BADGER FARMER FOULLY MURDERS GIRL AND MOTHER

JOHN McDONALD KILLS MRS. KATHERINE LENNOX AND DAUGHTER AT NORTH CLAYTON.

QUARREL CAUSE OF TROUBLE
Young Man Had Been Denied Admittance to Home of Sweetheart by Mother.

GIVES HIMSELF UP TO MARSHAL
GAYS MILLS, Wis., Feb. 18.—(Special.)—Refused admittance to the home of his sweetheart, John McDonald, a farmer living in the village of North Clayton, about six miles from here, late Wednesday afternoon shot and killed Mrs. Lennox, aged 20, the girl who had refused to be his wife, and her mother, Mrs. Katherine C. Lennox, at their home on a farm near North Clayton.

Tragedy Follows Quarrel.
McDonald had been paying attention to Miss Lennox for the past year. Last night a quarrel arose between the lovers and they did not see each other for some time, but the differences were patched up and McDonald once more began visiting the Lennox home. Recently Mrs. Lennox became dissatisfied with McDonald's conduct and forbade the young man to visit her daughter.

Tragedy Follows Quarrel.
McDonald had been paying attention to Miss Lennox for the past year. Last night a quarrel arose between the lovers and they did not see each other for some time, but the differences were patched up and McDonald once more began visiting the Lennox home. Recently Mrs. Lennox became dissatisfied with McDonald's conduct and forbade the young man to visit her daughter.

Mother Beaten with Revolver.
The enraged farmer fired three shots at the girl, all of them taking effect. The first entered her temple, the second struck the girl in the breast and the third lodged in her heart. Her mother, in an effort to protect her daughter, rushed between McDonald and the girl. McDonald emptied his revolver and the woman was killed.

Surrenders to Marshal.
The murder was not discovered until late in the evening when neighbors returned at night to find a light in the Lennox home, called to see what was the matter. The mother and daughter were found cold in death. The room bore evidences of a fierce struggle, for the walls and floor were covered with blood. In Mrs. Lennox's hands was clamped a broom which she had undoubtedly picked up when the girl was struck by McDonald after he had opened fire on her daughter.

McDonald Discovered Shortly After.
The tragedy was not seen until after the murder in Gays Mills. McDonald was taken to the jail and surrendered to Marshal C. E. Thompson. Feeling in the community was at such a high pitch that Marshal Thompson deemed it advisable to get his prisoner out of the neighborhood and in the evening he was taken to the county jail at Gays Mills.

Bound Over for Trial.
McDonald was arraigned in court this morning and pleaded guilty. Judge Clemons did not sentence the murderer but bound him over to the grand jury. It may be that the grand jury will have an opportunity to change his plea after consulting with his family.

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 18.—A peculiar accident which may result in the death of Dorothy Olivine and her sister, Mrs. D. Olivier of the real estate firm of Olivier & Co., occurred today while the 8-year-old girl and her father were riding in an automobile. As the machine was turning a corner, the girl stamped her foot firmly upon the gas foot of the machine to steady herself. The floor of the car gave way and the girl's foot was caught in the machinery. The automobile was brought to a stop as soon as possible, but the girl's leg had been almost torn from her body.

WOMAN BADLY BURNED.
Mrs. George M. Allen of Beloit Pours Gasoline Over Self and Sets Fire to Clothing.

BELOIT, Wis., Feb. 18.—(Special.)—While laboring under the delusion that she must put to death her husband, Mrs. George M. Allen, wife of a prominent water works contractor, today poured gasoline over her clothing and set fire to it. She ran screaming from the house and a neighbor threw some carpets about her and extinguished the flames, but not until she was terribly burned. Because of religious beliefs, the family refused to call a physician. Chief of Police Quinlan called a humane agent to see if they could not be compelled to do so.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 18.—Under grave warnings of what might happen in the event of the defeat of the various States did not have the best type of ships, the Senate yesterday voted to reconsider its action of Tuesday night, by which it cut down the size of the two battleships carried in the naval appropriation bill from 26,000 to 21,000 tons each.

While the President's wishes with regard to the big ships were met, the Senate refused to yield to him in the matter of marine corps, which by executive order recently withdrew from the ships of the navy.

A Senate amendment was kept in its bill providing no less than a full complement of the men on board ships of the navy, and no less than a full complement of the men on board ships of the navy.

The vote was not-partisan.

The vote on the restoration of the proposed battleships to a larger type, greater than any now building in the navy of the world, was not-partisan, and resulted in the rejection of Senator La Follette's amendment by 45 to 39. On Tuesday night the bill passed by a vote of 53 to 40.

