LOCALS WIN ANOTHER

Port Washington Defeated on the Home Grounds in an Exciting Game by a Score of 10 to 7.

The game of baseball played here last Sunday between Port Washington and the locals was a game worth while seeing, it being very exciting all the way through.

Fohey and Reinke, the reliables, were on the slab for the locals. Although Fohey's arm was somewhat sore, he pitched a very fine game, he allowed only 6 hits. Germanson and Lynch were on the rubber for the visitors, the locals were able to connect with Germanson's delivery for 8 safe bingles.

The locals were the first to score, getting 3 runs in the first inning, their other scores were made in the 4th and 8th innings, while the Port boys scored in the 3rd, 7th, and 9th. Errors on both sides were numerous, six being chalked up against the locals, while the visitors made seven. Taylor and Rosenheimer each made several good catches, which looked like sure hits.

The Port boys are about the best bunch of players who ever played on the local grounds.

John Schaefer, who umpired the game proved to be very satisfactory to both sides. No argument being made on any of his decisions.

SCORE BY INNINGS

Kewaskum	3	0	4

Reinke behind the bat eats up everything in sight.

NOTES

The locals had Port going on the bunt stunt.

Backus on short accepted nine out of eleven chances.

Port had only one stolen base, while the locals stole ten.

Witzig played the initial bag for six innings then being relieved by Schmidt.

Schaefer again was there with the big stick getting 3 hits out of four times at bat.

Taylor made a hard attempt to steal home in the 8th, but was caught by only a foot.

Lutzen's home run in the seventh was a fluke, the ball going over the right field fence and was lost in the high grass.

BALL TEAM DISBANDED

The local ball team decided last Monday evening to disband for the remainder of the season. The reason for this is because a few of the local ball players have turned over their uniforms, quitting the team, and as it is expensive to hire all outsiders, the association thought best to disband the team. A junior team has already been organized, which will give the public a good article of best ball. A game will be arranged to be played on the home grounds, Sunday, July 31st.

FREDONIA GIRL TAKES POISON

Despondency, Brought on by Ill Health, Causes Girl to Drink Paris Green.

A girl named Koop, aged 19 years, drank Paris green at the home of her parents in the town of Fredonia on Saturday last and died before a doctor, who was summoned, could reach her side. The girl had been working as a domestic for the Rosenheimer family at Kewaskum, in Washington county, until a few days ago, when she came home to visit her parents. Early on Sunday morning as the father and mother were on their way from the house to the barn to look after the stock the girl put her head out of the bedroom with a do and called, "mother, come at once I must die." The mother rushed to the girl's room, where she found the girl writhing in agony from the effects of Paris green which she admitted having drunk. A doctor was at once summoned but the girl died before he arrived. The only reason the parents can give for the rash deed is the fact that the girl was not in good health. This is the third young girl who has committed suicide by poison in that neighborhood inside of a year; one drank carbolic acid and the other two Paris green.—Port Washington Advertiser.

Deltgen of Milwaukee, formerly section foreman for the Northwestern road in this village, but now foreman of a steel gang on the Milwaukee road, is lying in a hospital at West Salem, suffering from ten knife wounds, while James Lynch, a member of the gang, has been placed under arrest, charged with doing the stabbing.

Marsh Land Most Valuable.

A few words may be said in regard to land that is called worthless. By this I mean marsh lands or swamps; land that has been under water for many years. The popular opinion is that such lands are not productive. But it has generally been found all over the country that such lands are among the most valuable. Even peat lands have been found when being properly drained and receiving the proper fertilizers to be very productive. But what do the hills amount to? They do not pay for the tax and labor spent on them. The good soil is washed into the low places and so it stands to reason that such lands must be valuable. The high lands were cleared at first as fast as possible and now a great deal of it is wearing out. Therefore people are turning to the low lands, which have laid idle these many years and are succeeding in making them valuable. Now, I have for the past twenty-five years been trying to clear my marsh with the intention of making fertile land of it. I have been cutting down timber, clearing the brush and have been trying to get it drained. But I have not yet succeeded as I cannot get the privilege of letting the water off for certain reasons. It does not seem fair that such a work should be upheld or retarded by the prejudices of a few. I think in such undertakings if several people would work together and co-operate in trying to push the work along; it would be a great help. It certainly would benefit all concerned not only one and besides it could be accomplished in less time.

JOHN P. DELTGEN STABBED

Former Section Foreman Here Hurt in Fight with Drunken Workmen he Tried to Quiet.

John P. Deltgen of Milwaukee, formerly section foreman for the Northwestern road in this village, but now foreman of a steel gang on the Milwaukee road, is lying in a hospital at West Salem, suffering from ten knife wounds, while James Lynch, a member of the gang, has been placed under arrest, charged with doing the stabbing.

The gang has been engaged in laying a double track near West Salem for the last two weeks. Early Tuesday morning members of the gang returned from a night's drinking and proceeded to wake up the others by their yells.

Deltgen attempted to stop the noise, but was set upon. After fighting for a few minutes, Deltgen sank to the ground with ten knife wounds in his body. His condition is said to be critical. A short time after the affray Lynch was placed under arrest by a deputy sheriff.

PLOT TO KILL AMERICANS

OFFICIALS SET UPON BY RENEGADE MOROS.

Three of Outlaws Are Slain and Five Wounded in Fusillade.

Manila.—Dean C. Worcester, American secretary of interior for the Philippines, was set upon by renegade Moros, on the island of Palawan Monday and escaped assassination only through the alertness of his bodyguard, who shot down the outlaws, killing three of them outright.

Secretary Worcester was touring the island, which is the most westerly of the larger Philippine group, bounding the Sulu sea on the west, and was present at the installation of the new governor.

In anticipation of his coming a band of Moros planned his death. Armed with bolos carefully concealed, they laid a trap for the secretary, who suddenly found himself the object of a savage rush.

Captain Moynihan of the scouts was the first to recognize the hostile movement and just in the nick of time he ordered the scouts to fire.

At the fusillade three Moros who led the attack dropped dead in their tracks, while several others doubled up with more or less severe wounds. The rest of them took to their heels.

Investigation showed that the attack by the renegade Moros also was a part of a plot against Provincial Governor Evans.

Governor Evans and Mr. Worcester had landed on the island and wished to take a boat for a river trip. A Moro leader objected and a parley followed. Then a group of warriors rushed from ambush, attacking the party. Mr. Worcester was in front.

At the crucial moment the guards, commanded by Captain Moynihan of the scouts, opened fire.

Five of the wounded were captured and placed under arrest. Others escaped in the jungle, but a detail of scouts was sent after them.

Shirt Factory Is Destroyed With Loss of $25,000—Convicts Create No Disorder.

Joliet, Ill.—Fire that broke out in the shirt factory at the Illinois state prison here totally destroyed the building and equipment, causing a damage estimated at $25,000. Crossed electric wires is assigned as the cause of the conflagration. The volunteer fire department composed of "trusties" failed to check the flames and the Joliet city department was called. Guards were dispatched through the corridors at the out-start to allay the fears of the convicts and there was no disorder.

New York Court Decides Order Cannot Raise Its Assessment Rates Without Members' Consent.

New York.—Supreme Court Justice William J. Kelly of Brooklyn handed down a decision in which he holds that the supreme council of the Royal Arcanum cannot raise its assessment rates without permission from the members of the organization.

It is believed that the decision deals a hard blow to the order. The case was brought to the attention of the court by Samuel Green of Brooklyn, who is a member of the DeWitt Clinton council R. A., and who at one time held one of the highest positions in the council.

In deciding in favor of the plaintiff Justice Kelly declares that the society cannot assume an unlimited reserved power to increase the amount of assessment to an extent which might be prohibitive and could only result in depriving the individual of his membership.

WOMAN SLAYS GAME WARDEN

Confesses She Killed John O'Connor Because He Tried to Break Up Her Home.

Springfield, Ill.—Mrs. Frank Stout confessed that she had fired the shot which resulted in the death of Deputy State Warden Game John O'Connor.

Mrs. Stout is in jail here and will be held to await the action of the grand jury without bond. The woman appeared before the coroner's jury Sunday at her own request.

O'Connor was shot Friday night at his home by some one who fired through an open door. In an ante-mortem statement he declared that Frank Stout had threatened to kill him, but Stout, when arrested, proved an alibi. Later Mrs. Stout was arrested and, in her confession, declared O'Connor had annoyed her and "had tried to break up her home."

The woman admitted while on the witness stand that she telephoned O'Connor a few days before his death and asked him if he intended to quit coming to her home. This admission is taken by authorities to mean that the woman was in love with O'Connor and that jealousy may have prompted her in her act.

MADRIZ ORDERS REBELS SHOT

Nicaraguan President Instructs His Commander to Shoot Down Prisoners Without Trial.

New Orleans.—An intercepted telegram sent by Jose Madriz, claimant to the Nicaraguan presidency, to Gen. Robert O. Gonzalez, commander of the Madriz forces at San Ubaldo, Nicaragua, was sent to Consul General Sussman of this city by President J. J. Estrada of the provisional government, Tuesday.

It instructs General Gonzalez to shoot without trial all rebels and prisoners that are taken by his men. The telegram, which caused a thrill of horror through Central America, has been forwarded to the state department and will be referred to the peace conference at The Hague. The telegram was captured by Gen. Luis Mena of the provisionals, who reports on the day it was received by Gonzalez two revolutionists were shot at Charco Muerto. The same day 15 prisoners taken by Estrada were released.

RAIL CHIEF SLAIN

BURGLAR MURDERS IRA G. RAWN, PRESIDENT OF THE MONON.

THEY EXCHANGE BULLETS.

Awakened by Prowler in Summer Home at Winnetka Railroad President Seizes Revolver and Is Shot Down, Thief Escaping.

Chicago.—I. G. Rawn, president of the Monon railway, was shot through the heart and instantly killed at his summer home in Winnetka by a would-be robber. The burglar escaped. There is no clue to his identity.

