SIX MORE OVERSEAS MEN RETURN HOME

Last week Kewaskum welcomed home six more of its overseas men, five of whom were members of the "Les Terribles" the famous 32nd Division, who took part in the greatest battles during the time America was in the war. The following returned: Ed. Guth, son of Mrs. John Guth, of whom we made a brief mention in our last week's issue, Jack Tessar, who was formerly employed at the Wm. Schaub garage, Ralph Petri, son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Petri of Wayne, Theodore Schmidt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Schmidt, Arnold Hanson, former operator at the local station and Joseph Westerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Westerman.

Last week Corporal Edward Guth returned to his home, from Boston, where he was honorably discharged. Mr. Guth left here on April 26th, 1918 for Camp Grant, from where he was later sent overseas, where he became a member of the Signal Corps. After seven months of service he returned to the United States as a member of a casual company. His outfit is still overseas. When he returned home he had besides his wife, a five months old son whom he had never seen, to greet him.

Sergeant Theodore Schmidt, returned home on Saturday afternoon from Camp Grant. In July 1917, he enlisted in Co. B, Signal Corps at Milwaukee. When the company was called to colors Theodore was unable to accompany them on account of illness, he however, joined them a week later at Camp Douglas. After being there for several months he left for Waco, Texas, from where he was later sent to Camp Merritt as a member of the 32nd division. Shortly after arriving there he was again forced to go to the hospital on account of being ill with diphtheria. When he recovered a few weeks later he found that his outfit had already left for overseas. He followed soon afterwards as a member of the military police.

Joseph Westerman returned home on Saturday afternoon from Camp Grant where he was discharged from further military service. He enlisted on August 6, 1917, in Co. D, 5th Wisconsin Regiment of Hartford, and left for Camp Douglas August 17th, after a few months training there he went to Waco, Texas, where he became a member of the 32nd division. Company D, was then changed to an ammunition train, and on account of having too many members in the company twelve of the soldiers including Mr. Westerman were transferred to Co. C, 119th Machine Gun Battalion. The latter part of January they left for Camp Merritt, N. J., from where on February 18, 1918 they set sail for France. After landing overseas Co. C, 119th Machine Gun Battalion was then changed to Co. D, 120th Machine Gun Bn. to which company he belonged during the duration of the war.

Sergeant Jack Tessar and Top Sergeant Ralph Petri enlisted in the spring of 1916 in Co. E, Fond du Lac, from where they were later sent to the Mexican border after several months training at Camp Douglas. They served on the Mexican border until the month of February 1917, when they returned home. When war broke out with Germany both young men were transferred to Co. M, of Fond du Lac, and were called to the colors in the month of July, 1917 when they left for Camp Douglas and later were transferred to Waco, Texas, where they became members of the 32nd division, and where Co. M, was changed to the 121st Machine Gun Bn. in which outfit they remained for the duration of the war. In the early part of February they set sail for France and entered the trenches during the early part of May 1918.

Arnold Hanson enlisted in Co. M, Fond du Lac in June 1917, and left for Camp Douglas in July, he was later transferred to Waco, Texas where he also became a member of the 32nd division. He left Waco in January, 1918 for Camp Merritt, from where he sailed for France in the month of February, when he arrived in France he was assigned to the position of runner. He encountered many thrilling experiences in the performance of his duties in the fighting on the western front. He arrived in this village on Saturday morning. He will again resume his former position as operator at the local station, after several weeks' rest.

Doctors prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is a constitutional remedy, is taken internally and acts through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. HIGH LIGHTS IN CAREER OF 32ND DIVISION

Six months under fire—May to Nov. 1918—with but 10 days in rest area.

Fought on five fronts, in three major offensives—ALSACE, MARNE, OISE-AISNE, and MEUSE-ARGONNE.

Losses—14,000 men killed, wounded and missing in action.

Met and vanquished 23 German Divisions from which 2,153 prisoners were captured.

Captured 2,000 rifles, 200 machine guns, 400 pieces of artillery, and thousands of rounds of ammunition of all kinds.

Gained 38 kilometers in four attacks and repulsed without loss of ground, every counter attack by the enemy.

First American troops to set foot on German soil—in ALSACE; captured FISMES in AISNE-MARNE Offensive; fought as only American unit in GENERAL MANGIN'S famous 10th French Army in OISE-AISNE Offensive; twice in the line in ARGONNE-MEUSE Offensive, fighting continuously for 20 days and penetrating the KRIEMHILDE STELLUNG.

In action when Armistice was signed. Marched with Third Army to the RHINE, and occupied a sector in the COBLENZ Bridgehead.

The meaning of the bar-red arrow is as follows: In November, 1918 when instructions were received that each Division in the A. E. F. should choose a distinguishing mark, it was thought that the red circle no longer typified the character of the 32nd Division. It had shown by the part taken in the actions in the Chateau-Thierry Sector, on the Juvinigny-Soissons Front, as well as in its fighting in the Argonne Forest and on the Meuse that the soldiers of the 32nd Division did not run in circles but shot through all obstacles.

The troops of the Division on many occasions formed a flying wedge launched against the German lines and this fact led to the selection of the arrow as its symbol. The Commanding General of the Division, when asked why he had chosen the Barred-Arrow as the distinguishing mark of the Division, said, "I chose the bar-red-arrow as the Division symbol because we pierced every line the Boche put before us."

A complete history of the 32nd Division will appear in our next week's issue.

Theodore Roosevelt congratulates 32nd Division. Following is the manner in which he expressed himself:

Sept. 13, 1918. My Dear General Haan: I most heartily congratulate you, my Dear Sir, on the great work of your division.

By GEORGE, your men have hit hard! Will you thank the Division for me?

Faithfully Yours, THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

PUBLIC SCHOOL PUPILS GOOD ENTERTAINERS

The Senior Class play, "Cupid at Vassar", a four act comedy, was a grand success. The play was full of life and pep from start to finish and the large audience which was in attendance was brought to a high tension time and again by the good work of the cast. So well did the different members of the cast carry out their parts that they left no room for criticism. They were certainly at their best and are to be congratulated for the successful rendition of the play. The play was directed by the faculty of the high school who deserve to be highly complimented upon their untiring efforts in bringing the entertainment to a successful conclusion. The play was well adapted for the school and it can be truthfully said that it was one of the best amateur productions staged by the high school for a number of years.

The program given by the different grades on Tuesday evening of this week was also greeted by a large and appreciative audience. The program was well received and enjoyed by all present.

WILSON HINTS HE SEEKS NO 3D TERM

Declares He Is Glad Presidency Is Not Ahead of Him.

SEES ALL AMERICANS UNITED

Says the League of Nations Was Outgrowth of the Monroe Doctrine—Tells Burdens of Office in Paris Speech.

Paris, May 28.—"It is very delightful for one thing, if I may say so, to know that my presidency is not ahead of me and that his presidency is ahead of him," said President Wilson in referring to Dr. Epitacio Pessoa, president-elect of Brazil, at a dinner given Doctor Pessoa by the pan-American peace delegation.

"I wish him," the president continued, "every happiness and every success with the greatest earnestness, and yet I cannot, if I may judge by my own experience, expect for him a very great exhilaration in the performance of the duties of his office, because, after all, to be the head of an American state is a task of unrelieved responsibility.

"American constitutions, as a rule, put so many duties of the highest sort upon the president, and so much of the responsibility of affairs of state is centered upon him that his years of office are apt to be years a little burdened with anxiety, a little burdened with the sense of the obligation of speaking for his people, speaking what they really think and endeavoring to accomplish what they really desire.

Thrills With Something New.

"And a nation looks to its president to do that; and the comradeship of an evening like this does not consist merely of the sense of neighborhood. We are neighbors. We have always been friends. But that is all old. Something new has happened. I am not sure that I can put it into words, but there has been added to the common principles which have united the Americas time out of mind a feeling that the world at large has accepted those principles, that there has gone a thrill of hope and expectation throughout the nations of the world which somehow seems to have its source and fountain in the things we always believed in. It is as if the pure waters of the fountains we had always drunk from had now been put to the lips of all peoples, and they have drunk and were refreshed.

