High School Notes.

The Juniors were given a quiz in Geometry Friday.

The Sophomores say that Algebra is very difficult lately.

Miss Henry is conducting special grammar classes for the benefit of some of the Freshmen.

The American History class finds the subject "The Making of the Constitution" very interesting.

Two new students were enrolled in the high school this week, which brings the total enrollment up to 50.

School was closed Thursday and Friday because the teachers attended the convention at Milwaukee.

The Literary Society met Monday evening in the assembly room. By the vote of the members the society has received the name of "Athena Society."

The Highs defeated the Regulars in a game of basket-ball last week Thursday evening. The girls were all there to root, which probably helped the boys on their way to victory. The score was 25 to 17.

The girls have become so enthralled with the spirit of basket ball after attending the games in which the H. S. boys took part, that they have organized two teams and will commence practicing next week.

The following topics on current events were given Friday by the Economics class: "How the United States fosters the Black Hand," "The Beast and The Jungle," "Can Africa be Civilized?" "Game Trails in Africa," "The Story of the Plague," and "The Far North-West."

The Seniors had a Halloween party at the home of Nic. Stoffel on Sunday evening. The Sophomores and Freshmen also had a party on the same evening in the North Side Park hall. The hall was decorated with different halloween novelties. Supper was served at eleven o'clock. All the young students say that they had a very pleasant time.

Large Swamp to be Drained

N. E. Jones, a surveyor of the state university, was a guest of Chas. Techtmann of the town of Barton last Wednesday and Thursday, coming to survey a drain for the big swamp between this city and Kewaskum. The swamp which covers about five hundred acres, is in Sections 27, 22 and 34, and is owned by a number of farmers. The surveyor estimates that the land, which is now practically worthless, can easily be drained so that the water will flow into the Milwaukee river, and that the cost of drainage will not be more than $2.50 per acre. Mr. Techtmann is of the opinion that the drainage will be done, and hopes that the other owners of the now worthless land feel about it as he does, namely to get busy at once and convert the swamp into what later will prove valuable farm land.—West Bend Pilot.

Mr. Baum was an industrious man and was respected by all who knew him. His relatives and many friends deeply mourn his early demise.

The funeral, which was largely attended, was held from the home in Auburn at 1 P. M. Sunday, with interment in the Rauch cemetery in Ashford. Rev. Erber of the Ev. Peace church of Kewaskum officiated.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

The marriage of Miss Emma Wright of West Bend and Andrew Rodenkirch of Farmington was solemnized in the Catholic church at West Bend Wednesday.

The new church erected by the Ev. St. Peters' congregation near Dautermann's in the town of Jackson, will be dedicated on Sunday, November 14.

The Hartford friends of Rev. Henne, pastor of the local M. E. church are quite worried over the reports reaching here of his condition. Rev. Henne underwent an operation last week at a Chicago hospital, for gall stones, and although his condition at first was favorable for his recovery, symptoms that have since arisen give ground for considerable alarm. Everyone hopes his recovery will come soon.—Hartford Press.

Wm. Rimmel, butter and cheese maker of town Theresa met with a slight accident last Friday afternoon, that passed off comparatively lucky. Together with his wife and two children he made an auto-trip to Knowles where they called on friends. Shortly after leaving Knowles the steering-gear of the machine broke and the latter crossed a wire fence and stopped in a plowed field. Fortunately none of the occupants were injured.—Lomira Review.

United in Marriage

KLOKE-SCHAEFER.

Louis W. Schaefer, son of Wm. Schaefer of this village and Miss Doris M. Kloke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kloke of Campbellsport were quietly married at the home of the bride's parents at Campbellsport last Thursday, Nov. 4, 1909. Rev. Landseid of the Campbellsport Reformed church officiated.

The bride was attended by her sister Miss Frieda Kloke, and the bestman was Arthur Schaefer, brother of the groom. Both of the contracting parties are well and popularly known here and at Campbellsport. We join with their many friends in wishing them success and happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. Schaefer will be at home at Juneau, Wis., after Dec. 1st, where Mr. Schaefer has purchased an ice cream parlor and grocery store.

BECKER-KARL.

A very pretty wedding took place at the St. Matthews church at Campbellsport last Wednesday, November 3rd, at 9 A. M., when Miss Marie Becker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christ Becker, and Joseph Karl were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. Rev. July officiated.

The bride was gowned in a beautiful white silk mouseline princess, trimmed with silk ornaments, silk embroidery and silk veil and carried a white prayer book and pearl rosary. The bride was attended by Miss Gertrude Becker, as maid of honor, who wore a white suesine silk princess and carried a bouquet of carnations. Miss Susan Schill, who acted as bridesmaid, was attired in a white suesine princess and carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums. Peter Becker and Christ Becker acted as groomsmen.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the dining room was beautifully decorated with pink and white carnations and smilax. The Misses Elia Trost, Laura Flasch, Frieda Kloke, Emma Volz, Mary Schrauth and Miss Schultz assisted at the table. The evening was pleasantly spent in singing, dancing and other pastimes. Music was furnished by the Kewaskum Concertina band.

The young couple took a wedding trip to the home of the groom's parents in Marathon City, and will be at home in Campbellsport, after December 1st. We join with their many friends in wishing them a happy and prosperous married life.

ERRATUM.—In reporting the sale of the Marx property of New Fane in our last issue, we erred in stating that the general merchandise stock was included in the sale. The price ($7,500.00) mentioned was for the real estate only. Mr. Ramthun will take possession of the store on December 1st, when an inventory of the stock will be taken.

CADET BYRNE BURIED

WEST POINT FOOTBALL PLAYER IS GIVEN MILITARY FUNERAL.

Entire Personnel of Army Academy Attended Services and Parents See Coffin Lowered into Grave.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 2.—Cadet Eugene A. Byrne, who died on Sunday as the result of injuries received in the second half of the Harvard-West Point football game, was given a military burial in the Academy cemetery today.

The funeral was attended by the entire body of cadets, the officers of the academy and the army post, and by scores of friends of the young soldier. The parents of Cadet Byrne stood beside the grave when the coffin was lowered into it.

Proceeding the burial, the cadet battalion marched, to the beat of muffled drums, to the Roman Catholic chapel of the reservation, where the religious ceremonies were held.

There were many floral pieces, sent by representatives of educational institutions and by personal friends. The post will be in mourning for thirty days.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 2.—The great annual football contest between the West Point cadets and Annapolis midshipmen, which was to have taken place at Philadelphia, November 27, will not be played this year. Final decision was reached today by the athletic authorities of the naval academy to grant the request of the superintendent of the military academy to cancel the games owing to the death of Cadet Eugene A. Byrne as a result of injuries received Saturday in a game with Harvard.

STRIKE IN HIGH LIFE.

Why the Projected Elkins-Abruzzi Wedding Failed to Come Off.

ROME, Nov. 1.—A threatened strike in the royal residences of Italy was the obstacle to the Elkins-Abruzzi wedding. It appears that the ladies of the court of Queen Margherita, those of the court of Queen Elena and those who would be called to the royal residence of the Duke of Abruzzi after his marriage drew up a strongly worded memorial against the projected union of a royal duke with an American heiress. They all flatly declared they would not do service to royalize any American girl.

A certain number of noble ladies live at court for fixed periods. One rides or drives with the Queen, another goes shopping with her and a third attends the state functions. The court slang for these tasks is "doing service," and one and all of these ladies of the old Roman nobility refused to serve Miss Elkins.

The leaders of the strike were the Princess Massimo, the Princess Doria, the Princess Piazzi, the Princess San Faustino and Princess Aldebrandi. Then, too, almost every one of the Americans married to Italian noblemen joined the strike and their names figure boldly in the strike declaration presented to the royal family. Among these are Countess Giannotti, who was Miss Kinney, the wife of the grand master of ceremonies at the quinal; the Princess Vicovaro, who was Miss Loring Spencer, the wife of the last of the Cent; Countess Sherard, who was Miss Fischer of New York; Countess di Brazza, formerly Cora Scoumbe of New Orleans; the Princess Viterbo, who was Miss Lawrence; Miss Margaret Brugmann of St. Louis.

The name of one English lady, the Duchess di Texmonata, is attached to the petition, but the success of the strike is said to be largely due to the protest of the American noblewomen, who bitterly opposed intrusion of an American girl into the royal family.

The facts of the singular conspiracy to coerce have been divulged by Mrs. George Law. Mrs. Law was stopping with the Elkins at the Hotel du Rhein when the engagement took place and she was to have been one of the bride's attendants and is in all the secrets of the international union that failed.

FIVE PERISH IN FIRE.

