Should Take Care of Dust Disposal.

"Dust, refuse and sweepings should always be burned," says a warning issued by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association. The warning is particularly approprigreatest communicators of consumption and the greatest care should be exercised in its disposal. Now that furnaces and stoves are still in use, it is a simple mattter to drop sweepings, etc., into the fire, a few drops of oil being added if necessary."

The use of feather dusters and similar devices for sweeping and house-cleaning is urged against, they tending to stir up dust. Damp cloths should be substituted because they are more sanitary and over the term. actually remove the dust instead paper, tea leaves or sweeping com- Lac county.

This is especially important as concerning particularly consumption and pneumonia. It is not sufficient for one to get the dust out of his own home, but it should not be spread to neighbors

Co-operation in this for self-pro tection is urged.

In this season of high winds and dusty streets, it is particularly urged that the public agitate for early street sprinkling. Merchant protest against dust because the wish to protect their merchandise When money or property loss is involved, it's easy to put through a vigorous campaign for reform. Human life should be reckoned as at least equally valuable and a fight made for its protection.

Oil for Sprinkling Streets.

A representative of the Standard Oil Co., was in Cedarburg a short time ago calling on a number of our businessmen and explained to them the matter of sprinkling the streets with oil instead of water, a matter which is now being considered by a number of the smaller cities in the state. It is claimed that the oil not only preserves the streets, but also keeps down the dust far better than water. The process of "oiling" the street is to use oil especially prepared for this purpose, brushing the street thoroughly, which hardens the surface, and prevents water from being absorbed. One coat of oil is said to be sufficient to keep the street in first-class condition for one year. The cost, however du Lac last Saturday and brought is comparatively high, being four pneumonia. cents per square yard, which is taken there a few weeks ago to be about twice as much as when wat- kee is visiting at home. er was used .- Cedarburg Name

Those who think most, who do most brain work, require most sleep, and time "saved" from necessary sleep is infallibly destructive to mind, body and estate. Give yourself, your children, your servants, give all that are under you the fullest amount of sleep they will take by compelling them to go to bed at some regular hour and to rise in the morning the moment they awake: and within a forinight Nature, with almost the regu-

Mrs. Slocum was placed aboard a trolley car to be carried to a hospital, but was transferred to an automobile and the driver hurried with all speed to the Georgetown with with all speed to the Georgetown university hospital. When the hospital was reached the surgeons pronounced Mrs. Slocum dead.

Maj.-Gen. Bell also appeared to be in a serious condition. A passing automo-bile was hailed and the general was placed in it and hurried to the post hospital at Fort Myer. At the hospital the surgeons made an examination of the general's wounds and it was found that he was suffering from contusions of the chest and a slight scalp wound and one broken rib. After his wounds were dressed the general was removed in an automobile to his home near the hospital. Chauffeur Ward was unhurt. He was arrested, together with motorman and conductor of the trolley car.

Landlady and Sausages.

A good story of a specimen of the ordiary theatrical landlady is told by J. L. Shine. One Saturday evening he and a 'ellow actor purchased a pound of sau-ages for their Sunday's breakfast. There were eight to the pound, but when they wants known to your home people.

arrived at the table there were only five. Thereupon the lady was called in to account for the missing links. "Madam," said Mr. Shine, severely, "I gave you eight sausages last night; here are five only. What has become of the other three?" The lady of the house smiled an innocent smile mingled with pity, and replied, "Well, you see, sir, sausages always do shrink in cooking." Which information had to suffice.—Dundee Advertiser.

'I remember," answered Agnes, "but I know he cared for her. He told me so." Mrs. Matthieson looked up and then looked down again without speaking.

Agnes went on, still speaking with an air of composed indifference. "But I am very nearly sure that he did not marry I think we should have heard of it if he had."

She found her brother already in the dining room requesting the waiter to put the American gentleman next his party at the table. Langrishe entered while he was concluding this arrangement, and he hastened to tell him of it.

"I thought you would rather be with us instead of down at the other end of the room amongst a lot of foreigners," he explained with great simplicity.

Montresor, when he had drunk his coffee, betook himself and his cigarette to the little garden below the terrace, thus Agnes and Langrishe were left tete-a-tete.

"Are you going to stay here long?" she asked, gazing at a little bit of mountain which could just be seen between an opening in the trees.

