Why Not Both? It is absolutely true that the British public goes to the theater to be amused, not to be instructed. It considers that it pays its money to be amused, and it seldomly presents the presence of any powder in the drama. It is when this attitude changes that the great renaissance of the British drama will arrive.—London Daily Graphic.

The Crop in the West.

(By William Henry Forber.)

The crop in the states of Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa, Minnesota and the Dakotas is certainly a bumper for the farmers who do good farming. I mean professional farmers. Wheat is good in Kansas and oats are at a great yield. I saw new oats sell at $5.00 per bushel at Sioux Falls, S. D., this week. It has been a great prospect for a big corn crop up to the present time. Corn looks fine now, and if it is not spoiled by hot winds, there will be an abundant yield. Old corn is scarce. I have seen less than 10,000 bushel in the cribs, while two years ago I saw housed in the cribs in the same localities more than a million bushel. I have seen only one load of corn on the market during the month of July, and corn is 70 cents. Red clover is being more extensively raised now than formerly. Five years ago I saw less than 500 acres of clover in Nebraska. Now it is a very extensive crop. Alfalfa is also extensively raised in Iowa and Minnesota at the present time, although it does not find the same favor as does red clover. In the arid regions of Kansas and Nebraska alfalfa has been successfully grown where all other crops resulted in partial or entire failures on account of the periodical drouths. The first crop of alfalfa was almost a failure this year in Nebraska on account of the rains, for that state certainly was drouned out in the lowlands this year. William Jennings Bryan certainly knows how to raise great alfalfa, but his second crop will be a part failure because curious visitors have trampled own a lot of the best of the field during the early part of July. Even I was one of the trespassers upon Mr. Bryan's alfalfa patch. The original prairie hay will soon be a thing of the past upon the hay market. First because the yield per acre is decreasing each year, and second because other crops pay better. But the original prairie hay was and still is the ideal hay. No dust, no waste, and no heaves for the horses. Like the pony grass of the Wisconsin woods, it will soon be extinct.

Weeds are becoming more numerous each year in the western states. Five years ago there were scarcely any Canada thistles west of the Mississippi River. Now there are frequent patches of purple blossoms seen in the fields, and unless checked they will become as numerous as they now are in Illinois and Wisconsin. Around Elgin, Rockford and Aurora they no longer raise grain with thistles in it, but they raise thistles with a little grain mixed in. I predict that this condition will soon prevail in Wisconsin and Iowa and other states as well, if combative measures are not resorted to. The cockle-burr has already put many acres of good land in the undesirable class. The iron weed has overrun thousands of acres. In many localities the milkweed has claimed the farms, while in other localities the nettles hold its sway over the soil. Sunflowers are beautiful in the garden, but when they crowd out all other crops as they do in the southwest they are a weed—a nuisance. A geranium is a plant in the garden, but a weed in the cornfield. In Wisconsin the dragon's head infringes upon the crops of the farmer and its yellow blossoms are nauseating to the eye. But here in the Missouri valley it is grown in the flower gardens. Flax is the first crop for the new farm when the virgin prairie is broken up, but as flax is hard on the soil, it is not sown after a year or two, hence the decrease in acreage. Buckwheat is also being raised less and less each year, as it is a hazardous crop and cannot be handled with the improved farm machinery, hence its acreage is rapidly decreasing and will soon become scarce. It may seem queer that timothy does not thrive all over the world. I have never seen any west of the Rocky mountains, and in the southwest it does not thrive very well. More seed is raised in Iowa than in any other state.

Hal Ha! Laughed Pat. English John, and Pat, were two friendly workmen who were constantly tilting, each one trying to outwit the other. "Are you good at measurements?" asked John. "I decorated," said Pat quickly. "Then could you tell me how many shirts I could get out of a yard?" asked John. "Sure," said Pat. "It depends on whose yard you got into."

Attractions of Flowers. A flower has an almost human way of first attracting insects. This is by appealing to their fondness for sweet things. There is secreted in every flower a store of honey, large or small, as the case may be, to which the midge, the butterfly, the bee, the blue bottle fly and other insects are attracted.