Pittsburg Woman Tries to Rescue Children When Lamp Is Upset and All Burn to Death.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 2.—Mrs. William Marlow and four children were burned to death today by the upsetting of an oil lamp in their home. A fifth child was saved by the mother. Lyle, an 8-year-old son, was playing about the kitchen when the lamp on the table was overturned. The burning fluid was scattered over the room igniting practically everything. Mrs. Marlow quickly carried the boy to the yard and entered the house again to aid four other children, who were asleep on the second floor. The fire burned rapidly, and the five of them perished.

BANDITS ROB ITALIANS.

Four Men Bind and Gag Fifty Laborers After Gaining Access to Quarters as Detectives.

PATERSON, N. J., Nov. 2.—Fifty Italian laborers employed by a construction company on a trolley line were held up early today by four masked men and robbed of nearly $1500. The four bandits represented themselves to be officers of the government who had been sent to investigate a report that liquor was being sold. One by one the laborers was called out of the barracks, which they occupied in common and securely bound and gagged. The bandits escaped.

A Maine Potato Record.

Postmaster Charles A. Perry of Lime stone planted a Green Mountain potato on June 29 last, and on August 23, just two months from the day the seed was planted, Mr. Perry dug the potatoes and took out one potato which weighed thirteen and a half ounces. Can this record be equalled in other parts of the state which can "raise potatoes as well as Aroostook?"—Lewiston Journal.

GAYNOR WINS, BUT TAMMANY LOSES CONTROL

FUSIONISTS SWEEP NEW YORK, EXCEPT MAYORALTY, AND WILL HAVE ALL PATRONAGE.

BANNARD SECOND IN THE RACE.

Republican Receives 75,000 Less Votes Than the Democratic Candidate.

WHITMAN DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

Fusion Nominee Defeats Tiger's Man, and Borough Presidencies Go with Rest of Ticket.

RESULTS IN OTHER SECTIONS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The forces of fusion will be in practical control of New York city's government after January 1 next, although the Democratic candidate for mayor, William J. Gaynor, was elected to that office Tuesday by a plurality of approximately 72,000 votes.

With the exception of mayor, the fusion sweep was complete. Not another Democratic candidate on city or county tickets won success. The fusion forces, by electing their candidates for comptroller and president of the board of aldermen, together with the victory of fusion and anti-Tammany candidates for the presidencies of all five boroughs, will give the opposition to Tammany 13 out of 16 votes in the important board of estimate. This board will have in its hands during its term of office the expenditure of practically $1,000,000,000.

Where Fusionists Won.

On the county ticket the fusionists elected their candidates for district attorney, sheriff, county clerk, register and city court judge, which, with their other victories will place nearly every bit of patronage in the greater city in their hands.

Complete returns on the vote for mayor or show the following: Gaynor, 250,678; Bannard, 177,662; Hearst, 153,843. Gaynor's plurality, 73,016.

An interesting result was revealed in the complete vote tabulation today, which gives Hearst 87 more votes than Bannard in the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx. In Kings county the Democrats saved their county ticket, including sheriff, by pluralities ranging from 5000 to 7000.

The pluralities for the fusion candidates in the greater city, aside from mayor, on the completed vote, were: W. A. Frendercast, comptroller, 74,539; John Purroy Mitchell, president of the board of aldermen, 71,031.

In the boroughs the complete vote shows the following pluralities for the fusion candidates for borough president: Manhattan, George McAneny, 25,051; Bronx, C. C. Miller, 3091; Brooklyn, A. E. Steers, 26,282; Richmond, George Cromwell, 332; Queens, Lawrence Gresser (Ind.), 4575.

Whitman District Attorney.

The strength of the fusionist cause in New York county was indicated by the plurality of 26,633 votes, which Charles S. Whitman, the fusion nominee for district attorney, received over George Gordon Battle, the Democratic candidate. John S. Shea, fusionist, was elected for sheriff by a plurality approximating 38,425.

The Democratic candidate for the city court bench, George F. Roesch, was snuffed under by 32,000 votes by his fusionist opponent, Richard H. Smith. Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany hall, would not discuss the report that in view of the loss to Tammany of the board of estimate and apportionment he would resign as Tammany's leader at the December meeting of the county and executive committees.

The board of aldermen will be composed of forty-two Democrats and thirty-six fusionists. From present indications the state Assembly will have a Republican majority of forty-eight, the same as at present. There was no election for members of the Senate.

Mayor-elect Gaynor would not discuss today the probability of his acting on his pre-election statement that he would be disinclined to serve as mayor unless a Democratic board of estimate was also chosen. The mayor-elect disclaimed a published interview with him which credited him with charging the newspapers with garbling and distorting his campaign speeches.

They were commemorating the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown with the usual fiery speeches. At the close of the regular programme the chairman announced with a wink to those near him: "We are happy to have with us on this auspicious occasion a representative of King Edward, if not of King George. Ladies and gentlemen, I beg to present to you Major Arthur Forester, of the First Royal Dragoons, who will now say a few words."

The major looked a little surprised as he stroiled to the front of the platform,

JOHNSON LOSES IN CLEVELAND

OFFICIAL KNELL OF DEMOCRAT, FOUR TIMES MAYOR, RUNG AT ELECTION.

TRACTION ROW WEARIES PUBLIC

ENTIRE REPUBLICAN TICKET WINS.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 3.—The official knell of Tom L. Johnson, four times mayor of Cleveland, was rung today. After working all night, the board of elections commissioners announced that in his fifth mayoralty campaign, Johnson had been defeated by Herman C. Baehr. With one precinct missing at 7 a. m. the returns gave Johnson 37,502, Baehr 41,285.

All Democrats Lose.

With Johnson went to defeat the entire city ticket except N. D. Baker, city sofficer, who was re-elected, and the new council will be strongly Republican in aspect.

Weariness of the public over the long delays in getting a definite and satisfactory traction settlement is credited, largely, with Johnson's defeat. He, however, declared the issue to be just tax values, and his strength even in defeat is shown by the election of four Democratic members of the decennial board of assessors of real property, out of a possible five.

Approve Subway Franchise.

A subway franchise passed by the Democratic council with Johnson's approval was approved by the people at referendum.

One peculiar anomaly of the new situation created by the election is the fact that the street railway question will be doubtless permanently settled before Mayor Johnson relinquishes the mayoralty.

The council of fare, to be 3 cents at first and never greater than 3 cents, has already been agreed to between the city and the railway owners. Detailed terms of the franchise also have been settled, and there remains for Judge Taylor only the work of fixing the value of the railway property.

When Judge Taylor concludes his task as arbitrator a city ordinance embodying all of these features probably will be passed by the present city council. Then will follow the referendum vote upon the franchise. Past elections indicate that the public is friendly to the proposed contract.

Night of Terror in Jackson.

JACKSON, Ky., Nov. 3.—With the prospect of a wild night ahead, Jackson today was all excitement. Last night's terror when a dynamite bomb was exploded and thousands of shots were fired made the coming of tonight fearful. Despite the disorders of last night, however, only walls and plaster were damaged. Several persons in the supposed shelter of their homes had narrow escapes as bullets riddled through walls and windows. Judge D. B. Redwine (Dem.) apparently has carried the county by 35 votes for circuit judge, over J. P. Adams, the present incumbent. The other Democratic candidates for all offices also appear to be in the lead.

Today the military here was reinforced by the arrival of the Lexington soldiers, who were stationed at Crockettville. The mountaineers were also reinforced. Attracted by the election reports which are being received here, they were riding into Jackson all day.

Gov. Pothier Re-elected.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 3.—While the total vote in Rhode Island was smaller than usual, the plurality of 11,834 for Gov. Pothier, Republican, was one of the largest in the state's history.

The rest of the Republican state candidates had substantial pluralities. The Legislature on joint ballot remains unchanged, a Republican gain of three in the Senate being offset by a like loss in the House. All three of the constitutional amendments were adopted by about three-fourths vote of the state.

The amendments give additional vote power to the governor, provide for the redistricting of the state, and make the lieutenant-governor president of the Senate.

Result in New Jersey.

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 3.—In New Jersey the Republicans held their own on the Legislature, gaining three votes in the Senate to offset a loss of three seats in the lower house.

Find a $3000 Fresh Water Pearl.

James Gray of Washington has sold to a resident of Terre Haute for $3000 a pearl which he found in a White river mussel. The pearl weighs 24.58 grains and is the finest, as far as is known, ever found in the state of Indiana. Gray found two slugs a year ago which he also sold for $250.

Crocodile Dentistry.

