The bride wore a very pretty gown of white silk trimmed with lace and carried brides' roses. Her hat was of white brids' roses. Her train was of white silk trimmed with ostrich plumes. Miss Christina Browne, as bridesmaid, wore a suit of pale blue and carried pink carnations, while Misses Mary Bowen and Edith Browne, wearing white embroidered dresses and carrying pink carnations, acted as flower girls. Pat. Murphy, brother of the groom, acted as best man. Promptly at 8:30 o'clock the bridal party entered the church and marched up the aisle to the strains of a wedding march played by Miss Rose Skelton. They were met at the altar by Rev. George Hensler, who was waiting to pronounce the words that were to make the twin one. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents to which only relatives were invited. Mr. and Mrs. Murphy will reside in Eden where the groom holds a responsible position. Miss Browne was one of our most efficient teachers and will be sadly missed here by her many friends. Mr. Murphy also has many friends here who congratulate him on having won so fair a bride.

Vermont's Two Seasons.

One winter when Thaddeus Stevens had come back to his Vermont home he was the victim of a severe cold and could not leave the house for many weeks. One of his callers was Lewis Clark, a man of short stature, who in earlier days had been a playmate of the "Old Commoner" and was a neighbor of the Stevens family in their Peacham home. Vermonters had just begun to wear buffalo coats, and Mr. Clark arrived at the Stevens home almost lost in a coat which reached to the ground. His untoward condition completely covered his eyes and face, while a fur cap completed the disguise.

"Is that you, Lew?" asked Mr. Stevens in an incredulous tone.

"Yes, Thad," he replied.

"Well, skin yourself and sit down," exclaimed the other.

During the interesting conversation which followed Mr. Clark asked Stevens if he wouldn't come back to his Vermont home and live.

"No," replied Stevens. "You have but two seasons here—winter and late in the fall."—Harper's Weekly.

The Crocodile's Strong Jaw. Sir Samuel Baker in his "Wild Beasts" says that the strong jaw of the crocodile is terrific. Once he had the metal of a large hook, the thickness of ordinary telegraph wire, completely bent together, the barbed point being pressed tightly against the slank and rendered useless. This compression was caused by the snap of the jaws when seizing a live duck which he had used as a bait, the hook being fastened beneath one wing. On one occasion he found a fish weighing seventy pounds bitten clean through as if divided by a knife. This, again, was the work of a snap from the jaws of a crocodile. Mr. Baker once made experiments on the strength of a crocodile's jaws by means of a dynamometer. He found that a crocodile weighing 120 pounds exerted a force of 208 pounds in closing his jaw. The lion has an enormous jaw power. On one occasion an African traveler pushed the butt end of his gun into a lion's mouth, and the pressure of the jaws cracked it as though it had been struck by a steam hammer.

Hog and Boiled Turkey. "The hog," said a Baltimore judge, "is the greatest animal in the world. Every part of him has a different flavor, and each flavor is better than that of any other animal in the world."

"Better than a terrapin?"

"I don't call a terrapin an animal. The terrapin is a creation. But, to return to the hog, all of him is good, from his tail to his front feet. China is a great dish, but it doesn't compare with jowl and turnip tops in the spring, and that is a boiled hen turkey. No body but a Yankee or a heathen would roast a hen turkey in the spring. Hen turkeys are fat before they lay, and the flavor is delicious. Properly cooked and served, such a dish is fit for kings, and nations have gone to war for less cause."—Baltimore News.

An Anatomical Puzzle. Behind the bridge of your nose is a little cavity in the skull, the origin of which appears to be unknown. It probably was a gland, consisting of two tiny lobes. Joined together, and is named the Sella turcica. Physiologists believe that this is the remains of a sixth sense, which was of practical value to our ancestors, but whether it enabled them to see in the dark in days before they possessed fire or helped them to find their way through trackless forests as wild beasts can today or what other purpose it may have served we do not know and probably never shall know.

The Prize Cow. Take for yourself a well bred cow, get her on full feed, cram and feed and stuff and cream her for, say, a year. Go to the trouble of washing and currying and scrubbing and combing her twice a day, get down on your hunkers, my friend, sandpaper her hoofs, groom her legs, polish her horns and wash her face with the finest snow cream around you should have a very creditable looking show cow.—Sheridan (Mo.) Advance.

They Didn't Talk. "That society newspaper published some very flattering remarks about me," began Miss Devane.

"Yes," replied her best friend; "but it was horrid of the editor to go and spoil it in the way he did."

"Spoil it, indeed! Why, he said I was a beautiful belle of the younger set and—"

"Yes, and then he put your photograph right under it!"

A Different Paley. Miss Backbay—You are familiar, in a general way, with paleontology, are you not? Mr. Carondelet—No, I don't remember that I ever happened across it. But I once read Paley on "Evidences of Christianity," or something like that, when I was a boy, and I found it awful heavy reading.—Chicago Tribune.

The Alternative. Muggins—I hear you are having your daughter's voice cultivated. Buggins—Yes; I'm afraid it can't be cured, so I am doing the next best thing.—Philadelphia Record.

His Usual Way. She—It's funny, but all the time I have known Mr. Tigg he never has paid me a compliment. He—Tigg never pays anybody.

Can't Jolly 'Em Always. It is easy to entice a woman that you love her, but it is not so easy to live up to it for a lifetime.—New Zealand Graphic.

Glasses and the Eyes. Every one knows that in using a field glass it is necessary to adjust it to a proper focus. Suppose that you put one of the tubes at your focus and the other tube at a focus that suited some one else and then you looked through both tubes. You would have a more or less blurred vision, and if you kept on looking the chances are that you would feel giddy and get a headache. Now, the two eyes are supposed to have an equal natural focus, and when by any chance that focus is unequal a headache results. The remedy is a pair of glasses or a single glass to make the eyes equal in power.

The Dances. The Dances, or Northmen, first became prominent in European history in 782, when they began to ravage the north coast of France and southern shores of Great Britain. The dancing of these hardy seamen was remarkable, for in their small ships they even penetrated the Mediterranean and became terrorists to the seaboard population of Italy, Sicily and Greece. The first king of Denmark is said to have been Skjold, 60 B. C.

All It Needed.

"I made this potato salad for you yourself," smiled she. "Isn't it delicious?"

"It would be," assented her husband, "if you had put a little more oil and vinegar and pepper and mustard seed and horseradish in the dressing and introduced a sliced egg or two and a few white onions and left half of the potatoes out."

Tolerance in Japan. Westerners seem to find it inconceivable how the Japanese can bring their allegiance to different creeds at one and the same time. One broad explanation of this is that we as a nation are tolerant in mind, especially in matters pertaining to religion.—Japan Times of Tokyo.

The Wrong Jam. Haskell—What's Bobby crying for? Mrs. Haskell—Oh, the poor boy caught his finger in the pantry door. Haskell—H'm! He evidently didn't get the jam he was looking for that time.—Pick-Me-Up.

Getting Back at Him. Hewitt—I got even with the doctor yesterday. Jewett—How did you do it? Hewitt—He ran for office, and I scratched him.

Flattery is telling a man to his face that which was intended only for his tombstone.—Dallas News.

Have Your Tires Re-Set

A. A. PERSCHBACHER'S Blacksmith Shop

Gold-Set Tire Setter. The Machine that Does it Right.

The great utility of this machine consists in the saving of time, labor and expense, and we set forth the following advantages over the old way of setting tires: No tires are taken off, no bolts are taken out and thrown away. Any degree of dish can be put in the wheel. Four tires can be set in one-half hour's time. No burning or marring of fellos. No spooling of wheels by holding the tire too short. It does far more work than can be done by taking the tire off. No boring of the fellos for new bolt holes.
