Future Conversation.

When June is gone and August heat Brings terror to mankind There is a comfort all complete That I shall daily find. I'll half forget the torrid spell The loitering sun has cast.

About the weather then I'll tell
Of February last.

I'll talk of blizzards that unwound Their endless scarfs of snow; And of cold waves that came around And simply would not go: Of icy pavements where we fell While o'er us laughed the blast. I'll fan myself a bit and teil Of February last.

Ah, these things yet shall be a joy
For memory to recall,
When flowery sweetness comes to cloy
And languorous days befall.
These chill events may serve us well,
Though now we stand aghast.
Twill ease the summer when we tell
Of February last.

William G. Rockefeller, whose hobby has been for years the breeding and training of beagles, has retired from swept away by the edge of the avalanche the sport and is selling out his dogs, which are housed in what are said to be the finest kennels in the country. The kennels are at "Rockridge," Mr. Rockefeller's country place at Greenwich, Conn. The home of the dogs, together with a cottage for their attendants, cost in the neighborhood of $80,000, and Mr. Rockefeller, during the past ten years or so, has spent upon his hobby, it is estimated, about a quarter of a million. His beagles have won hundreds of blue ribbons at shows all over the United States, and also at field trials. Among champions now at Rockridge are Flyaway, Empress and Andy Dock. There are about sixty dogs there now, although at times there have been as many as 200. The avalanche rolled down the mountain at 4:20 a. m. The two trains, three locomotives, four powerful electric motors, the depot and water tank were swept off the ledge and deposited in a twisted mass of wreckage at the foot of the mountain. The noise from the snow slide, which was a mile long, could be heard throughout the valley, and Supt. J. H. O'Neill, who was directing the work of the night shift, marshalled be work of the night shift, marshalled his men and hurried to the rescue.

Groans and cries for help coming from the jumbled heap of debris at the bottom of the canyon indicated that many imprisoned in the wreckage were still alive and the rescuers worked with a feverish haste to release them. As fast as the injured were removed they were taken to the hospital at Scenic, three miles away by mountain trail, but ten when the long winding course of the railroad is followed.

A messenger was dispatched at once for help. The first news of the disaster was brought by John Wentzel of Wellington. He stagegered into Skyhomish, eighteen miles from Wellington, Tuesday and gasped out, his story.

"All wiped out," he said. "Nothing but smooth snow where the tracks stood, and the trains were jumped into the canyon."

DAVIS STATEMENT TO REMAIN IN RECORD.

Arkansas Senator Is Unsuccessful in Having Testimony Before Committee Stricken Out.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 2 .-Seantor Jeff Davis of Arkansas was today denied the privilege of striking from the record a statement in his testimony before the House committee on public lands in advocacy of the Arkansas "Sunk lands" bill, that he would receive a large legal fee if the bill were passed The bill in question was introduced by Representative Olofield of Arkansas and was for the purpose of quicting title to 100,000 acres of swamp land. Oldfields said that he introduced the bill at the request of Senator Davis, and as a re-sult the latter was called before the committee several days ago to explain

"If this bill becomes a law, I will receive a large fee," Senator Davis told the committee. The understanding was that Senator Davis' fee was a contingent one, dependent upon his success in winning suits in court or quieting title by legislation.

According to custom, the senator was permitted to correct the stenographic copy of his statement, and when he returned it to the committee all of that portion concerning his fee had been eliminated. The committee in executive ses sion today voted almost unanimously that Montresor gathered himself together. all I have to say. In ordinary circumstances my conduct would be absolutely inexcusable; but the circumstances are not ordinary. I have more than once been to see you with intelligence which should have interested you, concerning as it did your niece, Miss Lavenham. On none of these occasions have you shown the smallest interest. This might perhaps be accounted for on the assumption that you are an exceedingly selfish old man, were it not for the fact that you profess to be doing all in your power to find her, and that unfortunately you would benefit were it to become certain that she is dead."

"Do you mean to insult me, sir?" fled voice. He appeared to be trembling. "I suppose it is an insult," returned Montresor resolutely, "but I cannot help that. I think it is my duty to tell you that you have fallen under the suspicion of being in some way concerned with the mysterious disappearance of your niece, if not of her murder."

