COUNTY FAIR BIG SUCCESS

Exhibits and Attractions Very Good. Tuesday's Crowd a Record Breaker.

The County Fair, which was held at West Bend on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, was a great suc-cess. The weather on all three days was very ideal and on Tues lay the main day the attendance was the largest ever recorded by the association fully 8000 people being present. The entries were very large this year, the finest herds of were to be seen. The arts building and agricultiral hall were none to large for the many exhibits. The poultry house was crowded to its capacity, and many fine birds were shown on the outside. The machinery space was well occupied by different machine concerns.

The attractions were excellent and were as advertised. The races on Tuesday and Wednesday were very close. The balloon ascension which capped the climax on Tuesday was the best ever seen on the grounds. The aeronaut rose to a heighth of a few thousand feet, the parachute drop thrilled every eye witness, the areonaut's trapeze work, both in the ascent and

Kewaskum Statesman NO CLOUDS IN SIGHT

COLONEL GEORGE HARVEY SAYS COUNTRY ALL RIGHT.

THE WRITER SEES NO CLOUD

Striking Article in North American Review That Is Attracting Wide Attention.

The attention of business and professional men in all portions of the country has been attracted to a strikingly strong article by Col. George Harvey in the September issue of the North American Review in which the writer takes a view of the greatest hopefulness for the future of America and Americans. The article is entitled "A Plea for the Conservation of Common Sense," and it is meeting with the cordial approval of business men of all shades of political opinion throughout the entire country. In part, Colonel Harvey says:

"Unquestionably a spirit of unrest dominates the land. But, if it be true that fundamentally the condition of the country is sound, must we necessarily succumb to despondency, abandon effort looking to retrieval and cringe like cravens before clouds that only threaten? Rather ought we not to analyze conditions, search for causes, find the root of the distress, which even now exists only in men's minds, and then, after the American fashion, apply such remedies as seems most likely to produce beneficent results?

Capital and Labor Not Antagonistic.

"The Link that connects labor with capital is not broken but we may not deny that it is less cohesive than it should be or than conditions warrant. Financially, the country is stronger than ever before in its history. Recovery from a panic so severe as that of three years ago was never before so prompt and comparatively complete. The masses are practically free from debt. Money is held by the banks in abundance and rates are low.

"Why, then, does capital pause upon the threshold of investment? The answer, we believe, to be plain. It awaits adjustment of the relations of government to business. * * * The sole problem consists of determining how government can maintain an balance between aggregations of interests, on the one hand, and the whole people, on the other, protecting the latter against extortion and saving the former from mad assaults.

"The solution is not easy to find for the simple reason that the situation is without precedent. But is not progress being made along sane and cautious lines? * * *

Conserve Common Sense.

"Is not the present, as we have een, exceptionally secure? What, then, of preparations for the future? Patriotism is the basis of our institutions. And patriotism in the minds of our youth is no longer linked solely with fireworks and deeds of daring. It s taught in our schools. A new course has been added-a course in loyalty. Methodically, our children learn how to vote, how to conduct primaries, conventions and elections, how to discriminate between qualifications of candidates and, finally, how to govern as well as serve. They are taught to despise bribery and all forms of corruption and fraud as treason. Their creed, which they are made to know by heart, is not complex. It is simple, but comprehensive, no less beautiful in diction than lofty in aspiration. These are the pledges which are graven upon their memories:

"As it is cowardly for a soldier to run away from battle, so it is cowardly for any citizen not to contribute his share to the well-being of his country. America is my own dear land; she nourishes me, and I will love her and do my duty to her, whose child, servant and civil soldier I am.

"As the health and happiness of my body depend upon each muscle and nerve and drop of blood doing its work in its place, so the health and happiness of my country depend upon each citizen doing his work in his place.

"These young citizens are our hostages to fortune. Can we not safely assume that the principles animating their lives augur well for the permanency of the Republic? When before have the foundation stones of continuance been laid with such care and promise of durability?

"The future, then, is bright. And the present? But one thing is needful. No present movement is more laudable than that which looks to conservation of natural resources. But let us never forget that the greatest inherent resource of the American people is Common Sense. Let that be conserved and applied without cessation, and soon it will be found that all the ills of which we complain but know not of are only such as attend upon the growing pains of a great and blessed country.

Climax in Prosecution of Trust and Employes in New York Is Sentencing of Ex-Secretary-Punished as "Man Higher Up."

New York.-Judge Martin in the United States circuit court, Monday, sentenced Charles R. Heike, former can Sugar Refining company, who has the sugar trust, to serve eight months in the New York penitentiary on Blackwell's island and to pay a fine of others of conspiring to defraud the both sides, it is said. government by the underweighing of sugar.

