Douglas Wins Sweeping Victory. LANCASTER. O., Feb. 22.—Charles H. Grosvenor, one of the most unique figures in the House of Representatives for twenty years, was ignominiously de-feated here for renomination. Albert Douglas of Chillicotte, a leading candidate for governor four years ago, was nominated on the first ballot. Grosvenor's own county, Athens, voted solidly for Douglas, and Grosvenor's name came near not being presented to the conven-

The names of all the counties had been called and the only person named was Douglas. After the roll call of counties a delegate arose and presented Grosve nor's name in the following words: "Through a misunderstanding on our part I desire to present the name of C. H. Grosvenor of Athens county."

Hiss Old Republican Name.

There was some hissing, followed by applause. Douglas' name was presented in a speech full of praise. Grosvenor's was announced without a word of eulogy. The convention went wild when Douglas was nominated, delegates tearing their clothes, trampling upon their hats, and creating a scene that resembled a madhouse Grosvenor had been killed politically forever. For twenty-two years Grosvenor has fought his opponents in his dis-trict, and for twenty-two years he has won. Once he was defeated. Powerful Figure in House. Grosvenor is one of the "big six" in ongress, and, despite his years is one of the most active men now serving in the House. Grosvenor's title of "Old Figgers" and his fame as a political prophet date back to 1896. He was one of the three men placed in charge of Mc Kinley's boom for president. When it became apparent last month that Grosvenor might be defeated for re-nomination the Republicans in Congress paid him the unprecedented tribute of signing unanimously a petition to the voters of the Eleventh district declaring that he was needed in Congress.

Illinois Representative Says President Is Responsible for Retiring System Which Causes Graft.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 22.-Severe criticism was indulged in in the House regarding the effect of the retirenent system of the war department. Mr. Prince (Ill.) opened the question and was asked many questions bringing out the fact that in three years sixty-two brigadier generals had been made who held that rank for a day and then retired. "These officers have one hand on the flag and the other in the treasury getting money they have not earned, "declared Mr. Prince.

When asked who was responsible he said the President was the only one having authority to make the promotions and the Senate confirmed his actions.

Nevada, Idaho and Utah ranked next. There was a decrease in number of manufacturing establishments, despite an increase in output and capital invested in a majority of the states, due, it is stated, to the consolidation of small enterprises.

The increase of production and capital invested in all the states runs from 20 to 200 per cent. in the five years. In Delaware alone there is a slight decrease of production, but increase in capital invested.

Foreign Commerce Grows.

The foreign commerce of the United States during the first seven months of the fiscal year 1906 amounted to $1.752,421,330, according to a bulletin is sued by the department of commerce and labor. This shows a considerable increase in both imports and exports, but more especially in exports, over the corresponding months of 1905. In the seven months ending with January, imports have increased $70,000,000 and exports have increased $155,000,000.

For the seven months ended with January provisions, including meat and dairy products, showed a total exportation of $134,000,000, against $108,000,000 for the same period last year.

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 22.-Secregation by the police has just disclosed tary of the Navy Bonaparte spoke at

Need Navy to Keep Our Rank. make and keep ourselves such a nation as Washington hoped and believed we should become to assure what he called the "rank due to these United States among nations," not as a matter of vanity, but as needful to our safety and our credit as at once the measure and the sanction of our national duty to man.

This is due largely to the German attitude that an adjustment eventually will be reached. The American delegates should become to assure what he called the "rank due to these United States among nations," not as a matter of vanity, but as needful to our safety and our credit as at once the measure and the sanction of our national duty to man.

This is due largely to the German attitude that an adjustment eventually will be reached. The navy needs what it ought to have, and, indeed, must have, to do its work and to do this well. In the first place, it needs a great deal of money, for modern warfare is already very expensive and grows more expensive daily. I may note here a few features of which a civilian can hardly appreciate the significance until he has been brought into personal contact with naval interests and naval problems.

Weak on Powder Stores.

