The King of Diamonds.

A TALE OF MYSTERY AND ADVENTURE.

By LOUIS TRACY.

CHAPTER IX.—(Continued.) "He the for whom you were, Phil, when you got the ligatures, leather thunks, and an ornate ring," inquired the astounded Jocky Mason, who was now dispirited into this air.

"The last dress she wore, her boots, a hat, an album with photographs, some toilet accessories from the tiny dressing table, the coverlet of the bed on which she died—these and kindred mementoes made a very credible bulk in the denuded portmanteau."

"I am sorry to hear that," said the policeman. "This is the boy, sir," said the policeman. "Oh, is that him?" observed the inspector, who was looking at the man with a keen eye.

Impoverished Soil

Impoverished soil, like impoverished blood, needs a proper fertilizer. A chemist by analyzing the soil can tell you what fertilizer to use for different products.
If your blood is impoverished your doctor will tell you what you need to fertilize it and give it the rich, red corpuscles that are lacking in it. It may be you need a tonic, but more likely you need a concentrated fat food, and fat is the element lacking in your system.
There is no fat food that is so easily digested and assimilated as

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil

It will nourish and strengthen the body when milk and cream fail to do so. Scott's Emulsion is always the same, always palatable and always beneficial where the body is wasting from any cause, either in children or adults.
We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

Wine of Cardui Cured Her.
213 South Prior Street, ATLANTA, GA., March 21, 1905.
I suffered for four months with extreme nervousness and lassitude. I had a sinking feeling in my stomach which no medicine seemed to relieve, and losing my appetite I became weak and lost my vitality. In three weeks I lost fourteen pounds of flesh and felt that I must find speedy relief to regain my health. Having heard of Wine of Cardui, I sent for a bottle and was certainly very pleased with the results. Within three days my appetite returned and my stomach troubled me no more. I could digest my food without difficulty and the nervousness gradually diminished. Nature performed her functions without difficulty and I am once more a happy and well woman.

—Mrs. Johanna Doernbecher (nee Lachmann), who died at her home here in the village last week Friday, Nov. 3, 1905, after a few days' illness, was born in Tschirna, Province Schlesien, Germany, on Dec. 4, 1820, and was married to Carl Burghardt in 1839. Their union was blessed with four children, three sons and one daughter. In 1855 the family emigrated to America and while on the ocean a cholera epidemic broke out and one son died. Arriving at New York she was held in quarantine for some time and then came to Wisconsin, locating in the town of Kewaskum. In 1856 she married Sales Doernbecher with whom three children were born. Her second husband and one daughter, Mary (Mrs. William Cruse), also preceded her in death. The news of Mrs. Doernbecher's death was received with profound sorrow among her many friends in this community where she had resided so long. She belonged to the class of sturdy pioneers who settled in the town of Kewaskum fifty years ago. During all those years she was universally respected among her neighbors. She was a true Christian and dearly beloved by everybody. The funeral was held last Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Ev. Luth. St. Lucas church, Rev. Greve officiating. The surviving children are: C. A. Burghardt, Milwaukee; Mrs. William Krahn, Kewaskum; E. H. Burghardt, Barton, Ore.; F. S. Doernbecher, Portland, Ore.; Mrs. C. Disenroth, Chicago.

—We desire to express our sincere thanks to our many friends who by sympathy and kindness assisted us during the death and burial of our beloved mother, Mrs. S. Doernbecher, also to the many who braved the inclemency of the weather to attend the funeral and especially to the pallbearers. THE SURVIVING CHILDREN.

"DEAD" PEARLS HIS FAD.

An Ohio Banker Who Has a Queer Collection of Fresh Water Gems.

Mr. J. H. Harris of Waynesville, O., a banker and collector of fresh water pearls and archaeological specimens, has lately acquired a large number of what he calls "dead" pearls. Mr. Harris has for many years been known as an expert in judging pearls, and nearly all the gems of any consequence that have been found in the Little Miami river have passed through his hands, he having paid from 25 cents to $125 for them as they came from the mussel shell.

His collection, varying in numbers and value, as he has at different times sold from and added to it, was for the first time exhibited to the general public at the Paris exhibition in 1873, where it attracted much attention. Two or three years ago it was believed that the pearl industry in the Little Miami had about died away, and it is probable such is really the case, yet the high waters of the present year have unearthed new mussel beds, and piles of freshly opened shells may be seen along the banks of the little stream. A few pearls of good quality have been found, and Mr. Harris, following his usual custom, has secured some of the best of these and placed them all immediately in a safety deposit vault in Cincinnati.

He often runs across curios that are outside of the regular line, and he has secured what could perhaps not be found in any other collection in this country. He has been prominently mentioned in nearly all the books on gems and the articles in newspapers and magazines on pearls that have been published in the last decade. Thus it was that a Scotchman, who has been nearly all over the world exploring rivers for whatever curiosities he might find and who is always anxious for new fields to look over, had his attention drawn to the Waynesville collection and visited him some months ago.

During a conversation between the two gentlemen it developed that the traveler had in his possession a quantity of what appeared to be pearls, but which were totally unlike anything heretofore classed with these valuables. Mr. Harris, ever on the alert for something new, immediately examined and gained possession of the entire lot, which he designated as "dead" pearls. They are identical, in his opinion, with those that were in an ancient catalogue made in 1749 by an Englishman, John Winthrop, F. R. S., classed as unripe pearls.

The real value of these dead pearls is very small, their worth lying only in their oddity and rarity. Many of them are of a dark brown or nearly dead black color, and they vary from these through the shades of lighter brown and very dull yellow, some of them having streaks and blotches of nearly pearly white. A very few of them have points that are almost brilliant, and these would make fairly good settings for studs or other ornaments. In shape they are most oddly at variance and difficult of description. One is a little larger than the short cross section of a common lead pencil and looks as if two small specimens of the pictured old fashioned beehive had been fastened together by their bases; another resembles a toy top and another a miniature walking stick. Some are cone shaped, some irregularly elongated, some banded by a raised section of a lighter hue, and some look as if they had been turned out by a lathe.—Cincinnati Tribune.

She Wasn't to Be Caught.

She—You look very disturbed.

He—I am. While I was on my way here I lost a valuable ring.

She—Good gracious! How did that happen?

He—I don't know. I put it in my pocket before I came out, and when I got here it was gone.

She—Was it a diamond?

He—Oh, yes; a solitaire, 3 1/2 carats, and a perfect stone in every way.

She—Oh, well, I wouldn't regret it! You may find it, you know. But if you don't there's no use crying over it.

He—That's true. But I needed that ring, and I may have a lot of trouble to replace it.

She (smiling)—Nonsense. If she is a sensible girl, she will tell you she can get on without it.

He—Do you really mean that?

She—Why, of course!

He—Then, darling, will you be mine? (Suddenly displaying the ring) I did not lose it. It was only to test you.

She (falling into his arms)—Yes, dear. (Aside) As if I didn't know what he kept his left hand in his pocket for.—Pearson's Weekly.