"And may I ask how I can have murdered my niece when you have just informed me you saw her today driving about in a hansom cab?"

"I hope indeed it may be proved that it was your niece I saw, but I have never seen Miss Lavenham after all, and cases of mistaken identity are not rare. The time has come when all people who have any regard for justice must be satisfied that you do not know where your niece

"And how do you propose to satisfy them?" asked Mr. Caterhouse calmly. "By arresting you on a charge of mur-dering Denzilia Lavenham!"

Mr. Caterhouse made a step back. "There are two policemen, one outside your house, the other a few yards down the street," said Montresor, indulging for the nonce in ambiguity.

The old man was visibly discomposed. "You do not dare to carry out such a monstrous scheme!" he muttered.

"I can assure you that if I were to fail there are others who would accomplish it."

"To wit, Mr. Alick Langrishe?" "Mr. Caterhouse," said Montresor earnestly, taking no notice of the mocking interpolation. "If you know anything of your niece, Denzilia Lavenham, I beg of you, for your own sake, to tell me what you know." "I have nothing to tell you," returned the old man defiantly. "Then," said Montresor, crossing to the window, and drawing a policeman's whistle from his pocket, "I have no

Mr. Caterhouse sprang after him with an agility surprising in an old man and he said. "I have no right to take you (To Be Control of the said).

"You cannot do it!" he cried in the same queer smothered voice.

Then, as Montresor, heedless of his appeal, lifted the whistle to his lips, he snatched it away from him and rushed across the room towards the folding doors. With the last words he wrenched himself free of Montresor's hold and slipped in between the doors, slamming them and locking them behind him. For an instant Montresor stood amazed at the agility with which the old man had escaped him. Then he rushed to the other door expecting to catch Mr. Caterhouse on the stairs; but at the same moment he heard his husky voice from within the back room.

"Give me half an hour, and then, if I do not produce Denzilia Lavenham, I will surrender myself to your policemen."

A sense of incomprehensible mystery was pressing heavily on Montresor's mind. He planted himself in the open doorway from which he could view the other exit of the inner room. He took out his watch.

"I will give you half an hour," he said. "It is now exactly ten minutes to 5."
"What could it all mean?" he asked himself. "Was Denzilia Lavenham imprisoned in that inner room? Had the which he could communicate with the Langrishe had no time to look after him. He perceived that in his abstraction he had left the house door ajar behind him. Without ceremony the American walked in and up the stairs. Montresor's manner had created in his mind a certain apprehension which seemed to him to justify this indiscretion. He went straight upstairs to the drawing room, the door of which was also open, just as Montresor had left it.

When he entered the room he saw a woman sitting at the big writing table, Her arms were flung out on the table before her, and with her head down on them she was sobbing with an abandon that startled the intruder.

"Denzilia! Miss Lavenham!" he said. She started up. She dashed away her tears and stood looking at him with wide-open eyes of defiance.

Waterproof Paper.

Japanese waterproof paper is made of fibers of bamboo and encalyptus mixed with fibers of the ampi and other shrubs. The fibers are torn apart, dried, cleansed scraped, boiled in weak dye and washed with water. They are then beaten and mixed with a viscous infusion of certain roots and a solution containing camphor, caoutchouc and resin. The sheets formed from this pulp are calendered at various temperatures. The paper is light, washable and very difficult to tear. It is used to imitate leather and india

ECCENTRIC OLD CHARACTER RE-FUSES TO LEAVE DWELLING.

Michael Fallon Appears Before the City Council and Demands Restoration of His Belongings.