Odd Wedding Gift. One of the newest things in the way of a wedding present is a set of push buttons for every room in the house. They were of beaten gold and jade, and ones for the light decorated with combs and dark ones for the heavier decorations. This is a new idea, but some one has suggested gold keys as even newer.

THE U.S. CREAM SEPARATOR. Skims the Most Cream from the Milk, because its bowl (where the skimming is done) is really three bowls in one. This feature is found in no other Separator and enables the U.S. to hold the World's Record for clean skimming. Runs Smoothest and Easiest, because the driving gears are entirely enclosed, self-oiling and automatically supplied with fresh oil. No other Separator has all these advantages. Is Easiest and Quickest Washed, because there are only two simple parts inside the bowl, and because the bowl is wide enough to be easily cleaned inside (other Separator bowls have from 5 to 45 inside parts, or are long and narrow like a gun barrel). Is Most Convenient, because the top of the milk supply tank is about even with the operator's waist, making it easy to fill. This means labor saved. Lasts Longest, because there are ball bearings at high speed points, and because the parts are few, simple, strongly made, and easy to get at. The U.S. is the separator for you to buy because it is better than any other, and will give you the biggest value for your money. You should see one yourself to really appreciate all its good points. Call and see one. They are sold by L. ROSENHEIMER, Kewaskum, Wisconsin.

Read What She Says:

MISS DELLA STROEBE, 710 Richmond St., Appleton, Wis., writes: "For several years I was in a run-down condition, and I could find no relief from doctors and medicines. I could not enjoy my meals, and could not sleep at night. I had heavy, dark circles about the eyes. "My friends were much alarmed. I was advised to give Pe-runa a trial, and to my joy I began to improve with the first bottle. After taking six bottles, I felt completely cured. I cannot say too much for Pe-runa as a medicine for women in a run-down condition."

Pe-runa Did Wonders.

Mrs. Judge J. F. Boyer, 1421 Sherman Ave., Evanston, Ill., says that she became run down, could neither eat nor sleep well, and lost flesh and appetite. Pe-runa did wonders for her, and she thanks Pe-runa for new life and strength.

Correcting Her Answer.

A teacher in the Gardfield school was teaching a primary class the beginning of arithmetic.

"Now I have one pencil in my right hand and one in my left," she said. "How many pencils have I? Helen, you may answer."

"Two," piped a small voice. "Then one and one make two, do they not?"

"The teacher frowned at the disrespectful answer. "That's hardly what you should have said," she said. "Will some one in the class tell Helen what her answer should have been?"

There was a moment of hesitation. Then one brownish shot confidently into the air.

"Sure, Mike," shouted Jimmie, in a tone of triumph.—Kansas City Star.

An Aquatic Rabbit.

William Zimmerman, a postal telegraph messenger of Dubuque, recently demonstrated that a rabbit can swim when it must. Zimmerman caught a rabbit on the island north of the Boulevard and brought it to the Pennsylvania freight depot. Brer Rabbit made an especially nasty kick and escaped from Zimmerman's grasp. Zimmerman, however, was not discouraged. He went to the freight cars with Bill and several other youths in chase. He landed off on all fours, the little creature dived into the wheels of a moving locomotive and with a flirt of his short tail jumped into the water. He disappeared toward the west in the rushes.—Philadelphia Record.

Irrigated Fruit and Grain Lands.

We urge you to irrigate for yourself. The Crab Creek irrigated fruit and grain lands that are now for sale. We invite inquiries from merchants seeking a location in the land of health and wealth. Milwaukee-Washington Land & Orchard Co., 220 Wisconsin St., Milwaukee, Wis.

Wheat Fields Follow Civilization.

From the Atlantic coast the progress of grain production has advanced westward with settlement, until it now has reached the banks of the Snake, the Katchewan river and the foothills of the Rocky mountains. In the days of our fathers, the Richelieu valley was the great wheat field. It bore forty crops in a year. From the Albertan, Calgary, Canada.

Thunder and Milk.