Nero, the three-legged crocodile in the Bronx Zoo, New York city, is now a toothless misanthrope. Ever since another crocodile bit off his fourth leg last spring he has had a grudge against all the world. When it became necessary to start him for his winter quarters it was decided best to let his teeth stay outside, for the peace and good order of the reptile house. Dr. W. Robt Blair ropes and carried on a stone boat to the first convenient tier, a tackle was rigged there with a rope to his upper jaw. A turn was taken around a limb after another line had been bent on his lower jaw. Half a dozen attendants heaving away got his jaws apart and Dr. Blair sawed off his teeth.

Night of Terror in Jackson.

JACKSON, Ky., Nov. 3.—With the prospect of a wild night ahead, Jackson today was all excitement. Last night's terror when a dynamite bomb was exploded and thousands of shots were fired made the coming of tonight fearful. Despite the disorders of last night, however, only walls and plaster were damaged. Several persons in the supposed shelter of their homes had narrow escapes as bullets riddled through walls and windows. Judge D. B. Redwine (Dem.) apparently has carried the county by 35 votes for circuit judge, over J. P. Adams, the present incumbent. The other Democratic candidates for all offices also appear to be in the lead.

Today the military here was reinforced by the arrival of the Lexington soldiers, who were stationed at Crockettville. The mountaineers were also reinforced. Attracted by the election reports which are being received here, they were riding into Jackson all day.

Gov. Pothier Re-elected.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 3.—While the total vote in Rhode Island was smaller than usual, the plurality of 11,834 for Gov. Pothier, Republican, was one of the largest in the state's history.

The rest of the Republican state candidates had substantial pluralities. The Legislature on joint ballot remains unchanged, a Republican gain of three in the Senate being offset by a like loss in the House. All three of the constitutional amendments were adopted by about three-fourths vote of the state.

The amendments give additional vote power to the governor, provide for the redistricting of the state, and make the lieutenant-governor president of the Senate.

Result in New Jersey.

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 3.—In New Jersey the Republicans held their own on the Legislature, gaining three votes in the Senate to offset a loss of three seats in the lower house.

Find a $3000 Fresh Water Pearl.

James Gray of Washington has sold to a resident of Terre Haute for $3000 a pearl which he found in a White river mussel. The pearl weighs 24.58 grains and is the finest, as far as is known, ever found in the state of Indiana. Gray found two slugs a year ago which he also sold for $250.

Crocodile Dentistry.

Nero, the three-legged crocodile in the Bronx Zoo, New York city, is now a toothless misanthrope. Ever since another crocodile bit off his fourth leg last spring he has had a grudge against all the world. When it became necessary to start him for his winter quarters it was decided best to let his teeth stay outside, for the peace and good order of the reptile house. Dr. W. Robt Blair ropes and carried on a stone boat to the first convenient tier, a tackle was rigged there with a rope to his upper jaw. A turn was taken around a limb after another line had been bent on his lower jaw. Half a dozen attendants heaving away got his jaws apart and Dr. Blair sawed off his teeth.

GIRL RESCUED ON SHARK HOOK.

Pulled Out of a Tideway on a Fisherman's Hand Line.

Fished out of the swiftly running current of Alamitos channel at the end of a heavy shark line Miss Rose Quinn of Naples, Cal., owes her life to the casting ability of W. R. Phillips, a local disciple of L. Walton. Phillips journeyed to pier No. 2 late yesterday, armed with a heavy line, a great shark hook and half a dozen surf fish for bait.

About the same time Miss Quinn entered the water 100 feet above the pier for her afternoon swim. Miss Quinn is an accomplished swimmer, but she had failed to notice the tide that was rushing swiftly seaward through the narrow channel at the mouth of the little bay.

After uncoiling his heavy line Phillips was prepared to impale a slippery surf fish on the hook when he was startled to hear a cry for help from the channel. One glance showed him the young woman struggling helplessly against the heavy tide.

Phillips seized his long hand line and with a marvelously accurate cast dropped it across Miss Quinn's now unconscious body. The hook caught in the skirt of her bathing dress and the fisherman hauled her to the pier, where she was dragged from the water by other witnesses of her narrow escape. She was resuscitated—Oregon Journal.

A RECONNOITER.

How a Man with the "Chicken Hold" Did a Safe Business.

"Jake" Herman and "Jack" Van Woert drove into Montclair, N. J., recently, seeking a Sandy Fargurson, Fargurson's automobile and Fargurson's collie. The story they told was that some days ago Fargurson went through their district, looking over poultry and arranging for purchases soon after November 15. He examined the chicken coops to see if they were clean, and gave excellent advice on poultry raising to the farmers, who were pleased at the prospect of getting fancy prices promised by the stranger, who rode in a motor car. The collie was a close observer during his inspection tours. A few days later half a dozen chicken coops in the district were cleaned out. Nobody suspected Mr. Fargurson. But one morning there was a great noise around Van Woert's chicken coops an hour or so before sunrise. Van Woert looked out of the window. And there, he says, right on the road, was Sandy with the auto, and the collie rushing toward the car with a hen in its mouth. The hen was deposited in the car, and the collie returned and took another. Van Woert got his gun and ran to the door, which creaked when he opened it. Sandy heard, whistled to the dog to jump in the car, and rode off.

The Rise of Archduke Francis Ferdinand's Morganatic Wife.

The once Countess Sophia Chotek, the morganatic wife of Archduke Francis Ferdinand, her presumptive to the Austro-Hungarian crown, has become the most prominent figure in Europe. Morganatic wife, left-handed wife, no longer, she will sit on the throne as empress at her lord and master's left hand. Only recently Archduke Francis Ferdinand, himself a man of brains, and his wife were invited by the Emperor William of Germany to attend the autumn maneuvers of the German army in Wurtemberg. At the moment the Emperor's invitation was made public, Emperor Francis Joseph raised Archduke Francis Ferdinand's wife to the rank of Archduchess, with the title of imperial highness. That creation was regarded as a precursor to the removal of the disability against Archduke Francis Ferdinand's children. This invitation is not regarded with pleasure in Germany, but it delights Hungary. Hungary had long been fond of Emperor Francis Joseph, but is fond of Francis Ferdinand and his wife, a Hungarian.

Her present husband is Ras Goussa, governor of Bege-medier, son of Ras Helle.

ARMY OFFICERS IN RECORD AIR TRIP.

Lieuts. Humphreys and Foulouis Come Within Ten Minutes of Passing World's Mark.

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Nov. 3.—Lieuts. Humphreys and Foulouis today surpassed by 3 1/2 minutes the best record made by any pupil of the Wright brothers in the United States. The two lieutenants remained in the air over the government aviation field here 61 1/2 minutes. A stiff wind then made a descent necessary. The best previous endurance record by a pupil of Wilbur Wright in this country was 58 1/2 minutes, and was made by Lieut. Lahm alone Monday last. The previous best record for a two-man flight was by Orville Wright at Fort Myer, when with a passenger he remained in the air 1 hour and 12 minutes. The flight today was made at a low elevation and had it continued 10 minutes longer would have broken the world's record for a two man flight.

There is more profound hatred of the federal judiciary, especially the lower courts, than any institution in America."

Naturalists in Roosevelt Party Ascend Mount Kenia to Height of 16,500 Feet.

NAIROBI, British East Africa, Nov. 3.—J. Alden Loring, the naturalist, and Maj. Edgar A. Mearns, both of the Roosevelt hunting party, returned here today from their expedition to Mount Kenia. The climbers ascended the mountain to a height of 16,500 feet, the highest point which in it was possible to attain without the aid of alpen stocks. This was within 700 feet of the summit. They collected specimens of more than 2000 birds and mammals and made many photographs of the mountain.

CLIMB AFRICAN PEAK.

A Knave of Hearts.

"If this invincible person comes here, it might be good for him to find that there are some people in the world who are impervious to his charms. I have no patience with your look-and-die style of man!"

Hilary Carew threw a look of the most charming defiance at the girl who was sitting under the shadow of a wide-spreading oak, a book on her lap, and a smile in her serious dark eyes.

"You don't smirk, oh oracle!" said Hilary, finding that her speech had little effect upon her companion's silence. "Don't you approve of my sentiments, or is it possible that you have fallen a victim to Mr. Look-and-die? Don't deny the soft impeachment, Angela."

Angela Thursty shook her head with a laugh.

"I have never even seen him," she said lightly, her lovely eyes on the running stream, which gurgled musically almost at her feet—"so it is not likely that I could have fallen a victim to him. Besides, Hilary, you know I am not that sort of person."

"As for that," said Hilary—"pooh! No one knows when the great moment may not arrive, and—after that, the deluge. But, seriously, Angela, let us give this wonderful look-and-die Vivian Crispin a lesson he will not forget. Let us meet him on his own ground, beat him with his own weapons, and confer a benefit on womankind by curing him of his bad ways. Will you aid me, Angela? I think you ought to be able to manage it!"

"And may I ask why?"

