FREIGHTS CRASH IN ATTEMPT TO PASS

A side swipe collision occured at Eden, two stations north of this village last Sunday morning, when a north bound freight No. 287 in charge of engineer Federick and conductor Richardson, swept the rear end of a south bound freight No. 288 in charge of conductor Andrew Eifert and engineer Leacy.

The south bound train had received orders to side track at Eden to let the northbound train pas The south bound train was not entirely clear, when the northbound attempted to go by and the engine of the latter crashed into three rear cars and the caboose of the former, just leaving the main line. The caboose at once caught fire and was completely destroyed. The engine of 287 was derailed and badly damaged. Contents of the box cars were strewn along the tracks. Traffic was delayed for ix hours.

The announcement was made during Buena Vista and lodged in jail at a lull in arguments in the effort of the Cananea charged with attempting to packers to have the case transferred to the United States circuit court. The packers are charged with conspiracy to restrain trade, and are specifically charged with having formed the socalled "beef trust" in the shape of the National Packing company.

Judge Landis gave no hint of his possible action on the venue argument. It lies within his power to refuse certification to the circuit court, and, instead, to transfer it, as dean of the district court, to another district judge, particularly Judge Carpenter.

Shortly after his announcement, Judge Landis put off till November 23 further arguments. The question at issue is, Shall Judge Landis certify to the circuit court the whole case against the packers, or will he refuse such certification, compelling the defendants to accept trial before a district judge?

Judge Landis explained his refusal to sit in the case. "Considering the character and nature of the defendant's averment and the proximity in point of time of my employment as a member of this bar as agent of the department of justice, as at least the be ginning of the period respecting which the grand jurors heard evidence, regardless of the technical proposition involved, it becomes obvious I cannot hear the case," he said. PROVES FATAL.

Premature Blast Blows Breech Lock Back Among Crew-Inquiry Is Ordered.

Washington.-By the premature bursting of a five-inch 51-caliber gun at the Indian Head proving grounds four men were instantly killed.

The gun, which was a new one from the navy yard gun factory and was being tested for the first time, had already been fired twice. The accident occurred during the third round, just as the breech was being closed. The accident was similar to the explosion that caused the death of ten soldiers in the pit of one of the disappearing guns at Fort Monroe, Va.,

last summer. The explosion probably was due to a bent or fouled firing pin which projected beyond the face of the breech plug of the gun. The breech block of the gun, which was being tested, blew backward into the crew. Lieut. Arthur G. Caffee, one of the men killed. The ordnance bureau has ordered a board of inquest to inquire into causes of the accident, the only witnesses to which were John C. Coleman and Sidney Dyson, both colored. The employers' liability act will come into play in this case, and the families or dependent parents of the victims will receive the equivalent of one year's pay.

OFFICERS RAID STOCK FIRMS

Burr Bros. and Continenetal Wireless Heads Arrested Charged With Misusing the Mails.

New York.-Burr Brothers, a corporation dealing in stocks and other securities, were raided Monday by post office inspectors and its members charged with using the mails to defraud.

The raid was made on warrants charging use of the mails to defraud investors. Post office officials said the concern had sold to investors at par value between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 of stock in various companies, most of which had gone out of existence or become bankrupt.

Officers of the corporation were arrested and its books and papers seized. The raid was planned by Post Office Inspector Warren W. Dickson. Postmaster General Frank H. Hitchcock and Robert S. Sharpe, chief post office inspector.

The officers arrested were Sheldon ion altitude record, plunge in his C. Burr, president; Frank H. Tobey, vice-president, and Eugene H. Burr, GERMAN SOCIALISTS IN OPEN ATTACK ON KAISER'S SPEECHES.

ROUSED BY MEAT FAMINE.

Programme of Imperial Chancellor to Be Bitterly Attacked Before Close of Present Lawmaking Session. Oppose Military Budget.

Berlin.-Leaders of various German political parties are girding themselves for the final battles to be fought out at the session of the reichstag, which opened here. According to general expectation this will be the last session of the present reichstag, and the developments in the course of its proceedings will have a strong determining influence upon the general elections next year.

