BOARD FINALLY VOTES INCREASE

Supervisors Refuse Raise in Register in Probate's Salary, Then Reconsider Action

(From the Lac Reporter)
After defeating a motion to raise the salary of the register in probate from $1,000 to $1,200 per year at Thursday evening's session, the county board Friday morning reconsidered its action and granted the increase.
Motion to raise the salary was made Thursday evening by Supervisor Ryan following the reading of the report of the committee on salaries and bonds. The vote was 24 for the increase and 20 in opposition with six members not voting. Chairman Worthing held that as a majority of the members present had not voted affirmatively the motion was lost.
An attempt to have another roll call was made by Supervisor Ryan who claimed that it had been impossible to tell whether some of the supervisors had voted for or against the motion; but he was ruled out of order on the ground that a motion to reconsider must come from the prevailing side.
To settle the matter, it was decided that the supervisors could examine the record of the roll call, and, if there were any mistakes, they could be brought to the attention of the board this morning.
No objection to the roll call record was voiced today, but Supervisor Whiting moved to reconsider, a vote was taken, the result was 35 to 15 for the increase. Supervisor Edgar Zobel of Ripon explained the duties of the register, said that they were too great for one person to do without doing overtime work, and stated that if the present register is willing to put in this overtime he is entitled to the $1,200 salary.
One other salary was raised by the board, it was that of Alvin Carew, clerk to the county clerk. His salary was made $720 instead of $420, the present figure.
Salaries of the various county officers as fixed by the board are as follows: county clerk, $1,500; county treasurer, $1,000; district attorney, $1,500; sheriff, $420; superior judge, $300.
The salaries of the minor officers and assistants are: clerk to the county clerk $720; register in probate, $1,200; clerk of the superior court, $300; superior court reporter, $300; district attorney's stenographer, $420.
Bonds for all of the above officers and assistants were unchanged.

After the wedding ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride's brother, Hubert Klein near St. Bridgets, where the occasion was celebrated with only close relatives in attendance. The house was very beautifully decorated in red and green.

The bride is a young lady with a host of friends and acquaintances. She is of a very jovial disposition and sure to be a happy companion. The groom is not so very well known in this community. He however, is a young man of honest habits and very prominent in his home town, Ellsworth, Wis.

Last Sunday morning while Maurice Rosenheimer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Rosenheimer, of this village was engaged in greasing a belt from a counter shaft to a cleaning machine on the fifth floor of the Rosenheimer Malt Plant, the wire facing of the belt in some manner came in contact with the jacket sleeve of Mr. Rosenheimer and forcibly drew his arm between the belt and the pulley, breaking the arm above the wrist. Mr. Rosenheimer was also forcibly thrown about 10 feet to the floor. Soon after the accident the injured man went to Doctor Hausmann's office to have the arm attended to. At the present writing Mr. Rosenheimer is getting along as nicely as can be expected. The injury is a severe loss to the local city basket ball team, as Mr. Rosenheimer has always been one of the star forwards.

The THOUSANDTH WOMAN by ERNEST W. HORNUNG

Author of 'The Amateur Cracksmen', 'Raffles', etc. Illustrations by O. Irwin Myers

The trusty, sisterly, sensible voice, half bantering but altogether kind, genuinely interested if the tone to a harder or more hardened heart than beat on Blanche's balcony that night.

"How do you know? I believe you're going to devote yourself to this poor man—if you can get him off—I mean, when you do?"

"Well?" he said. "Surely I could help you there! Especially if he's ill," cried Blanche, encouraged by his silence.

"Does he look very ill?" "I'm certain you're not," said Blanche with confidence. And then she read, rather shyly and not too well.

"One man in a thousand," Solomon says. "Will stick more close than a brother. And it's worth while seeking him half your days."

"I should hope he would," said Blanche. "But this is the man for you," said Blanche.

"His wrong's your wrong, and his right's your right. In season or out of season. Stand up and back it in all men's sight—With what for your only reason. Nine hundred and ninety-nine can't bide the shame or mocking or laughter. But the Thousandth Man will stand by your side. To the gallows-foot—and after!"

