CLASS POEM.

sed and read by Vivian E. Colvin o June 11, 1909. Seated before you all in a line Is that wonderful class of 1909,

A smarter class you never will see, If a hundred years old you live to be. Our Principal is J. F. Cavanaugh, A better teacher you never saw. His essistant of course is also good, Her name is Miss Florence S. Wood, The Precident is Here P.

The President is Harry B., A great orator as you will all see. Some day he'll be our Congressman From district six of old Wisconsin

The vice is Miss Rose F. O., A more jolly girl you'll never know. But some day you'll see her name Written in the "Hall of Fame."

Clara and Leona will leave their home, Over the wide, wide world to roam. May they in wisdom and knowledge increa But their friendship for us never cease Alvin G the law will read And draw up mortgages and a deed Of himself, to a little black eyed lass Who was his chum in the Senior class.

Edna will accept this deed

And follow where ever he may lead. And be his helpmate and comrade thro life In a home of their own far, from turmoil and strife.

And strife. Elsie intends to enter a school, And teach the children the "Golden Rule" Having chosen this noble work, She never will her duty shirk.

An old maid we must have and this we feel Should be the fate of Miss Agnes Kuehl. If out of sorts or sick you should be, She'll dope you up with some catnip tea.

Walter intends to soar high as we'll see, And hang out his shingle W. Schneider, M. D.

May he in his profession succeed. And cure all those who his service wil

What will we do for a governess, Why of course we'll take Miss Agatha

She is competent as we all know, To lead the children "In the way they should go."

Our brilliant scholar is C. A. C., She's going to the "Universitee," And when she has the battle won We'll greet her with a loud "Well Done,

As for myself, why you all can see That I a writer of verse will be, And when you have nothing else to do Just take my works and read them thro.

Following '09 comes the class of 1910, But as we're not well acquainted with them, We'll quietly by them pass, And take up the next "The Sophomore Class."

There are two little couple in this class, For each little laddie there is a lass, Cheerful and pleasant always are they From the rise of sun to the close of day.

The Freshman, Oh! but weren't they green When first inside our room they were

But we've found out they have come to stay, For their greeness all has passed away.

Thus we josh with tongue and pen, And I wonder will we twelve meet again As in those dear old days now gone, When we met with laughter, chatter and song.

So farewell to the class of 1909, Which I've tried to present to you in

And when our work on earth shall cease, May we all meet again in that "Home of Peace."

the Village.

Campbelisport, Wis., June 22 .---The committees in charge have completed arrangements for the second annual nome-coming which promises to out-class all events of us kind held heretofore in this section of the state.

No pains have been spared to secure attractions that will be pleasing to old and young alike.

10 begin the entertainment feature at 10:30 Saturday, July 3rd, there will be a magnificent parade of induscrial floats and floats entered by civic societies. These floats are aiready in process of building and there is no doubt that every business house in the village will be represented. All have joined hands to make this a prominent feature. Saturday afternoon will be an entertaining program rendered at the grove.

Saturday evening a grand display of fire works will take place, after which all will join in the homecoming dance from 8 to 12, in Braun's hall, for which the Military Orchestra of Fond du Lac will furnish music.

Sunday will be a day for family picnics, the afternoon program at the grove will consist of special attractions by amusement compan-ies and new things occuring every minute.

Monday, July 5th, will be frolic day and Riff Raff parade, fire run various contests, which have been arranged.

Ample seats have been provided at the grove. Hotel accommodations have been arranged for. Music both band and orchestra, will be of the highest order. Refined en-tertainments for all.

