resident, of the town of Auburn, died last week Friday, June 11th after a few days illness. The cause of death being heart failure.

Deceased was born in Mecklenburg, Schwerien, Germany, and emigrated to America in 1862, when he settled in Milwaukee, and in 1865 came to New Fane, where he resided for a year, and then located on a farm in the town of Auburn, where he fived up to his death.

He 'was married to Charlotte Buss (nee Graf), on March 1, 1866. Their union was blessed with eight children, of which six survive, namely: Henry of Clintonville, Wis., Herman, Otto and Theodore at home, Mary, Mrs. Fred Brockhaus, of New Fane, Elizabeth, Mrs. Herman Geidel and Emma, Mrs. William Quandt of Kewaskum. He also leaves his wife and one brother, Henry Fick of town Kewaskum, and two step daughters, Mrs. Frank Schultz of New Fane, and Mrs. Terlinden of Minnesota.

Mr. Fick was a good man, and was at all times held in the highest esteem by all who knew him. He was a good husband and a kind by his friends as well as his immed-1 iate relatives.

The funeral was held at 10 A. M. last Monday, from the Reformed church at Campbellsport, and the remains laid to rest in Auburn Cemetery, Rev. Landsiedel officiating To the bereaved family we extend our sympathy. CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to the friends and neigh bors, who assisted us at the time of the death and burial of our beloved husband and father, to the Fall Frarers, and to all who attended the funeral.

The excursionists numbered about one hund red including the band, whereas a much larger crowd was expected. Undoubtedly the inclemency of the weather was the reason of the small attendance.

The excursionists came up in two coaches attached to the regular train, and upon their arrival went to the park, where Landlord Eberle served a fine dinner.

The picnic at the park in the afternoon was fairly well attended considering the threatening weather. The band which consisted of twenty-five pieces rendered some fine music and the songs sung by the Glee Club were also very much enjoyed. The dance in the evening was largely attended.

The opening today was unique also in that for the first time, an American woman, the Countess of Granard, who was Miss Beatrice Mills of New York, had a place in the royal procession which made its way from Windsor castle to the royal enclosure facing the Ascot course. This procession consisted of twelve four-horse open carriages with postillions, equerries and outriders in uniforms of royal scarlet, in accordance with the custom when his majesty, the King, drives in state. The first three carriages were occupied by the members of the royal family. In the fourth were the Countess of Granard, the Countess of Gosford, the Marquis de Several, and the Marquis of Anglesey, while other the Marquis of Anglesey, while other distinguished persons, who are guests at Windsor castle for the week, followed in the other vehicles. The list of invitations to the royal enclosure was somewhat curtailed this year, so the lawn was not so crowded as usual.

The following Americans were recip-

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 16 .-Recommending legislation looking to the placing of a 2 per cent. tax on the net income of corporations and also the adoption of an amendment to the constitution providing for the imposition of an income tax without an opportionment among the several states, President Taft today sent to Congress a message embodying his views on the subject. This action followed a protracted special meeting of the cabinet.

In his message the President speaks of the apparent inability of Congress to agree to an inheritance tax, and as regards an income tax, he refers to the decision of the supreme court in the case of Pollock vs. the Farmers' Loan and Trust company, in which the court held the tax to be unconstitutional unless apportioned according to population.

"It is," says the President, "undoubtedly a power which the government ought to have. It might be indispensale to the nation's life in great crises.

ls as follows: "To the Senate and House of Representatives: It is the constitutional duty of the President from time to time to recommend to the consideration of Congress such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient. In my in-augural address, immediately preceding this present extraordinary session of Congress, I invited attention to the aecessity for a revision of the tariff at this session and stated the principles apon which I thought the revision should be offered. I referred to the then rapidly increasing deficit and pointed out the obligation on the part of the framers of the tariff bill to arrange the duty so as to secure an adequate income, and suggested that if it was not possible to do so by import duties, new kinds of taxation must be adopted, and among them I recommended a graduated inheritance tax as correct in principle and

Senate.

Senate.

The woolen schedule was still under consideration in the Senate when at 5:30 o'clock Wednesday the usual recess for dinner was taken. Several votes were obtained during the day, and thus a number of paragraphs were passed upon. Among these were the paragraph on top waste, etc., on which the committee amendment increased the House rate on wool top waste and other wastes from 20 cents per pound to 30 cents per pound, which, on a division of the Senate, was adopted by a vote of 40 to 30. A vote was also obtained upon the committee amendment increasing the duty on shoddy from 20 cents per pound to 25 cents, and that on tops from 18 to 20 cents, the committee prevailing in both cases Speeches were made during the day by Senators Warren and La Follette, the former advocating a generally increased duty, while the latter contended, as on previous occasions, for a general reduction. The two senators engaged in a sharp controversy. Senator Dolliver declared that a "rag trust" exists, and was contradicted by Mr. Warren. A letter was read from Gov. Durbin of Indiana advising prompt action on the tariff bill.