"Look in the glass, my dear girl—or the river, and that question will answer itself."

Angela leaned over the edge of the clear water, where a silent pool fringed with purple flags and creamy meadow-sweet reflected like a mirror the blue sky overhead, and the face of the girl who looked into its crystal depths with a half smile curving her red lips. What she saw was a face of rare beauty, the warm soft coloring which is so unique and seldom seen in these colder climes; deeply-blue eyes, fringed with dark curling lashes, lips curved like a Cupid's bow, and a mass of soft, dusky hair, in which there were a thousand gold-red lights. Such was Angela Thursty.

She drew herself up with a sigh.

"Well," said Hilary, with a suspicion of laughter in her eyes and voice, "art said friend?"

Angela picked up her book.

"Why should I do your work?" she said irrelevantly. "Why not subjugate this wonderful specimen of mankind yourself, Hilary? Goodness knows you are no novice at that game."

"Now, I wonder if you are trying to be rude?" said Hilary. "It runs off me like water off a duck's back, you know, so don't think you can annoy me. No—not Vivian Crispin must be left to your tender mercies; he must be taught a lesson, and the teacher of that lesson must of necessity be some one possessed of a perfectly cool head and a heart well in hand. You, my dear Angela, possess all those qualifications, for you always declare that no one has ever been able to make your heart beat a little faster or your cheeks a little pinker than usual; therefore it stands to reason that you are the very person to transfix this Adonis, and having made him captive, you can then avenge the injuries of the half-dozen hearts he is reported to have broken, by—breaking his. All's fair, you know. Ours will be war to the knife in a most excellent cause. But, one thing you must keep clearly before you, you must never, in any circumstances, fall in love with him yourself."

"My dear Hilary—as if I should!"

"Don't shout till you're out of the wood. You may not of course, but still, I have my doubts, Angela!"

"Then dismiss them. I'll promise willingly not to fall in love with him, if that will please you."

"Will you? Remember, I'll hold you to that compact. I heard that he is to arrive next week at the manor, and all the neighborhood will be on the quiver to see him. Rich—handsome—eligible in every sense of the word. What a time all the match-making mammals will have! Heigh-ho! It's getting late, and I must away. Are you going in now, Angela?"

"No—I promised to meet the vicar; he has been out to see a distant sick person. Till tomorrow then, Hilary."

The girls kissed.

"Till tomorrow, and next week you will have to be at my beck and call, as I am managing this campaign, Good-bye!"

Angela looked after her friend, with a smile lingering in her lovely eyes. Then she picked up her book and white parasol and took her way along the path which skirted the green rushing river for some little distance.

It was a perfect day. Overhead hung a turquoise-blue sky, flecked with feathery little white clouds, which sailed along gaily, reflected in the crystal water, where trees dipped their long branches into the silent pools. Now and then a trout splashed, and Angela paused a moment to watch the eddy circles as they widened out. She had not far to go to meet her uncle, the vicar, and it was not long after 5.

She slipped down to one of the great gray boulders which stood up at most out of the river, and watched the water as it coursed by idly. Not a soul was in sight; it was perfectly still, and, insensibly lulled by the warmth of the sun and the ripple of the water against the stones, Angela fell asleep.

Minutes passed—half an hour—and still Angela slept that sleep which is supposed to belong exclusively to the just, and as she slept some one sauntering along the opposite bank, idly casting a fly at intervals to catch the wily trout which were playing gaily in the pools, wicket gate leading into the vicarage garden. "For isn't he coming home next week?"

rippled out to him across the water, as she grasped the situation and his line at the same moment.

"Wait a moment," she said. "I'll get the hook out."

But the owner of the line did not wait. He made a few strides across the rough stepping stones in the river, and, with one jump, was at her side.

"Let me do that," he said. "I can really see to get it out better than you can, you know, and I promise not to pull your hair more than I can help! How can I ever apologize for my clumsiness?"

The hook took some little time to disentangle from her soft hair, and apparently he did not hurry himself over the task.

"Please don't apologize," said Angela. "It was almost as much my fault as yours, for I had no business to fall asleep here when I ought to have been much farther down the stream."

She glanced up at him, and their eyes met. Into his least something which brought a faint access of color to her soft cheeks.

He stooped and picked up the book which had fallen from her lap, and as he did so the cover fell open, and he saw the name written on the fly-leaf—"Angela Thursty."

"And I am forgiven?" he queried.

"Quite. Have you had any sport?"

He opened the basket slung on his shoulder, and disclosed to view three small fish.

Angela shook her head.

"Very poor," she said, opening her parasol. "You should try farther down stream, where there is quite a famous pool. My uncle, the vicar, knows it well, and many a nice little fish I have eaten which came from there. You—you have permission from the manor to fish anywhere, I suppose?"

He cast a sharp glance at her.

"Yes, I have permission. If you are going down-stream, Miss Thursty, may I accompany you—even though you don't know my name, which is Lane—George Lane—entirely at your service, and perhaps you would just show me the pool you so kindly mentioned."

"Of course I will." And Angela led the way along the narrow path, which was hardly wide enough to allow of two walking abreast; so Lane was forced to be content with a good view of her slim back and the soft coils of her thick hair, though now and again a line of pink cheeks was turned to him.

He informed her that he was staying at the little inn so dear to the heart of fishermen, and she, in return, told him that she lived with the vicar, her uncle and guardian, whereupon Lane registered a vow to attend at the pretty village church on the following Sunday.

As the path widened out Angela paused.

"There is your pool," she said, pointing to where willows dipped in the clear green water. "If you have any luck, you ought to fill your basket round about there."

Lane's face lighted up. Then his eyes fell upon the girl.

"I am awfully obliged to you," he said, "it's very good of you to have told me of it. I wonder—"

"Whether you wonder?" she said.

"Whether I might call on the vicar one day?"

Angela laughed.

"I am sure he will be delighted to see you, especially as he will find you a kindred spirit. He is a most enthusiastic angler, so I think I can promise you a cordial reception. Here he is, so you can make acquaintance at once."

An elderly clergyman was coming towards them, followed by a couple of field-spaniels. He was looking with keen eyes at the river, and started visibly when Angela addressed him.

"Ah, my dear, I fear I have kept you, but I lingered to look at a couple of good pools above the long meadow, and—"

"My dear uncle, I know you of old. The river has a fascination for you which cannot be resisted. But let me introduce to you Mr. Lane, who is staying at the inn, and who is also a fisherman. My uncle, Canon Thursty!"

"I had the misfortune to catch my hook in Miss Thursty's hair, sir," said Lane, as the two men shook hands, "and, as a proof of her forgiveness, she has kindly shown me the best pool in the river."

"And an object for invading farm yards and chasing game cocks!" said the canon's niece, with a smile in her lovely eyes. "It is a wonder you have never been taken up for nearly killing the choicer contents of some of the poultry yards of the neighborhood!"

"Well, my dear, a few feathers more or less, what matter? But if you are staying at the inn, Mr. Lane, I hope you will come and dine with me one evening. You have permission to fish all the river belonging to the Crispin property, I suppose?"

"Yes—I was at Eton with Vivian Crispin."

pulsive utterances of his dear and altogether charming niece.

"Don't mind this naughty child, Mr. Lane," he said, "and come and dine quietly with us tonight. I can show you some rather choice flies which I find the best to use on these pools. Seventeen. 'Till then au revoir!'"

It was three days later, and George Lane entered through the vicarage shrubbery, fishing rod in hand, basket slung over his shoulder. A voice sounded gaily from an open window, and he stopped short at the sight of Angela, in a big white apron, her sleeves well tucked up, displaying a pair of soft round arms, busily engaged in rolling out pastry. Presumably, therefore, that was the kitchen window—

"The Queen of Hearts, She made some tarts, All on a summer's day; King of Hearts—"

"He stole those tarts," broke in a manly voice, and a hand was stretched in through the open window, "And took them right away!"

WILL CARE FOR DOGS.

An Exclusive Philadelphia Hotel Provides Kennels and Cages for Pets.

Guests at the Bellevue-Stratford hotel, Philadelphia, may hereafter bring along with them their pet dogs with the assurance that they will receive careful treatment and select food, in a series of kennels, cages and baskets constructed especially for pets.

A rather unusual incident that impressed upon the Bellevue-Stratford management the necessity of such an adjunct. It was a fairly expensive lesson, too, which sent a room valet to the hospital for a week with a badly swollen hand. The story, considered funny by some, does not impress Manager McCormick in that light.