M. at St. John's church by Rev. Goddstern the pastor. 10 the strains of a bridal march the party entered the church. the bride neatly attired in a gown of white silk and carrying white roses and carnations, was attended by Miss Alma Paulus as maid of honor, also gowned in white silk, while Misses Clara Heinemann and Alma Dettmann dressed also in white acted as bridesmaids. The groom was attended by Mr. Arthur Dettman as best man, and Jake Paulus and George Weisner as ushers. Little Edna Reul was ring-bearer while little Miss Cynthia Stahl was flower carrier. After the ceremony was over the bridal party and invited guests repaired to Bichler's Hall where the event took the form of a grand celebration. many relatives and friends assembled to do honor to the happy young couple who were just embarking on the sea of life. Many happy hours were spent in joyous converse and dancing and music after the inner man was satisfied by the delicious banquet that had been spread be-fore them. The bride is the oldest daughter of Jake Paulus a farmer of Random Lake. Though we are acquainted with the young lady we know from reports that the groom has chosen both wisely and well. His future life partner no doubt possesses all the good qualities, which are necessary in the making of a happy home. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dettmann who have been residents of this neighborhood for many years. Here he was born and here he grew up to man,hood an'd we are pleased to learn that he will still remain a resident, he having taken possession of his father's farm. Judging from his past life which has been a good one he will no doubt in the future be able and willing to fulfil the duties of a good husband and meet the trials and cares of life unflinchingly. We extend to the happy young couple our heartest congratulations and best wishs. Among those from elsewhere who attended the wedding we will mention a few. Mr. and Mrs. Wigand Kraus of Port Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kost, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Heolz, Arlington Heights, Jake and Dave Heolz and family of Arlington Heights, Mr. and Mrs. Val. Hanich of Milwaukee, John Popp and family of Thiens-ville, H. Schober of Milwaukee, William Ludwig and family of Milwaukee, Mrs. Clara Demler, and son of Neillsville. WASHINGTON, D. C., June 23 .-Without a sign of a speech, the Senate today began voting on the lumber schedule as soon as a quorum had been procured. Whether due to the hot weather or to exhaustion of the orators from other causes, the change was accepted as a good omen by those who are anx-ious to crowd the tariff bill to final action and have the session come to an end. The first vote was on an amendment by Senator McCumber proposing a rate of $1 per thousand on sawed lumber instead of the rate decided upon by the finance committee, which was $1.50 per thousand. The committee was sustained, 44 to 24. Of the affirmative sustained, 44 to 24. Of the amrmative votes, ten only were cast by Democrats. Bankhead, Clay, Davis, Gore, Hughes, Johnson, McLaurin, Overman, Paynter and Tillman. The Republicans who voted in support of the amendment were Beveridge, Bristow, Brown, Burkett, Burton, Carter, Clapp, Crawford, Cummins, Curtis, Gamble, La Follette, Mc-Cumber and Nelson. The Democrats voting against the amendment were Bacon, Bailey, Chamberlain, Fletcher, Fos-ter, Martin, Money, Simmons, Smith of Maryland, Taliaferro and Taylor.

The vote in detail: Affirmative: Republicans - Aldrich, Borah, Bourne, Bradley, Brandegee, Briggs, Bulkeley, Burnham, Carter, Clark of Wyoming, Crane, Depew, Dick, Dillingham, Dixon, Dupont, Elkins, Frye, Gallinger, Guggenheim, Hale, Heyburn, Kean, Lodge, Lorimer, Nixon, Oliver, Page, Penrose, Perkins, Piles, Root, Scott, Smoot, Sutherland, War-ner, Warren and Wetmore. Snapshots of $70,000,000 Worth of Feminity in Action on Tennis Courts Cause Trouble.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 23 .- Pittsburg's rich young maids and matrons stormed when they saw the morning newspapers. As a result newspaper photographers were barred from the lawn tennis courts where the annual tourney of the Allegheny County Tennis association is being held. The other day photographers snapped about $70,000, 000 worth of femininity in action on the tennis courts and printed the pictures. The protest was emphatic.

Young women of millions were caught "in action" on the tennis courts, and then there was action to burn. Miss May Sayers was caught with skirts swirling, very much "pigeon toed," and with a smile that might be called a grin. She had just delivered a telling stroke. Miss Myrtle McElteer, former woman champion, also was snapped pigeon toed, with her fist clinched and a baleful glare on her face. Miss Helen Schmidt, daughter of the

Mrs. Cordroy, who is a familiar figure to all the residents of Delmar and vicinity, has ten great-grandchildren. Upon the death of her second husband, forty three years ago, she built a home in Del mar on a lot which she bought for $75. This site is now worth $1000. This has since been her home, despite the at-tempts of her grandchildren and great-grandchildren to dissuade her from living alone. "Aunt Hester," as Mrs. Cordroy is known, was the youngest child of Hamilton Neal, a wealthy farmer. When 14 years old her mother died, leaving her and her father to run the farm. "If the girls of today would do more work, and think less of the parlor," she said, "they would be healthier and live longer."

A STORK'S NEST.

Treasures One Yielded in an Alsatian Town.

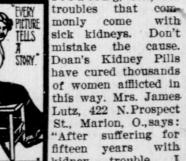

The following details concerning the structure and contents of a stork's nest investigated on the summit of the cathedral of Colmar in Upper Alsace may be of interest: The city architect has just delivered a public lecture there on "Storks and Their Ways." He described a stork's nest which was about 30 years old; it measured 6 feet across and was 5 feet in height; it weighed sixteen hundredweight, or over three-quarters of a ton, and it was such a solid mass that it had to be broken up by using a pickax. The nest was made of twigs of wood and clay and the materials filled twenty-four sacks. The walls of the nest were found to contain seventeen ladies' black stockings, five fur caps, the sleeve of a white silk blouse, three old shoes, a large piece of leather and four buttons that had belonged to a railway porter's uniform. -Berlin Cor. WOMAN FARMER 112 YEARS OLD.

She Lives Alone in a House Only Nine Miles from Where She Was Born.