For the public the foremost ques tion is whether Chancellor Bethmann-Hollweg and the combination of conservatives and clericals upon which he is dependent for support can achieve any such positive results as to stay the rising tide of Socialist and radical sentiment. Among the more important measures of legislation are the pending land increment tax, the amendment of criminal procedure, workingmen's insurance laws and the question of providing a constitution for Alsace-Lorraine. There are sharp differences of opinion in regard to all these measures. The military budget providing for continued high expenditures for the maintenance of the army is likely to provoke a bitter fight. ists and radicals also will neglect no opportunity to embarrass the government with interpellations concerning the kaiser's recent senatorial speeches and the failure of the authorities to relieve the meat famine. Altogether the situation for the chancellor is admitted to be exceedingly difficult. It is expected that the session will close early in the spring.

Berlin.—When the reichstag convened the Socialists announced two interpellations-one regarding recent speeches by the emperor and the other inquiring into the causes of the high prices of meat and what the government proposed to do to alleviate conditions. Both subjects are expected to lead to animated debates. In the matter of meat prices there are indications that the government intends to lessen the strength of the Socialist attack by modifying the restrictions on meat importations. Important matters of legislation that will come up are the so-called quinquennate, fixing the term of compulsory military service at five years, bills recasting and consolidating the state insurance systems, and a revision of the penal code

Bankruptcy Proceedings Adjourned Until Dec. 6 Because of Inability to Make Progress.

New York .- The bankruptcy proceedings against the firm of B. H. Sheftels & Co., the brokerage concern raided on Sept. 20, were resumed before United States Commissioner Alexander.

George Graham Rice and the other bankrupts were represented by Moses H. Grossman, while Henry Kauffman appeared for Receiver Irving.

Rice, the first witness, was asked if he had any connection with the firm of Sheftels & Co. He declined to answer, giving as his reason that any testimony he might now give would act against him.

Eugene Cerf and Charles L. Dincker, who represented the firm on the curb, were called as witnesses and asked how many shares of Ely Central they had sold. They could not state from memory and were excused. The hearing will be resumed on Dec. 6.

Lawrence Blakeley, lawyer, goes to Pittsburg with the forged notes in the Bronson case to get the deposition of John Gilmore, millionaire. In the latter's home he is attracted by a picture of a young girl, whom the millionaire explains is his granddaughter. A lady requests Blakeley to buy her a Pullman ticket. He gives her lower eleven and retains lower ten and retires in lower nine. He awakens in lower seven and finds his clothes and bag missing. The man in lower ten is found murdered. Circumstantial evidence points to both Blakeley and the unknown man who had exchanged clothes with him. Blakeley becomes interested in a girl in blue. The train is wrecked. Blakeley is rescued from the burning car by the girl in blue. His arm is broken. They go to the Carter place for breakfast. The girl proves to be Alison West, his partner's sweetheart. Her peculiar actions mystify the lawyer. She drops her gold bag and Blakeley puts it in his pocket. Blakeley returns home. He finds that he is under surveillance. Moving pletures of the train taken just before the wreck reveal to Blakeley a man leaping from the train with his stolen grip. Blakeley learns that a man named Sullivan leaped from the train near Mand sprained his ankle. He stayed some time at the Carter place. While making inquiries at Carter's, Blakeley finds Alison and kisses her.

CHAPTER XIX.

At the Table Next.

McKnight and Hotchkiss were sauntering slowly down the road as I caught up with them. As usual, the little man was busy with some abstruse mental problem.

"The idea is this," he was saying, his brows knitted in thought, "if a left-handed man, standing in the position of the man in the picture, the table next to ours. Two people should jump from a car, would he be likely to sprain his right ankle? When a right-handed man prepares for a leap of that kind, my theory is that he would hold on with his right hand, and alight at the proper time, on his right foot. Of course-

"I imagine, although I don" know," interrupted McKnight, "that a man either ambidextrous or one-armed, jumping from the Washington Flier, would be more likely to land on his head."

"Anyhow," I interposed, "what difference does it make whether Sullivan used one hand or the other? One pair of handcuffs will put both hands out of commission."

As usual when one of his pet the ories was attacked, Hotchkiss looked aggrieved.

'My dear sir," he expostulated, "don't you understand what bearing this has on the case? How was the murdered man lying when he was "On his back," I said promptly "head toward the engine."

"Very well," he retorted, "and what then? Your heart lies under your fifth intercostal space, and to reach it a right-handed blow would have struck either down or directly in.

"But, gentlemen, the point trance for the stiletto was below the heart, striking up! As Harrington lay with his head toward the engine, a person in the aisle must have used the left hand"

McKnight's eyes sought mine and he winked at me solemnly as I unostentatiously transferred the hat I was carrying to my right hand. Long training has largely counterbalanced heredity in my case, but I still pitch ball, play tennis and carve with my left hand. But Hotchkiss was too busy with his theories to notice me.