A little more than a month ago a wealthy Pittsburgh matron and her maid stopped at the Bellevue-Stratford. The maid had arranged for accommodations and the matron went direct from an automobile to her room, carefully concealing under her coat a Japanese doggie. At her retiring hour she made doggie a nice bed in the shoe box, where he remained undisturbed until about 3 o'clock in the morning, when the floor valet came on his usual round to collect shoes to shine. The spaniel was awakened by the valet when the latter was unlocking the door of the shoe box, which opens on the corridor. No sooner had the valet put his hand into the box when the dog took one vigorous, unrelenting grasp, and hung on while the servant ran down the corridor shouting for help.

In the morning there was a heated argument between the matron and a hotel attaché. She charged some one with having stolen her dog and the clerk explained what had happened, saying that the dog had been taken to the reputable hotel in the country, and he demanded damages for the injury inflicted upon the hapless employe. The bite proved such a serious matter that the valet was confined to a hospital with a badly swollen hand and every appearance of being poisoned.

The matron's argument that it was an unnecessary cruelty to separate an owner from a pet when rooming at a hotel unless some provision for the care of the pet could be made, appeared to the hotel manager's sense of justice, and shortly afterward an order was given for the construction of several kennels and as many smaller cages and baskets for the accommodation of pet dogs.

"Shinplasters."

To a good many people who have to work for their living the present $5 bill looks as big as a blanket. This may be one reason for the idea of Secretary MacVeagh that the size of the same should be reduced. He also plans to reduce the $1 bill of the average citizen, the $2 bill that everybody tries to change or spend, the $10 bill, a general favorite, and the $20 bill, which is the badge of great wealth. There are rumors that bills of denominations above $20, but to most of us this is hearsay and lacks material confirmation. Why should the secretary of the treasury wish to make the pocket of the average citizen smaller? The greenbacks in the pay envelope every Saturday night now, and if the notes were made much smaller it would make them feel that wages were being reduced to a point where they could hardly do to pay it out, they want to feel like they are spending something, anyway. There are persons yet living who remember, distinctly the days when the "shinplaster" flourished, and they say that there are also many southerners who cannot forget the time when they used to spend Confederate money by the bushel.

Suppressing a Fool.

In spite of the reputation for latitudinarianism he gained from his early trial for heresy, the late Prof. Jewett of Oxford was intolerant of pretentiousness and shallow conceit.

One self-satisfied undergraduate met the master one day. "Master," he said, "I have searched everywhere, in all philosophies ancient and modern, and nowhere do I find the evidence of a God."

He says she gets $70 a week regularly and $200 additional on the first day of every month.

TAFT DISCUSSES WOMEN'S RIGHTS

PRESIDENT PROMISES TO BE SUFFRAGIST IF ALL OF FEMININITY ASK FOR VOTE.

OPENS WAY FOR SELF-SUPPORT.

Executive Declares No Girl Should Be Compelled to Marry Simply to Have a Home.

WILL DISINHERIT HIS SONS.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 3.—President Taft announced himself as favoring woman's suffrage when all the women desire to vote, and said no girl should be compelled to marry to gain a livelihood, in his address Tuesday afternoon at Columbus, Miss. He strengthened his statement on the marriage question by promising to disinherit his sons and leave his entire estate, upon his death, to his daughter.

Eight hundred students at the Mississippi Girls' Industrial institute called forth the President's remarks. He said: "I am not a rabid suffragist. The truth is, I am not in favor of suffrage for women until I can be convinced that all the women desire it and when they desire it I am in favor of giving it to them, and when they desire it they will get it. But I do believe that one of the advantages in giving them that kind of influence is the training in a family of self-support to them than has heretofore been done."

Favors Women in Professions.

"I wish that every woman in the world was so situated," the President said, "that she should not think it necessary for her to marry if she did not want to."

Taft said that he would be the last man in the world to put anything in the way of matrimony, but he believed a girl should be so situated as to her future as to be able to make a free choice and to look forward to a life of unmixt happiness.

"I venture to think," he went on, "that the best legacy that can be left to a young man is a good education and a good character by training in a family to good moral standards and nothing else."

"The same thing is true with respect to the young women, who are given a fair chance in life in earning and carrying out their own futures. The great trouble has been that we have not given the woman a fair show. We have not opened all the avenues to livelihood that they are quite well able to fill and in certain respects better able to fill than we are."

To Leave Estate to Daughter.

"I shall be glad that I shall not have any property to leave to my boys, of whom I have two, but only a good character and a pride in themselves and a good education, but for my daughter I am going to scrape together as much as I can give her and as good an education as I can, so that she shall take in the lesson which I first sought to announce as the text of my discourse, that she shall marry only when she chooses to marry and not because of circumstances."

CITY TO MOVE GRAVES

Old Cemetery Will Be Sold for Cost of Removing Coffins and Tombstones from Site.

WAUKESHA, Wis., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—The work of removing an entire graveyard will be undertaken by the city as the result of an order issued by the city council Tuesday evening, ordering all the bodies buried in the old cemetery at the western city limits, together with the monuments and markers, removed to Prairie Home cemetery at the city's expense. The cemetery commission was authorized to sell the old cemetery land to pay the expense of removal, and to interring the bodies. Persons having relatives buried in the old cemetery will, however, have the privilege of burying them on their private lots if they desire.

The old cemetery, which comprises an acre of land, has been unused for many years, and has become an eyesore to everybody. Many of the graves cannot be located. The fence surrounding the cemetery has rotted away, tombstones have crumbled and tumbled down, and the burial plots are overrun with rank weeds. Few of the graves bear an evidence of attention for years. There is no complete record of interments, but from those available it appears that about sixty bodies are interred there. There have been no interments for ten years.

The first half-acre of land on which the cemetery is located was secured for cemetery purposes in 1843 by the town of Pewaukee from Zebulon Bidwell, a pioneer. Later an additional half-acre was secured from Isaac Judson, father of " Ike" Judson, the famous hermit, who for forty years has lived in a shack in a dense copse, a few rods west of the old cemetery.

WANT COUNTY OPTION.

Sunday Rest Day Association Asks Christian Workers to Co-operate to That End.

OSHKOSH, Wis., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—At the meeting of the Sunday Rest Day association a committee on rural evangelistic work in Wisconsin was appointed as follows:

Rev. D. W. Hulbert, Wauwatosa; Rev. L. C. Smith, Waukesha; Rev. H. W. Carter, Beloit; District Superintendent William Rolins, Milwaukee; Presiding Elder G. F. Kieckhefer, and Rev. O. J. Johnson, Manitowish.

The convention has also adopted resolutions requesting all Christian workers to co-operate with the Anti-Saloon league and the W. C. T. U. to secure legislation at the next session of the state Legislature for an efficient county option law.

A resolution was adopted endorsing the work done by the Purity league.

Justice and Lucre.

Judge Giles Baker, of a Pennsylvania county, was likewise cashiered of his home bank. A man presented a check one day for payment. He was a stranger. His evidence of identification was not satisfactory to the cashier.

"Why, Judge," said the man, "I've known you to sentence men to be hanged on no better evidence than this."

"Very likely," replied the judge. "But when it comes to letting go of cold cash we have to be mighty careful."—Browning's Magazine.

FOND DU LAC NEWS.

LISTLE IS BOUND OVER.

FOND DU LAC, Wis., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Geo. Listle, who has a long criminal record and who is charged with being a habitual criminal, has been bound over for trial in circuit court. It is said that he will plead guilty when arraigned before Judge Fowler. Listle was arrested at North Fond du Lac on the charge of stealing brass and clothing belonging to Scott Smith. The police say that Listle is also the man who has been raiding poultry houses in the village and that he has confessed to all his thefts. He was sent to prison from here in 1903 for stealing a robe belonging to the late Samuel Level.

ELIAS DAVIES DEAD.

FOND DU LAC, Wis., November 2.—The funeral of Elias Davies, a former member of the county board, who died at St. Agnes' hospital, was held this afternoon from the Zoar church in Eldorado to the adjoining cemetery. Four clergymen conducted the services, which were largely attended. Besides his wife, Mr. Davies is survived by two daughters and three brothers. He was a well known stock buyer of the county for many years.

MAY GET MEDAL.

Mrs. Frank Flood of this city, who was formerly Miss Gertrude Sawyer of Marinette may be awarded a Carnegie medal for her bravery in saving the lives of four children. It was on August 25, 1904, that Mrs. Flood, who was a member of a boating party, saved the lives of the entire party by her heroism in rowing a small boat in a storm-tossed sea and who told funny stories in order to keep up the spirits of her companions. Her friends are making every effort to secure her a medal.

FIREMAN GETS CLAIM.

Michael McGrath, assistant fire marshal, is the holder of No. 1717 in the land allotment for the Cheyenne River and Standing Rock Indian reservations, which were thrown open for public entry by the government. He proposes to enter upon the land probably next April and has been notified that he will be advised when he can make an entry and select his land.

