depressing. Throughout the state in many counties the party's nom-inees for legislative and county offices failed to receive 20 per cent of the vote cast in the last general election in the districts, and will be unable to get their names on the official ballots, except as independent candidates.

Democratic state and congress ional candidates will not be aff-ected, as they received the required vote. It is difficult to estimate the number of Democratic legislative nominations affected by the decision as only those candidates whose districts comprise more than one county are reported to the sec-retary of state. Those whose districts lie wholly within one county are reported to the county clerks and hence the data is not obtain-

Bancroft's Name on Ticket.

The state supreme court in a decision Saturday from which Justices Winslow. Siebecker and Kerwin dissented, held that votes for a deceased person by persons who knew the fact of his decease must be regarded as so much blank

The court grants the injunction asked for by Speaker Levi H. Bancroft, as prayed for in his complaint, and orders the secretary of state to place the name of Mr. Bancroft, who received searly 60,000 vetes in the primary on the officvotes in the primary, on the offic-al ballot for attorney general.

In the dissenting opinion it is held that section 34 of the stat-utes of 1898 is made applicable to primary elections by the primary election law of 1903; and therefore the provision for filling vacancies in general elections in cases of death after the ballots are prin-ted applies to the primary; that the ballots for Tucker are legal and that the relator, Bancroft, is not entitled to have his name placed on the official ballot.

CAN PLATFORM VOWS BE TRUSTED?

A Fair Test for Party Nomination, Rules Not Unless They are Backed by a Long Record of Service for the People. Let no Man be Deceived!

The Congress that is to be chosen at the coming election will de-termine whether the people are to conduct this government for their own benefit or whether this Country is to continue to be ruled by the Trusts, Great Corporations and fair test for party nominations.
The decision was a great dissappointment to Democrats and its effect on Democratic leaders was depressing. Throughout the state the arbitrary power exercised Speaker Cannon over matters of legislation. That, however, was only the beginning of the contest. The same forces which through the use of all sorts of methods succeeded in preventing the retirement of Cannon, are now by the use of ev-ery possible scheme that can be devised engaged in a desperate struggle to elect a sufficient number of Congressmen whom they can control so that these corporate interest may continue their mastery over Congress. These great corporations are now scheming to dictate who the next Speaker of Con-gress shall be and also to control all matters of legislation. They want Cannon elected; but if they cannot have him, they want someone of the Cannon kind. And they are working to elect men who will vote with them on the Speakershire and who can be depended upon to support them on every question in which they may have an interest.

In order for the people to protect their own interest, men must be sent to Congress who will not only help defeat Cannon but whose record in the past is such that they can be depended upon to oppose every measure that may be calculated to support the selfish purposes of the great corporate interest. The people must be vigilant and on their guard otherwise they are liable to be deceived in choosing a man for Congressman because the Special Interests are, in most cases, not making their fight in the open, but they are resorting to all kinds of trickery and deceit and every manner of means that can be devised to control the next Congress. Some of the candidates approved by those interests are making still hunt under cover without giving any statement as to their position on public questions. In other districts candidates who are backed by these Special Interests are allowed to give out platforms for campaign purposes that are progressive in tone, but because of the past records of these candidates the Special Interests know that the man is safe and can tion for Washington County will be held in the Court House in the city of West Bend, on Saturday, Nov. 12. WISCONSIN. EDUCATION AND VOCATION.

The Boston school board has established a "vocation bureau," the purpose of which is to ascertain the condition, the needs, the natural tastes. the hopes and plans, of the boys and girls in the grades, in an effort to assist them toward a life work with the least waste of time and effort, says St. Paul Pioneer Press. Records are to be kept of pupils for two or three years before they leave school, showing to what extent their vocational desires change and shift, and to what effect they are likely to make a wise choice of their life work. This is but a first step in a movement that is growing all over the country for the purpose of bringing education into direct alliance with livelihood. If it were absolutely known just what future employment a pupil was best suited for and most cared for, it would be possible to so direct his education as to save waste, both to the pupil and to the school. In England the educational boards are co-operating with labor exchanges and boards of trade in an effort to keep track of pupils after they leave school, and to save them from falling into lines of employment in which the money expended for their education by the state will not be justified.

The woodpecker has been substituted for the bald-headed eagle as the ornithological emblem on the official seal of the state of Washington. Washington, having become a fruit growing state, is full of enthusiasm for the bird that works to keep the forests and orchards clear of insects But what of dignity? Figures from official sources show that during the year ended June 30, 1910, there was an increase of more than one-third in the production of denatured alcohol in the United States. The aggregate for the fiscal year 1910 was 6,078,988 gallons, about equally divided between specially denatured and completely denatured. This was 2,522,569 gallons over the output of the fiscal year 1909.