WAUKESHA, Wis., March 2 .- [Speial. ]-With trembling frame and teardimmed eyes, Michael Fallon, an aged resident of the city, who for years has made his home amidst squalor in the rear of an old stone building on Broadway, which he formerly used as a blacksmith shop, appeared before the city council Tuesday evening, and demanded redress for wrongs which he claims to have sustained. A few days ago, he said, he was enticed away from his property, and dur-ing his absence the building was forcibly entered and his belongings, including his bedding, furniture and wearing apparel taken away. He reported the affair to the police, he said, but could get no sat-

According to the police Fallon's daughter, who resides in the east, recently came to the city and has since been endeavoring to induce her father to give up his abode in the old barn and reside in a better home which she offers to provide. Fallon, however, it is said, as steadily refused to leave and finally the daughter took the matter in her own hands and had his belongings removed rom the barn to a flat in the Land block, where she is willing to provide him with a home, but where, it is claimed by the police, he steadfastly refuses to go.

For many years Michael Fallon has been a picturesque figure on the streets here, his long flowing white beard and air, which hangs in ringlets about his shoulders, giving him a patriarchal appearance. An ardent Democrat, it is told that when William Jennings Bryan first became a candidate for President, Fallon declared he would never cut his hair or beard until the Commoner was elected, and he has kept his word.

Years ago when the Milwaukee Electric Railway company laid its double.

tric Railway company laid its double track on Broadway, Fallon refused to allow the laborers to pass his property with the rails holding them at bay for a time with a shot gun from his black-smith shop, which he used as a fort. During his long residence in the city, however, Fallon has always had the reputation of being peaceable and law-abiding and citizens always have a pleas-ant smile or word for him as they pass him on the street.

the entire building was burning, and before the arrival of the fire apparatus the yards also were ablaze. Only six lines of hose were available from the engines and because this hose was laid across the North-Western tracks, locomotives were unable to pull the forty loaded freight cars from the switches on which they were standing.

These cars were burned, together with their contents. The origin of the fire is unknown. At midnight the fire was under control but the huge piles of coal are still burning fiercely and probably will for several

ARBITRATION IS DEMANDED TO END STRIKE

POWERFUL INFLUENCES BROUGHT TO BEAR UPON PHILADEL-PHIA COMPANY.

STORES WANT ACTION.

Business Houses Will Not Permit Transit Officials to Involve City in General Walkout.

POLITICIAN COULD END TROUBLE.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 1 .-Powerful influences are being brought o bear upon the Philadelphia Rapid Fransit company to bring an end to he strike. The big department stores, which have suffered along with thousands of other business houses, are mown to have demanded that the transit ompany shall not involve the city in great general labor struggle.

A conference was held today in the offices of the company by Charles O. Kruger, president of the traction corporation; State Senator Clarence Wolf, vice president; Col. H. Earle, Jr., the city's representative on the board of directors, and Richard Y. Cook, a prominent financier.

There was a general appeal for arotration today. Newspapers demanded t; various organizations were clamoring for it, and citizens generally were call-ing for an end of the trouble at once. Important developments were looked for during the day.

Prepare for General Strike. Both the labor leaders and the city administration are preparing their lines for the expected sympathetic strikes. Director of Public Safety Clay in an interview said he did not regard the proposed ex-tension as a "bluff." He told of plans for increasing the police force in antici-pation of further trouble. He said: "Under the act of May 31, 1850, the mayor has power to draft every able bodied man in Philadelphia for service in protecting life and property. He can swear in special policemen indefinitely. I expect to have prepared for that purpose lists of all citizens who are of age and are fit for such service.

"We do not mean to call for the National guard until we have exhausted every power at our command. I have at my service still 1000 men who were among the 2000 summoned for special duty a week ago, who can be sworn in at any moment for police duty in uni-form. We have made arrangements to in the co-partnership by the three men form.

Councils May Act.

The labor unions having decided on a ounce bottle comes in a tin screw-top general strike unless the city takes steps to force the company to arbitrate, the sessions of select and common councils Thursday afternoon are being looked forward to with interest. It is considered almost certain that some member will put forth an arbitration resolution, but whether the political organization in con-trol will agree to take action cannot be predicted.

State Senator James P. McNichol, the Republican leader of Philadelphia, and William S. Ware, who stands next to left here with a party of friends before the strike began. It is believed that Senator McNichol could end the strike if he cared to interfere.

