FIRST LIEUT. SYLVESTER HARTER WRITES FROM NEW MEXICO

The following letter was received from Lieut. Chaplin, Sylvester Harter, son of Mrs. Catherine Harter of this village. Although we received same a little late for Mother's Day, it will prove interesting to a great many friends of Lieut. Harter, who were greatly interested in his former writings:

May 12, 1918

To the dear Mothers of the Homeland: Greetings! To-day is your day, you know. Dedicated by our beloved Country to the noblest of America's heroes,—the mothers of Soldier boys,—this day should be written on the brightest pages of the world's History. It is a day that commemorates the Offering made by the Heart of America's Motherhood to the Cause of Liberty and Justice, during a period in which a mother must give the dearest thing it owns,—the boy of its love, the hope of its later days, the object that had been loved before it was born, that it will be loved until that great heart of motherhood ceases to beat.

Yes, to-day is your day. I have been wanting, for a long time, to write again to the Homeland; but to-day seemed to be the first chance given me; and since today is all yours, I shall write, in the name of your own particular soldier boy, as well as in my own, to you,—to you, each mother in particular. And to you I address my letter with all the love, all the respect, all the pleasures that fill the boy's heart so richly overflowing with yearning love for you, seeing in each mother's eyes the love pictured in the eyes of one little old mother so much in love with me.

Dear Mothers, how gladly do we think of you today! How dearly glad we are today to remember you, to return as close to you as memory and love can lead! In our rough life, filled from early dawn until the evening shadows bring us home to rest for the next day, ever preparing to give our all in order to hold in check the brute enemy, to protect our dear ones from the terrible havoc wrought in the homes of Europe's fairest lands, we necessarily sometimes forget, for hours, even, those dear home scenes, which heard our farewells months ago. But today is yours,—yes, and ours; too; today we can give entirely to you, to thoughts of you and our beloved homes.

Today, we shall dream and dream of you, little grey-haired sweethearts of boyhood days. Today, we open the precious caskets of sweetest memory's gems, fondly to watch the sparkling jewels of our mothers' love. We go today along the paths of our boyhood days, watching more carefully, more gratefully, more lovingly, the workings of our sweetheart mothers' souls. Today, we see clearer, the treasures of the heart of motherhood,—the sacrifices made by her unselfish love, the many hours patiently spent in grunting, teaching, praying for, the boy so richly blessed with such affection.

And, oh, dear Mothers, were but one wish granted us to possess any earthly joy, it would be to spend an hour in the arms of our mothers, to kiss your sacred lips, to gaze into sweet mother eyes. Yes,—today is, indeed, all for you.

And today we have something more,—a promise to make to you. As we kneel before the Emblem of God's Infinite Love, we think of you—your greatest of our Homeland friends. If in the past, through weariness, or through human negligence,—and we are just boys, you know,—if we have allowed a single day to pass without sufficient thought of you, and of your immortal love, from now on we shall be more faithful to your affection. For every thought you give to us, an equal thought shall come back from us for you; for every prayer ascending from your sweet heart to the Throne of Mercy, a prayer just as earnest, just as loving, shall ascend from the heart of your soldier boy to the Master, asking Him to guard you, to keep you safe and happy, awaiting the day when we shall take you again into our strong arms awaiting so eagerly, so yearningly far from you now.

But there is still more in our promise to day. If in the past, through the same boyish carelessness, or human frailty, some of us, forgetting the patient, loving face of mother, forgetting your teaching of purity, honesty, and Christian Charity, have wandered along the paths leading away from your careful instructions, along the ways that pain your sweet hearts,—if some of us have done this through carelessness or human frailty,—we are sorry today; and we ask God, today, in Mother's name, to pardon our past sins, to give us more grace; and we promise, in the great Mother's Name, to go back and begin again. Joining hands beneath the Stars and Stripes of our dear Flag, uniting our hearts in the bonds of brotherly love, with the thought of the great motherhood praying for us back home—we promise, faithfully to grow daily more and more worthy of your love.

We greet you today, sweet mothers back home! May God bless you, protect you, guide you along the holiest, happiest, most peaceful ways of joy! If we come back to you, we will come clothed in the garments of truth, honesty, and bravery,—and all for you and our Country. Should we come back marked by the hands of a terrible war, and thus clothed in the folds of that great Flag for which we are willing to give our all—well, it was done for our Country, and for you. We would have given out of hearts that, because they were true to you, true to the Land that has given you to us, and that will take care of you as the mothers of your sons.

May the Master bless you all, sweet Mothers! In the name of each soldier boy sent by the Homeland, in the name of that sacred love burning so brightly in the hearts of your beloved hero boys, I ask Heaven's richest blessings to attend you always. And with much love from us all I fondly sign myself

Your boy, too,

Sylvester Harter.

Lieut. Chaplin of the 127th.

HEMMY CALLS ATTENTION TO REPORT ON REVENUE

Paul A. Hemmy, collector of internal revenue, calls attention to the federal report, which is to be filed by June 1. The act of Oct. 3, 1917, requires that every person, corporation, partnership, association, or insurance company, including lessees or mortgagors of real or personal property, trustees, executors, administrators, receivers, employers, and all officers and employees of the United States, who paid interest, rent, salaries, etc., amounting to $800 or more during the year 1917, must render a report upon Form 1097 to the collector of internal revenue. This report must be accompanied by Forms 1099.

The fact that this report was required to be made on or before March 1, 1918, was not generally known and the commissioner of internal revenue extended the time for the filing of these reports until June 1.

After June 1 penalties will be imposed in all cases where it is found that reports have not been rendered as required.

—Albert Stark and family of Milwaukee were guests of the Krahn and Stark families last Sunday.

LOMIRA FACTORY SOLD

The Lomira cheese factory manufactured of brick cheese has been sold to Lawrence Eggers, of Fond du Lac.

Alfred Hirsig, the former owner, has decided to take a rest after six years and will reside with his relatives, for a while, on a farm near Lomira.

Mr. Eggers is an expert cheese maker, both in making brick cheese and American cheese. He formerly owned the cheese factory located near Eldorado, Wis., recently sold to Mr. Reische of Cleveland, Wis.

ECLIPSE OF THE SUN

Residents of Wisconsin will have an opportunity to witness a total eclipse of the sun on the afternoon of June 8. The eclipse will bear watching from about 1:30 until sundown, according to authorities it will be about that hour before the moon and sun have completely passed each other, one on each side of the earth. The most interesting time to view the eclipse in this country will be at about 3 in the afternoon.

CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY AND FAREWELL

A party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wilke in honor of Robert Zinkgraf's birthday and Oscar Kurth's farewell. The latter is going to leave in the next draft contingent. Those who attended were: Mr. and Mrs. Wilke and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kurth and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Garbisch and family, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fellenz and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Smith and family, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wilke and family, Johnny Luecke, Mathilda Smith, Golda Stahl, Marie, Alvina, and Louise Lillage, Elda and Lena Rammel, Jennie and Marie Backhaus, Minnie and Rosa Gessner, Marnie Apperle, John Lubach, Arthur Briskey, Chas. Jandra, Frank, Herman and Julius Gessner, Arnold Backhaus, Gregor Fellenz, Clarence and Oscar Stange, Richard Teshendorf, Henry Schiltz and Erwin Kurth. Playing games was the main pastime and at mid-night a delicious luncheon was served, after which the guests departed wishing Mr. Zinkgraf many happy returns of the day and good luck to Mr. Kurth. All present reported having had a jolly old time.

TO FEDERAL TAXPAYERS

In view of the war conditions, the Government will appreciate prompt payment of income taxes. MONEY WILL HELP WIN THE WAR. The need of it is constant and urgent for the proper equipment and care of our boys in Europe, and those soon to be there.

We are fortunate, in that we are living in the greatest and best country in the world. Our Government must save the world from despotism. Let us show our appreciation and thankfulness by paying, cheerfully and promptly, the taxes levied by Congress.

On account of the immense amount of additional work in this office, conditions will become congested, if the taxpayers wait until the last few days to pay their income taxes, and the much needed money cannot be turned into the Treasury Department promptly.

It is not expected that the taxpayers will unduly inconvenience themselves to make this payment, but everyone should do their bit by paying as soon as possible.

DO IT NOW.
PAUL A. HEMMY
Collector of Internal Revenue

THE WHEAT SITUATION AGAIN

Geo. H. Schmidt, Deputy Federal Food Administrator, on Wednesday received from the State Food Administration the following communication: ATTENTION: In view of the extreme need for wheat, it has become necessary for the Food Administration to exert every possible effort to get every bushel of surplus wheat into food. The shortage of bread stuffs is even more acute than has been reported up to the present time.

Our Soldiers Must Be Fed. In view of this necessity all forthcoming orders of the Food Administration will be made with reference to securing the necessary bread stuffs for our armies.

It has become necessary to issue the following NEW RULES with regard to the small stocks of seed wheat that are to be found on farms in the state:

- 1.—No spring wheat can be saved for seed.
- 2.—All the winter wheat designed by the farmer for his own use as seed must be registered with the County Food Administrator.
- 3.—All sales of winter wheat by individual farmers to other farmers for seed purpose must be tagged and registered with the County Food Administrator.
- 4.—After May 25th, no new contracts can be made for the sale of wheat for seed purposes by one farmer to another for fall sowing.

Andrew H. Melville, Executive Secretary.

Magnus Swenson, Food Administrator for Wisconsin.

DRIESSEL-BECKER WEDDING

A very pretty wedding took place at the Holy Trinity church here on Tuesday forenoon, May 21, 1918, when Rev. Father Klopfer of St. Francis, assisted by Revs. Vogt and Hartman, pronounced the words that bound Miss Leona Clara Driessel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Driessel, and Hubert Becker, of Hartford, in holy bonds of matrimony.

The bride, dressed in a white ivory satin gown, carried a bouquet of sweet peas, and was attended by Miss Carmelita Driessel, as maid of honor, and the Misses Dorothy Driessel and Marie Becker as bridesmaids. The maid of honor wore a gray Georgette crepe over turquoise blue. Miss Dorothy Driessel was gowned in a gray Georgette crepe trimmed with old rose, and Miss Becker wore a gown of Georgette crepe over pink satin. The groom was attended by Aloysius Rante as best man, and Nic. Driessel and Frank Becker acted as groomsmen. Joe. Kircher of Barton and Andrew Pruski of Hartford acted as ushers. After the ceremony at the church the newly-weds, together with a large number of invited relatives and guests, repaired to the home of the bride, which was very beautifully decorated in patriotic colors of red, white and blue, where a wedding dinner was partaken of. The young couple left the same day for a wedding trip to Chicago, Green Bay and points in the northern part of the state. They will be at home to their many friends at Hartford, Wis., after June 1st.

WELL KNOWN YOUNG MAN DIES AT CAMPBELLSPORT

The residents of Campbellsport were shocked Sunday to learn of the death of Eric B. Zenk, the oldest son of Rev. and Mrs. Wm. C. Zenk of that village.

The boy had been ill scarcely a week with pneumonia and the death occurred at 4:45 o'clock last Sunday evening. He was able to be down town as late as last Sunday afternoon, a week ago, and friends did not realize that his illness was so serious.

Besides his parents, Eric is survived by the following brothers and sisters: Lydia, Olga, Clemens, Theckia Adolph, Esther, Gertrude and Guido.

He was a prominent young lad in the community and had many devoted friends. He was a member of the senior class in the Campbellsport High School, and had the leading role of Jones in the class play of "What Happened to Jones." He would have graduated with his class on June 5. His sister, Lydia, is also a member of the senior class. Eric also held third class honors.