We were only just in time for our train back to Baltimore, but Mc-Knight took advantage of a second's delay to shake the station agent warmly by the hand.

"I want to express my admiration for you," he said beamingly. "Ability of your order is thrown away here. You should have been a city policeman, my friend."

"The young lady was the one who told me to keep still," he said.

McKnight glanced at me, gave the agent's hand a final shake, and climbed on board. But I knew perfectly that he had guessed the reason for my delay.

It was crowded, too, with a typical summer night crowd, and, after sitting for a few minutes in a sweltering corner, we got up and went to the smaller dining room upstairs. Here it was not so warm, and we settled ourselves comfortably by a window.

Over in a corner half a dozen boys on their way back to school were ragging a perspiring waiter, a proceeding so exactly to McKnight's taste that he insisted on going over to join them. But their table was full, and waiter touched me on the arm. somehow that kind of fun had lost its point for me.

It was a relief when the meal was over. We got our hats and were about to leave the room, when a

I seem to reof the palms and fans which attempted demi-tasse, and that finished, sat with member a dirk and the murdered man's pocket-book in your possession, and a few other things that werewell, rather unpleasant."

"I remember that you said so." Her tone was quietly insulting, and I bit my lip at having been caught. It was no time to make a defense.

"You have missed one calculation," I said coldly, "and that is the discovery of the man who left the train." "You have found him?" She bent forward, and again I regretted my hasty speech. "I knew it; I said so." "We are going to find him," I asserted, with a confidence I did not "We can produce at any time proof that a man left the Flier a few miles beyond the wreck. And we can find him, I am positive."

"But you have not found him yet?" She was clearly disappointed. "Well, so be it. Now for our bargain. You will admit that I am no fool."

I made no such admission, and she smiled mockingly.

"How flattering you are!" she said. "Very well. Now for the premises. You take to Pittsburg four notes held by the Mechanics' national bank, to have Mr. Gilmore, who is ill, declare his indorsement of them forged.

"On the journey back to Pittsburg two things happen to you: You lose your clothing, your valise and your papers, including the notes, and you are accused of murder. In fact, Mr. Blakeley, the circumstances were most singular, and the evidence-well, almost conclusive."

I was completely at her mercy, but gnawed my lip with irritation.

"Now for the bargain." She leaned over and lowered her voice. "A fair exchange, you know. The minute you put those four notes in my handthat minute the blow to my head has caused complete forgetfulness as to the events of that awful morning. I am the only witness, and I will be siient. Do you understand? They will call off their dogs." My head was buzzing with the strangeness of the idea. "But," I said, striving to gain time,

'I haven't the notes. I can't give you what I haven't got." "You have had the case continued," she said sharply. "You expect to find them. Another thing," she added slowly, watching my face, "if you don't get them soon, Bronson will have them. They have been offered to him already, but at a prohibitive price." "But," I said, bewildered, "what is your object in coming to me? If Bronson will get them anyhow-" She shut her fan with a click and her face was not particularly pleasant to look at. "You are dense," she said insolently. "I want those papers-for myself, not for Andy Bronson.'

"Then the idea is," I said, ignoring her tone, "that you think you have me in a hole, and that if I find those papers and give them to you you will let me out. As I understand it, our friend Bronson, under those circumstances, will also be in a hole."

She nodded. "The notes would be of no use to you for a limited length of time," I went on, watching her narrowly. "If they are not turned over to the state's attorney within a reasonable time there will have to be a nolle pros-that is, the case will simply be dropped for lack of evidence.'

"A week would answer, I think," she said slowly. "You will do it, then." I laughed, although I was not especially cheerful.

"No, I'll not do it. I expect to come across the notes any time now, and I expect just as certainly to turn them over to the state's attorney when I get them."

She got up suddenly, pushing her chair back with a noisy grating sound that turned many eyes toward us. "You're more of a fool than I thought you," she sneered, and left

Led by the Nose.

An analytical chemist was retained as a skilled witness some years ago, where there are questions of analytical chemistry. There was one case where a farmer had bought some artificial manure, and he was being sued for the price of it. He resisted payment on the ground that the material had none of the qualities of manure at all. The expert chemist was one of the witnesses, and had stated that, although the substance had the smell, it had none of the chemical qualities of manure. Under cross-examination he was asked, if that was so, how did he account for hundreds of the best farmers having taken the manure for many years. "They must have been led by the nose," returned the witness.