Servants and women in the house, aroused by the shot, found Mr. Rawn lying in the hallway on his face. The front door was open. There was no one in sight.

The fact that the murder was committed by a burglar was established by the finding of jimmy marks on the door, which had been forced open.

The story of the shooting of Mr. Rawn was told by Ralph G. Coburn, a son-in-law of the victim.

"Mrs. Rawn was awakened by sounds on the first floor of the house," he said. "Mr. Rawn also was awakened and he also heard the sounds. He insisted upon going down to ascertain the cause, although Mrs. Rawn tried to persuade him not to do it.

"He descended the stairs and had barely reached the landing when everyone in the house was awakened by the roar of two shots fired in quick succession.

"I rushed out as did the others. We found Mr. Rawn lying in his night clothes. Blood was trickling from his breast."

"He struggled, turned over, tried to speak, and could not. We sent in hurried calls for a doctor. Mr. Rawn died within five or six minutes after the shot had been fired. He did not regain consciousness."

"We immediately summoned the Winnetka police, and it was they who found the mark on the door which established the fact that the crime had been committed by a burglar. Other than that we have no clew.

"The house was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Rawn, their daughter, Mrs. Bigelow, and my wife and myself and our two children. There were also three servants in the house, the cook, Mrs. Rawn's maid, and Mrs. Bigelow's maid. None of the rest of us heard the sound of the burglar."

Only one bullet took effect. The other went wild.

A half hour after the murder had been committed Pinkerton detectives and other private detectives were hired by the sons of the dead man.

"We will offer a reward," said Mr. Coburn and spare no expense to capture the assassin.

Following so soon after the burglary at the home of Laird Bell last Saturday or Sunday night when Mr. and Mrs. Bell were out of town, the incident has aroused the residents of the suburb. Plans for better police protection are being talked of and the crime of this morning probably will incite the villagers to take immediate action.

While Mr. and Mrs. Bell were away from home at Lake Geneva last week burglars entered their home and stole several thousand dollars' worth of silverware, jewelry, and heirlooms. No report of the matter was made to the local police till after Mr. and Mrs. Bell returned home on Monday.

Mr. Rawn became president of the Monon road last October. He was 55 years old. He rose in the railroad work from the job of student telegraph operator which he took at 15 years of age. He was born in Delaware, O., and his only education was in the common schools there.

16,000 RAILROAD MEN GO OUT

STRIKE ON GRAND TRUNK SYSTEM TIES UP FREIGHT.

Passenger Service Is Congested—Milk Famine Threatens Montreal—Strikers Are Orderly.

Montreal.—It was estimated Tuesday that 16,000 men were out of employment as a result of the strike of employes of the Grand Trunk railroad system which went into effect Monday night.

The strike order was obeyed by 6,000 conductors and trainmen and the company Tuesday locked out 10,000 men in the shops in the hope that they would accept the positions deserted by the conductors and trainmen. The coup has not been successful.

Freight and passenger traffic on the entire Grand Trunk system is congested. Freight is piling up in immense quantities at the various transfer points, with no likelihood of being moved for a long time.

A few trains were run by minor officials of the road, with office clerks to take the tickets, but this method has proven a failure. Passengers will not purchase tickets because of the inability of the company to guarantee a through trip to any point.

A milk famine is threatened in Montreal by reason of the company's failure to deliver any part of the usual supply of that commodity from outlying points. Also there is a marked scarcity of other necessities transported by the railroad.

There was nothing approaching disorder among the strikers at any point along the system, excepting in one instance, in which a brakeman on a Grand Trunk train at Flint, Mich., was attacked by the strikers and saved by his mother, who shamed the strikers into retreat.

The commissioner of labor of Canada offered to arbitrate the grievances of the strikers, declaring that the Canadian government would pay all expenses incurred by him, but the officials of the union declined the offer, saying that the strike had gone too far for arbitration.

REPORT CRIPPEN IN CANADA

Liner Steward Declares Alleged Wife Slayer Reaches Montreal on Steamer Megantic.

Montreal, Que.—Positive statements that Doctor Crippen, the London murderer, sought by Scotland Yard, arrived here Sunday on the White Star Dominion liner Megantic was made Monday by H. J. Airress, saloon steward of this ship, who is corroborated by two other stewards.

The actions and appearance of a passenger who was attended at table by Airress and accompanied by a woman registered only as "Carruthers," seemed suspicious to the steward.

When the liner docked here the couple attracted much attention by their apparent haste to disembark. They hailed a cab and disappeared.

The police believe Crippen has left Montreal for American soil.

JEW DRIVEN OUT OF KIEV

Expulsion by Russia of Israelites at Rate of 45 Individuals Each Day.

Kiev, Russia.—The expulsion of Jews from Kiev continues at the rate of 45 individuals a day. From July 4 until July 15 497 were expelled by what is known as the second method—that is, they were forced actually to leave town. During the same period 1,121 persons were expelled by the first method, which, in effect, is a warning for their departure, but permits them time for a settlement of private affairs. In the majority of cases the latter method proved ineffectual, as the Jews in that category are prone to return to Kiev after temporary absence.

During the 12 days mentioned there were 165 expulsions from Solomenka and 151 from Demieffka.

SHALE ROCK CASES ENDED

Verdicts of "Not Guilty" Are Ordered by Judge Against Two Remaining Defendants.

Chicago.—Verdicts of "not guilty" in favor of Contractor Michael H. McGovern and Ralph A. Bonnell, former assistant city engineer, were signed, in Judge Albert C. Barnes' court Friday, the jury acting in obedience to instructions from the court.

By the acquittal of the remaining defendants in the identical way in which City Engineer John Ericson and Former Deputy Commissioner of Public Works Paul Redieske had previously been eliminated from the case the trial for alleged conspiracy to defraud the city out of $45,884.20 in payments made for "sale-rock extras" in the Lawrence avenue sewer case came to an abrupt end.

The statute of limitations has run and there will be no more indictments.

Woman Eats Four Babies.

Puerto Plata, Santo Domingo.—The disappearance of Dominican children near the Haytian frontier has been explained by the horrible confession of a Haytian woman that she had murdered them, eating four.

Ohio Judge Sees Roosevelt.

New York.—Theodore Roosevelt had a long talk with Judge Kincaid of Toledo, O., Tuesday and it was generally understood that political conditions in the judge's home state came in for discussion.

Thompson's Eye Water

She Lives in Bingville.

A south Missouri paper is carrying this ad: "Attractive woman, not a day over thirty, would be pleased to correspond with eligible man. Not absolutely necessary that he should be young. Would prefer one with property, but one with a good paying position would be satisfactory. The young lady is of medium height, has brown hair and gray eyes, not fat, although, most decidedly, she is not skinny. Her friends say she is a fine looking woman. Object matrimony. Reason for this advertisement, the young woman lives in a little dinky town, where the best catches are the boys behind the counters in the dry goods and clothing stores, and every one of them is spoken for by the time he is out of his short pants. Address Hazel Eyes, Box 23, Bingville, Mo."—Kansas City Star.

The Stomach Hold. Col. H. N. Renouf, at the "Old Guard" banquet at Delmonico's, emphasized the importance to an army of a good commissariat.

"You have perhaps heard," he said, "of the company of privates that a patriotic lady entertained one Memorial day to dinner.

"It was a good dinner, and at its end a pretty maid servant entered with a superb dessert.

"Dessert, sergeant" she said to the stalwart young soldier at the head of the table.

"Desert?" the sergeant answered. "When I can get eats like this for roth'n? Nixie! Not me!"

Didn't Care for Expenses. They were seated at the breakfast table.

"John, dear," said the young wife, "this is my birthday."

"I'm glad you mentioned it, darling," rejoined her husband. "I'll buy you a present the first thing when I get downtown."

"Well," she said, "I hope you won't get any cheap 98-cent affair."

"Of course I won't," he replied. "Why, I would be ashamed to present you with anything that cost less than a dollar."

HARD TO PLEASE Regarding the Morning Cup.

"Oh how hard it was to part with coffee, but the continued trouble with constipation and belching was such that I finally brought myself to leave it off.

"Then the question was, what should we use for the morning drink? Tea was worse for us than coffee; chocolate and cocoa were soon tired of; milk was not liked very well, and hot water we could not endure.

"About two years ago we struck upon Postum and have never been without it since.

"We have seven children. Our baby now eighteen months old would not take milk, so we tried Postum and found she liked it and it agreed with her perfectly. She is today, and has been, one of the healthiest babies in the State.

"I use about two-thirds Postum and one-third milk and a teaspoon of sugar, and put it into her bottle. If you could have seen her eyes sparkle and hear her say "good" today when I gave it to her, you would believe me that she likes it.

"If I was matron of an infants' home, every child would be raised on Postum. Many of my friends say, 'You are looking so well!' I reply, 'I am well! I drink Postum. I have no more trouble with constipation, and know that I owe my good health to God and Postum.'

"I am writing this letter because I want to tell you how much good Postum has done us, but if you knew how I shrink from publicity, you would not publish this letter, at least not over my name."

LABOR FIGHT ENDS

CLOSE MANUFACTURERS' WAR—FARE WITH GOMPERS, MITCHELL AND MORRISON.

PROSECUTIONS WILL STOP

Action to Be Taken Against the Labor Leaders Now Rests With Attorney General Wickersham. Fight on Bucks Stoves and Ranges Stops.

Cincinnati.—A peace pact of great importance to organized labor was reached here Tuesday night between officers of the American Federation of Labor on the one side and members of the Stove Founders' National Defense association on the other.

The effect of the agreement is to end the bitter warfare between the Federation of Labor and the Bucks Stove and Range company of St. Louis.

The association and the stove company, through its representatives here, announced their withdrawal from the prosecutions against President Gompers, Vice-President John Mitchell, and Secretary Morrison of the American Federation of Labor.

Whether the appeal of the three men from jail sentences imposed upon them for alleged violation of an injunction shall be fought to a finish in the Supreme court rests now with Attorney General Wickersham.

HEARS NEW YORK POLITICS

Talks With Judge Kinkade of Toledo and Tells Reporters He Is a Progressive.