He was born December 18, 1901, in Manitowoc, Wisconsin. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at the German Reformed Church, Campbellsport. The remains were then taken to Manitowoc, where services were in charge of Rev. George Giesher. Interment was in the Manitowoc cemetery.

WISCONSIN MAN, OF GERMAN NAME, YANKS' LETTER CARRIER

The following article written by Bert Ford, staff correspondent of the International News Service, was printed in the Milwaukee Free Press, about Alex Fleischman of Campbellsport, now a letter carrier in France:

Every day, rain or shine, Private A. F. Fleischman of Campbellsport, Wis., tramps thirty kilometers (nearly twenty miles) with mail despatches along roads sprayed with German gas and sharpnel. It is too dangerous for a motorcycle, so he has to walk.

The other day I met Fleischman, during one of those abnormal hot spells in this abnormal May. His uniform was covered with dust, resembling alkali. It looked like talcum powder against his tanned face and hands. Dust had filled even his nostrils and ears. He wore the thick soled army boots and a gas mask ready to don at an instant's notice.

Slung over his back was a large bundle of letters. With his big German cast features he offered a splendid model for an artist—a new type of American courier. Said Fleischman, removing his steel helmet to wipe the sweat from his brow: "It's hard going today. It's hot as blazes. I had to dodge German machine guns part of the way, so I took a round about route, thru fields and thickets. I start early and finish late. At times I'm lonesome in the bomb zone, and feel like a big house. The Germans often take a shot at one man, but they never have nipped me yet, tho I've had a couple of close shaves. Starting out one often wonders if he'll ever come back. Occasionally despatch bearers don't, you know.

"I am of German descent. My parents were born in America, but my grand parents came from the fatherland. The fellows josh me about my name sometimes I was a railway mail clerk before I enlisted, between Chicago and Fond du Lac, Wis. There are lots of Germans where I lived. It's a Senator La Follette stronghold. There was so much talk and feeling there that I felt it was up to me to show I am a loyal American. So I joined the regulars.

"Our lads are 'there.' The army show is great. I'm feeling tough as leather. See the color of those hands? You ought to see the fellows when they get the letters. They call me the 'letter man.' Oh, I wish I had an ice cream soda and a palm leaf fan."

ROUND LAKE

B. Romaine was a caller at Campbellsport Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Weasler spent Sunday at Dundee.

A. Leifer was a business caller at Kewaskum Wednesday.

Mrs. A. Leifer spent Sunday evening with Mrs. M. Calvey.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ramthun and family visited with relatives at Kewaskum Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Casey Simmon of Waucousta, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Eggerts Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rahn and daughter spent Sunday with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Hofferman.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Krueger and family and Mr. and Mrs. William Eliason spent Wednesday afternoon with their parents here.

The dance held at Dundee, Sunday evening, in honor of the boys who will leave for Camp Grant, Ill., Monday, was largely attended and enjoyed by all present.

Mrs. Ed. Eliason and daughter, Minnie of Macinette and Mr. and Mrs. William Eliason of Plymouth were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Calvey Sunday.

The windstorm of Tuesday evening did considerable damage in this vicinity, tearing away roofs blowing down small buildings, broke some windows and broke down a great many trees and also moved some barns.

RAIL PRESIDENTS OUSTED BY M'ADOO

All Roads to Be Managed by U. S. Directors.

WILL NAME ROAD OFFICERS

Former Heads of Some Lines Will Be Appointed to Safeguard the Interests of the Stockholders.

Washington, May 22.—Every railroad president in the United States was relieved from active duty as executive manager of his road by Director General McAdoo. He will appoint a federal director for each road, responsible only to the railroad administration.

To safeguard the interests of stockholders and maintain the individuality of each railway, federal directors whenever possible will be appointed from among the operating officers of the property, the director general announced.

This will avoid disrupting any road's working organization unnecessarily.

New Operating Districts. Another step in the reorganization of railroad management, the director general ordered the creation of two operating districts—the Allegheny region, consisting of the principal trunk lines east of Pittsburgh, excluding the New York Central, managed by C. H. Markham, now regional director for the South, and the Potomac district, consisting of the East and West trunk lines terminating at Hampton Roads.

McAdoo's Statement. The following statement was issued by Director General McAdoo:

"In view of the direct responsibility for the operation of the railroads of the country placed upon Director General McAdoo by the act of congress, and by the proclamations of the president, he has been unable to escape the conclusion that it will be advisable to place in direct charge of each property for operating purposes a representative to be known as the federal manager, who will report to the regional director."

Will Choose Old Officers. "As far as practicable this federal manager will be chosen from the operating officers of the particular property who are entirely familiar with its employees and its conditions."

"Except so far as may be necessary to meet the emergency conditions which compel the government to take control of the railroads, the federal manager of each railroad will endeavor to avail himself to the fullest extent of the advantages incident to the operations of the particular railroad as a unit and the preservation of its identity."

Stockholders Safeguarded. "This is believed to be of essential importance, not only to secure the best results during the period of government control, but also to give the greatest degree of reassurance to the officers and employees that the railroad careers upon which they have entered will not be narrowed, but if anything, will be broadened, and to give the greatest possible reassurance to the stockholders that their just interests in the properties will be respected and that nothing will be needlessly done to have even the appearance of impairing their just rights."

U. S. MEN ROUT GERMANS

Huns Fail in Attempt to Surround American Patrol—Scattered by Riflefire.

With the American Army on the French Battle Front, May 22.—A strong Boche patrol attempted to surround part of an American patrol at dawn, but the main body poured in such a hot fire from their rifles that the enemy was scattered. The Germans used both hand grenades and rifles.

During the night our front line is occasionally kept under machine-gun fire. The Boche artillery and infantry, however, are unusually quiet. When they bombard the Germans use quite a number of high-explosive shells made from galvanized iron. These have been nicknamed "G. I. buckets" by the doughboys. The aviators on both sides are busy.

TAKE 93 BODIES FROM RUINS

Workmen Still Searching Debris of Aetna Plant at Oakdale, Pa.

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 22.—Two more bodies were found in the ruins of the explosives plant of the Aetna Chemical company, destroyed by a series of explosions at Oakdale last Saturday. This brings the total dead to 93, of which 48 have been identified. Workmen attacked the ruins of the T. N. T. building, where it was expected more bodies would be found.

SEDITION BILL IS SIGNED

President Puts Signature to Measure Giving U. S. Wide Powers to Punish Disloyal Acts.

Washington, May 22.—President Wilson signed the sedition bill, giving the government wide powers to punish disloyal acts and utterances.

MUST SEND OWN SHIPS

HOLLAND TOLD TO USE OWN VESSELS TO CARRY U. S. GRAIN.

Netherlands Government Prohibits Dutch Craft From Sailing—Germany Blamed.

Washington, May 22.—Holland has been notified by the United States government that its request for three ships now in American ports to carry the balance of the grain promised it by President Wilson cannot be granted, and that to prevent further delay in the movement of the grain Dutch ships should be sent for it at once. The fact that this step had been taken became known soon after the receipt of press dispatches announcing that the Netherlands government had prohibited the departure of Dutch ships from its ports. Officials were at a loss to understand the meaning of Holland's action, though it was assumed that the attitude of Germany was responsible.

More than 400,000 tons of Dutch shipping are idle in Holland ports, according to information in the possession of the state department. It is from this fleet of tied-up tonnage that the war trade board holds the ships necessary to transport the grain must be taken. Fifteen thousand tons of cereals are now at ports of embarkation for Holland and by the time ships come for it there will be enough to make up the 38,000 tons remaining to be supplied of the 50,000 promised. Holland has been warned that this supply cannot be maintained indefinitely.

The state department pointed out to the Netherlands government that as a special concession to provide for urgent needs of that country the war trade board permitted the departure from the United States of three ships with 14,000 tons of cereals on condition that replacing ships would be sent from Dutch ports simultaneously. In addition to the grain from this country being accumulated at Atlantic ports 50,000 tons are being concentrated at Argentine ports. It is understood Holland will be asked to send ships for this also.

IRISH LOYAL, SAYS DILLON

Nationalist Leader Calls Sinn Fein Policy Foolish and Bound to End in Disaster.

Dublin, May 22.—John Dillon, the nationalist leader, in an interview, emphasized the divergence between his party and the Sinn Fein, whose policy he declared to be "wrong and foolish and bound to end in disaster." Mr. Dillon said he still believed in a friendly settlement with Great Britain. He adhered to the declaration of the late John E. Redmond, made at the outbreak of the war, that the "cause of the allies is the cause of freedom."

In an appeal to the American people Mr. Dillon said that the Sinn Fein had been supplied with unlimited financial resources from New York, and he urgently asked all those of Irish blood in the United States to support his party as against the Sinn Fein.

APRIL SHIP LOSSES LOWER

Figures on British and Allied Shipping Last Month Show Decrease of 25 Per Cent.

Washington, May 22.—Figures of British and allied shipping losses for April show a decrease of 25 per cent from the previous monthly average. Acting Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt said. He ascribes the reduction in sinkings to the increased activity of the allied fleets, saying that the raids on Ostend and Zeebrugge undoubtedly will have an effect on the May shipping losses.

AMERICAN TANKER IS LOST

Advices Reaching Washington Indicate Steamer Rockefeller Has Been Sent Down.

Washington, May 22.—The American tanker William Rockefeller has been lost at sea, according to official advices reaching Washington. The navy department withheld formal announcement of the disaster, indicating there was a loss of life and that relatives of the missing are being notified. Whether the vessel had been torpedoed could not be learned.

MONNEY TO HANG ON MAY 28

Resentment as Result of Conviction on Murder Charge Growing Out of Bomb Explosion.

San Francisco, May 22.—Thomas J. Mooney was resented to hang on May 28 by Judge Griffin as a result of his conviction on a first-degree murder charge growing out of the preparedness parade bomb explosion, which killed ten persons and injured 40 others here in 1916.

THREE KILLED IN TORNADO

Part of Codell, Kan., Destroyed—Mother and Two Children Die—Two Persons Missing.

Plainville, Kan., May 22.—A tornado destroyed part of Codell, this county. Mrs. Walter Adams and her baby were killed. A child of Frank Jones also was killed and two are reported missing.

THE HORRORS OF WAR

FAR OVER THE TOP DOOR OPEN TO PEACE

THIRD LIBERTY LOAN EXCEEDS FOUR BILLIONS. ENGLAND WILL LISTEN TO REAL PROPOSALS.

All Districts Oversubscribe, Minneapolis Leading With 172 Per Cent of Its Quota.

Washington, May 20.—The total of the Third Liberty loan is $4,170,019,850, an oversubscription of 20 per cent above the three-billion minimum sought. The number of subscribers was about 17,000,000. Every federal reserve district oversubscribed, the Minneapolis district 172 per cent, the highest, and the New York district 124 per cent, the lowest.

In announcing these figures on Thursday the treasury explained the total may be changed slightly by later reports from federal reserve banks of subscriptions during the last days of the campaign. "This is the most successful loan the United States has offered, both in number of subscribers and in the amount realized," said Secretary McAdoo in a statement. "Every subscription was made with knowledge that allotment in full was to be expected, unlike the first and second loans, when allotments were limited. I congratulate the country on this wonderful result, irrefutable evidence of the strength, patriotism and determination of the American people."

"This great result was achieved notwithstanding that the country has been called upon to pay since the second Liberty loan income and excess profits taxes of approximately $3,000,000,000, making a total amount turned into the treasury of about $7,000,000,000."

FORMS NEW U. S. AIR BODY

President Splits Aviation and Signal Corps—Organization Headed by John D. Ryan.