The several locals of the Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators have endorsed the general strike order, and all painters connected with the organization are instructed to stop work Saturday morning unless the strike is settled by

SOUTH BETHLEHEM, Pa., March -The striking employes of the Bethlehem Steel company today again succeeded in almost completely tieing up the great plant, only a few hundred men reporting for work. The town remains quiet, but it is still under heavy police rotection. The failure of the company's loyal men to report Monday was due principally to fear of being attacked by strikers or sympathizers with the walk Bethmann-Hollweg for the latter's re mark in debate to the effect that man-hood suffrage was an evil. "No speaker will be permitted to drag the Kaiser's name into the debate," said President Spahn of the Reichstag, calling Dr. Franck to order. "I will say what I like about the Kaiser," shouted Franck. "I will discuss him as freely as "I will discuss him as freely as any one else." This bold utterance threw the chamber into the greatest disorder, and the Conservatives tried to shout down the speaker. The Socialists, though greatly outnumbered, rallied to the sup-port of Dr. Franck and cheered wildly.

> DEFINES ADULTERATED BUTTER. State Dairy and Food Commissioner Issues Enlightening Letter.

MADISON, Wis., March 1.—State Dairy and Food Commissioner J. Q. Emery has issued a letter to dairymen and creamerymen regarding the production of butter, which says in part:

tion of butter, which says in part:

Under the terms of the dairy and food laws of Wisconsin, butter that contains test than $2.5 per cent. of butter fat is "adulterated," and hence unlawful. It is a misdemeanor to sell as "butter" a product falling below that legal standard in butter fat. The imposing of heavy legal penalties for a trifling excess of moisture in butter while closing the eyes to the manufacture and sale of butter deficient in butter fat, seems much like straining at a gnat and swallowing a came! When butter contains $2.5 per cent. of butter fat, the mutter maker, creamery manager and dealer in butter need have no fear that such butter is in violation of the national regulation as to moisture content, or in other words that moisture content, or in other words that his butter is adulterated with an over amount of moisture. The accurate testing of the butter fat content of butter can be made as easily as can be the testing for the butter fat content of milk or cream. Butter sold in Wisconsin which contains less than 82.5 per cent butter fat is "adul-terated," and it is no less the legal duty of the dairy and food commissioner to prose-cute for the sale of such product than it is cute for the sale of such product than it is to prosecute for the sale of any other adul-

ROOSEVELT'S GUEST VICTIM OF FEVER

FRENCH MEDICAL MISSIONARY DIES WITHIN 24 HOURS.

AMERICANS ESCAPE AFRICAN MAL-ADY AND SAIL FOR KHARTUM.

GONDOKORO, Soudan, March 1 .-On the Upper Nile)-Roosevelt luck has attended the American hunters and scientists and this time they may be congratulated upon their escape from the African fever that has followed in the wake of the expedition. Col. Roosevelt and his immediate associates sailed for Khartoum Monday.

Dr. Frederic Presch, a French medical missionary, who lunched with Mr. Roosevelt Monday, died suddenly of fever at noon today.

At a camp adjoining that occupied by the Americans here an English sportsman is seriously ill following a trip to Kampala, the capital of Uganda and one of the places at which the Smithsonian African scientific expedition stopped.

The district commissioner of Gondokoro, the British officials of which were most active in entertaining their American guests, has been stricken with the fever and today is confined to his bed. Mr. Presch has done missionary work in Africa for ten years, during which time his health has been gradually un-dermined by the debilitating climate. His collapse today is attributed to a weak-ened condition that could not resist an attack which he might have survived a few years ago.

When Col. Roosevelt and the others of his party left here on the steamer Dal they were all apparently in good health and little the worse for their rough ex-

Peculiar Phase of French Character. Passengers arriving from France say that one day when it seemed as if the Seine would wash away some historic landmarks, works of art and master-pieces of architecture in Paris the people concentrated their attention on the bears in the pits at the zoo, which were in peril of being drowned. With Parisian spirit the inhabitants seemed to look upon the flood as a public show for their diversion.

