WISCONSIN NEWS

Important Events of the Week Around the Badger State.

Milwaukee—Twenty thousand income tax delinquents are expected to be uncovered in Wisconsin in the government's nation wide drive, Oct. 3, according to A. H. Wilkinson, collector of internal revenue for Wisconsin. The drive is the first staged against tax payers listing their incomes as less than $5,000. Combined tax dodgers and delinquents are expected to net more than a half million dollars for the federal coffers. Criminal action will be taken against persons who are potentially guilty of deliberate evasion of laws, but in cases of error the collectors will be satisfied with mere collection of the taxes.

Madison—With the approach of winter highway construction work in Wisconsin is slowing up. By Nov. 1, it is predicted, the 1921 road building program will have been carried out. This season has led all others for the amount of construction, and in the amount of money expended. Nearly 350 miles of concrete highways, all but eighty miles from county bond issues, have been constructed. Waukesha county, with forty-seven miles of road, leads all Wisconsin counties in the amount of new concrete highways, and is expected to lead all other counties of the state.

Oshkosh—Alumni, former students and former members of the faculty of Oshkosh Normal school will gather at the school Oct. 22 to Oct. 24 to observe the 50th anniversary of the founding of the school. The total number of graduates has been more than 3,500, while it is estimated that at least 15,000 students have attended the normal for at least one summer session.

Madison—The highest salaried official of the state of Wisconsin is now receiving a salary twice that paid to any constitutional officer including Gov. Blaine. At a recent meeting of the state highway commission Highway Engineer A. H. Hest had his salary increased from $925 a month to $232.33 a month. This is equivalent to a salary of $10,000 a year.

Madison—A proclamation urging Wisconsin people to attend the National Dairy show at the Minneapolis State Fair grounds, Oct. 8 to 15, has been issued by Gov. Blaine. Wisconsin cattle will be leading attractions at the show. The governor pointed out that in view of Wisconsin's supremacy as a dairy state, the show should prove especially interesting to Wisconsin citizens.

Madison—An increase of about 5 1/2 per cent over last year is shown in the enrollment at the University of Wisconsin. Up to Dec. 3, 7,539 students are registered. The senior class this year is more than 100 larger; the junior class 200 larger; the sophomore class about the same and the freshman class slightly smaller. There are 4,782 men and 2,847 women enrolled.

Kaukauba—After having been closed for 10 months the plant of the Union Paper and Pulp corporation in Kaukauba has resumed operations with practically a full crew in the pulp and paper departments. All workers lost off at the plant last winter have been re-employed.

Tomah—Manufacture of picric acid shells is under way at the Camp Robinson ordnance depot. The shells are used by farmers in clearing land. Each farmer is allotted 1,000 pounds by the United States department of agriculture. It is estimated that a year will be required in manufacturing the needed amount.

Richland Center—D. G. James, former state senator and the leader of woman suffrage in the legislature at that time is dead at his home in Richland Center. For years he conducted a farm implement store in this city. He was a civil war veteran escaping from Andersonville prison.

Madison—The University of Wisconsin defeated Lawrence college in the opening game of the season on Saturday, 28 to 0, in a game featured by spectacular runs with midseason interference.

Alliand—Fire which destroyed the wholesale grocery warehouse of C. N. Cramer here, caused a loss of $100,000. Carloads of sugar, tobacco, canned goods and flour were consumed.

Milwaukee—Hundreds of Scottish Rite Masons from all parts of the state will gather in Milwaukee Nov. 15 to 18, for the fifty-ninth annual reunion of the Wisconsin consistory.

Marinette—Sawing three bars of a cell window, Clifford Evans, Harry England and Henry Stave, prisoners in the Marinette county jail, made their escape. England and Evans were under sentence for automobile theft while Stave was being held on a burglary charge.

Racine—Employees of five job printing plants went on strike on Oct. 1 when the employers refused to grant a forty-four hour week. Newspaper plants are not involved.

Stevens Point—The Foresters' Commercial club of Stevens Point has been incorporated as a corporation and plans to construct a modern clubhouse next spring. All stockholders are members of the Forester order, but the company will function independently.

Chippewa Falls—Chippewa Falls dealers have reduced the price of bread 1 cent. Loaves are now selling for 9 and 13 cents. It was agreed to cut the price for every drop in price of wheat amounting to $3 on a barrel.

Janesville—The $45,000 jury verdict in favor of Clarence S. McGinley, of Janesville, who sued the Milwaukee road for the loss of both legs in an accident, has been set aside by Judge Dailey of the Renville, Minn., district court. A jury in this court awarded McGinley the damages recently. The railroad claimed it was illegal. Judge Dailey, in ruling in favor of the road, maintained that McGinley was to blame for the accident. McGinley, a carpenter employed by the road in the Janesville yards, lost both legs when he slipped under the wheels of a fast moving train. Because of the sum involved, the case attracted wide attention.

Eau Claire—Salad served at a public dinner in Eau Claire in August is blamed for the typhoid fever cases which broke out in various sections of the city at that time. That the city water supply or milk supply might have been the source was the supposition for a time, but tests and analyses showed both free from germs. Mr. Baker had been working for a week investigating the mystery and found that all those taken ill had eaten salad at the dinner. No deaths have resulted.

Madison—This year is said to be the hardest in years for a student to work his way through the University of Wisconsin, and this situation is apparently keeping many out of school. This is due to the general industrial depression throughout the country, according to officials in charge of students' employment. During recent years it has been comparatively easy for students, both men and women, to obtain part time work to help pay expenses, but the plenitude of jobs is gone, temporarily, at least.

Kenosha—Frank Lang, Kenosha man, who several months ago was sentenced to serve twenty years in the state prison for the murder of Charles Facina, is not so much worried over his appeal to the Supreme court, which is to be heard soon in Madison, as over the price of a new set of teeth. The prison physicians, according to a letter received in Kenosha, ordered his molars out and since there is no appropriation to buy prisoners new teeth, he has appealed to friends in Kenosha for funds.

Madison—Farmers and dairymen of the state are warned by Prof. F. J. Farrington of the college of agriculture, University of Wisconsin, against the purchase of so-called Babcock test substitute that is being sold for the testing of milk. Agents for this testing spindle are charging from $8 to $12 and boasting the indorsement of experimental stations. Investigations at the university have proven that this "improvement" is inaccurate and a fake.

Madison—Children in Wisconsin who have stopped school at the age of 17, and have not yet attained the age of 18, must return to their classes under the new state part time compulsory education law. E. Brossard, assistant attorney general, holds in an opinion given George J. Leicht, district attorney at Wausau, the case in question concerned a boy, working in a butcher shop at Wausau, learning a trade, who had left school when he became 17.

Appleton—Waupaca county, long noted as one of the greatest potato-producing counties in United States, probably will be forced to surrender its laurels to neighbor counties this year. The crop in Waupaca county will be almost a total failure, while in Outagamie county, never regarded highly as a potato producer, the production will be probably lead all counties.

Green Bay—More than 1,300 students are enrolled in the Green Bay night school which will open Oct. 30. This is about 25 per cent above attendance figures of past seasons. Night school students will have the choice of 70 classes. Additional courses, which had been planned by Principal Stewart, have been passed up owing to inability to secure additional quarters for students.

Eau Claire—One of the first results of the reorganization of the Eau Claire police department by Chief Chris Laursen, Eau Claire's new chief, will be an increase in the size of the force. Chief Laursen has asked for four more men, two of them plain clothes men. The new chief believes more day police protection is needed.

Stevens Point—Sparks from a threshing machine on the farm of August Kutwalek, near Stevens Point, set fire to his buildings, and burned a barn and granary and large quantities of hay and grain. Six sheep and five horses perished. The damage is estimated at upwards of $5,000. Neighbors fought the flames for several hours.

