NOT TO BUILD COUNTY HOME

County Board Decides to Re-scind all Proceedings Referring to the Building of a New County Home

COUNTY BOND ISSUE ILLEGAL

E. Franckenberg Who Purchased the $42,000 County Bonds Refuses to Accept Them as They are Illegal

At the special meeting of the County Board held at West Bend last week Friday it was decided not to build the proposed County Home for Washington County, to replace the old poor house and farm. The action was taken as the result that E. Franckenberg, the successful bidder of the $42,000 issue of county bonds refused to purchase them, claiming through his attorneys that the bond issue was illegal.

It is claimed that the state laws do not recognize a county home as a county building, and nowhere in the statutes of the state is there a provision giving county boards the power to issue bonds for a county home. While there is no doubt about a county home being a county building, yet since the law does not cover the case the attorneys wished that the county make a test case, compelling Mr. Franckenberg to take the bonds and upon his refusal, to have the supreme court render its opinion. The county board however did not wish to incur any further additional expenses and decided against taking this step. The entire proceedings with reference to the county home were rescinded.

It is now thought likely that the county board next fall will authorize the sale of the present poor farm and use the proceeds together with an additional sum which is to be raised by direct taxes. The money at this time of the year cannot be raised by direct tax. Perhaps this would be the easier way of having a new county home built.

LOCAL CREAMERY HAS CLOSE CALL

Fire Broke Out at the Grell & Wollensak Creamery on Tuesday Evening

FIRE CHECKED BEFORE MAKING HEADWAY

The Blaze Was Noticed Before Any Damage Was Done. Fire Department Responds Promptly

Considerable excitement prevailed here last Tuesday evening at about 9:30 when fire broke out in the Grell & Wollensak creamery. The damage done was very slight, the fire being checked before it made any headway. The origin of the fire was the burning out of the smoke stack, sparks of which set fire to the roof of the boiler house. No one was in the building at the time of the fire. All the employees left the place at about 7 o'clock when they were finished with their days work.

Herman Backhaus was the first one to notice the blaze, after turning in the fire alarm he drove to Mr. Wollensak's home to notify the latter, who hurriedly drove back to the fire. Grabbing a fire chemical which is always in readiness in the building and with the aid of a ladder, Mr. Wollensak soon had the fire extinguished.

Only a few minutes more and the whole building would have been afire which would have meant a severe loss to the owners. Chances are also that a heavy conflagration would have resulted as there are several buildings close by.

All the fire apparatus was on the scene within a few minutes after the alarm, and everything was in readiness to fight the fire. Great credit must be given to the local fire department for responding so promptly.

This has been the second fire of that nature at the creamery within the past six months. The proprietors will now repair the place so that it will be fire proof.

Arrangements Completed for the Excursion

Full sheet posters are out for the third annual excursion of the Phil Sheridan Lodge No. 388 Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers which will be run to this village from Milwaukee on Sunday, August 20th. White's Military Band of Milwaukee has been engaged to furnish the music for the occasion. A special train will leave the North-western depot at 9 A. M. and returning train will leave Kewaskum at 11:30 P. M. There will be a ball game in the morning and various games in the afternoon. Liberal prizes will be awarded for all games. The day will close with a grand ball. The picnic and dance will be held at the North Side Park. The admission to the park will be free. Admission to the dance 50 cts. per couple.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement of Miss Clara Heinemann of the town of Scott to Austin Clark of Richland Center was announced last Monday. Miss Heinemann is a sister of Richard Heinemann of town Scott. She is a young lady at Schrauth's pond and is very popular in this vicinity. She is also a graduate of the local High School.

As to Mr. Clark, although the editor has met him only once, we must say that he is a young man of very good habits. He at present is employed in a drug store at Richland Center. He expects finishing a course in pharmacy at the Marquette college at Milwaukee next year. The STATESMAN together with their many friends extend their hearty congratulations.

Fisher Picnic at Schrauth's Pond.

Several of the married people together with their children of this village enjoyed themselves at a fisher picnic at Schrauth's pond last Sunday. Although the day was somewhat chilly all report a very good time. This day was a day for the women especially as the men entertained them by giving them a fish fry. As the weather was too cold and besides being somewhat windy the catching of the finny tribe was very small, so all had to be contented with what little they were served with. It is also reported that the men in charge of the fry were experts in that line. Refreshments of all kinds were also on hand.