Washington, May 22.—As his first act under the new law permitting executive management and consolidation of departments, President Wilson on Monday took production of aircraft from the army signal corps and established as a separate organization the air-production board, headed by John D. Ryan of New York. This leaves the signal corps of the army a separate organization.

Cols. S. D. Waldon, R. L. Montgomery and Edward A. Deeds, signal corps, U. S. A., have been detached from their present duties and ordered to report to the attorney general for co-operation and assistance in the aircraft investigation.

3 ARMY CHIEFS PROMOTED

Pershing, Bliss and March Are Nominated Generals by the President.

Washington, May 22.—President Wilson on Monday nominated three generals. Maj. Gen. Peyton C. March was named chief of staff. The office carries the rank of general. General Bliss was nominated brevet general and designated as permanent representative on the interallied war council at Versailles.

Gen. John J. Pershing, as commander in chief of the expeditionary forces, becomes a full general.

Earth Shocks Are Recorded.

St. Louis, May 22.—The seismograph at St. Louis university on Monday recorded an earthquake, the tremors continuing for five minutes. The location is given as approximately 4,000 miles south, probably in Peru.

Freezing Weather in North Dakota.

Fargo, N. D., May 22.—Freezing temperatures occurred in many sections of North Dakota, the mercury dropping to 30 degrees at Devil's Lake and Bismarck. The extent of the damage done cannot yet be estimated.

U. S. Men to Wear Foreign Medals.

Washington, May 22.—General Pershing's request that American soldiers and sailors be permitted to accept and wear foreign decorations granted by our allies was granted by the senate in a resolution adopted.

LUFBERY IS SHOT DOWN BY GERMANS

Huns Kill the U. S. Air "Ace" Over the American Lines.

BULLET PIERCES GAS TANK

Airman's Only Wound Was a Hole Through the Thumb—Yanks Take Revenge by Destroying Hun Planes.

Paris, May 22.—Maj. Raoul Lufbery, the first American ace to be killed as the result of an aerial fight, was hurled on Monday with full military honors by French and American detachments. With the American Army in France, May 22.—Maj. Raoul Lufbery, who has been regarded as the best aviator in the American service, was shot down in flames and killed Sunday morning by a big German triplane which he was attacking. Lufbery jumped from his flaming machine when 800 yards above the ground. He had 17 victories to his credit. Lufbery's home was in Wallingford, Conn.

The German machine which brought Lufbery down was armed with two machine guns, with an operator for each piece. Lufbery's only wound, aside from those he received when he crashed to earth, was a bullet hole through the thumb. Apparently the same bullet punctured one of the gasoline tanks of his machine.

The German machine was under heavy antiaircraft fire several times both before and after the air fight, and one explosion of a shell upset the enemy plane, but it managed to straighten out again.

It was about ten o'clock in the morning when a German triplane suddenly descended from the clouds, apparently because of engine trouble, until it was only some 1,500 meters over the city of Toul. The American flyers were on the alert and some of them headed for the fighting line to await the enemy on his return.

Lufbery and the pilot of another machine made after the Germans, who quickly ran away from the direction of the line, the two American machines following him. Eight miles away from the enemy's line Lufbery was seen to attack from under the tail, but then he drew off, as if his machine gun had jammed. Two minutes later he attacked again from the same position, and almost immediately his machine burst into flames.

With the American Army in France, May 22.—A French aviator shot down a German plane back of the Lunville sector. Two men from the plane were captured by the Americans. The Germans came from somewhere in the rear. It is reported, although not confirmed, that this is the machine which brought down Major Lufbery. There has been extraordinary aerial activity all day in this sector.

Two hostile airplanes have been brought down by American aviators, says an official announcement issued at American headquarters. One of the airplanes shot down carried two officers. Both had been riddled with bullets.

NOTED ITALIAN FLYER KILLED

Captain Resnati Falls to Death in New York When Wing of Plane Crumples.

New York, May 20.—Capt. Antonio Silvio Resnati of the Royal Italian flying corps, who piloted the ten-passenger Caproni biplane from Washington to New York and back again recently, was killed on Friday at the Hempstead flying field. Resnati, one of the most famous Italian military aviators, met his death while testing an American-built Caproni plane of the bombing type, recently authorized for purchase by the United States government. Flying alone and carrying a cargo of 60 bombs, Captain Resnati left the flying field on what was to have been the first test of the new type of biplane. The machine arose only 100 feet when one of the planes crumpled and it fell backward. Captain Resnati was crushed to death by the engine.

MANY U. S. PLANES IN EUROPE

Congressman Baer of North Dakota Defends Aircraft Producing Board—Big Fleet Coming.

Washington, May 20.—The aircraft production board found a new defender in the person of Representative Baer of North Dakota. In a statement he said was based on accurate information secured from aviation authorities, Baer claims the government has not spent $50,000,000 for airplanes during the last year, but only $125,000,000.

"On May 1 we had 250 war planes in Europe," he added. "Besides this we have 1,200 training planes in Europe. In America we have over 4,000 training planes and are turning out 1,000 airplanes a month. The expenditures of the government include airplane equipment, selected timber, motors and various other parts which when assembled will make a mighty aerial fleet."

Spain Protests Sinking.

Madrid, May 22.—The Spanish government has filed an energetic protest at Berlin against the torpedoing of the Spanish steamship Villa Doll Sol on May 15.

ALLIES TO ASSIST RUSSIA

Lord Cecil of England Says "It Is Our Policy to Preserve Russia as Allied Country."

London, May 18.—"We are anxious to do all in our power to assist and support Russia—not only now, but after the war," Lord Cecil, minister of blockade, declared in the house of commons on Thursday. "It is our policy to preserve Russia as an allied country, and if that is impossible, as a non-German."

$100,000 for Red Cross.

St. Paul, Minn., May 21.—The family of the late James J. Hill will take about $100,000 of St. Paul's $500,000 quota for the Red Cross. The announcement was made on Saturday by Louis W. Hill.

Bill Makes Hawaii Dry.

Washington, May 21.—The senate bill prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicants in the territory of Hawaii during the war was passed by the house, 237 to 30, and now goes to the president.

IRISH PLOTTERS ARE DEPORTED

Vessel Carrying Prisoners Leaves Kingstown for Holy Head, Wales.

SITUATION WELL IN HAND

Desperate Eleventh-Hour Attempt to Turn Tables on Government Made by Crowd of Masked Men—Little Bloodshed Reported.

London, May 21.—A vessel carrying 73 Sinn Fein prisoners left Kingstown, Ireland, says a Dublin dispatch to the Central News Agency. It is understood the ship is proceeding to Holy Head, Wales. A large crowd cheered as the ship departed, but the demonstrators were dispersed quickly. The government at last accounts had the Irish situation well in hand.

A desperate eleventh-hour attempt to turn the tables on the government forces was made by Sinn Feiners in County Tyrone while Viscount French's dragnet was gathering in 500 men and women conspirators in the German-Irish revolt plot.

A crowd of masked men stormed Barncourt castle, the seat of the duke of Albcourt, and made an unsuccessful search for arms.

There has been scarcely any bloodshed in the island-wide roundup of plotters. Except for the abortive raid of Barncourt castle, the only disturbances reported so far took place at Skibbereen, where seven Sinn Feiners resisted constabulary forces.

One of the protesters is reported to have been shot in the arm. The Observer, commenting on the Irish situation, says:

"A grave step has been taken in Ireland for grave reasons. Friday morning Professor De Valera, president of the Sinn Fein party, and many other extremists were arrested. The reason is that these avowed separatists and pro-Germans have once more been in treasonable touch with the enemy, despite the leniency with which they were treated after the last Dublin outbreak."

"In view of Admiral von Capelle's assertion that Germany is assured for years to come of a steady supply of U-boats which never cease their efforts to get in touch with the Sinn Feiners and separatists, this repeated treason must be put down with an unflinching hand."

"An organized nationalist attempt is being made to mislead and prejudice American opinion with regard to the Irish situation. This attempt will undoubtedly be continued unless it is met with stern and cool discrimination across the Atlantic."

"John Dillon, the Irish nationalist leader, and his friends have made themselves responsible for a unevolution manifesto. It asserts that the British government is not sincere in its intentions with regard to the home rule bill and that the British policy is falling in its promise to Ireland."

"We hope that President Wilson and the people of the United States will not be misled by the Dillon manifesto. We hope they will set themselves fully to understand what the British policy in Ireland really is."

"It is a plain thing and an honest thing and is the only thing compatible, on the one side, with the war interests of the allies, while, on the other side, tending steadily to reconcile two breeds and creeds."

"Without that, Ireland, in wasting and barren agitation, will plunge from one unsettlement to another and there will be no health in her."

POWDER BLAST KILLS 200

Plant of the Aetna Chemical Company at Oakdale, Pa., Destroyed—Injured Hurled Half-Mile.

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 21.—Probably 200 men were killed on Saturday when an explosion of T. N. T. demolished the plant of the Aetna Chemical company at Oakdale, on the Panhandle division of the Pennsylvania railroad, 16 miles from this city.

Coroner Samuel C. Jamison ordered a census of the town in an effort to ascertain the number of persons killed.

MEN 21 TO REGISTER JUNE 5

Male Persons, Whether Citizens or Not, Must Appear Before Exemption Boards.

Washington, May 22.—Upon approving the act of congress bringing under the army draft law all men attaining the age of twenty-one years since the first registration day, June 5, 1917, President Wilson issued a proclamation on Monday formally fixing next June 5 as the date for new eligibles to appear before their local boards.

Send Australian Wheat.

Melbourne, Australia, May 22.—In response to a request from the United States, the commonwealth on Monday afternoon decided to charter American vessels to carry wheat to the United States.

Mexicans Kill U. S. Soldier.

McAllen, Tex., May 22.—Sergeant Herbert Ulrich of Kawakawin, Mich., was killed by a shot from across the Mexican line near Hidalgo. Four Mexicans were killed in the return fire.

CUETO'S TREACHERY BRINGS NEW PERILS UPON ESTEBAN AND ROSA.

Synopsis.—Don Esteban Verona, a Cuban planter, hides his wealth—money, jewels and title deeds—in a well on his estate. The hiding place is known only to Sebastian, a slave. Don Esteban's wife dies at the birth of twins, Esteban and Rosa. Don Esteban marries the avaricious Donna Isabel, who tries unsuccessfully to wring the secret of the hidden treasure from Sebastian. Angered at his refusal, she urges Don Esteban to sell Evangelina, Sebastian's daughter. Don Esteban refuses, but in the course of a gambling orgie, he risks Evangelina at cards and loses. Crazy by the loss of his daughter, Sebastian kills Don Esteban and is himself killed. Many years pass and Donna Isabel is unable to find the hidden treasure. Don Mario, rich sugar merchant, seeks to marry Rosa, who has returned from school in the United States. Johnnie O'Reilly, an American, who loves Rosa, wins her promise to wait for him until he can return from New York. Donna Isabel falls to death while walking in her sleep. Esteban's connection with the insurgents is discovered and he and Rosa are compelled to flee. In New York, O'Reilly gets a letter from Rosa telling of her peril and urging him to rescue her. O'Reilly immediately returns to Cuba.

CHAPTER VII—Continued.

O'Reilly read the label. "It's bitter," said he.

"Bitters! And I asked for yellow!" a glass of agwa with yellow. Branch's voice shook. "I'm dying of a fever, and this ivory-billed toucan brings me a quart of poison. Bullets!" It was impossible to describe the suggestion of profanity with which the speaker colored this innocuous expletive. "Weak as I am, I shall gnaw his windpipe." He bared his teeth suggestively and raised two talonlike hands.

The waiter was puzzled but not alarmed. He embraced himself as his customer had done, and shuddered; then pointing at the bitters, he nodded encouragingly.