All their amendments were voted down by the usual majority. The wool schedule was debated all day and at 5:30 a recess was taken until 8 o'clock, when the discussion Income tax shared with the wool schedule

Income tax shared with the wool schedule the attention of the Senate during the day's sitting of that body on the 11th, and after discussion of an hour or more its further consideration was postponed until June 18. This action was the result of a motion made by Senator Aldrich, which followed a charge by Senator Bailey that undue influence was being brought to bear against the proposed Income tax amendment to the tariff bill. Mr. Aldrich declared that he knew of no such effort, but pleaded for the postponement of the question until the schedules should be disposed of. The Senate refused, by the decisive vote of 59 to 8, to recommit the wool schedule to the committee on finance on motion of Mr. Cummans been known as Norway's grand old man. Having completed consideration of items of the tariff bill that had been passed over under objections by senators during its second reading the adjournment of the Senate on the 12th marked an important period in the progress of the measure. When the bill is again taken up it will be upon its third reading for the final disposition of items upon which the most pronounced objections have been made. In completing the second reading of the bill, works of art, over twenty years old, and collections illustrating the progress of the arts over one hundred years old, which were placed in the free list by the committee on finance, were retained there after an interesting debate by a vote of 53 to 15. The starch industry received protection by a reversal of the recommendations made by the committee by which tapioca and sago flour will be subject to a duty of 1 cent a pound when not imported for food. Crude potash, potash carbonate, caustic potash and radium were placed upon the free list. At 2:19 o'clock the Senate adjourned.

Sugar was the stirring subject before the Senate on the 14th. It was brought to the front in connection with the consideration of the finance committee's substitute for the House provision of the tariff bill regulating the admission of Philippine articles into the United States. Mr. Bristow criticised the clause providing a duty on sugar admitted into the Philippines equal to that on sugar brought into the United States and exempting 300,000 tons of Philippine sugar from duty when brought into the united States. It was contended that the provisions were intended to promote the interests of the duty when brought into the United States. It was contended that the provisions were intended to promote the interests of the American sugar trust and not to benefit the Philippine producers. The supporters of the provision argued that to admit sugar into the islands free of duty would be to open the way for its free admission into this country. The only vote taken during the day session was on an amendmen by Mr. Bristow admitting sugar into the Philippines free of duty. It was lost, 11 to 49. The Senate at 5:30 p. m. took a recess until 8 o'clock, when the discussion of the Philippine tariff was resumed.

In the Senate on the 15th Senator Burkett

In the Senate on the 15th Senator Burkett of Nebraska vigorously denounced the finance committee for its change of front finance committee for its change of front overnight on the subject of tobacco importations from the Philippines, which he declared looked like a game of petty politics directed against Senator La Follette, and declared it gave the Senate a good opportunity to vote lack of confidence in the committee. This denunciation was called out by Senator Aldrich's acceptance of Mr. Bulkeley's amendment to reduce the number of cigars from the Philippines to be admitted duty free from 150,000,000 to 70,000,000 and the quantity of filler tobacco from mitted duty free from 150,000,000 to 70,000,000 and the quantity of filler tobacco from 1,500,000 to 1,000,000 pounds, with a provision that the wrapper and filler tobacco should be unstemmed. Mr. Aldrich in reply said there were men whose denunciation was the highest commendation. Senstor La Follette proposed a further reduction in the free importation of cigars to 60,000,000 annually. This was defeated, 38 to 27. Senstor Borah announced his intention of voting to give the Philippines an independent government. At 6 o'clock the dependent government. At 6 o'clock the Philippine amendment was laid aside and Mr. Aldrich presented the amendments to the silk schedule, which were adopted. Amendments to the glass schedule went over till tomorrow. At the Very Hour.

A correspondent relates a story concerning a gentleman who went out to India and obtained a post on a planta tion, leaving his wife and family in England, until he was in a position to send for them. One day when working on the plantation he rested for a short time with his hand on the handle of his spade. While he was standing in this way a bird alighted on his hand. Naturally he was very surprised and as he moved his hand the bird flew away. He proceeded with his work and forgot the incident. When the next mail from England arrived. however, it was painfully recalled to his more than 2,500,000 francs or £100,000 memory. His wife had died unexpected-ly, her death taking place not only on the same day, but at the very hour the bird perched upon his hand.—Birmingham Mail.

THE LEGISLATURE,

SENATE.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 9. At the opening of the Senate session to At the opening of the senate session to-day the committee on education presented a joint resolution to authorize the regents of the university to expend $9000 or more out of the university improvement fund to build the forest laboratory. The idea of the re-gents, Senator Stout explained, was to re-duce the original size of the proposed build-ing so as to keep it within the appropriaing so as to keep it within the appropria-tion of $41,000, but a government forestry official has been here and says the proposed reduced building would be too small to acreduced building would be too small to accommodate the machinery. The resolution was adopted. The Senate adhered to its amendment, rejected by the Assembly, to the Kalaher bill providing imprisonment penalties for abandonment of wife and child. The amendment provides that pendency of action for divorce shall constitute. dency of action for divorce shall constitute no defense to charge of abandonment. After getting into a tangle over the Blaine bill for a division of inheritance taxes the Senate laid the measure over until tonight. The Lehr joint resolution for the appointment by the presiding officers of the two houses of a committee to meet a month before the session of the Legislature of 1911 to consider the form of such bills as are then ready and providing for the expenses of such committee was adopted.

THURSDAY, JUNE 10.