"And it is a delightful thought to believe that these are fountains which sprang up out of the soil of the Americas. I am not, of course, suggesting or believing that political liberty had its birth in the American hemisphere, because of course it had not; but the peculiar expression of it characteristic of the modern time, that broad republicanism, that genuine feeling and practice of democracy that is becoming characteristic of the modern world, did have its origin in America, and the response of the peoples of the world to this new expression is, we may perhaps pride ourselves, a response to an American suggestion.

Americas Must Be United.

"If that is true we owe the world a peculiar service. If we originated great practices we must ourselves be worthy of them. I remember not long ago attending a very interesting meeting which was held in the interest of combining Christian missionary effort throughout the world—I mean eliminating the rivalry between churches and agreeing that Christian missionaries should not represent this, that or the other church, but represent the general Christian impulse and principle of the world. I said I was thoroughly in sympathy with the principle, but that I hoped if it was adopted the inhabitants of the heathen countries would not come to look at us, because we were not ourselves united, but divided; that while we were asking them to unite we ourselves did not set the example.

"My moral from that recollection is this: We, among other friends of liberty, are asking the world to unite in the interest of brotherhood and mutual service and the genuine advancement of individual and corporate liberty throughout the world, therefore we must set the example.

"I will recall here to some of you an effort that I myself made some years ago, soon after I assumed the presidency of the United States, to do that very thing. I was urging other states of America to unite with the United States in doing something which very closely resembled the formation of the present league of nations. I was ambitious to have the Americas do the thing first and set the example to the world of what we are now about to realize. I had a double object in it, not only my pride that the Americas should set the example and show the genuineness of their principles, but that the United States should have a new relation to the other Americas."

President Wilson referred to the Monroe doctrine and to suggestions that had once been made to broaden the principle of nonaggression on the American hemisphere. Mr. Wilson remarked that, while the United States had undertaken to be champion of America against aggression from Europe it gave no assurance that it would itself never be an aggressor.

PLEBISCITE IS ASKED

ENEMY DEMANDS VOTE OF PEOPLE IN CEDED ZONES.

Also Insists on Equal Entry Into League of Nations—May Refuse to Sign.

Berlin, May 28.—The question whether Germany will sign the peace treaty or not, it was believed here, depends altogether on whether the allied and associated powers will agree to a plebiscite in all disputed territories and the reception of Germany into the league of nations as a member with an equal vote.

Both these issues are made the cardinal features of the German reply, which has been approved by the cabinet and Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau and his associates, and which is being put into shape for presentation within the next few hours.

The reply, in general, will reaffirm the adherence of Germany to the principles laid down in the armistice conditions and will lay especial weight on the right of self-determination which Germany is willing to grant in all contested sections of her frontiers.

The allies also will be asked to abide by the decision of a popular vote in Austria on the question of union with Germany. Some of the more prominent economic and financial issues suggested in the allied peace terms Germany is willing to have adjusted by the league of nations, in which she expects to become a member on a basis of equality.

If the world league were based on any other scheme of membership, it was declared to the correspondent in authoritative quarters, Germany would be forced to consider it as an alliance against her.

BIG STRIKE SPREADS WEST

Canada's Walkout Apparently Is About to Extend Into British Columbia.

Vancouver, B. C., May 28.—Winnipeg's general strike, in progress more than a week, spreading to Calgary and Edmonton, seems about to extend into British Columbia.

At Victoria the Trades and Labor council has called for a strike vote, in sympathy with Winnipeg strikers, the results to be in by Sunday night.

In Vancouver no labor move has been intimated by strike leaders. Several unions are said to have had strike votes in preparation for a week or two but no result has been made public. Acting President Conroy of the postal workers said the union did not propose to take any action without deliberate consideration.

Among those who struck at Calgary were the postal clerks, whose refusal to sort mail tied up thousands of remittances to relatives of soldiers in a wide area for which this is the distributing point. An attempt to move these with the aid of volunteer post office workers was to be made.

DRASTIC DRY BILLS BRITISH TURNED DOWN

MEASURES FOR ENFORCING PROHIBITION IN SENATE. UNITED STATES WILL KEEP SEIZED GERMAN SHIPS.

One Forbidden Drinking in Automobiles and Airplanes—Search Warrants Are Prohibited.

Washington, May 26.—Bills for enforcing war-time and constitutional prohibition were introduced by Senators Sheppard (Dem.) of Texas and Jones (Rep.) of Washington. Senator Sheppard's measure follows the lines of one that failed in the last congress, but Senator Jones' bill would apply to all alcoholic liquor containing one-half of 1 per cent of alcohol by volume.

In the Sheppard bill liquor is defined as including "any distilled, malt, spirituous, vinous, fermented or alcoholic liquor and all alcoholic liquids and compounds whether medicated, proprietary, patented or not."

For the purpose of enforcing prohibition the secretary of the treasury would be authorized to appoint a prohibition commissioner and various assistants.

Persons who have stored quantities of liquor in their own homes in preparation for the long dry spell would be safe from molestation, as the act provides search warrants cannot be issued.

Cognizance of the airplane is taken by the bill, which prohibits transportation of intoxicants by that means as well as by common carriers.

Drinking of intoxicating liquors in all public conveyances and in automobiles would be prohibited under the act, which provides that in case where persons are injured or killed by drunken persons suits for damages can be brought against those who either sold or gave that person the liquor.

Penalties ranging from $500 to $1,000 fine with imprisonment of not less than 30 days nor more than 12 months would be prescribed and $3,500,000 would be appropriated for the enforcement of the act during the fiscal year 1920.

Measures for repeal of the war-time prohibition act in so far as it relates to wine and beer and for enforcement of that act as well as the constitutional amendment also were introduced in the senate.

The repeal bill was offered by Senator Phelan (Dem.) of California and is similar to the measure introduced in the house by Representative Gallivan (Dem.) of Massachusetts.

HAWKER FOUND ALIVE AT SEA

British Flyer and His Aid Are Saved by Danish Steamer Mary.

TRANSFERRED TO A WARSHIP

Battleship Revenge Takes Rescued Flyers to Scotland, Whence They Went to London—Thanksgiving Services in Churches.

London, May 27.—Harry Hawker and Lieutenant Commander Grieve, who started a week ago on a transatlantic air flight from Newfoundland to Ireland, were rescued by the Danish steamer Mary, bound for Horsens, Denmark.

The two airmen have been transferred from the Mary to the British battleship Revenge and spent the night in Scapaflow, the Orkneys, as the guests of Admiral Fremantle. They put ashore at Thurso, where they will board a train for London.

Harry G. Hawker sent the following statement to the London Daily Mail: "My machine stopped owing to the water filter in the freepipe from the radiator to the water pump being blocked with refuse, such as solder and the like shaking loose in the radiator.

"It was no fault of the Rolls-Royce motor, which ran absolutely perfectly from start to finish, even when all the water had boiled away.

"We had no trouble in alighting on the sea, where we were picked up by the tramp ship Mary, after being in the water for 90 minutes. We leave Thurso at 2 p. m. Monday, arriving in London Tuesday evening."

The Mary reported that she had picked up the two flyers Monday in latitude 50.20 north; longitude 29.30 west, approximately half way between Newfoundland and the coast of Ireland, for which they headed after leaving St. Johns.

The airplane had been forced to descend close to the steamer because of stoppage of circulation in the water pipe leading to the radiator. The steamer happened along in the nick of time, because the plane could not have floated long in the turbulent sea and the lifeboat contrivance would have been of little avail.

The airplane was abandoned. Both men are reported to be in perfect health.

Lloyds received a message from Butt of Lewis that the Danish steamer Mary signaled, "Saved Hands Sorrow with airplane!"

The steamer was asked: "Is it Hawker?"

The Mary replied: "Yes."

The Danish steamer Mary sailed May 4 from Norfolk for Denmark.

London, May 27.—Like news from beyond the grave came the report that Harry G. Hawker and Lieutenant Commander Mackenzie Grieve had been picked up at sea by a Danish ship.

The glad tidings spread through the city like wildfire and was greeted with wild demonstrations of joy everywhere. The greatest demonstration of all took place in the village of Surbiton, where Hawker has his home.

Hawker's wife was overjoyed at the announcement of her husband's rescue.

"I knew he'd come back," she said to the Universal Service correspondent who had called at the cottage. "I had a presentiment he was not dead all the time. Oh, I'm the happiest woman in the world. Hurry can fly across the Atlantic again any time he wants to. I'm sure his good luck will continue."

Special thanksgiving services were held in the Surbiton churches at night.

The Mary is a small steamship, with a wireless outfit of limited radius. Stormy weather along the northern Atlantic steamship routes in the last few days may also account for the delay in communicating news of the rescue.

U. S. SEAPLANE CROSSES OCEAN

American Aviator in First Flight Over the Atlantic; Lands at Lisbon.

GREETED BY THE PRESIDENT

Lieutenant Commander Read in NC-4 Flies from Azores to Portugal Capital in Nine Hours and 44 Minutes.

Ponta Delgada, May 28.—The Atlantic ocean has been crossed for the first time in history in an aerial passage, the American navy winning the honor. The American naval seaplane NC-4 accomplished the feat by winging its way to Lisbon, Portugal, from the Azores, whence it had flown from Newfoundland.

The flight of approximately 786 miles was made by Lieut. Com. Albert C. Read and his crew of five in 9 hours and 44 minutes.

They left Ponta Delgada, Azores, at 5:18 a. m., central time, and reached Lisbon at 3:01, central time.

Total Flight 26 Hours. The actual flying time of the NC-4 in crossing the Atlantic from St. Johns, N. F., to Lisbon was 26 hours and 41 minutes.

Commander Read intends to remain in Lisbon one night and then start for Plymouth, England.

Flotilla Commander Wortman at Ponta Delgada has received a radio message relayed from the plane, saying: "We are safely on the other side of the pond."

Later messages reported the crew all well and gave brief details of the arrival in Portugal. The engines worked splendidly and apparently there was no untoward incident.

Greeted by President. The NC-4 was greeted by the cheers of great crowds on the water front, the shrieking of whistles and the ringing of bells. The plane covered the distance at a speed of more than 80 miles an hour.

As soon as the news was received here Admiral Jackson ordered all the war craft in the harbor to blow their whistles and sirens. This was kept up for five minutes, the sailors and officers cheering the great American triumph.

The flyers were received by the president of Portugal and other officials on board the U. S. S. Rochester.

Departure Cheered. The crew of the seaplane, the same as that which made the memorable flight from Newfoundland to the Azores, boarded the plane an hour before sunrise, but it was not until several hours later that the giant machine taxied outside the breakwater, headed to windward and rose gracefully in the air.

She circled the harbor and then headed for her destination amid cheers from the sailors and soldiers who lined the decks of the ships in the harbor and the crowds on the piers, and the shrieks of whistles from all the steam craft in sight.

The din of the salute was kept up several moments, the plane meanwhile speeding on her way and slowly disappearing in the bright eastern sky.

Green Fancy

By GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON

Author of "Graustark," "The Hollow of Her Hand," "Beverly of Graustark," "The Prince of Graustark," Etc., Etc.

Girl of Mystery! House of Mystery!

Synopsis.—Thomas K. Barnes, a wealthy New Yorker on a walking trip in New England, is threatened by a mountain storm. At dusk at a lonely cross-roads, miles from Hart's tavern, where he intends to pass the night, he meets a girl in a similar plight, bound for a dwelling house called Green Fancy. Along comes an automobile for the girl. She gives him a lift to his tavern. There he falls in with a stranded troupe of "barnstorming" actors, of which Lyndon Ruschcroft is the star and "Miss Thackeray" the leading woman. The theatrical people are doing hotel work for their board.

Barnes laughed aloud. There was no withstanding the fellow's sprightly impudence.

"I happen to enjoy walking," said he.

"If I enjoyed it as much as you do I'd be limping into Harlem by this time," said Mr. Dillingford sadly. "But you see I'm an actor. I'm too proud to walk."

The cracked bell on the office desk interrupted him, somewhat peremptorily. Mr. Dillingford's face assumed an expression of profound dignity. He lowered his voice as he gave vent to the following:

"That man Jones is the meanest human being God ever let— Yes, sir, coming, sir!" He started for the open door with surprising alacrity.

Barnes surveyed the little bedchamber. It was just what he had expected it would be. The walls were covered with a garish paper selected by one who had an eye but not a taste for color—bright pink flowers that looked more or less like chunks of a shattered watermelon split promiscuously over a background of pearl gray. The bedstead, bureau and washstand were offensively modern. Everything was as clean as a pin, however, and the bed looked comfortable. He stepped to the small, many-paned window and looked out into the night. The storm was at its height. In all his life he never had heard such a clatter of rain, nor a wind that shrieked so appallingly.

His thoughts went quite naturally to the woman who was out there in the thick of it. He wondered how she was faring and lamented that she was not in his place now and he in hers. What was she doing up in this God-forsaken country? What was the name of the place she was bound for? Green Fancy! What an odd name for a house! And what sort of house—

His reflections were interrupted by the return of Mr. Dillingford, who carried a huge pewter pitcher from which steam arose in volume. At his heels strode a tall, cadaverous person in a checked suit.

Never had Barnes seen anything quite so overpowering in the way of a suit. Joseph's coat of many colors was no longer a vision of childhood. It was a reality. The checks were an inch square and each cube had a narrow border of azure blue. The general tone was a dirty gray, due no doubt to age and a constitution that would not allow it to outlive its usefulness.

"Meet Mr. Bacon, Mr. Barnes," introduced Mr. Dillingford, going to the needless exertion of indicating Mr. Bacon with a generous sweep of his free hand. "Our heavy leads. Mr. Montague Bacon, also of New York."

"Ham and eggs, pork tenderloin, country sausage, rump steak and spring chicken," said Mr. Bacon in a cavernous voice, getting it over with while the list was fresh in his memory. "Fried and boiled potatoes, beans, succotash, onions, stewed tomatoes and—er—just a moment, please. Fried and boiled potatoes, beans—"

"Ham and eggs, potatoes and a cup or two of coffee," said Barnes, suppressing a desire to laugh.

"And apple pie," concluded the waiter triumphantly. "I knew I'd get it if you gave me time. As you may have observed, my dear sir, I am not what you would call an experienced waiter. As a matter of fact, I—"

The bell downstairs rang violently. Mr. Bacon departed in great haste.

While the traveler performed his ablutions Mr. Dillingford, for the moment disengaged, sat upon the edge of the bed and enjoyed himself. He talked.

"We were nine at the start," said he pensively. "Gradually we were reduced to seven, not including the manager. Two of 'em escaped before the smash. The low comedian and character old woman. Joe Buckley and his wife. That left the old man—I mean Mr. Ruschcroft, the star—Lyndon Ruschcroft, you know—myself and Bacon, Tommy Gray, Miss Ruschcroft, Miss Hughes and a woman named Bradley, seven of us. The woman named Bradley said her mother was dying in Bradford, so the rest of us scraped together all the money we had—nine dollars and sixty cents—and did the right thing by her. Actors are always doing darn-fol things like that, Mr. Barnes. And what do you suppose she did? She took that money and bought two tickets to Albany, one for herself and another for the manager of the company—the lowest, meanest ornamental white man that ever— But I am crabbing the old man's part. You ought to hear what he has to say about Mr. Manager. He can use words I never even heard of before. So that leaves just the four of us here, working off the two days' board bill of Bradley and the manager, Ruschcroft's ungodly spree, and at the same time keeping our own slate clean. Miss Thackeray will no doubt make up your bed in the morning. She is temporarily a chambermaid. Cracking fine girl, too. Are you all ready? I'll lead you to the dining room. Or would you prefer a little appetizer beforehand? The taproom is right on the way. You mustn't call it the bar. Everybody in that little graveyard town down the road would turn over completely if you did. Hallowed tradition, you know."