HER TERROR UNCALLED FOR

Traveler in Korea Undergoes Thrilling Experience in Journey Through Mountain Pass.

The mountain, north of Seoul, is crossed by Pekin pass. We had overtaken the relay of chair coolies in the afternoon, but the journey had been long and trying on all, and the men, completely exhausted, swayed and reeled from one side of the path to the other under their heavy burden. I insisted that they should rest.

Grateful for an opportunity to rest my cramped limbs, I scrambled from the chair, then stood transfixed with fear and terror. Coming over the crest of the mountain were hundreds of torches and lanterns. Faintly from far away came strange, wild voices, shouting and screaming. Louder, louder swelled the weird, fantistic noise, and drums, bells and gongs could be heard.

Turning to the men, I cried, "What is this?" and pointed to the strange thing now descending quickly toward us. The men in an excited way talked all together. I could see that it was something very unusual and they seemed to be very much frightened. My Christian boy, Ke Hai, came to me to keep me from being alarmed. He carefully explained, but using many words I had never heard before. I listened, more mytified than ever; whether it were a mob or an uprising I did not know. He saw that I did not understand, and so at great length and with many more strange words. not in my vocabulary, he tried to enlighten my bewildered mind. Nearer came the menacing mob and above the clanging of brass, the yelling and wailing arose in an unearthly roar. Alone, at midnight, on the dark mountain pass, I stood and faced -what? I knew not, but certainly something terrifying and awful. My heart was filled with horror and a strange, unutterable longing for my homeland and mother swept over my heart. Had my time come to go? It might indeed be so.

With faltering voice I insisted again: "Can't you tell me in a few words what it is? I will not fear.' This time the boy understood what it was that I needed, and made reply:

"Yes; it is a nobleman who has departed from this world." It was a great funeral, nothing more. Midnight is the favorite time for the procession to the grave. The darkness will help keep away the evil spirits, so they think; the bells and drums are used also to frighten away the malign demons by the noise. The loud wailing and piercing cries were from the large crowd of hired mourners .- Ellasue Wagner, in the Christian Herald.

Marking Status of Wrecks.

There is an odd provision in the English law on wrecks. It used to be that wrecks, like pretty nearly everything else, belonged to the king. Sometimes, if a vessel were only partly wrecked and it could be raised, an owner was averse to surrendering it; but it was generally seized for the king in accordance with the law, until the question came up as to just what was a wreck. It was generally admitted that when all hands were lost, that was a wreck; but as they wanted to narrow a definition as they could, they got parliament to establish this law, that in future nothing shall be considered a wreck out of which a cat or a dog escapes alive; and from that time until the present day no vessel coasts about England without carrying a cat or dog.

The Doctor's First Question

"How are your bowels?" This is generally the first ques-tion the doctor asks. He knows what a sluggish liver means. He knows what a long list of distressing complaints result from constipation. He knows that headaches. bilious attacks, indigestion, impure blood, and general debility are often promptly relieved by a good liver pill. We wish you would talk with your own doctor about this subject. Ask him at the same time if he approves of Ayer's Pills. Do as he says. 1. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Quality-Service

These two words tell the whole story of our success. We've made this the leading store of its kind—a place where men can obtain clothes exactly to their liking. They like them when making their selection—like the way we wait upon them and like the clothes until they are threadbare. That means quality—intrinsic value in every purchase and lasting satisfaction. We never give a man an opportunity to even feel that he wants to trade elsewhere. The reason? Friend Made Clothes Make Friends.

Plurality of Attorney General Low, but Is Enough to Elect Him.

Madison.-With election returns from forty-two out of seventy-one counties filed with the secretary state it appears that McGovern's plurality, as well as those of the remainder of the ticket, except Levi H. Bancroft, will approximate 50,000. Bancroft's margin will be about 10,-000. From the same figures it is apparent that the amendment to the state constitution increasing the salaries of state representatives from $500 to $1,000 was defeated, while the other two amendments, eliminating the state census and appropriating funds for developing water power and forests in the state, were carried.

FIRE PREVENTION BILL PLAT

Conference of Hemlock Association and of State Forestry Board Outlines Proposed Law.