By a vote of 53 to 18 this morning the Assembly sustained the governor's veto of the Chapple ore dock taxation bill. The veto of the bill came in yesterday but the Assembly waited until today to consider it. The Chapple bill provided for local taxation of railroad terminal properties, thus giving the cities in which they are located large emoluments and taking them from the state, which receives them at the present time under the integral system. The Assembly decided that $1800 a year was a sufficient salary for Herman L. Ekern, deputy insurance commissioner, by killing the bill raising his salary to $2500. The Owen bill requiring that a candidate receive 20 per cent, of votes cast at the previous election before getting his name on the party ticket, was advanced. Assemblyman Hambrecht's bill providing for two women university regents without increasing the size of the board, was passed, as was the bill appropriating $9000 additional for the completion of the forestry laboratory at the university. Final passage was given the bill clearing the way for a normal school at Eau Claire. The state gives $5000 for building plans and for improving a site to be given by the city of Eau Claire.

ASSEMBLY.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 9.

Practically $4,000,000 were appropriated for various purposes by the Assembly today. It also passed the Tracy bill which raises the salary of Oil Inspector Tracy $500 a year. This bill provides that an unlimited number of assistant oil inspectors shail be appointed and that accounts of the department shall be "O. K.'d" by the governor. Mr. Ingram made a last futile fight against the bill saying, "As you all know, this bill provides a salary raise for Tracy, it allows appointment of additional inspectors without limit and violates the constitution by giving the governor the right practically to audit the accounts of inspectors for traveling and other expenses. I sincerely hope that Gov. Davidson will have the courage and the nerve to veto it." After a short speech by Mr. Hambrecht in favor of the bill it was passed 40 to 30.

Unless the governor sees fit to use his veto power, teachers of all schools in Wisconsin henceforth may look forward to retiring on pensions. The Stout bill providing rewards for long services in guiding young Americans along the paths of virtue and in search of knowledge, received its last action in the Senate this morning. The upper house has only to act upon the Assembly amendment appropriating $80,000 a year from the general fund toward the retirement fund to be created. Assessments on the salaries of the teachers will make up the remainder of the fund. This $80,000 appropriation is to be annual and it is expected that the fund will grow with the years. This latter phase of the question, however, only can be demonstrated and worked out in time. The result will be that Wisconsin will set the pace for other states in working out a system of teachers' pensions. The bill introduced by Senator J. H. One of the professors pointed out that iron in the soil proluced strong, full blooded vegetables. Vegetables grown in soil deficient in iron are almost invariably anaemic, and the red beets are pale and white.

So, to restore the soil, Mr. Leach scattered a few loads of scrap iron on the ground. He was amazed at the improvement in the produce. But what most improved him were the luscious onions which grew rear a wagon spring, and the excellence of the spring radishes which thrived beside the iron from a springboard wagon.

Mr. Leach has this year fertilized the ground with the works of old clocks, and he hopes to raise a fine crop of hair-

Aunt Maria was arranging her lace pelerine with the air of amiable placidity which never failed her. The only other person present, a handsome, sun- I spoke you seemed to confirm me-" burnt boy, who in some mysterious way proclaimed himself a sailor every inch of him, was staring and scowling across at Miss Hesslerigge, and it dawned upon Verona that she was ostentatiously unconscious of the stare.

"Isn't he a goose?" she said petulantly, and added-"Eric."

"Lieut. Pritchard?"

"If you like. It's all the same." She grew confidentially pathetic. "It's perfectly awful, you know, having both of eyes were steady, and he could divine "If you like. It's all the same." She them in the house."

"Oh!" Verona exclaimed. She was enlightened. "Then-then it is he, Laura?" "Of course it is," said Laura. "Of course. As though anybody could be with dad for ten minutes and not know. And I've simply screamed it at him myself. But it doesn't do a bit of good. He waits until I've done screaming, and then starts boring again exactly where he left off. It's so aggravating." "It must be your fault. You told me almost that you were fond of him," "Well, so I am," Miss Hesslerigge admitted fractiously. "And I dare say he would swallow me-and he knows that too." She sighed forebodingly. "I shall have a nice time at dinner, I expect, for I have to go with him. Lord Martingale will take you. You needn't mind; he is all right to get on with."

"I don't think I shall mind." Verona was not in a light mood, but she found the consolatory patronage of the tone amusing. "Does not Lord Martingale see, Laura? You must be careful. He and told me who you were?" might quarrel with Mr. Pritchard."

"Quarrel? He wouldn't trouble. He treats Eric rather as if he were in knickerbockers. It's awfully rude, I think, if it does serve him right." Her pettishly resentful tone changed as she rose. "Here he is at last!" she said. "How late you are! We are all starving. Let me introduce you to Miss Ford. I viscount had reached her side. In the midst of her confused, amazed bewilderment the thought flashed into her head that it was a good thing that she was already so pale as she met the bright, steel-gray eyes, and saw the strapping of the wound upon the forehead which her own fingers had dressed.

"This is not my fault," he said hurriedly. "I have not forgotten what you said to me. I only came back when I heard that you would not be here. We must have met sooner or later, I suppose, but I would have kept out of your way as long as I could, and you should not have been taken by surprise if I could have helped it." He took her hand and put it on his arm. "Say as little as you like now, but give me, will you, a chance to speak to you presently?"