The last words were italics in Blanche's voice, and it trembled, but so did Blanche's as he cried out in his formula: "That's the finest thing I ever heard in all my life! But it's true, and so it should be. I don't take any credit for it."

"Then you're all the more the thousandth man!"

He caught her suddenly by the shoulders. His rough hands trembled; his jaw worked. "Look here, Blanche! If you had a friend, wouldn't you do it?"

He was too much of one to sit still under the name. He sprang up, beating his hands. "Why shouldn't I be—" to see her, the instant he landed, or seemed so overjoyed, and such a boy again, or made so much of her and their common memories? He need not have begun begging her, in a minute, to go out to Australia, and then never have mentioned it again; he might just as well have told her if he had or hoped to have a wife to welcome her.

Curiously enough, it was over Martha that she felt least able to forgive him. Martha would say nothing, but her unspoken denunciations of Blanche would be only less intolerable than her unspoken sympathy with Blanche.

Now among all these meditations of a long night, and of a still longer day, in which nobody even troubled to send her word of the case at Kingston, it would be too much to say that no thought of Hilton Toye ever entered the mind of Blanche.

"I Guess I'm Not Fit to Speak to You," He Said.

and will. She literally felt these forces, as actual emanations from the strongest personality that had ever impinged upon her own.

In the day of reaction, such considerations were bound to steal in as forlorn spies, each with a certain consolation, not altogether innocent of comparisons. But the battalion of Toye's virtues only marched on Blanche when Martha came to her, on the little green rug of a lawn behind the house, to say that Mr. Toye himself had called and was in the drawing-room.

Blanche stole up past the door, and quickly made herself smarter than she had ever done by day for Walter Cazale; at least she put on a "dressed" blouse, her calling skirt (which all ways looked new), and did what she could to her hair.

"I guess I'm not fit to speak to you," he said, "but that's just what I've come to do—for the third time!"

"Oh, Mr. Toye!" cried Blanche, really frightened by the face that made his meaning clear. It relaxed a little as she shrank involuntarily, but the compassion in his eyes and mouth did not lessen their steady determination.

"I didn't have time to make myself presentable," he explained. "I thought you wouldn't have me waste a moment if you understood the situation. I want you to promise to marry me right now!"

Blanche began to breathe again. Evidently he was on the eve of yet another of his journeys, probably back to America, and he wanted to go over engaged; at first she had thought he had bad news to break to her, but this was no worse than she had heard before.

Vom Schauplatz des europäischen Völker-Krieges

Lord Kitchener soll Ägypten und Indien für England retten! — Die N. Y. Staatszeitung meldet, daß das die neueste und bedeutame Erklärung der „Sondermission“ ist, auf welche sich der britische Kriegsminister nach dem Orient begeben hat.

London. Die englische Regierung hat ihren ersten entscheidenden Schritt getan, um die Auswanderung kriegsdienstfähiger britischer Untertanen zu verhindern, welche in beträchtlicher Anzahl bereits auf diese Weise dem Militärdienst entgangen sind.

Seitdem sich die Tumor - Linie geneigt hat, britische Untertanen, welche sich zum Militärdienst eignen, zu befördern, haben die Ankor- und die White Star Linie einen gleichen Schritt getan.

Rumänien weist Vorschläge der Alliierten ab. Berlin. Das Ueberseeische Nachrichtenbureau meldet: Rumänische Zeitungen veröffentlichten eine halböffentliche Erklärung, daß rumänische bewaffnete Einmischung nur stattfinden werde, wenn Rumänien wesentliche Interessen bedroht würden.

Nach der deutschen Ansicht ist diese Erklärung ein Beweis von Rumänien's Ablehnung der von den Alliierten am 28. Oktober gemachten neuen Vorschläge.

St. Petersburg, über London. Ausland hat die russische Regierung davon in Kenntnis gesetzt, daß das englisch - russische Abkommen über die Aufrechterhaltung der perfekten Integrität und Unabhängigkeit auf der Stelle aufgehoben sei, falls sich die Gerichte als nicht herausstellen, nach denen Verträge in Sonderabkommen mit Deutschland und der Türkei getroffen haben soll.