The oldest woman on the peninsula, ebracing Delaware and the eastern shores of Maryland and Virginia, is a resident of Delmar, Del. She lives in a house by herself. She is Mrs. Hester Codroy, aged 112 years, having been born on a farm nine miles east of Delmar on February 12, 1797. The most remarkable part of it all is that this woman actually cultivates two large gardens adjoining her home and sells the products. She uses a hoe in helping along the growth of potatoes, corn, onions, etc., when she becomes tired, she gets a large spoon from her kitchen and utilizes if while crawling down the rows

The Senate spent the greater part of the day on the 17th in the discussion of Senator Aldrich's amendment increasing the duty on print paper from one-tenth to two-tenths of a cent per found. Senator Brown of Ne-braska in opposing the increase asserted that even under the present tariff the Amer-ican mills had a big advantage over those of Canada, and declared that the cost of production of the Dominion was greater than in the United States. This statement was decled by Senators Aldrich and Ha c. The duty on likestrated post cards was raised 325 per cett. to shut out Gernan competition. The amendment of the Senate committee on finance taking hides from the free list and restoring the Dingley law of 15 per cent ad valorem was before the Senate all day on the 21st. Senator Warren of Wyom-ing and Senator Carter of Montana sup-ported the provision and in vigorous lan-guage attacked the attitude of the free hide advocates, while Senator Page of Vermont defended the action of the House in placing hides on the free list. In support of free hides Mr. Page contended that the adoption of such a policy would not injure the farm-ers, while at the same time it would be of vast benefit to the leather manufacturers He said the beef trust garnered all the profits on hides from whatever source. Principal among these was the conference report on the bill providing for the taking of the thirteenth census, and with respect to that measure the debate hinged on the Senate amendment requiring that applicants for appointment must take the examinations in the states or territories in which they profess to live, and that they must have had at least one year's actual domicile therein previous to such examina-tion. The amendment was concurred in, but all other amendments were disagreed to and the bill was again sent to conference. Eskimo Graves of Stones.

To the Eskimo mind, everything animate or inanimate possesses a soul. Thus, in their graves we found they invariably placed every cherished possession, that their spirits might serve the departed spirit in the same capacities in the life to come. There is little room for burial be-neath the scanty earth in Labrador, even if the frost would permit it. So the grave consists of upright stones, with long, flat ones laid across. These not only serve to keep the wolves from the body, but wide chinks also afford the spirits free passage in and out.-Wilfred T. Grenfell in The Century.

Patrick Burns. William Burns.

Great Excitement Prevails.

As soon as it was known that an accident had occurred the greatest excite-ment prevailed both at the mine and in the little hamlet, a short distance away. Wives, mothers, sisters and brothers rushed to the month of the mine tearfully imploring some news as to the fate of their loved ones. A number of the foreign women, screaming and crying, tried to rush into the dark pit.

The company officials immediately en-gaged the services of all the men they could find and the work of restraining the hysterical relatives was undertaken. Meanwhile calls for help were quickly sent broadcast throughout the surround ing country, while the task of reaching the unfortunate men in the mine was pushed forward as rapidly as possible.

Hope Ends in Disappointment.

The first report that came to the anxious watchers at the mouth of the mine was that two or three men had been injured and that the accident might not turn out so seriously as such accidents generally do. This buoyed up the relatives and friends of the miners for a short time, but, as the minutes sped by and only a few of the men reached the surface, burned and seriously injured. despair began to settle on the watchers.

When Johnson and the Burns brothers succeeded in escaping from the pit they stated brokenly, while suffering the greatest agony from burns, that the explosion was a bad one. It appeared to them that the explosion had taken place throughout the entire mine and that ev ery one at work in the mine, seemed for a moment or two to be paralyzed.

Following the explosion there was a flash and then all was darkness. Piti-ful calls for help and groans were heard as the three men made their way to the entrance staggering and falling over the bodies of comrades who had succumbed with the first shock.

WON'T MIX.

Bad Food and Good Health Won't Mix.

The human stomach stands much abuse, but it won't return good health if you give it bad food.

If you feed right you will feel right, for proper food and a good mind is the sure road to health.

"A year ago I became much alarmed about my health, for I began to suffer after each meal no matter how little I ate," says a Denver woman.

"I lost my appetite and the very thought of food grew distasteful, with the result that I was not nourished and got weak and thin.

"My home cares were very heavy, for beside a large family of my own I have also to look out for an aged mother. There was no one to shoulder my household burdens, and come what might I must bear them, and this thought nearly drove me frantic when I realized that my health was breaking down.

"I read an article in the paper about some one with trouble just like mine being cured on Grape-Nuts food and acting on this suggestion I gave Grape-Nuts a trial. The first dish of this delicious food proved that I had struck the right thing.

"My uncomfortable feelings in stomach and brain disappeared as if by magic and in an incredibly short space of time I was again myself. Since then i have gained 12 pounds in weight through a summer of hard work and realize I am a very different woman, all due to the splendid food, Grape-Nuts."

