REPORT OF SUBCOMITTEE.

Purchase of Land and the Expenditure of $80,000 for Buildings Made the Deficit Large.

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 14.-[Special.] cial.]-Walter Cavanagh, former cer gree than ever before.

Big Deficit Shows

It shows that there will be a deficit of about $350,000. The largest sum advanced by the state in any year heretofore was browned to the muscles were terrible strained but the muscles were terrible strained. $350,000. The largest sum advanced by the state in any year heretofore was $42,000. The reason for the unusual "anticipation" this year was the purchase of land for $75,000 and the expenditure of $80,000 for bulldings and the increase in the number of professors and instructors and increased pay for the old members of the faculty.

Unless some changes in the present laws are made the same old custom of borrowing from the state funds must be followed to keep the university going.

Showed that no bones had been broken, but the muscles were terribly strained by the awful ordeal.

FAITHFUL DOG SAVES

MAN FROM ANGRY BULL

David Pennisler, Aged Argyle Farmer,

followed to keep the university going. Text of the Report.

The report in full is as follows: To the Committee on Education: Your subcommittee to whom was referred at part of the governor's message relating chapter 320 of the laws of 1905 have lows:

Funds provided by the state for the support of the university become available in February. At the last session the Legislature, by chapter 320, provided for an increase of its income. The university fiscal year begins on July 1 and ends on June 30, and as the income from the general government, from student fees and from its invested funds are not sufficient to defray its expenses, until the income from the state becomes available, it has been necessary to provide some means for supplying the deficiency.

David Pennisler, aged 65, a farmer residing near Argyle, was badly wounded by an angry bull which attacked him while he was caring for his stock, and The enraged animal tossed the farmer about and his dog drove the animal away, being itself badly lacerated. The injuries are internal, and three ribs and an arm are fractured.

RAILWAY NOW IS A FACT.

To meet this condition chapter 320 of the laws of 1905, which is substantially the same as the provisions in former appropriation bills for the last twenty years, among other things contains the following provision:

other things contains the following provision:

"The commissioners of public lands may direct the state treasurer, from time to time, to set apart such sums by way of loan to the fund known as the university fund income for the university uses, from uninvested moneys in the trust funds for the period when so uninvested, as in their judgment shall be prudent, such loans to be repaid to the trust fund from the tax hereinbefore appropriated, with interest at the rate then required upon loans to school districts."

It has been customary for several years, under provisions similar in effect to the above, to make loans from the trust funds for this purpose, but as the demands upon the trust funds for the use of school districts, towns, etc., have been large, the amount of money available in the trust funds has not been sufficient to supply the leed, and the Legislature, for this reason, by chapter 468 of the laws of 1905, provided for this contingency and authorized advances to be made to the university out of the general fund.

Expenses Have Increased.

Under the law there has been advanced to the university up to the present time $302,000, which sum, it is estimated, will be increased to about $350,000 by February, 1906, at which time the university income becomes available, and at which time the advances will be repaid to the trust and general funds out of the university fund income. The reason that a larger sum of money has been advanced to the university this year than in former years is due largely to the fact that the university, anticipating its larger income, has expended $75,000 for additional land, and $80,000 for additions and preparations for additional buildings and equipment, and has also increased the number of its professors and instructors.

The largest sum advanced by the state heretofore, in any one year, was $42,000. Thus the university has anticipated its income to a greater extent than in any former year, but it should be borne in mind that its income will be greater than in any former year. It is estimated that by February, 1907, when the income becomes available, this $550,000 will have been reduced to about $250,000. In other words will have been reduced $100,000 as compared with February, 1906. The two-sevenths of a militax, together with the special appropriation of $200,000, both provided for by chapter 320, of the laws of 1905, it is estimated will provide enough money to pay for the permanent improvements above mentioned over and above the amount required for other purposes.

The university prepares a budget each Under the law there has been advanced and above the amount required for other purposes.

The university prepares a budget each year which provides for its various expenditures based upon its income for each fiscal year. According to the budget for the present year it is estimated that the present appropriations for the university are ample and will meet all expenses in maintaining the institution, and will leave a balance on hand for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1906.

It should be stated that after the end of ne 30, 1906. It should be stated that after the end of efficial year 1907, and before the income another year, as now provided by law, comes available, the university will have to anticipate its income and will again be obliged to borrow from either the trust or general fund or both to meet current expenses. Respectfully submitted,

THOMAS MORRIS.

Owing to sinister rumors as to the cause of death, the authorities had the bedy of a peasant exhumed, and were horrified to find the hands and feet nailed down to the coffin, while a long nail had also been driven through the heart. An inquiry was at once held, with the result that an old woman confessed that the act had been perpetrated under her directions. The man had died a sudden death, and, there being a superstition in Hungary that persons dying under such circumstances haunt the house in which they die, the further superstition has grown up that post-mortem reappearances can be prevented by nailing the body in its coffin. The old woman further admitted having done the same thing in all similar cases for many years.—London Globe.