A Peek Into His Pocket

FIREMEN'S PICNIC JULY 30

The Annual Picnic and Dance of the Local Fire Department to be Held July 30

ARRANGEMENTS ALL COMPLETED

The Committee in Charge Has Made all the Necessary Arrangements. Street Parade at 1:30 P. M.

The Fourth annual picnic and dance of the Kewaskum Firemen will be held in the North Side Park on Sunday, July 30th. The committee of arrangements have made all necessary arrangements to make the affair a decided success.

There will be a street parade composed of a band and the firemen in a body at 1:30 P. M. The procession will be formed at the city hall and then proceed east on Main Streets to the Mill Square, then back up to West Water Street, then to Buckeye and Wilhelm Streets to Railroad street then north as far as Malt House street, then west to Fond du Lac, then south to Main Street, then east to Railroad street and at last finishing by going to the park, where a grand picnic will be held in the afternoon.

One feature of the afternoon will be a tug of war between the Hook & Ladder Boys and the Firemen. The Firemen will seek revenge from their defeat of last year. The latter also out weigh the Hook & Ladder Boys on the average of 50 to 75 pounds a person. Games of other sorts will be on hand for the enjoyment of all.

The day will close with a grand ball in the evening. The Kewaskum Brass Band will furnish the concert music in the afternoon, and the Kewaskum Quintette the dance music in the evening.

The committee in charge of this occasion extend a hearty and cordial invitation to all to participate in the enjoyment. A good time is assured to all.

Notice to Painters.

Sealed proposals will be received by the undersigned, at the county clerk's office, at West Bend, Wis., up to July 29th, 1911 at 4:00 o'clock P. M., for painting the metal roof of the court house including tower; also all wood and metal surface on court house and tower above foot of roof. Roof paint will be furnished by the county, but all other paint as well as all tools, material and equipment necessary to do the work must be furnished by the contractor. One coat of paint on the roof and two coats on all other surface will be required.

For further information call on the undersigned.

The right to reject any or all bids is reserved.

Dated July 17th, 1911.

STATE FAIR IN SEPTEMBER

The Annual State Fair Will be Held at Milwaukee From September 12 to 16

ATTRACTIONS BETTER THAN EVER

The Attractions This Year Are Many and Better Than Ever Before

As September rolls around each year and the annual State Fair becomes the topic in agricultural and industrial circles, the oft repeated phrase "this year's State Fair will be greater than any of its predecessors" sounds familiar to those interested. To a certain extent this statement has been true each year, but in bettering some departments or some features of the educational and agricultural institution in the past, other features and departments have been neglected.

The 1911 State Fair has been organized to the point when the "greater than ever" phrase becomes permissible. The State Board of Agriculture has gone at this year's Fair more deliberate and on broader principles than heretofore and as a result the grain growing farmer, the dairy farmer and the beef breeding farmer will find something in every minutes time spent at the Fair in Milwaukee, September 12 to 16, that will compensate him many fold for the time and expense indulged in during a visit to the state's agricultural show.

The State Horticultural Society will demonstrate to the landseeker that Wisconsin offers a better apple growing field than any of the western states. In a tent separate from the regular horticultural exhibits, Secretary Cranefield of the State Horticultural Society will make an exhibit of apples grown in Wisconsin for the commercial market. In this apple show, the first of its kind to be held in Wisconsin, there will be more than 300 exhibits of a bushel or barrel of apples of every variety grown in the state.

The State Immigration Commissioner, also in a separate and distinct exhibit from the regular county exhibits, will show a collection of grasses and grains developed in the cut-over counties of Northern Wisconsin, through the co-operation of settlers and the University of Wisconsin Agricultural College.

The State Fair Board, through its special attraction committee, will provide a variety of entertainment for the visitors to the Fair. One of the attractive features for every day of the Fair will be an exhibition of the progress of aeronautics. There will be shown in one time in the air the familiar hot air balloon with its parachute jumper; the dirigible balloon, steered by its engineer into and across the winds, and the aeroplane, the latest and most sensational "heavier than air" device invented for aerial navigation. These aerial devices will be in operation in front of the grand stand at the same time every afternoon and evening and will afford a unique and sensational attraction.

