WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Rev. F. Greve and Wife Highly Honored on the Twenty-fifth Anniversary of Their Wedding Day.

Sunday, September 4th, 1910 was o'clock at the old homestead, the a day which will never be forgo'ten by the Rev. Greve, his wife and one-half miles west of the village the congregation. On this day, 25 years had passed since Rev. Greve was married to Ida Baetke of Mil waukee.

The congregation, in which the couple is highly esteemed, decided not to let this important day pass by unobserved. Preparations were made for a fitting observance of the day. At 10:30 A. M., the congregation assembled in the church which had been tastefully decorated for the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. blessed with twelve children, six Edward Dick, Miss Emma Riemenschneider of Milwaukee, and Chr. Greve of New Prague, Minn., who all had been witnesses of their first marriage twenty-five years ago, being dressed in gray, was attired with a silver wreath, and the groom with a silver boquet. After wedding march had been very ably performed by Miss Katie Endlich, the Rev. Prof. A. Pieper, a friend of the groom, delivered the jubilee sermon in a very able manner. Under the leadership of Miss Katie iciating. Interment will be made Endlich, the mixed choir sang in the Union cemetery at Camp- hymn making a very good effect. The census returns now coming in steadily leave no doubt that the country is growing in population at a rapid rate. The gains in some of the cities are very notable, several of the little places having made remarkable advancement in the last ten years. Crown Decides That She Had No Guilty Knowledge of Woman's Death and Lessens Allegation-Large Crowd at Trial.

London.-The prosecution made the announcement, when the trial of Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, who is accused of murdering his wife, Belle Elmore, opened here Tuesday, that there were evidences that the woman had been subjected to an operation and that large quantities of a most deadly poison had been found in the body of the slain actress.

Ethel Clare Leneve, the doctor's typst, who accompanied him in his flight Are you giving proper appreciation to Canada after the disappearance of his wife, and who has been held on the same charge, also was brought to the bar, but the crown stated that it had been decided to confine the allegations against the girl to that of an accessory after the fact.

This relieves Miss Leneve of any fore-knowledge of the crime and is in line with the belief of her family and friends that she did not share Crippen's confidence up to the time that his wife dropped out of sight and was said by him to have died in California.

Interest in the Crippen case, which was intense during the search for the doctor, by no means has worn out, as was shown by the crowd which gathpolice court when the trial was opened.

Travers Humphreys appeared for Solicitor Arthur Newton represented Crippen. Mr. Humphrey made a long opening address, in which he reviewed the case from the time that suspicion was aroused against the husband by the unsatisfactory explanation which he offered for the disappearance of his actress wife to his return to London and the arraignment of the doctor and Miss Leneve on the joint charge of murder.

In the course of his remarks the prosecutor definitely stated that the physicians who made the post-mortem examination of the mutilated parts unearthed in the cellar of the Crippen home in Hilldrop-Crescent, Camden road. N., had discovered the presence of large quantities of hyoscin, a colorless liquid poison, and also detected evidences that an operation had been performed.

It had been known that the authorities had been working on the theory that Belle Elmore, or, properly speaking, Cora Crippen, had been in the hands of one having at least a rude knowledge of surgery, and, further, that she had been poisoned. The official announcement of these alleged discoveries, however, have not been made before.

Cleveland .- Another chapter in the conquest of the air was written by Glenn H. Curtiss and his Hudson flyer, when he flew from Cedar Point to Euclid Beach, circled about above a huge crowd for perhaps three minutes and landed gracefully, all in one hour and forty-one minutes.

The aviator insists he traveled 70 miles in his flight to Cedar Point and a like distance on his return, though the geological survey office here figures the flight at 64 miles and a slight fraction.

At all events, Curtiss established a record for a distance flight entirely over water-two records in fact, for each of the flights was longer than any other flight entirely over water.

Every Coach Except Diner Leaves Rails-Wild Panic Among Passengers Ensues-Fifteen Persons Are Injured, Three Probably Fatally.

Galena, Ill.-Illinois Central passenger train No. 5, which left Chicago at into the ditch at a point between miles east of here, killing Engineer Frank Tucker of Freeport, Ill., and injuring 15 passengers, three probably fatally.

The accident occurred on a sharp curve and all cars except one left the track and fell over on their sides.

Tucker was caught on the gangway between the tender and the locomotive when the engine plunged through | the open rail and turned over. He was pinioned by a steel plate that held him suspended by the feet until he was scalded to death by steam escaping from a broken pipe.

In the first confusion it was reported that four passengers had been buried under one car and a mail clerk ployes, giving every inducement to killed when the car was smashed. All get them to make statements. I wish were later accounted for.

Every car but the last, which was a diner, left the track. The train turned any information whatever, and should over, throwing many passengers across the cars. A wild panic ensued. Screams and moans were heard above the loud hiss of the steam escaping from the engine and passengers in terror fought their way across the berth and seat sides to doors and windows.

