Big Game Birds.

The capercaille, or "black game bird of Norway," is one of the largest species of game birds in the world, being very hardy and frequently attaining a weight exceeding fifteen pounds, but when the birds are young they are easy prey for hawks. The birds are what are known as "rangers" for the reason that while in quest of food they cover a wide expanse of territory. During periods of heavy snowfall they burrow into the snow and remain until the storm subsides before venturing out again. Their food in winter consists chiefly of birch buds, and in summer they catch mice and other small animals. They are rated as members of the grouse family and in habits are much like the partridge.—Forest and Stream.

Patti's First Audience.

Adelina Patti once gave the following account of her first audience: At six years of age I was a prima donna of the name. When I had been put to bed on my return home with my father and mother from the opera I used to make sure that they and the rest of the family were asleep, and then I would hop out from beneath the counterpane and fancy myself a great contralto, bowing before the plaintiffs of a huge audience. I admit my audience was a little apathetic, but, after all, that is not to be wondered at, for they were only a row of dolls which I had ranged on chairs before me.

In Doubt.

On a famous rifle range there was an important test made one day, and the men were firing in pairs, one for each team, side by side. The best shot on the home team was given to aiming so long that bets were made on whether or not he had gone to sleep at the firing point. Presently he drew his head from the stock of his rifle, lowered the barrel and asked his opponent in a low voice: "Did I fire or did you?"—Forest and Stream.

The Machine that Does it Right.

The great utility of this machine consists in the saving of time, labor and expense, and set forth the following advantages over the old way of setting tires: No tires are taken off. No bolts are taken out and thrown away. Any degree of discan can be put in the wheel. Four tires can be set in one-half hour's time. No turning or marring of felloe. No spilling of wheels by setting the tires too short. It does far more work than can be done by taking the tire off. No boring of the felloe for new bolt holes.

Kewaskum, Wis.

What shall it be?

That's the question that is asked over and over again when there is a present to be chosen for a bride.

Most people agree that it should come from a jewelry store—because somehow jewelry and presents are always associated.

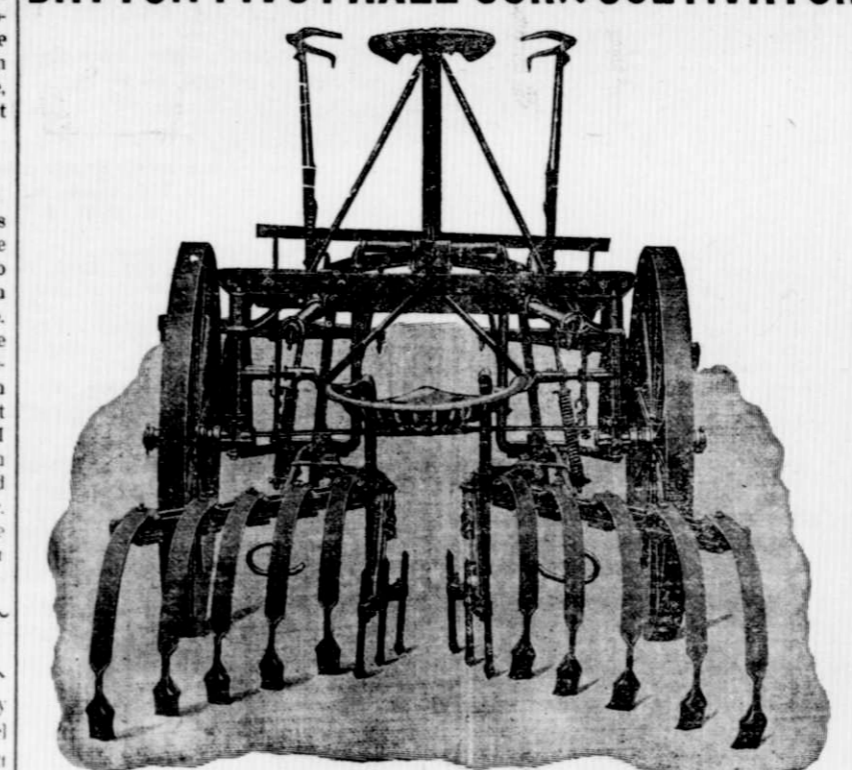

If those interested only knew it, we could relieve them of their uncertainty in a minute.

Our stock furnishes the hints. It reveals in a minute more appropriate presents than anyone could sit at home and recall in a whole day.

So we invite buyers of presents, and we promise to make their choosing easy and their choice satisfactory.