"I am sent over here to talk to you because you look dull. We are both, I believe, thought to be incapable of appreciating the music," the viscount said. He dropped his voice to a tone lower than its already quiet one. "You know I have been waiting and watching for a chance to speak to you. May I take this one?"

Verona made a gesture of assent. Seated in a quiet corner of the drawing room, her eyes upon the magazine she turned without seeing, she had felt his approach before he spoke.

She had expected it, knowing that a better opportunity could not be, and feeling that he watched for it. The millionaire had left the room on the plea of a letter to write, Aunt Maria was nodding in her chair, at the piano Miss Hesslerigge and the young lieutenant seemed equally busy, pleased and noisy.

Verona had spoken hardly a dozen sentences to her companion, and he had been almost equally taciturn. She knew, with a sort of angry amusement, that Laura, watching her constrained manner, hearing her bald utterances, had complacently and indulgently decided that she was terribly shy of Lord Martingale, and quite overwhelmed by his proximity.

He took a seat over against her, speaking at once abruptly. She still turned the pages of her magazine. "I want in the first place," he said, "to tell you that there was nothing in the least strange or mysterious in my being on the moor that night. I was simply know I have a place near there—and the car performed the usual trick and broke what you expected?" down. As far as I could make out my bearings I was not much more than five miles from here, and judged from my map of the moor that I could probably find my way pretty easily. So I decided to walk, and left my man to get the car back as best he could. Anyhow, I lost sure Eric is. He's scowling at me again my way, as you know, and came to now-just because I came over here to it was that I did not explain the matter gale's name was Oswald?" to you, or why, equally, as a matter of course, I did not give you my name."

If I knew which it was I would go and thank the people; I'm sure they would like it. But one can't go trailing into a million cottages; and he declares that he doesn't know where it was, and couldn't find it again." She looked at the viscount. "But that's nonsense; you know. "No." He rose abruptly, and turned away with a laugh. "You may be quite certain, Laura, that I shall never find my way to that particular cottage again."

The millionaire had re-entered the room, and the Viscount strolled over to him. Following him with her eyes, Miss Hesslerigge twisted herself into a more comfortable position on the couch. "It's all nonsense, you know," offirmed confidentially. "I'm sure he could find the place if he liked. He won't -that's it. And he'll hardly say a word about the accident, either. I don't believe he would have mentioned it at all motoring over from Exeter-perhaps you but for that horrid strapping on his

She stood looking up at Verona, with her hands linked behind

She stopped. "Really I would rather walk, Robert," she said in a gentler tone. "The distance is nothing to me, you makes no difference; I have, I assure know, and I always think better when I am quite by myself, and I do so want to feel ready to get on with my work

"I don't know," Verona answered

Verona, walking quickly through the bright autumnal day, feeling the familiar crisp air of the moor in her face, the familiar rough road under her feet, felt her spirits rise as she left the farm farther behind her. For a time, at least, her beloved solitude would be hers again. At the cottage she need not talk the talk and smile the smiles of the happy, serene, contented creature she was supposed to

She had played her part, but the thought of continuing to play it had been horrible to her; she had declared that she must go home. As for the nearing future, when she must always play it, when her words, her smiles, her whole self must be always ready, and her solitude no more-she thrust that thought away with a shudder which she could not repress and would not acknowledge. It was not close upon her yet.

Immigration Across Mexican Border.

(To Be Continued.)

During the ten months ending with the month of April nearly 8000 more immigrants came into the United States at Laredo, Tex., than during the previous entire fiscal year of 1907-08. During the same time application for admission are refused to more persons than ever before. The total admissions into the United States during the first ten months of this fiscal year amounted to 10,169, against 2252 for the entire previous year. The first four months of this calendar year admissions were as follows: 830, 694, 949 and 1121, against 280, 315, 437 and 415 for the same months in their order last year. Those excluded were three idiots, two imbeciles, three turpitudes, six mendicants, one assistant to aliens, sixteen white slaves, three agents accompanying aliens, twenty-one sufferers from sore eyes (tracoma), three Japanese without passports, sixty-four persons liable to become public charges (none of these were Mexicans), and thirty-nine violators of the contract labor law.—Mexican Herald.

Using a Life Preserver.

"The worst trouble about a life preserver," said an old sailor on the steamer L. C. Hanna not long ago, "is that few people know what to do with one when it's thrown to them. Many a man would drown in trying to get a life preserver over his head. The average causes the man to sink deeper and take more water into his lungs.

"The proper way to approach a preserver in the water is to take hold of the side nearest you and press upon it with all your weight. That causes the as a man ringing a cane at a county fair. After that mister drowning man can be rescued."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

PETTY POLITICS HINTED AT.

Change is Not Made Until Eastern Senator Asks for It and Burkett Denounces Committee.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 15 .-That the Senate committee on finance has been engaged in playing "a game of "Why, no—why should you? It is so petty politics" was today defiantly much nicer to be driven," answered Nelly practically. "I love a dogcart; I shall miss it awfully when I go away." She made in connection with a report by the petty politics" was today defiantly committee reducing from 150,000,000 to 70,000,000 the number of cigars which may be imported free of duty annually from the Philippines.

This change had been arrived at by the committee at a meeting held early today and was the result of representations by Senator Bulkeley of Connecticut, with an important product of whose state the Philippine tobacco importation would conflict. Senator La Follette had previously presented an amendment reducing the number to 75,-000,000 and the Nebraska senator found in the action of the committee a discrimination in favor of Bulkeley against La Follette. This was the reason for Senator Bulkeley's outburst, and he spoke with apparently strong feeling.

La Follette Takes Floor. As soon as the committee had brought in its amendment Senator La Follette took the floor. Expressing gratification that the finance committee had reduced the number of free cigars to the extent of 5,000,000 less than was called for by his amendment, Mr. La Follette said he was encouraged to change his amendment so as to provide for the admission of only 60,000,000 and he did so.

It was then that Mr. Burkett took the floor. Roundly denouncing the finance committee, he declared that its action in making changes in the Fniiippine amendment was sufficient to cause senators to lose confidence in it. The original amend-

"There is no mystery about it," protest ed Mr. Aldrich, "and no politics except a desire on the part of the committee to do the right thing and above everything else to pass this bill." Try to Hang Up "Bob?"

"It was also another effort to hang the senator from Wisconsin up in the air somewhere," suggested Mr. Burkette. "No disposition of that kind," promptly responded the chairman of the finance

"It would not be possible for the com-mittee to do that," said the Wisconsin

"I have cast a good many votes of lack of confidence in the work of the finance committee," said Mr. Burkett. "What right has the committee got to report a bill and ask us to legislate upon it when they have not given it enough attention and investigation to justify them in bringing it in here? I submit that the manner and method by which it has been done does justify us in taking the opportunity to vote a lack of confi-dence in this committee. This same sort of thing has occurred too many times."
Senators Dick, Gallinger and Depew defended the committee. Senator Depew doubted the real strength of the de-mand for tariff revision, and said if that demand had not been referred to in the Republican platform he believed there would not have been a loss of a single electoral vote.

Saying he had intended to vote for a decrease of the number of free cigars from the Philippine islands, "without regard to the source of that suggestion," Senator Oliver said he proposed to vote for the amendment without regard to whether they came from the committee or anywhere else. Aldrich Makes Caustic Reply.

Further replying to the criticisms, Mr. Aldrich said: "There are some men whose condemnation is the highest commendation." He declared he had done his duty in reference to this bill, and commended the course taken by the Republican mem-bers of his committee. He added that he did not object to senators taking s course to conform to their own views. The committee would change its views, he said, when senators could bring forth any testimony to show that the committee had made a mistake.

Second Amendment Rejected.

A vote was taken on the La Follette amendment reducing the number of free cigars from 70,000,000 to 60,000,000 and it was rejected, 38 to 27. The Republicans voting in favor of the amendment were Senators Borah, Bristow, Brown Burkett, Clapp, Cummins, Dolliver and La Follette.

FREE SUGAR IS DENIED. Senate Refuses to Make Grant to Philippines.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 15 .-The tariff on sugar was the leading subject before the Senate Monday. The only vote taken during the day was on an amendment by Mr. Bristov admitting sugar into the Philippines free of duty. It was lost, 11 to 49.

Let me introduce you to Miss Ford. I made her come after all, you see. Lord Martingale—Verona. What do you say, dad? Go in with Eric? Yes, I know—all right!"

As the young lady, with scant ceremony, twitched herself away from the paternal hand and advanced upon her paternal hand and advanced upon bestill scowling escort, Verona looked up. She did not start in doing so; one violent shiver had run over her before the viscount had reached her side. In the wind only look at the come after all, you see. Lord Martingale—Verona. What do you say, dad? Go in with Eric? Yes, I know—all looked at her. Oh, it was cruel she thought desperately, that her cheeks should flame, that her lips should shake, and that she should sit before him dumb! He moved impulsively nearer to her; in another moment she felt that his hand would have clasped over hers. It did not. With an airy flutter of chiffon and lace, wiscount had reached her side. In the wind only low marks the sold she has Nelly, said Verona.

"Not much, I hope. And she has Nelly, said Verona.

ALFALFA WILL ASTONISH. HANDFUL AT MADISON

That Hemp Planting Drives Out Canada Thistles.

JOHN M. TRUE ON CONDITIONS.

MADISON, Wis., June 15.-[Special.] -Wisconsin will harvest this year one of the greatest hay crops ever grown in the state.

present time are in splendid condition.

More corn and barley will be grown in the state than in several years past and the yield of alfalfa will be astonishing. At the university farm the first crop of alfalfa has already been cut, averaging a top of the state than in several years past and the yield of alfalfa will be astonishing. At the university farm the first crop of alfalfa has already been cut, averaging a top of the year. The bills which were refused passage over the government of the condition. alfalfa has already been cut, averaging a ton and one-half to the acre. Three more harvests from the same field are expected this year. Unlike other crops alfalfa is not destructive to the land, as the growth gets its life largely from the

"As a rule the crop conditions in the state are good," said Prof. Moore. "Although the crops were planted late the conditions are now almost ideal. The recent rains have assured a luxuriant have crop one that will be for above the hay crop, one that will be far above the average. The corn crop is all planted and is up. In some sections of the state it has been cultivated for the first time. The oat crop is fair and so far there have been no indications of any of the insect enemies or any evidence of rust. The barley crop throughout the state is fine and there will be an increased yield of this and also of corn.