Antigo—Stables and sheds to house horses and guns of Battery A, Antigo, will be built at once, according to word received by Capt. Otto Bierer from Adj. Gen. Holway. Horses, guns and other equipment will be sent as soon as the buildings are ready.

La Crosse—Destruction by fire of the home of Dr. E. C. Swarthout, north of West Salem, with a loss of $30,000 and no insurance, has started an investigation. The fire is believed to have been incendiary origin. Members of the family escaped.

Madison—The possession of wine or other fermented liquors is not a violation of the state prohibition law, while possession and illegal manufacture, J. E. Messerschmidt, assistant attorney general, points out in two opinions given to district attorneys of the state.

Menasha—The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Haas, Menasha, was seriously burned when a kettle full of soup spilled. The tot was taken to Theda Clark hospital.

PROPOSE BONDS FOR UNEMPLOYED

Experts Suggest U. S. Loan Money for Public Work, Providing Jobs.

BANKERS TO HEAR PLANS

Conference to Ask Help From Mayors of Large Cities—Local Agencies Needed to Stay Slump, Hoover Says.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Advisability of a federal bond issue to create a fund for making loans to aid municipal public works in years of depression when jobs are scarce is under consideration by subcommittees of the national conference on unemployment.

Such a proposal has been suggested to the conference as part of a plan for permanent safeguards against bad years for the nation's workers. No estimate of how many millions of dollars would be required for such a fund has been made as yet. The plan constitutes one of the recommendations of the conference advisory committee.

Loans to municipalities would be made by the federal government under the plan only upon proof of national unemployment and industrial depression, as shown by industrial and unemployment statistics and upon proof of the soundness and utility of specific public works proposed.

Steps have been taken by city officials of Boston and Cleveland to put into effect the emergency relief program adopted last week by the conference. Secretary Hoover announced, adding that he had been informed unofficially that Portland, Oregon, and Milwaukee were working along the same lines.

The conference will ask the bankers of the nation and mayors of all cities to back the emergency program to which they have agreed. Secretary Hoover said.

Henry E. Robinson, a member of the conference, has gone to Los Angeles to plead with the American Bankers' association, in convention there.

"Employers and business men, relief organizations, state and federal agencies, cannot surround the unemployment problem systematically until mayors have established strong emergency organizations with municipalities behind them," Secretary Hoover said.

"The President's conference on unemployment is anxious to know what steps are taken in the various cities and towns, and to have the views of officials for further constructive plans."

Definite measures to solve the transportation problem will be taken up by the transportation committee, it was officially announced.

The committee is working on a plan and consulting with railroad executives for approval. The proposed $500,000,000 railroad refund is part of the plan.

It is known, however, that W. S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen of the committee, intends to continue his efforts to block a recommendation of payment of this refund unless a specific provision is included that the railroads spend the money for maintenance and repair.

Carter succeeded in preventing such a recommendation being included in the emergency program adopted by the conference.

Edgar E. Clark, chairman of the interstate commerce commission, and member of the transportation committee, is said to support Carter in his demand.

U. S. IS AFTER ARBUCKLE

Liquor Charge May Be Filled Against Film Comedian by Special Assistant Attorney General.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 3.—New angles in the federal inquiry into the source of the liquor consumed at the party in the Hotel St. Francis, given by Roscoe ("Fatty") Arbuckle, film comedy star, at which Miss Virginia Rappe, Chicago screen actress, is declared to have suffered fatal injury, were to the fore today. In some quarters interest in possible action against Arbuckle on the charge of having liquor unlawfully in his possession. Such a complaint could be made the basis of grand jury action.

CHICAGO DAILY NEWS

PROBE KLAN SHOOTING

Ten Men Wounded During Parade at Waco, Tex.

Lawyer Charges Sheriff and His Deputies Precipitated Battle in Business District.

Waco, Tex., Oct. 4.—County Attorney F. B. Tierney has refused the demand of a committee of 100 prominent Lorena citizens that he file complaints against Sheriff Bob Buchanan and Deputy Sheriff Burton, in connection with the fight at Lorena between parading Knights of the Ku-Klux Klan and a sheriff's posse, in which ten men were wounded.

The fight took place at the intersection of the main business streets, where several thousand people had gathered to witness the parade, when Sheriff Bob Buchanan of McLennan county, leader of the posse, stepped in front of the approaching column and attempted to wrest the American flag from the leading white-clad figure.

The Klan had advertised that the parade was to begin at 8:30. Sheriff Buchanan, with Deputies 1, Mack Wood and M. Burton went to Lorena, and the sheriff let it be known at once that the parade could not take place. This led to parleys and conferences which continued for an hour and a half.

The Klansmen finally decided that they would parade, and the line of march came into sight at the head of the main street. It is estimated that probably 50 white-robed, masked bands had passed when the sheriff intervened. Then a shot was fired, followed immediately by a succession of shots.

In the melee which followed, the sheriff was knocked down, but quickly regained his feet. Brandishing his knife, he soon had cleared space about him, but was seized, with Deputy Burton, by several bystanders and held. Masked men then lifted the American flag from the dust, and holding it high in the center of the Ku Klux Klan, continued their march.

SMOOT PRESENTS SALES TAX BILL

Utah Senator's Substitute Measure Formally Presented to the Senate.

PROVIDES FOR BUT ONE LEVY

Takes Place of All Various War, Excise, Luxury, Stamp, Capital Stock, Telegraph, Transportation and Other Taxes.

Washington, Oct. 3.—A manufacturer's sales tax of 3 per cent was formally proposed to the senate by Senator Smoot (Rep., Utah).

Senator Smoot explained that this would be in substitution for "all of the various war taxes, the excise taxes, luxury taxes, stamp taxes, capital stock tax, transportation, telegraph and insurance taxes; the tax on soft drinks, ice cream, cosmetics, admission and dues and all of the other 57 varieties of obnoxious, discriminatory forms of taxation," which would be repealed on next January 1 under a series of amendments to the revenue revision bill offered by the senator.

Repeal of the excess profits tax as of last January 1 instead of next January 1, as planned by both the house and the senate finance committee, also was proposed by Mr. Smoot. Under his amendments the corporation income tax would remain at 10 per cent, but there would be no change in the present tobacco, liquor and inheritance taxes.

The sales tax amendment reads: "That in addition to all other taxes there shall be levied, assessed, collected and paid upon every commodity manufactured, or produced, when sold, leased or licensed for consumption or use without further process of manufacture a tax equivalent to 3 per cent of the price for which such commodity is sold, leased or licensed; such tax to be paid by the manufacturer or producer."

"It should be noted," said Senator Smoot, "that as the tax is imposed only when articles are sold for consumption or use without further process of manufacture the tax will be noncumulative in effect and will give the integrated business no advantage over the disintegrated business."

"There will be but one tax. If a commodity is sold for consumption or use in a further process of manufacture no tax will be imposed. For example, crude oil sold for fuel would be taxable, but if sold to a refinery for the making of gasoline or like commodities would not be taxable."

"In order to avoid administrative difficulties with small sales, the bill provides for an exemption of all sales of less than $6,000 during one year. This will practically exempt all agricultural products, but as most agricultural products would find their way into manufactured products, they would be exempt, anyway."

"Provision is made for a like tax upon similar imported commodities so that there can be no discrimination against American products."

"The yield of this tax has been carefully estimated and approved by one of the foremost economists in the country, Prof. Charles J. Bullock of Harvard, to produce during the calendar year 1922 $780,726,000. Conservation has been exercised throughout this estimate. The yield will undoubtedly be close to $1,000,000,000, but the figure given is more than ample to provide the revenue which will be lost by the repeals which I propose."

PRESIDENT KEEPS HANDS OFF

Harding Lets It Be Known That He Will Let Congress Settle Tax Fight.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Efforts of the opponents of the sales tax plan to block its adoption as a substitute for the Payne revenue revision bill were checked by President Harding.