Die Erklärung des Befehlshabers, heißt es weiter, beziehe sich nicht nur auf das gegenwärtige Kabinett, sondern auf irgend eine perijische Regierung, welche daran denken sollte, das Schicksal Belgiens an das von Völkern zu knüpfen, mit denen Ausland im Kriege ist.

Washington. Sobald der Kongreß zusammentritt, werden erneute Ausforderungen gemacht werden, einen Verzicht zu lassen, wonach die Waffen- und Munitionsausfuhr an die Kriegführenden in Europa verboten werden soll.

FIGHT ON MOUNTAIN HEIGHTS

Italians and Austrians Battle Among Peaks That Are Considered Almost Inaccessible. Italy's Alpine troops, mountain artillery and several regiments of bersaglieri (sharpshooters) are apparently bearing the brunt of the war with Austria.

A company of Alpini was on the march at night along a mountain path skirting a valley 200 feet below. The path was narrow and a false step meant death. The men marched carefully and slowly in Indian file and kept well in from the edge.

Manhattan Is Flat-Footed. Little old Manhattan is flat-footed, wears poor shoes and stands up at its work, according to figures compiled by Capt. Frank E. Evans of the recruiting office of the United States Marine Corps.

When Chicago Burned. The great Chicago fire began Sunday evening, October 8, 1871, and continued till Tuesday morning—about thirty-six hours. Area burned over, 2,100 acres, or about three square miles; buildings destroyed, 17,450; people rendered homeless, 98,500; killed, 200. Total loss, $190,000,000; insurance, $14,000,000.

Mr. Growcher Grateful That He Didn't Have to Partake of the Welsh Rabbit. "Yep," said Mr. Growcher, "nothing was made in vain. Everything that earth produces may serve some useful purpose, if you can only find out what it is. There is a whole lot to think about in that story of the mouse who gnawed the net for the captured lion."

Only Once. "Do you see the man?" "Yes. I see the man." "What is he doing?" "He is blowing his fingers, jumping up and down and acting in such a way that his wife looked at him in astonishment and fear. There, he has kicked over two chairs, torn down the lace curtains and made a rush for the kitchen."

Could Not Understand Capacity. During the public inspection of a Red Cross hospital train on tour through Scotland thousands of people passed through the barrier at one particular station and came out at a different exit. Open-eyed, a countryman stood at the entrance watching the crowds. At length he burst out to a bystander: "Great Scot! that man be an awfu' big train that's gawn ta France. I've been standin' here for twa solid hours seein' the folk gang intil it, an' she's not filled yet."

Sad Pleasure. A minister who had resigned from his church was making his farewell calls. He called at the home of one of his parishioners who sent her little girl down to the parlor to entertain the minister for a few minutes, the mother not being dressed to receive him. After a few of the customary remarks about the weather the little girl said to the minister: "I hear that we are to have the sad pleasure of losing you."

It Surely Is. "Pa, what is afection?" "Afection, my boy, is carrying three extra tires on an automobile that never gets more than four blocks away from a garage."—Detroit Free Press.

The Exception. "All the world loves a lover." "Except the boss who is expected to raise his salary on the wedding day."

There is in the heart of most women such a deep well of love that the winter of old age can't freeze it. A man's idea of a phenomenon is another man who never loses a collar button.

A Powerful Physique Is a valuable asset, but— Strength of body must be combined with a healthy, active mind, to make for success. It is well established that both body and brain are nourished and rebuilt daily from food—each taking up the particular elements required. Grape-Nuts FOOD made of wheat and malted barley, supplies all the rich nutriment of the grains, including the vital mineral elements necessary for building stout bodies and active brains. Grape-Nuts food not only supplies rich, well-balanced nourishment, but is delicious and easy to digest. "There's a Reason" —sold by grocers.

HAD ORIGIN IN DIPLOMACY Famous Phrase Which is Often Used Has Been Ascribed to a Bishop of Milan. "When you are in Rome do as Rome does," is one of the proverbs that are so old that their origin is lost in the mists of antiquity. It is generally asserted, however, that it arose from the following incident given in one of St. Augustine's epistles: "Augustine was in the habit of dining upon Saturday as upon Sunday, but being puzzled with the different practices then prevailing (for they had begun to fast at Rome on Saturday) he consulted St. Ambrose, the bishop of Milan, on the subject. The answer of the Milan saint was this: 'When I am here I do not fast on Saturday, but when at Rome I do fast on Saturday.'"

are at Rome," he says, "they do there as they see done." His Accustomed Place. Seven-year-old Frances was watching her papa start for the office and reporting his progress to mamma, who was a little near-sighted. "The car's stopping for him," said Frances. "Has he got on?" asked mamma. "Yes, mamma. He has jumped on and taken his place on a strap"—Puck.

Two crews of fishermen are again engaged in fishing for carp in the lake here. They are under the direction of B. Kopf and Clement Neiman. The latter reports that in the first four hauls which were made last week between eight and nine tons of fish were taken. The former met with an accident which delayed operations for several days. The carp fishing is not up to what it was several years ago, when as many as twenty tons of the fish would be gathered in at a single haul of the big nets.—Mayville News.

CZAR AND CZAREVITCH REVIEWING COSSACKS

A splendid review of Cossack troops marked the czar's assuming of supreme command over his armies. Winter in Trenches Already.

It does not seem long ago since people were asking—'anxiety mingling with hope in their voices'—'Shall we have another winter campaign?' No body asks the question now. Here along the British front nature itself gives the answer. Winter is close upon us.

It is here, at least before midday, when a white fog fills all the trenches, streaks down the dugouts, and drifts down over all the fields. The pale sun gleams for a few hours, giving a fictitious sense of summer, and then when the darkness comes the mist creeps up again from marshes and woods and—Lo!—it is cold for any poor beggar staring towards the German lines through a loophole in the parapet.—General Headquarters Letter to the London Chronicle.

This is a part of the program agreed on at the international convention of the society held in San Francisco.

Drug Alone Stops Laughter.

Betsy Green, a "stout" woman, stood beside a big fat man at River-view station here, when down the street fitted a puff of wind and neatly removed the fat man's hat and sent it sailing up Central avenue. Everyone smiled as the fat man gave chase as best his avoirdupois would permit. Betsy laughed. When Betsy had laughed for one hour and 45 minutes without being able to stop an ambulance surgeon stopped it with a dose of morphine.—Kansas City Post.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

Thanksgiving Day! Thanksgiving Day! 'Tis then our nation tries to pay Its heavy debt of gratitude For bountiful supplies of food, And richest blessings that expand To cover all of Freedom's land.

THANKSGIVING SWEETS.

Candied pineapple cut in small pieces and dipped in melted fondant, decorated with one or two of the pretty candies which may be purchased from any confectioner, is a wholesome sweet which is easy to prepare.

Nut Balls.—Chop several kinds of nuts, mix well and stir into fondant until well mixed. Roll the balls in chopped nuts until they are well covered.

Fondant is made by boiling two cups of sugar, a pinch of cream of tartar or a tablespoonful of corn syrup, with a half cupful of water until it makes a soft ball when dropped in cold water. Cool and stir until white and creamy.

Spice Drops.—Add oil of cinnamon and oil of cloves to fondant, then roll in small balls like hazelnuts. Put tiny silver candies on one kind and pink ones on the other to distinguish flavors.

Almond Sticks.—Blanch half a pound of almonds and chop them fine, stir into a cupful of fondant, flavor with almond, knead and roll in sticks about the size of the little finger.

Rice Jack.—Cook together until brittle in water a cupful of molasses, a cupful of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of water, a tablespoonful of butter and a pinch of soda. Then stir in three cupfuls of puffed rice; pour into a greased pan and allow it to harden.

Chopped figs added to fondant, then made into balls or squares and dipped in melted fondant or chocolate to coat. These will be sticky unless dipped in some covering to give them a coating.

Chopped dates and softened prunes chopped and added to brown bread is an addition and change from raisins so commonly used.

If sin has not overwhelmed you And peace within you abides, Then hold the mantle of your love 'O'er him the world derides.

Do not try to do efficient work in an inefficient house. First transform your conditions.

SEASONABLE DISHES.

Eggplant is not well enough appreciated. Its natural flavor is peculiar to itself and when it is nicely prepared is a most satisfactory dish.

Eggplant, Southern Style.—Cut a plant in slices, pare off and discard the skin; then cut the slices in cubes half an inch in size. Pour boiling water over the plant and cook for about twenty minutes or until tender. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan, add two onions chopped fine, a half a green pepper chopped, stir and cook until the onions are softened and slightly yellow, add the eggplant drained, a cupful and a half of bread-crumbs, salt, paprika and cupful and a half of tomato; stir until hot, turn into a buttered baking dish, cover with well-buttered crumbs and cook in the oven until the crumbs are brown.

Scalloped Chicken With Corn.—For each cupful of chicken meat, freed from bones, use a cupful of corn either fresh or canned, a cupful of white sauce and seasonings. Mix the chicken with the sauce put into a baking dish, cover with a layer of corn and when all is used cover with well-buttered crumbs. Bake until the crumbs are brown.

Pork Pot.—Trim 1½ pounds of loin of pork into neat pieces, fry them in a saucepan until brown. Line an earthenware dish with sliced potatoes and onions, using one onion to two potatoes, lay on the pork; then another layer of vegetables, salt, pepper and a pinch of herbs. Moisten with a pint of stock, cover with buttered paper and place in a hot oven two hours. Cook slowly and serve from the dish in which it was cooked. Sprinkle parsley over the top before sending to the table. A tablespoonful or two of cooked peas may be sprinkled over the top before adding the parsley.

Baked Beans.—Parboil beans after soaking them overnight, and when they are partly softened, prepare for baking. Add a tablespoonful of molasses, a little salt, a little dry mustard and a small onion for each pint of parboiled beans. Bake all day with a generous square of scored pork on top of the pot.

Accenting Vogue of Rich Materials

Although one may choose almost any shape in hats, the progress of the season has given precedence to certain types. Hats inspired by the Puritan model are many and smart. Small high-crowned shapes with narrow curving brims followed naturally in the wake of the Puritan, and have been developed into brilliant millinery, combining rich brocades or velvets, in covering the shape, with fur in narrow bands outlining the brim edge and crown. The small turban has blossomed out in wintry materials (velvet and fur and other rich stuffs) in styles more varied than ever, and is the acme of dash and grace.

Trimming remains simple, either for these chic small hats or in the wider-brimmed shapes. And it seems that every one strives for novelty in the adornment. The flower or feather must be something new and strange—and beautiful—or it must be oddly placed. An example of this is shown in two views of a dress hat which are given in the photographs reproduced here.

This model is made of velvet shirred in one circular piece, to cover the upper brim and side crown. The top crown is a small scant puff of the velvet, and the underbrim has a plain velvet facing. The shape lifts to a point at the front and flares upward at the back, where the brim widens.

The width across the back is greatly accentuated by a drapery of velvet lined with soft satin, which has the appearance of a high bow.

Very odd satin and silver poppies are set over the drapery at the back, and one single blossom brightens the brim at the front. In passing, it may be noticed that millinery blossoms are very brilliant, made mostly of silk or satin of bright luster, and without pretense to being faithful copies of their prototypes.

In the picture a wide-brimmed shape is shown with a round crown. It is covered with hatter's plush. A fringe of ostrich feathers is set about the edge on both the upper and underbrim, and a fan of ostrich fibers also, is posed against the crown, completing the adornment.

Millinery generally is characterized by better style this season than in the past. Women insist upon simplicity in trimmings, and this results from an advance in good taste. Good workmanship is another feature which tells the same story.

The Stocking Pantalettes.

A novelty is white silk stockings with three little frills above the ankles in simulation of pantalettes. These frills are of silk, edged with lace.

Besppeak Comfort for Small Wearers

The outdoor garments made for small lads and lasses in the winter-time are first designed for warmth. This essential is taken care of and after that they achieve what measure of grace and style the material and the season's modes will allow.

Overcoats for the small boy are cut a little shorter than in previous seasons, of very heavy close-woven wools. Dark blue is a favorite color for them, but there are many dark mixtures, indistinct checks and a few crossbars. They are double-breasted, with ample collars that may be rolled up about the neck and ears. A very good model is that shown in the picture, which provides large but inconspicuous patch pockets for the convenience of the most appreciative of all possessors of pockets.

A cozy coat for a little girl, with cap to match, is pictured, with collar and cuffs of plush. It is made of a heavy wool-knitted material and is soft and warm. The stitched belt, shaped to include pockets, reflects a popular treatment of the belt in coats for older girls. With cap to match, which may be pulled down over the ears, a trim, smart outfit makes the youngster look as comfortable as she feels.

For the little miss who has arrived at the dignity of going out to parties, pretty coats are made and childish furs are designed to re-enforce them. White Iceland fox and other inexpensive white furs are prettiest for the little girl. The next best choice for her are the little gray squirrel sets. There are several other furs suited to children, and all of them are intended for the little miss to wear up on "dress-up" occasions. The warmth of furs goes without saying, and luckily the fur sets for children are modest in price, so that all may have them.

Julia B. Sturmy

For House Wear.

White linen modified middies with collar and cuffs of color, and just a little smocking on each side to support the necessary fullness will be worn in the house all winter. The smocked stitching and collar and cuffs may be of horizon or delft blue, pink or lavender. A dainty negligee of fine nainsook with half sleeves and eon effect has a belt of three narrow pink ribbons braided together. Val lace and insertion are used with dainty empire wreaths in blue, pink and green on each side. Another nainsook blouse has scalloped edges, trimmed with balls of two shades of blue silk and irregular motifs.

Sweaters at All Hours.

Oddly enough, sweaters are worn with frocks of white silk, as well as with all other frocks, and dainty enough are the little affairs of knitted silk that as sweaters hold such an important place in Palm Beach wardrobes. The silk sweater has been passe in Deauville for eighteen months, but it is being worn here. All sweaters are long enough to cover the hips, and all are made with pockets; skirts are also pocketed. Separate blouse coats are of heavy crepe de chine.—Vogue.

Frocks increases. There is nothing prettier for the debutante's first ball, or for the opera, than a frock of white tulle, soft and billowy, with flounces and frills, and with panniers of mother-of-pearl pailletted net. Silver and gold lace and fine net embroidered in gold or silver form flounces on many charming frocks.

The pompadour silks are still used, and a black one, figured in pale pastel shades, is especially effective when smartly made up.

BUSINESS IN CANADA IS GOOD

Successful Crops and Big Yields Help the Railway.

The remarkable fields that are reported of the wheat crop of Western Canada for 1915 bear out the estimate of an average yield over the three western provinces of upward of 25 bushels per acre. There is no portion of that great west of 24,000 square miles in which the crop was not good and the yields abundant. An American farmer who was induced to place under cultivation land that he had been holding for five years for speculative purposes and higher prices, says that he made the price of the land out of this year's crop of oats. No doubt, others, too, who took the advice of the Department of the Interior to cultivate the unoccupied land, have done as well.

But the story of the great crop that Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta produced this year is best told in the language of the railways in the added cars that it has been necessary to place in commission, the extra trains required to be run, the increased tonnage of the grain steamers.

It is found that railway earnings continue to improve. The C. P. R. earnings for the second week of October showed an increase of $762,000 over last year, the total being only $310,000 below the gross earnings of the corresponding week of 1913, when the Western wheat crop made a new record for that date. The increase in C. P. R. earnings for the corresponding week of that year was only $351,000, or less than half of the increase reported this year. The grain movement in the West within the past two weeks has taxed the resources of the Canadian roads as never before, despite their increased facilities. The C. P. R. is handling 2,000 cars per day, a new record. The G. T. R. and the C. N. R. are also making new shipment records. The other day the W. Grant Morden, of the Canada Steamships Company, the largest freighter of the Canadian fleet on the Upper Lakes, brought down a cargo of 476,315 bushels, a new record for Canadian shipping. Records are "going by the board" in all directions this fall, due to Canada's record crop. The largest Canadian wheat movement through the port of New York ever known is reported for the period up to October 15th, when since shipments of the new crop began in August, 4,265,791 bushels have been reloaded for England, France and Italy. This is over half as much as was shipped of American wheat from the same port in the same period. And, be it remembered, Montreal, not New York, is the main export gateway for Canadian wheat. New York gets the overflow in competition with Montreal.—Advertisement.

