MRS. K. ENDLICH, Kewaskum, Wis.

Nine mutual fire insurance companies are plaintiffs in an unusual case against the Wisconsin Central railroad as the result of the burning of Auburndale on May 16, 1906. These companies carried risks upon property in that town which was destroyed by fire and after paying losses to the amount of $10,000 they became subrogated to the rights of the insured and are now seeking to recover the $10,000 on the ground that it was through the negligence of the railroad company that the fire started. The plaintiffs are the Campbellsport Mutual Fire Insurance company, Kewaskum Mutual, the Theresa Mutual, the Mayville, Beaver Dam, Sheboygan Falls, De Forest and Hortonville Mutual Fire Insurance companies.

The complaint alleges that on May 16, 1906, the R. Connor Lumber company had 1200 cords of dry cord wood piled on the Wisconsin Central's right of way in Auburn-dale, Wood county, and that on that day the wood was destroyed by fire, which is alleged to have been started by a spark from an engine running upon the tracks of the company. This fire later spread to the village and caused a heavy loss of private property. The plaintiffs in the present cases are Mrs. E. Frederick, Louis Koller and George Schmidt of Auburndale.

Locals Are Defeated at The Hands of West Bend Through Poor Umpiring And Poor Playing

In the last game of the season, which was a benefit game for "Spike" Berger of West Bend, who while playing second base for the locals had the misfortune of breaking one of his legs in a game with Richfield on the second County Fair day at West Bend, Sept. 24th the locals lost to West Bend last Sunday by a score of 9 to 2. Although the score shows that it was a one sided game the local boys and rooters who accompanied them do not feel down hearted in the least, as they showed their deep feeling to the unfortunate one, and are well convinced that if "Mr. Umpire" would have given them any kind of a show, that a different story could now be told but as they lost, will take it so.

Wasicek, the famous twirler, who shut out Merrill this summer by a score of 2 to 0, started the twirling for the Benders, but before anyone could realize what happened, the locals secured five hits off his wonderful delivery and scored two runs. He retired in the sixth in favor of Seibert, the Freeport, Ill., leaguer, who is draîted by the St. Louis Nationals for next year. CLEVELAND (O.) STREET CAR FIGHT ENDS AFTER LONG CONTEST.

Settlement Will Eliminate the Controversy from the Fall Campaign-One Cent Extra for Transfers.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 5 .- A conference was held today to arrange final details for an absolute settlement of the local street railway situation, which has been bitterly agitated for eight years. The basis of the strife has been Mayor Tom L. Johnson's contention for 3-cent fares. The proposed settlement will be upon this rate of fare, and will eliminate the street car question from the fall cam-paign. All the main points have been

It is agreed that the city shall give the Cleveland Railway company, the owner of the local lines, a twenty-five-year franchise, revokable whenever any of the provisions of the contract with the city are violated. The city reserves the right purchase the lines at any time municipal ownership is made lawful. The city also reserves the right to name a purchaser of the lines after eight years.

The initial rate of fare is to be 3 cents on all lines, with a 1-cent extra charge for a transfer. Both the city and the railway company have agreed to let Judge Robert W. Taylor of the United States court determine the value of the railway property and the maximum rate of fare. It is agreed that at no time shall the rate of fare be greater than will allow the company an earning of more than 6 per cent.

Judge Tayler has indicated that he will make the maximum rate of fare 4 cents for a cash fare and the regular ticket rate seven tickets for 25 cents and a cent extra for transfers. This proposi-tion has been accepted both by the city and the railway company.

GUILTY, RULES APPEAL COURT

CHICAGO FINANCIER LOSES FIGHT AFTER CONVICTED OF MISAP-PLYING TRUST FUNDS.

SENTENCED TO FIVE YEARS.

Defendant Appealed on Ground That Errors Were Committed and Attitude of One Juror.

STORY OF HIS RISE AND FALL.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 5 .- John R. Walsh, convicted of misapplication of prisonment imposed upon him by the trial jury, unless the supreme court upsets affirmation of a verdict of guilty handed down today by the United States circuit court of appears here.

Counsel for Mr. Walsh in their appeal laid the greatest stress on what they alleged was a lack of criminal intent on the part of the defendant. In the very lengthy brief which they filed, much law was quoted to show that the convict-ed banker used the funds of the bank in what he considered a legitimate man-

The opinion of the court of appeals, written by Judge Humphrey and handed down by Judge Grosscup, is brief and is confined almost wholly to the question of criminal intent. Allegations that Juror Palmer was unduly influenced are dismissed with a word, and but little more is said in eliminating allegations of inconsistency and repugnancy. inconsistency and repugnancy.