The women of Wisconsin are to come into their own during State Fair and one of the days of Fair week will be turned over to them, during which a programme, in which men can only be a listener and onlooker, will be rendered.

Another event that will be new will be a Military Day, Saturday September 16, when as many of the state troops as can be mobilized on the fair grounds will be gathered there. It is the intention of the Military Day Committee to have the three arms of the state militia, the infantry, cavalry and artillery represented in the maneuvers and to enhance the importance of the military undertaking the State Board of Agriculture has petitioned the Secretary of War to assign detachments of the three branches of the regular army from Ft. Snelling and Ft. Sheridan to cooperate with the state troops in enacting a sham battle.

The Nearest Cheap Lands Surrounded by Good Markets Are in Wisconsin.

Those lands are just as fertile and just as well located as to the markets as the lands in the older part of the state that have made Wisconsin famous for her butter, cheese, live stock, grains, potatoes, and vegetable products. Prices vary according to character, improvements and whether land is cut-over or timber. Information can be had by addressing, Wisconsin Information Bureau, Care of this Office.

Notice to Carpenters.

Notice is hereby given that the School Board of School District No. 9 of the town of Auburn will receive sealed bids for the building of an entrance to their school house building. For full particulars call at the clerk's office or at the meeting to be held on Saturday July 29th at 7 P. M. at the school house. The board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Dated, Campbellsport, Wis., July 19th, 1911.
 R. G. Buettner, District Clerk, Campbellsport, Wis. R. D. 32.

When a Man Marries

SYNOPSIS.

James Wilson or Jimmy as he is called by his friends, was round and looked shorter than he really was. His ambition in life was to be taken seriously, but people steadily refused to do so, his art is considered a huge joke, except to himself. If he asked people to dinner everyone expected a frolic. Jimmy marries Bella Knowles; they live together a year and are divorced. Jimmy's friends arrange to celebrate the first anniversary of his divorce. The party is in full swing when Jimmy receives a telegram from his Aunt Selina, who will arrive in four hours to visit him and his wife. He neglects to tell her of his divorce. Jimmy takes Kit into his confidence. He suggests that Kit play the hostess for one night, be Mrs. Wilson pro tem. Aunt Selina arrives and the deception works out as planned. Jim's jay servant is taken ill. Bella, Jimmy's divorced wife, enters the house and asks Kit who is being taken away in the ambulance? Bella insists it is Jim. Kit tells her Jim is well and is in the house. Harbison steps out on the porch and discovers a man tacking a card on the door. He demands an explanation. The man points to the placard and Harbison sees the word "Smallpox" printed on it. He tells him the guests cannot leave the house until the quarantine is lifted. After the lifting of the quarantine several letters are found in the mail box undelivered, one is addressed to Henry Llewellyn, Iguilous, Chile, which was written by Harbison. He describes minutely of their incarceration, also of his infatuation for Mrs. Wilson. Aunt Selina is taken ill with la grippe. Betty acts as nurse. Harbison finds Kit snoring on the roof. She tells him that Jim has been treating her outrageously. Kit starts downstairs, when suddenly she is grasped in the arms of a man who kisses her several times. She believes that Harbison did it and is humiliated. Aunt Selina tells Jimmy that her cameo brooch and other articles of jewelry have been stolen. She accuses Betty of the theft. Jimmy tells Aunt Selina all about the strange happenings, but she persists in suspecting Betty of the theft of her valuables. Harbison demands an explanation from Kit as to her conduct towards him, she tells him of the incident on the roof, he does not deny nor confirm her accusation. Aunt Selina is awakened during the night; she finds Jim making love to Bella; she demands an explanation from Jim. Bella reveals the whole plot to Aunt Selina. She forgives both of them, but calls Kit a Jezebel. She tells Jim to reveal the true situation to Harbison.

"Playing the part of Mrs. Wilson!" he repeated. "Do you mean—?"

"Exactly. Playing the part. She is not Mrs. Wilson. It seems that that honor belonged at one time to Miss Knowles. I believe such things are not unknown in New York, only why in the name of sense does a man want to divorce a woman and then meet her at two o'clock in the morning to kiss the place where his own wedding ring used to rest?"

Jim fidgeted. Bella was having spasms of mirth to herself, but the Harbison man did not smile. He stood for a moment looking at the fire. Then he thrust his hands deep into the pockets of his dressing-gown and stalked over to me. He did not care that the others were watching and listening.