Find Hemp Drives Out Thistles. "The university is planning to make some additional experiments on killing of weeds this year. Mr. Stone, my assistant, will conduct the experiments regarding the killing of mustard and also of Canada thistle. Last year we tried a rather navel plan on a farm where rather novel plan on a farm, where many Canada thistles grew at Waupun. "We planted hemp mainly to find out been grown. Whether one crop of hemp grown on Canada thistle ground will kill all of the plants is scarcely possible, but it may be a means of ridding lands of the plant."

True Says Outlook Is Good.

True. "Surely the crops in Dane county, which I have seen lately, show up fine. The reports show that nothing can prevent Wisconsin having a bumper hay crop and I think the outlook for oats, corn and barley is also good. The grass has been growing fast the last few weeks and within two weeks the farmers.

True Bills Charge Them with Conspiracy to Obstruct Administration of Justice.

NEW YORK, June 15.—The federal grand jury today handed down indictments against F. Augustus Heinze, "I think the outlook for crops in Wisweeks and within two weeks the farmers will be harvesting the hay crop. The early potatoes have began to show up good and the corn crop is being cultivated in some sections of the state. Under present circumstances Wisconsin can look for good crops."

Beat a Paris Restaurateur.

The manager of a fashionable Paris restaurant fell into a neat trap one day last week. A man named Daval, who had only recently been released from prison, called a cab and told the driver that he was the Count d'Abbeville and that he had bet a friend a large sum of money that, dressed in a tramp's rags, he would eat a differ at one of the most exclusive hotels. If the cabman would arrange the matter for him with the manager of the hotel the count would pay him handsomely. The cabman drove up to the luxurious restaurant, took the he would eat a dinner at one of the most manager aside and whispered the in formation that his disreputable looking fare was really a count in disguise and then related the story of the bet. The manager fell into the trap and the exprisoner was served with an excellent dinner with many wines. The meal over the man declared that he was no count and that he had no money. The manager leads to be a story of the splandid way his laughed heartily at the splendid way his guest played his part, but by and by the truth dawned on him. Largest Consignment of Reptiles Leaves New Orleans for Los Angeles-Freight Is $900.

NEW ORLEANS, La., June 15 .-What is said to be the largest consignnent of alligators ever shipped over a railroad left New Orleans Monday night or Los Angeles. There was a full carload of the reptiles. The rate on the shipment proved a tangled problem for the railway officials. A diligent search failed to find the word alligators in any of the tariff books and it was finally decided to apply the rate on "animals not otherwise specified." The freight charges amounted to $900.

Government Inquiry Sends American Refining Shares Down $8, Affecting Whole Market.

NEW YORK, June 15 .- There was an abrupt decline of $8 a share in American Sugar Refining stock during the first hour of trading on the stock ex-change today. The drop in price was at-tributed to the recent litigation of the company, and to fears of a rigorous government inquiry into the corporation's affairs. At one time the stock fell from $127 to $123 on one sale, but later there was a rally of $4.50. As a result of the break in this stock, the whole market

SOME FAMOUS BULLS.

Collection from the House of Commons -A Few from the Pulpit.

The House of Commons, as might have been expected, has contributed a fair share to a very amusing collection of "bulls." It was in one of the debates "bulls." It was in one of the debates of that body that the late Col. Saunderson described eastern Rumelia as "man enough to take her stand" in defense of a certain threatened right. An Irish M. P. once declared that of the outrages reported from Ireland three-quarters were exaggerated and half had no foundation in fact—a statistical computation that reminds one of another Irish M. that reminds one of another Irish M. P. who declared excitedly to a group of fellow members: "I want to convince you that there isn't any truth in half of the lies they are telling about Ireland."

The biography of Dean Hook recalls a certain minor canon who used to preach at the cathedral when Hook was a boy at Winchester school. In one of his at Winchester school. In one of his sermons there occurred the striking re-flection that "what is impossible can never be, and very seldom comes to pass. Another discourse was long remem-bered for its pathetic lamentation on the bered for its pathetic lamentation on the degeneracy of the age: "O tempora! O mores! What times we live in! Little boys and girls run about the streets cursing and swearing before they can either walk or talk!" But the Church of England has no monopoly of these violent contrasts, for it was at a City Tample meeting not many years ago that Temple meeting not many years ago that a speaker exclaimed: "I find my time is already gone. Therefore I will keep within it."—Windsor Magazine.

A Fish-Skin Suit.

The skin of a fish does not suggest itself as a suitable material for the making of clothes, yet it is used for this purpose by a tribe of Tartars in Man-churia. They inhabit the banks of the Peony river, and live by fishing and hunting. During the last 100 years they have become nearly extinct, owing to the invasion of their domain by agricultural Chinese. They are known as Fishskin Tartars. The fish they use is the tamara, a species of salmon. Both flesh and skin of this fish are supposed to possess wonderful heat-giving proper-ties.—London Globe.

AGONIZING ITCHING

Eczema for a Year-Got No Relief Even at Skin Hospital-In Despair Until Cuticura Cured Him.