Chairman Penrose of the senate finance committee and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon appealed to the President to take a hand in the situation and urge acceptance of the bill now pending in the senate.

Advocates of the sales tax in the senate, fearing that presidential action would influence Republican senators who now view the sales tax favorably, to vote against it, urged the President to keep hands off.

The President sent word to Republican senators indirectly, that he would permit congress to settle the tax fight without any interference on his part.

"LOOK OUT FOR THE CARS"

DO YOU know of anyone who is old enough to read, who has not seen that sign at a railroad crossing?

If everyone has seen it at some time or other, then why doesn't the railroad let the sign rot away? Why does the railroad company continue to keep those signs at every crossing? Maybe you think Mr. Merchant, "Most everybody knows my store, I don't have to advertise."

Your store and your goods need more advertising than the railroads need to warn people to "Look Out for the Cars." Nothing is ever completed in the advertising world.

The Department Stores are a very good example—they are continually advertising—and they are continually doing a good business.

If it pays to run a few ads round about Christmas time, it certainly will pay you to run advertisements about all the time.

"WHAT A MESS—MESS—MESS!"

"No," she whispered to herself, almost audibly, "no—it can't be that! I can't be Cherry and Peter—Oh, my God! Oh, my God, it has been that, all the time, that, all the time—and I never knew it—I never dreamed it!"

"It's Peter and Cherry! They have come to care for each other—they have come to care for each other," she said to herself, her thoughts rushing and tumbling in mad confusion as she tested and tried the new fact. "It must be so. But it can't be so! Alix interrupted herself in terror, "for what shall we do—what shall we do! Cherry in love with Peter! But Peter is my husband—he is my husband. . . . Peter, who has always been so good to me—so generous to me—and it was Cherry all the time."

"Poor Cherry! The older sister said aloud, "Poor little old Cherry—life hasn't been very kind to her! She and Peter must be so sorry and ashamed about this! And Dad would be so sorry; of all things he wanted most that Cherry should be happy! Perhaps," thought Alix, "he realized that she was that sort of a nature, she must love and be loved, or she cannot live! But why did he let her marry Martin, and why wasn't he here to keep me from marrying Peter? What a mess—mess—mess we've made of it all!"

"Cherry would be disgraced, and Martin—Martin would kill her, if he found her out! . . . Oh, my little sister! She would be torn apart; she is so reckless, she would do anything—she would be a public scandal, and the papers would have her pictures—Dad's little yellow-headed child! Oh, Dad," she said, looking up into the dark, "tell me what to do! I need you so! Won't you somehow tell me what to do?"

Indeed, it is a "mess." For Alix is Cherry's older sister. And Peter is Alix's husband. And Cherry is married to Martin. And Alix loves both Peter and Cherry. And Martin and Cherry are drifting apart. And Dad is dead and can't help any of them.

So Alix tries the only way she can see out of the mess. It works for her, but for the others the results are unexpected. But who shall say not for the best?

Kathleen Norris, as everyone knows, is a California authoress who has proved her ability to handle big stories like this. "Sisters" is a good example of the type of stories that has given her so large and friendly a public.

CHAPTER I.

Cherry Strickland came in the door of the Strickland house, and shut it behind her, and stood so, with her hands behind her on the knob, and her slender body leaning forward, and her bosom rising and falling in deep, ecstatic breaths. It was May in California, she was just eighteen, and for twenty-one minutes she had been engaged to be married.

She hardly knew why, after that last farewell to Martin, she had run so swiftly on the path, and why she had flashed into the house, and closed the door with such noiseless haste. There was nothing to run for! But it was as if she feared that the joy within her might escape into the moonlight night that was so perfumed with lilacs and the scent of wet woods. She was afraid that it was all too wonderful to be true, that she would awaken in the morning to find it only a dream, that she would somehow fall him—somehow turn all this magic of moonlight and kisses into ashes and heartbreak.

She was a miser with her treasure, surely; she wanted to fly with it, and to hide it away, and to test its reality in secret, alone. She had come running in from the wonderland down by the gate, just for this, just to prove to herself that it would not vanish in the commonness of everyday things.

That was in the sitting room, with the girls. The doctor's house was full of girls. Anne, his niece, was twenty-four; Alix, Cherry's sister, three years younger—how staid and unmarried and unadorned they seemed tonight to panting and glowing and glorified eighteen! Anne, with Alix's erratic help, kept house for her uncle, and was supposed to keep a sharp eye on Cherry, too. But she hadn't been sharp enough to keep Martin Lloyd from asking her to marry him, exulted Cherry, as she stood breathless and laughing in the dark hallway.

An older woman might have gone upstairs, to dream alone of her new joy, but Cherry thought that it would be "fun" to join the family, and "act as if nothing had happened!" She was only a child, after all.

Consciously or unconsciously, they had all tried to keep her a child, these three who looked up to smile at her as she came in. One of them, rosy, gray-headed, sagacious at sixty, was her father, whose favorite she knew she was. He held out his hand to her without closing the book that was in the other hand, and drew her to the wide arm of his chair, where she settled herself with her soft young body, resting against him, her slim ankles crossed, and her cheek dropped against his thick silver hair.

Alix was reading, and dreamily scratching her ankle as she read; she was a tall, awkward girl, younger far at twenty-one than Cherry was at eighteen, pretty in a winsome way, neatly as to hair, with round black eyes, high, thin cheekbones marked with scarlet, and a wide, humorous mouth that was somehow droll in its expression even when she was angry or serious.

Anne, smiling demurely over her white sewing, was a small, prettily made little woman, with silky hair, finely braided, and a rather small face with charming and regular features. Anne had "admirers," too, Cherry reflected, looking at her tonight, but neither she nor Alix had ever been engaged—engaged—engaged!

"Aren't you home early?" said Dr. Strickland, rubbing his cheek against his youngest daughter's cheek in sleepy content. He was never quite happy unless all three girls were in his sight, but for this chapter he had always felt an especial protecting fondness. He had followed her exquisite childhood with more than a father's usual devotion, perhaps because she really had been an exceptionally endearing child, perhaps because she had been given him, a tiny crying thing in a basket, to fill the great gap her mother's going had left in his heart.

"Mr. Lloyd had to take the nine o'clock train," Cherry answered her father dreamily, "and he and Peter walked home with me!" She did not add that Peter had left them at his own turning, a quarter of a mile away. "I thought he wasn't going to be at Mr. North's for dinner," Anne observed quietly, in the silence. She had been informally asked to the Norths for dinner that evening herself, and had declined for no other reason than that attractive Martin Lloyd was presumably to be there.

"He wasn't," Cherry said. "He thought he had to go to town at six. I just stopped in to give them Dad's message, and they teased me to stay. You know where I was, didn't you—Dad?" she murmured.

"Mrs. North telephoned about six, and said you were there, but she didn't say that Mr. Lloyd was," Anne said, with a faint hint of discontent in her tone.

Alix fixed her bright, mischievous eyes upon the two, and suspended her reading for a moment. Alix's attitude toward the opposite sex was one of calm contempt, outwardly. But she had made rather an exception of Martin Lloyd, and had recently had a conversation with him on the subject of sensible, platonic friendships between men and women. At the mention of his name she looked up, remembering this talk with a little thrill.

His name had thrilled Anne, too, although she betrayed no sign of it as she sat quietly watching Alix. In fact, all three of the girls were quite ready to fall in love with young Lloyd, if two of them had not actually done so.

Cherry had not been at home when Martin first appeared in Mill Valley, and the other girls had written her, visiting friends in Napa, that she must come and meet the new man.