Our present smokeless powder requires some six months after it is made to be really fit for use; a war must be well nigh fought out now, therefore, with the stock of powder on hand when it is declared. The tremendous energy of this same powder so affects the guns in which it is used that these soon cease to be trustworthy and must go into a sort of gun hospital for treatment. This fact is the more serious because in all navies practice has developed on a scale but lately unheard of, so that we use up our guns while teaching our men how to use them.

Moreover, a modern ship of war, and especially a battleship, has become an immense repository of the most varied, powerful, complicated and delicate machinery. Not only does this need constant attention and frequent repairs under the most favorable circumstances, but the progress of mechanical science is continually superseding parts of it with new devices which must be installed in our ships if these aro not to fall behind their possible adversaries.

Public Spirit Is Good. Weak on Powder Stores.

Public Spirit Is Good. Fublic Spirit is Good.

For all these reasons, and many more besides, an enlightened and patriotic public opinion will, I feel confident, sustain the legislative branch of our national government in a policy of discriminating and judicious liberality towards the navy. To give it a hundred millions when it will be crippled if it have not a hundred and ten would be rather a waste of the hundred than a saving of the ten.

The second great need of the navy is, to my mind, a thorough and unsparing, but fair and intelligent criticism.

PLAYS TUNES ON HIS TONSILS. Man with a Strange Gift Has a Whole Orchestra in His Throat.

Out in the southeast Seattle, where Franklin John Sator lives, he is known as "the man with the tuneful tonsils."

Something like the good old lady who had rings on her fingers and bells on her toes, Cator has violins and clarinets and things like that in his throat, and—he always has music wherever he goes.

Cator's ventriloquial gift, or affliction, whichever it is, has always been with him—that is, since he began to talk. Cator himself says it's an affliction. It once cost him his job, and in his kid period it nearly drove his parents to inquality. In the days of his youth it was his happy habit to send dear old father down into the back yard at midnight to look for noisy cats that were not there, or drive his mother frantic with unearthly wails for help from the cellar. Cator is a born ventriloquist, and in the thirty odd years of his life he has developed his natural powers to a truly wonderful extent. Not only does he throw his voice to any point within earchet hut with his line rightly closed, he as "the man with the tuneful tonsils." veloped his natural powers to a truly wonderful extent. Not only does he throw his voice to any point within earshot, but, with his lips tightly closed, he imitates with marvelous accuracy the tones of the violin, the blaze of the cornet, the shrill pipe of the clarinet, the boom of the bass horn and the fones of a half dozen other musical instruments. And, as with ordinary speech, he has the power to project these sounds where he will, losing none of their harmony or accuracy. A "band in his throat"—that's what the doctors and throat specialists call it, and they have told Cator that such an extraordinary arrangement of the vocal chords as is his is rare indeed. "It cost me my job once, and I tried to quit," said Mr. Cator a day or so ago. "I was a motorman in the employ of the 'Little Con' in Cleveland, and one night I was bowling along under a slow bell when the car hit something on the track and came to a stop. Just for fun I dropped my voice under the car. 'Take that car off my neck; you'll kill me, came from the wheels, and an old lady I hadn't noticed let out a real shriek and fainted dead away. The boys got to talking about it, and in a few days the 'super' got hold of the story. He called me in to the front office and told me I was too good to be working for the company, and he was going to give me a me I was too good to be working for the company, and he was going to give me a chance to get away and look for work with a sideshow. He gave it to me all right. "When I came out here I got a job on the cable cars, but I never put any more unfortunates under the wheels. Instead I used to make the wheels squeak. 'You got a hot box down there, a passenger said to me one night, and then I made the wheel play 'Dixie' for him, and he tumbled.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Eruptions Appeared on Chest, and Face and Neck Were All Broken

Out-Cured by Cuticura. "I had an eruption appear on my formed where the breaking out was. Instead of going to a physician, I pur chased a complete treatment of the Cuticura Remedies, in which I had great faith, and all was satisfactory. A year or two later the eruption appeared again, only a little lower; but before it had time to spread I procured another supply of the Cuticura Remedies, and continued their use until the cure was complete. It is now five years since the last attack, and have not seen any signs of a return. I have more faith in Cuticura Remedies for skin diseases than anything I know of, Emma E. Rescues Father and Brother from Icy Water, with Coat. Water, with Coat.