Judge Martin granted a stay of exepeal to the United States circuit court of appeals. The court also reduced Heike's bail, which had been $25,000 since his conviction last June, to $15,- Heike's sentence is the climax in the federal government's prosecution of American Sugar Refining company officials and employes, growing out of the extensive underweighing frauds on the Williamsburg pier of the trust, brought to light by Richard Parr's fa mous raid in 1907. Four weighers for the company and Oliver Spitzer, their superintendent, were convicted on the first criminal trial in connection with the frauds, and the weighers are serving their sentence of a year in the Blackwell's island penitentiary.

SHOOTS RAPIDS LIKE A FURY

Captain Klaus Larsen Makes a Daring and Successful Trip in a Motor Boat.

Niagara Falls, N. Y.-Capt. Klaus Larsen Sunday in his motor boat Ferro made a successful trip through the whirlpool rapids of Niagara.

Because the engine was put out of order in the vicinity of the whirlpool he did not go clear to Lewiston in the boat which, after leaving the pool, drifted into Dead Man's eddy near Niagara university, where it was swung to shore

Starting at five o'clock, it took Larsen five minutes to reach the railway bridges and the next minute his boat the Ferro, had ridden the first wave. Then came a frightful tumult of strike after strike. Never before had a motor boat been in such a sea, but it was clear that Larsen was in control as the boat responded nicely to the helm. He shot through the rapids and into the pool like a fury and was soon being rushed across the great river pocket, having failed to make the outlet as he expected. He swung to the Canadian side and into the driftwood. But from this he hurried away under power. He drove his boat away across to the New York side and swung out of the outlet.

It was about this time that the engine went wrong and he drifted into an eddy near Niagara university below the Devil's hole. As the Ferro swung toward shore it seemed as though it would be beaten on the rocks, but people on shore prevented this and helped Larsen land.

FIRE ON RACING BALLOONS

Aviator Baldwin Tells of Reaching Altitude of Three and a Half Miles to Escape Lightning.

New York .- Capt. Thomas Baldwin, the veteran balloonist, was the most astonished man in the country when he arrived in New York Tuesday from Portsmouth, Ohio, where he and Clifford B. Harmon landed in the balloon New York Sunday evening, to learn that they had not yet been reported.

Allan P. Hawley and Augustus Post of the America II., which landed at Warrenton, Pa., Monday afternoon, were fired upon several times while passing through Ohio.

"We encountered hot sun, cold winds, thunder and lightning, and rain in rapid succession," said Captain Baldwin. "It kept us guessing to manage the ballast under these conditions, and when we dropped Sunday evening at five o'clock, near Portsmouth, Ohio, we had used it all up except a few pounds. Our gas was we had gone.

"About noon tered one of the worst thunderstorms have ever seen in the upper air. Only by soaring above it at a height of three and a half miles did we avert the danger of being struck by lightning. At four o'clock Sunday after noon we found urselves with hardly a pound of ballast left, and began to look about for a good place to drop. We found such a spot on a hillside near Portsmouth."

Indianapolis.-The last of the thirteen balloons which started in the American championship and free-forall races at the Indianapolis motor speedway last Saturday afternoon has landed and the greatest balloon meet in history is ended.

As both endurance and distance are taken into consideration in deciding the three winners of the championshn event the three to represent America in the international meet to be held in St. Louis October 17 next, the victors will not be known until the Aero Club of America passes on

CRAZED OVER CRIPPEN LOVE

Woman Testifies at Doctor's Companion Confessed Fears She Might Not Marry Him.

London.-What Ethel Clara Leneve suffered as, half mad with jealousy, she impatiently waited the fulfillment of Dr. Hawley H. Crippen's promise to make her his wife, was revealed Monday at the inquest into the death of Crippen's wife, Belle Elmore, with the murder of whom the doctor and his typist are jointly charged. In her distress Miss Leneve con fided in her landlady, Mrs. Jackson.

Mrs. Jackson said that the accused girl gave up her room March 12, expecting that she was leaving to marry Doctor Crippen.