"Is it true?" he demanded, staring down at me. "You are not Mrs. Wilson? You are not married at all? All that about being neglected—and loathing him, and all that on the roof—there was no foundation of truth?"

I could only shake my head without looking up. There was no defense to make. Oh, I deserved the scorn in his voice.

"They—they persuaded you, I suppose, and it was to help somebody? It was not a practical joke?"

"No." I rallied a little spirit at that. It had been anything but a joke.

He drew a long breath.

"I think I understand," he said slowly, "but—you could have saved me something. I must have given you all a great deal of amusement."

"Oh, no," I protested. "I—I want to tell you—"

But he deliberately left me and went over to the door. There he turned and looked down at Aunt Selina. He was a little white, but there was no passion in his face.

"Thank you for telling me all this, Miss Caruthers," he said easily. "Now that you and I know, I'm afraid the others will miss their little diversion. Good night."

Oh, it was all right for Jim to laugh and say that he was only buffed a little and would be over it by morning. I knew better. There was something queer in his face as he went out. He did not even glance in my direction. He had said very little, but he had put me as effectually in the wrong as if he had not kissed me—deliberately kissed me—that very evening, on the roof.

I did not go to sleep again. I lay wretchedly thinking things over and trying to remember who Jezebel was, and toward morning I distinctly heard the knob of the door turn. I mistrusted my ears, however, and so I got up quietly and went over in the darkness. There was no sound outside, but when I put my hand on the knob I felt it move under my fingers. The counter pressure evidently alarmed whoever it was, for the knob was released and nothing more happened. But by this time anything so uncomplimentary as the fumbling of a knob at night had no power to disturb me. I went back to bed.

CHAPTER XX.

Breaking Out in a New Place.

Hunger roused everybody early the next morning, Friday. Lella Mercer had discovered a box of bonbons that she had forgotten, and we divided them around. Aunt Selina asked for the candied fruit and got it—quite a third of the box. We gathered in the lower hall and on the stairs and nibbled nauseating sweets while Mr. Harbison examined the telephone.

He did not glance in my direction. Betty and Dal were helping him, and he seemed very cheerful. Max sat with me on the stairs. Mr. Harbison had just unscrewed the telephone box from the wall and was squinting into it, when Bella came downstairs. It was her first appearance, but as she was always late, nobody noticed. When she stopped, just above us on the stairs, however, we looked up, and she was holding to the rail and trembling perceptibly.

"Mr. Harbison, will you—can you come upstairs?" she asked. Her voice was strained, almost reedy, and her lips were white.

Mr. Harbison stared up at her, with the telephone box in his hands.

"Why—er—certainly," he said, "but unless it's very important, I'd like to fix this talking machine. We want to make a food record."

"I'd like to break a food record," Max put in, but Bella created a diversion by sitting down suddenly on the stair just above us, and burying her face in her handkerchief.

"Jim is sick," she said, with a sob. "He—he doesn't want anything to eat, and his head aches. He—said for me—to go away and let him die!"

Dal dropped the hammer immediately, and Lollie Mercer sat petrified, with a bonbon half-way to her mouth. For, of course, it was unexpected, finding sentiment of any kind in Bella, and none of them knew about the scene in the den in the small hours of the morning.

"Sick!" Aunt Selina said, from a hall chair. "Sick! Where?"

"All over," Bella quavered. "His poor head is hot, and he's thirsty, but he doesn't want anything but water."

"Great Scott!" Dal said suddenly. "Suppose he should—Bella, are you telling us all his symptoms?"

Bella put down her handkerchief and got up. From her position on the stairs she looked down at us with something of her old haughty manner.

"If he is ill, you may blame yourselves, all of you," she said cruelly. "You taunted him with being—fat, and laughed at him, until he stopped eating the things he should eat. And he has been exercising—on the roof, until he has worn himself out. And now—he is ill. He—he has a rash."

Everybody jumped at that, and we instinctively moved away from Bella. She was quite cold and scornful by that time.

"A rash!" Max exclaimed. "What sort of rash?"

"I did not see it," Bella said with dignity, and turning she went up the stairs.