New England hears that motordriven battleships will make her Dreadnaughts worthless in comparison. And after all the other powers had followed her example in building leviathans. Apparently the safest course in warship construction is to postpone it until the designers are through experimenting. If they never get through, you, at least, will not lose anything by having your battleships declared obsolete before they are launched.

WELLMAN AND COMPANIONS PICKED UP OFF NORTH CARO-LINA COAST.

SHIP TRENT RESCUES THEM

After Hours of Maneuvering Amer ica's Crew Are Hauled Aboard Steamer-Balloon Is Lost-Blown Far Out of Its Course.

New York.—The first attempt to cross the Atlantic in a dirigible balloon has proved a failure. The America, with Walter Wellman and his party of five on board, was picked up Tuesday morning almost 375 miles due east of Cape Hatteras, by the incoming Bermuda liner Trent.

News of the rescue came in two wireless messages from Captain Down of the Trent, one reporting to the company agents here and another informing the New York Times of the result of the expedition in which it had taken a leading part.

Captain Down reported that at five o'clock Tuesday morning he first sighted the airship. Signals of distress and calls for help were given. For three hours the Trent maneuvered in the heavy sea to get alongside of Wellman and his wrecked companions. The entire party finally was taken aboard, even to the cat, which was taken along as a mascot. The America was abandoned where the rescue occurred, in latitude 35.43, longitude 68.18.

In abandoning their craft the crew of the airship America lowered themselves into the lifeboat which swung in discovering a new method of combeneath it. Then they cast the lifeboat off and were afloat on the sea. The airship, relieved of the weight of the lifeboat, shot high into the air over the world. and was blown away rapidly. The transfer of the Wellman party from RAIL COLLISION KILLS FIVE the lifeboat to the Trent was made with great difficulty.

At 4:30 a. m. the Trent sighted the airship America and wireless communication was established immediately. Irwin, the operator on the airship, informed Ginsburg, operator on the Trent, that the America's crew wished to abandon the balloon. Wireless communication was kept up from this time on between the airship and the steamer.

After a council held on the airship Friday. it was decided that the best means of rescue was to launch the lifeboat But this was such a hazardous under taking that much time elapsed before the maneuvering was executed, as the tail of the airship, consisting of tanks of gasoline and wooden blocks, threat ened to capsize the boat as it was dropped from the balloon into the water.

This danger was overcome at last and the task was carried out at 7:30 a. m. In the operation the trailer to the hospital here. struck Wireless Operator Jack Irwin and Louis Loud, the engineer, and knocked a small hole in the side of the lifeboat.

All members of the crew are well after a thrilling experience.

Wellman said that the a been blown far out of its course so that it was inadvisable to proceed.

The western half of the island suffered more severely than the

In addition to the great destruction to sugar and tobacco plantations many thousands of peasants in the three western provinces have been rendered homeless and destitute, losing their homes and the food crops, especially plantains and corn. It now seems probable that the republic may be compelled to request international aid for the relief of these sufferers whose condition is most deplorable.

While all communication with the interior has been cut off there is reason to hope that Oriente, Camaguey and Santa Clara have escaped the greatest fury of the storm.

In the city of Havana the losses probably will exceed $1,000,000, mainly due to the destruction of the customs house sheds, which were filled scores of lighters, many of them containing valuable cargoes which had gross frauds had been perpetrated. been unloaded from steamers, and the submerging of about one square mile of the residential section of the city, facing the sea.

GIVES $3,820,000 TO INSTITUTE OF MEDICAL RESEARCH.

Brings Oil King's Donation to Institution Bearing His Name Up to $8,240,000.

New York.-John D. Rockefeller gave an additional $3,820,000 to the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, thereby making his total gifts to this institution $8,240,000 and also increasing his known contributions to philanthropy, education and science to $125,004,662.

This total includes the estimated value of the buildings and land of the institute. The income bearing endowment, with the latest gift added, is $6,240,000.

Announcement of Mr. Rockefeller's latest gift to the institution which bears his name was made at the opening of the institute's new hospital at the foot of East Sixty-sixth street. The opening of the new hospital was also chosen as the day for the coming into being of the new board of trustees of the institute.

They will take over the Rockefeller gift of millions from the Rockefeller general education board, which has administered the gift in the past. The new board of trustees is made up of John D. Rockefeller, Jr.; Frederick T. Gates, William H. Welch, Starr J. Murphy and Dr. Simon Flexner, medical head of the institute.