Andrew Strachota and Ulrich Kuntz drove to Lomira and Knowles last Wednesday. Mrs. Peter Kral returned to Milwaukee Tuesday after several weeks' visit with relatives here. John Schrauth and family, Joseph Fischer and family, Joseph Fischer and family of Ashford, Killian Strobel and family, Frank Flasch and family and Miss Pearl Romane spent Tuesday evening with the John Flasch family. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Stoffel celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary at their home last Saturday with a number of friends present. Mr. and Mrs. Stoffel were married in the St. Kilian church on February 12th, 1884, by Rev. Blum. They have resided on the present homestead since their marriage. All present at the celebration enjoyed a very nice time. An elaborate dinner was served. In the evening the young ladies surprised the couple by giving them a rousing charivari. The following guests attended the celebration: Joseph Hoerig and wife of Lomira, Mrs. Katherine Heister of Milwaukee, Mrs. James Heister and family of St. Kilian, Joseph Boden and wife of Allenton, Peter Scholler and wife and Harry Pierette and wife of Ashford, John Beck and wife, John H. Zehren and wife, Nick Kaiser and wife, Daniel Kair and wife, Nick Stoffel and wife of Ashford and Peter Beck. Monkeys Like Scrapping. "Monkeys are in a class by themselves," said the circus man. "If one of them has red hair he is sure to be a dandy scrapper. The best fighter is always the leader. They hang together and bow and scrape before the boss just like a good many people. Monkeys with red faces and flat heads will whip the life out of those smaller than they are, but will run like the wind when it comes to an even break. A monkey riot is a funny spectacle. Even in the same cage you will find groups herded together as if there was some class distinction and the lines were drawn tightly. If two of the big ones come together in a row the others generally stand off and let them have it out, but if a bit of the little one gets to scrapping then the father and mother are apt to mix in, and the next step is a general row. We separate them by turning on the hose and punish them by locking up the den so that they cannot get any peanuts from the crowd and hold back their meals. This plan puts them on their good behavior for awhile at least. The monkey likes to eat and likes to be noticed." Slightly Mixed. They had just set up housekeeping and were working on the plan of economy. The husband needed a coat of varnish. He promised to attend to it if she would order the varnish. "You'll find the varnish in the closet with the groceries, dear," she said a day or so later, "and the can opener is in the knife drawer." He opened the can and, according to his contract, applied the coat of varnish and then left it to dry. The soup for dinner that day had to be abandoned. For some time it passed a peculiar palpitating odor that was nauseating. After dinner he took her to inspect his work on the bathtub. Now that it had dried it had a certain unattractive appearance. The top and sides were streaked, and here and there little lumps hung to it. "The man said that was the best varnish," she explained, taking up the can of varnish for an examination. "But why, dear, you have varnished the bathtub with the oil soup?" "Then it was the varnish we ate, dear," he added, horror stricken. - Lippincott's. A Model Hotel "Boots." It was in a Dublin hotel, and as I closed the bedroom door, says a writer in the Manchester Guardian, I noticed that the end of one of my boot laces was inside the room, the boot to which it was attached having been placed as usual outside. When I awoke next morning the boot lace end was still there, and I opened the door expecting to find that the boots had not been cleaned, but it was wrong. A very careful hotel servant, a very model among "boots," had found the lace tightly gripped by the door and rather than disturb me had carefully removed it from the lace holes and carried it away the boot. Presently I heard a quiet noise outside the door. The model boots had brought my boots back again and was industriously re-lacing that one which he had unlaced. Cheese In the Middle Ages. Cheese must have been a rather dear or scarce article of food in 1562, for it is recorded in the "Black Book" of the Honourable Society of Lincoln's Inn that at Easter term, 1562, it was "agreed by the governors and benefactors of the society that if any one of the society shall hereafter cut cheese immediately at the time of dinner or supper or shall give cheese to any servant or to any other or shall carry it away from the table at any time he shall pay 4 pence for each offense." The butlers of the society shall present such defaulters weekly under pain of expulsion from office. - Law Times. Her Test. "When a young man proposes you should tell him. What does 'I do' mean?" cautioned the conservative character. "But I go one better, auntie," twittered the pretty girl. "Do you see this tiny bottle?" "Yes. Does it contain perfume?" "No; it contains acid. I test the engagement ring." Not Very Funny. "I did my best to be entertaining," said the young man in a voice of sorrow. "Did you succeed?" "I'm afraid not. I recited Hamlet's soliloquy. She looked at me reproachfully for several seconds and then exclaimed, 'I don't think that's very funny.'" - London Telegraph. His Conscience. "He's forever prating about what his conscience tells him. What does 'his conscience' tell him, anyway?" "Apparently it usually tells him what awful sinners his neighbors are." - Catholic Standard and Times.