There was a great deal of excitement, and nobody except Mr. Harbison was willing to go near Jim. He went up at once with Bella, while Max and Dal sat cravenly downstairs and wondered if we would all take it, and Anne told about a man she knew who had it, and was deaf and dumb and blind when he recovered.

Mr. Harbison came down after a while, and said that the rash was there, right enough, and that Jim absolutely refused to be quarantined; that he insisted that he always got a rash from early strawberries and that if he did have anything, since they were so touchy he hoped they would all get it. If they locked him in he would kick the door down.

When the doctor came he said it was too early to tell positively, and he ordered him liquid diet and said he would be back that evening.

Which—the diet—takes me back to the famine. After they had moved Jim, Mr. Harbison went back to the telephone, and found everything as it should be. So he followed the telephone wire, and the rest followed him. I did not; He had systematically ignored me all morning, after having dared to kiss me the night before. And any other man I knew, after looking at me the way he had looked a dozen times, would have been at least reasonably glad to find me free and unmarried. But it was clear that he was not; I wondered if he was the kind of man who always makes love to the other man's wife and runs like mad when she is left a widow, or gets a divorce.

And just when I had decided that I hated him, and that there was one man I knew who would never make love to a woman whom he thought married and then be very dignified and aloof when he found she wasn't, I heard what was wrong with the telephone wire.

It had been cut! Cut through with a pair of silver manicure scissors from the dressing table in Bella's room, where Aunt Selina slept! The wire had been clipped where it came into the house, just under a window, and the scissors still lay on the sill.

It was mysterious enough, but no one was interested in the mystery just then. We wanted food, and wanted it at once. Mr. Harbison fixed the wire, and the first thing we did, of course, was to order something to eat. Aunt Selina went to bed just after luncheon with indignation, to the relief of every one in the house. She had been most unpleasant all morning.

When she found herself ill, however, she insisted on having Bella, and that made trouble at once. We found Bella with her cheek against the door into Jim's room, looking maudlin while he shouted love messages to her from the other side. At first she refused to stir, but after Anne and Max had tried and failed, the rest of us went to her in a body and implored her. We said Aunt Selina was in awful shape—which she was, as to temper—and that she had thrown a mustard plaster at Anne, which was true.

So Bella went, grumbling, and Jim was a maniac. We had not thought it would be so bad for Bella, but Aunt Selina fell asleep soon after she took charge, holding Bella's hand, and slept for three hours and never let go!

About two that afternoon the sun came out, and the rest of us went up to the roof.

I stayed on the roof after the others had gone, and for some time I thought I was alone. After a while, I got a whiff of smoke, and then I saw Mr. Harbison far over in the corner, one foot on the parapet, moodily smoking a pipe. He was gazing out over the river, and paying no attention to me. This was natural, considering that I had hardly spoken to him all day.

I would not let him drive me away, so I sat still, and it grew darker and colder. He filled his pipe now and then, but he never looked in my direction. Finally, however, as it grew very dusk, he knocked the ashes out and came toward me.

"I am going to make a request, Miss McNair," he said evenly. "Please keep off the roof after sunset. There are—reasons." I had risen and was preparing to go downstairs.

"Unless I know the reasons, I refuse to do anything of the kind," I retorted. He bowed.

"Then the door will be kept locked," he rejoined, and opened it for me. He did not follow me, but stood watching until I was down, and I heard him close the roof door firmly behind me.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Ask the Grocer.

Paternalism with a vengeance is practiced in certain New York groceries. It is benevolent paternalism though.

"Ma wants two pounds of sugar," said a child to a patriarch in the trade.

He consulted a calendar on the wall.

"I guess you'd better take only a pound today," he said, "and go kind of slow on that. The week is only half gone, but you have already eaten up three-fourths of your allowance. Tell your mother so."

The child promised to deliver the report on financial depression.

"That is the only way on earth to keep those people from running into debt," said the grocer. "The system is common in this neighborhood. I do it at the customers' request. Every pay day women with spendthrift husbands and an extravagant disposition of their own deposit enough money with the grocer and butcher to see the family through the week. They instruct us to let no one overdraw the amount and except in cases where extra food is actually needed we stick to our end of the bargain."

Care of Screens.

Window and door screens usually get very dusty during the latter part of the summer, and it is poor economy to put them away in that condition; neither is it a good idea to wash them just before storing unless they are most carefully dried to prevent rusting. Kerosene applied with a paint brush cleans the wires better than water, and also prevents rusting.

His Intelligence.

Negley—You seem to have a poor opinion of Polder's intelligence.

Gaymer—You would, too, if you knew he had been looking in the city directory three days for Ziegler's address and had got only as far as the D's.

Good Scheme.

"Out at my uncle's the people go to bed with the chickens."

"Well, at the price chickens sell at now they are certainly worth watching."

Still Smoking.

"In the other life," said the new life faddist, "we simply develop what have been our tastes in this."

"Humph!" ejaculated a listener.

The New Version.

Take care of the pennies and the dollars will take care of your heirs.—Life.

Speaking of the Divorce Evil

Trying to succeed in business without advertising is like the case of the man who, trying to cut expenses, divorced his wife and alone attempted to keep house and raise his children. It cost him more money for doctor bills and funeral expenses in a year than he gave his wife in a lifetime.

When advertising is divorced, business success becomes failure.

This paper is building your neighbor's business. He has reasons. He tried advertising and it helped him. It is not an experiment—this paper brings results. Good, hard, convincing results—dollars.

Kill More Than Wild Beasts.

The number of people killed yearly by wild beasts don't approach the vast number killed by disease germs. No life is safe from their attacks. They're in air, water, dust, even food. But grand protection is afforded by Electric Bitters, which destroy and expel these deadly disease germs from the system. That's why chills, fever and ague, all malarial and many blood diseases yield promptly to this wonderful blood purifier. Try them, and enjoy the glorious health and new strength they'll give you. Money back, if not satisfied. Only 50c at all Druggists.

AN EVENING OF PLEASURE

At the theatre or party is more complete when, upon reaching home, you enjoy together, a glass or two of

LITHIA BEER.

And it is much more than passing pleasure you derive from it. It exerts a needed soothing, quieting effect upon the nerves, following the excitement of the evening that fits one for a night of sound, refreshing sleep. If there were less coffee and more Lithia beer drunk between the hours of 6 p. m. and midnight there would be much less insomnia.

Get a case of this exquisite beer for home use.

Exhausted Housewives

It is strange that the modern housewife with her many duties neglects to care for herself as men do.

The care of a home and children, the countless little tasks and steps, the responsibility, the washing, ironing, baking, serving of meals, is not only confining, but exhausting to woman's energy, and this, more than anything else, deprives her of robust health and beauty.

Many women under such conditions resort to too much tea and coffee drinking, which only stimulates by drug effect, increases the harm and ultimately ruins the health.

To the housewife with her cares, we earnestly say, drink BONANO at your meals and cold or iced between meals. Keep a large pitcher handy and drink it freely at your work.

It will refresh and sustain you. Your nerves will be benefited, your digestion improved, your complexion will clear up.

BONANO, being made from fruit, is corrective, and will tend to keep you normal and regular.

Eat lightly and take plenty of liquid food, especially during exhausting summer days.

Turn to BONANO today and your tasks will lighten—be easier for you. You will feel better, look better, be better.

BONANO is sold by all up-to-date grocers.

We will send a sample package—enough for 10 big cups—for a 2c stamp. Just address letter to Hughes and son Harold, and the Misses Myrtle and Lilian Knickel, Gladys Wenzel, Edna Wrucke, Elizabeth Brown, Lydia Vetsch, and Wm. and Leonard Knickel.

A very interesting game of baseball was played here last Sunday between the Pirates and the Cubs two teams from this village. The score resulted in a victory for the Cubs, 13 to 3. One feature of the game was that nearly every one of the Pirates were disabled before the game ended. They are now all complaining of lame backs and limbs. They expect to, after a little more practice, challenge the Chicago Cubs and Philadelphia Athletics for the world's championship. We wish them success.

Escaped With His Life.

"Twenty-one years ago I faced an awful death," writes H. B. Martin, Port Harrelson, S. C. "Doctors said I had consumption and the dreadful cough I had looked like it, sure enough. I tried everything, I could hear of, for my cough, and was under the treatment of the best doctor in Georgetown, S. C. for a year, but could get no relief. A friend advised me to try Dr. King's New Discovery. I did so, and was completely cured. I feel that I owe my life to this great throat and lung cure. Its positively guaranteed for coughs, colds, and all bronchial affections. 50c & $1.00 Trial bottle free at all Druggists.