O'Reilly forestalled an outburst by translating his countryman's wants. "Un vaso de agua con hielo," said he, and the attendant was all apologies.

"So you speak the lingo?" marveled Mr. Branch. "Well, I can't get the hang of it. Don't like it. Don't like anything Spanish. H—I of a country, isn't it?—where the ice is 'yellow' and the butter is 'meant to kill you,' and does."

O'Reilly laughed. "You've been studying a guide book, 'with complete glossary of Spanish phrases.'" Mr. Branch nodded listlessly. "I'm supposed to report this insurrection, but the Spaniards won't let me. They edit my stuff to suit themselves. I'm getting tired of the farce."

"Going home?" "Don't dare." The speaker tapped his concave chest. "Bum lungs. I came down here to shuffle off, and I'm waiting for it to happen. What brings you to Cuba?"

"I'm here for my health, too." The real invalid stared. "I have rheumatism."

"Going to sweat it out, eh? Well, there's nothing to do but sweat!" Branch was racked by a coughing spasm that shook his reedy frame—"sweat and cough. Bullets! No mistake about that hospital bark, is there?" When he had regained his breath he said: "See here! I'm going to take a chance with you, for I like your looks. My newspaper work is a bluff; I don't send enough stuff to keep me alive. I came here to cure my lungs, and—I want you to help me do it."

O'Reilly stared at the man in surprise. "How can I help you?" he asked.

"By taking me with you."

"With me? Where?"

"To the insurgents, of course."

The men eyed each other fixedly. "What makes you think—" O'Reilly began.

"Oh, don't say it! I've got a hunch! I don't know what your game is—probably dynamite; there's a story that the rebels have sent for some American experts to teach them how to use the stuff, and God knows they need instruction! Anyhow, I can't swallow that rheumatism talk. I thought you might give me a lift. Take me along, will you?"

"And how would that benefit your cough?" Johnnie inquired curiously.

Mr. Branch hesitated. "Well, I'll tell you," he said, after a moment. "I'm afraid to die this way, by inches, and hours, I'm scared to death. It seemed impossible that the sick man's cheeks could further blanch, but they became fairly livid, while a beading of moisture appeared upon his upper lip. "Heaven! You've no idea how it gets on a fellow's nerves to see himself slipping—slipping. I'd like to end it suddenly, like that!" He voiced the last sentence abruptly and snipped his fingers. "Then, too, I'd like to have a thrill before I cash in—taste 'the salt of life,' as somebody expressed it. That's war. It's the biggest game in the world. What do you think of the idea?"

"Not much," O'Reilly said honestly.

"Difference in temperament. I suppose it is a sick fancy, but I've got it. I'm a rotten coward, but I'll fight if the Cubans will take me."

"Where are the Cubans?"

"Oh, they're out yonder in the hills. I know all about 'em. Come over to my quarters, and I'll show you a map, if you're interested."

"I am," said O'Reilly, and, rising, he followed his new acquaintance.

CHAPTER VIII.

The Spanish Doubloon.

On the whole, Pancho Cueto's plans had worked smoothly. After denouncing the Varona twins as traitors he had managed to have himself appointed trustee for the crown, for all their properties, consummation for which he had worked from the moment he read that letter of Esteban's on the morning after Donna Isabel's death. That there was a treasure Cueto had never doubted, and, once the place was his, to do with as he chose, he began his search.

Commencing at the lower edge of the grounds, he ripped them up with a series of deep trenches and cross-cutts. It was a task that required the labor of many men for several weeks, and when it was finished there was scarcely a growing thing left upon the place. Only a few of the larger trees remained. Cueto was disappointed at finding nothing, but he was not discouraged. Next he tore down the old slave barracks and the outbuildings, after which he completely wrecked the residence itself. He pulled it apart bit by bit, brick by brick. He even dug up its foundations, but without the reward of so much as a single peseta. Finally, when the villa was but a heap of rubbish and the grounds a scar upon the slope of La Cumbre, he desisted, baffled, incredulous, while all Matanzas laughed at him. Having sacrificed his choicest residence, he retired in chagrin to the plantation of La Joya.

But Cueto was now a man with a grievance. He burned with rage, and his contempt for the boy and girl he had wronged soured into hatred. In time he began to realize also that so long as they lived they would jeopardize his tenure of their property. Public feeling, at present, was high; there was intense bitterness against all rebels; but the war would end some day. What then? Cueto asked himself. Sympathy was ever on the side of the weak and oppressed. There would come a day of reckoning.

As if to swell his discontent and strengthen his fears, out from the hills at the head of the Yumuri issued rumors of a little band of guerrilleros, under the leadership of a beardless boy—a band of blacks who were making the upper valley unsafe for Spanish scouting parties.

Cursing the name of Varona, Pancho Cueto armed himself. He did not venture far alone, and, like Donna Isabel before him, he began to have bad dreams at night.

One day a field of Cueto's cane was burned, and his laborers reported seeing Esteban and some negroes riding into the wood. The oversexed rooster horse within the hour and rode pell-mell to Matanzas. In the city at this time was a certain Colonel Cobo, in command of Spanish volunteers, those execrable convict troops from the Isle of Pines whose atrocities had already marked them as wolves rather than men, and to him Pancho went with his story.

"Ah, yes! That Varona boy. I've heard of him," Cobo remarked, when his caller had finished his account. "He has reason to hate you, I dare say, for you robbed him." The colonel smiled disagreeably.

Cueto murmured something to the effect that the law had placed him in his position as trustee for the crown, and should therefore protect him; but Colonel Cobo's respect for the law, it seemed, was slight. In his view there was but one law in the land, the law of force.

"Why do you come to me?" he asked.

"That fellow is a desperado," Pancho declared. "He should be destroyed."

"Bah! The country is overrun with desperadoes of his kind, and worse. Burning crops is nothing new. I'd make an end of him soon enough, but nearly all my men are in Cardenas. We have work enough to do."

"I'd make it worth while, if you could put an end to him," Pancho said, hesitatingly. Then, recalling some of those stories about Colonel Cobo, he added, "There are two of them, you know, a boy and a girl."

"Ah, yes! I remember."

"I can direct you to the house of Asensio, where they live."

"Um-m!" Cobo was thoughtful. "A girl. How old is she?"

"Eighteen."

"Ugly as an alligator, I'll warrant!"

"Ha! The most ravishing creature in all Matanzas. All the men were mad over her."

Colonel Cobo, the guerrilla, licked his full, red lips and ran a strong, square hand over his curly, short-cropped hair. "You say you know where she—where they are living?"

"Ah, perfectly! It's less than a night's ride. There's no one except the boy to reckon with."

"How much is he worth to you?" bluntly inquired the soldier, and Cueto sat down to make the best terms possible.

"Do you think he received my letter?" Rosa asked of her brother one evening as they sat on the board bench by Asensio's door. It was a familiar question to Esteban; he had answered it many times.

"Oh, yes!" he declared. "Lopez messenger got through to Key West."

"Then why doesn't he come?"

"But my dear, you must be patient. Think of his difficulties."

This subject always distressed young Varona; therefore he changed it. "Come! You haven't heard of my good fortune. I captured another fine snake today, a big, sleepy fellow. Believe me, he'll wake up when I set fire to his tail. He'll go like the wind, and with every foot he goes away will go more of Pancho Cueto's profits."

"You intend to burn more of his fields?" absentmindedly inquired the girl. "It seems terrible to destroy our own property."

Esteban broke out excitedly; he could not discuss Pancho Cueto without losing control of himself. "Would you permit that traitor to fatten upon the profits of our plantations? I shall ruin him, as he ruined us."

Rosa shook her dark head sadly. "And we are indeed ruined. Think of our beautiful house; all our beautiful things, too! We used to consider ourselves poor, but—how little we knew of real poverty. There are so many things I want. Have we nothing left?"

"I thought it best to buy those rifles," the brother murmured, dropping his eyes. "It was one chance in a million."

"No doubt it was. It seems those Spaniards will sell their souls."

"Exactly. We can dig food from the earth and pluck it from the trees, but good Mausers don't grow on every bush. Besides, of what use would money be to us when we have no place to spend it?"

"True!" After a moment Rosa mused aloud: "I wonder if Cueto found the treasure? If only we had that!"

"He didn't find it," Esteban declared, positively. "I"—he hesitated—"I think I know why he didn't. I think I know where it is."

"Where is it?" breathlessly inquired the girl.

After a furtive look over his shoulder Esteban whispered, "In the well."

"You're joking!"

"No, no! Think for yourself. It was old Sebastian who dug that well."

"Yes."

"And he alone shared father's confidence. That sunken garden was all Sebastian's work. No one else was allowed to tend it. Why? I'll tell you. They feared to let anyone else draw the water. Isabel searched for years; if that treasure had been above ground her sharp nose would have smelled it out, and now Cueto has moved the very earth."

Rosa sat back disappointed. "So that's your theory?"

"It's more than a theory," the boy insisted. "Look at this!" From the pocket of his cotton trousers he produced an odd-looking coin, which he placed in Rosa's hand.

"Why, it's gold! It's a Spanish doubloon," she said. "It's the first one I ever saw. Where did you find it?"

"You'll think I'm crazy when I tell you—sometimes I think so myself. I found it in Isabel's hand when I took her from the well!"

Rosa was stricken speechless.

"She clutched it tightly," Esteban hurried on, "but as I made the rope fast her hand relaxed and I saw it in the lantern light. It was as if—well, as if she gave it to me. I was too badly frightened to think much about it, as you may imagine. It was a horrible place, all slime and foul water; the rocks were slippery. But that coin was in her fingers!"

Rosa managed to say: "Impossible! Then she must have had it when she fell."

"No, no! I saw her hands upstretched, her fingers open, in the moonlight."

"It's uncanny. Perhaps—"

"Yes. Perhaps some unseen hand led her to the place so that we should at last come into our own. Who knows? There's no doubt that father hid his money. He turned his slaves into gold, he bought jewels, precious metal, anything he could hide. Well, perhaps there were old coins in the lot. The water in the well is shallow; Isabel must have groped this piece from the bottom. Some day I shall explore the hole and—we shall see."

Rosa flung her arms rapturously about her brother's neck and kissed him. "Wouldn't it be glorious?" she cried. "Wouldn't it be wonderful, to be rich, and to want for nothing; to have fine clothes and good things to eat once more? Good things to eat!" Her lip quivered. "Oh—I'm so hungry."

"Poor little girl!"

"Wait till O'Reilly hears about this," Rosa was all excitement once more. "He'll be glad he came and got me, if he does come."

Esteban caressed her. "He'll come, never fear. I know it. Every time I leave you my heart is in my throat for fear of what may happen in my absence—and yet I can't always be at your side."

"There! You acknowledge that I handicap you. Except for me you would be making a glorious name for yourself."

"Nothing of the sort. More probably I'd be getting myself killed. No! It's better this way. We must be brave and patient and think of what is waiting for us at the bottom of that well."

It was indeed a great piece of luck which had enabled Esteban Varona to buy a half-dozen Mausers from a Spanish soldier. Through Asensio's acquaintance he had profited by the dishonesty of an enemy, and, although it had taken all his money to effect the purchase, Esteban considered the sacrifice well worth while. The fire of patriotism burned fiercely in him, as did his hatred of Pancho Cueto, and the four trusty young negroes to whom he had given rifles made, with Asensio and himself, an armed party large enough to be reckoned with. These blacks were excitable fellows, and wretched marksmen, but, on the other hand, each and every one had been raised with a machete at his hip and knew how to use it. After a few preliminary forays under Esteban's leadership they had absorbed a bit of discipline and were beginning to feel a military ardor.

