EDUCATION JOINS NATIONS

AMBASSADOR VON STERNBURG CREDITS GOOD FEELING BE-TWEEN GERMANY AND U. S.

ances with those of Kang-Hi, the Chinese ruler and philosopher who lived many years ago.

The address was as follows in part:

The address was as follows in part:

With each succeeding year my interest in my work in Washington in behalf of a closer understanding between our two peoples tends to increase, and the recurrence of this annual anniversary brings before me the great work American and German universities have accomplished in developing this understanding.

The spiritual bonds between our two nations, especially during the last thirty years, have been a powerful factor. The increase in the number of men of university training in the United States and in Germany during this period has been pointed out as one of the most remarkable facts of our epoch. Higher education has adjusted itself to the needs of our modern life and the demand for university education is more earned.

mand for university education is more earnest in both countries than anywhere else, and has become far more general. Scientific Spirit Prevails.

Scientific Spirit Prevails.

In Germany the scientific spirit has penetrated into every branch of business, into every factory. It has become a frequent saying that the German university professor is the father of modern German industry. This is true to the word. He has harnessed science to industry.

In visiting your plants and factories and studying your industrial enterprises in other countries, I have been struck by the role American college men are now playing in this field. You see a gang of workmen and notice a man who is its brain—this man is sure to be a "college chap." The provision made by leading manufacturing concerns for receiving college graduates as "student apprentices" is the clearest indication of the change of feeling. was especially struck by the number of college graduates employed in your great electrical works. We are approaching the time when no rail way repair or locomotive shop can work without university men.

Another great step forward in our modern.

Americans Are Not Narrow.

It has frequently struck me, in listening to impressions received in American by foreign travclers, that the American in his deepest nature is a realist who strives for power and wealth and outer comfort; that the object of his life is to pile up the mighty dollar. People who speak thus seem to me blind to everything which lies below the surface. They seem to have studied the mills and factories of your industrial centers and to have neglected to read or understand the character of the American man or woman. How could it be otherwise that a people who have produced such men as Emerson and Lincoln, should not be unselfish, helpful and enthuslastic for ideal values, that they should not be followers in the paths of their forefathers and be conservative? Ask any outsider to name the two most sincere representatives of true Americanism. If he knows the American people he will tell you Lincoln and Emerson.

During the time of Kang-lii in Chica Americans Are Not Narrow.

UNIVERSITY AN EXAMPLE.

President Roosevelt's Utterances Found Similar to Those of Historic Chinese Ruler, Kang-Hi.

URBANA, Ill., June 13.—Ambassador Speck von Sternburg of Germany, addressing the graduates of Illinois university has this is largely the result of progress made in university education.

Baron von Sternberg said that there is an increased good feeling between Germany and the United States, and that this is largely the result of progress made in university education.

Baron von Sternberg said the success of universities is largely due to establishments of commerce and financial courses such as Wisconsin university has. He declared that the impression that the American is a realist, and after the dollar all of the time, is erroneous.

A significant statement was his comparison of President Roosevelt's utterances with those of Kang-Hi, the Chinese ruler and philosopher who lived many years ago. Maxims for the Scholar.

RUMOR BLAMES "DEVIL BOX."

Vessel Had Arrived from Philadelphia and Passengers Were Unloaded Before the Crash.

We are approaching the time when no railway repair or locomotive shop can work without university men.

Another great step forward in our modern education, is the establishment of systematic university courses in commerce and finance, like you possess for instance, in illinois, Wisconsin and other places, and like Germany possesses in her high school of commerce. (Handelshochschule) and Lelpsic. What a grand and enviable opening you have before you, graduates. Look how science is developing the vast possibilities of the west and what boundless problems she is offering you here. Let science, for instance, thoroughly harness the waters of the west, that are still running to waste, and save aud use them for irrigation, and place irrigated agriculture to the front. Could this not turn your wide, semi-arid and undeveloped tracts into homes for a population larger than America holds today?

Terrific Crash Follows.

Suddenly a most violent explosion occurred. It blew off the hatches, rent the docks and hurled dead and wounded men all directions. Several bodies were dismembered and the deck resembled the floor of a charnel house. The explosion, was according to rumor caused by an internal machine, was followed by an outbreak of fire. The cargo, consisting of linseed oil cake, in hold No. 2 and hold No. 3, was soon blazing fiercely.

Firemen and police hurried to the spot and the injured were quickly taken to a neighboring hospital, while the work of transplance in the proposed with vigor, in spite of the ferceness of the fire, which soon assumed alarming proportions, owing to the inflammable nature of the cargo. After alarming proportions, owing to the in-flammable nature of the cargo. After two hours' hard fight, however, the fire-men obtained the mastery of the flames.