"I do not know," he answered slowly. He was debating in his own mind whether he should or should not tell her that he had come to Lausanne solely because she was there. He did not see why he should not. He had a right now to flirt with her as much as he liked. He had proposed to her. He was quite down the valley. willing to propose to her again if she would let him. He began to talk to her of his voyage from America and of his stay in Paris. "By the way," he remarked. "I met the Lansings there. You know them, do

"If your son and your daughter go mountain climbing," said Langrishe, "they will go alone. Montresor and I have no ambition to break our necks.

But Aubrey Montresor made no answer. The spell of the mountains was upon him. His eyes were fixed on that grand isolated peak, and it seemed to him for the moment that he must some day reach it or die in the attempt. "I have little or nothing to tell," he replied quietly. I have not seen her for more than a year. She is still an ornament to society, as the phrase goes. But I am told, I don't know with how much truth, that though she is by no means a professional philanthropist she spends much time and money in trying to alleviate the lot of the poor of New York. Now I have answered your question will you answer one of mine? Why has Mr. Montresor never married Miss Laven-

LACK NECESSARY 20 PER CENT.

APPLETON, Wis., March 23 .- [Special.]-A canvassing of the primary election returns this morning reveals the fact that the primary law played a joke on candidates in both the Republican and the Democratic parties here Tuesday.

Not a single candidate in either party received votes enough to be declared the legal candidate at the next election and all candidates on both the city tickets and for aldermen and supervisors will be obliged to run as independents.

A section of the primary law as amended in 1909 provides that a candidate to be declared legal must have 20 per cent, of the votes cast by his party. None of the candidates on either of the tickets here received that number and City Attorney Ryan ruled this morning that all will have to run as independents

The vote was 10 to 7.

TO RAISE THE EUCALYPTUS. The Useful Blue Gum Tree Will Thrive in Southwest Texas.

Investigation and experiments made i southwest Texas have shown that the encalyptus tree, or blue gum, thrives better nowhere else. A large plantation in the Rio Grande valley has exceeded all expectations and will result in the afforestation with this tree of large tracts. Both the climate and the soil have the semi-arid stretches be districts of Australia, which are the native habitat of the tree. A company now forming will start a nursery large enough to supply the tremendous num-ber of young trees that will be wanted in the near future.

Ouside of post oak and wild pecans there is practically no large timber in southwest Texas, and for this reason the eucalyptus will have a large sphere of weathless.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 23 .unions Tuesday night in voting to re- few bruises he escaped injury ther's of turn to work, tens of thousands of mill hands who struck in sympathy with the trolley men returned to work today in the Kensington district.

Practically all mills started up and it was expected other unions still on strike would follow the action of the textile workers. Nothing was done up to this afternoon to bring about peace in the carmen's strike, but there was a general feeling that the long-looked for settlement was not far off.

It was understood that the trolleymen would not insist upon having but one grievance committee to settle grievances with the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company, but would insist that the company agree to take back all the strikers and place them in their old positions within two months. The company has declared they will give the strikers their old places as rapidly as they can, but will not agree to the two months sugges-

There is a good deal of art in advertising, and it has to be adapted to the public it seeks to meet. Edward Reeves in "Brown Men and Women" makes clear that what attracts the American market may not serve that purpose in the islands of the south seas. He tells an experience which a food firm had with one of those sea girt communities. The natives get very tired of fish, but are fond of canned beef, which they buy whenever they have money. That they are nothing more than children in their ideas the traders find out to their cost if they are not careful. An exporter of canned meat was nearly ruined by clinging to the trademark of a drag-Get your prices on woven wire on's head. Shipment after shipment was sent out from San Francisco, each can branded with the flaming dragon, The natives shuddered at the sight of the hideous thing. They were not going to eat the disgusting beast. In vain the agents tore off the labels: the natives were suspicious and would not buy. The whole shipment had to be returned and put in fresh cans with a fat ox or sheep on the label. All the natives fully believed that the figure on the label was a true picture of what was inside.

Dr. A. is a specialist in nervous ailments. In his most successful cases "persuasion" has played an important role. Six-year-old Frank has evidently had opportunity to imbibe his father's views on the efficacy of persuasion, which, Dr. A. contends, appeals to the highest psychic functions.

It was only a few mornings ago that Mrs. A. overheard an altercation in the kitchen between Master Frank and the cook. Mary's voice rose in loud protestations. Mrs. A. hastened to the scene and arrived just in time to see her son seize a convenient broom and threaten Mary.