New Richmond.—There has been launched by the sportsmen in this city, H. F. Barnes of the H. S. Thompson Lumber company taking the initiative, a movement looking toward the amendment or repeal of the present law, which limits deer hunters in this state to one deer and that a buck.

Mr. Barnes says that the law prohibiting the shooting of does, while undoubtedly correct in theory, is not protecting the deer, but it is increasing the number killed and adds that if the present slaughter is not stopped the deer in the northern Wisconsin woods will soon be exterminated.

MAKING BID FOR LEAD

WOOD COUNTY STANDS HIGH IN STATE AS DAIRY CENTER.

Has Twenty-eight Cheese Factories and Nineteen Creameries—Farmers Keep Testing Records.

Grand Rapids.—Some twenty years ago Dean Henry of the University of Wisconsin caused a small sensation in the southern part of the state by making the statement that a great dairy community would be developed in central Wisconsin that would rival that of the southern counties, and it has proved to be the case.

The soil of Wood county, which is in the southern portion of a marsh land and on this territory is raised some of the best cranberries of the world.

The dairy cow is found here in abundance. Nearly every corner supports a creamery or cheese factory and seldom is a farmer found who doesn't get his monthly cream check.

The territory supports two breeders' associations, the Central Wisconsin Holstein Breeders' association and the Central Guernsey Breeders' association. Regular testing records are kept and every farmer knows just which cows are paying and how much they pay.

With twenty-eight cheese factories and nineteen creameries, Wood county is making a strong bid for the leading dairying section of the state.

NOVEMBER HEALTHY MONTH

Mortality Records Show That in December Sickness and Death Rates Begin to Climb.

Madison.—Next to July, November is Wisconsin's healthiest month, judged by mortality records. In December the sickness and death rates rapidly begin to climb.

In November, the records show, colds and infectious diseases are the more prevalent. People now live more indoors and the windows are not kept as wide open, especially at night.

In December the pneumonia rate begins to climb, reaching its maximum in March. Other household diseases flourish accordingly at this season of the year. In the same proportion as people closely house during the winter, in the same proportion does the pneumonia rate rise, and not until people begin to unhouse in the spring does it fall.

THE GOOD JUDGE LEARNS JONES IS FROM THE GREATEST TOBACCO STATE.

WHEN a fellow's been brought up along-side of rich tobacco, he naturally likes to give his friends the benefit of the facts. And directly they are telling their friends about the Real Tobacco Chew. A little bit satisfies and saves coin. It's one tobacco that don't need to hide its taste under licorice and sweetening.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough—cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR W-B CUT CHEWING TOBACCO. IT IS THE NEW REAL TOBACCO CHEW—CUT LONG SHRED.

Take less than one-quarter the old size chew. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just take a nibble of it until you find the strength chew that suits you, then see how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up. An excess of licorice and sweetening makes you spit too much. One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

(Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste.)

And She Took Him Up.

"I went home feeling awfully bad the other night," confides a married friend. "My eye was bright, my step was firm, my head was clear and my digestion was perfect—still I was feeling rotten. I told my wife about it as soon as I got into the house. I was hungry that I had to keep right on eating in spite of the misty protests. Finally she said, 'I'm afraid, dearie, that you won't be well enough to go to that dance with me tonight.' And, before I thought I blurted out: 'Damn it, I'm afraid I will!' And I couldn't explain to her that it was a slip of the tongue, and she dragged me out with her in spite of my shrieks of pain."

Battery Had Support.

At a certain battle of the Civil war a Federal chaplain happened to get into the vicinity of a battery of artillery which was hotly engaged. The Confederate shells were plowing furrows about the guns, and the cannoneers were grimly and actively at work to answer shot for shot. The chaplain addressed himself to a sergeant, who was very efficient but at the same time rather profane. In the following words: "My friend, if you go on this way you expect the support of Divine Providence?" "Ain't expects it," said the sergeant; "the Ninth New Jersey has been ordered to support this battery."