Many Others May Die. It is believed that a number of men taken to the hospital will succumb to their injuries. The cause of the disaster has not been fully ascertained.

Later it was said that the disaster on board the Haverford was apparently caused by the explosion of a barrel of naphtha.

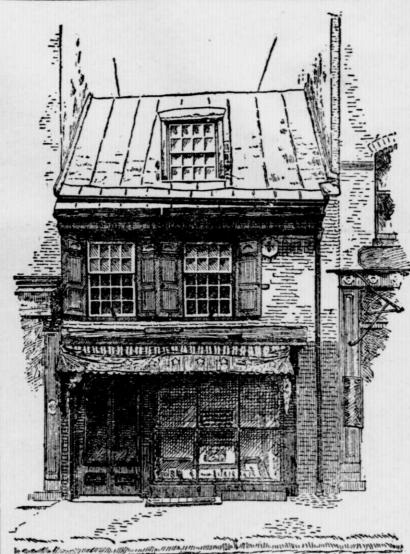

The report that the explosion on the

The report that the explosion on the Haverford was due to an infernal machine arose from the finding of a wooden box a foot square in one of the holds. This box, which was only partly shattered, still contained pieces of steel machinery. It was prominently marked "For Manchester, England."

THE BETSY ROSS HOUSE.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 14.—
Probably in no other city of the country is "Flag day" so generally observed as in Philadelphia and, quite naturally, for it was in this city that the flag was given birth. Congress, assembled at Independence hall 129 years ago, resolved. "That the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing the new constellation."

At the beginning of the Revolutionary war, and with the formal repudiation of the flag of St. George and the Union Jack of England, there was no American flag under which the impending battles were to be fought. There were conglomerate colonial flags, and here and there a private banner of some great landed proprietor, but an recognized American flag.

There was no little worriment over this far the colors and addresses appropriating a little work of Betsy Ross house, 239 Arch street, the Prohibition candidate for lieutenant governor in Pennsylvania. The committee on platform was composed of the flolowing:

Other officers elected today are as follows:

amicably settled between Mr. Sands and the insyrance company, and in due course the shop was reopened. Everything in the place was brand new, and therefore it was only natural that he should want a brand-new errand boy. Betimes a beaming youth applied.

"Now, what I want," said the tradesman impressively, "is a lad upon whom I can rely—in whom I can place implicit faith. You understand?"

"You'll find I'm all that, and more," follows:

Junior vice president, Mrs. Francis Rood of Peshtigo; treasurer, Harriet I. Purcell, Beloit; chaplain, Helen Grim, Hartford.

The retiring president, Miss Fannie McAllister of Omro was elected chairman of the executive board.

The Ladies of the Grand Army elected Mrs. Martha Showaiter of Lancaster. "You'll find I'm all that, and more," said the youth.

Various reasons are assigned by those most directly interested—the house agents—for the migration of people from one of its chief centers, Lancaster gate. One has only to take a stroll through that district of stone palaces to see that it seems to have lost favor with not a few of its former inhabitants, for in every direction one is confronted with the familiar black and white sign of the house agent appealing for new tenants.

As Separate Cities.

No large city in the world has so many islands within its municipal boundaries as New York. Some of these islands are mere dots. Others are large enough to have almost the dimensions of cities.

Governor's island, with an area of seventy acres, is the property of the federal government and is assessed at $5,600,000 by the city, which is $80,000 an acre, and as land values go within New York that figure is low.

the familiar black and white sign of the house agent appealing for new tenants.

The number of those vacant palatial residences is increasing surprisingly, and this fact is having a depressing effect upon the Maida Vale and Paddington rates. The loss last year to Maida Vale rates was no less than £7037, and in Paddington £4971.

It was learned from house and estate agents that the causes of this desertion of the large houses are various. One well known agent attributed it to the increasing popularity of flats, to the servant difficulty and to the general spirit of economy which had been prevalent since the end of the war in all classes.

Regarding the first, he said that London now possessed magnificent suites of the light of the borough of Richmond is an island, an island. don now possessed magnificent suites of flats, the rents of which ran up nearly to £1000. They were elegantly fitted to £1000. They were elegantly fitted, and required far less domestic help than the large house. There was no dearth of tenants for houses renting at £100 a year; in fact, for each house of this kind

As for the servant question, many ladies had told him that "the more servants the less comfort." Many large houses had been almost reconstructed internally to meet the requirements and convenience of the modern servants, but all in vain; they would not stay in spite of enormously increased wages.—London Daily Mail.