"Why, Frank," she exclaimed in horrified amazement, "what are you doing?"

But Frank was equal to the occasion. "I'm just trying to persuade Mary for some angel. cake," he explained in a matter of fact way.

If this treatment may not have appealed to Mary's highest psychic functions it at any rate tickled her sense of humor. Frank gained his point .-New York Times.

sistent Creditor Got His Money Be fore the Lone Engine Ran.

The recent failure of a little railroad tate brought out a story of the finan-straits in which the road—the S. & t may be called for want of a better e-found itself somewhat more than years ago. It seems that the little had been leased for years to a newarganized company which planned ex-tensions and issued bonds which were fairly well received on foreign exchanges but which proved difficult of negotiation in New York. There was very little in-come from the few miles of road in operation, but considerable outgo for construction work. As a result the railway company found itself before long in serious financial straits. Just at the worst possible time along came a creditor with a bill, ninety days overdue, for $295 $265. He got an attachment against the railroad and took the first train up state

When he reached the terminus of the little road he found a tiny station no bigger than a New York elevated station and presided over by a 19-year-old ticket agent, a bunch of old timetables and a few rickety chairs. In the roundhouse was a rusty, old style engine that had simply refused to take another trip and had lain down to rest its decrepit old bones. The other engine was making its daily run of the S. & C. system.

Apparently the only thing for the man with the $265 claim to do was to return to New York; but he showed himself to be a man of resource. He went to the town blacksmith and bought a heavy

When the train pulled in that night the creditor attached the locomotive, legally by means of his writ and physically by means of his chain and his padlock, which he slipped through the driving wheels and under the rails. It was a strategic move, for it completely tied up the railroad. In the end the train crew, the G. P. A. and what few local of Leather Workers, numbering in all approximately 200, left their work this forenoon as anticipated on account of the general strike whose source emanates from Kansas City and of which tanners and leather men in general had received warning.

DIPHTHERIA RAGES AT NORTHERN HOSPITAL

ONE DEATH IS DUE PARTLY TO THE DISEASE.

TEN PERSONS QUARANTINED AND THERE ARE FEWER CASES.

OSHKOSH, Wis., March 22 .- [Spe cial.]-At the Northern State Hospital for the Insane at Winnebago there are ten persons isolated, suffering from diphtheria. The hospital has been having an epidemic of this disease but every effort is being made to stamp it out and Dr. A. Sherman, acting superintendent, stated today that there was no reason for any alarm and that they expect no further cases as all persons thought to have been exposed have been treated with antitoxin and every precaution in the way of fumigation and solation has been taken under the direct supervision of the state board of health. In all twenty attendants and patients have had the disease. Fifteen were inmates of the hospital and the other five were attendants. The disease was confined largely to the men's wards, but three women also had the disease. None of the cases except one was more than mild, but in one case a man by the name of Younger of Auburndale, Wis., died. He was the first patient, but Dr. Sherman states that diphtheria was only a secondary cause of death and the man's mental condition was such that he had to be fed by means of a tube, and of course the disease proved fatal in this circumstance.

The isolation hospital is away from the main building and the persons there are on the programme. Following this, at 3:30 p. m., the President planned to call on the New York Press club in Spruce street. Tonight he will address the banquet of the American Peace and Arbitration league, and make a brief call upon the Republicans attending the dinner to Congressman Herbert Parsons, former president of the county commit-

The President had been at his brother's house little more than an hour when an automobile was summoned. Accompanied by Capt. Archibald Butt, military aid, and by several secret service men, Mr. Taft entered the car, and started for a ride about the city. The newspapermen in taxicabs were given an almost futile chase trying to keep up with the high-powered automobile carrying the President and his escort. Mr. Taft's machine whirled through Central park and Riverside drive at a speed ranging from 30 to 40 miles an hour, and some of the pursuing miles an hour, and some of the pursuing taxicabs were left far behind. On the return from the northern part of the city a bicycle policeman espied the flying machine and with a prospective ar-rest for high speeding gave chase. HOODOO TOWNS OF THE STAGE. Every Actor Regards Some Place as Unlucky to Him.