Walter Gibson of Woodbury and his son Philo, 13 years old, were saved from drowning at Waterbury, Conn., by the cool bravery of Gibson's daughter Rose, 8 years old. Gibson, coming home from wood-chopping, took a short cut across the reservo'r, the ice gave way, and, weighted down by a huge fur coat, he went down. Philo, running to his father's assistance, also broke through. The shouts of the two brought little The shouts of the two brought little Rose, who rushed toward the flounder-ing pair until she felt the ice cracking Trust to Nature.

A great many Americans, both men and women, are thin, pale and puny, with poor circulation, because they have ill-treated their stomachs by hasty eating poor circulation, because they have filtreated their stomachs by hasty eating or too much eating, by consuming alcoholic beverages, or by too close confinement to home, office or factory, and in consequence the stomach must be treated in a natural way before they can rectify their earlier mistakes. The muscles in many such people, in fact in every weary, thin and thin-blooded person, do their work with great difficulty. As a result fatigue comes early, is extreme and lasts long. The demand for nutritive aid is ahead of the supply. To insure perfect health every tissue, bone, nerve and muscle should take from the blood certain materials and return to it certain others. It is necessary to prepare the stomach for the work of taking up from the food what is necessary to make good, rich, red blood. We must go to Nature for the remedy. There were certain roots known to the Indians of this country before the advent of the whites which later came to the knowledge of the settlers and which are now growing rapidly in professional favor for the cure of obstinate stomach and liver troubles. These are found to be safe and yet certain in their cleansing and invigorating effect upon the stomach, liver and blood. These are: Golden Seal root, Queen's root, Stone root. Bloodroot. Mandrake root. Then there is Black Cherrybark. The medicinal principles residing in these native roots when extracted with glycerine as a solvent make the most reliable and edicient stomach tonic and liver invigorator, when combined in just the erine as a solvent make the most reliable and efficient stomach tonic and liver invigorator, when combined in just the right proportions, as in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Where there is bankrupt vitality—such as nervous exhaustion, bad nutrition—and thin blood, the body acquires vigor and the nerves, blood and all the tissues feel the favorable effect of this sovereign remedy. Although some physicians have been aware of the high medicianal value of the above mentioned plants, yet few have used pure glycerine as a solvent and usually the doctors' prescriptions called for the ingredients in varying amounts, with alcohol.

Consumption

There is no specific for consumption. Fresh air, exercise, nourishing food and Scott's Emulsion will come pretty near curing it, if there is anything to build on. Millions of people throughout the world are living and in good health on one lung.

I From time immemorial the doctors prescribed cod liver oil for consumption. Of course the patient could not take it in its old form, hence it did very little good. They can take and tolerate it for to song time. There is no oil, not excepting butter, so easily digested and absorbed by the system as cod liver oil in the form of Scott's Engineen, and that is the reason at as so helpful in consumption where its use must be continuous.

A Sturdy Young Prince.

Little Prince Edward of Wales is already showing a delightful sturdiness of character. He has a profound dislike for arithmetic, and shares the opinion for arithmetic, and shares the opinion of the bard who laid down the axiom, "Multiplication is vexation." Many times has the future king of England been "put in the corner" owing to this; and recently, when he saw the hated preparation of slates and arithmetic books being made to start the day's lessons, he arose from the table with a sigh for the impending inevitable catastrophe, and said quietly to his tutor: "I don't think I'll do 'rithmetic today; I think I'll go into the corner again inthink I'll go into the corner again in-stead, if you don't mind;" and marched away like a soldier under arrest leaving a very bewildered tutor in the rear.