The initial gift of the institute was made by Mr. Rockefeller in 1901 when he donated a foundation fund of $200, 000. In 1902 the donor added $1,000. 000 to cover the erection of a aboratory and to provide running expenses for a few years. Philadelphia.-Through the masterly pitching of "Chief" Bender the Philadelphia American baseball team defeated the Chicago Nationals by a score of 4 to 1 in the initial game of the world's championship series. The which they belonged. LONDON PRIVATE BANK FAILS game was witnessed by 26,981 per sons. The game was a wonder in its way, and Chief Bender, who pitched for the Athletics, had the Chicagoans at his mercy up to the ninth inning, when he let down a bit and the Cubs got their single tally. It was not earned at that, as Tinker, who scored the run, was only enabled to make a single because Tho. as had previously muffed a foul from his bat. Only thirty men faced the Athand but three hits were made off his delivery, two of them coming in the ninth. The Athletics secured seven hits, six of which were secured off Overall, who was replaced by McIntire in the fourth inning.

McIntire proved to be effective at once. The Athletics were retired in one, two, three order for the first time during the game.

In the first half of the fourth inning the Cubs managed to get a man to first base. This was Schulte, who got a pass from Chief Bender. He got no further, however, as he was caught stealing for the third out.

AMERICAN DOCTOR'S HEARING AS WIFE SLAYER BEGUN.

Pleads Not Guilty-Ethel Leneve No in Court-Will Be Arraigned Later.

London.-A jury, which was a typical body of tradesmen and clerks, was easily secured shortly after the trial of Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, the Seventh Inning and Outclass charged with the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore, the American actress, was begun before a large crowd of spectators. Crippen after pleading not guilty gave his undivided attention to the opening address for the crown by Richard D. Muir, K. C.

The trial, which is being held in the New Bailey, promises to be one of the most historic in the annals of that

GETTING EVEN WITH MAMMA

In This Case Child's Punishment Certainty Failed to Have Salutary Effect.

A little girl had been so very naughty that her mother found it necessary to shut her up in a dark closet-in that family, the direst punishment for the worst offense. For 15 minutes the door had been locked without a sound coming from behind it. Not a whimper, not a snif-

At last the stern out anxious parent unlocked the closet door and peered! into the darkness. She could see nothing.

"What are you doing in there?" she cried.

And then a little voice piped from the blackness:

"I thpit on your new dress and I thpit on your new hat, and I'm waiting for more thpit to come to thpit on your new parasol!"

History of Red Cross Seal.

"Charity stamps," first used in Boston in 1862 for the soldiers' relief funds during the Civil war, were the original forerunners of the Red Cross-Christmas seal, which will be used this year to bring happiness and cheer to millions. The Delaware Anti-Tuberculosis society in 1907 for the first time in America made use of a stamp for the purpose of getting revenue tofight consumption. In a hastily organized campaign of only three weeks they realized $3,000. The next year. 1908, the American Red Cross conducted the first national tuberculosis stamp campaign. From this sale $135,-000 was realized for the anti-tuberculosis movement. In 1909, under many adverse conditions, $250,000 was realized from these stamps. This year the slogan of the tuberculosis fighters and the Red Cross is "A Million for Turberculosis From Red Cross Seals in 1910."

ANNUAL MEETING OF DIRECT. ORS INVADED BY SHERIFFS.

A $10,000,000 DAMAGE SUIT

Attorney Alleges Gross Mismanagement and Charges Giving of Rebates-Demand for Probe Voteo Down by Large Majority.

Chicago.-With the annual meetng of the stockholders of the Illinois Central railroad company invaded by half dozen deputy sheriffs armed with subpoenas for the directors in a $10,000,000 "damage suit" and Attorney Maxwell Edgar, representing six stockholders, making sensational charges of mismanagement, corruption and graft against the officials of the company, the session was thrown into an uproar shortly after the opening of the meeting.

The praecipe in the suit was filed in the circuit court in the name of Jeanne Edgar, the wife of Attorney Edgar, who owns two shares of Illinois Central stock. The defendants named were J. T. Harahan, Cornelius Vanderbilt, H. W. DeForrest, R. S. Lovett, John Jacob Astor, J. Ogden Armour, Charles A. Peabody, A. H. Hackstaff, John G. Shedd, John W. Auchineloss and Robert Walter Goe-

President Harahan was in the chair when Attorney Edgar started the rumpus by presenting a resolution charging mismanagement in connection with the recent car repair fraud disclosures. He also declared that the road had violated the interstate commerce law in giving rebates.

The resolution provided for a committee to investigate the books of the company and with power to engage experts and report on the financial methods and physical standing of the road. In conclusion, Edgar moved for an adjournment for eighty days to await the report of the committee.