"Some day," said Lew Fields, "a statistican, or some one who loves to delve in fact will complete a list of hoodog cities as applied to persons connected with a stage life. "When we made our transcontinental trip with the Weber & Fields show to Frisco I never previously had known a sick day. The minute I got there I lost my voice and had to remain in the Palace hotel for practically the entire engagement of two weeks with my throat glued to a steam heating apparatus that was a cross between a radiator and a Russian coffee pot. In Boston for the first time in my life I decided not to shave myself. I started down the marble steps in the hotel to the barber shop, fell and broke my thigh. It cost me nine weeks of valuable time and nearly $2000 in other expenses.

A LITTLE THING

Changes the Hone Feeling. Coffee blots out the sunshine from many a home by making the mother, or some other member of the household, dyspeptic, nervous and irritable. There are thousands of cases where the proof is absolutely undeniable. Here is one.

A Wis. mother writes: "I was taught to drink coffee at an early age, and also at an early age became a victim to headaches, and as I grew to womanhood these headachra became a part of me, as I was scarce-we have used it ever since. "My husband and little daughter were subject to bilious attacks, but they have both been entirely free from them since we began using Postum instead of coffee. I no longer have headaches and my health is perfect." If some of these nervous, tired, irrltable women would only leave off coffee absolutely and try Postum they would find a wonderful change in their life. It would then be filled with sunshine and happiness rather than weariness and discontent. And think what an effect it would have on the family. for the mood of the mother is largely responsible for the temper of the chil-

In the circuit court in Princeton, Ind., Judge Clements awarded Mrs. Bertha Stewart a divorce from her husband, Dr. W. H. Stewart, and $7866 alimony and $500 for attorney fees. The verdict marked the close of a sensational case. Offered as an exhibit during the trial were four eggs, bearing penciled legends, all of which Mrs. Stewart and her counsel interpreted as meaning small threats of a dubious character. One of the eggs bore the words: "I am Mrs. Stewart's boss; whose boss are you?" The other inscriptions were of a similar petty character, it was said. Witnesses testified to the finding of the eggs in the nests of the hens about the Stewart place. Mrs. Stewart, on the stand in her own behalf, declared that she almost daily discovered scraps of paper under the pillows, in the cupboard shelves, in nooks at the barn and smokehouse, and always in the most unusual places. Farmers in Texas county, Okla., are trying a unique but effective way reaking virgin sod, introduced by C. H. Phillips. After boring holes in the ground about twenty feet apart and three feet deep, Phillips placed a stick of dynamite in each. These were connected and shot at the same time. The ground was torn up and will be left to absorb nature until plow time. Mr. Phillips believes that the ground, deep down, will conserve the moisture. On the ground which he has thus treated, he says he will put out, in a small way, diversified crops and note carefully the re sult of the new method of breaking soil The experiment will be watched with considerable interest, as it is the first rial of the kind in the state. Farmers have generally plowed their ground deep, but the method employed by Mr. Phillips and others is new in soil cultivation.

MISS DREXEL'S PLANS.

Will Live in London After Becoming Viscountess Maidstone.

It is now stated that when Miss Margaretta Drexel becomes Viscountess Maidstone next June she and her bridegroom will not go to keeping house for a time at least. A sumptuous suite of rooms is being prepared for them to occupy after the honeymoon in the palatial residence of Miss Drexel's father, 22 Grosvenor square, in the very heart of London's most fashionable quarter. London society sweetly sneers at that arrangement, finding it hard to understand now a bride with $5,000,000 of her own could be willing to board with her parents instead of setting up a splendid establishment of her own. Probably the gossips' estimate of Margaretta's dowry is exaggerated, though undoubtedly it will be expressed in seven figures. No candid person believes that motives of economy decided Miss Drevel to accept how a bride with $5,000,000 of her own economy decided Miss Drexel to accept her fond father's offer of a suite in his spacious home. If filial affection did not prompt her to accept the apartment a sufficient reason for her doing so tem-porarily could be found in the difficulty of procuring a suitable residence in a satisfactory part of London.

Choking in Cattle.

This means the lodgment of a foreign obstacle in the esophagus or gullet. It is known by slobbering, distressed breathing and accumulation of gas, which may be noticed on the left side or paunch.

The proper method of handling an animal thus afflicted is to stand the cow with her head down hill, pressing the head downward as much as possible while the attendant squeezes as much saliva out of the gullet as possible, then allow her to raise her head and give her one half pint of raw lineed oil, giving but one swallow at a time.
