CHAPTER II.

The autumn days were all too short for Mona Gerrard. With fishing and shooting parties at Loch Linnhe, and golf, and helping her mother in the garden, and training her dog, and feeding her pet squirrels, her life seemed one long holiday from week's end to week's end.

The Bannatyne were only the great Glasgow barbed-wire people, but the house at Loch Linnhe with its turrets and towers, picturesquely situated on a wooded slope overlooking the deep fifth, had all the air of an old Scotch baronial castle. When the family were in residence a flag floated from the staff on the highest tower, and Sir John's steam launch, the Kelpie, might be seen cruising about the bays and inlets, or rocking lily at her moorings under the cliffs.

The 17th of September was Jack Bannatyne's birthday, and this year he was come of age. The festivities were therefore to be of a more than ordinary magnificence, and for days beforehand nothing was spoken of but the coming of Linnhe but the dinner to the tenantry, the torchlight procession, and the dance to take place in the evening—the last being the event to which Jack and Mona looked forward with the most pleasurable anticipations.

It was their next hall. They were both to wear white dresses with knots of white feather on the shoulder, and both were engaged already for many of the dances. Mona had been to open the ball with the hero of the evening, though this honor did not please her so much as the thought that her friend Jean would be there to share her enjoyment.

To Mrs. Gerrard the mere mention of the dance might well have become a weariness, so often was it discussed in her presence, but when the pleased Mona must needs give her pleasure too. She would so much rather have remained quietly home, reading, looking and weaving in the little garden, helping her nieces with her cookery, rambling in the woods or out upon the wide brown reaches of the moor, than to expect Mona to be satisfied with these things.

By-and-by perhaps, when the novelty of it, when the first flush of excitement was over, Mona would be satisfied to spend a day at home sometimes; they would begin their music again—there was a piano at Ardara, and when the music brought her violin. She looked round the little drawing room wistfully as she mused; it was very small, rather shabby. Naturally Mona had been brought up to be an open air girl, she loved the moor and the fishing; she had landed the record salmon of the season, to her eyes and Jack Bannatyne's great delight, and she had helped her to capture the big fish.

The Bannatyne were very kind, very pleasant, good-natured people; they made much of Mona, and of her for Mona's sake, but their exuberance worried her sometimes. She would rather have taken her book out under the Scotch fir, and listened to the robin singing and the roar of the burn in the glen. It was selfish perhaps—the ought not to be slighted to go to Loch Linnhe every day or twice a day. There was a time, when she was in Madrid and Mona at school, when she had when she thought that even to see her daughter would be happiness enough. And it was happiness, but she was of a dreamy, romantic nature, and she would like to live her own life sometimes, not to be so constantly mixed up in the rather loud, rather overbearing, life at Loch Linnhe.

They would go back by-and-by to the flat she had taken in London; they would begin the readings they had planned for the winter; they would look at the new pictures; Mona's education was only half finished. So she mused, sometimes in the house, sometimes in the garden among the asters and hollyhocks and sunflowers.

It was the eve of the all-important day. A kind of dress rehearsal had taken place, but now the dancing in the hall must be nearly over, and Mrs. Gerrard, already wrapped up, was waiting for Mona on the terrace outside the drawing room windows, whither Sir John had taken her to see the curious effect of the Kelpie's searchlight as it traveled over the steep shores of the loch and the sleeping woods that overhung them. The many hundred fairy lights hung along the terrace had not yet been extinguished. Down to the water's edge they glittered like new constellations, and Mrs. Gerrard could imagine how, looking up, the castle must seem one blaze of colored lights.

Laughter and music still resounded from the hall, rainbow colored Chinese lanterns swung softly in the night air, the slow-moving beam from the yacht lighted up secret places in the wood, flashed over the castle outlined in ribbons of radiance, and three ghostly glimmers between the headlands out to sea.

"It looks rather weird," Mrs. Gerrard said, watching the fan-shaped ray travel across the clouds overhead, bringing their whiteness into strong relief against the brooding darkness of the night. "I wonder what the wild creatures of the woods make of it—the rabbits, and bats, and owls—and the fish? I should think every fish in the loch must be crowded round the Kelpie, trying to puzzle it out."