Several passengers in the diner narrowly escaped serious injury when china and glassware was scattered over the car. Flying glass in other cars added to the scenes of terror.

Train No. 5, the fast mail, the popular Illinois Central train for western Iowa and South Dakota points, carries three sleeping cars, one chair car, and a through coach to Sioux city.

The train was said to be a few minutes late and was making up time when the accident occurred.

The heavy steel back of the mail coach broke the shock and prevented a much worse disaster. Doctors from here were rushed out and relief and a wrecking train from Dubuque was sent to the place of disaster with doctors and nurses. The injured were taken to Dubuque hospitals.

Bilbao, Spain.-The strike situation. is alarming. The funds of the men have been exhausted and the strikers are in an ugly mood. Collisions with the police, gen darmes and nonunionists are constant-

Many factories are being closed and the work in the harbor has been wholly suspended. Dock employes who are on strike have issued an appeal to their foreign colleagues asking the latter to refuse to handle merchandise intended for shipment here.

The government declared Bilbao in a state of siege. This action was taken after consideration at Madrid of the rioting that has taken place there as a result of the strike.

A cordon of soldiers has been thrown about the city to prevent the entry of strikers from other districts.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs. For 30 years it has been curing women from the worst forms of female ills—inflammation, ulceration, dis-placements, fibroid tumors, irregulari-ties, periodic pains, backache, and nervous prostration. If you would like special advice about your case write a confiden-tial letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

HUNDREDS AT THE DEPOT

Early Morning Crowd Greets City's Guest as He Arrives. Trades School and Press the Topic of His Address.

Milwaukee .- Greeted by cries of "O, you Teddy," Col. Theodore Roosevelt arrived in Milwaukee at the Union depot over the Milwaukee

As the long train pulled into the station all eyes were fastened on the coaches to catch the first glimpse of the press club's honored guest, and he was found on the rear platform of his private car, "Republic," holding his soft, black hat in his hand and nodding to the cheering hundreds lined up outside the gates.

The members of the reception committee entered Mr. Roosevelt's private car and were introduced to

"I am indeed glad to welcome you, Col. Roosevelt," said former Gov. George W. Peck. "I hardly thought I would ever see you again."

"Well, governor," responded Col. Roosevelt, "I am like you. We are here to stick."

With the members of the reception committee who crowded into the was a newsboy with a pack of Big Sticks:

"Can't I give you a Big Stick, colonel?" he asked, edging his way between the others.

"Thank you," sad Roosevelt. "And we must buy some, too, from this boy. Such a combination of generosity, enterprise and business acumen will certainly have develop-ments later in life."

The boy was Howard Cunningham, 102 Sixth street. He is 14 years old and attends the South Side High school. His face shone with happiness as he displayed the half dollar given him for the papers.

The party then left the station for waiting automobiles in charge of Guy F. Gregg, and proceeded to the Hotel Pfister, where Roosevelt registered and was conducted to a suite on the third floor.

During the morning tour about the city Mr. Roosevelt rode in an automobile owned and driven by Oscar Greenwald.

At the hotel he asked for stationery and took a glance at the morning papers, after which breakfast was served.

The scheduled visits and short addresses to be made at the Chamber of Commerce, the Public Health convention, Marquette university, and the Woman's Presbyterian Missionary society meeting at Immanuel Presbyterian church were eliminated from the program because of a lack of time, and the reception in the Hotel Pfister were limited to a small number of prominent men.

With Mr. Roosevelt on his western tour are James R. Garfield, former secretary of the interior; William B. Howland, publisher of the Outlook; Ernest H. Abbott, associate editor, Outlook; Roger C. Hoyt, western representative; Everett L. Hazleton, western office, and Frank Harper, secretary to Mr. Roosevelt.

Among the foreign newspaper and press men with the Roosevelt party Wade Mountfortt, Jr., American Press association; Lucius F. Curtis and Charles E. Kern, Associated Press; Arthur M. Howe, Brooklyn Eagle; W. H. Culver, Chicago Examiner; John B. Pratt, International News association; H. F. Griffin, New York Evening Sun; J. J. Doyle, New York Press; A. E. Samuels, New York Sun; Oscar K. Davis, New York Times; George G. Hill, New York Tribune; James Cooper, New York World: Gilson Gardner, Newspaper Enterprise association; A. McSween, Philadelphia North American; E. R. Sartwell, United Press association; John Snure, Washington Times; and Michael Hennessy, Boston Globe,

When word was sent to the officers of the Chamber of Commerce that the former president would not appear there, a general feeling of disappointment manifested itself among the membership. To inform all that he would not visit the pit, a large sign, "Mr. Roosevelt will not be here today," was hung out.
Secretary H. A. Plumb said they had issued about 1,000 tickets for admittance upon the floor.