In the Cuban field forces there were many negroes, and few of their fellow patriots fought better, or endured the hardships of guerrilla warfare more cheerfully than they. General Antonio Maceo was of mixed blood, and yet his leadership was characterized not only by rare judgment and ability, but also by an exalted abandon of personal bravery. His several brothers rendered Cuba services scarcely less distinguished, and they were but of a few of many dark-skinned heroes. This struggle for independence was no patriotic's war; the best stock of the island fought side by side with field hands.

At dawn of the morning following his talk with Rosa, when the members of his command assembled, Esteban was up and ready. He had made his preparations to destroy Pancho Cueto's fields, and since the road over the hills to La Joya was long he had summoned them early.

"Be careful!" Rosa implored him. "I shall die of suspense."

"It is for you to be careful," he laughed. "Keep a good watch, and conceal yourself at the first alarm. However, I think we have taught these bandits a lesson. As for Cueto, he would run to the jungle if he saw us. He has the heart of a mouse." He kissed his sister affectionately and then rode off at the head of his tattooed band.

Rosa waved him a last farewell as he disappeared into the woods, then, to occupy herself, she helped Evangelina with what little housework there was to do, later going with her to the garden patch where the viandas grew.

Evangelina's early devotion to her mistress had not diminished with time; if anything, it had deepened. When emancipation came she would have returned to the service of her beloved twins had it not been for Donna Isabel's refusal to accept her. As it was, she and Asensio had married, and by means of Rosa's surreptitious help they had managed to buy this little piece of land. Rosa had practiced self-denial to make the purchase possible, and her self-sacrifice had borne fruit; that act of childish benevolence had granted a refuge for Esteban and herself and had ripened the negro woman's affection into idolatry.

Evangelina's joy at having the girl to herself, where she could daily see her, touch her, serve her, was tempered only by the knowledge of Rosa's unhappiness. She scolded and tyrannized, she mothered and adored the girl to her heart's content; she watched over her like a hawk; she deemed no labor in her service too exacting. It would have gone ill with anyone who offered harm to Rosa, for Evangelina was strong and capable; she had the arms and the hands of a man, and she possessed the smoldering black temper of Sebastian, her father.

Even in peaceful times few people came to this clearing in the woods, far off from the main-traveled roads of the Yumuri, and the day, as usual, passed uneventfully. Evangelina worked, with one eye upon her Rosa, the other watchfully alert for danger. When evening came she prepared their scanty meal, upbraiding Rosa, meanwhile, for her attempts to assist her. Then they sat for an hour or two on the bench outside the door, talking about Juan O'Reilly and the probable hour of his coming.

When Rosa fretted about her brother, the negro reassured her. "Don't be frightened, little dove; he has the makings of a great soldier. Now, then, it is growing cool and the night carries feters. Creep into your bed and dream about that handsome lover of yours."

Rosa obeyed, although reluctantly. "I'll sleep for a while," she compromised, "then I'll come out and take my turn."

Dawn was still a long way off when, true to her promise, Rosa emerged from the hut with an apology for having slept so long. Evangelina protested, though her eyes were heavy and she had been yawning prodigiously for hours. But for once the girl was firm. Having finally prevailed in her determination, she seated herself in the warm place Evangelina had vacated, and, curling her small feet under her, she settled herself, chin in hand, to that of O'Reilly. It was a good time to think, for the jungle was very still and the night like a velvet curtain.

"We had better leave the horses here," Pancho Cueto hesitatingly addressed the dim blur which he knew to be Colonel Cobo. The colonel of volunteers was in a vile temper, what with the long night ride and an error of Cueto's which had considerably lengthened the journey.

"Where is the house?" growled the officer.

"Not far. But the path is rocky and the horses' feet—"

"Yes, yes!" There was a creak of saddle leathers and a groan as the colonel dismounted. "Now, my good Cueto," he threatened, "another of your mistakes and I'll give you something to remember me by."

A curt order brought his men out of their saddles. One of their number was detailed to guard the animals, while the rest fell in behind Cueto and followed him up the trail by the starlight.

Esteban and his followers arrive on the scene in the nick of time. What happened when they encountered Colonel Cobo and his men is told in the next installment.

Many Will Claim Spitzbergen. More than 300 years ago, in 1614, James I of England, formerly claimed Spitzbergen. The Muscovy company, a British concern, was ordered "to uphold the king's right to Spitzbergen" by an order in council. That claim was allowed to lapse in the same manner in which the Russian claim lapsed, the Britons interested in the country said.

With the end of the war old days will be dug up, with records of comparatively recent times, to bolster the contentions of the various claimants, as Spitzbergen is sure to occupy a prominent place in north European affairs. Uncle Sam is happily out of the matter because of the sale by the Arctic Coal company, although judging by precedent it never was likely that this country would go so far as to desire to exercise suzerainty over the land. Such a course was urged in America in 1912 and 1913.

Brought War Into Home. The beginning of hostilities between Italy and Austria was the cause of similar activity in the household of Anthony Sokelle, says his wife, formerly Baroness Bianca Alessi, in her divorce complaint, filed at New York.

"He is a Croatian," she alleges, "and I am an Italian baroness. He has been a raving maniac since our respective countries got into war. I'm through."

Few Chinese Newspapers. In all China there are about 440 newspapers, and of these only about fifty have good circulation. The average is not more than 3,000 copies an issue. One newspaper in Shanghai claims a daily circulation of 30,000.

Profitless Activity. "De saddest thing I know of," said Uncle Eben, "is a man dat's so busy mindin' a ukulele an' a setter pup dat he ain't got time to go out and put two or three dollars a day in his own pocket."

One way to avoid a fight is to stop and count ten. By that time the other fellow will probably have you licked.

THE ART OF TEA MAKING.

The three components of tea are essential oil, theine and tannin. These give character to the beverage. The flavor of the tea depends chiefly upon the essential oil. The caffeine found in coffee is an alkaloid like theine and the fatigued one who finds refreshment and restored energy from a cupful of tea has been stimulated by this ingredient.

There are hundreds of blends of teas but those commonly known and most used are English Breakfast, Formosa, Oolong, Ceylon, Orange Pekos, young Hyson and Souchong.

Properly brewed tea is an important essential. Tea should not be infused too long and should under no circumstances be boiled.

Ceylon tea is the tea best liked for iced tea and when serving it hot the tea ball is desirable.

Green tea known by gun powder, Hyson and various other names, is much lighter in color, a drink of high fragrance, but a bit more harsh than black teas. The English know the value of fresh boiled water for the fragrant beverage.

In many places certain springs or wells have water which makes a most superior tea, the tea makers going many rods to carry this precious water to have the right tasting cup of tea.

Russians, we are apt to think, always require a slice of lemon in their tea while as a fact they serve jam with their national drink, dropping it into the tea which is drunk from tumblers.

In Morocco the leaves of thyme and verbena are added to the tea to lend it piquancy.

The Persian likes his sweetened almost to a syrup. The Burmese add garlic and other highly flavored sesame oil to theirs.

Perhaps in America as in no other country cream in tea is the tea par excellence. We must bear in mind, however, that tannin in tea will act upon the delicate stomach lining and should be infused just long enough to extract the flavor. Any added steeping tends to increase the amount of tannin.

GOOD EATING.

Simple desserts are the rule these days. Dates which are rich in food value are little appreciated by the average housewife. Wash the dates, remove the pits and arrange in small dishes, sprinkle with a tablespoonful of broken nut meats, such as pecans, add a spoonful of sweetened whipped cream and you have a dessert which is both nutritious and dainty.

Tapico and Date Sponge.—Put a scant half teaspoonful of salt and a pint of boiling water in the upper part of a double boiler, stir in one-third of a cupful of minute tapioca and stir lightly until it thickens, then cover and cook until the tapioca is transparent.

Four boiling water over half a pound of dates, stir, then skim them, cut and dry in the oven. Cut in sections, removing the pits and stir into the tapioca with one-fourth cupful of sugar and the juice of a large lemon. Beat the whites of two eggs and fold into the mixture. Serve with sugar and cream.

Green Pea Soup.—To serve ten people boil two quarts of green peas in two quarts of water with an onion and three sprigs of parsley. Remove the onion and parley and press the peas through a puree sieve, dishing meanwhile with the vegetable liquor saved from the cooked peas. Add a quart of chicken broth and stir until boiling, cook ten minutes, add two teaspoonfuls of salt, a teaspoonful of sugar and a dash of pepper. Serve very hot.

Chop Suey.—Heat a half cupful of sweet fat in a kettle, add one pound of chicken cut into bits, remove chicken when brown and add a pound of lean pork, also cut in bits, return the chicken to the kettle and add one cupful of chopped onion, the same of celery and a can of mushrooms, using the liquor in the can, one and one-half cupfuls of water and one cupful of blanched and finely chopped peanuts. Add salt and pepper to taste and boil one-half hour.

A juicy pie may still be palatable and save its juice by using an egg beaten with the sugar and a little flour well stirred into the fruit when putting it into the crust. Another method to save the juice in the pie is to insert a paper funnel in one of the small openings of the crust. The juice boils up but does not escape.

NERVOUS PROSTRATION

May be Overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—This Letter Proves It.

West Philadelphia, Pa.—"During the thirty years I have been married, I have been in bad health and had several attacks of nervous prostration until it seemed as if the organs in my whole body were worn out. I was finally persuaded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made a well woman of me. I can now do all my housework and advise all ailing women to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I will guarantee they will derive great benefit from it." Mrs. FRANK FITZGERALD, 25 N. 41st Street, West Philadelphia, Pa.

There are thousands of women everywhere in Mrs. Fitzgerald's condition, suffering from nervousness, backache, headache, and other symptoms of a functional derangement. It was a grateful spirit for health restored which led her to write this letter so that other women may benefit from her experience and find health as she has done.

For suggestions in regard to your condition write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of their 40 years experience is at your service.

PLANT LOOKS LIKE SHEEP

Single Growth Resembles Animal So Greatly as to Deceive Even an Experienced Shepherd.

"Some of the most singular plants in the world," says a writer in the April Wide World, "are the vegetable sheep of New Zealand. These are known to science as Raoulia extima, and although they are of such a strange habit of growth they are members of the daisy tribe. The vegetable sheep grow at high altitudes, usually on some bleak mountain slope, which may be 5,000 feet above sea level. The whole plant is a compact mass of stems densely covered with small woolly leaves. So closely do the Raoulia resemble sheep that experienced shepherds will often climb a long way up the mountain thinking that they see some missing member of their flock huddled against a rock, only to discover that they have been deceived by a plant! During a recent exhibition at Christchurch, in New Zealand, some specimens of the vegetable sheep were collected for the show. The plants are often large and heavy, and it required the efforts of half a dozen strong men to secure some fine examples of the Raoulia."

A VITAL QUESTION

Have you thought of your clothes and your son's clothes?

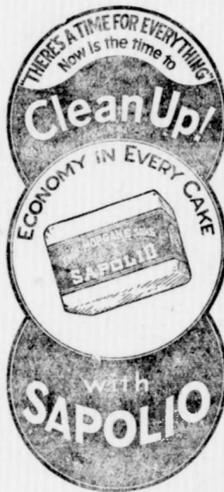

Since 1873 this store has supplied the community with all wool clothing, the best obtainable, made by reliable manufacturers and sold at a very reasonable profit. The clothing we have sold, and always aim to sell is of such quality and tailoring that the purchaser has always been, and always will be satisfied.

Today we are facing new conditions in the clothing business. The government has requisitioned practically all looms that are able to manufacture cloth for government purposes. Labor is very short in the textile and tailoring industries. Wool today is three times higher in price than four years ago. All trimmings have doubled and trebled in price. In addition to this we are informed that in the future a certain amount of cotton must be woven in woolen cloths.