To many persons the curdling of milk in a thunderstorm is a mysterious and unaccountable phenomenon. It is according to scientists, the result of the simple and natural. Their claim is that milk, like most other substances, contains millions of bacteria. The milk bacteria that in a day or two under natural conditions would be destroyed by electricity. Electricity inspires and invigorates them, and instead of taking a couple of days to sour the milk they accomplish the task completely in a half hour. With an electric current of the same principles to sour the freshest milk.

Chambers Island Full of Deer.

The game preserves maintained by E. A. Decker, at Chambers Island, are a great success, the number of deer having increased so rapidly in late years as to cause some apprehension lest there shall be crowding in the not distant future. But this can readily be avoided by removing a few deer. It is a quiet manner that will cause no alarm or fear among the survivors, all of which have now been taken in a trap line. Hunting parties are kept from the island by the enforcement of regular rates by the game warden, who is regular fixture.—Sturgeon Bay Advocate.

A Complication.

Two Irishmen were telling confessions one day, and when their supply ran out Pat suggested that they make some up. "Alright," said Mike. "I'll tell you that those around a barnyard in feathers and two legs and barking like a dog?" "My, that's a fine story," the other answered Pat, after some moments of thinking. "What's the answer?" "A chicken!"

"My, that's fine; but how'd the barnyard get there?" inquired Pat. "Oh, I just put that in to make it harder."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Dividing Lines at Cape Hatteras.

Cape Hatteras is the true dividing line between the north and the south. North of it the character of the climate, and other forms of vegetation, which, tropical in character, cease there also. South of it the climate is of a more temperate sort of a thing in the north, but Hatteras is the outer mark of the real dividing line and affords the opportunity for study.—Forest and Stream.

WONDERED WHY.

Found the sickly person was "Coffee." My pale, sickly person wonder for years why they have to suffer so, and eventually discovered that the drug—caffeine—in coffee is the main cause of the trouble.

"I was always very fond of coffee and drank it every day. I never had much flesh and often wondered why I was always so pale, thin and weak.

"About five years ago my health completely broke down and I was confined to my bed. My stomach was in such condition that I could hardly take sufficient nourishment to sustain life.

"During this time I was drinking coffee, didn't think I could do without it.

"After a while I came to the conclusion that coffee was hurting me, and decided to give it up and try Postum. I didn't like the taste of it at first, but when it was made right—boiled until dark and rich—I soon became very fond of it.

"In one week I began to feel better. I could eat more and sleep better. My headaches were less frequent, and within five months I looked and felt like a new being, headache spells entirely gone.

"My health continued to improve and to-day I am well and strong, weigh 145 lbs. I attribute my present health to the life-giving qualities of Postum."

SOUTHERN OREGON.

Where Stag Fortunes Literally Glow on Trees.

In the Rogue river valley in southern Oregon, F. H. Hopkins, in 1907, made a profit of $10,000 off 16 acres of winter Nellis pears—$1187.50 an acre. So says H. S. Gray in the "Recreation World" Magazine. In the same valley, G. H. Hoyer bought 10 acres of pear orchard at $500 an acre. Fifteen months later the crop brought him $2000.

Eight years ago J. L. Dunsmuir set out 50 acres of apples near Dayton in the Walla Walla district of southeastern Washington. In the summer of 1907 he bought 50 acres of apple orchard adjoining his property, at an investment of $18,000. The apples he picked from these 50 acres realized $20,000—a return to the owner of $140,000.

The statements are incontrovertible, but you instantly demand: "What is the explanation?"

A climate and soil that are capable of producing such monsters as the redwood trees and the sequoias, which render measurements of vegetable growth in other parts of this country puerile and scant, account in part for these bewildering figures.

But there are obscure valleys, narrow and diminutive, pecked between huge mountains, where in the past no plant worthy of the name of tree has been known to grow. It is in many of these spots that the returns from the trees are the largest. Irrigation, in such cases, is the remaining factor that explains the mystery—irrigation that brings to the barren soil, full of wonderful potentialities, water, that element which is to render it so marvelously productive.

SAVED AT THE CRISIS.

Delay Meant Death from Kidney Troubles.