Until the first week in February Miss Leneve slept regularly at Mrs. Jackson's. After that she stopped at the house only occasionally. She said that she passed the other nights at badly depleted by the constant con- the homes of friends. Once, early in trasts of temperature through which February, Miss Leneve mentioned having been at the Hilldrop-Crescent Crippens doctor search for a bank book which showed an account of $1,000. A dia mond tiara and rings had been found in the house and the doctor raised $850 on them. About the middle of February, the witness said, Miss Leneve appeared in a "terrfying state of agitation." Her eyes seemed starting out of her head. The landlady insisted on an explanation. "Would you be surprised if I told you that it was the doctor and Miss Elmore?" the witness quoted Miss Leneve as saying. "He was the cause of my trouble when you first knew me. She is his wife, and when I see them go away together it makes merealize my position as to what she is and what I am."

"What is the use of you worrying about another woman's husband?" Mrs. Jackson had asked.

Miss Leneve answered: "Miss Elmore has been threatening to so away with another man. Doctor Crippen has been waiting for her to do so, when he would divorce her."

"I may say at this time that from this source we derived in the neigh-borhood of about $10,000 last year, and one-half of this amount is used in the restocking of our lakes and rivers by the introduction of fry and fingerlings, and in consequence every fisherman procuring his license is pay ing his mite for the perpetuation of our excellent fishing grounds, so popular with Chicago and many other sportsmen. I feel safe in saying that this sum will nearly be doubled this coming season, and you can readily see that the expenditure of that amount of money will have a decided effect upon our fishing grounds. "It is not my desire to make arrests where such can possibly be avoided, and I wish to give sportsson, and undoubtedly many more will follow unless this matter is brought to the attention of the Chicago and other anglers."

Washington.-Lucian Ried, of La Crosse, Wis., must be good for the next five years if he wants to inherit $10,000 left him by his grandfather, Horace A. Taylor, of Washington former assistant secretary of the treasury.

The will has been offered for probate and specifies that the money shall not go to young Ried until he is 25 years old. Ried is now 20.

The young man's college education will be paid for out of the Taylo estate, but whether he gets $10,000 at the completion of his four year course is dependent upon his charac ter and habits.

His grandmother, Mrs. Harrie Dunnell Taylor, widow of the testator, and S. J. Bradford of Hudson, , are named as executors and are appointed under the terms of the will to judge whether the young man is eligible to the legacy.

The will disposed of an estate estimated at $100,000. The will was executed Jan. 8, 1909, and leaves his family residence in this city, valued at $30,000, to the widow. The remainblock in Hudson, Wis., valued at $25,-000, and vacant lots in Port Arthur, Tex., is left to the widow and Mrs. Grace Taylor More, his daughter, to share equally.

CANNOT AGREE ON A BILL

Wisconsin Commission Not to Be Set Back by Failure of Illinoisans to Agree.

Madison.-There was considerable disappointment on the part of the members of the Wisconsin commission for industrial insurance when it was learned that the Illinois commission has reported that it is unable agree on a system of insurance to be put in the form of a bill.

The failure of the Illinois commission will not affect the bill to be drawn in Wisconsin, but it had been hoped that Illinois and Minnesota would both pass laws similar to the one proposed by the Wisconsin commission this winter in order that the manufacturers who must accept a certain amount of the burden of the dance 118,953 insurance may not be driven from this state to neighboring ones.

Paul Walker, secretary of the commission, says it is believed that a law similar to the Wisconsin bill will be passed in Minnesota at the coming session. New York already has a comprehensive system. Missouri and Michigan are to have a commission appointed and at work within a year. Massachusetts, Ohio and New Jersey now have commissions at work.

It is likely that the scale of indemnities, based on the German system and adopted by the Wisconsin commission, will be made the basis in all the states where industrial insurance laws are passed.

The commissioners expect to see at least six great manufacturing states with industrial accident insurance systems in operation within the coming year, according to Mr. Walker.

DIE IN RAIL WRECK

HEAD-ON COLLISION ON INTER. URBAN LINE NEAR FORT WAYNE, IND.

HORRIBLE CATASTROPHE

Coolness of Conductor Saves Lives of Many Other Passengers on Third Car Which Was Bearing Upon Scene of Wreck at High Speed.

Fort Wayne.-The most disastrous wreck in the history of interurban electric railroading in the middle west occurred near Kingsland, Ind., and claimed a toll of forty-two dead and a score injured, at least six of whom will probably die.

Most of the victims were pleasure seekers from Bluffton and Warren, Ind., en route to the Fort Wayne fair. Twenty-five of them were dead before the dust and splinters of the wrecked cars had settled. Others died in the wreck before they could be released and three expired during the late afternoon on operating tables in St. Joseph's hospital in Fort Wayne.

That the list of dead is not swelled was due to the presence of mind of Conductor Spiller of Fort Wayne, whose first thought after the fearful impact of the two cars was of the near approach of a limited interurban train bound for this city with a heavy load of passengers. Without stopping to see the result of the wreck into which his own car had plunged, he jumped to the ground and ran back a quarter of a mile barely in time to flag the Indianapolis special, which was behind time and running at a high rate of speed. The disaster was the result of a head-on collision on the Wabash Valley Traction company's line. A spe-cial car of the Indiana Traction company, empty and south bound, met a north bound limited of the Wabash Valley line and loaded to the steps on a curve outside of the village of Kingsland.

Beyond blaming the wreck on the human equation, the officials of the Wabash Valley line decline to discuss it. They declare that the crew of the empty southbound special past a properly set danger signal and that it was impossible to halt the cars after the motormen caught sight of each other.

One passenger declares that the motorman of the northbound car lost his head when he saw the special approaching and increased his speed from 15 to 25 miles an hour.

SAYS LAW IS CONFISCATORY

Ruling if Sustained Will Give Commerce Commission Control of Rate Making in State.

St. Paul. Special.-Master in Chancery in the United States circuit court Charles E. Otis, decided that freight rates, made by the state railroad and warehouse commission and freight rates and 2-cent passenger fares, made by the legislature, are confiscatory and in violation of the powers of the interstate commerce commission.

Unless overruled by higher courts ing power of Minnesota through railroad commission, or legislature, and has the general effect of making federal rate supervision supreme over state supervision.

The rates are declared in violation of the commerce clause of the federal constitution and of the fourteenth amendment, which prohibits confiscation of property.

Interstate Commission Suspends Rates Washington.-Rates on grain and grain products announced by all the middle west railroads to go into effect were suspended by the interstate commerce commission, pending an investigation. It is said that these rates show a heavier charge for a through rate than the combination of local rates, which is in conflict with the provisions of the railroad law passed last summer. In order to get at the grain rates it was necessary for the commission to suspend the entire schedule. The former through rates on grain will apply until Jan. 5 next, to which date the suspension holds.

Saucy Soldier Shut Her Up. Col. Robert C. Carter at a Nashville banquet was talking about campaign comrades. "Then there was Dash of Company

A," he said. "Dash had the reputation of being the nastiest tongued man in the regiment. "It was Private Dash, you know, who, out foraging one evening on a rich estate, came accidentally upon the owner's wife, a grande dame in evening dress. "Dash asked her for food. She refused him. He asked again. But, still refusing, she walked away. "'No,' she said, 'I'll give you nothing, trespassing like this; I'll give you nothing. My mind is made up "'Made up, is it?' said Dash. 'Like something wonderful. "My husband had never fancied cereal foods of any kind, but he became very fond of Grape-Nuts and has been much improved in health since using it. "We are now a healthy family, and naturally believe in Grape-Nuts. "A friend has two children who were formerly afflicted with rickets. I was satisfied that the disease was caused by lack of proper nourishment. They showed it. So I urged her to use and a score injured, several probably Grape-Nuts as an experiment and the result was almost magical. "They continued the food and today both children are well and strong as any children in this city, and, of course, my friend is a firm believer in Brape-Nuts for she has the evidence before her eyes every day."

Tonic or Stimulant?

There is an immense difference between a tonic and a stimulant. Up one day, way back the next; that's a stimulant. Steady progress day by day toward perfect health; that's a tonic. SYNOPSIS.

Lawrence Blakeley, lawyer, goes to Pittsburg with the forged notes in the Bronson case to take the deposition of the chief witness for the prosecution, John Glimore, a militonaire. In the latter's house the lawyer is attracted by the picture of a girl whom Glimore explains is his granddaughter, Alison West. He says her father is a rascal and a friend of the forger. Standing in line to buy a Pullman ticket Blakeley is requested by a lady to buy her one. He gives her lewer cleven and retains lower ten. He finds a man in a drunken stupor in lower ten and retires in lower nine. He awakens in lower seven and Bads his bag and clothing missing. The man in lower ten is found murdered. It is learned that the dead man is Simon Harrington of Pittsburg. The man who disappeared with Blakeley's clothes is suspected of the murder.

"Then you haven't heard the rest of the tragedy?" I asked, holding out the case. "It's frightfully bad luck for me, but it makes a good story. You

At that moment the conductor and porter ceased their colloquy. The conductor came directly toward me, tugging as he came at his bristling gray mustache.

"I would like to talk to you in the car," he said to me, with a curious glance at the young lady.

"Can't it wait?" I objected. "We are on our way to a cup of coffee and a slice of bacon. Be merciful as you are powerful."

"I'm afraid the breakfast will have to wait," he replied. "I won't keep you long." There was a note of authority in his voice which I resented; but, after all, the circumstances were unusual.

"We'll have to defer that cup of coffee for a while," I said to the girl; "but don't despair; there's breakfast somewhere.'

Nobody spoke, For one of the pillows had been turned over, and the under side of the white case was streaked with brownish stains. I think it was a perceptible time before I realized that the stains were blood, and that the faces around were filled with suspicion and dis-

"Why, it-that looks like blood," I said vacuously. There was an incessant pounding in my ears, and the conductor's voice came from far off.

"It is blood," he asserted grimly. I looked around with a dizzy attempt at nonchalance. "Even if it is," I remonstrated, "surely you don't suppose for a moment that I know anything about it!"

The amateur detective elbowed his way in. He had a scrap of transparent paper in his hand, and a pencil.

"I would like permission to trace the stains," he began eagerly. "Also" -to me-"if you will kindly jab your finger with a pin-needle-anything-" "If you don't keep out of this," the conductor said savagely, "I will do some jabbing myself. As for you, sir-" he turned to me. I was absolutely innocent, but I knew that I presented a typical picture of guilt; I was covered with cold sweat, and the pounding in my ears kept up dizzily. "As for you, sir-"

The irrepressible amateur detective made a quick pounce at the pillow and pushed back the cover. Before our incredulous eyes he drew out a narrow steel dirk which had been buried to the small cross that served as a head. There was a chorus of voices around, a quick surging forward of the crowd. So that was what had scratched my hand! I buried the wound in my coat pocket.

"Well," I said, trying to speak naturally, "doesn't that prove what I have been telling you? The man who committed the murder belonged to this berth, and made an exchange in some way after the crime. How do you know he didn't change the tags so I would come back to this berth?" This was an inspiration; I was pleased with it. "That's what he did, he changed the tags," I reiterated.

There was a murmur of assent around. The doctor, who was standing beside me, put his hand on my arm. "If this gentleman committed this crime, and I for one feel sure he did not, then who is the fellow who got away? And why did he go?"

We have only one man's word for that," the conductor snarled. "I've traveled some in these cars myself, and

The conductor was inclined to hedge. "You will have to grant that I am in a peculiar position," he said. "I have only your word as to the exchange of berths, and you understand I am merely doing my duty. Are there any clews in the pockets?"

For the second time I emptied them of their contents, which he noted. "Is that all?" he finished. "There was nothing else?"

"Nothing." "That's not all, sir," broke in the porter, stepping forward. "There was a small black satchel."

"That's so," I exclaimed. "I forgot As we entered the car, she stood the bag. I don't even know where it

The conductor opened it, and again there was a curious surging forward of the crowd. To my intense disappointment the money was still there. I stood blankly miserable while it was counted out-five $100 bills, six twenties and some fives and ones that brought the total to $650.

The little man with the note-book insisted on taking the numbers of the notes, to the conductor's annoyance. It was immaterial to me: Small things lenging of the jury, the endless crossthat morning I was as near as a man ever comes to hysteria.

The amateur detective was busy again with the sealskin bag, investigating the make of the safety razor and the manufacturer's name on the bronze-green tie. Now, however, he paused and frowned, as though some pet theory had been upset.

Then from a corner of the bag he drew out and held up for our inspection some three inches of fine gold chain, one end of which was blackened and stained with blood!

The conductor held out his hand for it, but the little man was not ready to give it up. He turned to me. "You say no watch was left you?

Was there a piece of chain like that?" "No chain at all," I said sulkily. "No jewelry of any kind, except plain gold buttons in the shirt I am wearing.' "Where are your glasses?"

threw at me suddenly; instinctively my hand went to my eyes. My glasses a heavy gum band was wrapped, and not even noticed their absence. The which bore in gilt letters the name little man smiled cynically and held "I must ask you to examine this," he insisted. "Isn't it a part of the fine gold chain you wear over your ear?" I didn't want to touch the thing: The stain at the end made me shudder. But with a baker's dozen of suspicious eyes-well, we'll say 14-there were no one-eyed men-I took the his clothes and the barred silk hand- fragment in the tips of my fingers and looked at it helplessly.

"Very fine chains are much alike," I managed to say. "For all I know,

"I Don't Want It," I Said.

"He admits that he had the bag," somebody said behind me. "How did you guess that he wore glasses, anyhow?" to the amateur sleuth.

That gentleman cleared his throat. 'There were two reasons," he said, "for suspecting it. When you see a man with the lines of his face drooping, a healthy individual with a pensive eye suspect astigmatism. Besides, this gentleman has a pronounced line across the bridge of his nose and a mark on his ear from the chain.'

After this remarkable exhibition of the theoretical as combined with the practical, he sank into a seat near by, and still holding the chain, sat with closed eyes and pursed lips. It was evident to all the car that the solution of the mystery was a question of moments. Once he bent forward eagerly and putting the chain on the windowsill, proceeded to go over it with a pocket magnifying glass, only to shake his head in disappointment. All the people around shook their heads, too, although they had not the slightest idea what it was about.

The pounding in my ears began had lost their power to irritate. I was again. The group around me seemed seeing myself in the prisoner's box, to be suddenly motionless in the very going through all the nerve-racking act of moving, as if a hypnotist had routine of a trial for murder—the chalcalled "Rigid!" CHAPTER VIII.

The Second Section.

Have you ever been picked up out of your three-meals-a-day life, whirled around in a tornado of events, and landed in a situation so grotesque and yet so horrible that you laugh even while you are groaning, and straining at its hopelessness? McKnight says that is hysteria, and that no man worthy of the name ever admits to it.

Also, as McKnight says, it sounds like a tank drama. Just as the revolving saw is about to cut the hero into stove lengths, the second villain blows up the sawmill. The hero goes up through the roof and alights on the bank of a stream at the feet of his lady love, who is making daisy chains.

Nevertheless, when I was safely home again, with Mrs. Klopton brewing strange drinks that came in paper packets from the pharmacy, and that smelled to heaven, I remember staggering to the door and closing it, and then going back to bed and howling out the absurdity and the madness of all the lovalty that answers men for honor that I would have to put her out of my mind.

And yet, all the night that followed, filled as it was with the shricking demons of pain, I saw her as I had seen her last, in the queer hat with green ribbons. I told the doctor this, guardedly, the next morning, and he said it was the morphia, and that I was lucky not to have seen a row of devils with green tails. I don't know anything about the wreck of September 9 last. You who swallowed the details with your coffee and digested the horrors with your chop, probably know a great deal more than I do. I remember very distinctly that the jumping and throbbing in my arm brought me back to a world that at first was nothing but sky, a heap of clouds that I thought hazily were the meringue on a blue charlotte russe. As the sense of hearing was slowly added to vision, I heard a woman near me sobbing that she had lost her hat pin, and she couldn't keep her hat on. I think I dropped back into unconsciousness again, for the next thing I remember was of my blue patch of sky clouded with smoke, of a strange, roaring and crackling, of a rain of flery sparks in my face and of somebody beating at me with feeble hands. I opened my eyes and closed them again: The girl in blue was bending over me. With that imperviousness to big things and keenness to small that is the first effect of shock, I tried to be facetious, when a spark stung my cheek.

"You will have to rouse yourself!" the girl was repeating desperately. "You've been in fire twice already." A piece of striped ticking floated slowly over my head. As the wind caught it its charring edges leaped into flame. "Looks like a kite, doesn't it?" I remarked cheerfully. And then, as my arm gave an excruciating throb-'Jove, how my arm hurts!"

The girl bent over and spoke slowly, distinctly, as one might speak to a deaf person or a child.

"Listen, Mr. Blakeley," she said earnestly. "You must rouse yourself. There has been a terrible accident. The second section ran into us. The wreck is burning now, and if we don't move, we will catch fire. Do you

RECIPES FOR CAKE

DATMEAL COOKIES MADE TEN DER BY USE OF KNIFE.

Ingredients Used in Making Three-Layer Hot-Water Cake, Orange Preparations-Also Good Directions for Kisses.

Oatmeal Cookies Help.-Almost every one is fond of oatmeal cookies, but there is one thing disliked by many, that is the uncooked taste that the oatmeal has if not ground. I have learned by experience that by using the coarsest knife on your food chopper and grinding the oatmeal through it improves the cookies very much. This does not pulverize the oatmeal, but makes the grains finer and distributes the flavor more evenly, and they never have that uncooked taste. Below is my favorite recipe: One cup shortening, half lard and half butter; one large cupful C sugar creamed with butter, two eggs well beaten, nine tablespoonfuls sour milk, one scant teaspoonful soda dissolved in milk, one teaspoonful cinnamon, half teaspoonful nutmeg, pinch of salt; onehalf cupful chopped nut meats; one cupful chopped raisins, one small teaspoonful baking powder sifted with two cups flour. Add one cup ground oatmeal last. I bake these in muffin tins, but can be baked as drop cookies if preferred.

Hot Water Cake.-Four eggs, separate them, beat yolks light, gradually stirring in two cupfuls of granulated sugar. Beat well together, add one cupful of boiling water, two cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder. Beat whites to a froth and flavor. This makes a good, large, three-layer cake. Bake slowly.

Orange Cake.-One cup sugar, three tablespoonfuls butter, two eggs, half cup orange juice, grated rind of one orange, one and one-half cups flour, one and one-half teaspoonfuls baking powder. Cream butter, add sugar, beat; add eggs unbeatetn; beat thoroughly; add orange juice, then the flour sifted with the baking powder. Bake in gem pans and roll in powdered sugar while warm.

Kisses.—The secret of good kisses lies in the beating. Beat the whites of two eggs to a stiff froth, then add two cupfuls of granulated sugar and one teaspoonful of vinegar. Beat well for twenty minutes. Turn your baking pan upside down and cover with oiled paper. Drop the mixture in teaspoonfuls on the pan. In baking they swell quite a bit. Do not turn the light on the oven until they are in. Then bake slowly 25 minutes. This quantity makes two dozen.

Anything from a watermelon down to strawberries unhulled with a little paper of powdered sugar to assist in their service goes well at a picnic. A few lemons should always be carried-a squeeze of lemon juice added to each cup of drinking water making it not only more refreshing but serving as a germicide in case there is anything out of the way with the water supply. In packing bananas, carry separately from the rest of the luncheon, as their heavy odor permeates everything laid near them.

For Broiled or Fried Fish.

Blend one tablespoonful each of flour and butter, then add slowly one cupful of boiling water and cook smooth. Beat an egg light and pour the hot mixture over it very slowly, stirring the while. Cook one minute, take from the fire and beat in a tablespoonful of minced parsley, a teaspoonful of chopped capers and a pickled onion chopped fine. Season with salt and a quarter teaspoonful of French mustard, pour over the fish and garnish with sliced lemon. Serve Light Buns.

Set sponge for bread at noon. Before going to bed take out about one quart of the sponge, add one egg, onehalf cupful of sugar, a lump of shortening the size of an egg, and knead. In the morning mold into biscuit, let rise until light, and bake. When done touch over lightly with butter. This makes the crust tender. These buns are delicious and enjoyed by every

It seems strange that more women who must practice economy in dressing do not follow a distinct color scheme. "THE MYSTERIOUS PEOPLE"

Arnold Bennett Thus Names "Ab sorbed, Ruthless, Sinister" English Miners.

According to Whitaker there are something under a million of miners actually at work, which means probably that the whole race numbers something over two millions. And, speaking broadly, no one knows anything about them. The householder is incerested only in the other insignificant part of the price of coal. And this is odd, for the majority of householders are certainly not monsters of selfish and miserly indifference to the human lactor in economics.

Even artists have remained unstirred by the provocative mystery of his subterranean race, which perspires with a pick, not only beneath our cellars, but far beneath the caves of the sea itself. A working miner, Joseph Skipsey, had to write the one verse about this race which has had rigor enough to struggle into the anthologies. The only novel handling in the grand manner of this tremendous and bizarre theme is Emile Zola's "Germinal." nd, though it is a fine nd, though it is a fine novel, though it is honest and really impressive, there are shallows in the mighty stream of its narrative, and its climax is marred by a false sentinentality, which is none the less sentimentality for being sensual.

Do you ever see the lives or the swift deaths of the mysterious people reated descriptively?

You may be walking in the appalling outskirts, miles from town halls and free libraries, but miles also from flowers and you may see a whole procession of these silent men, encrusted with carbon and perspiration, perfect pilgrimage of them, winding ts way over a down where the sparse grass is sooty and the trees withered. And then you feel that you yourself are the exootic stranger in those reglons. But the procession absolutely Ignores you. You might not exist. It goes on, absorbed, ruthless, and sinster. Your feeling is that if you got in its path it would tramp right over you. And it passes out of sight. Of the mining villages little is known. And herein is probably a reason why the mysterious people remain so mysterious. They live physically separated. A large proportion of them never mingle with the general mass. They are not sufficiently seen of surlace to men to maintain curiosity-concerning them. Only at elections do they seem to impinge in powerpul silence on the destinies of the nation.

I have visited some of these villages. I have walked over the moors to them with local preachers, and heard them challenge God. I have talked to doctors and magistrates about them, and acquired the certainty, vague and yet vivid, that in religlon, love, work, and debauch they are equally violent and splendid. It needs no insight to perceive that they live nearer even than sailors to that ceniral tract of emotion where life and leath meet. But I have never sympathetically got near them, and I don't think I ever shall.-Arnold Bennett

WANTS NO MODERNIZED BIBLE

King James Version the Best of All, Magazine.

We are just old-fashioned enough to take no stock in the modernized Bible which is shortly to appear, "couched in every-day language, with obsolete words and phrases eliminated." The King James Bible has done more to preserve the good old Saxon words and style, which are the best English literature has produced, than anything else. Instead of a movement to get us further away from that vigorous, simple, classic style, and in the interest of establishing the finest literary ideals possible to a people destined to use the curious hybrid which the English language has become, it would be more sensible to frown upon all efforts to improve on the King James Bible. It is the greatest treasure house, inspiration and teacher of good English

Through the aggressive methods of large manufacturers, ladies are now enabled to buy correct stylish hats of their home dealer and especially so if such dealers sell hats from the foremost establishment of the West, the firm of Blumenfeld, Locher & Brown Co., known to the trade as the Progressive Millinery House of Milwaukee. The peculiar advantage of manufacturing in Milwaukee enables this firm to offer their product at lower prices than can ordinarily be obtained by dealers, and the general customer thereby gets the benefit. Attention Sick Women

If you had positive proof that a certain remedy for female ills had made many remarkable cures, would you not feel like trying it?

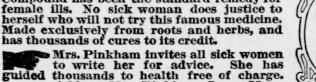

If during the last thirty years we have not succeeded in convincing every fair-minded woman that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured thousands and thousands of women of the ills peculiar to their sex, then we long for an opportunity to do so by direct correspondence. Meanwhile read the following letters which we guarantee to be genuine and truthful.

Hudson, Ohio.-"I suffered for a long time from a weakness, Hudson, Ohio.—"I suffered for a long time from a weakness, inflammation, dreadful pains each month and suppression. I had been doctoring and receiving only temporary relief, when a friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so, and wrote to you for advice. I have faithfully followed your directions and row, after taking only five bottles of the Vegetable Compound, I have every reason to believe I am a well woman. I give you full permission to use my testimonial."—Mrs. Lena Carmocino, Hudson, Ohio. R. F. D. Ne. 7.

St. Regis Falls, N. Y.—"Two years ago I was so bad that I had to take to my bed every month, and it would last from two to three weeks. I wrote to you for advice and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in dry form. I am happy to say that I am cured, thanks to your medicine and good advice. You may use my letter for the good of others."—Mrs. J. H. Breyere, St. Regis Falls, N. Y.

There is absolutely no doubt about the ability of this grand old remedy, made from the roots and herbs of our fields, to cure female diseases. We possess volumes of proof of this fact, enough to convince the most skeptical.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

"A MATINEE IDOL" AT THE ALHAMBRA

For the Week Commencing October 2. With De Wolf Hopper as Star.

Theatre-goers contemplating a visit to Milwaukee may well consider the exceptionally attractive offerings announced by the management of the Alhambra theatre in that city for the immediate future, as they are among the most important engagements of the season in Wisconsin's metropolis.

De Wolf Hopper, one of the funniest men on the musical comedy stage, takes possession of the Alhambra theatre on Sunday. October 2, when the sensational cong comedy success "A Matines Idol," with the big New York company and celebrated dandy chorus will be brought to this state for the first time, for an engagement of one week.

"A Matinee Idol" with Mr. Hopper as its star, comes to Milwaukce direct from a vastly successful run of many months at Daly's theatre in New York, and for genuice, wholesome fun and catchy lilting melodies it is one of the season's best offerings. The book and lyrics are by Armand and Barnard, and the music by Silvio Hein. "A Matinee Idol" is the best vehicle Mr. Hopper has had for the display of his odd humor.

Daniel V. Arthur presents the attraction.

Civil Service Examinations.

Much interest is manifected in the competitive examinations now bring held by the State CivilService Commission to select competent game wardens for permanent and occasional service in northern Wisconsin. These positions are under the civil service law, removed from politics and at the last session of the legislature the principle of selection of game wardens according to merit and fitness was enforced by special legislation.

The funds in the department of the state game wardens during the past two years have greatly increased and it is the purpose of that department this year to put on a special force in the woods to protect the game and enforce the law. All these special appointments must be made from the state list selected by examination. The Civil Service Commission gives a conbined written and oral examination. Candidates are required to demonstrate an actual working knowledge of the common valiaties of fish and game throughout the state.

The examinations for the southern part of the state will be held October 8th.

The Civil Service Commission is making a special effort to attract competent men to this examination.