Blewett Lee, general solicitor for the road, replied to charges by flatly denying that there had been any violation of the interstate commerce He said the only irregularity had been in the car repair frauds, in which a few of the officials of the road had been involved, but that none of these were now holding any official position.

Desperate efforts had been made he said, to get the present officials to suppress the car repair fraud investigation, but they had refused, an indication that confidence in them was not misplaced.

The Edgar resolution and motion was lost by a stock vote of 781,929 against the resolution and only 587 for it. When it came to the election of three directors John T. Harahan, Cornelius Vanderbilt and H. W. De-Forrest were reelected by a vote of 784,717 shares, against less than 100 for a rival ticket presented by Substitute for Water, to Prevent Burning-Many Varieties of Which Skins and Seeds Should Be Used-Clear Day Essential.

One of the good points about a well regulated English household is the care that is bestowed upon the preparation of preserved fruits, notwithstanding their limitations, such as lack of cellar, canned fruit closet, or other proper storage room, whereas we Americans take the abundance of choice fruit and conveniences almost as an unnoticed blessing.

The room in which the preparation of these mysterious delights in the way of jams, jellies, and other goodies sails under the peculiar name of 'stillroom," presided over by the mistress and a stillroom maid, and in it not so long ago many hours were spent in the compounding of the artless and artful beauty lotions, such as caused a moral panic in the dear old Vicar of Wakefield's guileless

And right here may be mentioned the substitute for water which is required in the case of fruit of a dry character to prevent its burning when first put in the stewpan. A juice is prepared from rhubarb stalks, which are peeled and cut in two-inch lengths, covered with sugar, and let stand over night. In the morning place over the fire and heat slowly till the juice is well extracted. One cupful of the juice to every two pounds of the fruit is the rule.

In making jellies of the larger fruits, such as apples, pears, quinces, or crab apples, they do not need peeling or coring, for the skins and seeds improve both the quality and color of the jelly. Simply wipe the fruit, slice or quarter, put into the preserving kettle with enough water to nearly cover the fruit, and simmer until tender. Remove from the fire, strain, and proceed as in making jellies of the smaller fruits.

A clear day should always be chosen for the making of all jellies, and it improves it to set it in the sunlight to cool. Select sound and not overripe fruit, and it should be used as soon as possible after gathering, as most fruits lose quality by standing. Quinces and certain varieties of pears are the only exceptions.

Apple Jelly.-Remove any blemish from the apples; do not peel, but simply quarter them. Put them into the preserving kettle with several stalks of rhubarb already peeled and cut into two-inch lengths. To every pound of apples put one cupful of rhubarb juice, made as directed above. Let simmer about 20 minutes, or until the apples are pulpy. Strain through a jelly bag without pressure. If pressure is used the jelly will not be as clear. To every pint of jelly allow one pound of sugar. Boil all together for about 45 minutes, stirring well and removing all scum. When it jells put in tumblers and seal. For a change of flavor a little lemon peel rind may be boiled with the apples or lemon juice may be added just before the felly is put in the glasses. A Delicious Plum Dainty.-To every pound of damsons, freed from stones, allow one pound of sugar. Set over the fire and let simmer for one hour, stirring frequently. With a wooden spoon press through a coarse sieve and return to the stewpan with equal parts of sugar and let simmer gently for two hours. Skim and boil briskly for half an hour, or until it adheres in a solid mass to the spoon. Some of the stones should be crushed and the kernels cooked with the fruit. While hot turn the jelly into glasses, but do not seal until perfectly cold.

When a hurried but good dessert is needed, try cheese crackers. Put grated cheese on the crackers, set them in the hot oven or put them under the broiler until the cheese toast a light brown. Serve either hot or cold.

Before sending to the laundry stitch plaiting on wash waists and jabots into original plaits on the outer edge with coarse chain stitch, and after washed and pressed into plaits again, rip stitchings and draw edge of plaitings between thumb and finger to remove stiff plaited effect.

To prevent salt in salt bottles from becoming damp and lumpy, when filling them put in 10 or 12 pieces of rice. This will not come through the holes in the cover of the salt cellars, but will break the lumps and gather the moisture; thus the salt is always dry and fine.

Feather beds and pillows sometimes have an unpleasant odor after being put away for a time. Set them on a clothes line in the sun and air for two or three days and then give them a thorough drying before a clear fire. If this is not successful empty the pillows, have the ticks washed and the feathers thoroughly purified.

SYNOPSIS.

Lawrence Blakeley, lawyer, goes to Pittsburg with the forged notes in the Bronson case to get the deposition of John Gilmore, millionaire. In the latter's house he is attracted by the picture of his John Gilmore, millionaire. In the latter's house he is attracted by the picture of a girl whom Gilmore explains is his granddaughter, Alison West. He says her father is a rascal and a friend of the forger. A lady requests Blakeley to buy her a Pullman ticket. He gives her lower eleven and retains lower ten. He finds a man in a drunken stupor in lower ten and goes to bed in lower nine. He awakens in lower seven and finds that his bag and clothes are missing. The man in lower ten is found murdered. His name, it develops, is Simon Harrington. The man who disappeared with Blakeley's clothes is suspected. Blakeley becomes interested in a girl in blue. Circumstantial evidence places Blakeley under suspicion of murder. The train is wrecked. Blakeley is rescued from the burning car by the girl in blue. His arm is broken. Together they go to the Carter farm for breakfast. The girl proves to be Alison West, his partner's sweetheart. Alison's peculiar actions mystify the lawyer. She drops her gold bag and Blakeley, unnoticed, puts it in his pocket. Blakeley, unnoticed, puts it in his pocket. He returns home and learns from his landlady of strange happenings. Blakeley learns that a fellow victim of the wreck, is in the hospital.

And there was no one I could talk to about it, no one to tell me how hideously absurd it was, no one to give me a slap and tell me there are tons of fine gold chains made every year, or to point out the long arm of coincidence!

With my one useful hand I fumbled the things back into the bag and thrust it deep out of sight among the pillows. Then I lay back in a cold perspiration. What connection had Alison West with this crime? Why had she stared so at the gun-metal cigarette case that morning on the train? What had alarmed her so at the farmhouse? What had she taken back to the gate? Why did she wish she had not escaped from the wreck? And last, in heaven's name, how did a part of her necklace become torn off and covered with blood?

Downstairs McKnight was still at with Mrs. Klopton in the interval of waiting. "Why did he come home in a gray suit, when he went away in a blue?" he repeated. "Well, wrecks are queer things, Mrs. Klopton. The suit may have turned gray with fright. Or perhaps wrecks do as queer stunts as lightning. Friend of mine once was struck by lightning; he and the caddy had taken refuge under a tree. After the flash, when they recovered consciousness, there was my friend in the caddy's clothes, and the caddy in his. And as my friend was a large man and the caddy a very small boy-"

There was a long pause, then Mc-Knight's voice: "Hello-yes. Thank you very much Good-by." He came upstairs, two steps at time.

"Look here," he said, bursting into the room, "there may be something in your theory, after all. The woman's name-it may be a coincidence, but it's curious-her name is Sullivan."

"What did I tell you?" I said, sitting up suddenly in bed. "She's probably a sister of that scoundrel in lower seven, and she was afraid of what he might do."

"Confound this arm," I said, paying for my energy with some excruciating throbs. "There's so much to be looked after, and here I am, bandaged, splintered, and generally useless. It's a beastly shame." "Don't forget that I am here," said McKnight pompously. "And another thing, when you feel this way just remember there are two less desirable places were you might be. One is jaii, and the other is-" He strummed on an imaginary harp, with devotional

But McKnight's light-heartedness jarred on me that morning. I lay and frowned under my helplessness. When by chance I touched the little gold bag, it seemed to scorch my fingers. Richey, finding me unresponsive, left to keep his luncheon engagement with Alison West. As he clattered down the stairs, I turned my back to the morning sunshine and abandoned myself to misery. By what strain on her frayed nerves was Alison West keeping up, I wondered?

But McKnight had not gone, after all. I heard him coming back, his voice preceding him, and I groaned with irritation. "Wake up!" he called. "Somebody's sent you a lot of flowers. Please hold the box, Mrs. Klopton; I'm going out to be run down by an automobile."

I roused to feeble interest. My brother's wife is punctilious about such things; all the new babies in the McKnight pulled up an armful of roses, and held them out to me.

"Wonder who they're from?" he said, tumbling in the box for a card. 'There's no name-yes, here's one." He held it up and read it with exasperating slowness.

'Best wishes for an early recovery. A COMPANION IN MISFORTUNE. "Well, what do you know about that!" he exclaimed. "That's some thing you didn't tell me, Lollie."

"It was hardly worth mentioning," I said mendaciously, with my heart beating until I could hear it. She had not forgotten, after all.

McKnight took a bud and fastened it in his buttonhole. I'm afraid I was not especially pleasant about it. They were her roses, and anyhow, they were meant for me. Richey left very soon, with an irritating final grin at the "Good-by, sir woman-hater," jeered at me from the door.

So he wore one of the roses she had sent me, to luncheon with her, and I lay back among my pillows and tried to remember that it was his game, anyhow, and that I wasn't even drawing cards. To remember that, and to forget the broken necklace under my head!