Martin was a mining engineer; he had been employed in a Nevada mine, but was visiting his cousin in the valley now before going to a new position in June. In its informal fashion, Mill Valley had entertained him; he had tramped to the big forest five miles away with the Stricklands, and there had been a picnic to the mountain-top, everybody making the hard climb except Peter Joyce, who was a trifle lame, and perhaps a little lazy as well, and who usually rode an old horse with the lunch in saddle-bags at each side. Alix formulated her theories of platonic friendships on these walks; Anne dreamed a foolish, happy dream; Cherry did marry, men did take wives to themselves, dreamed Anne; it would be unspunkily sweet, but it would be no miracle!

It was just after that mountain picnic that Cherry had come home; on a Sunday, as it chanced, that was her eighteenth birthday, and on which Martin and his aunt were coming to dinner. Alix had marked the occasion by wearing a loose velvet gown in which she fancied herself; Anne had conscientiously decorated the table, had seen to it that there was ice cream, and chicken, and all the accessories that make a Sunday dinner in the country a national institution. Cherry had done nothing helpful.

On the contrary, she had disgraced herself and infuriated Hong by deciding to make fudge the last minute. Hong had finally relegated her to the laundry, and it was from this lull that Martin, laughing joyously, extricated her, when, sticky and repentant, she had called for help. It was Martin who untied the checked brown apron, disentangling from the strings the silky gold tauter that were blowing over Cherry's white neck, and Martin who opened the door for her sugary fingers, and Martin who watched the flying little figure out of sight with a prolonged "Whew-w!" of utter astonishment. The child was a beauty.

Her eighteenth birthday! Martin had been shown her birthday gifts; books and a silver belt buckle and a gold pen and stationery and handkerchiefs. A day or two later she had had another gift; and what the tiny Shreve box with a sudden hammering at her heart, with a message of delight. She had found a silver-topped candy jar, and the card of Mr. John Martin Lloyd, and under the name, in tiny letters, the words "Oh, fudge!" The girls laughed over this nonsense appreciatively, but there was more than laughter in Cherry's heart.

From that moment the world was changed. Her father, her sister, her cousin had second place, now Cherry had put out her innocent little hand, and had opened the gate, and had passed through it into the world. That hour was the beginning, and it had led her surely, steadily, to the other hour tonight when she had been kissed and had kissed in return.

"So—we walk home with young men?" mused the doctor, smiling. "Look here, girls, this little Miss Muffet will be cutting you both out with that young man, if you're not careful!"

Alix, deep in her story, did not hear him, but Anne smiled faintly, and faintly frowned as she shook her head. She considered Cherry sufficiently precocious without Uncle Leo's ill-considered tolerance.

He would have had them always children, this tender, simple, innocent Dr. Strickland. He was in many ways a child himself. He had never made money by his profession, he and his wife and the two tiny girls had had a hard enough struggle sometimes, Anne and her own father had joined the family eight years ago, in the same year that the Strickland patent fire extinguisher, over which the doctor had been putting for years, had been sold. It did not sell, for a million dollars, but for perhaps one-tenth of that sum. It was enough, and more than enough, whatever it was. After Anne's father died it meant that the doctor could live on in the brown house under the redwoods, with his girls, reading, flossing with a new invention, walking, consulting with Anne, laughing at Alix, and spoiling his youngest-born.

It was a perfect life for the old man; it was only lately that he began uneasily to suspect that they would some day want something more, that they would some day tire of empty forest and blowing mountain ridge, and go away from the shadow of Mt. Tamalpais, and into the world.

Anne, now—was she beginning to fancy this young Lloyd? Dr. Strickland was surprised with the fervor with which he repudiated the thought.

She Found a Silver-Topped Candy Jar and the Card of Mr. John Martin Lloyd.

This young engineer, who had drifted already into a dozen different and distant places, was not the man for staid little Anne.

"What did you want to see Mr. Lloyd about tomorrow, Dad?" Cherry interrupted his thoughts to ask.

"The rose vine. What did he say about coming over, Cherry?"

Cherry remarked, between two reading yawns, that Mr. Lloyd was coming over tomorrow at ten o'clock, and Peter, too.

"Peter won't be much good!" Alix commented. Cherry looked at her reproachfully.

"You're awfully mean to Peter, lately," she protested. Her father gave her a shrewd look, with his good-night kiss, and immediately afterward told the younger girls dragged their way up to bed.

Alix and Cherry shared a bare, woody-smelling room tucked away under brown eaves. The walls were of raw pine, the latticed windows, in the fragrant darkness of the night, the beds were really bunks, and above her bunk each girl had an extra berth, for occasional guests. There was scant prettiness in the room, and yet it was full of purity and charm. The girls, like all their neighbors, were hardy, bred to cold baths, long walks, simple hours, and simple food. In the soft western climate they left their bedroom windows open the year round; they liked to wake to winter damp and fog, and go downstairs with blue fingertips and chattering teeth, to warm themselves with breakfast and the fire.

Alix pulled herself in a gray army blanket, and was asleep in some sixty seconds. But Cherry felt that she was floating in seas of new joy and utter delight, and that she would never be sleepy again.

Downstairs Anne and the doctor sat steadily on the man dressing with a knotted forehead, the girl sewing. Presently she ran a needle through her fine white work with seven tiny stitches, folded it, and put her thumb into a case that hung from her orderly workbag with a long ribbon.

"Wait a minute, Anne," said the doctor, as she straightened herself to rise. "This young Lloyd, now—what do you think of him?"

She widened demure blue eyes.

"Should you be sorry if I—liked him, Uncle Leo?" she stilled.

The old man ruffled his silver hair restlessly.

"That's the way the wind blows, eh?" he asked kindly.

"Well—you see how much he's here! You see the flowers and books and notes. I'm not the sort of girl to wear my heart on my sleeve," Anne, who was fond of small conversational tags, assured him merrily. "But there must be some fire where there's so much smoke," she ended.

"You're not sure, my dear?" he asked, after some thought.

"Oh, no!" she answered. "It's just a fancy that persists in coming and going." She got to her feet, saying brightly, "Well! We mustn't take this too gravely—yet. It was only that I wanted to be open and above-board with you, uncle, from the beginning. That's the only honest way."

"That's wise and right!" her uncle answered, in the kindly, absent tone he had used to them as children, a tone he was apt to use to Anne when she was in her highest mood, and one she rather resented.

"Cherry, now—" he asked, detaching for a moment. "She—you don't think that perhaps Peter admires her?"

"Peter?" Anne echoed amazedly, and stood thinking.

Peter was more than thirty years old, thin, scholarly, something of a solitary, the sweet, dreamy, affectionate neighbor who had shared the girls' lives for the past ten years. For some reason she could not, or would not, define, she liked the idea of Cherry and Peter falling in love.

"Somehow one doesn't think of Peter as marrying anyone—" she said slowly, still trying to grasp the thought.

"You darling—you little exquisite beauty!"

SMOKE JOGS HUBBY'S MEMORY

Mrs. Wisacre Pins Effective Reminders to Her Forgetful Spouse's After-Lunch Cigar.

"My husband never forgets anything any more," said Mrs. Wisacre, beaming upon her friend, Mrs. Booner.

"Did you tie a string around his finger?" asked Mrs. Booner.

"Oh, dear, no," returned Mrs. Wisacre, an air of pity for her friend's old-fashioned idea quite plain in her manner. "That's quite out of date, you know. Why, half the time dear husband is apt to forget what the string was around his finger for when he finds it there. No, my dear, the really effective way is to buy you a little stock of cigars all your own. Whenever you have a mission for your husband, write it on a note and pin it in the cigar. Place the cigar in the pocket with his own stock and when he goes to take his after-lunch smoke he's bound to find it there. He'll do the job on the spot, and with the note right before him he really can't forget a single item. It's most effective, my dear."—New York Sun.

To Tell Poisonous Mushrooms.