Kellogg, secretary of the Northern Hemlock and Hardwood Manufacturers' association, has issued a report of the proceedings of the conference recently held in Milwaukee between the state board of forestry and the forest fire committee of the associa-BANQUET AFTER INITIATION tion, for the discussion of plans for the prevention and control of forest

Mr. Griffith, state forester, outlined the tentative plans which the state board had prepared for legislation this winter. One of the most important of these is a proposition to levy a twotenths of a mill state tax, which will yield about $600,000 per year, the proceeds to be used exclusively for forest patrol in the northern part of the state for the purchase of land to be added to the forest reserve and for the protection of the reserve.

After a full discussion of the plans of the state board and many suggestions regarding the details whereby such plans could be carried out, the consensus of opinion was that the following be incorporated in the bill to be intro-

That two-tenths of a mill state tax be levied to provide a fund for fire prevention, and the purchase and protection of state forest reserve land.

That the state board of forestry exend such portion of this fund as may be necessary for patrols in forest counties on the basis of not less than one patrol to each 40,000 acres of total

That one efficient county fire warden be substituted for present town fire

That there be strict regulation of the burning of brush and debris to clear land during the dry season under the direction of patrolmen.

That the state board of forestry should have the right to order the disposal of slash next to standing timber or other valuable property in such manner as to provide a reasonably safe fire

Marinette.-By a vote of two to one the board of canvassers of Marinette county refused to allow the admission of the contested thirty-four votes in the Second precinct, thus giving the election as Ninth district congressman to Thomas Konop, Kewaunee, over Gustav Kuestermann, candidate for re-election by a majority of five

Konop will receive a certificate of election from the secretary of state. The official returns for Marinette county, including the returns from Pembine, which were for a time missing, but which were included in the official count, give Kuestermann 2,-039 and Konop 2,044. Konop's majority in the entire district is five

As a preliminary move for a re count. Kuestermann's attorneys filed a protest with the canvassers against their action, and within thirty days after the certificate of election is issued to Mr. Konop, will serve notice for a recount on him. The recount will be only in certain precincts, not the entire district.

All the figures adduced in the recount will be laid before the clerk of the house of representatives. He turns them over to the election committee of the house, which body will finally determine who shall occupy the congressional seat.

Konop heretofore was an almost unknown quantity in Wisconsin politics. Not one man in a hundred in this district thought he had even the most remote chance of election.

Kuestermann's postoffice appoint-ments, it is believed, were his undoing. In Green Bay, Oconto, and Algoma his appointments cost him valuable support and the belief is general that this was the chief factor in his Konop was born on a farm in the town of Franklin, Kewaunee county. He attended the high school at Two Rivers and then went to the University of Nebraska. Returning to his native county he hung out his shingle in Kewaunee and announced that he was a lawyer. Before he was of age he ran for county superintendent of schools, but was defeated, due in a large measure to his youth. Then he ran for district attorney and was successful. For two successive terms he was elected to this office without opposition.

Last spring Konop heard of some dissatisfaction with Congressman Kuestermann among the republicans, and thought he had a chance. Even democrats who wanted some one to play the "goat" and fight the supposed losing battle for the office had little hope to offer him. That was given as a verdict. I thought some joke had been played, and I wrote down about it, and found it was an absolute fact. Another one is like this: "Child three months old, found dead, but no evidence whether born alive."'" "I can't stay long," said the chairman of the committee from the colored church. "I just came to see if yo' wouldn't join de mission band." "Fo' de lan' sakes, honey," replied the old mammy, "doan' come to me! I can't even play a mouf-organ."-Lippincott's.

Reason for Strange Names.

A little colored girl appeared on one of the city playgrounds the other day, accompanied by two pickaninnies, who, she explained, were cousins of hers, visitors in Newark. "What are their names," asked the young woman in charge of the playground. "Aida Overture Johnson and Lucia Sextette Johnson," the girl answered. "You see their papa used to work for a opera man."—Newark News.

UNSIGHTLY COMPLEXIONS

The constant use of Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, for toilet, bath and nursery purposes not only preserves, purifies, and beautifies the skin, scalp, hair and hands, and prevents inflammation, irritation and clogging of the pores, the common cause of pimples, blackheads, redness and roughness, yellow, oily, mothy and other unwholesome conditions of the complexion and skin. All who delight in a clear skin, soft, white hands, a clean, wholesome scalp and live, glossy hair, will find Cuticura Soap most successful in realizing every expectation. Cuticura Soap and Ointment are admirably adapted to preserve the health of the skin and scalp of infants and children, and to prevent minor blemishes or inherited skin humors becoming chronic, and may be used from the hour of birth. Cuticura Remedies are sold throughout the civilized world. Send to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., sole proprietors, Boston, for their free Cuticura book, 32 pages of invaluable advice on care and treatment of the skin, scalp and hair.