In the evening the greatest audience Milwaukee ever presented under one roof heard Theodore Roosevelt praise the city's trades schools; heard him laud the skilled mechanic; heard him urge the "doing away with special privilege, forcing the corporate interests away from politics, to give," he said, "each man a chance to show what is in him."

The torrent of applause that arose when he entered brought with it to their feet that enormous assemblage, rising partly in curiosity to see, partly in tribute. The ripple of handclapping rose to a sweeping tide, and the sound progressed to a mighty cheer, receding for the moment only to surge up again and greet the great

The chances of a male heir are fairly good-simply the chances which offer to average humanity-and it is therefore likely that the Napoleonic line will be preserved, for the time at least.

But the chances that it will go on for all time are simply nil, notwithstanding the famous example of the Guelphs, of England, where descent from the only and original King David of the Jews has been claimed by enthusiastic partisans of the theory of the right divine.

The line of the Caesars is, in reality, Democracy's farce of the right divine.

The Capets, who managed to keep their grip on France for several centuries, began their rulership in the regular way, with one especially husky ancestor-in their case, Robert the Strong, a Saxon to whom Charles the Bald gave the duchy of the Ile de France in 861. They went into the king business in 987, when the nobles reached the conclusion that the Carolingian blood in France was about played out, the only male survivor being Charles, duke of Lorraine, whom those red-handed, two-fisted fighters regarded as a milksop. The funny part of this king making was that, whenever the divine-right principle went to smash, Democracy, in the nobles and notables, hastened to get together and give it another try with a fresh breed of royalty-always agreeing on some especially bloodyminded slaughterer as their one best bet. MAKING THE DUMB SPEAK Various Methods by Which the Mutes Are Taught to Utter Many Words.

Scripture remarks that the following exercises are typical of those used in the best schools for deaf mutes: Breathing through the nose and mouth are first taught. The teacher breathes through the nose on a slate or a mirror and shows the two moist spots; the child learns to imitate this. The mouth breathing produces one spot. The low position of the tongue is necessary for proper speech. It is taught by showing the position and using the mirror, and by a breath exercise. This latter rests upon the fact that the child cannot produce a good sized spot on the slate unless he keeps his tongue down. Tongue gymnastics are next used to limber up and train the muscles which have never received the proper development. The tongue is protruded, retracted, moved to each side, turned up, etc. Tongue training preparatory to various consonant sounds is introduced. Vibration of the vocal cords is taught by feeling. The pupil puts his hand on the teacher's chest and also on his own. He thus learns to make a tone. He learns to raise and lower the voice and by careful drill is able to make a fairly good tone.

The physiological alphabet consists of a set of diagrams giving the typical position of the tongue and lips for the chief sounds of the language. November election.

Returns on the three-cornered gubernatorial fight between Francis E. McGovern, E. T. Fairchild and Capt. William Mitchell Lewis are as slow in coming in as those on the senatorial fight. In the counties thus heard from McGovern has a comfortable lead over Fairchild, with Capt. Lewis third. Strange and Barker were hopelessly outclassed by the other three candidates. The feature of the gubernatorial contest was the strong run made by McGovern in the county option territory. The western part of the state, where county option sentiment is known to prevail, had been figured by the Lewis managers as sure territory. The Milwaukee Progressive candidate succeeded in carrying a good portion of this "Lewis" territory, despite the fact that the same sections sent county option senators and nominated county option candidates for the senate and assembly.

Aside from the gubernatorial and the senatorial contests, the most interesting feature of the campaign and primary was the nomination of the late Frank T. Tucker as candidate for the office of attorney eral over Levi H. Bancroft of Richland Center and Henry A. Gunderson of Portage. Bancroft's campaign managers do not concede Tucker's nomination, but in the counties heard from, the deceased candidate had a good lead over his rivals. The insurgents gained one candidate for congress when Henry F. Cochems defeated Congressman William H. Stafford for re-nomination in the fifth district. Cochem's ma-jority over Stafford is between 500 and 1,500. The rest of the Republican nominees remain the same as two years ago. Congressman John M. Nelson had a hard fight for renomination in the second district, being opposed by Attorney General Frank L. Gilbert of Madison.

There was little or no contest on the Democratic ticket. The contest for the endorsement for United States senator between Congressman Charles H. Weisse of Sheboygan Falls and Burt L. Williams of Ashland, which was won by Congressman Weisse by a 2 to 1 vote, helped keep the Democrats within their own primaries and to obtain the necessary 20 per cent vote to entitle them to a place on the official ballot at the November election. John M. Callahan received the nomination for secretary of state over William Theissen. M. E. Burke of Beaver Dam received the Democratic nomination for congress in the sixth district. His opponents were M. K. Reilly and E. Clark, both of Fond du Lac.

A Cincinnati traveler says: "About a year ago my stomach got in a bad way. I had a headache most of the time and suffered misery. Farewell Friends Farewell.