New York.—"I never recommended any man for office and I do not intend to do so this year. I hope, however, there will be progressive platforms adopted by the various republican state conventions this fall."

Col. Roosevelt in the above statement made on Tuesday in his offices in the Outlook, outlined his present position in the political world. Roosevelt had just had a conversation with Judge Reynolds Kinkade of Toledo, O., whose boom for the republican nomination for governor of Ohio has been launched.

Kinkade was a guest at Beverly of President Taft on Sunday and it was reported at that time that he had been O. K'd by the president and would come to New York to get the Roosevelt endorsement.

When asked about the visit, Col. Roosevelt said he only saw Judge Kinkade for a few moments and that there was nothing said about politics.

New York state politics entered prominently into the Roosevelt conference on Tuesday. Congressman W. W. Cocks was closeted with him for some time. When he left he said: "We discussed the chairmanship of the republican state committee and also the chances for the substitution of certain new committeemen in a number of districts. We also debated political conditions in the state generally, but there was no definite conclusion reached."

Chairman Timothy L. Woodruff is to be deposed at the next meeting of the committee if he does not resign before, it is said.

Another who discussed New York politics with Roosevelt was Congressman Foelker of Brooklyn who said that he called to tell the colonel that he will not be a candidate for re-election.

GIRLS DIE IN FOREST FIRES

Four Men Who Take Refuge in Mine Workings Are Smothered by Smoke Blowing In.

Spokane.—Trapped in their little cabin on Mill creek, in the dry pine forest, and surrounded by flames from fires which have raged there since Friday, Miss Pearl Brewen, 22 years old, a school teacher, and her young niece, perished on Monday.

Near Kaslo, B. C., four men fled from the flames to a mine, where they were suffocated, the wind driving the smoke into the shaft.

The names of the dead are David Norman of Sandon, Colo.; Charles Norman, his brother; S. W. Pierson and W. J. Chisney.

Crop Conditions Improved.

Washington.—Fairly good crop growing weather has prevailed throughout the country during the last week, according to the national weather bulletin of the department of agriculture. It says:

"Summarizing the weather of the week for the several important agricultural districts, it appears that in the great corn and winter wheat growing states warm weather prevailed, and conditions were generally favorable in Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska. In the Ohio valley there was generally too much rain.

"In the spring wheat growing states the abnormally high temperatures and hot winds that prevailed during most of the week were trying to growing vegetation of all kinds. Severe drought still continues over much of the district. Over the Atlantic coast states from North Carolina to New England, favorable weather continued and prospects are good all over the country.

Tie Up Is Complete.

New York.—The strike on the Grand Trunk railroad has thrown 16,000 men out of employment. This is the latest estimate. The strike order was obeyed by 6,000 conductors and trainmen and the company locked out 10,000 men in the shops in the hope that they would accept the positions deserted by the conductors and trainmen. The coup has not been successful. The commissioner of labor of Canada offered to arbitrate the grievances of the strikers, but the officials of the union declined the offer.

WHEN FACING DEATH

ST. LOUIS ARCHITECT'S HELPER TELLS HOW IT FEELS.

Odd Things Came to His Mind as He Thought He Would Surely Fall From Tall Building.

St. Louis, Mo.—Have you ever faced death?

Do you know what it means to be confronted by the grim destroyer, what great peril will do to your nervous system? Probably you have had some close calls in your day and know something of the emotions of a person who thinks his time has come. If not, the following incident related by George Bush of this city may give you an idea of the thrill of facing death:

"Being an architect's assistant, it was my duty to measure buildings which were to be altered or enlarged, and one windy day I went to see one of these, which was a three-story and basement brick house with the usual area and railings in front of it. Adjoining this was a little higher building and it was necessary for me to get the exact dimensions of the brick wall and chimney that projected above the roof of the house I was measuring.

"I found a very large and heavy skylight in the attic, which required all my strength to push up and out to open. It was held open by a pivoted stick of wood and by climbing through the opening I saw that I could stretch myself out on the roof and by holding fast to the edge of the skylight opening with my right hand I could reach out with my left and measure the gable wall with my six-foot folding rule.

"I was sprawled out in this manner, face down on the slate roof, with my left arm and the rule extended at full length, when I suddenly became conscious that the wind had shaken the skylight loose from the stick that held it open and that it was falling shut. If I did not withdraw my hand instantly it would catch and crush it. I pulled my hand out I would fall.

"When I first noticed that the support had given way the skylight had already begun its descent and it had not more than four feet to fall. During the time that it fell those four feet I had ample time to review the consequences of losing my right hand if I held on and the result of falling three stories if I let go. There was nothing at the edge of the roof but a little half-round gutter held up by a few holdfasts.

"It occurred to me that it might be possible to pull out my right hand and insert my left, as it would be better to lose my left hand than my right. I also discussed with myself the possibility of being able to hold my place if I withdrew two or three fingers and sacrificed the others; but I concluded that they would probably be cut clean off by the edge of such a heavy skylight and that I should slide down to the street anyway.

"This idea of the insufficiency of mangled fingers to support my weight on such a sloping roof suggested that it might be better to stick my arm into the opening and that, perhaps the injury to it might not be so severe as to require amputation. I distinctly remembered trying to recall whether the muscles should be firm or relaxed, and thought it best to hold them firm.

"As well as I can remember, the outcome of my deliberations was a determination to change hands and to sacrifice the left instead of the right. I had no sooner come to this conclusion than it struck me that there would not be time to make the change and that I might lose my hold altogether. It seemed to me that I had already changed my opinion as to the respective merits of the two hands at least a dozen times.

"All this time, remember, the skylight was falling shut. As I look back at it it seems incredible that I did not spend at least half an hour thinking over the pros and cons of the situation, but it must have been less than a fifth of a second. My final resolve was a determination to hold on, as there was no time to change hands, and to trust to the shreds of my mangled fingers to hold me on the roof.

"But when the crash came and the skylight actually fell shut my hand was not in the opening. I was sliding down the roof on my way to the street below.

"The edge was at least ten feet below me and I was gaining speed at every foot.

"I distinctly remember the railing around the area and also the absence of any cornice on the eave of the roof—nothing but a rusty old drip gutter. The thing I could not remember, although I made desperate efforts to do so, was whether or not that area railing had spikes in it.

"I knew I should fall directly upon those railings and the spikes bothered me. The minuteness with which I recalled everything about the house—its number, the alterations that were made in it, the sketches we had prepared, the new ideas we had talked over—all these things were reviewed in the effort to recall in connection with one or other of them something that would answer the question, Were there spikes on that railing or not?

"I suddenly became conscious that I was no longer sliding down the roof. It was exactly like waking out of a dream. I then realized that my toes, in dropping over the edge of the slates, had caught on the little half-round iron gutter.

"In another minute the skylight was pushed up by people who had heard the crash and come up to see what was the matter. They soon hauled me to a place of safety."

NAB ENGLISH THIEF

HOW THE POLICE RECOGNIZED OLD CROOK.

Wilts When His Picture Is Taken From the Rogue's Gallery—Has Committed Many Thefts.

New York.—"Demme, sir, I'm the right man," said William H. Jarvis when confronted in police headquarters with a picture of himself taken by the Scotland Yard authorities.

Jarvis is the distinguished looking Englishman arrested at the Gilsey house, charged with unlawfully entering a room.

"You will pardon me, Mr. Jarvis, for submitting you to this ordeal, but it is a rule of the department," said Inspector McCafferty apologetically, as he paraded the prisoner before the masked detectives.

"Say, boss, don't apologize to that old guy," interrupted Lieut. William Brown. "His picture is in the gallery and he has served several bits."

Jarvis's indignations gave forth a Vesuvius blast. He was an English gentleman, he declared. He would have the embassy down on the police. His protest was so severe even Inspector McCafferty was inclined to go slow.

"Here's his very mug," said Brown, producing Jarvis's picture.

At police headquarters, when they know they are right, they make prisoners stand out and deliver. Inspector McCafferty says the picture made Jarvis wince.

"Well, demme, sir, I'm the right man," he finally said, twirling his fine mustache.

Inspector McCafferty became jubilant, for in Jarvis he had captured the most versatile and picturesque thief of two continents.

Jarvis's real name is Walter, and not William. In 1899 he won international fame through his arrest in the Hotel Cecil, London. He was caught in the room of a Brooklyn man. When taken to the police station Jarvis said, "I went to the hotel to visit a lady, Mrs. Sadler Jackson."

The police found Mrs. Sadler Jackson at the hotel. She admitted that Jarvis had visited her there frequently, although she was a married woman.

The scandal aroused all England. The country divided itself—some defending Mrs. Jackson for sacrificing herself to save Jarvis, and the many condemning Jarvis for implicating a woman. There was a sensation when it was disclosed that Mrs. Jackson was Jarvis's sister.

Twelve years before that Jarvis had been arrested and sentenced to four months' imprisonment in Cork, Ireland. His father disowned and disinherited him, and upon his death left $20,000 to Mrs. Sadler on condition that she reassume the family name of Jackson.

Jarvis was given a three months' sentence for the Hotel Cecil act. Then he disappeared. It is said he served in the Boer war.

A year ago Jarvis appeared in New York. He went to live at 217 West One Hundred and Twenty-second street, in the home of Ivers Bachelor. He was introduced to the latter as a rich Englishman.

Miss Laura Fegley, who lives at the Hotel Gilsey heard some one enter the room of O. L. Sherer next to hers, and, knowing Mr. Sherer was not home, opened the door and confronted Jarvis and another man.

Jarvis and the young man hurried down the corridor and disappeared. Miss Fegley gave the alarm, and Jarvis was caught downstairs but his companion escaped.

WOMAN FIGHTS BIG SNAKE

Uses Buggy Whip in Battle to Save a Squab From the Reptile.

Petersburg, Ind.—Mrs. Wes Brenton, living three miles east of here, fought with a big snake measuring over four feet long, and finally killed it. She went to the barn with Miss Edith Vance to look at some squabs and found the big snake in a pigeon's nest. The reptile had swallowed one squab whole and another partly.