"I don't mind having a cocktail. Will you join me?"

"As a matter of fact, I'm expected to," confessed Mr. Dillingford. "We've been drawing quite a bit of custom to the taproom. The rubes like to sit around and listen to conversation about Broadway and Bunker Hill and Old Point Comfort and other places, and then go home and tell the neighbors that they know quite a number of stage people. Human nature, I guess. Listen! Hear that? Ruschcroft reciting 'Gunga Din.' You can't hear the thunder for the noise he's making."

They descended the stairs and entered the taproom, where a dozen men were seated around the tables, all of them with pewter mugs in front of them. Standing at the top table—that is to say, the one farthest removed from the door and commanding the attention of every creature in the room—was the imposing figure of Lyndon Ruschcroft. He was reciting in a sonorous voice and with tremendous fervor, the famous Kipling poem. A genial smile wiped the tragic expression from his face. He advanced upon Barnes and the beaming Mr. Dillingford, his hand extended.

"My dear fellow," he exclaimed resoundingly, "how are you?" Cordiality boomed in his voice. "I heard you had arrived. Welcome—thricefold welcome!" He neglected to say that Mr. Montague Bacon, in passing a few minutes before, had leaned over and whispered behind his hand:

"Fellow upstairs from New York. Mr. Ruschcroft—fellow named Barnes. Quite a swell, believe me."

It was a well-placed tip, for Mr. Ruschcroft had been telling the natives for days that he knew everybody worth knowing in New York.

Barnes was momentarily taken aback. Then he rose to the spirit of the occasion.

"Hello, Ruschcroft," he greeted, as if meeting an old-time and greatly beloved friend. "This is good. 'Pon my soul you are like a thriving date palm in the middle of an endless desert. How are you?"

They shook hands warmly. Mr. Dillingford slapped the newcomer on the shoulder affectionately, familiarly, and shouted:

"Who would have dreamed we'd run across good old Barnesy up here? By Jove, it's marvelous!"

"Friends, countrymen," boomed Mr. Ruschcroft, "this is Mr. Barnes of New York. Not the man the book was written about but one of the best fellows God ever put into this little world of ours. I do not recall your names, gentlemen, or I would introduce each of you separately and divistibly."

Lyndon Ruschcroft was a tall, saggy man of fifty. Despite his determined earnestness he was inclined to sag from the shoulders down. His head, huge and gray, appeared to be much too ponderous for his yielding body, and yet he carried it manfully, even theatrically. The lines in his dark, seasoned face were like furrows; his nose was large and somewhat bulbous, his mouth wide and grim. Thick, black eyebrows shaded a pair of eyes in which white was no longer apparent—it had given way to a permanent red. A two-days' stubble covered his chin and cheeks. Altogether he was a singular exemplification of one's idea of the old-time actor.

Passing through the office, his arm linked in one of Barnes', Mr. Ruschcroft hesitated long enough to impress upon Landlord Jones the importance of providing his "distinguished friend, Robert W. Barnes," with the very best that the establishment afforded. Putnam Jones blinked slightly and his eyes sought the register as if to accuse or justify his memory. Then he spat copiously into the corner, a necessary preliminary to a grin. He hadn't much use for the great Lyndon Ruschcroft. His grin was sardonic. Something told him that Mr. Ruschcroft was about to be liberally fed.

CHAPTER III.

Mr. Ruschcroft Disallows Mr. Jones Intervenes, and Two Men Ride Away.

Mr. Ruschcroft explained that he had had his supper. In fact, he went on to confess, he had been compelled, like the dog, to "speak" for it. What could be more disgusting, more degrading, he mourned, than the spectacle of a man who had appeared in all of the principal theaters of the land as star and leading support to stars, settling for his supper by telling stories and reciting poetry in the taproom of a tavern?

"Still," he consented, when Mr. Barnes insisted that it would be a kindness to him, "since you put it that way, I dare say I could you put it a little snack, as you so aptly put it. Just a bite or two. What have you ready, Miss Tilly?"

Miss Tilly was a buxom female of forty or thereabouts, with spectacles. She was one of a pair of sedentary waitresses who had been so long in the employ of Mr. Jones that he hated the sight of them.

Mr. Ruschcroft's conception of a bite or two may have staggered Barnes but it did not bewilder Miss Tilly. He had four eggs with his ham, and other things in proportion. He talked a great deal, proving in that way that it was a supper well worth speaking for. Among other things he dilated at great length upon his reasons for not being a member of the Players or the Lambs in New York city. It seems that he had promised his dear, devoted wife that he would never join a club of any description. Dear old girl, he would as soon have cut off his right hand as to break any promise made to her. He brushed something away from his eyes, and his chin, contracting, trembled slightly. "What is it, Mr. Bacon? Any word from New York?"

"Mr. Bacon hovered near, perhaps hungrily.

"Our genial host has instructed me to say to his latest guest that the rates are two dollars a day, in advance, all dining-room checks payable on presentation," said Mr. Bacon, apologetically.

Ruschcroft exploded. "O scurvy insmit," he boomed. "Confound his—"

The new guest was amiable. He interrupted the outraged star. "Tell Mr. Jones that I shall settle promptly," he said with a smile.

"It has just entered his bean that you may be an actor, Mr. Barnes," said Bacon.

Miss Tilly, overhearing, drew a step or two nearer. A sudden interest in Mr. Barnes developed. She had not noticed before that he was an uncommonly good-looking fellow. She always had said that she adored strong, "athletic" faces.

Later on she felt inspired to jot down, for use no doubt in some future literary production, a concise, though general, description of the magnificent Mr. Barnes. She utilized the back of the bill of fare and she wrote with the feverish ardor of one who dreads the loss of a first impression. I herewith append her visual estimate of the hero of this story:

"He was a tall, shapely specimen of mankind," wrote Miss Tilly. "Broad-shouldered. Smooth-shaved face. Penetrating gray eyes. Short, curly hair about the color of mine. Strong hands of good shape. Face tanned considerably. Heavy dark eyebrows. Good teeth, very white. Square chin. Lovely smile that seemed to light up the room for everybody within hearing. Nose ideal. Mouth same. Voice aristocratic and reverberating with education. Age about thirty or thirty-one. Rich as Croesus. Well-turned legs. Would make a good no-burner."

All this would appear to be reasonably definite were it not for the note regarding the color of his hair. It leaves to me the simple task of completing the very admirable description of Mr. Barnes by announcing that Miss Tilly's hair was an extremely dark brown.

Also it is advisable to append the following biographical information: Thomas Kingsbury Barnes, engineer, born in Montclair, N. J., September 26, 1885. Cornell and Beaux Arts, Paris. Son of the late Stephen S. Barnes, engineer, and Edith (Valentine) Barnes. Office, Metropolitan building, New York city. Residence, Amsterdam mansion. Clubs: (Lack of space prevents listing them here). Recreations, golf, tennis and horseback riding. Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society. Member of the Loyal Legion and the Sons of the American Revolution.

Added to this, the mere announcement that he was in a position to indulge a fancy for long and perhaps aimless walking tours through more or less out-of-the-way sections of his own country, to say nothing of excursions in Europe.

He was rich. Perhaps not as riches are measured in these Midas-like days, but rich beyond the demands of avarice. His legacy had been an ample one. The fact that he worked hard at his profession from one year's end to the other—not excluding the six devoted to mentally productive jaunts—is proof sufficient that he was not content to subsist on the fruits of another man's enterprise. He was a worker.

The first fortnight of a proposed six weeks' jaunt through upper New England terminated when he laid aside his heavy pack in the little bedroom at Hart's Tavern. Cockerow would find him ready and eager to begin his third week. At least so he thought. But, truth is, he had come to his journey's end; he was not to sling his pack for many a day to come.

After setting the mind of the landlady at rest Barnes declined Mr. Ruschcroft's invitation to "quaff" a cordial with him in the taproom, explaining that he was exceedingly tired and intended to retire early.