A GOOD CHANGE

The wrong food and drink causes a lot of trouble in this world. To change son that is ill, particularly from stomach and nervous troubles. As an illustration: A lady in Mo. has, with her husband, been brought around to health again by leaving off coffee and some articles of food that did not agree with them. They began using Postum and Grape-Nuts food. She says:

"For a number of years I suffered with stomach and bowel trouble which kept getting worse until I was very ill most of the time. About four years ago I left off coffee and began taking Postum. My stomach and bowels improved right along, but I was so reduced in flesh and so nervous that the least thing would overcome me. "Then I changed my food and began using Grape-Nuts in addition to Postum. I lived on these two principally for about four months. Day by day I gained in flesh and strength until now the nervous trouble has entirely disappeared and I feel that I owe my life and health to Postum and Grape-Nuts.

"Husband is 73 years old and he was troubled, for a long time, with occasional cramps, and slept badly. Finally, I prevailed upon him to leave off coffee and take Postum. He had stood out for a long time, but after he tried Postum for a few days he found that he could sleep and that his cramps disappeared. He was satisfied and has never gone back to coffee.

"I have a brother in California who has been using Postum for several years; his whole family use it also because they have had such good results from it."

Most Stringent Anti-Monopoly Act in United States.

James W. Osborne, whose recent successful prosecution of the ice trust has blazed the way for the enforcement in New York of the most stringent anti-monopoly law in the United States, said yesterday that nothing would please him more than an opportunity to invoke this statute against the beef trust to force lower prices for meats and food stuffs. Mr. Osborne observed with interest that resolution has been introduced in the a resolution has been introduced in the Assembly at Albany, calling for joint action by the attorney general of the United States and the attorney general of New York, to institute proceeding to dissolve the beef trust. "The purpose of the resolution is excellent," said Mr. Osborne, "but it so happens that I know from my own experience with the ice trust that the aid of the attorney gentrust that the aid of the attorney general of the United States is not needed to check the rapacity of the beef trust or any other industrial combination of monopoly in this state. Upon his initia tive, Attorney General O'Malley can take action against the beef trust that will result in the revocation of its license or the license of its subsidiary corporations to do business in New York. He now has a suit pending the ice trust with this ob-

The law to which Mr. Osborne refer is known as the Donnelly anti-monopoly statute. "The Donnelly law," Mr. Os-borne went on, "is broader than the interstate commerce act, in that it contains the word 'arrangement.' It says: 'Every contract, agreement, arrangement or combination in restraint of trade' is illegal and a misdemeanor, punshable by a fine of $5000, or one year imprisonment for the responsible officers of the offending corporation, or both. In other words, as shown by the conviction of the Ice trust under this law, it is not necessary that there should be an actual contract between two or more meat producers, nor is it necessary that there should be any combination between individuals."

As to the powers of Attorney General O'Malley in the premises, Mr. Osborno said: "In addition to other remedies the attorney general has the extraordi nary recourse of being able to get mony in a manner not provided in the case of any other crime. "Now," says Mrs. Catt, "the times have been so hard and conditions have changed so much that would mean that 50,000 husbands are li ing in innocuous desuetude while the feminine half of the firm thrusts her hat pins firmly through her headgear and starts down town to hustle the living. #### A TREASURE CAVE.

It Is Entered Surreptitiously and Looted of Buried Valuables.

Part of Capt. Kidd's buried treasure a recent heavy storm in a cave on the property of County Judge E. Higbie of the outskirts of Somers Point, N. J. In the cave, evidence of the digging and following day. Although the cave is only a few hundred yards from the residence of Judge Higbie, no members of his family heard the treasure seekers during the storm that kept the entire population of that resort within doors. Capt. Mark was going on.

The cave is bricked up with walls more than two feet thick. The top is covered with slabs of red sandstone of a quality unknown in the neighborhood of Somers Point. The bricks are similar t those brought from England during Colonial days.

So far as can be learned from the examination made by Mayor John Camp bell, the cave is at least 150 years old Traces left by the visitors showed that they uncovered what is supposed to have been a chest about six feet long and two feet wide. The chest had been dragge to a wagon whose wheel marks were plainly visible, but trace of the vehicle was lost on the main road leading to Pleasantville.