SAYS HE SHOT A MAN.

FOND DU LAC, Wis., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Charles Roth, who reported a week ago that his house was haunted by unearthly noises, today told the authorities in all seriousness that two men made a disturbance at his home during the night and that he shot one of them. An investigation reveals no traces of a shooting, and it is possible that Roth dreamed so vividly during the night that the scene seems like a reality to him. At least, that is one of the theories of the police.

WILL WED SOON.

Arthur H. Pitz, assistant city engineer and Ada Willott of Manitowish, Wis., former home, will be married shortly and reside on Sheboygan street in this city.

HALLOWEEN WAS QUIET.

Chief Nolan says that Halloween was uneventful in police circles this year. Several small boys, who were preparing to carry away fences and gate posts, were warned that they would be arrested if they did not go home and consequently there was no trouble. Win-

CRUEL TO HORSES.

Mell Coyhis was given a hearing in police court this afternoon upon the charge of cruelty to animals. It is alleged that the man cruelly beat a team of horses which were vainly trying to draw a heavy load. Officer Cavanaugh, who witnessed the affair, arrested Coyhis and when the latter was arraigned in court he pleaded not guilty. The police have determined to make the drivers throughout the city use their animals better hereafter and Coyhis was the first person who is said to have violated the rule.

REORGANIZED.

The Oakfield Town Mutual Fire Insurance company has been reorganized, several changes taking place in the personnel.

De Sagan Chandeliers.

Prance Helie de Sagan, second husband of Anna Gould, has been extremely annoyed and under aggravating circumstances. Six gorgeous chandeliers, made especially at his order, have been seized for debt. The creditor immediately put them up for sale and they were bought in for a song by an American dancing master, who remarked: "Americans are getting back some of their own by the transaction." The price paid $50,000 of Gould money for them. As he had designed them in honor of the baby, the princess could not show a niggardly spirit. She was especially pleased at Helie's pretty fancy in having them decorated with blown glass imitations of American Beauty roses, sprinkled with a dew of real diamonds. Now the chandeliers, which rival anything at Fontainebleau or Versailles, hang in the Washington palace, Rue Marignan, having been bought in the official sale by G. W. Loop, an American who teaches dancing and department to the younger generation of expatriated American millionaires.

Germany's top output for 1907 is estimated at $25,000,000, of which $19,000,000 was exported, and of that total the United States and Great Britain took more than half.

Now is the Time to Paint Your House for the Following Reasons:

Your house will be much dryer after the summer's heat than after the winter's dampness.

The paint will dry better and harder than in the spring, thereby keeping out dampness and decay, which really causes more loss than fire.

There is not much rain to impede the progress of the painting. There are few gnats and flies to spoil the job.

HELPLESS WITH RHEUMATISM.

The Experience of Many Who Do Not Know the Kidneys Are Weak. Jacob C. Barr, 18 Broadway, Lebanon, Ohio, says: "For three months I was helpless in bed with muscular rheumatism and had to be fed. My feet swelled, my legs were rigid, black spots flitted before my eyes and I was sore all over."

He began using Doan's Kidney Pills, and in two weeks I was improving. Then by leaps and bounds I got better. Until well and back at work. After such mortal agony this seemed wonderful."

Remember the name—Doan's. Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

PASSING OF THE TRAPPER. The forward march of civilization has reached the wilds of the Canadian north, and trappers report that their business is rapidly becoming unprofitable on account of the frequency of the settlements.

History has repeated itself in this as in all other things. The advance guard of civilization was years behind the hardy trappers who earned their livelihood in the solitude of the forests by taking animals for their furs.

Where will we get our furs in the future? We will raise them. For farming, skunk farming, cat farming and the hundred and one other kinds of animal raising will take the place of the trapper and his gun. One fur bearing animal will soon be taught to eat out of the hand of man just as the domestic animals of the farm have been doing for centuries.

One who knows says: "I drank coffee for breakfast every morning until I had terrible attacks of indigestion producing days of discomfort and nights of sleeplessness. I tried to give up the use of coffee entirely, but found it hard to go from hot coffee to a glass of water. Then I tried Postum."

"It was good and the effect was so pleasant that I soon learned to love it and have used it for several years. I improved immediately after I left off coffee and took on Postum and am now entirely cured of my indigestion and other troubles all of which were due to coffee. I am now well and contented and all because I changed from coffee to Postum."

"Postum is much easier to make right every time than coffee, for it is so even and always reliable. We never use coffee now in our family. We use Postum and are always well."

ROBS GREEN BAY BANK AND GETS AWAY WITH $3000

BANDIT HOLDS UP CASHIER IN BROAD DAYLIGHT IN HEART OF BUSINESS SECTION.

BANDAGES SERVE FOR A MASK.

Accomplice Is Believed to Have Been Waiting with Team to Drive Quickly Into the Country.

POSSES ARE SCOURING COUNTRY.

GREEN BAY, Wis., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Holding up the teller, Arthur Duchateau, at the Farmers' Exchange bank at 12:30 o'clock at the point of a revolver, a lone robber grabbed about $1000 in cash and then made good his escape.

There was no one in the bank at the time except the teller. While the police were notified at once, they were unable to secure any clue that would lead to the arrest of the bandit.

The robbery occurred in the busy section of the north side but at a time when everyone was at lunch and did not cause any excitement.

The teller saw the robber run as far as Cherry and Twelfth streets and then disappear into the country. The robber had his face covered with bandages and was not recognized by the teller.

The report that two men were seen driving rapidly along the Manitowish road was reported to the police and officers in automobiles are now scouring the country. It is believed the man and an accomplice, who drove him away after the robbery.

FINDS NIAGARA'S RIVAL.

Oshkosh Explorer Discovers Great Waterfall While Hunting Caribou Calves in Newfoundland.

OSHKOSH, Wis., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Edward Balch Barr, the Oshkosh explorer and lecturer, who has made several journeys of exploration and adventure into the wilderness of Canada, has returned from Newfoundland, where he commanded an expedition which was sent out by Mr. Grenfall, a missionary, to secure a calf caribou for interbreeding with reindeer for the benefit of the natives of the coast of Newfoundland and Labrador.

No caribou were captured on account of the deer fly which sent the caribou far inland. In making a canoe trip up the Castor river, the party was attracted by a thundering roar and following the noise, they came upon a waterfall in the wilderness.

Mr. Barr made pictures of the waterfall and is confident it will prove the highest on the western hemisphere.

The Milwaukee engineers have located on the north bank between the points named and are now working on the south fork. Eastern and western lumber companies with extensive holdings along the river are obliged to remove the timber within a specified time and the railroads are necessary to handle the products.

Taken from an Indian. Rosa Marks, a 10-year-old Russian girl, complained at Pittsburgh that Joseph Lehan, a Cherokee Indian, had threatened to kill her. She said she was purchased from her father by the Cherokee tribe of which Lehan is a member, for $1000. She is a native of Russia, and is not married to Lehan, although since her purchase he has been her lord and master. The authorities took charge of the girl.

Extravagant Students. Students at the University of Kansas who recently were called down by the chancellor for putting on too much "side" in the way of motor cars and other extravagances, have decided in mass meeting to lead the simple life. No valets are to be tolerated, motor cars are barred except for special occasions, extra valets are to be avoided, and entertainments are to be simple. The chancellor told the students that because their fathers were making more money on the farm than they knew how to spend, they had no right to spend extravagantly at college, because extravagance was likely to excite the envy of less fortunate students from the cities.

R. F. HOWARD'S CAREER'S ENDED

VETERAN NEWSPAPERMAN DIES FROM HEART TROUBLE AFTER TWO MONTHS' ILLNESS.

WAS AN OLD TIME REPORTER.

"Covered" Some of the Biggest Stories in History of State—Once Private Secretary to Somers.

SURVIVED BY WIFE AND DAUGHTER

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 1, 1909.—Robert E. Howard, one of Milwaukee's most widely known newspapermen, died a few minutes past midnight Sunday after an illness of several months. He was 65 years old and is mourned by a wife and daughter. His death occurred at his home, 182 Mason street. He did his last newspaper work on The Daily News two months ago. When he left his desk he predicted that it was for the last time and that he would not live out the year.

Known throughout Milwaukee and most of Wisconsin as "Bob" Howard, the journalistic veteran was noted for his energy, candor and good fellowship. He could "cover" a murder, handle copy, write love sonnets or preach a sermon with equal facility. He was gifted with a vein of humor and he had a personality which was marked wherever he appeared.