Instead of going up to his room immediately, however, he decided to have a look at the weather. His uneasiness concerning the young woman of the crossroads increased as he peered at the wall of blackness looming up beyond the circle of light. She was somewhere outside that sinister black wall and in the smothering gray of those invisible hills, but was she living or dead? Had she reached her journey's end safely? He tried to extract comfort from the confidence she had expressed in the ability and integrity of the old man who drove with far greater recklessness than one would have looked for in a wild and irresponsible youngster.

He recalled with a thrill the imperious manner in which she gave directions to the man, and his surprising severity. It suddenly occurred to him that she was no ordinary person; he was rather amazed that he had not thought of it before.

Moreover, now that he thought of it, there was, even in the agreeable references she had made to his offerings, the faint suggestion of an accent that should have struck him at the time but did not for the obvious reason that he was then not at all interested in her. Her English was so perfect that he had failed to detect the almost imperceptible foreign favor that now took definite form in his reflections. He tried to place this accent. Was it French or Italian or Spanish? Certainly it was not German.

He took a few turns up and down the long porch, stopping finally at the upper end. The clear, insipid clang of a hammer on an anvil fell suddenly upon his ears. He looked at his watch. The hour was nine, certainly an unusual time for men to be at work in a forge. He remembered two men in the taproom who were bare-armed and wore the shapeless leather aprons of the smithy.

Hart's tavern is entertainingly serio-comic, when suddenly tragedy takes the stage—battle, murder and sudden death.

Mother Knows Only Work. So far as known, a good work insect—a wasp of the sphex family—among the millions of creatures belonging to a lower order than man, has ever employed the aid of a tool to accomplish a desired result. The mother wasp of this family digs a tunnel in the ground, deposits her eggs in it, and after the wasp has made its tunnel and deposited the eggs, it finishes its task by ramming down pellets of earth, little stones, etc., into the mouth of the tunnel. This is the race habit of these wasps. It is recorded on undoubted authority that one inventive mother, when the mouth of the tunnel was covered to a level with the rest of the ground about it, brought a quantity of fine grains of dirt to the spot, and picking up a small pebble in her mandibles, used it as a hammer in pounding them down with rapid strokes, thus making the spot as firm and as hard as the surrounding surface. Then she departed, brought more dirt, picked up the pebble again and used it.

TO RECOGNIZE KOLCHAK RULE

Council of Four Decides to Approve Antilibshevik Government of Russia.

ALLIES TO SUPPLY ARMS

German Peace Envoys Will Promise Allies to Cut Army to 350,000 in Two Months and 200,000 in Year.

Paris, May 27.—The council of four of the peace conference has decided conditionally to recognize the antilibshevik governments of Admiral Kolchak and General Denikine, according to Reuter's agency here. The conditions for the recognition are that, regardless of the future of Russia, these governments agree to convoke and accept the verdict of a genuine constituent assembly; likewise that the league of nations covenant and its consequences as affecting the boundaries of the former empire be accepted. The constituent assembly is to determine the future form of government of Russia.

The allies will not furnish Admiral Kolchak and General Denikine with troops, but will supply them with arms, munitions, money, and food on a larger scale than hitherto.

It is stipulated that there will be no interference with the races of non-Russian states recently erected from old Russian territory.

With the exception of one minor concession, all suggestions and counter-proposals by Germany for the disposition of the Saar basin have been rejected by the reply of the allied and associated powers.

Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau's appeal for an oral discussion of the points at issue on this subject was ignored.

The concession agreed to is that Germany might create a prior charge upon her assets or revenues for the payment of the mines in the Saar region, if the plebiscite goes against France. If, however, the sum agreed upon is not paid within a year from the date it is due, the reparation commission shall effect payment under instructions from the league of nations.

The council of four has completed the Austrian treaty, with the exception of financial clauses and the southern boundary, on which some details are still to be straightened out.

Berlin, May 27.—Information has been received from an unimpeachable source that the counterproposal to be made by Germany to the peace conference will declare in favor of military disarmament, saying that Germany is ready to reduce her forces to 350,000 within two months after the conclusion of peace and by the expiration of another year to cut the size of the army down to 200,000 men.

FOE PROTESTS PEACE TERMS

Would Be Death Sentence to Germans," Says Brockdorff-Rantzau—Allies Refuse to Modify Pact.

Paris, May 24.—"Those who will sign this treaty will sign the death sentence of millions of German men, women and children," declared Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, head of the German peace delegation, in the formal protest to the allies against the economic conditions of the peace treaty, which was rejected in another communication forwarded by the allies.

"A rash assertion," was Premier Clemenceau's reply on behalf of the allies to the dramatic declaration by Count Brockdorff-Rantzau.

Premier Clemenceau reminded the Germans that they might well bear larger loss of life as a result of the war, since they started it. He denied, however, that the economic restrictions imposed on Germany would mean her death, pointing to Great Britain as a nation which imports at least half her food supplies and most of her raw materials from abroad.

YANKS LEAVING ARCHANGEL

Withdrawal of the American Troops From North Russia Actually Under Way.

Washington, May 28.—Withdrawal of the American forces from Archangel is actually under way, according to cable advices to the war department, which stated that members of the Three Hundred and Thirty-ninth infantry were awaiting evacuation.

The cablegram also said that the return of individual soldiers as casualties, in accordance with a recent request of the department, would not expedite the discharge of such casualties since the units would arrive at home before these individuals.

Blind Man Poultry Fancier. Missourian Has Made Success of the Work, Despite Handicap Which Would Seem Insurmountable.

Blind Edward Jones of Jefferson City, Mo., has made a record in keeping poultry which many who have eyes have not equaled. Moving among his birds, which seem to understand how he is handicapped, and guided only by his sense of touch, he performs his daily work. He has built his own poultry house and brood coops, and has hatched and raised all his chicks. Blindness does not prevent him from culling his flock. The birds not intended to be kept are marketed as broilers, and the others are kept for the production of winter eggs.

Mr. Jones attended every poultry meeting held in his section last fall. He is now trying to organize a poultry club for blind people, and the home demonstration agent in the county has volunteered to read to the members the publications on poultry sent from the United States department of agriculture.

Nonexistent. "What's your notion of an ideal husband?" "A man who lets his wife have the last word in hats, gowns and arguments."

The Result. "The police suspected a blind tiger in the building, so they raided a suspicious photograph gallery."

"Ah! a case of arrested development."

Quite Acceptable. "This star says she cannot bear anything gross to come near her."

"She does, does she? How about the gross receipts?"

Lalley Light and Power

Saves Labor After Dark

Lalley Light is a complete unit—engine and generator—with 16-coil storage battery. It supplies ample electricity for lights, water pump, washing machines, sweeper, cream separator, laundry mill, iron, etc., etc.

Farmers must do certain chores before daylight and again after dark. They need every moment of daylight for productive work.

That is one of the reasons why Lalley Light is a farm economy.

It not only saves labor after dark, but its brilliant light makes the work easier after the sun has gone down.

Abe Tumison, a man of 57 who has lived on his farm at Orleans, Neb., for 40 years, says Lalley Light beats all the farm improvements he has ever had.

With a light in the yard, he says "you can see a pail anywhere." He calls the yard light best of all; and says ten teams can hitch up at once and all have light.

"We don't mind working in the fields until night, and milking and doing all

Save—save—save. That is what Lalley Light does, from morning till night, before sun-up and after sundown. It saves labor. It saves time. It saves money. And it gives you an endless supply of safe, safe electric light and power. You need Lalley Light—and you need it now.

Lalley-Light SAFETY

Lalley-Light is perfectly safe.

That is one of its big features.

It actually protects your farm from fire, because it does away with all open-flame lights.

Its low-voltage current cannot harm a child.

Yet this same low-voltage current gives you all the brilliant light you can use, and endless power to do farm work.

Considered from any point, Lalley-Light is a most desirable addition to the farm. A visit to our store would help you to appreciate its advantages better, and to understand its safety and economy.

We shall be very glad to make your acquaintance, even if you do not intend to buy at once.

TO PASS BILL TO END LABOR FIGHTS

House Favours Measure Creating Conciliation Board.