Here we are just in time
Writing down another rhyme
Which I now hand to you
As a farewell and adieu.

A score of friends, we have met One thing, we always do regret That I can not repay to you Your Love and Hospitality True.

Your Sweet Memories do remain My wish is to once meet again If not here, then on yonder shore Where sorrow and partings are no more.

When far away beyond the trees
In loving memory I can see
Dear Friends, that have gone before
To yonder peace and beautiful shore

Far apart, each other we will not see But my peace and love never cease Good Luck, Good Health, never end Is my wish, your loving friend. Dear Youths and Maidens always beware And to give the very best of care To your dear parents as they grow old And God's blessing will be manifold.

The Greed for wealth leads many astray Blindfolds them lose the righteous way They also forget, The Lord's Command And wander away from the Blessed Land So while we live lets be loving and good So Sin and Evil can not take root But our hearts be full with blessing of Hin Oh Lord give uf strength our battle to win

Dear Friends, beware and do not forget We all have a precious problem yet To release our most noblest of all slaves So its ready, before we go to our graves

It is the Soul within our bosom Let us beware as not to lose it To live so, it goes to its Eternal home In yonder Heavens forever to roam.

In yonder Heavens forever to ream.
It is my wish once more to return
But whether such verses we can learn
For this friend, you surely will lose him
When my Soul flies from my bosom.
Thinking of sorrows, and sins of the past
A most fervant wish remains at last
To be united with Dear Ones gone before
To yonder peaceful and beautiful shore.

When you come to give me my last tribute Your friend who tried t be lovingand goo When this weary wandering soul is a te Then say, adieu friend, God gave you peac - Christ Tischhauser, Madison, S. D.

OR years the Stage has been recognized as the finest exposition of Good Clothes.

Actor folk must dress well, for the limelight exaggerates the slightest tailoring defect tremendously.

And so the Stage has become the Inspiration for Good Clothes.

It's the inspiration at any rate of Kirschbaum Clothes.

The firm of Kirschbaum exercises the most scrupulous care in following only the best in Stage Clothes.

Only the most desirable effects are incorporated in Kirschbaum Clothes.

So that the man who wears Kirschbaum Clothes can be assured that in every essential detail his clothes are "right"—whether he lives in the smallest town or the greatest metropolitan centre.

See the Kirschbaum Convertible Collar Overcoats cut full, swagger, 74 inches sweep at bottom. Ask to see the "Waldorf" and "Astor" Models.

We guarantee all Kirschbaum Clothes. Should you find any defect in the cloth, any imperfection in the tailoring, return the garment and your money will be immediately refunded.

At the Alhambra Theatre.

Visitors to the Wisconsin State Fair at Milwaukee this year will have the usual opportunity of seeing the biggest dramatic success of the past decade-"The Fourth Estate", which is announced as the week's attraction at the beautiful Alhambra theatre, a playhouse si tuated on Grand ave., the city's main thoroughfare, in the heart of the downtown district, and one of the biggest houses in the United

"The Fourth Estate" is the great newspaper play written by Joseph Medill Patterson, son of the founder of The Chicago Tribune, in corlaboration with Harriet Ford, a New York newspaper woman and dramatist, It created a veritable sensation when produced in New York and Chicago, the only cities in which it has been prior to this

This play has a record of seven months at Wallack's Theatre in New York City and six months at the Grand Opera house and the Studebaker Theatre in Chicago. Geo. C. Tyler, managing director for Liebler and company, produc ers of "The Fourth Estate", knew whereof he spoke when he sai "it is the best play the firm ever produced"

The gripping, vivid realism the bald brutality of its force and directness, the wonderful big theme of its story, the romantic love affair of its leading man and woman and above all its trueness to life make it a play which appeals, not only to the intellect, but to the senses to the utmost degree.

The story of the play tells of the redemption and corruption of a metropolitan newspaper, and its scenes are laid in the office of the managing editor, the home of the proprietor, and at last in the composing room with the linetype machines clicking, the steam ris ing from the sterotyping tables the union compositors, sterotyp ers and pressmen working at the frantic, nervous tension which a ways comes in the office of a big morning newspaper as the hour of going to press arrives, and as the climax to the play is reached that intangible fascination which can be found at no other place or time has pulled half the audience to the edges of their seats in their Estate' in Milwaukee will be the arkable play. Big Show Fair Week.

Manager Trottman of the Star Theatre, Milwaukee, has secured a Big New York Attraction Commencing September 11th.

Visitors to the Wisconsin State Fair at Milwaukee have always made the Star theatre. Third and Wells streets, their mecca during that week. Manager Trottman never fails to present an excellent attraction at that time but this season it will be bigger and better than ever. "The Star Show Girls", one of the most popular burlesque and vaudevile offerings on the road, will appear. The company, which numbers 42 artists. will come direct from New York City for this engagement. There will be several added features and the 25 young women who comprise the chorus have been selected for their beauty as well as for their ability to sing and dance.