No Inconsistency in Verdict. "So long as there is no inconsistency in the verdict as to the substance of the matter charged in the various counts," says the opinion, "the verdict will not be disturbed. If the gravamen of the charge in each count, on which there has been a verdict of guilty is the there has been a verdict of guilty, is the same, there is no inconsistency in the verdict."

As to Juror Palmer the opinion reads: "The record does not show that any improper influence worked upon the jury. The return made to the court was in fact a verdict of twelve jurors. The attempt by one of them afterwards to impeach his verdict can have no consideration. This doctrine is well established, and is based upon reason as well as upon authority."

In the instructions given the jury by Judge Anderson in the trial court, the higher tribunal finds no error.

what would show innocence or guilt, good faith or bad faith, the court sought by instruction carefully to define, and we think did fairly define."

Counsel for Mr. Walsh have thirty days in which to file application for a rehearing by the court of appeals. Meanwhile he will be at liberty under his present bonds of $50,000.

History of the Case.

The rise and fall of the fortunes of John R. Walsh, who is now 72 years old, forms an interesting chapter in the history of Americans who have risen from obscurity to power.

The three Walsh banks—the Chicago National, the Equitable Trust company, and the Home Savings bank—were closed by the comptroller of the currency on December 18, 1905, nearly five years ago. At that time Walsh not only owned these institutions and the Chicago Chronicle, but owned all, or nearly all of the stock of the following compaan of the stock of the following companies: The Acme Gas company, the Bedford Belt Railway company, the Chicago Southern Railway company, the Chicago Wharfing and Storage company, the Indiana, Southern Commercial company, the Illinois Southern Railway company, the Lake Michigan Car Ferry Transportation company, the Mount Olive and Stanton Coal company, the Ohio Quarries company (of Ohio), the Ohio Quarcompany (of Illinois), the Southern Indiana Coal company, the Southern Indiana Railway company, the Southern Missouri Railway company, and the Wisconsin & Michigan Railway com-

According to the brief of the govern-According to the brief of the government on the appeal, all of these companies were bankrupt, or on the verge of it, when secured by Walsh for little or nothing. Their securities were unmarketable and practically worthless. Then, it is alleged, Walsh formed corporations to buy these companies from himself, the birty in payment took of the security taking in payment stock of the new corporations and enough of their bonds to repay himself at their face value for the sums he actually paid for them. In this way, according to the prosecution, he secured for nothing stocks and bonds to the face value of $30,000,000.

Had Big Railway Dream. Walsh dreamed a great dream of a railway system to be placed together from his scattered purchases which would reach from the Mississippi to the Ohio, through Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan to Duluth and Superior, Wis. The quarries and coal mines were to furnish much of the traffic.

To secure funds, Walsh had recourse to the funds in his banks. In covering up these loans, it is alleged that he used memorandum notes signed with the names of clerks who were not consulted in the matter. There was nothing on the books to show that Walsh had received the loans. Even Fred Blount, the vice president, is said to have been ignorant on the subject. For collateral Walsh deposited the securities of his various enterprises. For two years it is charged that Walsh crash came it was discovered that 66 per cent. of the securities held were those of Walsh properties. Of the $25,000,000 deposits, $16,000,000 were represented by the paper and securities of the Walsh Grounds for the Appeal.

Walsh's appeal contended that the trial court erred in its rulings in regard to the showing of criminal intent, citing the case of the United States vs. Hibbard in the appellate court. In its answering brief, the government insisted that the cases were in no wise alike, and declared that the instructions given by Judge Anderson in the Walsh case were taken with scarcely the change of a word from an instruction approved by the United States supreme court in the case of Agnew vs. United States.

In connection with the attack made upon the verdict of the jury because of the attitude of Juror Palmer, the government brief showed that all of the jurors, except one who is in Florida, and Mr. Palmer after the trial signed affidavits showing that Mr. Palmer reached his verdict freely and without any undue influence. The government further contended that when the jury was polled, loint maneuvers of the regular army Palmer acknowledged that the verdict and the national guard are a thing of was his, and at that time there was no was his, and at that the there was his past, at least the win be no repeated exception taken by counsel of Mr. ition of the recent Boston campaign, as Walsh to the verdict, and no request ong as the present directing forces in was made that the jury be sent out for further deliberation. It was also pointed out that immediately after the jury was discharged that Mr. Palmer said to one that period of stress and privation, but the funds of the Chicago National bank, of the counsel for the government, I the cost in human suffering is held by must serve a sentence of five years imsend an old gray haired man to the penitentiary.'

"You didn't deny it then, I suppose?" Lady Delisle said, looking contemptuously at her excited husband. "I suppose you fell down on your knees before Gartmore and confessed?"