HAS APPROVAL OF GOVERNOR

New Eight-Hour Bills to Be Introduced in Senate—Three Weeks' Vacation for State Employees—Bonus for Soldiers Favored.

Madison.—The proposed state board of conciliation bill to settle labor disputes will be passed by the lower house of the Wisconsin legislature as recommended by Governor Philipp. The bill was advanced by a vote of 44 to 23 and will go through the lower house this week without further opposition. All substitutes offered were killed.

The bill creates a board of conciliation of three members, to be appointed by the governor for a term of three years. The board shall investigate labor disputes and make a finding of facts. There is no machinery for enforcing the award of the conciliation board and it is expected that public sentiment, once the facts are known, will remedy conditions. There will be another fight over the eight-hour bill in the assembly. Assemblyman DeFinger, Jackson county, has moved a reconsideration of the vote by which the bill was killed.

Meantime two eight-hour bills are being drafted for introduction into the senate. One bill will probably come through committee and the other will be offered by an individual member on the floor.

State employees will be given a three weeks' vacation. This was indicated when the assembly, by a vote of 69 to 8, concurred in the Jennings bill providing 18 days for employees who had been employed by the state for one year or more. The Socialists temporarily halted consideration of the bill to make sure that scrubwomen were included.

The Wilcox joint resolution to amend the state constitution so that the state may raise money for highway purposes was killed in the lower house of the legislature. The resolution provided that the state may create a debt for highway purposes of not to exceed in the aggregate "more than 1 per cent of the last assessment." "Pass soldiers' bonus law No trouble raising the money in Price county."

The above telegram has been received by Senator A. H. Wilkinson from Michael Barry of Phillips. Senator Wilkinson said that he was receiving many letters favoring the passage of the bill providing for the raising of the voluntary fund of $12,000,000 to aid returning soldiers. It has been decided by the authors of the bill that Liberty bonds shall be accepted as cash and that contributions to the $12,000,000 fund shall be exempt from taxation under the income tax law. It is proposed to distribute the money on the basis of $10 a month for each month of service, the minimum bonus to be $50.

The assembly passed the Sell bill providing for codification of the labor laws of the state. On motion of C. E. Hanson the assembly tabled the Severson bill providing for greater publicity of state income tax returns. The house killed the C. M. Anderson bill for the regulation of loan sharks. It adopted an amendment and then laid over until this week the Waughan bill making the county instead of the town the unit for payments under the mother pension law.

By a vote of 37 to 40 the house engrossed the Nolan bill giving cities, villages and towns with large populations larger representation on the county boards of the state. At the present time each town, village and every ward of the city is entitled to one representative on the county board. The Nolan bill amends the present law by giving towns, villages and wards of cities having a population of more than 2,000 inhabitants two representatives on the county board.

The assembly passed a bill appropriating $10,000 for rebuilding the G. A. R. arch at Camp Randall.

By a vote of 47 to 26 the assembly passed a bill establishing a basic eight-hour day for women except those employed in domestic service.

The assembly concurred in the Pullen bill creating the office of state humane agent and appropriating $2,500 annually for his force.

A resolution to amend the constitution was offered in the assembly to give the legislature power to fix the salary of the lieutenant governor.

Gov. E. L. Philipp issued a proclamation setting May 29 as the date to commemorate the state's seventieth birthday.

To Consider Marketing Measure.

The senate decided to sit as a committee of the whole one day the present week to consider the marketing bill passed by the assembly. A fight will be made to reject the Equity bill passed by the house as a substitute for the Skogmo bill which was recommended by a special committee of the legislature. If this move proves successful it may mean that no marketing measure will be passed at this session unless an agreement can be reached through conference committees.

Tells of "Lion's Cage" Escape.

How some weeks ago she was forced into a lion's cage and drawn through the streets of Evansville because she had failed to make the full contribution assessed to her for a war chest drive was told to the assembly state affairs committee by Mrs. George Shaw, seventy-four, of Evansville. Mrs. Shaw, her husband and son, appeared before the committee in support of a resolution, introduced by Assemblyman C. B. Ballard of Appleton, which calls for an investigation by the attorney general of the Evansville case. "I am seventy-four years of age," said Mrs. Shaw. "I have bought Liberty bonds in every drive—all that I have been asked to buy. But they made an assessment against me—$45 I think—for the 'Your Share Is Fair' drive, which I refused to pay, although I offered to give $10 to the local Red Cross. First, my horse was painted yellow, and when I went to the sheriff of Rock county he laughed about it, and said, 'Do your share,' but he did nothing. Then on peace day I had invited company to our house. A crowd of men came to the house and began to haul away buildings to make a bonfire down town. Later I heard something bang against the door. In came two men and they forced me into a lion's cage. They put in a chair, but I would not sit in it. A neighbor woman threw me a coat. They took me downtown and wanted me to march with a flag around the burning buildings. I would not stir and finally the police came and took me home. Later I went to see a lawyer, but he said I could do nothing."

Direct State Tax Levy Certain.

Taxpayers may as well prepare for the news that there will be a direct state tax levy. The finance committee has as good as made the announcement with the virtual completion of its work. It has recommended appropriations of approximately $43,000,000 for the biennium. Estimated receipts for the next two years, according to the state board of public affairs, will be $39,055,125. The deficiency of nearly $4,000,000 can be made up by a levy of $1 on $1,000 of assessed valuation.

The finance committee's totals include the appropriation to be raised for highways to meet federal requirements. For this purpose the committee will favor a one-quarter mill direct tax, and no change in automobile licenses. The committee has passed on 214 bills. Only half a dozen remain.

Votes to Hire Health Nurse.

A township nurse, the first in the state, will be engaged by the town of Looma, Forest county, according to Dr. Louis Dorpat, deputy state health officer for northern Wisconsin. The money has been appropriated.

To Fight Higher Coal Rates.

Informed by the United States railroad administration of a proposed jump of thirty cents a ton on freight charges for soft coal shipped into Wisconsin from Illinois and Indiana, the state railroad commission took steps to oppose the increase. A hearing has been set in the interstate commerce commission building in Washington for May 29. The increase would mean millions of dollars out of the pockets of Wisconsin consumers.

Trucks for State Road Work.

The first allotment of motortrucks from the government for use on federal aid road construction is about to be shipped to this state, according to a telegram received by A. R. Hirst, state highway engineer, from the office of public roads, Washington, D. C. The first Wisconsin allotment of 140 vehicles includes 94 two-ton quadruple drive trucks, 24 three-ton Jeffrey trucks, 20 three-ton Velles and two two-ton Internationals.

Oldest U. of W. Regent Dead.

Orlando F. Clark, regent of the University of Wisconsin for 25 years, died at his home in Appleton after a year's illness. Mr. Clark was sixty-eight years old and had practiced law there since 1875. He was the oldest regent of the university in point of service.

Woman Hurt at Fair Awarded $3,000.

Ellen M. Bowers of Kenosha, who was injured at the 1910 state fair in Milwaukee, when an airplane crashed into the grandstand, was allowed $3,000 damages by the assembly. This is the last of the claims.

Asks Statue of Wisconsin's Founder.

Appropriation of $15,000 for a suitable statue to James Duane Doty, "founder of Wisconsin," is asked in a bill introduced by Senator Jules H. Denhardt, Neenah.

Kill Three Important Measures.

Three important measures went down to defeat in the legislature when the assembly, 41 to 38, killed the M. E. Johnson eight-hour bill, and the senate, 14 to 12, killed the Severson-Roeths bills to submit to a vote of the people the question of making the state railroad and tax commission elective. House members debated nearly two hours before the Johnson bill was laid to rest, but the senate did not discuss the Severson-Roeths measures. The senate vote shocked advocates of elective commissions.

Badger State Happenings

Beloit—W. J. Dougan, dairyman, has given the product of a purebreded Guernsey cow, "Marie of Sarnia," for five years to the First Methodist church of Beloit, as a gift towards the missionary fund, which the Methodists are raising. Mr. Dougan estimates that the cow will yield the church $200 per year and that her services will be worth $1,000 to the movement. The Beloit Methodists have more than pledged their quota of $22,000.