Mrs. Brenton grabbed a buggy whip and struck at the snake, which showed fight. She continued to ply the whip and sent Miss Vance to the house for a gun, with which she shot the snake twice. On cutting open the snake the last pigeon swallowed was found to be alive and it is being kept as a relic.

Dog Saves Tots From Bear.

Altoona, Pa.—Defending its master's three young children against an infuriated bear, whose cubs the children had found in the woods, a small pet dog was torn into ribbons near the home of S. B. Waite, who lives on the mountain near Tyrone. The three children, the eldest only nine years old, while on their way along a mountain trail to visit an aunt, stumbled upon the cubs in the brush and picked one up to play with it. A moment later the mother bear came crashing through the brush. Seeing the danger to his young charges, the little dog gave battle, while the children ran home in fright. Mr. Waite and his neighbors at once went to the spot, hoping to find the dog still alive, but found his body ripped to pieces by the bear's claws. The faithful animal was buried, his grave surmounted by a marker reading: "He was only a dog, but he died for his little friends."

ANCIENT HERO SLOW

Not Up to Money-Making and Free Advertising Tricks.

Didn't Go on Vaudeville Stage, But His Fame Was More Enduring Than the Present-Day Idol's.

Kansas City, Mo.—In these utilitarian days the hero business pays heavy dividends—all of which is fine for the heroes but bad for that form of religion known as hero worship. Everybody who has discovered the north pole has come back and by means of lectures and books reaped a heavy harvest of pieces of eight; Jack Binns, the wireless operator who saved the passengers of the steamer Republic, had no sooner got his feet on the firm earth than he signed up with a theatrical manager and went on the stage.

For this reason the heroes we are manufacturing these days are not durable. They last a few days and their glory fades. Our literature and art would be pretty hard up for hero material if the ancient forerunners in the hero business had acted this way. Imagine reading anything like this in the morning Bugle of Rome after Horatius had pulled his famous stunt of holding the Main street bridge over the Tiber while his companions cut the piles beneath it.

"The Homeric Amusement company announced that it had secured the service of Horatius Coccus, the infantry captain who will be remembered by the people as having held the bridge across the Tiber a few weeks ago. Mr. Coccus will be the headliner on an all-star vaudeville bill that will begin at the Circus Maximus on the 15th of this month, with a special matinee for slaves and freedmen.

Local Theatians declare that Horatius has developed a marked dramatic talent and that he is especially good on the comedy stuff, with which his initial sketch is replete. The skit is called 'The Virs on the Pontus' and includes some laughable situations. In one of these Horatius fights Spurius Lartius, who represents the enemy, with a newly-invented slap stick.

Lartius is knocked to the stage, landing with a loud 'boomp!' furnished by the bass drum. The two then lock arms and sing the popular new song 'When the Spooner Moon Is Shining O'er the Tiber.' Mr. Horatius has secured a leave of absence from the army for the rest of the season."

Or this little press dispatch from Madrid in the early days: "Madrid, May 1, 1493.—Christopher Columbus of 3488 Granada avenue delivered his first lecture last night at the Spanish Bull Fighting association's arena, in South Madrid. Their Royal Highnesses Ferdinand and Isabella were not able to attend, as planned, on account of one of the young princes having eaten too many green dates the day before and requiring the attendance of the royal M. D.'s all night. Otherwise the event was a distinct success. Only standing room could be secured after 7:30 o'clock. Mr. Columbus was a little hoarse, but his delivery was earnest and, with the aid of his maps, it was evident that he convinced even those avvil artists who have been averring that he did not discover any new continent at all, but has been in Genoa all this time working in his father's wool warehouse."

"Geneva, Sept. 6, a good-long-time ago.—The performance of William Tell of bow, arrow and apple fame, made a decided hit last night, with an audience that crowded the Grand opera house to its capacity. Mr. Tell's was a 'silent' act, and came between the Imperial Swiss bell ringers and the Gordon brothers, acrobats. Mr. Tell was assisted by his ten-year-old son, Jimmy Tell, on whose head the apple was placed at the order of the Rt. Hon. Gov. Gessler. The young man displayed a nerve worthy of his cool-headed sire. Not only did Mr. Tell shoot repeated apples from the boy's scalp across the 30-foot stage, but he shot 'em with his eyes shut, lying on his back and pulling his bow with his feet, and from other novel positions. After this the boy threw apples into the air and Mr. Tell spiked them with unerring arrows, without missing one. The young man then retaliated by shooting apples from his father's head and doing about everything that the old man's act was guilty of.

FEED FOR WINTERING STOCK

Numerous Catch Crops to Supplement Hay When Latter Is Failure—Soy Beans for Silo.

On many farms where the number of animals raised on the farm and kept through the winter is dependent upon the amount of hay harvested, the farmer is unable to winter all of his stock when the hay crop is a failure unless he grows catch crops to supplement his hay crop.

Oats and peas make a very good catch crop and will produce a large amount of palatable and nourishing hay.

Corn fodder makes an excellent catch crop and affords abundance of rough feed, although corn that is allowed to reach a more mature condition will afford the most nourishment.

Millet is another excellent catch crop and will thrive under a wide variety of conditions, but like most other crops will produce better crops when it is raised on land that contains an abundance of plant food.

Barley and peas are very valuable for fall feeding and may be cut late and cured for hay the same as oats and peas. This mixed crop may be used for silage purposes until late in November. Rape is a member of the turnip family and makes an excellent late forage crop for sheep and hogs any many farmers pasture it with young cattle but it is not adapted for feeding dairy cattle, owing to the danger of its giving the milk a bad odor, similar to that imparted by the turnip when fed in large quantities.

Soy beans are recommended highly as an economical source of protein and may be grown in most sections of the country where live stock is fed. Many fall with this crop because they do not wait for the ground to become warm before they sow the crop. Soy beans may be drilled, planted in hills or in rows.

On farms where there is a silo they will do well when sowed in the corn field and run into the silo with the corn crop. It improves the food value of the ensilage and has no bad results.

KEEPING COWS OUT OF PONDS

Dairymen Make Big Mistake in Allowing Animals to Drink Dirty, Stagnant Water.

Many men who think they are good farmers allow their cows to drink all summer from any old pond that happens to contain enough water.

No matter how filthy it is, or how warm or contaminated by vegetable growth or droppings from the animals themselves, so long as it is water.

A greater error never was made. You cannot get good milk or butter from dirty pond water.

The cow is a wonderful milking machine and she often transforms some pretty poor stuff into milk, but if she is given nothing but dirty, stagnant pond water all her powers of alchemy cannot turn it into a fluid fit for children to drink.

There is one way, however, in which pond water may be used to advantage, but it is not to allow animals to go into it or drink from it direct.

A pond on the Oklahoma station farm holds a million gallons and supplies 100 head each of cattle and hogs.

It drains a large area which is on a hill to the barns and feed lots. That is different.

As it runs from the faucet it is as clear as the average well water and it tastes good.

The cost of building the pond and of piping the water about one-third of a mile was about $400. Barring usual accidents it should cost nothing for repairs and it does not cost a cent to operate it.

There are many localities where the ground is more or less hilly where this system of supplying water could very easily be adopted without great cost.

The Science of Farming.

If the world's attention determines the importance of a science, then the science of farming is receiving deserved recognition. For the world is certainly giving much attention to the farm and the people who work upon it. This is not to be wondered at, for upon the farm and its products depend all other industries. Without this science all other things must fail, whereas the farmer could, if necessary, make a fairly good shift at doing without all the rest.

Knowing how is just as valuable on the farm as in any other branch of industry. The subject of "Dry Farming" is an illustration very much in point. One man experimented until he learned the secret and as a result many people have profited. What he learned does not seem very wonderful, but it was the thing needed to be known, and in the semi-arid west, where crops are being grown by this method, they deem it quite an achievement. It always pays to study one's business.

Palmetto Asparagus.

Palmetto asparagus is the most popular variety for commercial plantations. It is rust-resistant to a large degree and makes a strong, vigorous growth. Columbian White Mammoth is a splendid white variety. Asparagus should be grown more largely for many eastern markets. It nearly always sells readily at good prices and brings the grower a cash return early in the season before many other vegetables are ready for sale. If market conditions are favorable, plan for setting a bed next spring. Grow your own plants, if possible. If not, buy from special growers who produce strong plants free from disease.

PASTURING PIGS ON CLOVER

Produces Cheapest Pork, When Used In Conjunction With Some Supplemental Feed.

Even at present prices it is essentially to our interests to produce pork as cheaply as possible. Simply because hogs are selling at record prices we cannot allow the cost of production to creep up alongside the increased selling price. It should ever be the aim of the hogman to have the hogs and the methods which will enable him to produce a pound of pork with the smallest outlay consistent with good gains.

It has always been our opinion that the cheapest pork can be produced on clover pasture, when it is used in conjunction with some supplemental feed, writes Clyde A. Waugh, in Michigan Farmer. Clover furnishes cheap protein, allows the hog to exist in what approaches his natural condition, keeps him fairly healthy, manures your field and saves a great deal of labor.

We have found that those of our profitable litters that most that are farrowed about the time the sows can be turned on pasture. It is an easy matter to take a roll of hog fencing, stick in a post every seven or eight rods, and to stretch up your fence. It can be done in half a day. Several litters of pigs can be run in a few acres.

After suckling a few weeks the sows can be reduced to a ration of a few ears of corn a day. Before this a few troughs can be placed so as to admit the pigs and keep out the sows, when the pigs can be given shorts and other feeds.

Handled in such a manner you have fair sized shoats when the new crop is ready to be fed. Then, a little green corn can be used to advantage. However, by the time the corn is ready, the shoats will stand quite a heavy feeding while on the clover. By so doing, the spring pigs can often be turned off after running behind steers on a very short feed which begins early in the fall. Two years ago we turned a bunch of shoats so raised, in a corn field with the older hogs. When the piece was hogged off part of the spring pigs went to market.