The darkest days of husband and wife are when they come to look for-ward to childless and lonely old age. Many a wife has found herself incapable of motherhood owing to a dis-placement of the womb or lack of strength in the generative organs.

Frequent backache and distressing pains, accompanied by offensive dis-charges and generally by irregular and scanty menstruation indicate a displacement or nerve degeneration of the womb and surrounding organs.

The question that treubles women is how can a woman who has some female trouble bear healthy children?
Mrs. Anna Potts, of 510 Park Avenue,

Hot Springs, Ark., writes: Hot Springs, Ark., writes:

My Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"During the early part of my married life I was delicate in health; both my husband and I were very anxious for a child to bless our home, but I had two miscarriages, and could not carry a child to maturity. A neighbor who had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound adwised me to try it. I did so and soon felt that I was growing stronger, my headaches and backaches left me, I had no more bearing-down pains, and felt like a new woman. Within a year I became the mother of a strong, healthy child, the joy of our home. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is certainly a splendid remedy, and I wish every woman who wants to become a mother would try it."

MAUD MULLER'S NEW RAKE.

Haying now on the big ranches of the west is a very different proposition from what it was in the days when Maud Muller and her wooden rake caught the eye of the poet. During most of the summer the only harvesting done is with the teeth of the grazing cattle, but there arrive a time vented.

The sweep is a great strong rake with teeth from six to eight feet long carried on low wheels and running ahead of the team. By means of it the hay is fed to the stacker, which does the rest.

Everything is done as by clockwork. Everything is done as by clockwork. The lead mower lays out the land to suit the stackers, and in this way the entire crew is kept busy, the stacking immediately following the cutting. A seven-foot mower with three horses will cut from fifteen to twenty acres a day, and the whole haying outfit will stack seventy-five tons in that time. On the larger ranches several of these outfits are kept going at the same time for weeks.

are kept going at the same time for weeks.

Contrary to the experience of eastern farmers, hay put up the same day it is cut does not rot in the stack. The old idea of curing hay until dry has been proved wrong by a thousand tests on Nebraska ranches. The curing it gets in the windrow is all that it needs.

It must not be supposed, however, that the labor saving machinery has driven all the Maud Mullers out of the hay-raking business. On many ranches here in northwest Nebraska Maud Mullers in the dock. What is the action of the same in the dock what is he—a roue, a gambler, probably a drunkard?"

"And if your mother were living, what would she say to Lady Morland?"

"She would pity her from the depths of her heart. Yes, abingdon, you are right. My uncle's wife has chosen her own path. She must follow it, let it lead where it will. I will write to Messrs.

Concerning Dice Shaking.

A traveling man stepped up to the cigar stand in a Kansas City hotel the other day and offered to shake "Indian dice" for the cigars. The clerk procured the dice box and was about to throw first, when the man across the case stopped him.

"If you don't mind, I'd like to shake first," said the traveling man.

The clerk handed over the dice box and the other man shook and won.

"Now I'll tell you something," said the traveling man when he had received his free cigar. "The man who shakes first when Indian dice is the game has an advantage over his opponent. He throw his three dashes. The other fellow has only as many throws as the first shaker chooses to take. In throwing for the three horses the first shaker dictates the number of shakes twice. It has been figured out that the advantage amounts to about 17 per cent. I don't know that it is that much, but think it over and you'll see that the advantage is there."—Kansas City Times.

Good One on Mr. Undunn. Apropos of the movement for municipal ownership in a certain large city not a thousand miles from Chicago, an exceedingly laughable and amusing story is related, says the New York Mail. It seems that some friends of a certain high official in that city, whom we will call M——r Undunn, were in Washington the other day. While there they met an acquaintance, who said to them: met an acquaintance, who said to them:

Rows of Corn on a Cob.

George Hanson of this city is exhibiting an ear of corn grown on his farm that is attracting a great deal of attention, due to the fact that the ear has an odd number of rows of grain—twenty-three in all. Several of the oldest farmers in the neighborhood were skeptical of the story until they were shown the ear.

Cabby (holding up the carcass): "This is how I am insulted. What am I to do with it?"
Constable: "Surely you know what to do with it. Take it straight to Scotland Yard, and if it is not claimed within three months it becomes your property."
—Tit-Bits.

It is a pleasure to comment upon the conservative methods employed by the G. & C. Merriam company in the publication of the Webster's International dictionary. Not every little slang word or phrase is put into the book regardless of its scholastic or linguistic qualities. It is this conservatism backed by the scholarship of the editor-in-chief, William T. Harris, Ph. D., LL. D., United States commissioner of education, and hundreds of others of the greatest educators of this and other nations which has made the International a standard in the United States supreme court and in all the courts of the nation, as well as in colleges and public schools.

A Dead Cat on Him.

A London cabby, on looking into his cab to see that all was in perfect order, discovered a dead cat on one of the seats. In his anger and rage he was about to throw the careass into the street, when he espied a police-constable, and the following dialogue took place:—

Constable: "What are you up to, there?"

Cabby (holding up the