AN EFFECTIVE HOME MADE KIDNEY AND BACKACHE CURE

Easily Prepared Medicine Which Is Said to Regulate the Kidneys and End Backache.

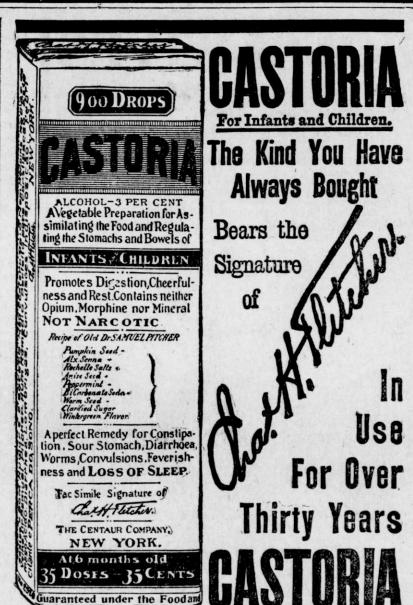

To make up enough of the "Dandelion Mixture" which is claimed to be a prompt cure for Backache and Kidney and Bladder trouble, get from any good Prescription Pharmacist one-half ounce fluid extract Dandelion; one ounce Kargon Compound and three ounces Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

Those who have tried it say it acts gently but thoroughly on the Kidneys and entire urinary system, relieving the most severe Backache at once.

A well-known medical authority recommends the prescription to be taken the moment you suspect any Kidney, Bladder or Urinary disorder or feel a constant dull Backache, or if the urine is thick, cloudy, offensive or full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a scalding sensation; or for too frequent urination during the night

This is a real harmless vegetable mixture which could not cause injury to anyone and the relief which is said to immediately follow its use is a revelation to men and women who suffer from Backache, Kidney trouble or any form of Urinary disorder.

This is surely worth trying, as it is easily mixed at home or any druggist will do it for you, and doesn't cost

Dry Your Clothes on a Wet Washday With a New Perfection Oil Heater

Exact Copy of Wrapper

When clothes can't be hung outside, and must be dried in a room or cellar, the New Perfection Oil Heater quickly does the work of sun and air. You can hang up the wet clothes, light your Perfection Oil Heater, open the damper top, and the heat rises and quickly dries the clothes.

Do not put off washing to await a sunny day in order to avoid mildew. Dry your washing any day with hot air from a

It gives just as much heat as you desire. It is safe, odorless

It has an automatic-locking flame spreader, which is easy to remove and drop back, so the wick can be quickly cleaned. Burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, because of a new device in construction, and can always be easily unscrewed for rewicking.

An indicator shows the amount of oil in the font. Filler-cap does not need to be screwed down, but is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached to the font by a chain. Finished in japan or nickel, strong and durable, well-made, built for service and yet light and ornamental. It has a cool handle and a damper top.

HOUSEWIVES

Do you want to know about a wonderful new time, health and money-saving kitchen convenience?

Then you should see the complete line of "1892" Pure Spun Aluminum Cooking Utensils now on exhibition

This ware is guaranteed by the makers for 25 years. It is absolutely pure, wholesome and thoroughly hygienic, will not crack, scale, peel, break, rust, tarnish, scorch

It is light weight, easy to handle and easy to clean; makes kitchen work a delight instead of drudgery; saves your money, time, fuel; protects your health against metal poisoning and serious troubles resulting from chipping of small particles into the food, which is one of the dangers from the use of the old style enameled wares.

You buy patent carpet sweepers, egg-beaters, dishwashers, clothes-wringers and many other time and labor saving conveniences, but there is nothing that will prove a greater practical household blessing than the "1892" Pure Spun Aluminum Ware.

Lose no time in seeing for yourself what it will do. Your money back if this ware fails to do what is claimed for it.

Another Endorsement of the Chicago Stock Show.

The Hon. J. H. Skinner, dean of Agriculture, Purdue University, in speaking of the Chicago Stock Show, expressed himself as follows. "The International Live Stock Exposition, which will this year be held from Nov. 26th to Dec. 3rd, offers one of the greatest opportunities that come to farmers. It is one of the best educators in America. The standard set by the the very best and no farmer who Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat. attends this show can go away without carrying home to his business a broader conception of his work than he had before attending this great show.