"The Wildman's Reception" the title of the opening part and "The Model's Surprise" brings the performance to a close. In both these travesties there is a world of comedy, lively musical numbers and gorgeous costumes. The shap ly women of the company wear at least a score of different costumes during the course of the performance.

The vaudeville portion of the bill includes many well known acts. Among them are Margio Hiton. the ideal girl; The Musical Stewarts; Reded and Hadley, a classy couple; Weston and Waldron th Hebrew and the German; and Lockwood Sisters, singers and Jan-

John T. Baker, the famous fun maker, heads the aggregation. He is assisted by Billy Waldron, Bert Weston, Mae Hadley, Louis Lynn and Margie Hilton.

SYNOPSIS.

Lawrence Blakeley, lawyer, goes to Pittsburg with the forged notes in the Bronson case to take the deposition of the chief witness for the prosecution, John Glimore, a millionaire. In the latter's house the lawyer is attracted by the picture of a girl whom Glimore explains is his granddaughter, Alison West. He says her father is a rascal and a friend of the forger. Standing in line to buy a Pullman ticket Blakeley is requested by a lady to buy her one. He gives her lower eleven and retains lower ten. He finds a man in a drunken stupor in lower ten and retires in lower nine.

CHAPTER III.

Across the Aisle,

No solution offering itself, I went back to my berth. The snorer across had apparently strangled, or turned over, and so after a time I dropped asleep, to be awakened by the morning sunlight across my face.

at myself. I felt for my watch, yawning prodigiously. I reached under the pillow and failed to find it, but something scratched the back of my hand. I sat up irritably and nursed the wound, which was bleeding a little. Still drowsy, I felt more cautiously for what I supposed had been my scarf pin, but there was nothing there. Wide awake now, I reached for my traveling bag, on the chance that I had put my watch in there. I had drawn the satchel to me and had my hand on the lock before I realized that it was not my own!

Mine was of alligator hide. I had killed the beast in Florida, after the expenditure of enough money to have bought a house and enough energy to have built one. The bag I held in my hand was a black one, sealskin, I think. The staggering thought of what the loss of my bag meant to me put my finger on the bell and kept it there until the porter came.

"Did you ring, sir?" he asked, poking his head through the curtains obsequiously. McKnight objects that nobody can poke his head throught a curtain and be obsequious. But Pullman porters can and do.

"No," I snapped. "It rang itself. What in thunder do you mean by exchanging my valise for this one? You'll have to find it if you waken theentire car to do it. There are important papers in that grip."

"Porter," called a feminine voice from an upper berth near by. "Porter, am I to dangle here all day?'

"Let her dangle," I said savagely. "You find that bag of mine." The porter frowned. Then he

"I'll give you $50 if you find it," I "A hundred. Reach up my shoes and I'll-"

I stopped abruptly. My eyes were fixed in stupefied amazement on a coat that hung from a hook at the foot of my berth. From the coat they traveled, dazed, to the soft-bosomed shirt beside it, and from there to the collar and cravat in the net hammock across the windows.

"A hundred!" the porter repeated, showing his teeth. But I caught him by the arm and pointed to the foot of the berth.

"What-what color's that coat?" I asked unsteadily.

"Gray, sir." His tone was one of gentle reproof.

"And-the trousers?"

He reached over and held up one creased leg. "Gray, too," he grinned. "Gray!" I could not believe even his corroboration of my own eyes. "But my clothes were blue!" The porter was amused; he dived under the curtains and brought up a pair of shoes. "Your shoes, sir," he said with a flourish. "Reckon you've been dreaming, sir.'

Now, there are two things I always avoid in my dress-possibly an idiosyncracy of my bachelor existence. These tabooed articles are red neckties and tan shoes. And not only were the shoes the porter lifted from the floor of a gorgeous shade of yellow, but the scarf which was run through the turned over collar was a gaudy red. It took a full minute for the real import of things to penetrate my dazed intelligence. Then I gave a vindictive kick at the offending en-other gentleman just got mixed in the night. That's all, sir." It was clear that he thought I had been drinking. I drew a long breath. Of course, that was the explanation. This was number seven's berth, that was his soft hat, this his umbrella, his coat, his bag. My rage turned to irritation

The porter went to the next berth ing voice. "Time to get up, sir. Are you awake? Time to get up."

There was no response from number nine. I guessed that he had opened the curtains and was looking in. Then he came back.