"I was troubled by a severe itching and dry, scurfy skin on my ankles, feet, arms and scalp. Scratching made it worse. Thousands of small red pimples formed and these caused intense itching. I was advised to go to the hospital for diseases of the skin. I did so, the chief surgeon saying: 'I never saw such a bad case of eczema.' But I got little or no relief. Then I tried many so-called remedies, but I became so bad that I almost gave up in despair. After suffering agonies for twelve months, I was relieved of the almost unbearable itching after two or three applications of Cuticura Ointment. I continued its use, combined with Cuticura Soap and Pills, and I was completely cured. Henry Searle, Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 8 and 10, '07." Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole

People Tell Each Other About Good

Things. Fourteen years ago few people in the world knew of such a preparation as a Powder for the Feet. To-day after the genuine merit of Allen's Foot-Ease has been told year after year by one gratified person to another, there are millions who would as soon go without a dentifrice as without Allen's Foot-Ease. It is a cleanly, wholesome, healing antiseptic powder to be shaken into the shoes, which has given rest and comfort to tired and aching feet in all parts of the world. It cures while you walk. Over 30,000 testimonials of cures of smarting, swollen, perspiring feet. It prevents friction and wear of the stockings and will save in your stocking bill ten times its cost each year. Imitations pay the dealer a larger profit, otherwise you would never be offered a substitute when you ask for Allen's Foot-Ease, the original powder for the feet. Imitations are not advertised because they are not permanent. For every genuine article there are many imitations. The imitator has no reputation to sustain-the advertiser has. It stands to reason that the advertised article is the best, otherwise the public would not buy it and the advertising could not be continued. When you ask for an article advertised in this paper, see that you get it. Refuse imitations.

What He Would Do.

This happened in the days when history was made, at a frontier post forty miles from a railroad. The officer of the day had just joined from graduation leave, and the recruit on post had arrived a week earlier from the depot at David's island. And he was one thoroughly dis-gusted recruit; sick of sage brush and jackrabbits; longing for the sights and sounds of his native Manhattan. The young officer was in a bantering mood, and after having asked our recruit what action he would take in every possible (and impossible) contingency, finally asked, "What would you do if you saw an express train crossing the parade grounds?" Instantly came the answer, "By G—, lieutenant, if it was goin' east, I'd jump right on it."—Uncle Sam's Magazine.

FOR WOMEN AND GIRLS

The next time baby screams with colic instead of dosing it with soothing syrups or old nurse remedies, such as catnip tea and other decoctions to which our grandmothers pinned their faith, try what hot water sipped from a spoon or taken through a bottle will do to relieve the pain. The water should be fresh and boiled, but not boiling. Care must be taken that it is not hot enough to burn the delicate tongue and gums. This will usually give relief, and can be re-peated frequently with no danger to the child.

Some of the sheer cotton fabrics require a lining. A simple way is to have the material made up without a lining. Then have a fitted lining of wash china silk. Baste this into place. This makes it possible to wash the lining—and the ining to a summer gown does need laundering frequently.

Ruffles are to be revived. The girl graduate, the young matron, the girl York on the steamer Baltic, on June 23, who is neither one nor the other, all to study the sociological, economic and can be furbelowed to their heart's con-industrial conditions of European labor And with the ruffles have come back fichus and poke bonnets. Could any combination be more antiquated? Yet it is to be the smart thing for the summer of 1909. There will be no starch, no outstanding petticoats, nothing to make the effect bouffant. We can't go that far from what we have been all in a breath, but we can cover a skirt with ruffles, little and big, from hip to hem. Muslins will be made up with this method; all the soft fabrics like silk voile marquisette, messaline, and fish net may be ruffled,

It seems that white linen will be worn less this summer than in former seasons. but gray, tan, khaki and even darker shades will be extremely popular.

The coat which is sold for wear in stormy weather is quite frequently used for a top coat in all kinds of weather. Instead of a dull gray affair, without style or artistic value, it has now beome a smart garment that does not detract from one's appearance whenever it may be worn. Many of the new ones are black, made of a soft, satiny cloth that has distinct style. Others are in dull two-toned stripes, with collar and cuffs of plain material. The bright blue and red ones should be avoided even by school girls, as they are too garish for street wear.

If one has an old Brussels carpet which apparently has passed its days of usefulness, it may be made to do service for some time in the kitchen. Turn i so the wrong side is uppermost, tack i down and paint it any desirable color with ordinary paints. It will wear quite York. as well as linoleum.

Peanut salad is a very tasty salad in varm weather. Remove the skins from fresh roasted peanuts, chop but not very fine, and add an equal quantity of crisp celery diced. Serve on tender young lettuce leaves, with the following dressing: Beat the yolks of two eggs well and stir in half a teaspoonful of sait and half a teaspoonful of mustard. Add slowly four tablespoonfuls of melted butter and six tablespoonfuls of vinegar Cook in a double boiler until the mixture thickens. Remove from the fire and add the whites of the eggs beaten stiff. When cold and ready to serve, add a cupful of whipped cream.

If one wishes ever so little stiffening in a lingerie waist, add a little borax iron when still pretty damp.

Mercerized thread is preferred to the file silk by many for embroidering hos-iery. The wearing qualities are better than the silk, while the appearance is quite similar.

THINGS FOR CHRISTMAS.

Importers Now Ready with Samples for the Holiday Trade.