BREAKING UP BROODY HENS

Shutting Her Up in Box With Slatted Bottom Will Effect Cure in Very Few Days.

It is natural for hens of the sitting breeds to become broody after she has finished laying a "clutch" of eggs. They do not deserve to be ducked or otherwise abused because they follow the course nature has laid down for them.

If the hen begins to show signs of broodiness and is not needed for hatching it is very easy to break her up, if immediate action is taken.

Shutting her in a box with a slatted bottom, the box being supported a foot from the ground, will usually cure her in a day or two.

The slatted bottom furnishes a perfectly easy place for the hen to stand or sit, but is not conducive to the kind of sitting that comes with the fever of broodiness. Broodiness is a sort of fever and the slatted bottom of the box allows the air to circulate under the hen and soon cools the fever and the hen is ready to go to work sooner.

It is doubtful if rearing a brood of chickens decreases the egg record of a hen in any way. If the hen becomes broody she will waste a lot of time if allowed to sit around until she gets ready to quit, but if she is broken up at once it is doubtful if she will begin laying again any sooner than she would if she had been allowed to hatch and rear a brood of chicks.

Home-Raised Seed Potatoes. A good many people think they must get their seed potatoes from a different locality every three or four years, or they will run out. This is a mistake; a wrong idea. We have sold seed potatoes to those same men, yet we never changed seed, of the same variety, in our life.

A few years ago a dealer in potatoes here brought in a carload of seed potatoes from Aroostook, Me., and sold them at a very high price. Some of our neighbors bought this seed and planted, but were much disappointed at digging time, for their own seed gave the best crop.

If farmers will take as much pains in selecting their potatoes as they do their corn for seed they will not run out.

But the only thing the careless farmer, that has taken no pains to improve his potatoes, can do this spring is to plant the best he has, and next fall begin to improve and increase his potato crop by a careful selection of seed.

Wild Goose Farmer.

Capt. Joshua D. Wheaton of Chincoteague, Va., claims the distinction of being the only wild goose farmer in the world. He has 250 acres of land skirting the coast of Chincoteague sound and has at the present time over 1,500 wild geese on the place. He ships alive to the northern markets and gets an average price of $5 per pair. He got a start by capturing young birds and clipping their wings.

Corn Ensilage for Sheep. Corn ensilage can be fed to sheep, but be very careful if it is at all sour. Nothing gives better results than clover or alfalfa hay and turnips, with a small quantity of a mixture of wheat bran, oats and oil meal.

Unusual Clothes Sale

Special sales of men's clothes are not uncommon but a special sale of a stock like ours, containing a great number of suits from the workshops of deserves to be called an "unusual special sale." To the man who has never worn a Hart, Schaffner & Marx suit, the fit, wear and look that he gets when he wears his first suit of these famous clothes makes him realize that even at regular prices it has been a special sale as far as he is concerned; the best value he ever got.

Right now we are going these regular values one better by a big reduction in prices to make ready for our fall goods that are coming in soon. You never saw better opportunities to do great things for yourself in the matter of clothes; clothes that fit and wear and look better than you expect, unless you are acquainted with Hart, Schaffner & Marx clothes. To know them is to know the best clothes for men in the world.

This is what we propose to do! We will give you

When a Will is Made

OCCASIONAL-ly you hear of men who, heeding the uncertainties of existence, distribute their property in the life time, instead of directing the manner in which it shall be disposed after they have disappeared forever from the earthly scene. Such a case occurred a few days ago in Chicago when a man of means simply placed an estate valued at $2,000,000 in the care of a trust company for the benefit of his four children. Thus with one stroke he satisfied himself that his property would reach the hands of those for whom it was intended, and no doubt this was a gratifying achievement. For, after all, the will that every sensible man is supposed to make does not always fulfill its object and thus the world sees a contest of claimants which is often less desirable to view than a church quarrel.

The will, as an instrument of the law, owes its development to the Romans. India did not know of it before the conquest, and it was but a rudimentary affair in Mesopotamia and ancient Athens. The early Roman will was effectual during the lifetime of the person who made it, and it was irrevocable, its object being to secure the perpetuation of the family. Thus the hereditas was vested in a person who could be relied upon to carry on the family name and traditions. Often such wills were made on the eve of battle, and they were published in accordance with the law.

When Constantine the Great caused Christianity to be recognized by the state, this act had its effect upon will-making, inasmuch as the duty of giving bequests to the church was encouraged. Monks and heretics, however, were not allowed to make wills or to take bequests. Then again, wills were deposited in churches; indeed, in England the church exercised jurisdiction in testamentary matters for centuries. Up to 1855 the probate and custody of wills lay with the English ecclesiastical courts, but the carelessness to which the documents were exposed at the hands of lazy and incompetent officials led to vigorous criticism of the system by Charles Dickens and other writers, and, as a consequence, the church lost its ancient privilege.

In modern days, by reason of the prosaic language of legal draftsmen, wills have lost much of their interest as purely human documents; but if one were to set himself to the task of writing the social history of a great city like New York, from its beginning, he could do no better than delve into the records of the surrogate's courts. All wills are probated there; children are adopted under the direction of the surrogates; they appoint guardians and discharge them again, when minors reach the age of legal discretion; they settle and distribute the estates of the poor and rich. Thus there is to be found in the probate records the details of social life by generations, and it is possible to trace the evolution of families, old and new, and their rise and fall on the tide of fortune.

The skeleton in the closet is often revealed by legal procedure, and, though it cannot be avoided, the family quarrel is bound to be aired when will contests are tried before a surrogate. Many elements enter into these contests—disappointed heirs, forgery, undue influence on the part of persons who have been associated with the property owner; the existence of more than one will; vague and indefinite language in a man's last testament, for "all things which are so written in a will as to be unintelligible are to be on that account regarded as though they were not written."

Russell Sage, who disposed of a vast estate without indulging in superfluous words, adopted a simple method to prevent litigation over his property. A clause of his will read: "Should any of the beneficiaries under this, my will, other than my said wife, object to the probate thereof, or in any wise directly or indirectly contest or aid in contesting the same or any provision thereof, or the distribution of my estate thereunder, then and in that event I annul any bequest herein made to such beneficiary, and it is my will that such beneficiary shall be absolutely barred and cut off from any share in my estate." There was no contest, although it was said that the beneficiaries grumbled a little bit.

One of the most dramatic will cases in the history of Massachusetts was tried a few weeks ago in the probate court of East Cambridge, where two claimants appeared to fight for a share of Senator Daniel Russell's estate, valued at $750,000. By his will the elder son, William C. Russell, was directed to share the estate equally with his brother, Daniel Blake, who had disappeared in 1855, after a quarrel with his father. The first claimant, who came from Medford, N. D., and was popularly known as "Dakota Dan," did not meet with the approval of William C. Russell and his cousin, Ferdinand B. Almy, who asserted that the man's real name was James D. Rousseau or Russaw, and that he had familiarized himself with the history of the Russell family before putting his claim forward. Photographs of Rousseau were introduced in evidence; there were exhibits of letters alleged to have been written by "Dakota Dan" to members of the Rousseau family, and there was, of course, a "battle" of handwriting experts, each contradicting the other. And "Dakota Dan" brought witnesses to show that the letters were forgeries, and that the addresses had been written on the envelopes after the post-office cancellation marks had been stamped thereon.

To these letters were added an application form for membership in the Woodmen of the World. This contained the family history of Rousseau and said that he had three brothers and two sisters living and that another brother had been killed in a railroad accident. All of which was apparently true. "Dakota Dan's" experts asserted that the answer had not been written by him, but had been filled in by others at a later period, his handwriting having been imitated. Thereupon the Russell lawyers showed that the paper had remained in the archives of the Woodmen of the World until the court ordered its production.

The trial dragged on for several months and as it was nearing the end a second Daniel Blake Russell, who was to be called "Fresno Dan," came out from his fruit ranch in Fresno, Cal. Out there he was known as Henry Johnson, but in Melrose, the home of the Russells, he was recognized as the missing "Dan" by the responsible citizens. He seemed to be well informed as to the details of Daniel's early life in Melrose, but "Dakota Dan" declared that his rival had been brought on to cheat him out of his rights. Judge Lawton, before whom the tedious case was tried, finally decided in favor of "Fresno Dan," and that night the judge was burned in effigy by an angry crowd of "Dakota Dan's" supporters. If the case is carried to a higher court little may be left of the estate, for the litigation has already cost a huge sum.

In the many efforts of Albert T. Patrick to free himself from a life sentence for the murder of William Marsh Rice, an aged recluse, people have almost forgotten that Patrick was first charged with forgery in connection with the old man's will. Patrick, a lawyer, had learned of Marsh's wealth and his weak state of mind through a suit in a Texas court, and he gained the confidence of Charles F. Jones, valet to the recluse, Jones becoming the lawyer's tool.

Rice, in fact, never knew Patrick, although the latter posed as the millionaire's attorney, always working through Jones, who confessed that he killed his master at the lawyer's instigation. Motive for the murder was held to be desire on the part of Patrick to obtain control of Rice's fortune by means of a forged will, and the murder was accomplished by Jones at Patrick's command, chloroform being the death medium. Jones was allowed to go free, while Patrick was sentenced to death. This was in 1902. Governor Higgins commuted the sentence to life imprisonment, and since that time Patrick has made 23 unsuccessful attempts to regain his freedom.

Phonographic records of testimony in a will case were taken in Boston for use at another trial, if permitted by the court. This unusual procedure was the result of the illness of one of the principal witnesses, who was obliged to undergo a surgical operation immediately after giving evidence. Should it be necessary to introduce these records, the attitude of the court toward them will be of interest to the legal profession generally, for it might serve to create a precedent.

Nuncupative or oral wills, the right to make which lies only with sailors at sea or soldiers in the field, are somewhat rare, but one was admitted to probate in Kings county last December by Surrogate Ketchum. This will was made by George O'Connor, chief engineer of the steamship Dorothy, while the vessel was in mid-ocean. All that he said was: "Everything that I have belongs to my daughter, Lizzie," and the will was proved with the aid of two witnesses, the captain and first officer of the Dorothy.