Eau Claire — Members of the Eau Claire Woman's club have indorsed an agreement obtained from the council of Rock county to prevent the sale of intoxicants at saloons and clubs on homecoming day, June 18. Following the two days' celebration of the news of signing the armistice, members of the club protested against drunkenness which included even grammar school boys.

Wild Rose—The death of Mrs. Robert Williams, Sr., 79, was the first loss in the family. She was the mother of twelve children, eight boys and four girls, all living. She is also survived by her husband to whom she has been married over sixty years. Of the twelve children, the oldest is 59 and the youngest 35. The eight sons acted as pallbearers at their mother's funeral.

Oshkosh—Although tobacco can be raised with success in Winnebago county and some will undoubtedly be planted as an experiment, plans which were started for more general production of the "weed" have been halted by the prospect of a campaign being made against tobacco following the carrying out of the prohibition on liquor.

Peshigo—While drilling a well on a farm not far from Peshigo, an artesian well was discovered forty-eight feet down, throwing a gallon of water a minute. This is something unusual in this part of the state. Artesian water is seldom found until a depth of 300 feet is reached.

Janesville—Soldiers in uniform who can show their discharge papers can get liquor at any saloon in Janesville. This was the ruling made by Stanley G. Dunwiddie, district attorney, and will add to difficulties of the police in stopping the sale of drinks to soldiers not yet discharged.

Stevens Point—Fifty-eight seniors are enrolled in the Stevens Point High school this year, and they will comprise the graduating class in June. Prof. H. L. Miller, principal of the University High school at Madison will deliver the commencement address on June 26.

Whitewater—Miss Martha Larson, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lars Larson, Lodi, died after sleeping eleven days. She was a student at the normal school. Physicians said the ailment was a form of spinal meningitis and was induced probably by an injury to the brain.

Ashland—The farm of J. B. Mathews & Co., formerly known as the Wilkinson farm, is planted entirely to wheat. Eighty acres was sowed to winter wheat last fall and the remainder 153 acres was sowed to spring wheat.

La Crosse—Mrs. Margaret Wehrer, 79, resident of La Crosse county since 1851 and one of the first settlers on St. Joseph's ridge, died as a result of a broken hip, suffered in a fall five months ago.

Stevens Point—Fire which broke out in the McDonald block on the public square as an aftermath just at the close of the homecoming celebration for soldiers, caused damage estimated at $1,000.

Kenosha—The board of supervisors appropriated $5,000 toward the welcome home fund, to be used to defray expenses incurred for the celebration arranged for July 4, 5 and 6.

Kenosha—Ten policemen will be added to the force, bringing the strength up to thirty-five officers. The move has the hearty approval of the common council.

Neillsville—T. E. Henderson, who has been superintendent of the Neillsville schools for several years, has resigned to accept a similar place in Dodgeville.

Neillsville—Floyd Hanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ole Hanson, the only Neillsville man who won the distinguished service cross, has returned home.

Kenosha—Kenosha stores and shops will close at noon each Thursday that the employees may have a mid-week half-holiday during the summer.

Appleton—The thirty-eighth annual convention of the Wisconsin Funeral Directors and Embalmers' association will be held here, June 24 to 26. More than 300 undertakers are expected. An elaborate entertainment program is being prepared.

La Crosse—Tom Bernitis, who stole enough articles from Hassan Ferris, north side resident, to start a small dry goods store, said he was intoxicated, but he was sentenced to one year in prison by Judge Brindley.

Kenosha—Officials of the Nash Motors plant made the statement that unless they can add more men to their staff of mechanics, they can not meet the demand for cars. Scarcity of living quarters is keeping workmen away from the city. Charles R. Bixby, United States department of labor, is in Kenosha aiding the housing committee, which plans to build 3,000 homes before cold weather sets in. The common council voted $5,000 to the housing fund.

Madison—In a special message to the legislature, Gov. Philipp submitted statements showing that the expense of the state council of defense in Wisconsin to date has been $73,984.25. A statement of expenses in excess of $100 to any one person is submitted. The largest salary expense was A. H. Melville, who acted as secretary of the council for a time. He drew $4,196.66. A number of members of the state council received varying sums as per diem.

Green Bay—The honor of being the first woman representative of Wisconsin on a national political organization falls to Mrs. E. R. Bowler, Sheboygan, who was appointed by Joseph Martin, Democratic national committeeman, to be a member of the Democratic women's auxiliary to the national committee. Mrs. Bowler has long been prominent in the woman suffrage movement in Wisconsin.

Watertown—Both Jefferson and Dodge counties are to benefit by the receipt of war motor trucks for use in highway work, part of the gift of the nation to the various states from the supply purchased by the war department during hostilities. Commissioners Klug and Royce of Dodge and Jefferson counties say a number of trucks are to be assigned to these counties.

Madison—The senior men and women of the University of Wisconsin will wear cap and gown from June 4 until the end of the year, at all class functions. The committee appointed to decide upon the question found most of the class in favor. This is unusual, as there was considerable agitation last year to abolish the custom entirely.

Oshkosh—Lake Winnebago will be well stocked with fish this year. About 17,000,000 pike fry were put into the bay near the mouth of the Fox river. Eighteen thousand eggs at the Oshkosh fish hatchery of the Wisconsin conservation department will soon be hatched. Part of these also will be placed in Lake Winnebago.

Marinette—The year-old child of William Wartick, residing on a farm near Wausaukee, drowned in a pail of water. The mother was washing and had the water in the summer kitchen, when the little one toppled in head first. The mother was in an adjoining room and did not discover the child until it was dead.

La Crosse—Herman Kramer, truck gardener, who shot and seriously wounded Carl Miller, 15, when he caught the boy robbing his melon patch, was permitted to plead guilty to a charge of assault and was fined $100 and costs by Judge Higbee. The original charge was assault with intent to kill.

Eau Galle—The new Catholic church, erected by St. Henry's congregation at a cost of $30,000 was dedicated. The services were under the direction of the Rt. Rev. James Schwebach, D. D., bishop of the La Crosse, diocese. The new church takes the place of one destroyed by lightning in 1917.

La Crosse—The common council repealed an ordinance passed a year ago, prohibiting use of fireworks of all descriptions in Fourth of July celebrations. The ordinance was passed as a war conservation measure.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it. A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments; corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcels Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Adv.

Dangerous Trade. "I should think you would be afraid to be selling soothing medicines for babies."

"Why should I be afraid?" "You know it is taking hush money."

Naturally. "My dog can scent a thunderstorm five miles away." "His nose must be something of a storm scenter."

Studying Expense. Patience—They tell me he proposed marriage by telephone. Patrice—Yes, he did. He said it was cheaper. "How so?" "The telephone message cost him only ten cents. If he had gone in person it would have cost him a one-dollar box of candy." A man wastes a lot of valuable time by feeling in the wrong pocket. Never make a confidant of everybody's friend.

The Result. "I tried to teach my wife something about the parliamentary way of conducting a debate." "Did you succeed?" "Only too well. The first thing when we had a debate about buying a handsome centerpiece she moved to lay the subject of the debate on the table." Saying nothing at the wrong time is as good as saying the right thing at the right time. Some people make the best of everything and others take it.

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

Let me but do my work from day to day. In field or forest, at the desk or loom. In roiling market-place, or tranquil room.

WISDOM IN FEEDING THE FAMILY.

Food is not necessarily nutritious in proportion to its cost. High-priced foods appeal to the imagination and they seem very desirable, but by stiffening the back bone and developing the will power we are able to pass them by with but a longing glance, though tempted.

The mother of a family should, of all people, understand food values, for she is in a position to build up healthy bodies or tear down and ruin dispositions. "Bad habits ruin life, as do weak bones the bodies."

Protein foods are those most expensive and complex, such as meat, fish, eggs, cheese and milk. Carbohydrates are the starches and sugars, potatoes, rice, macaroni and the various sugars.