"Number nine's empty," he said. "Empty! Do you mean my clothes aren't there?" I demanded. "My valise? Why don't you answer me?" "You doan' give me time," he retorted. "There ain't nothin' there. But it's been slept in." The disappointment was the greater for my few moments of hope. I sat up in a white fury and put on the clothes that had been left me. Then, still raging, I rat on the edge of the of the opened curtain. I had an inberth and put on the obnoxious tan stantaneous picture of a slender blueshoes. The man in it was on his back, the early morning sun striking full on his upturned face. But the light did and I could hear his softly insinuat- not disturb him. "Hm! Only fifty! What's the mat ter? Had a shock?" he asked shrewdly.

"Yes," I answered for the porter. 'We've both had one. If you are a doctor, I wish you would look at the man in the berth across, lower ten. I'm afraid it's too late, but I'm not experienced in such matters."

Together we opened the curtains, and the doctor, bending down, gave a comprehensive glance that took in the rolling head, the relaxed jaw, the ugly stain on the sheet. The examination needed only a moment. Death was written in the clear white of the nostrils, the colorless lips, the smoothing away of the sinister lines of the night before. With its new dignity the face was not unhandsome; the gray hair was still plentiful, the features strong and well cut.

The doctor straightened himself and turned to me. "Dead for some time," he said, running a professional finger over the stains. "These are dry and darkened, you see, and rigor mortis is well established. A friend of yours?"

"I don't know him at all," I replied. 'Never saw him but once before." "Then you don't know if he is trav eling alone?"

"No, he was not-that is, I don't know anything about him," I corrected myself. It was my first blunder; and then turned his attention again to to me the vision of the woman with the bronze hair and the tragic face, whom I had surprised in the vestibule between the cars, somewhere in the small hours of the morning. I had line one of shielding a woman.

"Suicide, is it, doctor?" I asked. He stood erect, after drawing the bed-clothing over the face, and, taking off his glasses, he wiped them slowly.

"No. it is not suicide," he announced decisively. "It is murder."

Of course, I had expected that, but the word itself brought a shiver. I was just a bit dizzy. Curious faces through the car were turned toward us, and I could hear the porter behind me breathing audibly. A stout woman in negligee came down the aisle and querulously confronted the porter. She wore a pink dressing-jacket and carried portions of her clothing.

"Porter," she began, in the voice of the lady who had "dangled," "is there a rule of this company that will allow a woman to occupy the dressingroom for one hour and curl her hair with an alcohol lamp while respectable people haven't a place where they can book their-"

She stopped suddenly and stared into lower ten. Her shining pink cheeks grew pasty, her jaw fell. I remember trying to think of something to say, and of saying nothing at all. Then she had buried her eves in the nondescript garments that hung from her arm and tottered back the way she had come. Slowly a little knot of men gathered around us, silent for the most part. The doctor was making a search of the berth when the conductor elbowed his way through, followed by the inquisitive man, who had evidently summoned him. I had lost sight, for a time, of the girl in blue. "Do it himself?" the conductor queried after a business-like glance at the body. "No, he didn't," -the doctor assert-"There's no weapon here, and the window is closed. He couldn't have thrown it out, and he didn't swallow it. What on earth are you looking

INDEPENDENCE ON THE FARM

RESULTS FOLLOW FARMING IN THE CANADIAN WEST.

Americans In Canada Not Asked to Forget That They Were Born Americans.

Farm produce today is remunerative, and this helps to make farm life agreeable. Those who are studying the economics of the day tell us that the strength of the nation lies in the cultivation of the soil. Farming is no longer a hand-to-mouth existence. It means independence, often affluence, but certainly independence.

Calling at a farm house, near one of the numerous thriving towns of Alberta, in Western Canada, the writer was given a definition of "independence" that was accepted as quite original. The broad acres of the farmer's land had a crop-and a splendid one, too, by the way-ripening for the reapers' work. The evenness of the crop, covering field after field, attracted attention, as did also the neatness of the surroundings, the well-built substantial story-and-a-half log house, and the well-rounded sides of the cattle. His broken English-he was a French Canadian-was easily understandable and pleasant to listen to. He had come there from Montreal a year ago, had paid $20 an acre for the 320-acre farm, with the little improvement it had. He had never farmed before, yet his crop was excellent, giving evidence as to the quality of the soil, and the good judgment that had been used in its preparation. And brains count in farming as well as "braw." Asked how he liked it there, he straightened his broad shoulders, and with hand outstretched towards the waving fields of grain, this young French Canadian, model of symmetrical build, replied? "Be gosh, yes, we like him—the farmin'-well, don't we, Jeannette?" as he smilingly turned to the young wife standing near. She had accompanied him from Montreal to his farwest home, to assist him by her wifely help and companionship, in making a new home in this new land. "Yes, we come here wan year ago, and we never farm before. Near Montreal, me father, he kep de gris' mill, an' de cardin' mill, an' be gosh! he run de work, an' us work tarn har', be gosh! Us work for de farmer; well 'den. sometin' go not always w'at you call

RANG THE BELL, ALL RIGHT

-well, anyway he tarn mad. Now," and then he waved his hand again towards the fields, "I 'ave no bodder, no cardin' mill, no gris' mill, no cheese factor'. I am now de farmer man an' when me want to, me can say to de oder fellow! you go-! Well, we like him-the farmin'." And that was a good definition of independence.

Throughout a trip of several hundred miles in the agricultural district of Western Canada, the writer found the farmers in excellent spirits, an optimistic feeling being prevalent try you realize that you come also to everywhere. It will be interesting to the thousands on the American side of the line to know that their relatives and friends are doing well there, that they have made their home in a country that stands up so splendidly under what has been trying conditions in most of the northwestern part of of the line or the other, we are all the farming districts of the continent. | brothers by blood, by kinship, by ties With the exception of some portions of relationship. been re-sown to feed. There are individual crops which will run as high as 45 bushels on acres of 500 and 1,000 acres, but there are others which will drop as low as 15. A safe average for winter wheat will be 19 bushels. The sample is exceptionally fine, excepting in a few cases where it has been wrinkled by extreme heat.

The northern section of Alberta has been naturally anxious to impress the world with the fact that it has not suffered from drought, and this is quite true. Wheat crops run from 20 to 30 bushels to an acre, but in a report such as this it is really only possible to deal with the province as a whole and while the estimate may seem very low to the people of Alberta, it is fair to the province throughout.

When the very light rainfall and other eccentricities of the past season are taken into account, it seems nothing short of a miracle that the Canadian West should have produced 102 million bushels of wheat, which is less than 18 million bushels short of the crop of 1909. It is for the West generally a paying crop and perhaps the best advertisement the country has ever had, as it shows that no matter how dry the year, with thorough tillage, good seed and proper methods of conserving the moisture, a crop can always be produced.

As some evidence of the feeling of the farmers, are submitted letters written by farmers but a few days ago, and they offer the best proof that can be given.

He expresses himself as highly pleased with them. At Craig, Saskatchewan, the American settlers joined with the others in an address of welcome. In replying Sir Wilfred said in part:

DISCUSSIONS ON TAXATION AND METHODS OF VARIOUS STATES.

COMMISSIONS ARE PRAISED

"Railroad Taxation Problems" Was the Subject of Commissioner Shields-Clement F. Robinson Reviewed Tax Legislation.

Madison.-The second day of the international tax conference at Milwaukee was devoted to talks and discussions on taxation methods of various states and railroads.

After a trip on Lake Michigan in the afternoon the delegates returned to the convention hall, where they listened to addresses by R. H. Shields, member of the Michigan state tax commission; T. A. Polleys, tax commissioner of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railroad, and Clement F. Robinson, special tax clerk, Portland, Me.

"Railroad Taxation Problems," was the subject of Commissioner Shields' paper. He told of the difficulty of properly taxing property of transportation companies and in what manner it had been accomplished in Michlgan, Wisconsin and other states.

Commissioner Polleys spoke on "Railroads as Taxpayers." He favored state tax commissions, saying that these bodies were better able to reach at a true value than any others.

Clement F. Robinson reviewed tax legislation of 1910 and noted the improvements over previous years.

Time was devoted to receive reports of four committees which have made a study of various problems since the last session of the conference. There was a round table discussion of administrative problems by tax officials. Judge N. S. Gilson, chairman of the Wisconsin tax commission, presided.

The committee on resolution reported at the evening session.

Addresses and discussions on taxation methods and problems in Iowa, West Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky took up the next morning session.

Experts from the four states read papers to enlighten the delegates in what manner tax problems had been solved with apparent satisfaction in the commonwealths.

The work of beautifying the plaza known this year as "Wylie park," named after Superintendent George W. Wylie, who has arranged several those planted by competing florists and gardeners. Superintendent Wylie is arranging to turn the big grove south of the executive, educational and publicity buildings into a monster picnic grounds, and hundreds of tables and benches are being distributed in the forty-acre grove. Members of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association, Citizens' Business league and Manufacturers and Jobbers' association began a campaign of advertising the state fair, and nearly 100,000 pieces of mail, containing inserts calling attention to the concessions made by the railroads of a fare and half for the round trip, good for eight days, were sent out. These tickets will be sold commencing September 12, and the time limit expires September 19.

Secretary John J. True and his office staff, with all records and blanks required during the fair, will leave Madison in a special car, and thereafter, until the fair closes, Mr. True and the working staff of the secretary's office will be located in the executive building at the fair grounds.

Six carloads of scenery and other paraphernalia, including costumes for the production of the "Last Days of Pompeii," left Chicago on Wednesday in charge of the Pain company's stage director, Frank Oakes Rose, and arrived at the fair grounds. Fifty more carpenters and artisans will be required to transform the infield of the track for the reproduction of the historical catastrophe, based upon Edward Bulwer Lytton's novel.