Mrs. Herman Smith, 901 Broadway Street, Athens, Ga., says: "I had a slight irregularity and weakness and developed into dangerous dropsy. I became very lame and could do no housework. My back ached terribly. I had bearing pains and my limbs bloated and were twice their normal size. Doctors did not help and I was fast drifting into the hopeless stages. I had bought a bottle of Foley's Kidney and Bladder Pills at the critical moment and they really saved my life."

STRUGGLE WITH A TIGER.

The Strange Story of a Homeric Contest from India.

Two brothers, Khuda Bakhs and Shaikh Abdul Ghani of Moradabad, were dispatched recently to Rampour on an errand, and while entering a grove of trees a tiger sprang upon the brothers. Khuda, being an athlete, warded off the blow aimed at him with his right hand and caught one of the paws of the other. The tiger, however, was bold, though the tiger was mauling his brother, he did not flinch.

Abdul Ghani now rushed up with a stout stick, which he forced down the tiger's throat, making the animal utter a cry of pain. He wrestled with the tiger, keeping it down by sheer force, while Abdul Ghani belabored it with his hand and killed it.

The tiger was carried by the brothers to his highness, the Mahab of Rampour and kept the skin as a memento. He sent Khuda Bakhs to the state dispensary for treatment.—Indian Daily Telegraph.

Photographs of Chinese Royalty.

The Chinese police department in Peking reported to the viceroys, H. E. Yuan Shih-kai, to the effect that copies of the photographs of T. M. the Empress Dowager and the Emperor and Empress Dowager, in Peking, were taken and the other high officials. This practice, if unchecked, will breed contempt for the emperor and his officials, and men in authority, and the department requested the viceroys to prohibit the dissemination of such photographs. The viceroys, however, forbidding the sale of the photographs of the Emperor, the Empress Dowager and high officials.—Shanghai Mercury.

humiliating responsibility and remorse that weighed so heavily on the shoulders of the others. His sufferings, keen and poignant though they had been, were past; the future was his to make of it what he would, satisfied that to neither him nor his was there so much as the shadow of blame or disgrace attaching.

"It is not I alone who had to bear the blame," he went on bitterly. "Perhaps if it had been I could have found it in other parts of the country, but I am not to be less hard and unforgiving. I have suffered with me—my sister and the woman who by this time should have been my wife."

"I know, Heriot—I know," Austin lifted his hand in troubled protest, then let it fall helplessly to his side. The elder man was silent, standing by the table with bowed head and grief-stricken countenance. SCHULTE FREED BY HIS BROTHER WHO GIVES BAIL

RACINE BANK TELLER GETS TEMPORARY LIBERTY ON $5000 BOND.

CONFESSION BY DEFENDER HEARD BY UNITED STATES MARSHAL ON WAY FROM CLEVELAND.

BROKERS REFUSED TO AID HIM.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 3, 1908.—Bail to the amount of $5000 was furnished for the release of John Schulte, the defaulting Racine bank cashier, by his brother, Theodore Schulte, agent of the Schulte Brothers company at Racine, Wis., which was in cash, was turned over to the Clerk of the Courts Edward Kuriz. Will be Tried in Fall.

As Schulte was arraigned before a United States court commissioner at Cleveland, where the amount of the bail was fixed, it was not necessary that he be arraigned here. His case will be brought before the grand jury when it meets here in the fall, and he probably will be tried at the first term of federal court here.

Announcement that bail would be furnished for Schulte was made after a conference between his brother and Attorney Thomas M. Kearney of Racine, who will represent him, and Schulte himself. It was understood that Schulte would be taken to the office of United States Marshal Well, where the conference was held. At the close of the conference it was announced that bail would be furnished by Theodore Schulte, and the two went out to secure the cash.

Confesses to Marshal.

In a confession that told every detail of his crime, the embezzlement of $15,000 of the funds of the First National Bank of Racine, Schulte lifted a lid off his mind to his captor, United States Marshal Frank Chandler, who was at the Milwaukee county jail Sunday night.

Speculation in grain and trust in the friendliness of his broker is what put Schulte in financial straits. After he had lost the money, he said that he thought that his broker would loan him the sum to make it good to the bank.

