ARTICHOKE AN IMPORTANT ITEM ON THE MENU.

Large Number of Dishes That Are Easy to Prepare, and Delicious—Should Be No Problem to the Home Cook.

But the ways of cooking the artichoke are legion. Some of these are genuine "creations" of celebrated chefs and are too elaborate for the practical housewife.

Artichokes Hollandaise.—Boil artichokes in salted water. Drain; serve on platter garnished with parsley and lemon. Serve hollandaise sauce separate.

Artichokes in Combination Salads.—An infinity of combination salads may be made with the artichoke as the principal ingredient; artichoke hearts, with lettuce, chicory or escarole and a few asparagus points, or with a little cauliflower, string beans, carrots and two or three anchovies; or chopped chicken and celery and peas or stoned olives and sardines boned, skinned, etc.; all are palatable if good dressing is used and everything well chilled.

Artichokes With Mayonnaise.—Boil the artichokes 20 minutes in well salted water. Serve hot, or thoroughly chilled, with mayonnaise. If it is desired that the artichoke should be of a bright green color when cooked, add one-half cup of vinegar to the boiling water when the artichokes are placed in it.

Artichokes Scrambled With Eggs.—Cut in very small pieces the artichokes from which have been removed the stem, points and hard outer leaves. Cook slowly in olive oil or butter. Season to taste; when cooked, break in eggs; mix all together. Cook and serve.

Artichokes (Popular Style).—Remove one-half an inch from the sharp points of the leaves. Cut the stalks close. Wash in vinegar and cold water to draw out any insects that may be there. Drain and lay artichokes in a pot of boiling salted water; boil gently until you can draw a leaf easily, but do not cook too much. Drain upside down till dry. Serve hot with sauce hollandaise or cold with plain french dressing, tartar sauce or mayonnaise. The time for boiling will take from 25 minutes to one hour, according to the size and age of the artichoke.

Artichoke Hearts With Cream Sauce.—Remove the hard outer leaves and the pointed ends of the artichokes, leaving only the tender parts; parboil these; cut each in four pieces; put them in a casserole with butter, pepper, salt, a little flour, cream or milk, and boil all together until the sauce is perfectly blended and reduced to the quantity needed to serve properly.—The Delineator.

Chicken Halibut Salad.—Cut three pounds of chicken halibut in one-inch slices and cook them in a court bouillon made from two quarts of cold water, one carrot, two onions, one-half a wineglassful of vinegar and seasoned to taste with thyme, bay leaves, parsley root, salt and whole pepper. Boil this bouillon 30 minutes, then allow it to cool before placing the fish in it. Cook for the boiling point for ten minutes, then remove from the fire and chill the fish on ice. Make a dressing from one soup-spoonful of french tarragon mustard, one spoonful of vinegar, three spoonfuls of olive oil, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of minced chervil, and chives and pepper to taste.

Bar-le-Duc.—The very choice preserve known as bar-le-duc is made from the large cherry currants. Remove the seeds, using for this purpose a quill or darning needle, taking them out from the stem end. To three pounds of these prepared currants allow four pounds and one-half of sugar and one cupful of water. Make a sirup of the sugar and water, stirring until the sugar is dissolved and the sirup makes a soft ball when dropped into cold water. Add the currants, bring to the boiling point, take from the fire, turn into hot, sterilized glasses and seal like jelly.

Russian Chicken.—The Russians have a delicious dish of stewed chicken which calls for a fat chicken, mushrooms, onion, cauliflower and one cupful of fresh or French canned peas. The chicken should be cut up as for fricasseeing, then stewed in boiling water, to which the raw vegetables have been added, the onions being added whole. Cook slowly till tender. Drain off the gravy and thicken with flour and cream, place the chicken on a platter surrounded with the cooked vegetables and covered with the gravy.

Dripless Tea Strainer.—Tea strainers that will not drip or stain a tablecloth are now being manufactured. The perforated mesh for straining the tea is on top of one end of a deep bowl-shaped spoon which forms the bottom when strainer is resting on the table. When in use the strainer is held sideways over a cup so that the tea flows into the bowl and then back through the perforations. Any liquid that is left in the perforations drips back into the bowl when the strainer is laid down.—Popular Mechanics.

Lactone, or Artificial Buttermilk.—This is decidedly a health beverage, as the lactic acid ferment it contains acts as a prophylactic against the putrefactive bacteria. The tablets may be purchased at any drug-store and contain full directions for making. This is more nutritious than buttermilk, as it is made of whole milk.

SCENE WHEN GERMANY AND RUSSIA BROKE RELATIONS

St. Petersburg. It was midnight Friday when Count von Pourtales, the German ambassador to Russia, visited Foreign Minister Sazanoff and asked for an urgent interview. As soon as he was received he formally called upon Russia to cease her mobilization in twelve hours.

The Russian statesman replied: "Inasmuch as the Russian government has not answered within the time you specified, it follows that Russia has declined to agree with your demand." Three times Count von Pourtales repeated the German ultimatum and each time the Russian foreign minister met his statement with the same firm negative. Finally Count von Pourtales rose from his chair, bowed to the foreign minister and left the room without another word. He and the members of his staff at once departed from St. Petersburg. According to the Novoe Vremya, Count von Pourtales held in his hand the typewritten texts of two replies from Germany. One was for the presentation in the event of Russian acceptance of the German ultimatum and the other in case of the rejection. In his great agitation the German ambassador presented both replies to M. Sazanoff at the same time.

THINGS THAT ARE AND ARE NOT CONTRABAND

Under international law, there are two kinds of contraband—absolute and conditional. The former applies to materials of direct military use, such as ammunition, guns, shells, explosives, etc. The conditional contraband has never been definitely outlined, but a ruling is usually made in each case. The law of nations permits a belligerent to exercise a certain jurisdiction over neutral commerce in time of war, and many articles which may be of use to an army or navy, such as coal oil, and even foodstuffs, are often prohibited. A classification which is supported by American and English decisions, divides all merchandise into the following: 1. Articles manufactured and primarily or ordinarily used for military purposes in time of war. 2. Articles which may be, and are, used for the purposes of war or peace, according to the circumstances. 3. Articles used exclusively for peaceful purposes. Merchandise of the first class destined to a belligerent country is always contraband. Merchandise of the second class is contraband only when destined for the military or naval use of a belligerent; while merchandise of the third class never is contraband at all, though liable to seizure and condemnation for violation of blockade or siege.