Superintendent of Grounds Wylie has erected a temporary band stand in the grove between the educational and the publicity building, and here will be stationed a band of music every day to entertain visitors in this section of the grounds. Music will be provided at four points every day of the fair-the grand stand, plaza, stock judging pavilion and the grove.

Exhibitors are beginning to arrive, booths are being built, tents being erected and the whole state fair grounds are assuming an exposition aspect. WISCONSIN BREVITIES

La Crosse. - Postoffice inspectors have unearthed an alleged matrimonial bureau scheme at Richland Center, by means of which, they charge, farmers throughout the northwest have been swindled. One man and two women have been arrested and held to await the action of the federal grand jury. Postoffice Inspector E. E. Fraser charges that the woman and the greensward between the main started the bureau and advertised for entrance and the grand stand is well husbands. The man is alleged to under way and the plaza will be have been called in to manage the business when it grew to large proportions. One reputed victim, who is said to have sent money from Alden, beautiful flower beds, in addition to N. D., to pay the railroad fare of his prospective wife, grew suspicious, according to Fraser, and gave the postoffice inspector the tip, which result ed in the arrests.

Madison. - The Wisconsin State Federation of Labor, through its secretary, Fred Brockhausen, is sending to voters a circular referring to the candidacy of William Mitchell Lewis for governor. In the circular are embodied three resolutions, the first of which of the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor, as follows:

PROBLEMS MANY YEARS OLD

Children of Today Puzzle Over Them Just as They Did a Thousand Years Ago.

When King Alfred the Great was reigning over England, a thousand years ago, school children pondered over problems in arithmetic much as our boys and girls do now. Here are two taken word for word from a lesson book of that day: "The swallow once invited the snail to dinner. He lived just one league (three English miles) from the spot, and the snail traveled at the rate of only one inch a day. How long would it be before he dined?"

"An old man met a child. 'Goodday, my son,' he said. 'May you live as long as you have lived, and as much more, and thrice as much as all this; and if God gives you one year in addition to the others, you will be a century old!' What was that boy's age?"-The Comrade.

HOW A DOCTOR CURED SCALP DISEASE

"When I was ten or twelve years old I had a scalp disease, something like scald head, though it wasn't that. I suffered for several months, and most of my hair came out. Finally they had a doctor to see me and he recommended the Cuticura Remedies. They cured me in a few weeks. I have used the Cuticura Remedies, also, for a breaking out on my hands and was benefited a great deal. I haven't had any more trouble with the scalp disease. Miss Jessie F. Buchanan, R. F. D. 3, Hamilton, Ga., Jan. 7, 1909.

Kept with Barnum's Circus.

P. T. Barnum, the famous circus man, once wrote: "I have had the Cuticura Remedies among the contents of my medicine chest with my shows for the last three seasons, and I can cheerfully certify that they were in grammar, said: very effective in every case which called for their use."

A Shipping Error.

The young duchess of Westminster, wife of the richest peer in England, recently gave birth to her third child, a daughter. Thus there is no heir to the immense Grosvenor fortune, Earl Grosvenor, the duchess' second child, having died at the age of four.

Apropos of all this, a rather cruel story is being told in Newport about Lady Ursula Grosvenor, the eightyear-old daughter of the young duch-

When the Fish Exploded. Somebody discovered that fish are fond of gasoline, and this led to the ldea of soaking worms in gasoline in order to make them more alluring when used for bait.

Mark the result. Two of those gasoline-tempted fish exploded in the frying pan, and broke the kitchen window, and blew the cook's face full of mashed potato, and hurled the teakettle into the flour barrel, and painted the kitchen ceiling with stewed tomatoes.

Slightly Confused.

All of us become confused and all of us mix our language sometimes, but the preparation of an old negro preacher's sermon was the greatest confusion of metaphors I ever heard, says a traveler. When the lengthy discourse was nearing its close and he had reached his "Twenty-third and lastly, brethren," he wound up by the following elaborate figure:

Where Size Counts.

Edna thoughtfully considered a cow that was calmly grazing in a meadow across the way. "Mamma, how old is that cow?" she finally inquired. "She is four years old," answered Edna's mother. Edna considered the answer and from time to time appeared to be comparing herself with the cow. 'Well," was her parting comment on the question, "I'm five and that cow is big enough to be fifty."

WESTERN CANADA'S 1910 CROPS Wheat Yield in Many Districts Wilk

Be From 25 to 35 Bushels Per Acre Land sales and homestead entries increasing. No cessation in numbers going from United States. Wonderful opportunities remain for those who intend making Canada their home. New districts being opened up for settlement. Many farmers will net, this year, $10 to $15 per acre from their wheat crop. All the advantages of old settled countries are there. Goodschools, churches, splendid markets, excellent railway facilities. See the grain exhibit at the different State and some of the County fairs. Letters similar to the following are received every day, testifying to satisfactors conditions; other districts are as favorably spoken of:
