State to Get Out the Vote.

The purpose of the bill is to have the department and had a half hour's talk state get out the vote instead of the powith Mr. Root. Beyond admitting that litical bosses. It is proposed by City he discussed the test case to be brought Attorney Paul W. Mahoney, for sevin the courts of San Francisco he would eral years chairman of one of the county committees, who says in regard to it: committees, who says in regard to it:

The bill is intended to affect the stay-athome voter. A similar measure was latroduced in the Assembly in 1903 by Assemblyman Ray of La Crosse county, and in the Senate by Senator Morris at the session of 1905, and, as I understand it from both these gentlemen, met with considerable ravorable comment and no particular opposition.

For several years I had been chairman of one of the county committees of this county and I found that the most difficult task that devolved upon pointical committees was to get the voter registered and to get out a full vote. To overcome this I conceived the idea that if a poll tax was levised upon all of the voters with certain exceptions and then except the family for there years, and then except the second of the family for there years, and actually engaged in the negotiation of a new treaty with Japan which will spe-cifically admit the people of that nation to the same rights of education as are granted to European aliens, no more and no less. If it be true that such a treaty is being negotiated it will never get farno less. If it be true that such a treaty is being negotiated, it will never get farther than the inside of the Senate.

In the San Francisco case there is the great general principle to be decided as to whether an alien can acquire rights by means of a treaty which he would not have if the treaty did not exist, and whether the United States by means of a treaty can compel a state to adapt its local laws to international requirements.

The position of Secretary Root is that where a treaty is concerned the limitations of the constitution as to the power of the federal government do not operate. In the San Francisco case therefore the government is compelled at the outset to establish its authority over that of the state.

Jenkins Discusses Case. idea that if a poll tax was levied upon all of the voters with certain exceptions and then exempt them if they had voted, that would do the business. The constitutionality of this bill, I do not timik, can be questioned. The law is similar to one we now have on our statute with the exception that we add to the excepted list those who have voted at the last general and municipal elections. In section 1240 of the statutes of 1898 various classes are excepted from paying poll tax and I can see no constitutional objection to adding additional classes. Section 1240 has been sustained by the supreme court.

Makes These Admissions.

Make Voters Do Their Duty. Make Voters Do Their Duty.

The merits of this bill consist in its ability to get all of the voters of the state to east their ballot without the great expense to which candidates and political committees are put to induce them to do their duty. I might say that two-thirds of the expenses of elections are caused by efforts made to get out the vote. In the first place the wards and districts have to be canvassed. In the next place teams have to be hired on election day and innumerable party agents and ward workers must be sired to chase the voters in. If this bill is passed every voter will see to getting out on election day and without any effort on the part of the political committees. The parties then can devote their attention to educating the voter and presenting their claims for recognition. It also appears to use that if every man knew he had to vote he would study the questions more intelligently.

This bill will probably be presented by Representative Jenkins of Wisconsin, chairman of the House committee on judiciary, made the following statement on the Japanese question:
"Primarily, it might be said that the entire school question is under the control of the state by virtue of the police was interfered with trol of the state by virtue of the police power, unless interfered with by treaty. Unquestionably a treaty can be made covering and including the question. There is no sense of justification in talk-ing of war. All the facts are not before the public. The people can implicitly trust President Roosevelt."

One of the main reasons for the fight is that Japanese of mature age attended San Francisco primary schools.

The clear, firm and determined attitude of President Roosevelt in his message to the San Francisco anti-Japanese question is warmly praised in Japan. Picturesque India. But perhaps the most picturesque thing which I have ever seen in India, using the word in the sense of something which remains as a picture in the mind's eye, is the far-famed Cave of Amarnath, which is hidden far away among the glaciers of holy Himalaya. I had heard so much about it; for two days as we journeyed toward it I had met on their backward way the pilgrims returning from it way the pilgrims returning from it.

Aye! and half buried in a snowdrift here and there I had seen those who had fallen by the way, dead of exposure, cold, starvation; for the season of pilgrimage was nigh over, and hasty winter, in these high altitudes of 16,000 and odd.

FILLING UP THE CANADIAN WEST The American Settler' Is Welcomed to Canada. A number of the leading newspapers on this side of the line have been noticing the growth of the Canadian West in recent years, and draw attention to the fact that there seems to be no abatement of the influx of settlers to that great grain-growing country. The Buffalo Express thus refers to the subject: "Canada West continues to grow. There were 4,174 homesteads entries there in July of this year, as against 3,571 in July, 1905. Canada plumes herself over this fact with becoming pride. But what appears to make our neighbors happiest is the statement that of these 4,174 homesteaders, 1,212 were from this side of the line. Little is said about the 97 Canadians who recrossed the border to take up homes in Canada West, of of the 808 from Great Britain, or of the 1,236 from non-British countries. It appears that the item in this July report that makes Canada rejoice most is this of the 1,212 American farmers who decided to try their fortunes in Canada West.

"The compliment is deserved. The 1,212 were mostly from Dakota and other farming States, and go into Canada fitted better than any other class of immigrants for developing the new country. They take capital with them, too, say Canadian papers proudly. In every way they are welcome over

As the Express well says, the American is welcomed to Canada, and the reasons given are sufficient to invite the welcome. The American farmer knows thoroughly the farming conditions that prevail in the Canadian prairie provinces, and is aware of every phase of agricultural development in recent years. In practical knowledge of what is wanted to get the largest return for labor and investment he is by long odds superior to any European settler. He knows what is required to bring success, and he is able and willing to do it, and his future causes no apprehension to the successful Cana-

The agent of the Canadian Government, whose address appears elsewhere, says that the difference between the manners and customs of the farmer from Dakota, Oregon or Minnesota and the farmer from Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta is not nearly so marked as that between the farmer of the Maritime provinces and the Untarlo tiller of the soil. Hence the welcome to the free homesteads of the Canadian West (and there are hundreds of thousands of them left) that is extended to the settler from the

"So they say. I should have tried it to make a long year, if ever again, and Geoff told me this morning that the ice on the Grange pond was promptly recognized. All doors were thrown open at the words "Je suis John Burns," every courtesy was shown blink. When would they meet again? Perhaps never—certainly not for many, many years.

The hot tears rushed into Sadie's eyes at the thought. It seemed as if she had never before realized what the parting meant to her, nor how sorely she would miss him. True, there was Geoffrey, but Geoffrey was different, of course; she was very fond of him, but she had only known him a few months, while Jim had Julia gave a short, angry laugh, and another anxious glance at the mirror; then she smiled complacently again.

"Oh, you are in 'the blues,' Sadie, and disposed to take a gloomy view of everything," she said carelessly. "You wouldn't see any beauty in Venus herself tonight."

"I dare say you are right; I am so made with myself for giving in to Geoffrey's nonsense that I dare say I do look at everything with jaundiced eyes," Sadie amswered dismally. "I never wanted to go to the ball so much as I do tonight. I think it was downright mean and selfish in Geoff to wish me to stay at home just because he couldn't be present himself."

"Poor Geoff! He would never have thought of going without you."

"That is quite a different matter. Geoff doesn't like dancing, and, what is more, he can't dance. He is always treading on his partner's toes or getting out of step, or doing something objection."

Presently the carriage drove away and Sadie was alone. She stood for a moment at the door, looking down the street, watching the cabs and carriages drive rapidly past—all in one direction—and envied the fortunate occupants. Then with a shiver she closed the door and turned away.

Has Joined Arrack, Canary Wine, Malmsey, Sack and Small Beer. Weiss beer, once a popular drink in New York, especially among the Plattdeutsch population, has almost entirely disappeared. Here and there in a German neighborhood may be found a saloon which keeps weiss beer on sale, but those who call for it are less numerous veloped through the process of manufacture, welse beer is astringent and it has long been a theory that it is non-intoxicating except when taken in very large quantities. Welss beer has been known to have a sobering effect, and for that reason has been called Montag beer, or Monday beer, being a favorite beverage with those Germans who devoted a Sunday to merrymaking. Among Americans weiss beer, thin, bitter, acrid, pale, non-stimulating and watery, has had very little popularity at any time. Unlike lager beer, it never became naturalized in the United States.—New York Sun.

DISFIGURING SKIN HUMOR.

Impossible to Get Employment, as Face and Body Were Covered with Sores-Cured by Cuticura. "Since the year 1894 I have been answered with rather forced gaiety, for troubled with a very bad case of eczema which I have spent hundreds of dollars trying to cure, and I went to the hospital, but they failed to cure me, and it was getting worse all the dreaded for so long was practically over, heard your whistle. But—why are you for this is the last night we shall ever the last nigh pleased to say that I am now completely cured and well. It was impossible for me to get employment, as my face, head and body were covered with it. The eczema first appeared on the top of my head, and it had worked all the way around down the back of my neck and around to my throat, down my body and around the hips. It itched so I would be obliged to scratch it, and the flesh was raw. I am now all well, and I will be pleased to recommend the Cuticura Remedies to all persons who wish a speedy and permalover to frown on their innocent friend- nent cure of skin diseases. Thomas M. Rossiter, 290 Prospect Street, East

Orange, N. J. Mar. 30, 1905."

An Aroostook farmer recently approached two Indians from the Passamaquoddy reservation desiring to hire them to pick potatoes, offering $2.50 a them to pick potatoes, offering $2.50 a day and board.

One of the Indians asked the farmer if he had an organ in the house, and being answered in the negative told the farmer they would not work for him, as they would want to work for some one having a musical instrument so they could practice evenings.—Lewiston Journal.

Webster's Dictionary. It is the conservatism backed by the scholarship of the editor-in-chief, Willlam T. Harris, Ph. D., LL.