"How could I deny it? What would have been the good of denying it?"

"Bah! What can he do, even if he had proofs? He is your son, after all, and the person your exposure would sky was a mass of tossed purple-black the two young men. Lord Delisle came touch most nearly. If he knows everything it is all the easier to marry him to Irma."

The countess looked at him contemptuously, and asked spitefully, "What are you going to do?" "Do? You know I can do nothing. He's determined to tell Alick in any case says that he means to do so in justice to Kathleen.' "You can think of no other way out of the difficulty ?" said the countess. "No; there is no way out of it," Lord Delisle replied wearily. "I don't care much now. I'm tired of the whole thing. and want to be done with it anyway."

The countess sat down on a low seat. She had seen her husband in this mood once or twice before; and, while it increased her contempt for him, it caused her too to feel a good deal of uneasiness. Personally she had no intention of sitting still and letting things take their course. As Delisle had said, Alexander Lorrin was simple and kind-hearted; and it was probable that he, and even the rebellious Gartmore, could be induced for family reasons to hush the affair up. But then there were the girls. How could they rely on Irma and Kathleen keeping silence, and waiting until their money was paid to them? And even if Irma and Kathleen did this Lady Delisle would have been far from content with such an arrangement. The sums which Delisle had originally misappropriated were comparatively small ones-a few hundreds which had gradually swollen to a few thousands, as the girls passed from childhood to womanhood, and Lord Delisle had taken these sums chiefly to pay certain pressing debts. But his wife had not ceased to long to have the whole | that noise?" of the girls' fortunes. She would not be beaten-she would not let the money go! Was there not a way to silence Gartmore before he spoke to the doctor or Alick Lorrin?

As Lady Delisle raised her face the earl started back from it-it was so haggard, so cruel, so ghastly.

"What-what are you thinking?" Delisle stammered out, trembling. He must not know-Lord Gartmore was his son.

"Nothing!" the countess said, forcing her features to resume their usual expression. "Nothing! Like yourself, I am sick of the whole thing. I can't think about it, and I don't care what happens. I am going to my room." She went upstairs. Norton, her maid.

Lord Gartmore was alone in the smoke avoided a tete-a-tete with him; and pay his usual evening visit to Kathleen's room. Gartmore took a note from his pocket, and reread it.

"So I didn't need to worry my head about speaking or not speaking to him." he said slowly to himself. "What a dehesitate or be frightened. And she's handsome too-I declare she looks prettier every day."

He glanced at a clock on the chimney-

"Half-past 9. I asked Surtees to come here at 10. Heigho! It's bound to be an unpleasant interview. It's a queer position for a man to be in-to have to bear witness against his own father. But I'll do my best to persuade Surtees that the thing may be not right yet, and that father was persuaded into it by the countess. I believe he was. Hallo, you're early, doctor! Sit down. We sha'n't be disturbed."

It was a long interview, and painful, as the young viscount had predicted he would find it. It was after 11 o'clock when Claude Surtees rose to leave the

"Good night, Lord Gartmore!" he said

"Good night! You will speak to Lord Delisle tomorrow, then, about sending the girls away somewhere?"

"Yes. Good night!" Claude stepped out into the wide, dimly-lighted hall. The Delisles kept early hours, and the great house was already quiet. Half an hour ago Lady Delisle had met her husband on the stairs, and had asked him-

"Where is Gartmore?" "Alone in the smoking room," the earl replied brusquely; and they went, the countess to Kathleen's apartments, the earl to his bedroom.

Claude had paused for a moment outside the door of the smoking room. He was thinking pityingly of the young viscount, and of all the unhappy family with which he had been so strangely that noise? Is it just in my head?" brought into touch. He did not look up; he was unaware of the stealthy figure

"Yes, 'm." The lady glanced at the clock-there were twelve minutes to elapse before the train was due. She dismissed the motor she went in, and, taking off her veil and cap, began to arrange her disordered tresses. The face reflected in the mirror was that of Irma Vassie.

"I'm glad I'm in time," she said to herself, looking with a kind of wonder at her own calm face. "If I find Sir John at home, and if he comes back with me-he must come back-we will be at Dalmassie again in a few hours. The doctor from Ilverton will be with him before then." Her thoughts shrank away from the realization of what might be going to happen—of what might have already happened. The rush of the train into the station was a welcome distraction; and in a few minutes she had taken her ticket and was being swiftly carried to-

Lord Gartmore was unusually talkative, so much so indeed that the earl was made uneasy by the good under-standing which seemed to exist between to offer to take turn by Claude's bedsida. The young man was already in a feverish state, and felt that it would take only half an hour of the earl's society to throw him into delirium. He shot an appealing glance at Gartmore, who, since his father had entered the room, had relapsed into his normal state of cold sullenness; but Gartmore had not seemed to understand the look, and had-sulkily and without raising his eyes-agreed to the earl's proposal. He lingered in the room, however, till Claude had finished the few penciled lines in which he told Mme. Stephanoff of his accident, reassuring her by saying that the great Sir John MacPherson was attending him,

"I hope, Dr. Surtees," Lord Delisle said in his cringing way, when he saw how Claude was employed—"I hope that if you have any friend you would like to come here you will consider yourself free to give an invitation. river with carp, set about dragging it.