CHAPTER XIII.

Faded Roses.

I was in the house for a week. Much of that time I spent in composing and destroying letters of thanks to Miss West, and in growling at the doctor. McKnight dropped in daily, but he was less cheerful than usual. Now and then I caught him eyeing me as if he had something to say, but whatever it was he kept it to himself. Once during the week he went to Baltimore and saw the woman in the hospital there. From the description I had little difficulty in recognizing the young woman who had been with the murdered man in Pittsburg. But she was still unconscious. An elderly aunt had appeared, a gaunt person in black, who sat around like a buzzard on a fence, according to McKnight, the telephone, and amusing himself and wept, in a mixed figure, into a damp handkerchief.

On the last day of my imprisonment he stopped in to thrash out a case that was coming up in court the next day, and to play a game of double solitaire with me.

"Who won the ball game?" I asked. "We were licked. Ask me some thing pleasant. Oh, by the way, Bronson's out to-day.'

"I'm glad I'm not on his bond," said pessimistically. "He'll clear out." "Not he." McKnight pounced on my ace. "He's no fool. Don't you suppose Pittsburg? The papers were full of it. And he knows you escaped with

"You can tell him that yourself." McKnight paused and bent forward. "Hello, here's a visitor; a little man with string halt."

"I won't see him," I said firmly. "I've been bothered enough by reporters." We listened together to Mrs. Klophall and the creak of the boards as she came heavily up the stairs. She had a piece of paper in her hand torn from a pocket account-book, and on it was the name, "Mr. Wilson Budd Flotchkiss Important business.

"Oh, well, show him up," I said resignedly. "You'd better put those cards away, Richey. I fancy it's the rector of the church around the corner."

But when the door opened to admit a curiously alert little man, adjusting his glasses with nervous fingers, my face must have shown my dismay. It was the amateur detective of the

I left the window and sat down in the growing dusk. So the occupant of lower seven had got on the car at Cresson, probably with Alison West and her companion. There was some one she cared about enough to shield. I went irritably to the door and summoned Mrs. Klopton.

Two clerks pushed, pulled and piloted the boisterous individual into a private room away from the sight and hearing of regular depositors. The cashier wired the country

20 PER CENT LAW SUSTAINED

FAIR TEST FOR PARTY NOMINA-TION, RULES THE STATE SUPREME COURT.

Democrats in Many Counties Having Failed of the Required Vote Must Now Run as Independent Candidases.

Madison .- The supreme court in a decision upheld the 20 per cent requirement of the primary election law. The decision was rendered in the cast of the State ex rel. L. C. McGreal, et al. vs. Frank Philips et al. Justices Winslow and Timlin

In this case it was sought to compel the board of canvassers of Milwaukee county to certify the names of the petitioners as those of the regular nominees of the Democratic party in that county, entitled to have their names placed on the official ballot as such for the general election of 1910.

The petition, by appropriate allegations, showed that at the last primary election each petitioner re-ceived the greatest number of votes cast thereat for any one to be the Democratic party candidate for the particular county office for which he was a candidate at such primary, but that the aggregate vote of all candidates for such office was not 20 per cent of the vote of such county for the Democratic candidate for governor at the general election in 1908, and by reason thereof the board of canvassers will not, unless judicially coerced thereto, certify his name for a place on the official bal-lot as the candidate of his party for such office at the next general election. The petition further showed that the Democratic party is a political organization which has existed for many years and without exception, on all occasions therefor presented candidates for public offices and proclaimed party principles to be represented by such candidate. The defendants, as members of the board of county canvassers of Milwaukee county, demurred to the complaint for insufficiency and further for want of jurisdiction of the court over the subject of the action.

In a second case, that of the state, ex rel., T. E. Hanan vs. James A. Frear, et al., seeking to compel the secretary of state to certify to the various county clerks the name of Hanan as Democratic candidate for state senator in the Twenty-first district to be placed on the official ballot, the same questions were raised, and the court says that the cause is ruled by the decision in the McGreal-Phelps case. Following that decision the demurrer for insufficiency must be sustained, the court says, and the action dismissed. The court

SENATOR DOLLIVER DEAD

While a Physician Is Testing Heart With Stethoscope the Statesman Collapses.

Dolliver, senior United States senator from Iowa, one of the leaders of the insurgent wing of the republican party, and lately a presidential candidate possibility, died at his home here.

Senator Dolliver passed away while one of his attending physicians, Dr. E. M. Van Patten, was examining the distinguished statesman's heart with a stethoscope.

His death followed an attack of acute stomach trouble which affected his heart. His physicians announced that his death was directly due to dilation of the heart.