It is important that we balance our meals, but it is not necessary that each meal should be; each day's diet should contain proteins, fats, carbohydrates in the correct proportion, which is one part of protein to five of carbohydrates.

Plant protein, such as peas, beans and lentils, take the place of meat. When the meat allowance is small these vegetables should be used freely, rather than cabbage, turnips and beets.

An excess of meat is especially bad, as that which is not assimilated clogs the system and causes self-poisoning.

Brain workers need easily digested food; muscle workers find coarser foods better suited to their needs. However, all need roughage (foods that contain cellulose) to give bulk and increase intestinal activity.

Let us not forget that milk and butter, yolk of egg and green leaves of plants contain a growth determinant absolutely essential to the growing child, without which he will be stunted and handicapped through life.

Diet should be varied as well as mixed, substituting occasionally such foods as rice and macaroni for potatoes.

By planning meals several days ahead it will be much easier to arrange a rightly balanced and varied diet. We do not tire of the common staple foods, but we find them very monotonous served in the same old way. It is not possible to fix a general dietary standard, as many things, such as age, occupation, health and climate enter in to qualify it.

Nothing is given for nothing in this world; there can be no true love even on your own side without devotion; devotion is the exercise of love, by which it grows.—R. L. Stevenson.

HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS.

When replacing papers in drawers to keep them firm, put a small stick of wood or half an inch of paper and the other half on the drawer.

When setting dishes on the table, use old can rubbers to keep them from slipping.

A little sand in a small top-heavy vase will make it quite stable.

Fill salt and pepper shakers with an orange spoon or make a paper funnel, which may be used more quickly.

A piece of macaroni placed in a berry pie when put in the oven will save the loss of the good juice, as the macaroni will serve as a chimney for the juice to boil up in.

Grease the cork of the glue bottle, so that it will not be glued in when it is wanted.

A piece of ice held in the mouth a moment before disgreasing medicine is to be taken, will dull the sense of taste.

Keep on your desk a list of things to do—calls, letter-writing and household tasks; as they are done, cross off. It is a most satisfactory way of knowing what is accomplished during the week or month. The same method is a good one to use in the kitchen; various things are forgotten that, with the list before one, will spur on the worker.

A lamp chair that will slip under the table, out of the way or can be hung from a hook, is a great convenience in a kitchen with small space.

A roomy market basket with a strong, well-fastened handle, makes a fine bed for the small child when traveling, and one in which it may be carried with its belongings. The basket is picked up and carried without disturbing the baby or exposing him to the weather.

Carry a package of court-plaster of different colors. This may be used when traveling to mend a garment or stocking in an emergency.

Transplant a few asters and other favorite flowers in the garden after the vegetables are gone. In the fall they will be pleasant to look at.

Kitchen aprons of unbleached cotton made with a good fitting style are most desirable, as they may be boiled and kept white.

Tennis shoes are fine to use when scrubbing floors or porches, as they protect the feet from the moisture and are comfortable to wear.

To Utilize Embroidered Monograms. Make the embroidered initial or monogram from old bolster and pillow cases and use them on new slips. Cut letter from old slip, leaving a three-inch square around it (letters for thread are usually two inches), then cut the material to form an oval leaving a small margin to turn under. Sew to the new slip, then outline with embroidery cotton to conceal stitches. Outline another row one-fourth of an inch from the first and work eyelets at intervals between the rows to form a medallion. The result is even prettier than when first embroidered.

When a Dress Skirt. If a skirt has become faded or soiled, it can often be turned to good advantage. First, clean it as thoroughly as possible. Rip one seam, turn up and baste carefully before ripping another. If there are plaits refold, following the old creases, making what was formerly the wrong side the right. If the skirt is a good hanging one, any home dressmaker can do the work satisfactorily, for it is not nearly so difficult a task as to make a new one. One seam at a time is a much better way than to rip all the seams apart before beginning to baste.

When Sewing Taffeta. Use a thin, fine needle for sewing taffeta. The blunt end of a needle long used is liable to pucker the goods, and the stitches will not be even. A heavier needle may be used in sewing China silk.

To Sharpen Scissors. Cut them rapidly on the neck of a small glass bottle, or better still, on a ground glass stopper. It trues the edges and makes them cut like new.

Take a fine file and sharpen each blade, being careful to keep the same angle as they had at first; file till rough places are all taken out. Put a little oil on the edges of the blades and snap together. Then wipe off all the oil.

When Stitching Seams. When stitching white cotton or linen, rub the seam to be stitched, with hard white soap, and the needle will not cut the material.

To Prevent Pricking the Fingers. One accustomed to doing needlework of any kind is aware of the discomfort caused by the needle pricking the finger which holds the underside of the cloth. This can be prevented if the worker will moisten a small strip of court plaster and stick it on the end of the finger.

To Freshen Oriental Rugs. A mixture of borax, ammonia and water is excellent and will not injure the rugs. To one pint of water add two tablespoonfuls of powdered borax and one tablespoonful of ammonia, stirring well. Apply while the water is warm with a small brush, rubbing against the nap. When the entire rug has been gone over wipe in the same direction with the nap with a soft cloth which will not lint. Then brush with the nap, using a dry brush. After this treatment the rug will be silky, clear and with a better sheen. This was told by a native rug dealer.

Demand for Walcoats. The demand for walcoats has almost completely submerged the separate collar vogue that has been such a feature of the coat suit.

Belgian Blue Is Popular. The brilliant, sea-fresh Belgian blue is as popular as it ever was. It is a favorite facing for big, black hats.

Neatness in Frocks for Children

The dresses brought out by manufacturers of children's clothes this season ought to be a great help to mothers. Neatness is characteristic of the new designs and neatness is the first thing that mothers must teach their little ones. Little girls acquire good taste in dress unconsciously and the responsibility of cultivating it rests on the mother. She will be safe in selecting the clothes turned out by specialists in children's wear for her little ones—if she doubts her own gifts and intuitions—in the times of frocks.

A frock for the selection of our little miss must "dress up" is shown at the left of the picture above. It is made of swiss organdie, as crisp and fresh as snow. A white hem and eight pin tucks above it speak for the attention given the skirt, while the bodice reveals in bretelles of narrow swiss embroidery at each side and a "Y" at the front filled in with plain organdie with tiny pearl buttons at each side. The embroidery outlines the neck, and a little, prim bow of ribbon calls attention to it. This same ribbon makes a pretty sash that will complete the happiness of the very young lady who is to wear it and help teach her to be careful of her finery.

At the right of the picture a new model for a very little girl shows a quaint frock with batiste body and gingham skirt. There is not much to say of it, except that it is pretty all its simple story. The square pockets are cut on the bias of the goods and have a border of batiste at the top. Often plain chambray is used instead of batiste, with plaid gingham and with striped cotton materials. One new touch in this little frock appears in the pointed front that laps over from left to right and is fastened under a small bit of needle-work by way of ornament. The sleeves are elbow length, with turned-back cuffs, and there is a small turnover collar. Feather stitching is more liked for finishing these little frocks than hem stitching.

Bead Work. All kinds of bead work is so much in vogue that amateurs will hail with delight any suggestions. To have good results proper tools must be on hand. Procure fine straw or long-eye crevel needles. Use fine linen thread and wax it. Baste the canvas to thin goods, such as lawn, on the wrong side of the design if it be a bag of solid work, so it will not pucker. Spread beads out on a soft white cloth for dark beads, and the light ones on a dark surface, then work only in a good light, not facing it. Do not work until tired and restless it will not pay.

Always the Sash. The summer dress, whether of silk or cotton, has a sash, which may be of wide or narrow ribbon, or of soft crushed satin. It may assume the form of chiffon streamers, or may be a bow made of the dress material.

Bitter or Better Baking. A letter makes a great difference in a word. A word makes a great difference in baking powders. If the little word "alum" appears on the label it may mean bitter baking. If the word ROYAL stands out bold and strong, it surely means BETTER baking. This is only one reason why it pays to use Royal Baking Powder. Absolutely Pure. Made from Cream of Tartar derived from grapes. Royal Contains No Alum—Leaves No Bitter Taste.