"They'll be more puzzled tomorrow night, when we begin to let off the fireworks," Sir John said, laughing. "I wonder what has happened to Trefoil. He promised to be here, but so far as I know the Minnehaha hasn't left Cowes yet. You've never met Trefoil?"

Mrs. Gerrard shook her head. "She had no desire to meet him. The mere mention of his name sent a disagreeable thrill through her heart."

"We saw a great deal of him in London last Easter," Sir John said, leaning over the balcony. "My wife raised a fine castle in the air about him and your little girl. I suppose she told you?"

"An absurd idea!" "Well, there's an over-age, as the country people say, but it's on the right side," and Sir John laughed at the thought of his cigar. "He's a fine fellow, and a countryman of your own—that ought to weigh with you."

EX-GOV. TAYLOR DIES AT MADISON

WAS CHIEF EXECUTIVE OF STATE DURING FAMOUS GRANGER MOVEMENT.

UPHELD THE POTTER LAW. Entered Gisholt Home for the Aged at Madison Four Years Ago.

FORMER GOVERNORS PALLBEARERS. MADISON, Wis., March 18.—(Special.)—Former Gov. William R. Taylor, who was chief executive of the state from 1873 to 1876, died Wednesday afternoon at the Gisholt Home for the Aged at the age of 89 years.

Taylor had been in failing health for several years past and his death did not come as a surprise to the home attendants or relatives.

Gov. Taylor was a typical self-made man of the pioneer era type. He was born in Connecticut July 20, 1820. His mother died when he was but 3 weeks old and his father was lost the same year later. So he was brought up by relatives from New York amid great hardships.

Being ambitious for an education he was sent to the University of the Sacred Heart at New York, where he was graduated in 1845. He then studied law at the University of the Sacred Heart at New York, where he was graduated in 1845.

He was admitted to the bar in 1846 and practiced law in New York until 1850, when he came to Wisconsin and settled on a farm in the town of Cottage Grove. He quickly became prominent in agricultural circles, held various local offices, and was several years chairman of his town, twice chairman of the county board of supervisors, and once county superintendent of the poor, member of both houses of the legislature, and president of the state agricultural society.

He was elected to the Wisconsin legislature in 1858, and in 1860 he was elected to the Wisconsin senate. He was re-elected to the senate in 1862 and 1864, and in 1866 he was elected to the Wisconsin assembly. He was re-elected to the assembly in 1868 and 1870, and in 1872 he was elected to the Wisconsin senate. He was re-elected to the senate in 1874 and 1876, and in 1878 he was elected to the Wisconsin assembly. He was re-elected to the assembly in 1880 and 1882, and in 1884 he was elected to the Wisconsin senate. He was re-elected to the senate in 1886 and 1888, and in 1890 he was elected to the Wisconsin assembly. He was re-elected to the assembly in 1892 and 1894, and in 1896 he was elected to the Wisconsin senate. He was re-elected to the senate in 1898 and 1900, and in 1902 he was elected to the Wisconsin assembly. He was re-elected to the assembly in 1904 and 1906, and in 1908 he was elected to the Wisconsin senate. He was re-elected to the senate in 1910 and 1912, and in 1914 he was elected to the Wisconsin assembly. He was re-elected to the assembly in 1916 and 1918, and in 1920 he was elected to the Wisconsin senate. He was re-elected to the senate in 1922 and 1924, and in 1926 he was elected to the Wisconsin assembly. He was re-elected to the assembly in 1928 and 1930, and in 1932 he was elected to the Wisconsin senate. He was re-elected to the senate in 1934 and 1936, and in 1938 he was elected to the Wisconsin assembly. He was re-elected to the assembly in 1940 and 1942, and in 1944 he was elected to the Wisconsin senate. He was re-elected to the senate in 1946 and 1948, and in 1950 he was elected to the Wisconsin assembly. He was re-elected to the assembly in 1952 and 1954, and in 1956 he was elected to the Wisconsin senate. He was re-elected to the senate in 1958 and 1960, and in 1962 he was elected to the Wisconsin assembly. He was re-elected to the assembly in 1964 and 1966, and in 1968 he was elected to the Wisconsin senate. He was re-elected to the senate in 1970 and 1972, and in 1974 he was elected to the Wisconsin assembly. He was re-elected to the assembly in 1976 and 1978, and in 1980 he was elected to the Wisconsin senate. "Parceling Out de People."

Fishing, two boys strung their big catch on the same string. Passing a graveyard they entered the gate to divide the catch, dropping two fish just as they went inside the cemetery.

Passing, an aged negro heard the two boys: "I'll take this one, you take that one; I this one, you that one; I this one, you that one," etc.

The negro listened in dismay and ran away as rapidly as his old legs could carry him. He met his negro minister, who called: "Deacon, why you run in such terror?"

"Declare, parson, I been down yonder by de graveyard and over de fence heard de devil and de Lord parceling out de people atween em."

The parson laughed at the old man's fright and made him go back with him to the graveyard to convince him of his error.

The boys were still dividing. "You take this one, I take that one," finally one boy asked, "What you going to do with them two at the gate?"

This was more than parson or deacon could stand, and both ran pell-mell, neither wishing to take the further chances, no matter what was going on just over the fence—Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle.

Penguin Battles.

The penguin, a notable diver among sea birds, wins his right of conquest. The male birds fight for the possession of the females. These curious birds have regular duel grounds, where relics of innumerable combats in the shape of feathers lie scattered about. In the center is the fighting arena, clear of all debris. The penguins' feathers and blubber form an efficient shield against their opponents' beaks, so the weapon used is the short flipper, the only weapon the birds possess. The fight begins with the two combatants walking round each other waiting for an opportunity to grip. Once this is done the flippers come into play. The fighters shower blow after blow upon each other. There is no record as to how these fights end, but it is a safe supposition to say that they are seldom fatal. The force of the blow from a penguin's flipper is such that three or four of them will draw blood from the human hand.

How Models Make Pictures.

"Do you grasp," he said, "the passionate grace of the girl's attitude, the warmth on the power wherewith her tense white arms draw the young man closer, ever closer? Well, I got that idea from my model, a shopgirl."

"But for my model's suggestion I'd have put the girl in a stiff, cold pose, and the picture would never have been the masterpiece it is. But my model pointed out to me the abandon wherewith a girl, whether of high or low station, gives herself to a lover's embrace. She illustrated the thing, aided by a male model, a young medical student. Yes, she made my picture."

"The fact is, models make, with their valuable hints and suggestions lots of pictures. There's many a masterpiece whose merit is due to the splendid pose that the model originates for the principal figure."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Burns's Popular Sports.

A form of speculation very popular in Burns is bull racing. A certain native sportsman is the owner of one of these bulls, for which he has refused an offer of 10,000 rupees. It has won several races and is looked after as carefully "tended as a favored favorite." The owner values it at 25,000 rupees, and it is said, it brings him an annual income of from 12,000 to 15,000 rupees. It is carefully guarded by four men lest it may be got at and "doctored."

Burns also patronize boxing eagerly, but the art can scarcely be practiced according to Queensberry rules, for we are told by a provincial reporter that he has observed that "even the best boxers strike out with their eyes tightly shut, and if they do hit each other it is more by chance than anything else."—Calcutta Statesman.

The Wrong Lady.

Some young idlers had been enjoying the fun of halting passing shopgirls with rather doubtful compliments, and from some of the answers returned it was evident that not all of those addressed were taking things kindly. Presently one of the older boys, seeing it was going too far, spoke up: "Look a' here now, fellows," he added, "youse might think youse is wis, but I wis that, but just keep on an' the wrong lady'll come along, an' she'll break yer face, see?"—Argonaut.

The Closest Skimming Separator in the World THE IOWA DAIRY SEPARATOR

The Only Gold Medal for Cream Separators was awarded the New Iowa Dairy Separator at the Jamestown Exposition and International Fair.

During the past ten years there has been phenomenal improvements in cream separators. It was at the last International Exposition and World's Fair that the NEW IOWA was awarded the only Gold Medal.

THE ONLY TEST. It was made at Our Request. Official Test made at the Lewis & Clark Exposition:

Portland, Ore., Oct. 21, 1905. Jury of Awards, Lewis & Clark Exposition, Portland, Ore.

Gentlemen: As per your official request, I have made a test of the No. 2 Iowa Dairy Separator at the Exposition grounds. The separator was run according to instructions and test of the cream, whole milk and skim milk were made with the following results:

Cream, 99 per cent butterfat. Whole Milk, 4.4 per cent butterfat. Skim Milk, 0.1 per cent butterfat.

Rated capacity, 40 lbs.; actual capacity, 40 lbs. per hour. Yours truly, H. V. TAYLOR, Asst. Commercial Comm.

The Closest Skimmer in the World Gold Milk Test of the Iowa, A World's Record on 60 Degrees Milk. 1 Pound of Butterfat in 10,000 Pounds of Milk.

Only An Exp. Station, Stillwater, O. T. Iowa Dairy Separator Co., Waterloo, Iowa. Gentlemen—We are pleased to report the results of tests made with the No. 2 Iowa Dairy Separator.

Temperature of milk, 60, rated capacity, 350; actual capacity, 400; test of cream, 35; test of milk, .01 per cent.

Yours truly, C. H. THOMAS, Prof. of Dairying, G. K. MEARS, Asst. Prof. of Dairying. These figures are only suggestive. We want to show you the RECORD. It will talk for itself.

MICHAEL DEGENHARDT, THE IOWA WINS.

In a public contest held Nov. 17, 1908, at the Creamery of the Door County Creamery Co., on Cedar St., Sturgeon Bay, Wis., the Iowa Separator won a decisive victory over the DeLaval Separator. Wulf & Co., Messrs. Evans and Alexander, two DeLaval experts, conducted and directed the skimming operations of the DeLaval Separator.

OUR CHALLENGE.

We stand ready to test the "IOWA" Separator against any other make of separator and will deposit in the Bank of Campbellsport ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS to any other separator company's FIFTY that the Iowa will skim closer on the average runs at temperatures of 50, 60, 70, 80 and 90 degrees, and a cream of not less than 25 to 50 per cent than any other separator, all machines to be run exactly as printed instruction book sent out with such machine. Furthermore, if five machines enter the contest we will contribute towards St. Matthews Church, Campbellsport, one hundred dollars if two out of the five do not leave an average of five times as much butterfat in the skim milk as the Iowa, tests to be made by a competent person or submitted to the Dairy School at Madison. We to use in these tests No. 2 or 3 Iowa Separators, this being the size in general use by our farmers. There are no Wolf tricks in this challenge, and we have deposited Fifty Dollars in the bank as a forfeit if we refuse to enter the contest.

I will give any farmer $25 who will bring this contest about, no machine in the world barred. This is no bluff, try us and find out. Signed, Michael Degenhardt, Campbellsport, Wis.

Mr. Degenhardt is the agent for the Iowa in Fond du Lac county and by purchasing separators in car load lots he is able to quote prices exceedingly low and which appeal to the farmers. These cream separators can be seen at his headquarters in Campbellsport or Mr. Degenhardt will be pleased to call on a prospective buyer. Write today to Mr. Degenhardt if you are interested.

In Convalescence The weak, ed system cannot properly digest the heaviest foods. What the body then needs is nourishment in predigested, liquid form. Such nourishment is afforded in LITHIA BEER. Open a bottle of Lithia beer and note the rich aroma of the malt and hops. As you pour out a glass of it, see how SPARKLING and CLEAR and full of LIFE it is. Taste it and you will find that it meets your every expectation, with its chaste, delicate flavor.

The next time you order a glass of beer, we would like to have you call for the Lithia beer. Or better still, let us send you a trial case.

What are Bucket Bowls? They are big diameter bowls, filled with complicated parts to help them ski a dented. They are dangerous—expensive—hard to wash.

Tubular Dairy Separators Have no inside contraptions. Just a simple tubular bowl—with one small piece to take out. It is, by test—the closest skimmer known to science. Can be washed clean in five minutes. Examine the Tubular—look into the bowl—read the catalog we will give you.

100 PER CENT A YEAR FOR TWENTY YEARS TO COW OWNERS.

That's the marvelously good investment that more than ONE MILLION satisfied users are finding the DE LAVAL CREAM SEPARATOR.

With three or more cows a DE LAVAL separator saves its cost the first year, in more and better product, and it may be depended upon to go on doing so for twenty years, as there are already thousands of instances to prove.

There's half this much saving in the use of a DE LAVAL over inferior separators, while other separators last from six months to five years instead of twenty years. They lose half that might be saved while they do last.

That's the whole separator story in a "nut shell" and the reason for the now nearly universal sale of DE LAVAL separators. A DE LAVAL catalogue may be had for the asking. Likewise the trial of a DE LAVAL machine.