Army history was related in the will of Brig. Gen. Loomis L. Langdon, who died on January 7. One paragraph read:

"I give to my son, Captain Langdon, the silver tea service presented to me by the citizens of Brownsville, Tex., for what they termed my 'disinterestedness and patriotic services,' as they kindly chose to characterize my action during the absence of the Rio Grande garrison in organizing the citizens of Brownsville into an effective force and assisting in defending their lives and property against the attack of the bandit, Juan Curtinas, for which I received the thanks of the citizens."

His saddle also went to his son with this comment:

"The saddle I used during the great Civil war was on the horse that was killed under me in the battle of Olustree, or Ocean Pond, Fla., on February 20, 1864. The horse was hit five times, and one or two shots went through the saddle, but the bullet holes are concealed by a new cover of leather which was put on the saddle."

Not infrequently you hear of people who have been rewarded in wills for a kind act long forgotten, except by the person who experienced it.

In all probability little information about King Edward's will is likely to come to light, for there is no law in England to compel the probating of such a kingly document. British sovereigns are permitted to purchase property with the funds of the privy purse, and they have the right to dispose of their personal estate without publicity. It is related of George II. that, with the consent of his ministers, he burned the will of his father, George I., because it contained certain scandalous bequests to court favorites, and it is not improbable that other old kings adopted similar measures when they were deemed necessary to preserve the reputation of the reigning house.

Dickens tells in "Pickwick Papers" how Sam Weller saved his stepmother's will from destruction at the hands of his father, Tony.

"This here is the dockymint, Sammy," said Mr. Weller. "I found it in the little black teapot, on the top-shelf of the bar closet. She used to keep her banknotes there afore she married, Samivel. I've seen her take the lid off to pay a bill, many and many a time. Poor creature, she might ha' filled all the teapots in the house with vills, and not have inconvenienced herself neither, for she took very little of anythin' in that way lately, 'cept on the temperance night, ven they just laid a foundation o' tea to put the spirits a-top on!"

"What does it say?" inquired Sam. "Jist vot I told you, my bog," rejoined his parent. "Two hundred pounds wurth o' reduced counsels to my son-in-law, Samivel, and all the rest o' my property, of every kind and description wotsoever to my husband, Mr. Tony Veller, who I appt as my sole egztekiter."

"That's all, is it?" said Sam. "That's all," replied Mr. Weller. "And I s'pose as it's all right and satisfactory to you and me as is the only parties interested, ve may as vell put this bit o' paper into the fire."

"Wot are you a-doin' on, you lunatic?" said Sam, snatching the paper away as his parent, in all innocence, stirred the fire preparatory to suiting the action to the word. "You're a nice egztekiter, you are."

"Vy not?" inquired Mr. Weller, looking sternly round, with the poker in his hand. "Vy not?" exclaimed Sam. "Cus it must be proved, and probated, and swore to, and all manner o' formalities."

In the Toils of the Law

By Donald Allen

(Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.)

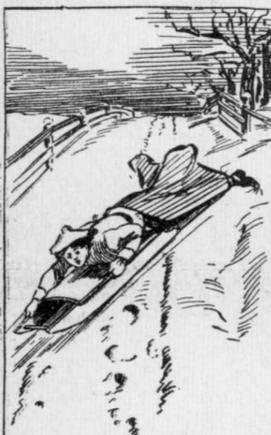

It was late winter when Miss Bessie Hyde arrived at her aunt's country house for a two weeks' stay, but there was still plenty of snow on the ground. Even before unpacking her trunk and hanging up her dresses the girl was out romping around. Not that snow was a novelty to a girl from town. Even at that moment there were piles of it in front of her father's house, waiting to be removed, and growing blacker every moment.

But this snow was different. It was white snow. It wasn't mixed with soot, cinders, old shoes, tomato cans and beet bones. It was as clean as the spread on a spare bed. It was good enough to eat. She threw snowballs at the dignified old family dog and gave him a bad opinion of her city manners, also of her skill as a thrower.

On the second day of her stay Miss Bessie observed something. It was something that the man of all-work around the house had never observed yet, although he had been there five years. To the north of the house was a hill that was evidently on some one else's land, as there was a dividing fence. By taking down a panel of the fence a girl on a sled could start at the top of the hill, come whizzing down over Aunt Hetty's lawn, and then pass through an open gate and strike the highway. The road had a gradual descent for a quarter of a mile. That was a slide down hill worth talking about. If only there was a sled of some sort about—

There was. It was a handseled used by the all-work man for various jobs. He was not about, and Miss Bessie took possession. Aunt Hetty wasn't looking, and a panel of the fence was removed almost as neatly as a farmer's hired man could have done it. Then the sled was dragged to the top of the hill, and all was ready for the geewiz.

Had the girl swung her hat and uttered a few preliminary war whoops before starting, and thus brought Aunt

The Sled Came Down Like a Bullet.

Hetty to the door, things would have been altogether different. She would have been told that that hill belonged to old Adam Flint, who was both mean and miserly. His hill stood there ready to do business, but he was so afraid that somebody would swoop with it that he had posted signs everywhere.

"No trespassing under penalty of the law!" read the signs. The girl could have seen no less than three such signs had she looked around her. She wasn't looking for signs, however. Also, had she looked about she would have been warned that a girl gee-whizzing on a sled into the highway and down another hill might possibly meet a vehicle of some sort coming up.

If she had been told these things the ride would have been postponed and Miss Bessie Hyde might have lived on to be an old maid. Fortunately she was not interfered with. The first anyone knew of the adventure was when a shout came from the top of the hill. The sled came down like a bullet. The all-work man ran to stop it, but fell down and rolled over. Aunt Hetty ran to stop it, but she slipped on the veranda and sat down hard.

Away went the sled with a frightened girl hanging on for dear life and one foot trailing behind as a rudder. It was going like a hundred rabbits when it made the turn into the highway, and then there was a sign of relief. But the respite was short. Coming up the long hill was old Adam Flint in his "pung," which is a homemade sleigh. Close behind him followed a man driving a horse and cutter. The road was narrow, the banks steep.

Miss Bessie shut her eyes and screamed. Old Adam Flint called "Whoa!" to his horse and decided that his last hour had come.

The man in the cutter grinned and got ready to enjoy a good thing. The sled struck old Adam's knock-kneed horse. It just had to strike somebody or something. The knees of the horse were bent as he strained at the sled. He fell in a heap and didn't try to get up. That was a wise move on his part, for the sled and the girl climbed over his back, knocked old Adam out of his sleigh and struck the other horse before coming to a stop. The man in the cutter was smiling when a splinter from the "pung" hit him in the forehead and left a great bruise. There was a bad mix-up for five minutes.

It's wonderful how a girl can gee-whizz down hill and knock men and horses into the middle of next week and yet do very little damage. When things were straightened out, it was found that the girl had a cut on the wrist and a twisted ankle; old Adam's knock-kneed steed had his knees barked; old Adam himself had a shoulder wrenched; the old "pung" could be patched up. As for the young man, he had a bruise, but he was smiling as he helped to extricate the cause of the smash-up and deposit her in his cutter, where she indulged in a few hysterics to prove that she still lived. It was old Adam who did most of the talking, and he didn't talk in a whisper. He talked to the seven winds of earth, and he tried to gesticulate with his injured arm as he orated:

"Now by jiminy-cracky, but somebody shall pay for this!" he piped. "Who's this gal? I'll bet a cent she's been riding down my hill. If she has, then it's trespass and a lawsuit! Then she banged into my boss! That's another lawsuit. Then she banged into me! That's a third. Then the pung has been smashed, and the law has got to assess the damages. Them I've got to have pay for being skeered half to death. All them lawsuits, and then this young feller is to be settled with. Young woman, I wouldn't want to be in your shoes!"

Miss Hyde began to cry. It was the first time in her life she had been threatened with ten or fifteen lawsuits. Her father was a prosperous merchant in the city, but so many verdicts must drive him into bankruptcy. The young man called old Adam for his threats and said he would see him later about damages.

Miss Bessie was driven up the hill and turned over to the care of her aunt. She was still nervous, but she could see that bruise, and she insisted that it be attended to at once. It was attended to. The young man introduced himself as Mr. Howard Kyle, and it was a long hour before he continued his drive. Of course he returned next day. That was only good form. He was visiting a brother only two miles away and it was no great trouble to come over.

The bruise was still there, but better. Miss Bessie's wrist was also still there, and also much better. What she was worrying about was those lawsuits. Would the damage altogether amount to a hundred thousand dollars? Would she have to go out as a servant girl for the rest of her life to help make up the sum? Mr. Kyle had been very kind, but did that mean he would not seek to collect damages? It was only after the adventure had been talked over at length that she heaved a sigh of relief. He informed her that he had settled all damages with old Adam for ready cash. The sigh of relief still lingered in the air when a horrible thought came to the sigher and she cried out:

"But I've got to pay you, and maybe papa hasn't money enough! Please tell me how much it is, and I will write him at once."

But he didn't tell her—not then. He waited a whole year, and then, one evening as they were sitting together, he suddenly said:

"I paid old Adam five dollars to settle damages. It's been a year now, and I want a settlement with you."

She reached out her hand, and he took it and seemed to think he had got the best of the bargain.

TOO MANY IN PROFESSION

Absurd, However, to Reduce the Number of Students, Says American Medicine.

"The overcrowding of the medical profession comes up for discussion every little while, and always will come up, for it is the normal condition in all callings," says American Medicine. "Economists have repeatedly shown that industries owe their existence to a large unemployed class from whom labor can be obtained at a moment's notice. In the parable, the master said: 'Why stand ye here, all the day idle?'"

"There are always more workmen than the work requires, and the cry of overcrowding is as old as man and is now heard every year in trade. In every civilized land we find some doctors in poverty, some lawyers, and some clergymen. It is a condition which cannot be remedied and the proposition to reduce the number of medical students is palpably absurd—almost amounts to the suggestion that the sick be compelled to submit to the ministrations of the least efficient."