Alone at the cottage, with her work and all the familiar things which for years had made up the tranquil contentment of her life, she would recover her balance, would regain and recall her old self. Surely it should be easy when this new self was barely a fortnight old. It was just a fortnight to the day since Robert had asked her to be his wife. Just a fortnight since, through the beating of the rain, she had heard the stumbling, uncertain step upon her gardenpath, and had opened her door upon the man who had almost fallen into her arms.

Well, she would probably never see him again; it would most likely be easy enough to avoid doing so. She raised her eyes with a sharp sudden start and thrill and saw him standing within a dozen yards of her.

His motor car stood at the side of the road; he wore the long light caped gray coat in which she had first seen him, or one like it. That he had recognized and waited for her approach she understood before he said as much, which he did at once. It was only for a moment that she stood still at the sight of him, then she advanced as he did.

"I knew it was you," he said, "as soon as you really came in sight. Yet I did not expect to see you. It is a long walk from the farm." He had taken her hand. Trying to draw it away she found the effort resisted, and looked at him. There was appeal as well as trouble and reproach in her dark eyes. He released her hand.

"You know I have been at the farm ?" She would have recalled the words the else could she sav?

"Rather guessed it, knowing that the people there are friends of yours. And I knew you were not at the cottage."

"You have not-?"

"No!" He answered the unspoken question with something like a laugh. "I have not been there; I don't forget your dismissal. I have only been near enough to see that you never came out -that there was no sign of you. You did not forbid me to do that, I think. I said to myself that if I did see you I would not speak. I should have kept my word as admirably as I have done at present, no doubt."

Verona did not answer. She could not bear to look at his restless, clouded, darkened face. One glance had shown seam across the forehead where her strapping had been. She stood miserable and dumb, feeling her cheeks burning as eyes which must divine the one as clearly as they saw the other. The viscount spoke again.

"You are angry of course," he said abruptly. "As I acknowledge it, you one?" He pointed to a track that diverged almost at right angles from their own. "Does that continue far?" "Yes; right across the angle of the moor. It joins the Exeter road." "Ah! Is it navigable all the way?" "For motors? I don't know; I believe so." Her tone changed; she shook her head as he stepped out and would have taken her hand to assist her. "I will not get out, thanks; it must be getting late. We must go back."

"Not yet." He looked at his watch. "It is hardly 4 o'clock. If we are back in two hours it will be barely dusk. Give whom I did not care a straw." me a little longer." Verona silently yielded, as she had us an hour, and the car will be quite safe." He saw the signs of reluctance after that."

Verona did not answer, but she moved in the direction in which she had pointed. A sense of faint miserable amusement stirred in her at the sudden angry insistence of his voice. But it did not make her angry, although she tried to draw her hand away. "The path is so narrow," she said, with more pleading than she knew of her in voice. "I shall go quicker so."

"And safer so," he answered briefly. The silence had hardly been broken again when they reached the gray circular rings of stone which had been a village in some vague far-off time. The huts, or such of them as retained any definite shape, were all alike-the roughwith an opening for doorway and more great slabs for beds and table alike. They took some time to examine, for

GUERNSEY BREEDERS MEET.

FOND DU LAC, Wis., June 19 .-The annual summer meeting of the Fond du Lac County Guernsey Breeders' association was held today at the home of Charles L. Hill in Rosendale. The meeting was called to order at 11 o'clock . this morning. The principal speaker was Prof. E. G. Humphrey of the University of Wisconsin. Following the meeting, which was open to all interested in Guernsey breeding, the members of the association inspected the Birchwood herd at Rosendale.

BOARD MUST DECIDE.

Although Gov. J. O. Davidson has signed the bill providing for a municipal court in this county, the bill must be approved by a majority vote of the county board at its November session before it will become effective. As twothirds of the supervisors have expressed themselves in favor of the proposed court the board will probably vote for it unanimously. The first judge will be elected in the spring of 1910 for a term of three years and at the expiration of that time the judges will be elected for four year terms.

WEDDINGS AND ENGAGEMENTS.

Miss Martha Schoepke of Oakfield and August Unglauban of Theresa were married this week in the Lutheran church at Oakfield. They will reside in Theresa.

At a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Kraemer of Van Dyne the engagement and approaching marriage of her sister, Miss Mary Hau, and Christ Freund of this city was announced.

Mr. and Mrs. August Ziemer of Theresa have announced the engagement of their daughter, Bertha Frances, to Leonard A. Sander. The wedding will take place at 3 o'clock in the afternoon on June 29, at the home of the bride's parents.

LITTLE CHAPIN BOY LOST.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Chapin wandered away from his home yesterday afternoon and for several hours his parents searched the city for him. He was found by the police in a house on Park avenue into which he had been taken by people who found him crying on the street.

TRIBUTE TO THE ENGINEER.

FOND DU LAC, Wis., June 21 .-Rev. John Lloyd, in a sermon at the Division Street M. E. church Sunday night, paid a glowing tribute to Engineer Thomas McDonald, who was killed in the wreck at North Fond du Lac last Thursday night. He said that John Hay left a dialect poem telling of a pilot saving his crew and this poem il-lustrated the case of Engineer McDon-ald. He declared that McDonald's sac-"With the approach of the date on rifice in giving up his own life to save the passengers again reminded him of the Shadow at Calvary and of the great your back and walked away, I suppose? that appeases you. I am leaving here tomorrow."

"Tomorrow!" Verona echoed. "Forfor good ?" she faltered.

"For good ?" He laughed again, but the sharp irritation and bitterness of his tone changed to one of mockery. "Of course, for good-in all ways for good. What more delightful occupation can fall to a man than to make preparations for the reception of his bride? And I have short time allowed me. You know the day is fixed, do you not?"

"No."

"For a fortnight hence. My fiancee, by the way, is in some doubt as to whether she shall or shall not insist upon your presence. You shut yourself up so, and are so out of things, it appears, that she fears you will hardly do justice to the occasion. It is to be quite a function, I understand, as the wedding of a millionaire's daughter should be. Quite out of your line, of course."

"Quite!" Verona assented. Her voice was steady, but she could not bear much more, she knew. "I shall tell Laura she is right in thinking so. I have nothing to do with either fine occasions or fine people. It is not at all necessary for her to invite me." She glanced at the car. "You were going for a drive, Lord Martingale, and I am keeping you. I will go on now."

"A drive? Yes, I was." As he glanced at the car as she had done his face suddenly changed, losing its moody look. "You have never been in a car-you told me so. Come with me now."

"With you?" she echoed.

"Yes, why not? I was going to follow that road to the right of the morass that you showed me that day-do you remember ?- the only one that motors can follow across that part of the moor, you said." His hand closed on hers, gently, eagerly. "I am leaving here tomorrow. I shall never see the moor again. My future wife loathes it as much as you love it. You need not grudge me a last hour or two-you won't be sorry tomorrow to think that you gave them to me. You will come?"

Why not? Verona thought, with sudden recklessness. He was going tomorrow. What difference could it make? It would be something more to remember. What harm could it do to Robert, what to Laura, if she granted the last request he would ever make to her? She let him place her in the car, hardly realizing that she had spoken no word of consent, properly conscious of nothing but his close presence beside her, and of the sweeping of the fresh wind into her face as the car swung along. The rug which he had tucked round her slipped presently; he stretched his free hand round her shoulder to replace it, and she suffered what over it, warm and fast. What did it gether. And there it is, you see." matter? He was going tomorrow.

They did not talk. A monosyllabic were well beyond the morass, with the like that.' Tongue shooting into the center, a great dull brown streak, that he slowed the car to a standstill and stood up.

"This is almost as far as, we may venture, I suppose? We can't encircle the morass and return that way?"

"Don't you see?" She looked amazed that he did not see. "It may last for hours-all night; our fogs often do at this season of the year. If this does, and remains as it is, stationary! Don't you understand what I mean? Look!" She pointed to the road. It vanished where it met the fog as though it had been cut sheer off. He drew a sharp breath.

"I see! As long as the fog stays there we can stay here. Is that it?" "We must. The road runs beside the norass, and there is absolutely no protection. You could not follow it for twenty feet. And if the car left it that would mean certain death. The bog would suck us down like a quicksand." "Then unless, or until it clears, we must stay here?"

"Yes. There is nothing else to be lone." There was a silence. Both stood looking at the wall of fog.

"Are you cold? May I put a rug round you?" he said. "Thanks, I am not cold!"

"Will you get into the car? It may e more comfortable."

"I would rather stand." "You will be a long time forgiving me for this, Verona." "It is not your fault."

"I suppose I ought to tell you that I am sorry, but it would be a lie. If I seemed to her a terrible impulse not to had been asked an hour ago what I seemed to her a terrible impulse not to shrink away, but to move nearer, to nestle into the clasp of his arm. Mr. Wolfrum was a well known druggist, having been engaged in that business since 1852, when he began traveling for the Greene & Button Co. of Milwaukee. In 1866 he opened a drug store here which he continued until his death. Deceased was a second lieutenant in Co. C, Twen-ty-fourth Wisconsin volunteer infantry, and served all through the Civil war. He was also a prominent Mason. He leaves seven children and one brother. He

BONACUM MINIMIZES ATTACK.

Bishop Says Only Indignity Was in Being Forced to Walk.

LINCOLN, Neb., June 21 .- Bishop Bonacum has returned from Butler county and minimized the demonstration at Ulysses, in which he was pictured as being driven from the town by an angry mob. No violence, Bishop Bonacum said, was offered him and the extent of the demonstration toward the two priests who accompanied him was limited to rude remarks by a small party of men and boys. The only indignity he suffered, the bishop said, was when, after leaving Ulysses in a livery rig for David City, a party of men followed in an automobile and compelled the liveryman to abandon his passengers, necessitating their walking a distance of four miles to the village of Garrison, where they were accommodated for the night.

Bishop Bonacum said he was convinced the action at Ulysses was incited by an enemy, but in the absence of positive proof he was not prepared to make any charges as yet.

which we celebrate our national independence, I deem it advisable to caution the public in the use of explosives and other fire-producing devices, says the fire marshal, "which not only have resulted in larger property losses, but also have caused the loss of many lives in the past. "Last year was the first in which this department made an effort to arouse public sentiment to a realization of the langers on that day and to the exercise of caution which might result in a saving. This was done by issuing bulletins direct to the fire chiefs and other city authorities and was very generally supported throughout the state. The results were most satisfactory, as the small number of accidents, both to lives and property throughout the state, as compared with previous years, was commented on generally. In a recent ad-dress before the National Board of Underwriters, the following statement was made, referring to the United States:

The large fire loss in this country as compared with other countries is due to the difference in the idea of thrift; in the view of responsibility of neighbors, and in the perception of the real mean-ing of fire loss or waste." "This leads to the conclusion that not only should the local officers exercise vigilance in the enforcement of the state law and local ordinances regulating the sale and handling of the ordinary 'joyproducers.' but also all careful citizens should join the vigilance committee. In this way, by cleaning up alleys, remov-ing rubbish prior to the Fourth and by promptly reporting any violations of the legal regulations on that day, I believe a still greater saving would result.

"The public should be made to realize that they are responsible not only for their own property, but for that of their neighbors, and that they are not to be allowed to celebrate to the extent of menacing surrounding property."

A POINT ABOUT WIRE FENCE

A weak point in the average wire fence is at the joint.

The "Swinging Joint" in APEX fence differs in construction from all other fences. The stay wire is formed from separate pieces of wire, which wrap or coil about each other at their junction with the line wires, giving the strength of two wires at that point. This re-inforced, double strength stay is contained in no other fence

The cut above shows this construction, and the dotted lines also show the up and down swing possible in the line wires, which allows the fence to adjust itself perfectly to all unevenness of the ground.

Don't buy any fence until you have seen the APEX and its special advantages.

The messenger says he was held up at the point of a revolver by two masked men. One pushed him back into a corner and the other cleared the counter in the transfer office at the Green Bay & Western depot. The messenger was counting money, which was to be sent out on morning trains, and it is said the sum was between $4000 and $5000.

After securing this money the two men backed out of the door and ran across several tracks into the freight yards, hiding behind boxcars. The messenger did not fire on the bandits, al-though his gun was lying on the table.

PRINCESS IS BORN TO

THE QUEEN OF SPAIN. Arrival of Daughter Is Particularly Pleasing, Making Two Boys and

Girl in Royal Family. LA GRANJA, Spain, June 22 .-

Queen Victoria gave birth to a daughter

When it was seen Monday night that the accouchment was imminent the members of the royal family, the premier and a number of high court personages were hastily summoned to the palace.

The birth of a princess is particularly pleasing to both the King and the Queen, as they had hoped that this child, Queen, as they had hoped that this child, the third, would be a girl. The first two children are boys, Prince Alfonso, born May 10, 1907, and Prince Jaime, born June 23, 1908. The oldest, the heir to and Louis H. Case of the brokerage house of Cameron Currie & Co. of this city, which failed last July with liabili-ties of about $1,500,000. Warrants were also issued for Michael J. Bourke of this city, a customer, who owed the firm unwards of $500,000 at the time of kingdom.

Queen Victoria of Spain is a daughter of the late Prince Henry of Battenburg and Princess Beatrice, daughter of the late Queen Victoria of Great Britain. She was married to King Alfonso of Spain May 31, 1906.

The accouchement was in every respect successful. The Dowager Queen Christina, the mother of King Alfonso and Princess Beatrice, mother of Queen Victoria, were at the bedside.

The booming of fifteen guns an-nounced the birth of a girl and the rejoicing thereafter was general. Half an hour later the King, accompanied by the mistress of the robes, his face beaming with joy at the happy deliverance and the fulfillment of their wish for a daughter, proudly presented the infant to the dignitaries assembled in the antechamber. As the babe nestled in the basket, which was richly adorned with exquisite lace, it was seen that she was a blonde and healthy in appearance, although smaller than her brother.

The King has been showered with congratulations, and in commemoration of the event, he signed the pardon of several prisoners and reduced the pun-ishment for a number of others. HARRIMAN ALL RIGHT.

MANITOWOC, Wis., June 23 .- That while the financial conditon of the Grand Army of the Republic posts in Wisconsin is good, some of the posts are dwindling down to fifteen and ten members, and should be consolidated, is the principal point made by Department In-spector J. S. Anderson of this city in his report to the state G. A. R. officers.

The state G. A. R. posts have a total financial standing of $55,003.52, of which s16,687.07 is represented by cash in the various treasuries, and $38,316.45 in property and securities. The depart-ment inspector found 229 posts of which he inspected 199. There are 122 posts with Woman's Relief crops attached, and 7 with Sons of Veterans.

Of the 280 posts which have been chartered during the existence of the G. A. R. in Wisconsin, 51 are now extinct. The posts inspected represent a mem-bership of 6886.

RELICS FROM A RIVER BED.

Finely Tempered Weapons from a Channel on Canadian Border.

While workmen were removing rock and debris from the old channel of the river between the second and third chutes to make way for the big power dam on the American side they unearthed in one of the pot holes in the rock a remarkable collection of Indian weapons and other articles, comprising tomahawks, spearheads, arrowheads, sturgeon fishhooks, etc., all made out of pure copper and hardened to the consistency of steel.

The articles are bright in appearance The articles are bright in appearance and are of superior workmanship, being evidently the work of the prehistoric race which fashioned the mounds, orna-ments and utensils of the early days. That these people possessed the knowl-edge of tempering copper is evident from the specimens. How they came there is a mystery, but the general belief is that a party of Indians while endeavoring to land or make a portage lost control of their canoe and were swept over the falls, the canoe being overturned, caus-ing the contents to go to the bottom of ing the contents to go to the bottom of the river or be carried down stream. That these articles were together is proof that they must have been tied in a leather sack or some such receptacle. They were found packed together in the hole, which had doubtless been caused by centuries of swirling waters and gravel.—Fort Frances Cor. Minneapolis urnal

FOR WOMEN AND GIRLS

A dressmaker who is successful in bringing lace to the desired tint uses powdered yellow ochre, toning it with rice flour. The lace is dipped in, cov-ered with the mixture and rubbed until it is an even color all over and then is shaken free from the powder. The color does not come off.

A woman who does her own house-work for herself and husband makes butter of the cream which she has left from day to day. As soon as the cream is sour it is turned into a bowl and with the egg beater is whipped until the whey and butter separate, an operation that takes only a few minutes when the cream is thick. Then the whey is drained off and worked out of the butter in a bowl of ice water. Then salt is worked in. A cupful of thick cream will make half a cupful of butter.

The short coat is back with walking uits and plaited skirts. With the pres ent vogue for long coats and plain skirts such suits have an odd air, but even they have straight lines unbroken from neck o skirt hem except for a slight dipping n at the waist line.

One of the innovations of the early summer is the big circular cape made of the same material as the princess gown with which it is worn. It sometimes has a thin silk lining and at other times it has no lining. The cape fastens with a tasselled cord or with ribbons from the collarless neck. Military collars have been seen on them.

A cure for mildew that is the remedy of an old negro laundress, is excellent for all white goods, and will not injure fine materials. Pour a quart of boiling water over two ounces of chloride of lime, and three quarts of cold water, let the mixture stand until settled, strain, and it is ready for use. The material should be steeped in the lime water for a day or over night, when the spots will be found to have disappeared.

In sweeping a room covered with matting, do not use tea leaves to keep down the dust. They discolor the fiber of the matting. Bits of damp newspaper will do no harm. By giving a matting a sec-ond sweeping with the broom covered with a flannel bag much dust will be gathered which escaped the first sweep-ing. Matting should never be laid without an under layer of paper-ordinary newspaper or wrapping paper will do. This lining will double the length of this cool floor covering's time of service.

The newest directoire collar shows marked improvement in finish. It has thick ruching, and instead of the rib-bon ending in a bow, it is drawn through a long gilt or jet buckle in the front, a cascade or a fluffy jabot displaying itself down the front of the waist. This buckle is so much more generally becoming than a bow of ribbon, and the certain air of rimness it imparts to the collar makes it appropriate for wear with tailored gowns as well as those on a more dressy order.

Every Dish of Banquet Made of Potatoes

One of the most remarkable menus one of the most remarkable menus ever drawn up must have been that of the feast to which Franklin, Lavoisler and other distinguished men sat down as guests of Parmentier. Every dish at this banquet was made of potatoes, and even the brandy and liquers were the product of the same vegetable. This was product of the same vegetable. This was Parmentier's final proof of his sceptical fellow countrymen that potatoes were not poison, as they persisted in believ-ing. Louis XVI. himself was one of Parmentier's earliest converts, granted him land on which to grow his plants, and did not disdain to wear the potato flower as a buttoniere. Then Parmentier cleverly posted guards around his potato fields by day and withdrew them by night, so that people were tempted to come then, steal, eat and be convinced. The all potato banquet was the climax of the great campaign.—London Chroni-

SOURCES OF RADIUM. Obtained from Pitchblende After the Abstraction of Uranium.

Considerable surprise and great interest have been caused throughout England by the discovery in Cornwall of large quantities of pitchblende, from which radium is produced, after the extraction of uranium, says the Boston Globe. Heretofore the tailings from the Cornwall mines have been regarded as useless, but it has recently been found that the residuum is the mother of radium.

Pitchblende ore is chiefly obtained in the Erz-Gebirge, in Bohemia, and so val-uable are the finds that the Austrian government has prohibited further exportation from that country. The process of extracting radium from the ore is extremely tedious and expen-sive, tons of pitchblende yielding only the minutest quantity of the precious metal, which is theoretically worth $30,metal, which is theoretically worth $30,-000,000 a pound. The total world produc-tion thus far has not equalled one grain, or 1-480th of a pound. To be appreciably cheaper it must be derived from uranium minerals, when obtainable in large quan-tities from urane of the form tities from surface deposits. The Cornish mines are already fitted with machinery for the treatment of the residuum as ore, and the company contemplates the treatment of pitchblende.

Aluminum Dress Trimmings.

The rumor has been more than verified that aluminum would be asked to play a conspicuous part in the season's trima conspicious part in the scalar s in the ming glorifications. Quite one of the most beautiful expressions is found in the mingling of gold and aluminum on a groundwork of fine black net, while in another case a delightfully shadowy impression is afforded by a flat darning of coarse silver net with pale gold .- The

The classical large hat that never goes really out of fashion will be seen this summer for large functions and ceremonious occasions. It is trimmed this season with a bouquet of ostrich tips, set far back to the left side and at the back. Instead of the tips, the long "amazone" is sometimes used, but the tips are the is sometimes used, but the tips are the newest and smartest. More science goes to the placing of these feathers than might be imagined. The balance of the silhouette depends greatly on the trim-ming of the hat, and it is her understanding of this principle that makes the Parisian milliner so successful.

Any girl who embroiders may possess dainty lingerie this year, for the work is quite simple and the garments may b ought already stamped. It is a good lea to have the garments match throughat, and this is easily done, for the sep-rate pieces can be had bearing the ame pattern. One of the simplest and ost effective designs is in French polka nost enective designs is in r rench poika lots, which are stamped on the ruffles, the edges of which are scalloped in but-tonhole stitch. Conventional scroll de-signs and little trailing vines are also good. There is really no end to the pret-training that may be put on lingeria ty trimmings that may be put on lingerie, and the girl who can design her own patterns is particularly fortunate, for she t is who can have distinction and char-cter in all the pieces. Butterflies make most charming design, especially when bits of lace or drawn work are used in the wings.

A crusade was begun recently against the nun moth, which has caused havoc among the pines of the Lausnitz moun-tains, in Saxony. Two big reflectors among the pines of the Laushiz model tains, in Saxony. Two big reflectors and an exhaust fan were set up on the municipal electric light plant of the city of Zittau. All night long two great streams of light were thrown on the wooded mountainsides, about half a mile The moths came fluttering along away. The moths came fluttering along the ribbons of light by the thousands and were drawn in by the exhaust fan and destroyed. The result of the first experiment was twenty-nine kilos of dead moths, and besides these, thousands were destroyed by the arc lights of the city, from which the globes had been removed.

MICHAEL DEGENHARDT, AGENT.

THE IOWA WINS

In a public contest held Nov. 17, 1908, at the Creamery of the Door County Creamery Co, on Cedar St, Sturgeon Bay, Wis., the Iowa Separator won a decisive victory over the DeLaval Separator. Wulf & Co., Messrs. Evans and Alexander, two DeLaval experts, conducted and directed the skimming operations of the DeLaval Separator.

OUR CHALLENGE.

We stand ready to test the "IOWA" Separator against any other make of separator and will deposit in the Bank of Campbellsport ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS to any other separator company's FIFTY that the Iova will skim closer on the average runs at temperatures of 50, 60, 70, 80 and 90 degrees, and a cream of not less than 25 to 50 per cent than any other separator, all machines to be run exactly as printed instruction book sent out with such machine. Furthermore, if five machines enter the contest we will contribute towards Sc. Matthews Church, Campbellsport, one hundred dollars if two out of the five do not leave an average of five times as much butterfat in the skim milk as the Iowa, tests to be made by a competent person or submitted to the Dairy School at Madison. We to use in these tests No. 2 or 3 Iowa Separators, this being the size in general use by our farmers. There are no Wulf tricks in this challenge, and we have deposited Fifty Dollars in the bank as a forfeit if we refuse to enter the contest

I will give any farmer $25 who will bring this contest about, no machine in the world barred. This is no bluff, try us and find out. We skim with any machine in the world-50 or 100 pounds.

Signed.

Michael Degenhardt, Campbellsport, Wis.

Mr. Degenhardt is the agent for the Iowa in Fond du Lac, Dodge and Sheboygan counties and by purchasing separators in car load lots he is able to quote prices exceedingly low and which appeal to the farmers. These cream separators can be seen at his headquarters in Campbellsport or Mr. Degenhardt will be pleased to call on a prospective buver. Write today to Mr. Degenhardt if you are interested.