Howard was born in La Crosse and after a public school education he learned the printer's trade. He "stuck type" in New York, Chicago, Milwaukee and other large cities, finally returning to Milwaukee, where he became connected with The Evening Wisconsin in the newspaper union department. Howard served as news editor of The Sentinel for a time and then joined the staff of the weekly organized Milwaukee Journal. In 1884 Howard accepted a clerkship in the public document department at Washington and later as private secretary to Congressman Peter J. Somers.

After two years in Washington Howard established a paper in Shamokin, Pa., but strikes and a panic caused the venture to fail and he returned to Milwaukee, where since then he has been identified with practically every paper in the city for varying periods.

For some time Mr. Howard has been failing, death finally resulting from a complication of troubles, superinduced by a weak heart. In his death Milwaukee newspaper circles lose one of its "stars" of the old school. He was broadly educated by book and experience and never betrayed a confidence. He believed the Swedenborgian tenets in religious matters and was a deep delver in philosophy of all ages.

As an example of Howard's versatility, his sermon in the People's pulpit in 1903 was a notable example. A minister was invited to preach on "The Book of Life" evoked the admiration and approval of all manner of men for its broad humanity and religious teachings.

The funeral of Mr. Howard will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from Peacock's undertaking parlors, 431 Broadway, Rev. Frederick Edwards of St. James' Episcopal church reading the burial service. Brief remarks will be made by the president of the Milwaukee Press club.

The pallbearers will be John Poppendieck, Jr., managing editor of the Milwaukee Sentinel; H. P. Myrick, managing editor of the Milwaukee Free Press; M. A. Hoyt, managing editor of the Milwaukee Daily News; Gustav Haas, managing editor of the Germania; Henry C. Campbell, managing editor of the Milwaukee Journal; and Herman Blever, managing editor of the Evening Wisconsin.

BAR AGAINST PUFFS IN SCHOOL. California Normal Students Strike, but Parents Remain Firm.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 1.—School girls at the state normal school here must not wear "puffs," "buns," switches, coronet braids, or monstrous ribbon bows to add little "touches of beauty" to their tresses. The edict is being backed by parents.

Miss Kate Osgood, principal of the training department of the school, is a leader in the plan to exclude overfluous hair adornments. The movement reached a point of revolt last week and a few pupils went home, but returned, inter-viewed by their mothers and minus the puffs and bows.

While mothers of the girls have merely urged them to obey the order, some fathers have rejoiced because of the high prices for the fashionable hair goods.

Postal Banking in Europe. The post officials of Germany, Austria-Hungary and Switzerland met in Berlin on the 21st inst., to arrange a system of postal-check interchange. Germany is successfully operating a plan by which a business man may deposit in any post-office checks against his bank account, and so make each postoffice a branch bank.

A Cat Raids Jewelry. Mrs. Lillian Stumpf of New York city placed on a table a brooch, a ring and a pair of earrings valued at $2800 in a gray suede bag which she usually wore about her neck. Before returning she gathered up newspapers that were on the table and put them on the dumb waiter. Next morning she couldn't find the jewel bag. The dumb waiter had descended. In the kitchen the cat mistook the gray bag for a mouse, and pouncing upon it, carried it out of doors, where she was seen and panned. She escaped into neighboring fields, and when she returned the jewel bag was not with her.

Now Mrs. Stumpf is offering $100 reward for the return of the gems.

WILL OBEY EDDY EDIGT. MRS. AUGUSTA E. STETSON HAS NOT SECEDED FROM CHURCH. Announces Her Complete Submission to Boston Officials in Statement to Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson in a letter to the press has announced her complete submission to the Boston officials of the Christian Science movement and denied she intended to secede from the Christian Science church.

The text of the letter follows: "The reports that I am resisting the authority of the board of directors of the mother church and that I expect to secede from that church and form an independent church are false. I have not seen to any one of the things attributed to me in the papers.

On October 16, 1909, I notified the directors of the mother church that I would comply strictly with their orders and therefore would neither teach classes in Christian Science nor convene or attend my students' association. I leave all judgment to God, the righteous Judge.

On the same day I notified the trustees of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, New York city, that I had so advised the authorities of the mother church. I also requested the secretary of my students' association to notify its members whom I taught in past years that there would be no meeting of its students this year.

I shall never secede from Christian Science and no student of mine with my approval will ever secede from Christian Science or dissolve the constituted authorities of our denomination. I was never more devoted to the cause of Christian Science, to which I have given my whole life for twenty-five years.

I was never more grateful, loving and obedient to my revered leader, Mary Baker Eddy, discoverer and founder of Christian Science and the leader forever of all true Christian Scientists.

I have labored for over twenty-three years to build and strengthen the First Church of Christ, Scientist, New York city. I have seen it spring from nothing to what it now is. It is for others to say what part I had in its growth. From what I have learned of its members by my labors in developing this church, and in teaching Christian Science to its members, I am sure that this church and my students everywhere will always be found holding the banner of Christian Science aloft most valiantly and fearlessly when the enemies of Christian Science are most aggressive. Sincerely yours, AUGUSTA E. STETSON.

NEGRO STRIPES A COLORED GIRL. In examining a girl pupil in one of the negro schools at Little Rock, Ark., Dr. Ida J. Brooks found that the supposed acute facial disease of the student was a bleaching of the skin caused by excessive applications of peroxide of hydrogen which produced alternating stripes similar to those ornamenting the hide of a zebra. The girl admitted that she had used the remedy containing the peroxide. This caused a bleaching of the skin, which was heaviest when applied to the spots the patient had tried most to relieve. There were alternating streaks on the patient's face, cheeks and forehead, which were brought out more prominently by the blackness surrounding the eyes, that had not been doctored.

RASH ALL OVER BODY. Awful, Crusted, Weeping Eczema on Little Sufferer—A Score of Treatments Prove Dismal Failures—Cure Achieved by Cuticura.

"My little boy had an awful rash all over his body and the doctor said it was eczema. It was terrible and used to water awfully. Any place the water went it would form another sore and it would become crusted. A score or more physicians failed utterly and dismally in their efforts to remove the trouble. Then I was told to use the Cuticura Remedies. I got a cake of Cuticura Soap, a box of Cuticura Ointment and a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, and before we had used half the Resolvent I could see a change in him. In about two months he was entirely well. George L. Lambert, 139 West Centre St., Mahanoy City, Pa., Sept. 26 and Nov. 4, 1907."

Negro Girls in the North. "Our graduates cannot enter the homes of whites as servants or house girls. There is not sufficient protection in the house for them. When they finish their work at night they are allowed to roam the streets to be subjected to temptation and are lost. They may return to their own families less pure and a disgrace to their families." So reported Ellen Young, colored, matron of the Paine Antislavery Home for Negro Girls at Augusta, Ga., to the Women's Board of Home Missions of the Methodist Church, South, at one of the sessions of its convention at Savannah. In seven years she had known 600 negro girls who went north and believed that 500 of them will have died or returned south broken in health.

Shot Barely Misses. Neenah Merchant Passed by Strange Couple, When Man Suddenly Wheels Around and Fires.

NEENAH, Wis., Nov. 2.—[Special.]—H. B. Sanda, a prominent businessman, narrowly escaped being shot by an unknown man.

Sanda was standing in front of his store, when his assailant and a woman passed by. Sanda casually glanced at the couple, when the man suddenly wheeled about, asked Sanda what he was looking at, and was about to make reply, when the man pulled a revolver and a bullet whizzed by Sanda's head.

Sanda grappled with the man and took the gun from him. The assailant escaped.

REBELS MEET DEFEAT.

Nicaraguan Forces Successful in Administering Crushing Blow to Revolutionists.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—A cable message today from President Zelaya of Nicaragua says that the forces of the government were successful in an engagement yesterday against the revolutionists at Bocas San Carlos. The scene of hostilities was near the river San Juan, a short distance from the port of San Juan del Norte. The revolutionists, according to the presidential cablegram, were under command of General Emilio Chamorro and suffered a crushing defeat.

HIGH ART DANCE STIRS CLERGY.

St. Louis Pastors Denounce Performance of Isadora Duncan.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 2.—St. Louis Methodist Episcopal pastors have adopted a resolution which characterized as "the grossest violation of the proprieties of life" the "diaphanous" dance given here Tuesday by Isadora Duncan in conjunction with the Danmore concert.

Many of St. Louis' richest women, interviewed, however, upheld Miss Duncan's dance. Mrs. William K. Kavanaugh is quoted as saying: "To me Miss Duncan looked like an exquisite figure on an old vase that we are allowed to admire with perfect propriety."

The resolution of the ministers follows: "Resolved, That it is a matter of exceeding regret that in the name of charity and before an audience of character and culture, and excused only by being high art, a woman clad only in a kirtle, slipped to the belt, of a fabric so diaphanous that in certain changing phases she was virtually naked, rising to the horizontal in the whirl of the dance, has been permitted to appear. Such a performance, whatever the motive, is the grossest violation of the proprieties of life, and we trust it may never be repeated in our city."