"The number of students is being reduced in England on account of the increasing cost and labor of obtaining a license, but it will not guarantee all the graduates success. Indeed overcrowding is socially desirable, as it increases the struggle for efficiency. In the struggle for existence, success goes to the efficient, not necessarily to those we consider the best."

"The diminishing incomes of physicians have already been mentioned in these columns, and the causes determined, but that has nothing to do with the utter failure of some—a matter due solely to the inevitable overcrowding."

Food of the Future.

Prof. A. Woelke, after an examination of the geographical and economic conditions of the problem, announces his conclusion that in the future meat will become too expensive for ordinary food, and that man must eventually derive practically all his sustenance from the vegetable kingdom. But he believes that there will be no lack of food on that account.

MORE PINKHAM CURES

Added to the Long List due to This Famous Remedy.

Oronogo, Mo.—"I was simply a nervous wreck. I could not walk across the floor without my heart fluttering and I could not even receive a letter. Every month I had such a bearing-down sensation, as if the lower parts would fall out. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done my nerves a great deal of good and has also relieved the bearing down. I recommended it to some friends and two of them have been greatly benefited by it."—Mrs. MAE MCKNIGHT, Oronogo, Mo.

Another Grateful Woman. St. Louis, Mo.—"I was bothered terribly with a female weakness and had backache, bearing down pains and pains in lower parts. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound regularly and used the Sanative Wash and now I have no more troubles that way."—Mrs. AL. HENZOG, 5722 Prescott Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, indigestion, dizziness, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result is worth millions to many suffering women.

VISIONARY.

Jiggson—If a man could only sell coal at the north pole or ice in hades! Wiggonson—But that's out of the question.

Juggson—I know; but, gee! just think of the prices he could get!

His Claim to Prominence. At a social gathering a certain man, intent on knowing every one, was introduced to Senator Julius C. Burrows of Michigan.

"The name Burrows is very familiar to me," he said. "I am certain that you are a man of some prominence."

"Yes," replied Senator Burrows, "I am the man that 'died at first' just before Casey came to bat in that celebrated ball game in Mudville."—Success Magazine.

It Would Depend. "Would you marry a man who wore side whiskers?" "I might if I thought it would be worth while to reform him."

Different. "Yes, Brown will stick to anything he likes." "True, but he doesn't like anything he has to stick to."—Puck.

And some people have too much respect for other people's homes and nest enough for their own.

MAY GET FIRST POSTAL BANKS

In Number of Applications Wisconsin Is Fourth.

POPULAR IN THIS STATE

The Report That No Banks Will Be Established Until the First of the Year May Be Authoritatively Denied.

Madison.—Judged by the number of applications received from banking institutions, the postal savings banks will be popular in Wisconsin. More than one hundred and fifty banks throughout the country have applied to the secretary of the treasury that they be designated as depositories of postal savings funds.

In the number of applications, Illinois leads, New York being second, Pennsylvania third and Wisconsin fourth. An application from the Citizens' State bank of Shawano was received.

The report that no banks will be established until the first of the year may be authoritatively denied. The news from Beverly that from ten to twenty-five experimental banks will be in operation by October is confirmed here.

It is not improbable that some of the first banks will be established in Wisconsin. This will be peculiarly fitting, inasmuch as it was at Milwaukee, last September, that Mr. Taft made his first speech, as president, in advocacy of postal savings banks.

Of course, it is hardly to be expected that the entire system can be put in operation this year, and it is indeed a probability that it will be almost a year before it is possible to extend the facilities to the entire country, but it is the determination of the administration to expedite in every practical manner the establishment of the machinery and its installation throughout the country.

The first steps, after the completion of what may be termed the parent organization, will be the extension of the facilities to those communities in which the greatest need exists, but there will be no halting, and that done, the work of extending the machinery to all sections in which any demand develops—and it is doubtful if there will be many in which there is no demand—will be steadily prosecuted.

Crop Outlook Is Good.

Despite the long drought, broken by light rains, for the most part good average crops will be yielded in most parts of Wisconsin, according to Prof. R. A. Moore of the college of agriculture. One exception to this general condition is the extreme northwestern part of the state, where grains are short.

In the southern and eastern counties, and as far to the north as Outagamie, such crops as oats and wheat look exceedingly fine. Most of these crops have been or are now being harvested, and early oats will be harvested this week.

"Corn will suffer immensely if rain does not come soon," said Professor Moore. "Yet it is not so badly affected by the drought as one would suppose. It is on the sandy soils that it has suffered the most. Small grains on clay soil are turning out all right."

"The drought has injured the tobacco very much. The plantings have dried down and the recent rains were not heavy enough to do much good. Pastures, most of which were parched and brown, will readily improve."

Has Eight Celebration Deaths.

State Fire Warden T. M. Purcell is drafting a municipal ordinance designed to control the sale of fireworks and explosives in cities in connection with the celebrating of the Fourth of July.

This draft will be submitted to all the principal cities of the state and the councils will be urged to pass it early enough for it to be in effect next year.

Mr. Purcell says that, although the records are not yet complete, there were more Fourth of July accidents this year than last. The record at present shows about 200 accidents and eight deaths.

Fish Supply Increases.

State Superintendent of Fisheries James Nevin said that during the last eighteen years the value of fish caught by Wisconsin fishermen in the great lakes had increased from $208,850 to $823,658, about 300 per cent. The number of pounds had increased from 9,766,934 to 20,658,776. The superintendent said that the prevailing impression that the quantity of fish in the great lakes was decreasing was erroneous.

Will Go to Milwaukee.

Governor Davidson appointed the following delegates to represent Wisconsin at the fourth international conference on state and local taxation to be held in Milwaukee on August 30 and 31 and September 1 and 2: Frank B. Schutz, K. K. Kennan, Judge George H. Noyes and Ellis B. Usher, Milwaukee; State Tax Commissioner N. S. Gilson, George Curtis, Jr., and Niles P. Haugen, Madison, and State Senator John M. Whitehead, Janesville.

State Lands Sold at Public Auction.

State Treasurer Dahl returned from the northern part of the state where he conducted sales of state lands under the direction of the state forestry commission. He reports the conveyance of 1,900 acres, receiving therefor $16,541. The lands sold were in six counties, as follows:

Name	Acres	Amount Received
Burnett	340	$2,728.00
Rusk	400	2,464.50
Folk	40	198.50
Douglas	120	371.50
Sawyer	360	3,433.00
Washburn	120	348.50
Total	1,900	$16,541.00

Nearly all the sales were made at appraised value, except those in Rusk county, where there was competition among buyers, and nearly all went at figures above those placed by the appraisers. One ten-acre tract, which was listed by the commissioners at $118 was the subject of lively bidding and went to the Menasha Wood-ware company at $500. Another tract that was valued at $1,041 brought $1,500.

These lands were originally acquired by the state under the old swamp limit act, but were converted to the forest reserve by act of the legislature. They are not suitable, however, for forestry purposes, being too widely scattered, and so the legislature authorized the forestry commission to sell them, the proceeds to be used to buy other lands, contiguous to the forest reserve. This is what Treasurer Dahl has been doing on his northern trip.

The Wisconsin forest reserves consist now of some 278,697 acres, mostly in Oneida, Forest, Vilas and Iron counties, and is being added to by purchase from time to time, as funds are available.

Treasurer Dahl says that there are some 20,000 acres of state lands in Burnett county, in the northwestern part, that he will not sell at the present time, even at the appraised value. They are what are known in the vernacular of the lumberjack as "lacks" and lands not suitable for agricultural purposes. These lands, with others contiguous, that may be bought, Mr. Dahl believes are suitable for forestry purposes and he will propose to the next legislature that they be created a forest reserve.

Firemen in Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Wisconsin Paid Firemen's association will be held at La Crosse August 16, 17 and 18. Firemen throughout the state have been receiving a prospectus of the meeting which promises to be an instructive and entertaining one.

The following message has been received from the La Crosse department:

"The local committee, through its chairman, Brother Colton, has assured the secretary that everything is being done to make life worth living for the delegates. During the automobile and trolley ride the La Crosse Boosters have promised to show us the most beautiful city in the state; at the theater party we will have an opportunity to enjoy a display of the latest in millinery; at the Dutch lunch a demonstration will be made showing why Milwaukee went Socialistic, and at last the delegates will be given a chance to cool in the gentle breezes on the Mississippi river. More is promised. Come to La Crosse!"

Chief Clancy is chairman of the topic committee; Assistant Chief Lawrence Hanlon and Edward Lynch are members of the legislative committee.

J. R. Sullivan of Milwaukee, inspector of sprinkled risks, will read a paper on the advantages of the sprinkling system, and how firemen can best become familiar with its operations and workings.

Bank Deposits Growing.

State Banking Commissioner M. C. Bergh issued a report covering the 500 state banks and the 11 trust companies under his supervision at the close of business on June 20. All the institutions are in good condition, according to the report.

The total resources and liabilities of the banks is $154,634,224.91, an increase of about $3,000,000 since March 29, the date of the last report. The large item in the liabilities is the deposits, aggregating $128,000,000, and it is in the deposits that the liabilities increase is contained.

The total resources and liabilities of the trust companies aggregate $116,640,517.37. The deposits aggregate $6,145,113.10.

State Dentists Adjourn.

The Wisconsin State Dentists' association that was in session at Ashland has adjourned. Doctor Ligan of Chicago, who was elected an honorary member, delivered lectures to the dentists. The members enjoyed a boat ride up Lake Superior.

Additional officers elected were: First vice-president, Dr. Ray Baldwin, Eau Claire; second vice-president, Dr. C. A. Clark, Menomonie; secretary, Dr. O. G. Krause, Milwaukee; treasurer, Dr. Adolph Gropper, Milwaukee. Executive committee, Dr. Hamon, La Crosse; Dr. Mason, Eau Claire; Dr. Forester, Ashland.

Raise for Mail Carriers.