The owner of the pond, R. Bannister, and others threw a leaded cork topped net across the pond on one side. The weighted net stuck several times in the mud at the bottom of the pond. The waders released it, but at last it got so firmly embedded and its weight so in-creased by the fish it enclosed that it was impossible to move it, and like the Biblical fishers of old the net, or rather the pulling rope, broke. Another was soon fastened on, but the net was so heavily laden with mud and a seething mass of fish in the middle that nothing moved it, so the big fish had to be captured and brought to the bank by the men wading. Then somewhat lightened, it was finally, amid a scene of much excitement and noise, drawn in to the bank, filled with carp, small and big, old veterans and young fry.

Between two and three hundred of the finest from 4 to 6 pounds in weight were

FEAR NEW CLASS RUSH

Many Injuries Expected from Interclass Scrap at Madison Between Freshmen and Sophomores.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 6.—[Special.]— That the "bag rush," the renovated class scrap between the freshmen and sophomore classes at the University of Wisconsin which is scheduled to take place on the lower campus Thursday afternoon, will make the former lake rushes look like sorority pink teas in the matter of broken noses and battered anatomies, is the prevalent opinion of the university

The differences between the classes will be settled on the lower campus. The freshmen and sophomores will be provided with twelve sacks apiece stuffed with hay. The object of the rush is for each side to get as many of these sacks as is possible from the opposing side, protecting at the same time the sacks which have been allotted to them at the beginning of the fight. The struggle will continue for twenty minutes and the side having the greater number of sacks in heir possession at that time will be de-ared the winner.

There are about 1500 freshmen in college and about half that number of sophomores, and a fracas, the like of which has never before been witnessed at Wisconsin is expected. With a whirling mass of 2000 or more students fighting one another in an enclosure less than a block square there are bound to be parts of the field that will not be properly policed by the student "cops" and it is at these places that scores of injuries are looked for.

RAPS MEDICAL CORPS.

Regular Army Captain Says Much of National Guard Field Service Is a Joke.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 6 .-Declaring that much of the field service of the medical corps of the state militia s a joke, Capt. Harold W. Jones, medical corps. U. S. A., arraigned today the present organization of the medical department of the national guard. At the session of the association of military sur-geons of the United States he read a pageons of the United States he read a paper on some impressions he had gained of the value of camps of medical instruction for medical officers of the National guard, and called upon the medical officers to take up immediately the fight to secure at once some change in the field organization. Maj. George F. Crampton of the Pennsylvania National guard said that something more was needed than that something more was needed than "beautifully worked out schemes for medical aid and the Red Cross bringing

KENT FOR TEMPERANCE

Candidate for Governor in Virginia Answers Anti-Saloon League's Questions.

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 6.-W. P. Kent, Republican candidate for governor of Virginia, replying from Winchester to the interrogatories regarding his attitude upon the temperance question as submitted by the state anti-saloon league says he is in entire sympathy with movements "to the end that temperance may be promoted among the people," but he denies the right of the league's president, Henry Pearce Atkins, to catechize him as to temperance legislation other than that adopted and advocated by the league. The Republican nominee says stands firmly upon the platform or which he was nominated.

TRAINS MEET IN FOG.

Two Suburbans and Street Car and Wagon in Smashups in Chicago at Early Hour.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 6 .- A dense fog early today was responsible for a number of accidents. The more serious was rear-end collision between two subrban trains and a smashup involving a treet car and a wagon. In the collision of the suburban trains. score of passengers were injured, four of them seriously. In the fog the engineer of a Rock Island train in the rear failed to see a Lake Shore train ahead, and the crash followed.

Five persons were hurt in the street car accident, one severely. Accidents of a minor nature were reported in various parts of the city before the fog lifted.

Body Found at Ladysmith (Wis.) Indicates That Murder Was Committed-Coroner to Investigate.