A Clean Man

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

The Empress Helps German Actresses.
The German Empress has started many philanthropic organizations in Berlin, and one of the latest and most useful is known as the Central Association of German Actresses. The object is to provide actresses with costumes for the stage at the smallest possible expense. The Empress gives all her court and evening gowns to the institution after she has used them, and she has induced many wealthy women in Berlin to follow her example. Many women who object to giving away their gowns part with them at nominal figures. The Empress is the president of the association, which provides the majority of the costumes seen on the Berlin stage. Many theatrical companies in Berlin have one or more dresses formerly worn by the Empress.

Deafness Cannot be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; and cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

FOR WOMEN AND GIRLS

A button is sometimes not a button. Indeed, nowadays it verges on a huge ornament, and two or three are frequently all there are here for the paying. Square buttons are necessary for decorating costumes.

There are buttons of all shapes and of all imaginable designs. Round buttons of cut steel, silver, gunmetal and gilt are here for the paying. Square buttons, oval shapes, diamond forms and hexagonal outlines are glittering and tempting in their jeweled beauty.

Many of these new forms have large centers of colored stone or glass surrounded by tiny forms in metal mountings. Colors are arranged in circles of contrasting jewels on some, while on others there are squares of turquoise, amethysts or sapphires alternating with filigree.

It is impossible to describe the variety of design in this season's offerings. It will be well-nigh impossible to seek a certain style or color combination which cannot be found in the new button boxes of our great stores.

A delicious way of preparing tomatoes is to cut the stem end of the ripe fruit. Put the tomatoes close together in the dripping pan or iron frying pan. Fill the pan with sugar, and put a piece of butter on each. Cover and set on the back of the stove, where the tomatoes will have gentle, even heat. Leave them there for four hours, taking out some of the juice if the pan gets too full. The tomatoes will keep their shape. Served as a relish for luncheon or dinner, they will be found exceedingly tasty.

The tunic of today implies a border, and this border is a departure very far from the originals in the adaptation of that earlier overhanging skirt which was invariably ornamented in one way or another. The embroidery and beaded trimmings used long ago were made in the shape of straight bands and afterward applied to these upper skirts. Tunic decorations have in no way departed from the border idea; most of them are, even now, made separately, then applied, and they invariably incline to the straight-edged variety.

You will see on the gold-mesh tunic a border of beads of varying size sewed round its edge after the net has been turned up, and the headed border will take on, in the main, a straight edge. The supplying weight to a black net tunic is usually a straight galloon.

The gray moire which binds the black chiffon drapery that overhangs a gray satin afternoon dress is put on just in the ruffian way of a plain old-fashioned bias binding appearing an inch wide on the right and on the wrong side.

Broad ribbon is used to good effect to edge the chiffon tunic, and so also is ribbon velvet.

No story of the "overskirt" of the present time is complete without a mention of the lead weights that drag it down. These round disks of soft lead (some people use pennies) are covered with a dozen little friends in the form of trimmings, and are put there to keep the lightweight tunic from flying out. They produce a clinging effect about the extreme lower edge.

It is pleasing to note how the exaggerated types of dress have gradually circled to the background, and in the crystallization of autumn modes grace of line and artistic coloring have triumphed. Beauty and conservatism are well combined by the best designers, and a woman who wears a trimly bizarre gown she must thank herself only. Never before were so many handsome models displayed for the edification of foreigners, and when shown, as they usually are, on the mannequins conversion is generally the result.

One feature which ought to be welcomed by women is the incorporation of net and lace in collar and guimpe. The latter, that apparently had served its days of usefulness. However, as the material was still in excellent condition and the style such as would lend itself to present-day modes, I decided to carry the color of the frock to the throat, but the delicate foundation is insisted upon by our Parisienne.

"I have been doing a little experimenting in the cleaning line," said a wide-awake woman. "I had three woolen dresses that, apparently, had served their days of usefulness. However, as the material was still in excellent condition and the style such as would lend itself to present-day modes, I decided to carry the color of the frock to the throat, but the delicate foundation is insisted upon by our Parisienne."

For a small sum a luncheon or dinner table may be made exceedingly attractive by a jar or vase of flowers in place in the center. Failing those, when the income must be considered, fruit is a good substitute, and a dish of oranges is no means to be despised, even as a centerpiece for dinner.

The fruit should be put into a glass, silver or fancy bowl. As green adds enormously to their decorative effect, an effort should be made to get it, and if the cost of having a florist's make it prohibitive, one should try fruit dealers, for almost all fruits that are boxed from wholesalers have green leaves as trimming. Mountain laurel is frequently used by them, and for 10 cents one should secure two or three sprays.

ing, that sacred emblem of centuries—love and lovers—is a rare and a trophy. The bracelet as first made for this purpose was a plain gold chain, fastened with a tiny padlock, which was opened by pressing a small spring. The ingenious lover conceived the idea of using the spring, so that the bracelet set once put on could not afterward be removed. It is unchanging affection. Another interesting idea is to have a tiny key. The lover locks his lady in, as it were, and transfers the key to his own watchchain. It is but another proof that romance springs eternal, etc., no matter how much it is tramped upon in this material world.

One of the satisfactions of the rainy day in autumn is the opportunity it offers for the accomplishment of long-promised tasks comparatively quiet. This is the day of all others when we rather resent the visit which we choose to call "an interruption."

Each busy housewife and home seamstress has her own way of preparing for this quiet family day, whose hours lengthen out delightfully while the rain drops patter on the porch roof just outside the sewing room windows.

One resourceful woman has disclosed her little secret, which is the preparation of a sewing basket. She has planned out and cut into every available garment in the belief that their accomplishment is practically assured on the coming rainy day, is they have had this advice begin to rain.

Sewing often is pushed aside and indefinitely delayed for very want of a good beginning, and one of our needlewomen tells us that her plan is to use the rainy day itself for countless beginnings.

This has a systematic and businesslike ring, and many a woman who feels that she should reign undisturbed for the monotonous beginning of the long-dreamed-of garment will adopt this latter plan.

A pretty piece of copper in which a small fern is placed is one of the most economical ways of decorating the center of a table. For the metal when kept bright takes on a pinkish shade that is charming, and, in fact, if small and low, are prettier than when large.

The mother who is wise throws open her home to her children's friends. One very lonely woman said recently that she never learned to be informal and to make friends quickly because when she was a child her mother never allowed her to bring her little friends in her home after school. At stated intervals the mother would give her children parties, models of formality, but when the little ones wanted a good time they went to some other girl's house; consequently she never really had any intimate friends.

Such a thing as inviting a schoolmate to stay overnight, in particular, was simply unheard of. What a mistake that is! One mother who prides herself on retaining the love of her children as well as their confidence never refuses them any entertainment they may plan for their friends. Sometimes they write from school they want to bring home half a dozen little friends for a holiday, and the house is taxed to overflow, but this wise mother does not stand on ceremony and provides room somehow for them all.

As a result she is tremendously popular. As she only with her own, but with the other children as well, to the envy of other mothers not as unselfish and sensible as she is.

Another mother with grown sons has fitted up den for their amusement may receive their friends without interference from the rest of the family. They hold club meetings there, play games, and do as they please. In the meantime is a hardy room, where the father and boys have a good time with their acquaintances and smoke and are thoroughly comfortable.

The father and mother are both interested in all their sons' amusements and plans. They take them seriously and help them all they can. It is the same way with the girls, only the boys are the ones who are usually the most left out in the cold.

Children who are well treated in this way will never wander in the streets or cause sorrow to their parents, for home is the most attractive place on earth to them.

For lobster chowder such as Maine housewives make, cut the meat of a good sized lobster into dice. Cream the green part of the lobster with a couple of table-spoonfuls of butter and a couple of cracked eggs. Scald a quart of milk with half a small onion and just before it boils remove the onion and stir in the green lobster mixture. Meanwhile let the shells cook for fifteen minutes in water enough to cover them. Strain off the liquor and add it and the lobster dice to the milk mixture. Add salt and paprika to taste.

Speaking of guimpe, a fashion writer dwells upon the important place they fill in the wardrobe of the season's dress. The tiny yokes, which sometimes seem to be merely an extension of the collar, are frequently made of net, braided in designs. Jet is used on black, appearing in lines or heavily embroidered. Many foundations have chain stitching in colors; in other guimpe a solid design in dull shades, with perhaps one brilliant note, gives richness to the foundation. One beautiful guimpe has a foundation of gray net upon which an embroidered design in velvet leaves are appliqued, and the effect is a handsome combination which, by the way, can be made at home by any clever woman.