Of course in all sorts of businesses preparations have to be made in advance. Clothing for winter wear is made up in summer, summer clothing is made in winter. In many lines the planning is done a year ahead, as it is, for example, in looking after the supply of goods required for the Christmas trade. No sooner are the holidays over than buyers go abroad to hunt up novel-ties in Europe and to put into the way of realization ideas that they take with them, all designed for the trade of the next Christmas-holidays. It takes, time to make the goods, time to import them and time to distribute them and get them ready finally for sale. Jobbers here begin to put in their orders for Christmas goods six or eight months ahead, in the spring.

Such has long been the custom in preparing for the holiday trade, a custom brought to mind just now when most people are thinking only of going away for the summer, by a sign in a window of a down town importer: "Christmas samples ready for inspection."—New

BRIGANDS' MOUNTAIN CAVE.

Explanation of the Mysterious Disappearance of a Servian Band.

Last week the population of Kragbujevats and the surrounding villages joined the police in the pursuit of a band of brigands who had long infested the neighboring mountains. The fugitives led the chase through a circle passing through the narrowest defiles, and each time they emerged into open space one

After three days there remained only the leader, Ignat Volkovitch. He headed for a distant peak and was skirting an enormous boulder when a little girl 3 years old ran into his arms. In his perplexity the police came up and discovered that this boulder blocked the mouth of a cave. Here Volkovitch's accomplices were found huddled together.

Those who attempted to escape were shot, but Volkovitch, at once impeded and safeguarded by his little daughter, was persuaded by his wife to surrender. -Belgrade correspondence Pall Mall Gazette.

Coffee's Weight on Old Age. When prominent men realize the injurious effects of coffee and the change in health that Postum can bring, they are glad to lend their testimony for the benefit of others.

hood, was an inveterate coffee drinker. had been troubled with her heart for a number of years and complained of that 'weak all over' feeling and sick stomach.

"Some time ago I was making an official visit to a distant part of the country and took dinner with one of the merchants of the place. I noticed a somewhat peculiar flavor of the coffee, and asked him concerning it. He replied that it was Postum.

"I was so pleased with it, that after the meal was over, I bought a package to carry home with me, and had wife prepare some for the next meal. The whole family were so well pleased with it, that we discontinued coffee and used Postum entirely. "I had really been at times very anxious concerning my mother's condition, but we noticed that after using Postum for a short time, she felt so much better than she did prior to its use, and had little trouble with her heart and no sick stomach; that the headaches were not so frequent, and her general condition much improved. This continued until she was as well and hearty as the rest of us.

"I know Postum has benefited myself and the other members of the family, but not in so marked a degree as in the case of my mother, as she was a victim of long standing." Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Wealthy Englishman Succeeds in "Breaking the Bank."

Every now and then public attention is attracted by some particularly heavy gain or loss at the tables of Monte Carlo. The latest hero of the Riviera is Huntley Walker, a wealthy Englishman, well known as a racing motorist.

The night before last he won $30,000. and last night in a little over two hours' play he won a further sum of $60,000. The table at which he was playing had to suspend operations for a few minutes to replenish its exhausted reserves, and thus Mr. Walker, in the accepted parlance of the rooms, "broke the bank."

One of the Casino's officials, speaking of the run, said there was nothing extraordinary about it, as "any one playing, as Mr. Walker always did, in maximums, must very quickly either win or lose a large amount." In spite of his luck on these two occasions, Mr. Walkthe character was occasions, Mr. Walk-er's experiences only prove the truth of the old saying, "Red gains sometimes, black gains sometimes, but Blanc al-ways gains"—Mr. Blanc of course being the proprietor of the famous gambling rooms.

In a public contest held Nov. 17, 1908, at the Creamery of the Door County Creamery Co., on Cedar St., Sturgeon Bay, Wis., the Iowa Separator won a decisive victory over the DeLaval Separator. Will & Co., Messrs. Evans and Alexander, two DeLaval experts, conducted and directed the skimming operations of the DeLaval Separator.

OUR CHALLENGE.

We stand ready to test the "IOWA" Separator against any other make of separator and will deposit in the Bank of Campbellsport ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS to any other separator company's FIFTY that the Iova will skim closer on the average runs at temperatures of 50, 60, 70, 80 and 90 degrees, and a cream of not less than 25 to 50 per cent than any other separator, all machines to be run exactly as printed instruction book sent out with such machine. Furthermore, if five machines enter the contest we will contribute towards St. Matthews Church, Campbellsport, one hundred dollars if two out of the five do not leave an average of five times as much butterfat in the skim milk as the Iowa, tests to be made by a competent person or submitted to the Dairy School at Madison. We to use in these tests No. 2 or 3 Iowa Separators, this being the size in general use by our farmers. There are no Wulf tricks in this challenge, and we have deposited Fifty Dollars in the bank as a forfeit if we refuse to enter the contest

I will give any farmer $25 who will bring this contest about, no machine in the world barred. This is no bluff, try us and find out.

We skim with any machine in the world—50 or 100 pounds.

Michael Degenhardt,

Campbellsport, Wis. Mr. Degenhardt is the agent for the Iowa in Fond du Lac, Dodge and Sheboygan counties and by purchasing separators in car load lots he is able 'o quote prices exceedingly low and which appeal to the farmers. These cream separators can be seen at his headquarters in Campbellsport or Mr. Degenhardt will be pleased to call on a prospective buyer. Write today to Mr. Degenhardt if you are interested.