With these acts before you and with conditions growing more and more serious each month, we thought it proper to tell you this. It is our belief that if you will buy a suit now while it is still possible to buy all wool materials, you can save from $10.00 to $15.00 on every suit. We have expected and prepared for these conditions and are in a position to supply your clothing wants at prices in effect last Fall. Our exhibit of models for men, young men and boys are very complete, showing every kind of fabric in all colors. Our styles for young men are full of life and snap, the models for older men are in keeping. In blue serges we offer extraordinary values. Every suit we sell is made by reliable manufacturers and is of the very highest quality. WE STAKE OUR REPUTATION ON THE GOODS WE SELL. We believe that clothing in the next five or ten years will not be as low in price as it is today—neither will the quality be as good. Knowing that you will save money, and knowing that we are giving you clothing of the best quality, we urge and invite you to supply your clothing wants now. This is an important matter and should have your serious consideration and prompt action.

ROAD TO HAPPINESS.

Be amiable, cheerful and good natured and you are much more likely to be happy. You will find this difficult, if not impossible, however, when you are constantly troubled with constipation. Take Chamberlain's Tablets and get rid of that and it will be easy. These tablets not only move the bowels, but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion.

You have got to clean and clear the bowels thoroughly to have good health after months of indoor life; you would do so now if you could see them as you do your face or hands. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea cleans and clears as nothing else. Start tonight.—Edw. C. Miller.

PROPER FOOD FOR WEAK STOMACHS

The proper food for one man may be all wrong for another. Every one should adopt a diet suited to his age and occupation. Those who have weak stomachs need to be especially careful and should eat slowly and masticate their food thoroughly. It is also important that they keep their bowels regular. When they become constipated or when they feel dull and stupid after eating, they should take Chamberlain's Tablets to strengthen the stomach and move the bowels. They are easy to take and pleasant in effect.

Keep the little ones healthy and happy. Their tender, sensitive bodies require a cooling, healing, harmless remedy to prepare their stomachs for summer's heat. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea is reliable and safe, tho' not injurious, 35c.—Edw. C. Miller.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and for years it was supposed to be incurable. Doctors prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is a constitutional remedy, is taken internally and acts thro' the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. One Hundred Dollars reward is offered for any case that Hall's Catarrh Medicine fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. The Justly Famous Perfection Milking Machine

WHY FARMERS BUY MILKING MACHINES

Why do men change methods in business? Is it not to make a gain of some kind? Most assuredly. The gain may be in making work easier, cutting down the hours of labor, taking out of work its hardships, adopting better work methods, but always having in mind the adding to the bank account.

Farmers buy milking machines for one and all of these reasons. Every farmer who reads and keeps abreast of the times, knows that our present methods of farming and dairying are exceedingly wasteful in time lost, land fertility lost, crop profits lost through small returns per acre, failure to get the greatest returns possible from help employed, etc.

Therefore, the coming of the milking machine is a big thing for the farmer. It has as great a meaning to him, if he will but study its possibilities, as did the change he made years ago in cutting his grain with a reaper and binder instead of a scythe and cradle. And one of the best things about it is that it benefits alike both the big and the little farmer. Each one can profit in proportion to the size of his farm.

While the saving of drudgery and disagreeable work is a fine thing—while the time saved and independence from the farm help trouble is worth all the milking machine costs to put in—that is not the biggest gain the wide-awake farmer makes.

The biggest thing of all is the possibilities the milking machine puts in every farmer's hands in the way of largely increasing his cash returns per acre by a gradual adoption of intensive farming methods such as will enable him to double or treble the returns he gets from each acre.

While farmers generally have done well, still every successful one knows he has not obtained anywhere near what he could get were he able to use his land, time and labor to the best advantage. Owning a dependable, properly constructed milking machine fully and satisfactorily answers this question which you have asked yourself more times than one.

But mind you, just owning any old kind of a so-called milker, won't do. Not by a whole lot. THE ONLY MILKING MACHINE THAT CAN POSSIBLY BE PERMANENTLY SUCCESSFUL IS THE ONE THAT DRAWS THE MILK JUST AS THE CALF SUCKS.

HAPPENINGS OF THE WEEK IN WISCONSIN

Milwaukee—Damage amounting to thousands of dollars was caused throughout practically the entire state on Sunday, May 19, by one of the most severe rain, hail and wind storms in recent years. The heaviest loss, it is thought, will be fruit trees, the blossoms of which were knocked off by the hail, which in some places assumed the proportions of small hen's eggs. Branches were broken off by the heavy gale, which drove the wind and hail before it with terrific force. Available information from the farming communities of the state is in effect that there will be some damage to crops by the torrential rainfall, which in many localities drowned out the seeds when the fields were converted temporarily into miniature lakes.

Green Bay—Charges of mismanagement of the Brown county tuberculosis sanitarium and extravagance in handling funds and ill-treatment of patients, which were lodged against Superintendent Emma Rosenbohm in March by Adella Taylor, a nurse, were dismissed as unwarranted by a special investigation committee of the county board.

STILL ONE OF THEM IN LIBERTY'S NAME

Veterans Always With the Boys in Spirit, Though They May Not March.

COMES the old-time feelin' at the beatin' o' the drum. An' I'm sittin' in the sunlight an' a-watchin' 'em come! An' I seem rejuvenated!—see the old-time battle sky. An' I'm one o' them same youngsters— with the boys a-marchin' by!

Don't they keep step fine! An' I'd give the world to jine! (They's lots o' grayhaired fellers that would leap to battle line!) Comes the old-time feelin' as I see 'em march along; The winds that wave the old flag seem to sing a battle song!

An' the rifle on the rack there—must I see it with a sigh, My war days gone forever, an' the boys a-marchin' by!

Keepin' step so fine— How it thrills this heart o' mine! (An' lots o' grayhaired fellers that would form a battle line!) It isn't the old brigades they're handin' out the guns, Though when it comes to trouble we are all the country's sons!

An' that's why I'm a-sayin', when the time's drawin' nigh, I'm one o' them same youngsters— with the boys a-marchin' by!

Don't they keep step fine! An' I'd give the world to jine! (They's lots o' grayhaired fellers that would leap to battle line!) —Frank L. Stanton, in the Atlanta Constitution.

The Heroic Dead. And so Memorial day is here again, and we lift up our eyes and behold the hosts gathering all over this land and marching to the cemeteries. They are bringing flowers—wreaths and pillows and crosses. These are tokens of a nation's love and emblems of a nation's gratitude. We honor the Northern and the Southern dead today, and with one hand put a wreath on the Federal, while with the other we put a similar wreath on the Confederate graves.—Christina Advocate.

IN LIBERTY'S NAME

Memorial Day Finds the Nation Battling for Freedom of the Whole World.

MEMORIAL DAY was born of a war fought that this nation, under God, should have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, for the people and by the people shall not perish from the earth.

A half a century and more has passed since that immortal utterance. Now the nation is again in arms, to fight that "the world may be made safe for democracy."

Then, the young republic, struggling upward toward its vision of freedom, learned through the bitter travail of Civil war that the nation could not exist half slave and half free. The vision has broadened with the widening years. Then it was for the freedom of a race the nation fought. Now the sword is drawn for the imperiled liberty of the world.

The natal day of our Independence we have been wont to celebrate with loud acclaim and vaulting pride. Memorial day ever has been our time for solemn contemplation. Another Memorial day is at hand, and as America lays its flowers on the graves of its soldier dead, it hears again that reverent voice from the slopes of Gettysburg bidding us to be not unmindful that "it is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we be highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain."

A beautiful, a poetic symbolism Memorial day had come to be to us: The people who walk with slow steps in the quiet cemeteries, the children in their white dresses who with loving hands place wreaths "alike for the friend and the foe," the venerable men who are the links that bind us to an age-long gone, and as we believed, forever gone, when nation warred with nation and blood lust grew in hearts that had thrilled at the sight of the same flag.

And now with what a new and sudden significance has Memorial day been vested. With what different thought will they go "lovingly laden with flowers." How much more reverently than in those conventional days that already seem so far away will the little flags be planted on each patriot mound. And who is there, when taps, clear and soft as a benediction, is sounded for those who "dream of battlefields no more," will not remember that on a neighboring hill on the morrow from that same silvery bugle will leap the reveille for another generation of freedom's soldiers?

If solemn memories of the past and earnest thought for the future bring that new birth of freedom, who shall say that those who have died in vain for whom flowers will be spread in far Memorial days to come?

TRIBUTE TO PHIL KEARNY Comte De Paris Knew and Loved Famous Soldier Who Gave His Life for His Country.

It was after the review that I made the personal acquaintance of the officers with whom I was to have the good fortune to fight for a cause which was already dear to me. All made me cordially welcome, but it was with Kearny that I found myself most at home. He it was who could speak to me of the French army in Algeria in 1840 and of the memories left by my family in that country. He did so in terms which deeply touched the heart of the exile, the son of the Duc d'Orleans. Kearny had participated in one of those campaigns on African ground which brought out strongly the merits of the French soldier. He had also associated himself with the triumphs of France in the Italian campaign of 1859.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

NIGHT RACES. "Come along, come along," said the Night Fairies, and they flew along over the black night clouds. "Will you run races?" asked the Night Fairies as they ran along the Milky Way and called upon the Shooting Stars. "Oh, rather!" said the Shooting Stars. "We'd love to run races." "Tonight?" asked the Night Fairies, and the Shooting Stars said: "Yes, tonight! Yes, tonight! When all is bright, so bright! We'll run races! Hurrah! So let's hurry away!" And off they all hurried. The Shooting Stars raced with the Night Fairies and the Moon looked on and laughed. Many of the other stars said: "What a good time the Shooting Star children do have. They're so jolly and are so fond of racing with the fairies. And the earth people, we have heard, love to see the Shooting Stars." As they were playing and racing and laughing a little fairy named Silvery Night came along. "Where have you been, Silvery Night?" they all asked. "We wanted to run races with you, too," said the Shooting Stars. "We're having night races. Where have you been?" "Listen," said Silvery Night. And they all stopped racing to listen. "I was flying over a house tonight and I heard the voice of a little child inside. There was a window open near by and I hopped on the window sill where she couldn't see me. She was talking to her mother. "When does the doctor say I'll be able to sit up?" she asked. "Very soon, my love," her mother said. "You must be a little stronger." "Oh, mother," the little girl said. "I do hope it will be soon. I get so tired of being in bed. I feel so very lonely sometimes without my friends, the Shooting Stars." "Now I found out," continued Silvery Night, "that this little girl always sat by her window before she went to bed and looked at the stars, and so many nights she saw the Shooting Stars. She loved them so, and always wanted to see them if there were any to see. But now she had to lie in bed and the bed was quite a distance from the window as she had to be kept out of the drafts. "I could tell that her mother was afraid she was getting so discouraged that it would take her longer to get well. So I stopped on my way and had a talk with the Dream King." "Yes, and what did he say?" they all asked. "He said he would help." "Hurrah!" they shouted. So the Night Fairies and the Shooting Stars led by Silvery Night and the Dream King ran their races all through the dreams of the little girl and up and down the ceiling. They danced over the bed, and sometimes she almost caught them as they raced by her! But she never quite caught one! "Oh, my dear beautiful Shooting Stars," she said, "and the beautiful fairies." And the fairies whispered to her: "You'll soon be well, little girl. Be patient, very patient, and soon you'll be strong again. The Night Fairies are watching over you and the Shooting Stars have not forgotten their little friend who loves to see their sports." Morning at last came and the Shooting Stars, the Night Fairies, Silvery Night and the Dream King had gone and the little girl was wide awake. "Oh, mother," she said, "I feel so much better. The Night Fairies and Shooting Stars had night races for me in my dream, and they told me to be patient a little longer. I have been getting so impatient lately!" The doctor came to see the little girl that day and he said that she was wonderfully improved and that within two days she could be up once more! He really didn't at all understand the wonderful improvement but some little creatures did—and they were the Night Fairies, the Shooting Stars, Silvery Night, the Dream King and the little girl herself! So the night races were a very big success!