He went at once to Cleveland where the broker lived and begged for relief, offering, he said, 50 per cent. of the value of the loan, to the firm over. But the broker turned him down and Schulte went to the station and gave himself up to the authorities. He was not caught by means of a letter as was first reported.

Prison life during the past week has been hard on the man who possessed considerable means and he begged for a good soft bed in his cell when he spoke to the jailor Sunday night, "just for tonight."

FIRE LOSS IS $300,000.

Marinette Blaze Destroys 15,000,000 Feet of Basswood—Mills May Run Day and Night.

MARINETTE, Wis., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—A smoldering mass of ruins is all that remains of the millions of feet of basswood lumber which were destroyed by fire company, which were destroyed by fire Sunday night. It is estimated that 15,000,000 feet of lumber were lost, valued at $300,000. The loss is fully covered by insurance.

In addition to the lumber loss there is a heavy loss on tramways and equipment and several million feet of rail burned to the water level.

Charles Goodman and R. F. Goodman, who were at Green Bay, made a record of the fire, which was started by the son's yacht, Bonita.

While the company suffered great loss, the people of Marinette and Menominee will be the gainers. There was some loss to the lumber men, but the people of the yards were stocked beyond their capacity. But the fire has cleared out the yards and will probably run in piling new lumber.

VETERAN EDITOR DIES.

Former Publisher of Augusta Times Succumbs in Hospital at Eau Claire.

CHIPPEWA FALLS, Wis., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Enterprising citizens of Chippewa Falls have planned to conduct a grand homecoming celebration in connection with the Northern Wisconsin State fair this year. The week of the fair, September 14 to 18, has been selected by the committee in charge as a time for former residents of the Falls to return and renew acquaintances long ago. The committee has been at work for several weeks planning the details of the celebration and has secured some of the clearest attractions in this part of the country for the entertainment of those who attend. Letters have been sent out to former residents and friends of the city and it is expected that at least 2000 visitors will respond to the invitations that have been sent.

Electroplating Lace.

A method of electroplating lace developed in Popular Mechanics is said to produce effects rare in beauty. The process is not difficult and after the lace has been copper plated, it may be silvered, gilded or treated with other finishes. The various colors produced on solid metal may be obtained on the lace as long as the solutions do not become too acid to use.

Billy Papke is to try his luck at the Boston end of the game following the stoppage of his "hot" horse, the "Buck" Brooker, in New York. He is signed with Willie Lewis for a twelve-pound bout on the evening of August 15, to retain and weigh 155 pounds.

Stevenson's Home Sold.

Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson has sold the home which she bought on Lombard street hill, overlooking the Golden Gate, San Francisco, and will move to Santa Barbara, where she has purchased a country home. Mrs. Stevenson received $25,000 for her house, which was built after an original design and was richly decorated with Samoan tapestry and carvings. The house was filled with South sea curios, and the library contained Stevenson's books as well as many manuscripts of his stories and novels. It was saved during the great fire by members of the Bohemian club, old friends of Stevenson, who carried water for the purpose in buckets.

A match has been arranged between Joe Sieger, who has been in the weight, and Joe Rodell, the husky Brooklyn fighter. They will battle for the title on the evening of Monday night.

HOBGOBLINS IN A MAINE HOUSE.

Deputy Sheriff and a Crowd Called Out to Solve the Mystery.

They are having quite exciting times at the home of Elmer Dare, in Harmony, about two miles from here. June 9 the place was visited by spirits, hobgoblins or some other obnoxious supernatural creatures. The family was awakened in the night by rattle and ringer barrels being rolled over in the cellar, doors slamming, chairs tipped over and other noises too numerous to mention.

The neighbors were called in by telephoning and watched all night, but failed to locate the cause of the disturbance. The next three nights the same mysterious doings were repeated, and on several occasions the family was awakened by a bright moon and several men watched the place they failed to discover any cause for the unusual commotion.

We have not heard the result of Saturday night, but a crowd with the deputy sheriff for a leader, were fully resolved to solve the mystery if possible. It may be that the cause was a rat, as at Union several years ago when a certain young lady endeavored to persuade her father to buy her home, she was told by Old Uncle Ben Robbins to play ghost.—Athens Cor.