LADYSMITH, Wis., Oct. 6 .- [Spe cial.]-The body of Ernest French, who had been missing from his home near Conrath since Sunday when he started out to find a bee tree, was found within mile of his home this morning. There a bullet hole through the body and it was apparently made by a bullet of larger size than that of the gun he carried. The coroner will leave for the scene of the tragedy at once. French is a mar-ried man and 25 years old. He was the on of a pioneer hunter and trapper.

RRESTED FOR FLYING U. S. FLAG. Another Irish Saloon Keeper in Trouble

for Honoring Capt. Condon. LONDON, Oct. 6.—In honor of the visit of Capt. Edward O'Meagher Conlon to Clonmel, a saloon keeper named McGrath, hung out a large American flag from his place. The police ordered three times that the flag be removed. McGrath refused and the police removed the flag and informed him that he would be prose-cuted and confined in the military baracks in view of the demonstration and eception in honor of Condon, who is a elegate to the United Irish League of America. A similar incident occurred recently at Castlereagh. The question came up Premier Asquith explained that the flag would be removed whenever hung out from a saloon. He thought it a mark of disrespect to the American flag to ang it out from a saloon.

DEATH SOUNDS "TAPS."

FOND DU LAC, Wis., Oct. 2 .- [Special.]-"I never had such a good time it my life," said John D. Waite, a Philadelphia salesman, a moment before he dropped dead in G. A. R. hall Friday night. He had spent the evening at the hall telling stories with other veterans and at the close of the meeting of post he started to walk into the kitchen, but suddenly toppled over. Heart failure was the cause of his death. Mr. Waite was 68 years old and was born in a Massachusetts town. During the Civil war he served in Co. K. Massachusetts Volunteer infantry. He has been a salesman for Philadelphia and New York music houses for twenty-four years. He is survived by a wife.

Now is the Time to Paint Your House for the Following Reasons:

Your house will be much dryer after the summer's heat than after the winter's dampness.

The paint will dry better and harder than in the spring, thereby keeping out dampness and decay, which really causes more loss than fire.

There is not much rain to impede the progress of the painting. There are few gnats and flies to spoil the job.

LOWELL NOW PRESIDENT OF OLD HARVARD

HONORARY DEGREES,

James Bryce, British Ambassador, One

of Those Honored by First Act of New Head.

CEREMONY IS HELD OUT OF DOORS.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 6 .- Scholars. scientists and theologians today paid tribute to Abbott Lawrence Lowell, as he pledged himself before a great concourse of people in the old Earvard yard today to the work of president of America's oldest educational institution.

It is forty years since the old brick buildings looked down upon the then youthful Charles William Eliot at a similar inauguration.

Ceremony Out of Doors. The ceremony was held out of doors, with the principal actors on a temporary stage built against the ivy covered walls of University hall. The stage extended the entire length of the building with a depth sufficient to seat nearly a thousand people, including a chorus of 200. Over them waved the crimson banners of the university, with the great "Veritas" seal resplendent in colors on the broad wall behind. In front on white eagle-tipped staffs, were raised the seals of the eight next oldest Amer-ican colleges, William and Mary; Yale, University of Pennsylvania, Princeton, Washington and Lee, Columbia, Brown and Dartmouth. and Dartmouth

Order of the Exercises. The following was the order of the principal exercises of the day:

Choral: Laudate Dominum (Converse)— The Alumni chorus. Prayer—Rev. W. W. Fenn, dean of the faculty of Divinity.
Oration in Latin-Lester Burton Struthers, Induction of the president by John D. Long, president of the board of overseers.

Response—The president.

Choral: Domine Salvum Fac Praesidem
Sostrum (Gounod)—the Alumni chorus.

Inaugural address—fhe president.

Choral: Great is Jehovah (Schubert)—the Conferring of honorary degrees-The pres-Benediction-Right Rev. William Law-

From a hundred institutions of learning delegates and guests garbed in academic gowns and with degrees indicated by gorgeous hoods, strolled to as signed places in the inaugural paradawhile spectators quickly filled the rows of seats in front of the stage.

Delivers Inaugural Address.

The ceremony of induction having been completed, President Lowell delivered his inaugural address. He dealt largely with the development of the college of the old type, and in the course of his address

"A discussion of the ideal college training would appear to lead to the conclusion that the best type of liberal educa-tion in our complex modern world aims at producing men who know a little of everything and something well. Nor, if this be taken in a rational rather than an extreme sense, is it impossible to achieve within the limits of college life. That a student of ability can learn one subject well is shown by the experience of the honor schools of Oxford and Cambridge; but for us this alone would not be enough, because our preparatory schools do not give the same training as the English, and because the whole structure of English society is very dif-ferent from ours. For American students, the wise policy would appear to be that of devoting a considerable por-tion of their time to some one subject and taking in addition a number of general courses in wholly unrelated fields."