Riches in England. In munition centers in England where there has been such a marked increase in wages since the beginning of the war, the demand for second-hand pianos is so great that second-hand baby grand pianos sell readily at $510, and old second-hand upright grand pianos that were formerly sold new at about $120 now bring $250. Unfortunately, restrictions forbid the importation of second-hand pianos into England from the United States.—Boston Globe.

Test Soldier's Brains. The psychological and brain tests to which our enlisted men are being subjected are something new in military tactics. In other wars men were not put into the ranks if they showed noticeable signs of mental infirmity. Now they do not stop with asking if he is crazy, but they go further and determine by established tests whether he is apt to go crazy if exposed to the strain and shock of battle. Doctor Gorgas instituted this new examination, and under it many men have been turned back from the path to "over there" and detailed to some phase of government service "over here." They are not generally told why the change is made, but are expected to give soldierly obedience to the order. To tell them would be to set up a state of self-suspicion that would be very harmful.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

If Swift & Company Made No Profit

The cattle raiser would receive only 1/8 cent a pound more for his cattle

So small is Swift & Company's profit on any single transaction that if it were turned over to the cattle raisers of the country, they would receive only 1/8 cent a pound more for cattle than they receive now.

Swift & Company pays for live cattle about 90% of the amount received for dressed meat and by-products. The remaining 10% pays for packing-house expense, freight to market, operation of distributing houses and profit. Swift & Company's actual figures per head for 1917 on over two million cattle were as follows:

Receipts		Payments
From By-products	$24.09 26%	Paid for Live Cattle	$84.45 91%
From Meat	$68.97 74%	Profit Selling Freight Dressing	$8.61 9%
Total	$93.06	Total	$93.06

* This net profit of $1.29 per head averages 1/8 cent a pound live weight.

And out of this small net profit dividends must be paid to shareholders.

U.S. TO SEND MEN TO BATTLE UNTIL VICTORY--WILSON

Makes Statement in Red Cross Speech at New York.

NO LIMIT ON AMERICAN ARMY

Declares U. S. Will Not Be Diverted From Its Purpose of Winning War by Insincere Approaches on Subject of Peace—Asks All to Contribute Generously to the $100,000,000 Fund.

New York, May 20.—Opening with a speech here the Red Cross' drive for a second $100,000,000 war fund, President Wilson announced the purpose of the United States to set no limits on its effort to win the war.

"I have heard gentlemen recently say," said he, "that we must get 5,000,000 men ready. Why limit it to 5,000,000? I have asked of congress to name no limit, because congress intends, I am sure, as we all intend, that every ship that can carry men or supplies shall go laden upon every voyage with every man and every supply she can carry."

The United States, the president declared, will not be diverted from its purpose of winning the war by insincere approaches on the subject of peace.

Peace Overtures Insincere.
"I can say with a clear conscience," he said, "that I have tested those intentions and have found them insincere. I now recognize them for what they are, an opportunity to have a free hand, particularly in the East, to carry out purposes of conquest and exploitation. Every proposal with regard to accommodation in the West involves a reservation in regard to the East. I intend to stand by Russia, as well as France."

The statement brought the house to its feet cheering.
German ruler's, the president declared, are mistaken if they think the United States will sacrifice anybody for its own sake.

War to Save World.
"If they wish peace, let them come forward and lay their terms on the table. We have laid ours and they know what they are," he said.

The war, the president declared, is a war to save the world. The conflict, he said, will knit the world together.
Dwelling on the duty of Americans to give to the Red Cross, the president declared no man could afford to make money out of the war.

The audience was composed of distinguished men and women, most of whom have been leaders in the work of the Red Cross.

Text of Speech.
The speech of President Wilson at the opening of the Red Cross drive was as follows:

"Mr. Chairman and fellow countrymen: It would be very sorry to think that Mr. Division in any degree curtailed his exceedingly interesting speech for fear that he was postponing peace, because I am sure you listened with the same intent and intimate interest with which I listened to the extraordinarily vivid account he gave of the things which he had realized because he had come in contact with them on the other side of the waters."

"We compass them with our imagination; he compassed them in his personal experience, and I am not here to review for you your work of the Red Cross; I am not competent to do so because I have not had the time or the opportunity to follow it in detail. I have come here simply to say a few words to you as to what it all seems to me to mean, and it means a great deal."
Two Duties in War.
"There are two duties with which we are face to face. The first duty is to win the war. And the second duty, that goes hand-in-hand with it, is to win it greatly and worthily, showing the real quality of our power not only, but the real quality of our purpose and of ourselves."

"Of course, the first duty, the duty that we must keep in the foreground of our thought until it is accomplished, is to win the war. I have heard gentlemen recently say that we must get 5,000,000 men ready. Why limit it to 5,000,000?"
"I have asked the congress of the United States to name no limit because the congress intends, I am sure, as we all intend, that every ship that can carry men or supplies shall go laden upon every voyage with every man and every supply she can carry."

Finds Fee Insincere.
"And we are not to be diverted from the grim purpose of winning the war by any insincere approaches upon the subject of peace. I can say with a clear conscience that I have tested those intentions and have found them insincere. I now recognize them for what they are, an opportunity to have a free hand, particularly in the East, to carry out purposes of conquest and exploitation."

"Every proposal with regard to accommodation in the West involves a reservation with regard to the East. Now, so far as I am concerned, I intend to stand by Russia as well as France."

"The helpless and the friendless are the very ones that need friends and succor," the president continued, "and if any man in Germany thinks we are going to sacrifice anybody for our own sake I tell him now he is mistaken."

"For the glory of this war, my fellow citizens, in so far as we are concerned, is that it is, perhaps, for the first time in history, an unselfish war. I could not be proud to fight for a selfish purpose, but I can be proud to fight for mankind."

"If they wish peace let them come forward through accredited representatives and lay their terms on the table. We have laid ours and they know what they are."

"But behind all this grim purpose, my friends, lies the opportunity to demonstrate not only force which will be demonstrated to the utmost but the opportunity to demonstrate character, and it is that opportunity that we have most conspicuously in the work of the Red Cross."

"Not that our men in arms do not represent our character, for they do, and it is a character which those who see and realize appreciate and admire; but their duty is the duty of force. The duty of the Red Cross is the duty of mercy and succor and friendship."

Knitting World Together.
"Have you formed a picture in your imagination of what this war is doing for us and for the world? In my own mind I am convinced that not a hundred years of peace could have knitted this nation together as this single year of war has knitted it together; and, better even than that, if possible, it is knitting the world together."

"Look at the picture. In the center of the scene, four nations engaged against the world, and at every point of vantage showing that they are seeking selfish aggrandizement, and, against them, 23 governments representing the greater part of the population of the world drawn together into a new sense of community of purpose, a new sense of unity of life."

Cites Italian Example.
"The secretary of war told me an interesting incident the other day. He said when he was in Italy a member of the Italian government was explaining to him the many reasons why Italy felt near to the United States."

"If you want to try an interesting experiment go up to any one of these troop trains and ask in English how many of them have been in America and see what happens."

"He tried the experiment. He went up to a troop train and he said, 'How many of you boys have been in America?' and he said it seemed to him as if half of them sprang up: 'Me from San Francisco; me from New York; all over.' There was part of the heart of America in the Italian army. People that had knitted to us by association, who knew us, who had lived amongst us, who had worked shoulder to shoulder with us, and now friends of America, were fighting for their native Italy."

Must Serve One Another.
"Friendship is the only cement that will ever hold the world together. And this intimate contact of the Red Cross with the peoples who are suffering the terrors and deprivations of this war is going to be one of the greatest instrumentalities of friendship that the world ever knew, and the center of the heart of it all, if we sustain it properly, will be this land that we so dearly love."

"My friends, a great day of duty has come, and duty finds a man's soul as no kind of work can ever find it."

"May I say this—the duty that faces us all now is to serve one another, and no man can afford to make a fortune out of this war. There are men amongst us who have forgotten that, if they ever saw it. Some of you are older men—I am old enough—to remember men who made fortunes out of the Civil war, and you know how they were regarded by their fellow citizens. That was a war to save one country—this is a war to save the world."

Should Give Freely.
"And your relation to the Red Cross is one of the relations which will relieve you of the stigma. You can't give anything to the government of the United States; it won't accept it. There is a law of congress against accepting even services without pay. The only thing that the government will accept is a loan, and duties performed; but it is a great deal better to give than to lend or to pay, and your great channel for giving is the American Red Cross."

"Down in your hearts you can't take very much satisfaction, in the last analysis, in lending money to the government of the United States, because the interest which you draw will burn your pockets; it is a commercial transaction, and some men have even dared to cavil at the rate of interest, not knowing the incidental commentary that constitutes upon their attitude."

No Favors to Come.
"But when you give something of your heart, something of your soul, something of yourself goes with the gift, particularly when it is given in such form that it never can come back by way of direct benefit to yourself. You know there is the old cynical definition of gratitude, as 'the lively expectation of favors to come.'"

"Well, there is no expectation of favors to come in this kind of giving. These things are bestowed in order that the world may be a fitter place to live in, that men may be successful, that homes may be restored, that suffering may be relieved, that the face of the earth may have the blight of destruction taken away from it, and that wherever force goes, there shall go mercy and helpfulness."

Not Respected by Enemy.
"And when you give, give absolutely all that you can spare, and don't consider yourself liberal in the giving. If you give with self-indulgence you are not giving at all, you are giving to your own vanity; but if you give until it hurts, then your heart blood goes into it."

"And think what we have here! We call it the American Red Cross, but it is merely a branch of a great international organization, which is not only recognized by the statutes of each of the civilized governments of the world, but it is recognized by international agreement and treaty as they have not respected the Red Cross."

Members of Great Fraternity.
"That goes to the root of the matter. They have not respected the instrumentality they themselves participated in setting up as the thing which no man was to touch, because it was the expression of common humanity. We are members, by being members of the American Red Cross, of a great fraternity and comradeship which extends all over the world, and this cross which these women here today is an emblem of Christianity itself."

"It fills my imagination, ladies and gentlemen, to think of the women all over this country who are busy tonight and are busy every night and every day doing the work of the Red Cross, busy with a great eagerness to find out the most serviceable thing to do, busy with a forgetfulness of all the old frivolities of their social relationships, ready to curtail the duties of the household in order that they may contribute to this common work that all their hearts are engaged in, and in doing which their hearts become acquainted with each other."

One Great Family.
"When you think of this, you realize the people of the United States are being drawn together into a great intimate family whose heart is being used for the service of the soldiers not only, but for the service of civilians, where they suffer and are lost in a maze of distresses and distractions."

"And you have, then, this noble picture of justice and mercy as the two servants of liberty. For only where men are free do they think the thoughts of comradeship; only where they are free do they think the thoughts of sympathy; only where they are free are they mutually helpful, only where they are free do they realize their dependence upon one another and their comradeship in a common interest and common necessity."

Tells Indian Story.
"I heard a story told the other day that was ridiculous, but it is worth repeating, because it contains the germ of truth. An Indian was enlisted in the army. He returned to the reservation on a furlough. He was asked what he thought of it. He said: 'No much good; too much salute; not much shoot.' Then he was asked: 'Are you going back?' 'Yes.' 'Well, do you know what you are fighting for?' 'Yes, me know; fight to make whole damn world democratic party.'