Senator Dolliver had so far re covered his strength as to be able to walk about his lawn. He had been he's an undertaker." up all day, and at night entered his sitting room for the daily consulta-tion with his physicians.

The senator informed Dr. Van Patten that he was feeling much improved and that he believed he had bout recovered his normal strength. Dr. Van Patten cautioned him about becoming too anxious to again re-sume his work and then began the examination of the heart.

up a conversation with Senator Dolliver, and asked him how he was feeling.

"I am really feeling better than at any time since my recent sick-ness," he said.

The physician continued the examination and suddenly noticed that the heart beats had ceased. He shook his stethoscope, believing that it was defective in some way. Again applying his instrument he discovered that the heart had ceased beating entire-

Upon looking into the senator's face he found that death had overtaken him. He died without a struggle and without pain.

No one, with the exception of the physician, was in the room at the time of his death. Mrs. Dolliver have ing stepped out just before the physician began his examination.

U. S. Will Aid Negroes, Washington .- Believing that hundreds of southern negroes are being deprived of their liberty by big planters, under forms of law, the federal government will try this week to induce the Supreme court of the United States to strike a blow at the alleged evil. This it will do by asking the court to declare unconstitu-tional the so-called Alabama "labor contract" law. The treatment of negro farm hands under this law is interpreted by the department of justice as a reduction of these laborers to a state of peonage.

NEW EQUIPMENT OF SCHOOLS

Idea Adopted in Washington Removes Fear of Formality by Making Family Groups of the Children.

To take away the old fear of the stiff-disciplined schoolrooms and make them into a nice little meeting place, where children have a splendid time, and incidentally learn more and better lessons than children ever learned before, an entirely new experiment will be tried which will result in an enormous investment in new furniture, if TWO JUSTICES DISSENTING the scheme is shown to be practica-

The idea is from the brains of Stephen E. Kramer, director of intermediate instruction, and John A. Chamberlain, supervisor of manual training, and is brand new in school circles.

The scheme has to do with the little stiff-legged desks which the children in the first and second grades have studied at from the early times when desks supplanted the old-fashioned "forms." The desks sit in rows, formal and formidable, and the black iron legs of the desks and the stiffness with which these little pieces of furniture sit on the floor all add to the strictness of discipline which in these latter days is beginning to be looked upon as having disadvantages as well as advantages.

Mr. Kramer has devised a little table desk, only a few pounds in weight, which any first-grade child can lift up and carry around the room. Mr. Chamberlain drew the plans and made the models. A little chair goes with each small table desk, and both desk and chair can be picked up and carried anywhere in the schoolroom.

When the teacher wants to tell them a simple tale of how one and one makes two, they will pick up their little chairs, push aside the desks and sit around the teacher's chair in a very fascinating little family group. The chairs and desks have rubber tipped feet, so there will be little

In this way the teacher will get right in among her children. When she is demonstrating at the blackboard the little boys and girls will bring their chairs and sit close to her. As everyone knows, the present method of having straight and stiff lines of desks and chairs makes it imperative that some of the children will have to sit far off in the back row.

The idea will gain favor, it is believed, and will also take away a Httle of the first fear of the schoolroom that small children have.-Washing-

COURT HOLDS THAT VOTES FOR F. T. TUCKER ARE SO MUCH BLANK VOTES.

CROWNHART IS DISPLACED

Opinion of the Court, Three Justices Dissenting, Is That Votes For Deceased Person Cannot be Counted.

Madison. — The state supreme court in a decision from which Justices Winslow, Siebecker and Kerwin dissented, held that votes for a deceased person by persons who knew the fact of his decease must be regarded as so much blank paper.

The court grants the injunction asked for by Speaker Levi H. Bancroft, as prayed for in his complaint, and orders the secretary of state to place the name of Mr. Bancroft, who received nearly 60,000 votes in the primary, on the official ballot for attorney general.

In the dissenting opinion it is held that section 34 of the statutes of 1898 is made applicable to pri-mary elections by the primary election law of 1903; and therefore the provision for filling vacancies in general elections in cases of death after the ballots are printed, applies to the primary; that the ballots for Tucker are legal and that the relator, Bancroft, is not entitled to have his name placed on the official ballot.
The court says: "The following

The court says: "The following propositions are decided in this case: "(1) The provisions of the general election law contained in section 34, statutes of 1898, relating to the filling of vacancies caused by the declination, death or other disability of a nominated candidate are not imported into the primary election law and hence do not apply to primary elections.

"(2) Under the allegations of the complaint it must be held that the fact of the death of Mr. Tucker was brought home to the knowledge of the great mass of the electors of the state before the holding of the primary and that the great majority of the electors who placed a cross opposite his name upon the primary ballot did so with such knowledge.