In responding to Mr. Long's brief re marks, presenting to him the charter scals and keys of the university, President Lowell said: "It is with deep sense of responsibility that I receive from your hands these symbols of the office to which the governing boards have chosen

Great Crops in Western Canada

Canadian Correspondence: During the early days in the growth of the crop in Western Canada, as well as throughout the ripening and garnering period, there is yearly growing an increasing interest throughout the United States, as to the probable results when harvest is completed. These mean much to the thousands of Americans who have made their home in some one of the three Provinces that form that vast agricultural domain, and is of considerable interest to the friends they have left behind them.

The year 1909 is no disappointment; wealth and luxury to those who are following agriculture as a pursuit in the country now occupying so much of the attention of the world-of this continent in particular. Reports from the grain fields warrant the note of opti-to complain of." He didn't know, though, for the pioneering of his forefathers was discomfort and hardship. The opening up and development of western Canada, with its railroad lines to carry one to almost the uttermost part of it, the telegraph line to flash the news to the other outside world, the telephone to talk to one's neighbor, the daily and weekly mail service which brings and carries letters to the friends in distant parts; the schools headed by college-bred and highly - certificated teachers; the churches manned by brilliant divines; the clubs; the social and festive life; what is there about any of this to give to the man who goes there to make his home the credit of being a pioneer? Nothing! He might as well be in any of the old middle west states.

A few years ago when this country was not as well known as to-day there was some justification in long-winded attempts to educate the reader on conit will bring comfort and happiness, ditions there, to tell him of its geographical relation with the United States, but with about 400,000 Americans now there writing back to their friends, with the mass of literature that has been placed in the homes of farmers in every State of the Union mism that has been so prominent dur- and the thousands of columns descriping the past few months. The columns of Canadian newspapers are filled with accounts of this year's harvest, writers vying with each other in giving the proper coloring to their reports. These make exhilarating reading to the man who has interests in that country. Lethbridge people claim it to be the keystone of Southern Alberta, while Calgary people claim the same for their district. It was in this district that the growing of winter wheat in western Canada originated. Its success there led the farmers east and west of it to experiment and what can now be said of one part may well be said of the whole. In a few years from now these great plains over whose breadth for years roved hundreds of thousands of heads of cattle, following the millions of buffalo that once grazed their grasses, will be a tle of it but what will yet be worth heretofore he had entertained optimis-

The conditions were never better and throughout the district the people are assured of a most prosperous year." In the Melfort district, three hundred miles in another direction, we hear of a farmer whose yield of oats will run from 85 to 100 bushels per acre; then traveling over another stretch of three hundred miles the Pipestone district in Manitoba is reached and we learn of more 30 and 40 bushels to the acre crops of wheat. So it will be seen that the splendid crops are not confined to one district, but are general throughout

Henry White Will Soon Quit Post in Paris.

PARIS, Oct. 6 .- Henry White, the American ambassador to France, has obtained a leave of absence, and, accompanied by Mrs. White, will sail November 3 for the United States, not to return. In accordance with diplomatic traditions, Mr. White placed his resignation at the disposal of President Taft upon the advent of the new administration and the President accepted it to take effect January 1 next. As no offi-cial announcement followed either Mr. White's resignation or the prospective appointment of Robert Bacon, who, it is well understood here, will be his successor. Ambassador White has decided, order to prevent further embarrassment, to himself as well as to Mr. Bacon, to withdraw.

Traveler Who Doesn't Believe Its Bite Is Fatal.

The other day I came across a fine large Gila monster (Heloderma suspectum) waddling along a dusty trail, noosed it with a piece of string and carried it to camp. "You want to be careful how you handle them things," Sonora warned me. "Many a fellow has died by bein' hit' by 'em".

I asked for particulars, names of the victims, dates and places of their untimely demise, duration and character of their suffering. "Well, I myself never seen any one bit by 'em," he answered, "but I've heard of 'em plenty. Any Mexican will tell you that their bite kills."

I used an old washtub for a pen for the control of the contr

my lizards, and that evening when En-ders' chickens went to roost I captured a lean and venerable rooster for an experiment I had in view. In the morning, grasping the bird by the legs, I thrust it time and again head first against the head of the monster, but the latter only shrank back and sluggisly attempted to turn tail to the attacks. I goaded it with a stick, even switched it with a wil-Gold Medal Haarlem Oil low cutting, but nothing I did aroused its ire. Finally I killed the heloderma, made an incision in the rooster's thigh and inoculated it with the well mixed blood, saliva and fluid from the former's mouth, throat and upper and lower jaw. "I'll bet that rooster'll be dead in an hour!" exclaimed Sonora, who was assisting in the experiment. "I don't know about an hour, but I'll bet he'll be dead before night," Old Timer offered.