No Party Purpose.
"He had evidently misunderstood some innocent sentence of my own. But, after all, although there is no party purpose in it, he got it right as far as the word 'party,' to make the whole world democratic in the sense of community of interest and of purpose, and if you ladies and gentlemen could read some of the touching dispatches which come through official channels, for even through these channels there come voices of humanity that are infinitely pathetic, if you could catch some of those voices that speak the utter longings of oppressed and helpless peoples all over the world to hear something like the 'Battle Hymn of the Republic' to hear the battle of the great hosts of liberty going to set them free, to set their minds free, set their lives free, set their children free, you would know what comes into the heart of those who are trying to contribute all the brains and power they have to this great enterprise of liberty."

"I summon you to the comradeship, I summon you to say how much and how sincerely and how unanimously you sustain the heart of the world."

President Leads Parade.
The president marched on foot through Fifth avenue earlier in the day at the head of 75,000 soldiers of mercy.

Then, standing in the reviewing stand, he gravely saluted the colors as the women of the Red Cross filed past. They marched in a seemingly endless line, bearing their flags as bravely and wearing their uniforms as proudly as the nation's fighting men.

The miles of white-gowned women marchers made a mute but heart-stirring appeal to the million who watched them for one quarter of the $100,000,000 their organization asks from the nation to carry on its work of relief and succor.

Only One of 1,500.
The great procession was described as "only one of 1,500 parades, with 5,000,000 Red Cross workers marching on the same afternoon in the United States" to draw from spectators the dollars which will mean so much to the soldiers of America and the allies.

Footsore and weary before they had gone half the distance, the women trudged along as gamely as any column of regulars.

Those with gray hair—thousands of them—marched as bravely as their younger sisters, many carrying service flags, and they marched amazingly well.

With faces aglow with high resolve, they looked like modern crusaders.

Probably never before had New York seen such a demonstration of patriotism.

Get New Kidneys!

The kidneys are the most overworked organs of the human body, and when they fail in their work of filtering out and throwing off the poisons developed in the system, things begin to happen.

One of the first warnings is pain or stiffness in the lower part of the back; highly colored urine; loss of appetite; indigestion; irritation, or even stone in the bladder. These symptoms indicate a condition that may lead to that dreaded and fatal malady, Bright's disease, for which there is said to be no cure.

Do not delay a minute. At the first indication of trouble in the kidney, liver, bladder or urinary organs start taking Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules, and save yourself before it is too late. Instant treatment is necessary in kidney and bladder troubles. A delay is often fatal.

You can almost certainly find immediate relief in Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules. For more than 200 years this famous preparation has been an unfailing remedy for all kidney, bladder and urinary troubles.

It is the pure, original Haarlem Oil your great-grandmother used. About two capsules each day will keep you toned up and feeling fine. Get it at any drug store, and if it does not give you almost immediate relief, your money will be refunded. Be sure you get the GOLD MEDAL brand. None other genuine. In boxes, three sizes.—Adv.

Community of Spirit.
When a man says to me wistfully, 'I want to go to the mountains, but I suppose we'll go to the seashore,' I understand; I know precisely where he wishes to go. He wishes to go fishing. There is community of spirit between us. We could both be happy on a continent, but would both be miserable on a board walk.—Robert M. Gay, in the Atlantic.

Heals Running Sores and Conquers Piles.
Also Stops Itching of Eczema as Soon as Applied.

"I feel it my duty to write you a letter of thanks for your wonderful Peterson's Ointment. I had a running sore on my left leg for one year. I began to use Peterson's Ointment three weeks ago and now it is healed."—A. C. Gilbrath, 703 Reed St., Erie, Pa.

I'd rather get a letter like that, says Peterson, than have John D. Rockefeller give me a thousand dollars. It does me a lot of good to be able to be of use to my fellow men.

For years I have been selling through druggists a large box of PETERSON'S OINTMENT for a trifle. The healing power of this ointment is marvelous. Eczema goes in a few days. Old sores heal up like magic; plus that other remedy, the use of ointment to even relieve are speedily conquered. Pimples and nasty blackheads disappear in a week. 25 cents a box.

A familiar card seen on one thing or another that is temporarily out of commission bears the blunt announcement, "Out of Order."

A card that seemed an improvement on this, something slicker, smoother, nicer, read:
"Out of Service."

FARMERS ARE WORKING HARDER
And using their feet more than ever before. For all those workers the frequent use of Allen's Foot-Ease, the antiseptic powder to be shaken into the shoes and sprinkled in the foot-lath, increases their efficiency and insures needed physical comfort. It takes the Friction from the Shoe, freshens the feet, and prevents tired, aching and blistered feet. Women everywhere are constant users of Allen's Foot-Ease. Don't get foot sore, get Allen's Foot-Ease. Sold by dealers everywhere, 25c.—Adv.

MARCH TO VICTORY

Courage is a matter of the blood. Without good red blood a man has a weak heart and poor nerves.

In the spring is the best time to take stock of one's condition. If the blood is thin and watery, face pale or pimply, generally weak, tired and listless, one should take a spring tonic. One that will do the spring house-cleaning, an old-fashioned herbal remedy that was used by everybody nearly 50 years ago is still safe and same because it contains no alcohol or narcotic.

It is made up of Blood root, Golden Seal root, Oregon Grape root, Queen's root, Stone root, Black Cherry bark—extracted with glycerine and made into liquid or tablets. This blood tonic was first put out by Dr. Pierce in ready-to-use form and since then has been sold by million bottles as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. If druggists do not keep this in tablet form, send 60 cents for a vial to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. Kidney disease carries away a large percentage of our people. What is to be done? The answer is easy. Eat less meat, eat coarse, plain food, with plenty of vegetables, drink plenty of water between meals, and take an uric acid solvent after meals for a while, such as Auric (double strength), obtainable at almost any drug store. It was first discovered by Dr. Pierce. Most every one troubled with uric acid finds that Auric dissolves the uric acid as hot water does sugar. You can obtain a trial package by sending ten cents to Doctor Pierce's Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute in Buffalo, N. Y.

Take "Eatonic" and Laugh At Stomach Troubles

H. L. Kramer, the man who originated Cascarets, has discovered a sure, safe, quick-acting relief for bad stomachs. He named it EATONIC for your stomach's sake.

You can eat anything you like now and digest it in comfort, for stomach case is positively assured if you eat an EATONIC tablet regularly after each meal.

EATONIC acts directly with the food the moment it enters the stomach. It immediately checks any tendency toward too much acid and enables the food to pass from the stomach into the bowel in a sweetened condition, and thus prevents the formation of sour distressing gases that upset digestion and cause a bloated, dull, lumpy feeling that makes your FOOD REPEAT.

EATONIC enables you to eat your fill and laugh at indigestion, dyspepsia, heartburn, "sour stomach" and all the other bugaboos of "the-man-afraid-of-his-stomach."

Kramer says: "EATONIC should be in every home ready for use after every meal. An EATONIC tablet will aid you naturally to easily digest and assimilate—your food can be thoroughly enjoyed without the slightest danger of misery from acid stomach. I strongly advise every one to take EATONIC after meals. To correct bad stomachs and keep them in perfect condition, it is a most wonderful discovery."

If EATONIC fails to give you prompt stomach relief, your money will be refunded; 50c buys a large box at any drug store. Or write to Eaton's Remedy Co., 1018 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, U. S. A.

Conscientious Cuss.
"Enos Dubblehook is the most conscientious fellow in town," related the landlord of the Petunia tavern. "The other evening the fellows here in the office were telling funny stories, and Enos got off one about a drunken man meeting a ghost. He strung the yarn out quite a distance, and then, after he had got through and we had all laughed politely, he recollected that a drunken man always says 'Hi!' And so, as he wanted to be perfectly accurate, he told the whole story over again, putting in the missing hiccoughs at the proper intervals. I sometimes think that with a little different education Enos would have made a first-class German spy."—Kansas City Star.

A Bad Start.
"Why so thoughtful? Is marriage a failure?" asked the bride.
"Opinions vary. Don't start with that assumption anyhow."

No farmer can plow a field by turning it over in his mind.

Kid Glove Waistcoats.
Instead of making sweaters for our boys abroad, Popular Science Monthly urges American women to make "glove waistcoats," as the English women are now doing. These are made of discarded kid gloves sewn together on a lining. One can be made in a day or two, it weighs only a few ounces, is as warm as a sweater and has the great advantage of not harboring vermin.

A Great One.
"There is one advantage about a telephone enterprise which fails."

Easy to figure the Profits

Where in Western Canada you can buy at from $15 to $30 per acre good farm land that will raise 20 to 45 bushels to the acre of $2 wheat—its easy to figure the profits. Many Western Canadian farmers (scores of them from the U. S.) have paid for their land from a single crop. Such an opportunity for 100% profit on labor and investment is worth investigation.

Canada extends to you a hearty invitation to settle on her Free Homestead Lands of 160 Acres Each or secure some of the low priced lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Think what you can make with wheat at $2 a bushel and land so easy to get. Wonderful yields also of Oats, Barley and Flax. Mixed farming and cattle raising.

BEST REMEDY FOR WHOOPING COUGHL

"Last winter when my little boy had the whooping cough I gave him Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," writes Mrs. J. B. Roberts, East St. Louis, Ill. "It kept his cough loose and relieved him of those dreadful coughing spells. It is the only cough medicine I keep in the house because I have the most confidence in it." This remedy is also good for colds and croup.

GET RID OF YOUR RHEUMATISM.

Now is the time to get rid of your rheumatism. You will find Chamberlain's Liniment a great help. The relief which it affords is alone worth many times its cost.

From the date of the establishment of flying schools and camps in this country and at Camp Borden, Toronto until April 24, 1918, there have been 102 deaths in flying accidents.

Cross for the purchase of hospital supplies and material needed to make same.

Arnold M. Ertz of Campbellsport, signed up Saturday with Herman J. Paas the special enrolling agent for the U. S. Shipping Board as an applicant for training in the Merchant Marine. If accepted by the Shipping Board young Ertz will be exempted from draft, and will take a special course as an apprentice on a training ship at Boston harbor before joining a merchant vessel as a sailor. This is an opportunity offered to every man between the ages of 21 and 30 and there ought to be many young men from this vicinity availing themselves of this chance to help win the war in the newest branch of the service.

Campbellsport will hold Memorial Day exercises. A large new 50 foot steel flag pole will be dedicated in the lot of the First State Bank and a service flag will also be unfurled at that time. The service flag will contain over fifty stars for young men that have gone forth from Campbellsport. The Honor Flag which was awarded this village will also be dedicated at that time. Appropriate services will be held at Union Cemetery and after that the dedication services will be held. The Campbellsport Band will furnish music for the occasion and the local High School and neighboring schools have been asked to assist in the services.

The wedding of Miss Elizabeth Pesch, daughter of John A. Pesch, and Martin Kilian Beishier, son of Mrs. Catherine Beishier of this village, was solemnized at 6 o'clock Tuesday morning at St. Matthew's Catholic church. Rev. B. Joly officiating. The attendants were Miss Mary Pesch, a sister of the bride, and Leo Heisler. The bride wore a suit of blue serge with white sailor hat, and carried a prayer book. The bridesmaid wore a blue serge suit with a picture hat. The young people left immediately on a wedding trip to Chicago. Mr. Beishier left Friday with the local contingent for Ripon, enroute to Camp Grant. Miss Pesch, who is a popular young woman, has been employed for several years at the Beishier-Jaeger store here.