"(3) Votes which are in form cast for a deceased person by voters who know the fact of his decease cannot be considered as votes for or against any person, but must be regarded as so much blank paper.

"(4) It follows that under the allegations of the complaint the relator received the greatest number of votes cast at the primary as a Re publican candidate for the office of attorney general and under subd. 1 of section 18 of the primary law is upon the official ballot as such candidate.

"By the court: Demurrer over-The decision means that the name prevent the entrance of others. We on the ballot to take the place of prevent the entrance of others. We the late Frank T. Tucker, who, though dead, received more votes than Mr. Bancroft.

The state Republican central committee held that it had the privilege to fill the vacancy on the ballot through the death of Mr. Tucker and named Mr. Crownhart as the nominee.

Mr. Bancroft, through his attorney, started action in the supreme court to test the validity of the law under which the committee held that a dead man was a person.

Mr. Bancroft's attorneys contended that a deceased person is not a person, that Mr. Tucker's name on the ballot meant nothing, and that Mr. Bancroft was the only person who received the highest vote of any Republican on the ticket.

The supreme court has evidently upheld Bancroft's attorneys in their contention.

POLITICAL CONVICTS FREED

Gov. Brown of Georgia Pardons Men Who Confessed to Violation of Primary Law.

Atlanta.—Twenty-two men who acted as managers at the state gubernatorial primary of Aug. 23 in Gilmer county and who were indicted for violation of the pure primary law and convicted, either through pleas of guilty in open court or before a jury, have been pardoned by Gov. Joseph M. Brown.

Gov. Brown said that the men were prosecuted for political reasons and not so much for the good of the country and the majesty of the law.

Madison Pastor Leaves.

Madison.—The Rev. Dr. George McAdam of the First Methodist church, who has been here for four years, has received word that his exchange of pastorates with the Rev. Peterson of Louisville, Ky., has been effected by the bishop and it is probable Dr. McAdams will leave for his new field of labor about the first of next month.

To Banish the Nobility. Lisbon .- Decrees will be issued abolishing the house of peers, the council of state and titles of nobil-ity, banishing the Braganza dynasty and secularizing charitable institutions. The bodies of Rear Admiral Reis, a leader of the revolution who com-mitted suicide, and Prof. Bombardi, who was assassinated by an army lieutenant before the uprising, were buried. There was no religious services, no religious emblem. Everywhere were signs of mourning and huge crowds.

"Blow you up." "Drop it!" was the instant command. "My wife told me when I left home this morning to be sure and send up a bag of flour, and I forgot it. I guess it will take just about as much dynamite as you have there to prepare me for the blowing up I'll get when she sees me!"

He threw himself back in his chair and waited for the explosion, but it did not come.

"I'm a married man myself," said the dynamiter, and quietly slipped out. -Illustrated Bits.

HIS HANDS CRACKED OPEN

"I am a man seventy years old. My hands were very sore and cracked open on the insides for over a year with large sores. They would crack open and bleed, itch, burn and ache so that I could not sleep and could do but little work. They were so bad that I could not dress myself in the morning. They would bleed and the blood dropped on the floor. I called on two doctors, but they did me no good. I could get nothing to do any good till I got the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. About a year ago my daughter got a cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment and in one week from the time I began to use them my hands were all healed up and they have not been a mite sore since. I would not be without the Cuticura Remedies.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

What is the use of procrastinating in the face of such evidence as the following letters represent? If you are a sick woman or know one who is, what sensible reason have you for not giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial? For 30 years we have been publishing such testimonial letters as these—thousands of them—they are genuine and honest, too, every one of them.

Mrs. S. J. Barber says:

Mrs. W. K. Housh says:

"I have been completely cured of a severe female trouble by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and want to recommend it to all suffering women."

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, dis-placements, fibroid tumors, irregu-larities, periodic pains, backache, etc.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

That a comparison of those two periods in history of the nation would convince any man with an ounce of sense that the democratic party might justly lay claim to be the party of equal rights and economy in the administration of public affairs. He said the records at Washington showed, and no republican will dare to deny it that the republican congress, during the last two years, appropriated $471,000,000.00 more to conduct this government during two years, than the entire cost of administering this government under the de mocratic party for a period of 72 years. That during these 72 years, the democratic administrations fought three wars, the war of 1812 in which the American people drove the English government from the seas; the Indian wars, which they prosecuted to a success-ful conclusion and the war with Mexico. The democratic administration also purchased that vast territory known as the Louisiana purchase bounded on the east by the Mississippi River and on the west by the Pacific Ocean.