Three days have elapsed and except for a slight lameness the rooster has shown no effect of the ordeal. At this moment he is scratching around at the head of his harem and crowing as non-chalantly as ever he did. I have concluded that the Gila monster has no poison glands. Portions of unswallowed food may and doubtless do ferment in its mouth at times, and thus a person bitten by one may be poisoned.—J. W. Schultz in Forest and Stream.

Mr. Leibsohn is at a loss to locate the sender of the "loose change," but thinks it is some conscience money or the settlement of some old account that he is a loss to locate the shoulders. The long nosed woman should resort to trimming that goes straight across the shoulders and bust and to hat trimming that has the effect of broad lines from side to side. These will shorten the offending feature a lit-tle, and a little is a great deal on a woman's nose.

"No mouth," said a beauty specialist can show chronic discontent and fretfulness and retain the slightest claim to good looks. Many women don't rea'iz , but the mouth is the most expressive feature of the face. Character marks it as it marks no other feature. Of course, woman can't change her character, but she can look in the mirror every day and say to herself: 'Am I getting set, cross lines about my mouth? Has it a drooping, discontented expression? its vigor, health and efficiency. A high birth rate, he says in "The Woman's Home Companion," almost invariably means a high death rate, and particularly a huge infant mortality. Dr. Hutchinson expresses no admiration for the mothers who in the good old days bore families of eight, twelve or fifteen children. 'Neither the fathers nor the mothers of these huge families," he says, "had any particular intention, or, indeed, any idea, of sacrificing themselves for the race, or doing their duty by the community; they were simply following their instincts and taking the consequences more or less patiently-and stupidly. More admirable by far, to his mind, are those modern men and women who deny themselves the privilege of fatherhood or motherhood because they believe themselves in danger of transmitting physical or mental defects. This atti tude, he says, is "one of the highest triumphs of biologic morality, and each instance of this sort should be carefully studied by medical and biological experts, so as to establish unquestionably the existence of such a defect in the blood of the individual and the probability of the transmission to offspring, for the ability to come to such a decision as this indicates the possession of mental and moral qualities which it would be exceedingly desirable to have transmitted to the future generations, if the physical handicap be not too great."

"I find a pair of long wristed white silk gloves very useful," said a woman open to new ideas. "Really, these gloves are economical. You see, on leaving home I slip them on over my evening gloves, and then when I reach the home of my hostess, it is the matter of but a moment to take them off. This means that my kid gloves are not soiled at all. A pair of silk gloves will more than save their expense in a short time in the item of cleaning the kid gloves, and besides that, I have the satisfaction of knowing that my hand covering is quite as immaculate as I would wish."

"Will a lucky gentlewoman give an unlucky one a tiny mascot to bring luck?" runs an advertisement in an Engish paper. Here was a poor soul-for if there is a creature on the face of the earth whose fate calls for pity it is a gentlewoman who is down-keeping in her poverty some of that superstition or faith, whatever it may be called, which is the only thing that keeps misfortune from crushing the sufferer. If only she could get the right charm, she might induce fate to look kindly on her!

Braid is much used upon the wraps de veloped from serge and prunella, the flat, silky kind being preferred, though not to the exclusion of soutache. The latter, however, does not, as a rule, show so well on the serge as it does on the smoother prunella.

A serge wrap in plain box style made to close down the left side, has a yoke defined by rows of braid, frog ornaments being put on the closing. The full coat sleeves are trimmed with braid to match. This is a smart and practical model.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Indians for Railroad Construction. It is probable that a large part of the labor on the grade of the new Arizona & California railroad, west of Parker, will be done by Arizona Indians, of the Yuma, Mohave, Hualapai and Chimehuevis tribes. E. S. Calegrove, contracting labor agent for the Indian bureau, is on the ground, prepared to furnish at least 500 Indian laborers, under the same conditions that governed a similar contract in connection with the Yuma irigation project, and the work of damming off the Colorado at the head of the Imperial canal. The Indians have shown to be good workers, naturally suited to such employment as is offered on the dry plains of the southwest.

Bobby's Philosophy.

The Trade Name for Such Fabrics as Piques and Vestings.

Among the finest and most distinctive varieties of textile fabrics are the cloths technically known as "quiltings," which, however, have nothing to do with bed quilts but include such fabrics as piques, diamonds, mattings and the materials for gentlemen's light waistcoats.

The important processes in the manufacturing of quiltings are zealously guarded as trade secrets, says the London Illustrated News. They represent the finest achievements in cotton cloth.

The extreme delicacy of their manufacturing the gardened from the factors and the factors are the gardened from the ga facture may be gathered from the fact that down even to twenty-five years ago they were still largely made on the hand loom, the work being done not in mills but given out to the workers in their own homes. By constant experiment and after many failures a quilting loom was constructed which could be driven by power, though its production was only slightly faster than the hand loom.

During the last twenty years great improvements have been introduced, especially at Bury, England, which claims to be the center for the making of quiltings. Great Home Eye Remedy,

Afraid of Ghosts

Many people are afraid of ghosts. Few people are afraid of germs. Yet the ghost is a fancy and the germ is a fact. If the germ could be magnified to a size equal to its terrors it would appear more terrible than any fire-breathing dragon. Germs can't be avoided. They are in the air we breathe, the water we drink. The germ can only prosper when the condition of the system gives it free scope to establish itself and develop. When there is a deficiency of vital force, languor, restlessness, a sallow cheek, a hollow eye, when the appetite is poor and the sleep is broken, it is time to guard against the germ. You can fortify the body against all germs by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the vital power, cleanses the system of clogging impurities, enriches the blood, puts the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition in working condition, so that the germ finds no weak or tainted spot in which to breed. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whisky or habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients printed on its outside wrapper. It is not a secret nostrum but a medicine of known COMPOSITION and with a record of 40 years of cures. Accept no substitute—there is nothing "just as good." Ask your neighbors.

FREE TO YOU-MY SISTER Free to You and Every Sister Selffering from Woman's Allments.

I am a woman. I know woman's sufferings. I have found the cure. I will mail, free of any charge, my home treat. I will mail, free of any charge, my home treatment with full instructions to any sufferer from woman's ailments. I want to tell all women about this cure—you, my reader, for yourself, your daughter, your mother, or your sister. I want to tell you how to cure yourselves at home without the help of a doctor. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any doctor. I know that my home treatment is a safe and sure cure for Leucorrhoca or Whitish Discharges, Ulceration, Displacement or Falling of the Womb, Profuse, Scanty or Painful Periods, Uterine or Ovarian Tumors or Growths; also pains in the head, back and howels, bearing down feelings, nervousness, creeping feeling up the spine, melancholy, desire to cry, hot flashes, weariness, kidney and bladder troubles, where caused by weaknesses, peculiar to our sex.

I want to send you a complete ten days' treat-peculiar to our sex.

I want to send you a complete ten days' treatment entirely free to prove to you that you can cure yourself at home, easily, quickly and surely. Remember, that it will cost you nothing to give the treatment a complete trial; and if you should wish to continue, it will cost you nothing to give the week, or less than 2 conts a day. It will not interfere with your work or occupation. Just send may your name and address, tell me how you suffer if you wish, and I will send you the treatment for you case, entirely free, in plain wrapper, by return mail. I will also send you, free of cost my book—"WOMAN'S OWN MEDICAL ADVISER" with explanatory illustrations showing why women suffer, and how they can easily cure themselves at home. Every woman should have it, and learn to think for herself. Then when the doctor says—"You must have an operation," you can decide for yourself. Thousands of women have cured themselves with my home remedy. It cures all, old or young. To Mothers of Daughters I will explain a simple home treatment which speedly and effectually cures Leucorrhoea, Green Sickness and Painful or Irregular Menstruation in Young Ladies. Plumpness and health always results from its use.

Opening of Cheyenne River Indian Reservation in South Dakota

Registration Dates, Oct. 4 to 23, inclusive.

The General Land Office at Washington has designated Le Beau and Aberdeen, So. Dak., on the Minneapolis & St. Louis R. R. as registration points. Le Beau, which is the Missouri River terminus of the Minneapolis & St. Louis R. R., is located on the Missouri River, opposite the Reservation, and is the nearest railroad station to three-fifths of the land.

Aberdeen, the other registration point, is the chief city in northern South Dakota.

These points are reached best by the Iowa Central and Minneapolis & St. Louis R. R. lines.

There will be about 14,000 quarter sections allotted to settlers. The land lays well for farming over most of the reservation. The soil is a light loam and is very fertile. It is similar to that in the counties east of the River, where the land sells from $25.00 to $30.00 per acre. Lignite coal is found over a great part of the reservation.

Who May Secure a Homestead—Under the homestead laws of the United States, any person, male or female who is not the owner of more than 160 acres of land in any state or territory, who is a native born citizen of the United States, or has been naturalized, or declared his intention to become a naturalized citizen of the United States (i.e., one who has taken out his first papers of citizenship), who is over the age of 21 years or the head of a family, may make a homestead entry of not exceeding 160 acres of any of the unoccupied lands of the United States.