Good Company for 1909. You are careful what choice of friends the young people of your household make. You do not open wide the door to those whose speech and behavior betray ill-breeding and lax morals. Are you as careful to shut it against books and periodicals that present vulgar and demoralizing pictures of life and its purpose? Perhaps you are among those who have found that THE YOUTH'S COMPANION occupies the same place in the family reading that the high-minded young man or woman holds among good associates. THE COMPANION is good without being 'goody goody.' It is entertaining, it is informing. In its stories it depicts life truly, but it chooses those phases of life in which duty, honor, loyalty are the guiding motives. A full description of the current volume will be sent with sample copies of the paper to any address on request. The new subscribers who, at once send $1.75 for a year's subscription will receive free THE COMPANION'S new Calendar for 1909, "In Grandmother's Garden," lithographed in thirteen colors. THE YOUTH'S COMPANION, 144 Berkeley St., Boston, Mass. Woman's Curiosity. "Woman's curiosity," said Mr. Fletcher, "is a quality of mind beyond human understanding." "Yes," said Mrs. Fletcher. "What made you think of that?" "The fool actions of a woman that I saw downtown today. She followed a man ten blocks just to get to read a placard that was fastened to his back. She spotted him at Thirty-fourth street. That was really the end of her trip. I made that out from something she said to another woman who was too fat to join in the chase—but when she caught sight of that flaming red poster tied to the man's back her curiosity got the better of her and she set out after him. He led her quite a chase across town and downtown and back again, but she never weakened. She tagged faithfully along in his wake, and finally she got close enough to read that notice." Mrs. Fletcher reflected a moment. "What did it say?" "It advised her to get her teeth pulled somewhere on Sixth avenue." Mrs. Fletcher thought again. "Who were you all the time she was trying to find that out?" "Me!" said Fletcher. "Oh, I was following the woman. I wanted to see if she finally caught up with the man." - New York Times. The Porcelain Secret. The porcelain industry of Germany is comparatively young, says the Berlin Morgen Post, and its development was rapid. Although it is generally believed that the Chinese kept their processes of manufacture secret, Julian's translations of their voluminous encyclopaedia show that this is not true. All who could have read the work might have known also the porcelain secret. But evidently no German fathomed the mechanical mystery until the apothecary's apprentice Boettger, 200 years ago, made the first German porcelain at Dresden. Some years before he had attracted attention by proclaiming the discovery of a method of changing base metal into gold. King Frederick I. gave him orders for the precious metal, which the sixteen-year-old inventor could not execute, and in fear he fled to Dresden and became a subject of King August the Strong. While endeavoring to make gold he discovered the porcelain secret and inscribed his door thus: "Into a potter was changed by Almighty God a man who thought he could make gold." A Puzzle in Figures. Take any number of three different figures, as 471, under it place the same figures in reverse order, subtract the lesser number and you will find that the middle figure of the result is invariably 9. Why it is so is something that only the most learned mathematical scholars can explain. Here is our case worked out: Taking any number, say..... 471 Reversing figures..... 174 Subtracting, we have..... 297 Further still, we can now reverse this number 297 in the same way and add the two numbers and the result will always come 1089. Thus: Taking..... 297 Reversing..... 792 Adding, we have..... 1089 Why should the answer always come out the same? Here's something for you to work over. A Friend In Need. A speaker in the recent Shropshire (England) election relates the following incident. One night he spoke in the poultry market at Whitechurch. The next morning a young man stopped him in the street and said: "I was looking well after you last night." The speaker expressed surprise at the necessity. The young man continued his story: "I saw a young man come into the market with his coat pocket bulging out in a way that made me suspicious. Two of us followed him in. He stood at the back of the room, and we stood one on each side of him. Gently but firmly we pressed against him. There was a faint rattling sound of breaking eggs, and the man was out of action." Arms, Legs and the Man. How many of us have noticed that we walk with our arms as well as with our legs? Sitting on a grassy slope overlooking a seaside promenade I was struck by the mechanical swing of the arms of the stream of passers-by—the right arm always keeping position with the left leg and the left arm with the right leg. By attempting to reverse the order of the swing I found that I had a tendency to progress like a crab, while the effort to keep them fixed by the side was like the shutting off of the steam from the engine. Arms and the man must be amended to arms, legs and the man—London Chronicle. Venice Too Wet For Her. A woman who recently returned from a trip to Europe says we weather here isn't bothered this country at all in comparison with what she saw abroad. She says that they run into a town named Venice where the water covered every street, and you couldn't get anywhere except in boats. She added: "You bet we only stayed one day in that slough!"—Kansas City Star. Things to Remember. He who would pass his declining years with honor and comfort should when young remember that he may one day become old and remember when he is old that he has been once young.—Addison.

The Simplest, Strongest and Most Convincing of Cream Separators
GRELL & WOLLENSAK,
SPECIAL SELLING AGENTS
Kewaskum, Wisconsin

We cannot believe that there is a sensible man living who would put his own money into the purchase of any other than a DE LAVAL cream separator, for his own use, if he would but first avail of the opportunity open to everyone to see and try an improved DE LAVAL machine before buying any other. It is hardly possible to say more than this. It is hardly possible to put the simple truth in plain words. It would hardly seem possible to say it more convincingly. The trial of a DE LAVAL machine is free to every responsible man thinking of buying a cream separator.