Not a Riot.

"What is the occasion of all this tumult?" asked the stranger, stopping on the corner and watching the surging mob of women who are massed in front of a business establishment. "Is this a riot?" "No. Those women are demanding what they think are their rights." "Oh," comments the stranger. "Possibly the proprietor of the establishment across the way is opposed to woman's rights?" "No. He's in favor of them, but he says he won't open his soda fountain for another week yet, and the woman demand that it be put in operation this very day or they'll know the reason why."

Recipient of Gratuity.

During their tour of England an American and his wife were advised to visit a ruined castle in Cornwall, the custodian of which was a relative of the noble owner. Having viewed the ruins and the pile they were at a loss how and in what way to offer a gratuity, bearing in mind the "blue blood" of their guide. The following conversation took place: "We thank you for your courtesy, and would be glad to give a small sum to any cause if you have a box for that purpose."

"Sir," was the reply, "we have such a box." "Then, may we see it?" "Sir"—with a pleasant smile and a bow—"I am that box."

Figures That Stagger.

The aphorism producing 13 generations in a year. It has been estimated that, beginning with a single pair, the progeny of these, if all survived, would in the twelfth generation compose so vast an army that, marshaled in single file, ten to the inch, the line to a point so sunk in the profundity of space that a beam of light from the head of the procession, traveling at a rate of 184,000 miles a second, would require 2,500 years to reach the planet in which we dwell.

Please Pass the Pomelo.

Don't say "grapefruit." What has long been known by that name is henceforth to be called "pomelo." The United States department of agriculture has decided that the fruit should be rechristened because its former name has become so misleading. The cultivated fruit no longer grows in clusters, like gigantic bunches of grapes, as it did in its uncultivated state. The fruit grows in groups of two or three, but generally singly.

Papa's Prayer.

A Opeka Sunday school teacher asked one of her little girls if she remembered to say her prayers in the morning as well as at night, relates the Kansas City Star. "No, ma'am, but papa does," replied the child. "That's right, and what does papa say for the morning prayer?" "Lord, how I hate to be just says," asked the teacher. "Oh, he just says," said the little girl, "Lord, how I hate to be just says."

Pneumonia on Increase

Pneumonia is the greatest rival of tuberculosis as a "captain of death." In the official report it exceeds consumption, in the next it takes second place. But pneumonia finds a considerable proportion of its victims among the old and infirm who are about ready to die anyway. Again, it causes a large number of deaths among infants who have a weak grip on life.

One reason why as vigorous a campaign against pneumonia as the one against consumption is not being waged is that the facts concerning the spread of pneumonia are nearly so clear as they are concerning tuberculosis. For example, we know that drunkenness, extreme exhaustion, and a generally run down condition may precede pneumonia and then we frequently see that strongest and most athletic young men and women succumb. Indeed, some medical authorities hold that pneumonia and typhoid are more likely to attack the strong than the weak.

While we may not have so clear a picture of the causes of pneumonia as is desired and while our facts seem occasionally to contradict each other, what is definitely known about prevention should be utilized. Consideration of pneumonia is timely now, as we are entering the seasons of the year when this disease is most prevalent and when it is, therefore, most important for one to be on guard.

Inasmuch as debilitating diseases certainly pave the way for pneumonia, persons not in robust health and those using alcoholic liquor should be especially careful to avoid exposure to cold and to wetting from rain and melting snow.

On the other hand, homes, offices and shops should have an abundance of fresh air. It should be remembered in this connection that the most successful treatment of pneumonia is accomplished in open window rooms. People who are susceptible should avoid crowding in ill-ventilated, overheated theatres and other congested centers, because pneumonia is unquestionably a communicable disease and frequently takes epidemic form.

Care should be taken to keep children in as robust, physical condition as possible. Food should be of upbuilding kind and a sufficient amount of sleep should be insured. Diseased tonsils, a denuded and other conditions which sap a child's strength should be corrected.

In addition to securing the very best form of life insurance against pneumonia, tuberculosis and other diseases by being guided by the above considerations, one will be rewarded furthermore by being in condition to get the utmost of joy out of living.
