked, and it would be folly to go out again that night. The house was absolutely unapproachable save by the front. Philip resolved to remain awake until daylight. O'Brien's spade stood against the fireplace. It was a formidable weapon, and he would not hesitate to use it if forcible entry was attempted. He must sit quietly in the dark, listening for each sound, and watching bodily movements. What had he seen or heard? Above all, how much did he know of Philip and his affairs?

FOND DU LAC NEWS.

TRAIN KILLS VEIRKE.

Old Railroad Man Struck by Menominee Passenger While Flipping Freight.

FOND DU LAC, Wis., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—Fred Veirke was run down by the Menominee passenger on the North Western Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, at Scott street crossing and instantly killed.

Veirke, who had been in the employ of the road here for a few weeks as caretaker of the switch lights, had been asked by Fred Hovey, a switchman at Scott street crossing, to take his place for a moment.

Veirke noticed a freight pulling from the north and hurried out to clear the way, standing on the main track waiting a very few minutes for the passenger train to pass.

At a high rate of speed, he was in view before he had time to get out of the way as usual. When he picked up he was dead. City Physician McLaughlin and Justice Watson were called and examined the man. Veirke's neck, ribs and both legs were broken.

His remains were removed to the city, where they were claimed this morning by Joseph Britton, brother of Veirke, and Justice Watson and an inquest will be held Tuesday afternoon.

Veirke was 64 years of age and is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Britton, Mrs. Josephine Veirke, and Mrs. Josephine Veirke, and a son, Joseph Veirke, of Appleton. The dead man's home was at the corner of Scott street and the North Western road for many years in other places.

TO BE CONTINUED. A Decided Talker. John H. Hannan was talking the other day about smoking.

He had no great objection to smoking, but he had no great sympathy with those men who go about trying to get smokers to swear off.

"In Philadelphia, one day," he went on, "I saw a man smoking a lamp. He was a West Wall man, and he was smoking a lamp."

"No, no," he said, "I am not a lamp smoker. I am a pipe smoker. I am a pipe smoker."

"And how many, my young friend, have you smoked?" he asked.

"From five to seven," he answered. "That gives you an average of six. Six cigars, at 20 cents apiece—$1.20 a day. Eight dollars a week, and you are a smoker."

"TUBERS STILL JUMPING. Potatoes are still jumping skyward. Several loads on the streets Monday sold for 80 cents per bushel and one other load for 90 cents. At the same time the price has not gotten below 70."

DAISIES RUN HIGH. The dairy board held a meeting Monday evening, and 100 daisies sold for 12 cents, 105 cents for 12 cents, and 84 cents for 12 cents. The price for daisies is the highest in the history of the board.

WHY FAT MEN SHOULD SWIM.

Long Immersion in Cold Water Burns Up Their Adipose Tissue.

A swimming cure for obesity is advocated editorially in Modern Medicine, which warns patients, however, that a short dip in the surf will not be sufficient; the swim must last from one to two hours daily. Not only is the exercise effective, but also the low temperature of the water, which burns up the surplus tissue. Says the writer:

"Exercise accelerates the movement of the blood and thus stimulates the consumption of tissue in the muscles and other parts, while the low temperature, acting through the temperature nerves, stimulates heat production. A person taking active exercise in water at the temperature of ordinary sea water in summer time burns up his tissues three or four times as fast as he does on land. The rational diet, that is, the cutting out of a large part of the fat, combined with swimming for one or two hours daily, may reduce the weight of a very fat person to healthy proportions."

"If conveniences for swimming are not accessible, an ordinary bathtub may answer the same purpose. The bath should be of the temperature of 60 to 62 degrees. The patient sits in the bathtub, which is filled with six inches of water, and makes active movements with his arms and legs, rubbing the legs and the trunk with his hands until he is thoroughly perspiring. The cold water is then turned on so that the temperature of the bath may be gradually raised to 70 degrees. The bath is continued for 15 to 20 minutes."

"Just at the close of the bath a higher temperature of 65 or 60 degrees may be produced by a good reaction, or the bath may be terminated by a shower of cold water for fifteen seconds. The duration of the reaction may be fifteen to thirty minutes, but it should not be until the patient is thoroughly perspiring. It is an indication of defective reaction if the patient is not thoroughly perspiring after a long soak with the cold water."

CHURCH NOW 144 YEARS OLD. Ancient Building Still Uses Pews Put In August 14, 1761.

Old St. Peter's church, at Third and Pine streets, Philadelphia, Pa., is 144 years old, having been opened to public worship on August 14, 1761. St. Peter's is one of the oldest Protestant Episcopal churches in the city. It was built by the high local pews which were put in when it was built.

It was built in 1753, and its erection began in 1758. Since its opening it has remained unchanged, and the ancient pews, which were put in when it was built, are still in use. The church is a handsome structure, and is a landmark in the city.

WILD WITH ECZEMA. And Other Itching, Burning, Scaly Eruptions, with Loss of Hair—Specially Cured by Cuticura. Bathe the affected parts with hot water and Cuticura Soap, to cleanse the surface of crusts and scales and soften the thickened cuticle; dry with a towel, and rub in Cuticura Ointment freely, to allay itching, irritation and inflammation, and soothe and heal; and, lastly, take Cuticura Resolvent Pills to cool and cleanse the blood. A single set, costing but $1, is often sufficient to cure the most obstinate itching, burning, scaly eruptions, with loss of hair, when all else fails.