The post office department announced promotions of letter carriers in the following Wisconsin offices to become effective July 1:

Milwaukee—Three carriers from $600 to $800 per annum; two carriers from $800 to $900; three from $900 to $1,000; two from $1,000 to $1,100, and one from $1,100 to $1,200.

Beloit—One, $900 to $1,000, and two, $1,100 to $1,200.

Burlington—Three, $800 to $900.

Eau Claire—Three, from $1,100 to $1,200.

WISCONSIN HAPPENINGS

Chippewa Falls.—Peter Gilbertson, aged fifty, was injured by an explosion in the stone quarry of the Chippewa Falls Construction company at Colfax. While preparing the blast he had three quarts of powder in a tin can standing on a rock beside him. The powder became ignited by the fierce heat of the sun. Gilbertson was blown ten feet, though he weighs 275 pounds. His face and arms were burned, and fellow workmen rushed to him and tore off his clothes. He was taken to a hospital here and his condition is precarious. Gilbertson has blasted in quarries for thirty years and this was his first mishap. His home is at Frontenac, Minn.

Okauchee.—Maintenance of the level of Lake Okauchee and other improvements have been launched by the Okauchee Lake Improvement association of this place. The aim is to make it still more popular as a summer resort for the people of Milwaukee and other cities. The level of the lake was definitely settled by the association in 1909. It is also planned to place buoys in dangerous places, to provide lights at night, to improve the roads, obtain proper adjustment of taxes, secure police protection, and to provide regulation of launches. Meetings will be held each Sunday morning.

Eau Claire.—Tribes No. 1 of the Bulawayo Indians, a recently formed organization composed almost entirely of North side business men, has erected a handsome and very attractive log cabin on the Eau Claire river near the mouth of Seven Mile creek. The log cabin has been built from white pine logs and will be used during the summer as an outers' resort by the members of the tribe. Recently a guest from Wabasha, Minn., who was shown the cabin, was so impressed with it that he donated an appropriate picture of an Indian chief, which is to be hung on one of the walls.

Madison.—That the illness of the six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Olson is due to an explosion of a torpedo in his stomach, which he swallowed on July 4, is the contention of Madison physicians. On the Fourth the boy accidentally swallowed the torpedo. A few days later he became sick and for a time it was feared he would not live. The explanation given by the doctors is that the torpedo contained potassium chloride and nitroglycerine and that the action of the stomach caused an explosion.

Waukesha.—Miss Mattie Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Miller, 823 Raymond street, has disappeared from her home, and her absence is causing great anxiety to her parents. The police have been notified, but all their attempts have proven fruitless. Mattie was employed in the kitchen of the Resthaven hotel and came home June 11 with her pay check for $15 and told her mother she was going to cash it. Nothing has been heard or seen of her since.

Janesville.—Charles Slavinski, a laborer, was slashed about the head and a deep gash was cut over his right eye by a negro who attacked him on a dark street and looted him of $14. Slavinski's cries attracted the police and the negro was pursued, but escaped. Search is being made for Charles McKeever, colored, of Chicago. McKeever's partner, Moore, is held by the police.

Chippewa Falls.—The first electrical storm of the summer visited this city and county. It was accompanied by the first real rain since May 17. It came too late to save crops other than corn, potatoes, tobacco and sugar beets. Considerable damage is reported to farm buildings struck by lightning.

Wausau.—Emil Braeger, aged forty-five years, is missing. The authorities were notified and are dragging the Wisconsin river on the theory that he committed suicide or walked into the river during mental aberration thought to be due to hot weather. His hat was found floating in the river.

Beloit.—Local colored people are making plans for a celebration at Ho-no-ne-gah park on Emancipation day, August 4. A feature of the day will be the barbecue dinner which will be served at noon.

Berlin.—G. A. R. veterans from three counties, Winnebago, Green Lake and Waushara are meeting in a two-days' reunion in this city.

Fond du Lac.—Farm buildings owned by Charles Pohlman, two miles from Oak Center, burned Friday night. The loss is $2,000, half covered by insurance.

La Crosse.—Because he is overflowing with human kindness, Jailor S. F. Brown is alleged by the county board and the district attorney to be not a proper man for his position, and he was removed by Sheriff Duncan. Brown is blamed for the escape of nine prisoners within the past few months. It is not alleged that he connived at their escape, but that he was too easy with the prisoners.

Beloit.—Prof. F. E. Converse, for fifteen years superintendent of the public schools at Beloit, is at Claremont, Cal., investigating an offer of a similar position there.

WEAK KIDNEYS WEAKEN THE WHOLE BODY.

No chain is stronger than its weakest link. No man is stronger than his kidneys. Overwork, colds, strains, etc., weaken the kidneys and the whole body suffers. Don't neglect the slightest kidney ailment. Begin using

Doan's Kidney Pills at once. They are especially for sick kidneys. Ted Hiatt, Oswego, Kans., says: "For many years I suffered from kidney disorders. I was treated by specialists in Kansas City and Chicago, was told I had an abscess of the kidneys and an operation was advised. I thereupon began the use of Doan's Kidney Pills and gradually improved. Soon an operation was unnecessary as my kidneys were well."

Remember the name—Doan's. For sale by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Incorruptible. The lady of the house hesitated. "Are my answers all right?" she asked.

"Yes, madam," replied the census man.

"Didn't bother you a bit, did it?"

"No, madam."

"Feel under some obligations to me, don't you?"

"Yes, madam."

"Then, perhaps you won't mind telling me how old the woman next door claims to be?"

"Good day, madam," said the census man.

SOFT, WHITE HANDS

May Be Obtained in One Night.

For preserving the hands as well as for preventing redness, roughness, and chapping, and imparting that velvety softness and whiteness much desired by women Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, is believed to be superior to all other skin soaps. For those who work in corrosive liquids, or at occupations which tend to injure the hands, it is invaluable.

Treatment—Bathe and soak the hands on retiring in a strong, hot, creamy lather of Cuticura Soap. Dry and anoint freely with Cuticura Ointment, and in severe cases spread the Cuticura Ointment on thin pieces of old linen or cotton. Wear during the night old, loose gloves, or a light bandage of old cotton or linen to protect the clothing from stain. For red, rough, and chapped hands, dry, fissured, itching, feverish palms, and shapeless nails with painful finger ends, this treatment is most effective. Cuticura Remedies are sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., sole proprietors, Boston, Mass.

Back to the Tall Timber. Alfred—Are you going to pass your vacation at the seashore? Gilbert—No, thank you. It's the woods for mine this year.

Alfred—Don't like the shore, eh? Gilbert—Oh, I like it well enough, but it's too risky. I passed my vacation there last year and had several narrow escapes.

Alfred—From drowning? Gilbert—No; summer girls. Seven of them proposed to me.

How She Conciliated Them. Filmer—How did it happen that these five men who were so angry with the woman in the nickelodeon for not taking off her hat became so friendly with her afterward?

Screeners—It was raining like fury when the show was over and she invited them to take shelter with her under her hat.

Awfully Busy. Jim—A stitch in time saves nine. Tom—Who said that? Jim—Gee! Ain't you read your Bible?

Tom—Nope; I ain't even had time to read the sporting page this morning yet.—Cleveland Leader.

Women in Love. "Women in love are generally troublesome and persecuting." Such is the reported opinion of M. Emile Faquet. And if a French critic does not understand the subject, of whom shall we seek understanding?

The narrow man hedges in his workman with restrictions, and foolishly expects him to do greater things when lenient the right to be himself.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup. For children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays the pain, cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

Many of us have cause to be thankful for what we don't get.

Strong Healthy Women

If a woman is strong and healthy in a womanly way, motherhood means to her but little suffering. The trouble lies in the fact that the many women suffer from weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism and are unfitted for motherhood. This can be remedied.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Cures the weaknesses and disorders of women. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned in motherhood, making them healthy, strong, vigorous, virile and elastic.

"Favorite Prescription" banishes the indispositions of the period of expectancy and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It quickens and vitalizes the feminine organs, and insures a healthy and robust baby. Thousands of women have testified to its marvelous merits.

It Makes Weak Women Strong. It Makes Sick Women Well. Honest druggists do not offer substitutes, and urge them upon you as "just as good." Accept no secret nostrum in place of this non-secret remedy. It contains not a drop of alcohol and not a grain of habit-forming or injurious drugs. Is a pure glyceric extract of healing, native American roots.

ONE THING CERTAIN.

"Dou you know," shouted the earnest orator, "what to do to the trust?"

"No, but I know blame well what they're doing to us!" said a man in the front row.

Casey at the Bat. This famous poem is contained in the Coca-Cola Baseball Record Book for 1910, together with records, schedules for both leagues and other valuable baseball information compiled by authorities. This interesting book sent by the Coca-Cola Co., of Atlanta, Ga., on receipt of 2c stamp for postage.

Also copy of their booklet "The Truth About Coca-Cola" which tells all about this delicious beverage and why it is so pure, wholesome and refreshing. Are you ever hot—tired—thirsty? Drink Coca-Cola—it is cooling, relieves fatigue and quenches the thirst. At soda fountains and carbonated in bottles—5c everywhere.

Novelty. "I thought you told me you had something original in this libretto," said the manager, scornfully. "Here at the very outset you have a lot of merry villagers singing, 'We are happy and gay!'"

"You don't catch the idea at all," replied the poet, wearily. "The 'g' is soft. It should be pronounced 'happy and jay.'"

Mortgage the ship for all it's worth before giving it up.

Dr. Pierce's pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. Easy to take.

And many a coming man neglects to arrive.

Old Advice. Manager—You never get this scene right. Your business with the sweet peas is all wrong and you forget when you are to speak—you get your lines all mixed up.

Actress—All right, sir, I'll be more attentive and fix the sweet peas and try to get my lines in the right place.

Manager—Your course is very simple. Just mind your peas and cues.—Baltimore American.

Their Object. Banks—The women of my town have formed a secret society.

Rivers—A secret society? Surely, that's a misnomer; women don't know how to keep secrets.

Banks—But they know how to tell them, and that's why they formed the society.