Summed up briefly, the first thing to be noticed in distinguishing edible from poisonous mushrooms is whether the gills are a purple brown, as they should be when mature. Most of the fatal errors have arisen from not noticing this point and selecting species whose gills are white. The next point is whether the stem is cylindrical and solid and has a ring or traces of a ring above, and especially whether it seems to come directly from the ground or whether the base is bulbous and sheathed with a membranous bag or scales. If it has a sheath or scales, it cannot be common mushroom. If a collector finds a mushroom having the points here mentioned, the chance of his eating it is next to nothing, for there is only one species answering the description which is to be avoided, and that is very rare indeed, and has a taste so disagreeable that no one would wish to eat it while the taste of the mushroom is present.

Cold Comfort.

The maiden of forty or so was upset. Said she to a younger friend: "Kate talks so outrageously. Yesterday she told me I was nothing but a hopeless old maid."

"That's pretty frank," exclaimed her friend. "Still, it's better than having her tell lies about you."

AUTUMN FORECASTS VARIED STYLES IN SUITS

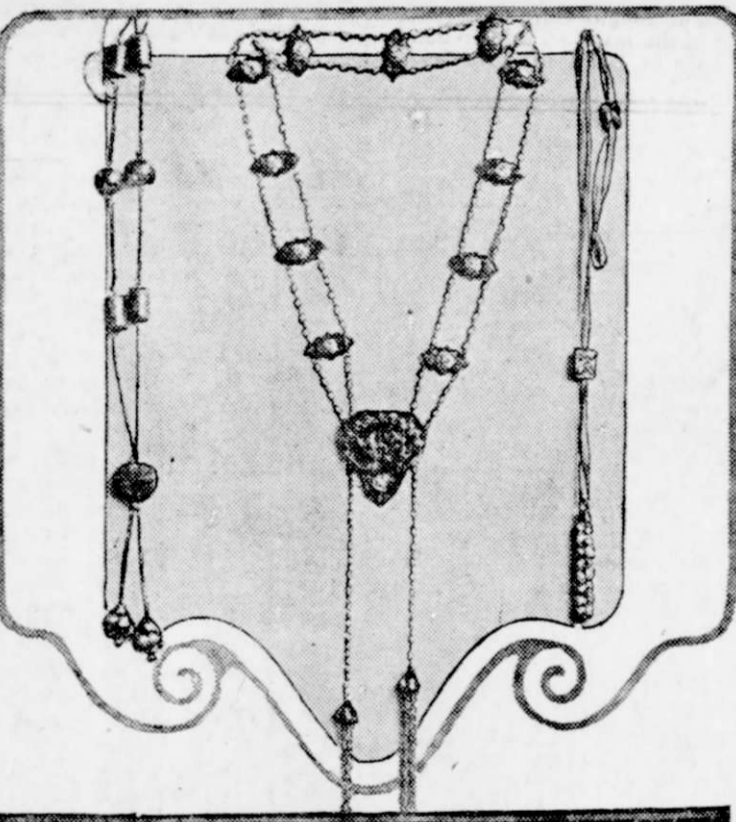

THE new suits for fall and winter interest is centered in the coats which are considerably varied in style. Leaving out the box coat, which is a law unto itself in the matter of length, coats are longer than for some seasons, and therefore more dignified. The Russian blouse is welcomed by its devotees in smartly designed models that are bloused at the back and belted at the front with fullness on the hips. There are some trim, suit-fitted, severely tailored coats with a decided flare in their skirts and notched collars that are distinguished by their lack of trimming, and there are many fur-trimmed and embroidered costume suits that will prove the mainstay of any winter wardrobe that takes them on.

In coats as in gowns, sleeves will hold the center of the stage, playing the leading role opposite collars. In a great many coats sleeves are wide at the bottom and fur is ingeniously used for trimming them. Very deep cuffs of fur matching collars of it, on the longer of the suit coats fit them to play a dual role and to serve as wraps to be worn with frocks as well as their own particular skirts. Chin collars there are in great variety of shapes, wide and either straight or flaring, but they divide honors with the tuxedo collar. Squirrel, kolinsky, beaver, eracul, fox, broadtail and beaver harmonize with the quiet colors and soft fabrics which the season approves. The handsome suit peacock here is typical with its wide sleeves banded with fur and richly embroidered, its decorative collar of fur, and embroidery emphasizing its low waistline. It has a narrow girde of the cloth with narrow bands of fur on the ends.

It is settled that skirts are not to be much lengthened. After rumors that they were going to the ankles it turns out that they have struck a happy medium and stop at the shoe tops.

PRETTY THINGS WOMEN MAKE FOR THEMSELVES

BEADS and pendants of colored sealing wax, strung on silk cord or small metallic chains or lacy ribbon (in velvet or satin) are having a great vogue. They are easily made and the work is fascinating. Very inexpensive metallic chains and girdles can be made handsomely decorative by applying flowers made of sealing wax to them. They are fashionable with coats and frocks and replace the belts or girdles made of fabrics. In the illustration above a necklace of beads, strung on a silk cord, a gun metal giraffe with wax roses applied to its metal medallions, slides and tassels, and a long pendant and slide on a strand of baby velvet ribbon, are good examples of fashionable ornaments.

To make the beads and medallions, very simple and inexpensive materials are required. They include a large-sized steel knitting needle, a steel knife, a small alcohol lamp, a little piece of cotton cloth and several sticks of colored sealing wax. A candle or gas flame may take the place of the alcohol lamp, and a glass of cold water completes the worker's outfit.

Select the color wanted and, with a heated knife, cut off two pieces of wax, each half the size of the bead to be made. Heat the steel knitting needle and fasten the pieces of wax to it, one on either side of the needle. Hold the wax above the flame, turning slowly until the bead is formed, then dip it in water to cool. Remove and dry the bead with the cloth. Choose colors to add to the bead. Heat each stick in turn and drop a little wax on the bead; revolve over the flame again. The colors will flow around the bead, blending in varying designs. Cool the bead again, dry and pass over the flame to give luster. Heat the needle on each side of the bead until it is loosened, slide back and forth on the needle and remove. While the bead is warm it may be pressed by the fingers or knife, or on a piece of glass, into different shapes.

Remove Stain.
To remove iodine or greasy stains apply alcohol. When salts of lemon fail to remove iron rust dip in oxalic acid and rinse well in borax water. To remove peach or pear stain leave over night on snow. Dip in oxalic acid and rinse well in borax or ammonia water.

The Handkerchief Bag.
Housekeepers know how troublesome it is on wash-day to dry the handkerchiefs for a large family. To hang them on the line together with bits of lace and other small white articles, is a labor of time and patience. An ingenious home laundress has devised a plan which saves her many minutes. She made a long shallow bag of coarse white netting, with a draw-string at the top, and sewed tapes at the corners and at intervals of three or four inches in between.

When the small articles are ready for hanging on the line they are laid carefully in the bag, the string is drawn up, so they cannot blow out, and the bag is pinned to the line by the tapes, for the sun and wind to filter through the open meshes of the net.

For Cakes.
Be sure that the lard, butter or other shortening is thoroughly mixed with the flour in making a cake. The result will be a richer, more finely grained cake.

REMEMBER YOUR ABSENT ONE, OR WE WILL DO IT FOR YOU

The "Home Paper" is the fondest visitor to every city dweller thrown by circumstances among tall buildings and smoky stacks; thrown among new and untried friends. It is the warmest visitor a man can have who has gone out in the world.

As Thanksgiving approaches, you cannot give a more welcome gift to that boy or girl who is far away, that father and mother who have retired to distant parts; that friendly old neighbor who has gone to the city or to any other state, than a year's subscription to the "old home" paper. It will mean an hour's joy, an hour's return of fond recollections to him or her every week of the year—and every week remembrance of you!

If you think your boy or girl or friend would rather subscribe himself, mark this piece and mail the paper to him. Or send us the name on the following coupon and we will do it for you:

Here It Is!—The New

International Manure Spreader

Run Your Eyes Over These Best-yet Features:

1. Roller Bearings. Roller bearings at seven points—the only spreader so equipped.
2. Double Ratchet Drive. Walking beam transmission from main axle eccentric and extra large ratchet wheel give easy, strong, steady feed. No pounding or jerking due to extra-long movement of pawls on ratchet wheel—only two power impulses on ratchet for every revolution of 46-inch drive wheels. Box tapered to eliminate friction on box wheels. Six feed speeds.
3. Oscillating Front Axle. Auto-type, permitting short turn. No pole whipping. No strain on frame.
4. Power; Both Wheels. Power is transmitted direct from main axle to beaters, wide-spread spiral and manure conveyor—not through beaters to conveyor or vice versa.
5. Wheels Track. Rear wheels track with the front wheels, lightening draft.
6. Tight Bottom. There is no clogging, jamming apron, because the spreader has a tight bottom. Spreads anything. Retains all liquid manure.
7. Two Beaters. Two all-steel beaters with chisel-pointed square teeth work from both top and bottom of the load. Allow extra-high load.
8. Wide-Spread. The spiral behind the beaters gives the manure a third beating, and spreads it finely and uniformly beyond the wheels.
9. All-Steel Main Frame. Does not check, rot or warp. Wood box sides hold only the load. Frame holds operating mechanism independent of box; keeps alignment perfect.

The New International—made in two sizes—is unquestionably the best spreader value on the market today, and when you consider it in connection with its price, it is so far ahead of all others that there is really no comparison.

We have a sample spreader set up for your inspection. Come in and look it over.

"MOONSHINE" CIGARS

The following bit of valuable information comes from the Plymouth Reporter:
"Use a bit of discretion when you see a cigar sticking temptingly from the coat pocket of a friend. Restrain the impulse to annex it for your own use. You might cause your friend considerable embarrassment. The 'Moonshine cigar' is one of the latest means used by some men to beat the Volstead act. The 'cigar', to all outward appearances, is a pretty decent Havana, but investigation discloses it has possibilities of a bigger 'kick' than any Havana ever delivered to a ten-year-old kid making his first venture in the land of Nicotine. Between tobacco leaves, but this filler is a glass tube, which must have another filler before it is effective."

600,000 Vets of War Are Jobless

Survey by American Legion Shows Desperate Plight of Men Who Went to Front.

FIGHTING FOR EXISTENCE

Former Service Men Battling Harder Now and Under Greater Odds Than They Fought in the Trenches in France.

Indianapolis.—Between 600,000 and 700,000 veterans of the World war are out of employment and struggling for existence, according to a survey completed by the American Legion.

Many of these men, the survey discloses, are fighting harder now and under greater odds than they fought in the trenches.

The survey was conducted through the 11,000 posts of the Legion. Pennsylvania alone reported 150,000 ex-service men out of work. The New York Legion department estimated 100,000 veterans jobless in the state, and Illinois and Massachusetts reported respectively 85,000 and 30,000 ex-service men out of work.

Georgia was the only state that reported improvement in the unemployed situation. "Unemployment not general enough to require aid from Legion," was the report from that state. Iowa reported that the industries in that state were showing signs of life, although a serious condition this winter was anticipated.

Situation Is Desperate.

The report from Pennsylvania described conditions as deplorable and the state of Washington advised ex-service men not to go to that state until conditions improved. Michigan's unemployed war veterans were said to number 30,000 but industrial conditions were reported as "better than two months ago."

Commenting on the situation which has come out of the business depression, the American Legion Weekly says:

"Figures alone, however, do not tell the plight of American unemployed veterans, for the greater part of these jobless ex-soldiers and ex-sea-men are not only out of work, but are engaged at this moment in a struggle for existence with their backs to the wall of circumstances. They are for the most part men who have been economically on the defensive ever since they left their country's service. Many are men who found their old jobs gone when they took off their uniforms, and no other jobs to be had. Those who succeeded in discovering some work after being discharged from the army or navy found they were pitted in remorseless competition against men who had not been in the service. Many employers dealt with them by the rule of 'last hired, first fired.'"

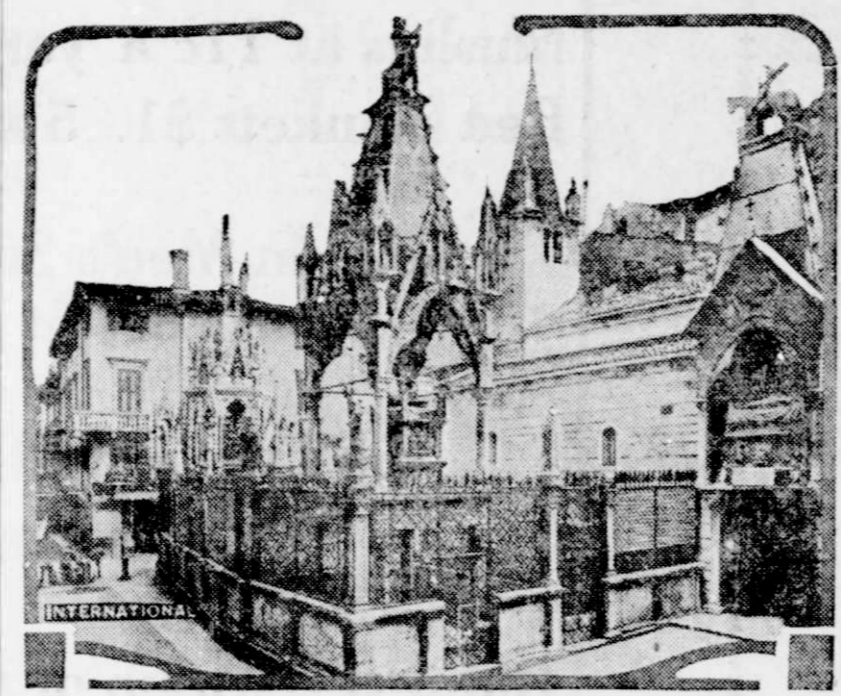

Hard Winter Ahead.

"If they were lucky enough to have payoffs from before the war awaiting them when they were discharged, those payoffs have long since disappeared. They found themselves without funds early in the period of industrial depression which set in while this country was getting back to a peacetime basis. Workers who had been employed steadily at high wages during the war were able to coast into the depression period living on their savings, but for many months unemployed ex-service men have been, perforce, little more than industrial scavengers, compelled to seek odds and ends of work desperately to meet their simplest necessities. The more fortunate have been largely dependent upon relatives and kindly friends. Those lacking these have been ranging from city to city, restlessly seeking work. Many of them have wives and children, fathers and mothers, dependent upon them for support.

"Now that business depression has become intensified and the ranks of the unemployed swelled by the addition of millions of men who had been holding jobs until a few months or even weeks ago, the lot of the long unemployed veteran is such that compassionate Americans need not look to Russia, to Hungary and the other

Plan Big Fight Against Cancer

American Society for Control of Cancer Announces a "National Cancer Week."

SPECIALISTS ARE INTERESTED

Informative Literature Will Be Carried to Every Corner of the Country—Causes 10 Out of 100 Deaths Among Those Over Forty.

New York.—The American Society for the Control of Cancer, which since its organization in 1913, has been fighting cancer with facts, sent out from its headquarters, 25 West Forty-fifth street, New York, announces an unusual feature of its already remarkable campaign.

This is a "National Cancer week," which will begin October 30 and end November 5.

The purpose of the effort, the most comprehensive and important in the society's career, is intended to carry facts concerning cancer to as many persons in the United States and Canada as can be reached through the professional and lay press, by lectures and by the spread of informative literature. The work will be carried on by the foremost physicians and surgeons in the country, who specialize in the control of this dread disease; by state and city health officers and by the public-spirited citizens, who have given much of their time and

TRADE IS BETTER, BANKERS ARE TOLD

Conditions of Business Analyzed by Financiers' Chief.

SAYS PESSIMISM UNFOUNDED

President of American Bankers' Association Tells Convention That There's Nothing to Indicate World Is Riding to Ruin.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 5.—The disposal of billions of dollars by some 24,000 banks was cheerfully discussed at the opening of the forty-seventh annual convention here of the American Bankers' association.

Things are looking better, the times are not so badly out of joint as a year ago, feasible forces are working in the turning over of these billions of dollars toward more prosperous times and the pessimist with theories of depression is out of place, it was said by leaders in the nation's financial world.

The program of the formal opening session was featured by a 42,000-word report by the president of the association, John S. Drum of San Francisco, a countrywide economic survey expressing the opinion of more than a thousand bankers. A 12,500-word analysis of it was followed by a summary of the condition in every state.

World Not Riding to Ruin.

President Drum crystallized it in these 26 words:

"There is nothing in either the domestic or the foreign situation to give rise to the pessimistic conclusion that the world is riding straight to ruin."

"Rational examination of our condition today," Mr. Drum said, "must prove to the greatest doubt that our problems are but the natural manifestations of a world-wide maladjustment that great natural forces are working to remedy."

More than 1,000 reports were the basis, he said, of his address. "Our Situation Today—A Countrywide Economic Survey." In part it follows:

"The output of finished goods throughout the country is considerably smaller than it was a year ago, and measurably smaller than it was six months ago. There is a surplus of manufactured commodities in the hands of the producers. A progressive decline in the costs of manufacturing has taken place during the year. In industry, as a whole, the costs of materials, labor and construction have declined in the order named."

"Increased efficiency of labor has been the natural result of unemployment on a large scale, but the efficiency of men in the building trades has not increased, although there are exceptions to this."

Three Retarding Influences.

"The reports I have received have also shown that the three great domestic influences that more than all others are retarding the readjustment of prices and costs are these:

"1. Delayed adjustment of cost of labor, which prevents adequate reduction of prices of innumerable commodities and services in the cost of which the cost of labor is the most important factor, and also serves to prevent full employment of labor. This is due both to slow adjustment of compensation of labor and the continuation of shop rules that impair efficiency."

"2. Sustained high costs of transportation, which prevent natural and normal movement of commodities of all kinds to markets."

"3. Continuation of an unsound system of taxation that diverts working capital from its proper channels and thereby prevents accumulation of working capital that is necessary for increased production, for installation of improved methods of production and for full employment of labor."

"It is true that many problems, both domestic and foreign, are standing in the way of restoration of stable conditions and normal domestic and world prosperity. But the forces that are working to solve these problems are irresistible."

TO ARREST FATTY ARBUCKLE

Film Comedian Is to Be Prosecuted for Violating the Prohibition Law.

San Francisco, Oct. 5.—Arrangements have been completed to arrest Roscoe C. ("Fatty") Arbuckle, motion picture actor, for alleged violation of the Volstead prohibition enforcement act when he arrives here from Los Angeles to answer to manslaughter charges in connection with the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, motion picture actress, Robert H. McCormick, assistant United States attorney general in charge of prohibition prosecutions, announced.

AUTO BANDITS STEAL $10,000

Held Up Shipping Board Paymaster Near Hog Island Yard and Escape.

Philadelphia, Oct. 5.—Three armed bandits in a motorcar held up Andrew B. DeWolfe, a United States shipping board paymaster, near the Hog Island shipyard, and robbed him of $10,000. They escaped.

MYSTERY OF SLEEP.

It is one of the mysteries of sleep that under its magic influence men are sometimes inspired to do things which are impossible in their waking moments. Robert Louis Stevenson, the famous novelist, did not conceal the fact that much of his inspiration came to him during his hours of slumber. "The Brownies," he said, "do half my work during sleep. I have always been a great dreamer, and many of my dreams have been

HAILS DISARM PARLEY

LLOYD GEORGE LAUDS COMING CONFERENCE AT WASHINGTON.

British Premier Says It Will Be the Outstanding Event in World History.

Inverness, Scotland, Oct. 5.—Prime Minister Lloyd George in a speech here concerning unemployment, devoted in his introduction to refer optimistically to the forthcoming conference in Washington on limitation of armaments, saying, "It will constitute one of those outstanding events which will affect human history for centuries."

The premier also said that the London conference beginning October 11 between representatives of the British government and the Sinn Fein "can only succeed if those who enter it make up their minds definitely and resolutely to trust to the common sense of their own people and do not try to reconcile the extremists."

Mr. Lloyd George said he had hoped to further the Irish question while in the highlands, but that through no fault of his or his colleagues, he did not succeed.

"At any rate, when we enter the conference," he declared, "we shall do so with what is known as the Inverness formula, which was signed in this very chamber and dispatched to the representatives of the Irish people."

Dealing with unemployment, the prime minister emphasized that it was not ordinary trade depression, but a world condition, due to shattering effects upon the world's trade, credit and competition.

"The nations have had to mortgage their resources and pledge their future," Mr. Lloyd George said. "The result is that it has led to impoverishment. Traders, investors and workmen—and everybody dependent upon them—must be impoverished for years to come."

Meantime, the prime minister said, it was necessary to look after the needy.

RUTH TO WALK, SAYS M'GRAW

Giant Leader Says Home-Run King Won't Get Chance to Hit in Series.

New York, Oct. 5.—Manager McGraw of the Giants announced that his plan of action for the world series with the Yankees, starting today, will consist of a base-running attack on the offensive side, and on the defensive the removal of all chance for Babe Ruth to hit the ball.

"I don't care what the fans say or think," he said, "my ball club is going in there to win this series, and not to supply an interesting stage spectacle for Babe Ruth. That fellow will never get a chance to hit, and the only time he'll have a show to even swing a bat will be with two out, the bases full, and a situation where it would be or with a game to have him force in a run. Then we'll try to get him. Otherwise he walks, walks all the time; take that from me."

Aboard the U. S. S. New Mexico with the Pacific Fleet, off Southern California, Oct. 5.—Target practice of the battle fleet of the Pacific fleet has opened beyond Catalina island, off San Pedro harbor, with an exceptional record for accuracy by the anti-aircraft gun pointers of the U. S. S. New Mexico. Those guns, manned by pointers and trainers of the marine corps, hit the marks with scores that won the coveted "E," denoting excellence, for the New Mexico.

The honor went to Corporal Kasir and Privates Greenman, Rodoge and McPherson, the second crew in the navy to win this rating.

Washington, Oct. 5.—The American Federation of Labor has lost more than 1,000,000 members since the first of the year and its treasury is so depleted that all but a very few of its paid organizers have been laid off.

In the midst of this, its worst crisis, Daniel J. Tobin, president of the International Teamsters' union, has resigned from the executive council.

"THEY SAID I HAD T. B. AND WOULD NOT LIVE THREE MONTHS"

Mr. Harold W. Schmidt, Box 68, Breesee, Clinton Co., Ill., believes he has reason to praise Dr. Hartmann's Remedy for Catarrhal conditions.

"I used Peruna eight months for Chronic Bronchitis. I do not get cold, feel like a giant, am six pounds over normal weight and I can work every day. In March, 1914, I contracted a severe cold with spitting and took to my bed. They said I had T. B. and would not live three months. After taking a couple bottles of Peruna and a box of Man-Elm Tablets, I could walk around and in a few months went back to work. My trouble was due to Chronic Catarrh of the nose and throat, which I had ten years, according to notes from the bronchial tubes. Peruna was my life saver."

PICKED OUT WRONG COLLEGE CLEARLY NOT UP TO DATE

Mrs. Cassidy's Own Fault That She Did Not Hear From Her Daughter Regularly.

Mrs. McIntyre was calling upon Mrs. Cassidy, whose husband was in affluent circumstances and whose daughter had, therefore, been sent away to college.

"By the way," said Mrs. McIntyre, when the two had been gossiping for awhile, "where is Clara? I haven't seen her for an age."

"Clara is at college," proudly responded the fond mother, and then added: "And I am so worried about her. I haven't had a letter from her for nearly two weeks."

"There is where you made a mistake," was the prompt rejoinder of Mrs. McIntyre. "Instead of letting her go to college, why didn't you send her to one of those correspondence schools?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Her Choice.

Little Helen's mother had been carefully telling her of the expected arrival of the stork at their home. Helen had shown only a passing interest in the news until questioned as to whether she preferred a little brother or a sister. Her answer was very direct. "I don't care whether it's a brother or sister, but I hope it's not a cousin"—Life.

Whose fault is it when your husband is cross at breakfast?

If you hit your thumb with a hammer you wouldn't blame your thumb for hurting.

Then why blame your husband whose nerves may have been pounded by coffee, and whose rest probably has been broken by the irritation of the caffeine it contains?

If you stay awake half the night you don't feel any too cheerful.

The caffeine of coffee and the thein of tea are known drugs. If their use is persisted in, sooner or later the nervous system may give way.

Then you may have insomnia, or disturbed sleep. Your nerves and tissues will be robbed of that stability essential for normal and happy living.

HIGH RENTS HALT WEDDINGS

London Prices Too Steep for Young Couples Contemplating Marriage, Says Newspaper.

London.—An "Agony" advertisement which appeared recently in a newspaper spoke eloquently of the suffering peculiar to these days. Offering a cottage for sale, it began: "To those about to marry, and their parents."

It is hard to say; they probably want a home themselves. Every few minutes one seems to meet somebody in search of a house. There are, it is true, more houses for sale with immediate occupation than there were a year ago. But the prices asked for them are so egregiously beyond their value that neither those about to marry nor their parents can, in general, afford even to look over them.

As for flats, they are rarer than good deeds in a naughty world. A speculative estate agent, wishing to take advantage of the large demand, went carefully into estimates for building blocks of flats in a suburb, and was forced to the conclusion that, at present prices, he would be unable to let under $1,000 a year. And this would be prohibitive to most of his desirous clients.

Autumn Good Things

MARKETS are overflowing with all sorts of good things at this season of the year and the thrifty housewife will fill her fruit closet with many fruits in combinations to add to the winter menu.

FRUIT SALAD.—Prepare two cups of watermelon, cut into balls with a potato cutter, two cups of cantaloupe, cut into inch cubes, one cup of sliced peaches; mix lightly and serve on a bed of lettuce with a French dressing.

GREEN APPLE SOUP.—Chop ten sour apples, without coring or paring, and cook in two quarts of water until pulpy. Strain, return the liquid to the kettle, thicken with four tablespoonsful of arrowroot stirred to a paste with four tablespoonsful of water, then add to one-half cupful of the apple soup, the whole poured into the kettle and stirred until the soup boils. Add a dash of white pepper and two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Just before serving add the juice of half a lemon and garnish with lettuce leaves cut with a small round cutter and scattered over the soup like confetti.

BOILED SALMON.—Place three pounds of fresh salmon, a tablespoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of white wine vinegar, six peppercorns in two quarts of boiling water. Remove to a place on the range where the fish will cook gently for forty-five minutes. Serve with:

STUFFED LETTUCE SALAD.—Remove the hearts from firm, small heads of lettuce and fill the cavities with a mixture of chopped chicken, mushrooms, shredded almonds and tender celery moistened with onion-sauce. Serve garnished with a ripe strawberry or a cherry.

PINEAPPLE RICE PUDDING.—Take two cups of steamed rice, three eggs, one-half cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of milk and one-half cup of pineapple. Beat the eggs yolks, mix with the rice, add sugar and milk and pineapple. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and pour into a buttered pan to bake one hour. Serve with whipped cream.

STRAWBERRY BAVARIAN CREAM.—Soak one-half package of gelatin in one-fourth cupful of cold water. Let stand five minutes, then place over boiling water. Strain one cupful of strawberry juice and one tablespoonful of lemon juice, add one-half cupful of sugar; when the mixture is dissolved set the pan into a pan of ice water and stir until the mixture begins to thicken, then fold in one and one-half cupfuls of cream beaten stiff. Turn into a mold lined with selected berries and let stand to become stiff. Serve, garnished with fresh berry leaves. Any other fruit juice may be used in this recipe, and canned fruit is a fair substitute for the fresh when that is out of the market.

BALLYHOODING FOR OUR OWN CAUSE

We passed a market place in a nearby city recently, and in one of the booths a beautiful, but pretty, country miss had been selected as the saleslady for that stall. She had just as good a quality of merchandise to offer as her competitors had, but she was too bashful to mention the fact, and while her competitors were doing a kind of office business, she could just as well have had her tating with her, so far as business was concerned.

Now, if the housewives had sent their sons to do the marketing, the little bashful lady would have had nothing to worry about but the counting of change, but as the ladies were doing their shopping, personally, they were not gazing about the place to see a pretty face, but rather were there to see where they could drive the best bargain, and the handsome lady was about as busy as a dressmaker would be in the south of Africa.

The KEWASKUM STATESMAN is not bashful. If you live within the confines of the territory covered by the STATESMAN and have something to sell, we can dispose of it for you at a price that is fair to both parties, and the money you will have invested for advertising will have been forgotten long before you have spent the receipts of the sale.

There isn't a city or rural home in this vicinity that does not have something it does not need, and should be disposed of. There are hundreds of readers of the KEWASKUM STATESMAN who want and need exactly what you have for sale but, naturally, they can't buy it unless they know it is for sale, and unless you advertise it, they have no way of knowing it is for sale.

This community trading is all right if you don't need money, but if some one living in an adjoining township wants what you have for sale, you can add more to the price of advertising to the cost of the article, and you get rid of the article.

Write your ad, phone to us, or bring it in and let us help you get ready to make the sale. Don't hide your light under a hay stack.

MR. AND MRS.

What Wonderful thoughts come up when these two abbreviations are printed in a news item—what intense human interest these portray.

In the country weekly paper, they take the one big place in all items, from the simple visit of relatives, to the larger matters of human life.

"Mr. and Mrs."—the great news item of the universe, the bringer of recollections to the man far from home, who takes his old home town paper, and reads the items of Mr. and Mrs. and lets his mind wander back to the days when he knew the Mr. and Mrs. in knee pants and shall we say, short skirts.

It's the home town paper where the real Mr. and Mrs. news items occur—and to receive the home town paper week in and week out is to know the great happenings of the world, the doings of Mr. and Mrs.

ARE YOU SOMEBODY?

In your later home have you acquired prominence, or are you just on the road?

No matter—there is a place where you are far more than just a "nobody." It is in your own home town. To the folks at home you are somebody. Do them the same honor and keep them cataloged in your mind.

Your home town paper makes this possible. It is a keen gatherer of news of vital importance in its field; it is as metropolitan in tone and make-up as is consistent with its special mission—the purveying of 100 per cent pure news about neighbor to neighbor; it is chock full of character—a perfect mirror of the life of its district—"old stamping ground."

In parts of the country where extreme drought has impaired the vision of the potatoes, it has been possible to talk some of the girls into helping to pick them up. We wouldn't want to be a potato with impaired vision.

The leaves are falling, skirts are getting longer, money getting easier, and near beer getting nearer. Show us the sucker that said everything was going to the everlasting weiner-wursts and we'll show you a foreign born pessimist.

Manufacturers of automobiles have just recently heard that the war is over. Carpenters, plumbers, day laborers, and "sech like" have known of it for several long, tiresome, restless moons.

The state fair season is closed and the "do your Christmas shopping early" season will open in a few days.