The cave lies in direct line with an aged cedar tree and a stump of another tree, which are believed to have been the marks by which the strangers found the spot. Capt. Doughty, one of the oldest residents of the resort, believes that it held valuables belonging to people living on Somers Point and the surrounding country during the Revolution. ountry during the Revolution. Some Would Explain Miracles by Supposing Its Use. electrical engineer of Munich named Stadenmann makes an ingenious argument to prove that the Jews in the time of Moses had an advanced knowledge of electricity, using passages from the Bible to enforce his claim, says the Boston Globe.

His theory of the famed serpent of bronze is that it was a lightning conductor, and he also says that the temple at Jerusalem was protected by metal points connected with the ground.

The most ingenious speculation is in regard to the ark of the covenant, which was made of walls of wood covered on both sides with metal. If this were connected with the metal teeth on the temple roof it would form a sort of Leyden jar charged with the electricity of the atmosphere and would give a shock to any one touching it.

Mr. Stadenmann presumes that Moses gained his knowledge of electricity from the Egyptians. This ancient race cer-tainly had a knowledge of many branches of science that it took the rest of the world thousands of years to learn. But the only proof that they were electrical engineers is one recently advanced by an archaeologist—that they must have had electric lights because their underground temples show no traces of smoke.

just a neighborly talk:

THE NORTHWESTERN MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY was chartered in 1857 on the petition of 36 prominent Wisconsin men. Organized as a purely mutual company and the welfare of policyholders being the paramount consideration, the officers of the company have always been conservative and careful so that this has come to be a fixed habit in Northwestern management.

Despite the early handicaps of location, limitation and competition, the Northwestern's liberality to policyholders, coupled with its remarkably low rate of expense for operating (for more than 30 years the lowest in the United States), the saving in mortality, from care in the selection of risks, and the high earning power of its assets, has made it one of the most prominent insuring and financial institutions in the United States.

Wisconsin has always been intimately connected with the affairs of this great company; 36 of its choicest pioneer citizens were its charter members and thousands of the sons and daughters of the Badger State have shared its half-century of endeavor and beneficence. Wisconsin men have always managed the Northwestern and its present official and operating force is composed of Wisconsin citizens. Of its 36 trustees, 25 are residents of Wisconsin. There are 6 general agencies in Wisconsin and each of these employs many district and subagents. January 1, 1910, the company had outstanding 34,151 policies on the lives of Wisconsin men, and, some day, the company will pay Wisconsin beneficiaries on account thereof, more than $75,000,000.

So the Northwestern is truly the HOME COMPANY, which has amply repaid Wisconsin in money and honor for its organization.

Speaking of money: The Northwestern has been liberal to Wisconsin. Disregarding payments for salaries, supplies, and the like, it has paid Wisconsin policyholders and their beneficiaries a total of $17,533,535.07 for death claims and endowments. It has outstanding $2,639,221.67 to Wisconsin men on account of policy loans.

It has also now loaned $5,542,732.50 to Wisconsin borrowers on the security of real estate

In the last eleven years, since the existing tax law has been operative, Wisconsin has received from the Northwestern as a Tax for the mere Privilege of Doing Business in the State, the enormous sum of $3,230,766.18, every cent of which was Paid by Policyholders.

The prevailing method of taxing life insurance companies in the United States is a percentage on premium receipts. The average rate is about 2 per cent. In 1909, the Northwestern paid the State of Wisconsin the enormous sum of $403,238.68 in taxes alone, for the privilege of collecting from Wisconsin policyholders, and again disbursing, the sum of $2,549,205.66 premium receipts. This was at the rate of 15.8 per cent, or about eight times the average rate paid in other states. Wisconsin's existing method of taxing the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company is a glaring injustice to all the policyholders of the company, for, in the final analysis, they pay the taxes. And carry this other proposition in mind: The Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company issues a policy so adaptable in meeting unforeseen circumstances, so comprehensive in its protection of all the interests of insured and beneficiaries, so equitable in its terms, and so economical in its cost (owing to large dividend returns) that it is the very best com-

A statement of the 1909 receipts and disbursements with an exhibit of the company's assets, etc., as well as information concerning the New Policy will be mailed to any person, on request, by the following Wisconsin General Agents:
