Lynn J. Frazier, Nonpartisan League Executive of North Dakota, Ousted.

HARDING IN SOUTH

Advocates Broader Rights for the Negro Race.

Birmingham Blacks Cheer Speech—Whites Remain Silent—Says U. S. Must Solve Peace Problems.

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 28.—For the first time in history a Republican President came into the heart of the South and delivered a straight-from-the-shoulder talk on race problems.

President Harding spoke to a great throng of Alabamians, white and black, and told them pointedly that unless the United States is true to its professed democracy, the negro must be accorded equality in things political, business and educational.

"Race antagonism, there can never be," said the President, "but I say to you now, whether you like it or whether you don't, unless our democracy is a lie, you must recognize that equality. I say that to all America, North and South, and black and white."

The President was encircled by a great crowd of thousands who milled restlessly on their feet under a torrid Alabama sun. Two-thirds of his audience were white, the other third colored, and as the President spoke he eyed the thin "line of color" that ran zig-zaggedly through the crowd and marked the separation of whites and blacks.

From the colored section of the crowd came cheers and applause; from the white section a silence that was absolute and stony.

"United concentration for war shall never be challenged again," said the President. "Our tasks now lie in applied concern and no less patriotic devotion in solving the problems of peace. These are not easy tasks. A world disordered and the unhealed wounds of war is not readily put in order again."

"But we shall succeed. Unshaken by world cataclysm, we held our foundations to the eternally right. The nation which withstood internecine conflict so heroically fought as the Civil war, will tolerate the threat of supremacy of laws or endangers our common welfare."

LABOR BOARD HALTS STRIKE

Threatened Nation-Wide Railway Tieup is Averted by Federal Body.

NO WAGE CUT FOR YEAR

Surprise Ruling Brings Peace Following Many Conferences With Union Leaders at Chicago—Hooper Talks to the Rail Men.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—Fast crackling telegraph wires the country over here to engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen, switchmen and telegraphers "cut along the lines" on Friday the message that their strike was called off.

Telegraphing in code the official recall was the first act of the day on the part of the union heads, who at midnight emerged from a final conference of a long, tense series of meetings and announced that the "satisfactory settlement" they had demanded had been reached.

While the "big five" and the telegraphers, the only other union that had decided to go through with the strike, were sending out the strike recall, the United States railway labor board, which played an important part in the final decision of the unions, prepared to announce its findings in the negotiations.

All the 200 men who attended the midnight conference, which was held at the Morrison hotel, came from the meeting in good humor and apparently relieved at the final turn of events. They said they had been influenced by Leo Hooper, a "public" member of the board, who told them at their morning session that the board's resolution of Tuesday night meant that further petitions for pay cuts would have to wait on pending hearings on rules and working conditions.

L. E. Sheppard, president of the conductors, said that the union chiefs felt the situation had changed so that if the strike started it would be a blow against the government.

"We found, as the situation developed, that by striking we would be hitting not the railroads but the government," he said. "It never was our intention to fight the government."

Government plans to combat the strike, it was learned, included a definite, extensive program through the courts. Twenty-four hours before the strike would have started, injunctions would have been asked in federal courts.

The vote ending the strike came late Thursday night after all-day sessions of the union leaders. Early in the day general chairman of each of the five organizations conferred separately. In the afternoon a joint session was held, which was addressed by Mr. Hooper of the labor board. Mr. Hooper's appearance before the board is said by union leaders to have marked the turning point which led to the final decision.

Mr. Hooper stressed the board's assurance that no further wage cuts for any class of employees will be considered until working conditions for that class of employees have been settled. He is also said to have emphasized the announcement of the rail executives made at Wednesday's hearing that no changes in either wages or working conditions will be sought, except through the labor board, as provided by law.

Union men said they construed Mr. Hooper's remarks as indicating that nearly a year must elapse before further wage cuts could be made effective, even if the roads should apply for them at once and the board should eventually approach them.

Both points are said to have been highly instrumental in determining the final decision of the union men, who adjourned the afternoon session to hold a long night meeting.

The final decision seemed pleasing to union men, rail executives and the labor board alike. Union leaders pointed out that they had determined that they could not strike without opposing both the labor board and the administration, while they asserted their real quarrel was with the roads.

Railroad executives expressed satisfaction with the decision, while members of the labor board characterized the action as one the unions will never regret and which has averted imminent hardship and an internal industrial dispute on the eve of the international conference at Washington on limitation of armament.

Labor chiefs asserted that their action marked the end of all danger of a strike as a result of the strike vote taken by the unions, no walkout now being effective until a new vote is taken. No plans are being made for a new strike vote said W. G. Lee, of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

HOME AGAIN.

"I had no idea of all this," the doctor confessed, amazed. "I've seen the young man—noticed him about. Well—well—well! Anne, too."

In June came the blissful hour in which Anne, all smiles and smiles, could come to her uncle with a dutiful message from the respectfully awaiting Justin. Their friendship, said Anne, had ripened into something deeper.

Justin wants to have a frank talk with you, uncle. Anne said, "and of course I'm not to go until you are sure you can spare me and miss you feel that you can trust him utterly."

June passed; July passed; it was hot at the "Emmy Younger." August came in on a furnace breath; Cherry reit leathers, languid and half sick at the time. Martin had said that he could not possibly get away, even for the week of Anne's wedding, but Cherry began to wonder if he would let her go alone.

"If he doesn't, I shall be sick," she muttered to herself, in a certain burning noontime, toward the middle of August. Martin, who had been playing poker the night before, was sleeping late this morning. Coming home at three o'clock dressed with close air and clear smoke, he had awakened his wife to tell her that he would be "dead" in the morning, and Cherry had accordingly crept about her dressing room and eaten her own breakfast without the chatter of a dish. Now she was sitting on the window, waiting in the moon heat. She was thinking, as it changed, of the big forest at home and of a certain day—just one of their happy days—only a year ago, when she had lain for a dreamy hour on the soft forest floor, staring up into the moon light, and the day of Alex's return had been kept a secret—her first act was to burst into tears. She clung to the fatherly shoulders as if she were a storm-beaten bird safely home again, and although she immediately laughed at herself and told the sympathetically watching Peter and Alex that she didn't know what was the matter with her, it was only to interrupt the words with fresh tears.

Tears of joy, she told them, laughing at the moisture in her father's eyes. She had a special joyous word for Hong; she laughed and tensed and questioned Anne, when Anne and

But when at the end of the long day they reached the valley, and when her father came innocently into the garden and stood staring vaguely at her for a moment—far her visit and the day of Alex's return had been kept a secret—her first act was to burst into tears. She clung to the fatherly shoulders as if she were a storm-beaten bird safely home again, and although she immediately laughed at herself and told the sympathetically watching Peter and Alex that she didn't know what was the matter with her, it was only to interrupt the words with fresh tears.

CHAPTER VI.

"No, I don't think money, exactly. At least I know he is getting a hundred a month in his uncle's law office, and Dad thinks they ought to wait until they have a little more. She'll have something, you know," Alex added, after a moment's thought.

"Well, her father went into the fire-extinguisher thing with Dad," Alex elaborated, "and evidently she and Justin have had deep, soulful thoughts about it. Anyway, the other day she said you know her way, Cherry—'Tell me, Uncle, frankly and honestly, may Justin and I draw out my share for that little home that is going to mean so much to us—'"

"I can hear her!" giggled Cherry. "Dad immediately said that she could, of course," Alex went on. "He was adorable about it. He said, 'It will do more than build you a little home, my dear!'"

"Well, get a slice of that some time," Cherry said thoughtfully, glancing at her husband. "I don't mean when Dad dies, either," she added, in quick affection. "I mean that he might build us a little home some day in Mill Valley."

"Gee, how he'd love to!" Alex said, enthusiastically. "I married Cherry for her money," Martin confessed.

"As a matter of fact," Cherry contradicted him, vivaciously, animated even by the thought of a change and a home. "We have never even spoken of it before, have we, Mart?"

"I never heard of it before," he admitted, smiling, as he knocked the ashes from his pipe. "But it's pleasant to know that Cherry will come in for a neat egg some day!"

Presently the visitor boldly suggested that she and Cherry should both go home together for the wedding, and Martin agreed good-naturedly.

and body and glad to let them spoil her again, glad to rest and sleep in the heavenly peace and quiet of the old home.

Late in the afternoon, rested, fresh, and her old sweet self in the white ruffles, she came down to join them. They had settled themselves under the redwoods. Anne and Justin, Peter and Alex and Buck, the dog, all jumped up to greet her. Cherry very quietly subsided into a wicker chair, listened rather than talked, moved her lovely eyes affectionately from one to another.

Peter hardly moved his eyes from her, although he did not often address her directly; Justin was quite obviously overcome by the unexpected beauty of Anne's cousin; Anne herself, with an undefined pang, admitted in her soul that Cherry was prettier than ever; and even Alex was affected. With the lovely background of the forest, the shade of her thin white hair lightly shadowing her face, with the dew of her long sleep and recent bath enhancing the childish purity of her skin, and with her blue eyes full of content, Cherry was a picture of exquisite youth and grace and charm.

The evening was cooler, with sudden wind and a promise of storm. They grouped themselves about a fire in the old way; Anne and Justin sitting close together on the settle, as Martin and Alex had done a year ago. Cherry sat next her father, with her hand linked in his; neither hand moved for a long, long time. Alex, sitting on the floor, with her lean cheeks pained by the fire, played with the dog and rallied Peter about some love affair, the details of which she himself laugh vexedly in spite of himself. Cherry watched them, a little puzzled at the familiarity of Peter beside this fire; had he been so entirely one of the family a year ago?

"But, Mart, how'll you get along?" his wife asked anxiously. She had fumed and fussed and pattered and tumbled over the care of these four rooms for so long that it seemed unbelievable that her place might be vacated even for a day.

"Oh, I'll get along fine," he answered indifferently. "So, on the last day of August, in the cream-colored silk and the expensive hat again, yet looking, Alex thought, strangely unlike the bride that had been Cherry. She and her sister happily departed for cooler regions. Martin took them to the train, kissed his sister-in-law gently and then his wife affectionately.

"Be a good little girl, Babe," he said, "and write me."

"Oh, I will—I will!" Cherry looked after him smilingly from the car window. "He really is an old dear!" she told Alex.

"The lady? She was unfortunately married before I had a chance to ask her," said Peter.

GENIUSES IN POOR ABODES

Many of the World's Great Men Have Been Born In or Lived or Died in Squalid Attics.

A good many great men have lived in attics and some have died there. Attics, says the dictionary, are "places where lumber is stored," and the world has used them to store a good deal of its lumber in at one time or another. Its preachers and painters and poets, its deep-browed men who find out things, its fire-eyed men, who will tell truths that no one wants to hear—these are the lumber that the world hides away in its attics. Haydn grew up in an attic. Chatterton starved in one. Addison and Goldsmith worked in garrets.

Faraday and De Quincey knew their well. Doctor Johnson cramped cheerfully in them, sleeping soundly upon their trundle beds like the sturdy old soldier of fortune that he was, injured to hardships and careless of himself. Dickens passed his youth among them, Morland his old age. Hans Andersen, the fairy king, dreamed his sweet fancies beneath their sloping roofs. Poor, wayward-hearted Collins leaned his head upon their crazy tables. Benjamin Franklin, Savage, young Bloomfield, "Bobby" Burns, Hegarth, Watts—the roll is endless. Ever since the habitations of man were reared two stories high has the garret been the nursery of genius.—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

Turk as a "Goat Herder." The famous goat herder of primitive countries who sells his milk by the jar or cup from the goat skin bag on his back has his modern prototype in the person of a chap who appeared on the Bowery side the New York Sun.

Stung over his shoulder was a large white metal container similar in shape to the goat skin bag and from one end of which protruded a spigot. The top of the container was gayly festooned with flowers and flags and for three cents the peddler would take a small paper cup from his pocket and draw a glass of milk for the thirsty youngster. The carrier of the metal container wore a bright red turban on his head. His trousers were broad-grained of the same color and his moustache of the kind figured in illustrations of the ferocious Turk.

La Crosse, Wis.—"When I was quite a young woman my circulation became so poor that I would have a numbness in my limbs similar to paralysis. I was never sure of myself, for the numbness would come oftentimes in both limbs at the same time. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery not only gave me immediate relief, but it eventually cured me of this condition. I have not had such a spell in over twenty years but have been in the very best of health, thanks to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels and gives you a well, playful child again.

Here It Is!—The New

International Manure Spreader

Run Your Eyes Over These Best-yet Features:

- Roller Bearings. Roller bearings at seven points—the only spreader so equipped.
- Double Ratchet Drive. Walking beam transmission from main axle eccentric and extra large ratchet wheel give easy, strong, steady feed. No pounding or jerking, due to extra-long movement of pawls on ratchet wheel—only two power impulses on ratchet for every revolution of 46-inch drive wheels. Box tapered to eliminate friction on box sides. Six feed speeds.
- Oscillating Front Axle. Auto-type, permitting short turns. No pole-hipping. No strain on frame.
- Power Both Wheels. Power is transmitted direct from main axle to beaters, wide-spread spiral and manure conveyor—not through beaters to conveyor or vice versa.
- Wheels Track. Rear wheels track with the front wheels, lightening draft.
- Tight Bottom. There is no clogging, jamming apron, because the spreader has a tight bottom. Spreads anything. Retains all liquid manure.
- Two Beaters. Two all-steel beaters with chisel-pointed square teeth work from both top and bottom of the load. Allow extra-high load.
- Wide-Spread. The spiral behind the beaters gives the manure a third beating, and spreads it finely and uniformly beyond the wheels.
- All-Steel Main Frame. Does not check, rot or warp. Wood box sides hold only the load. Frame holds operating mechanism independently of box; keeps alignment perfect.

The New International—made in two sizes—is unquestionably the best spreader value on the market today, and when you consider it in connection with its price, it is so far ahead of all others that there is really no comparison.

We have a sample spreader set up for your inspection. Come in and look it over.

DELCO-LIGHT

It Is The Practical Electricity For The Farm—Cheap to Operate, Safe and Reliable

DEAR MR. AND MRS. PROSPECT:

During the past few years we have brought Sunshine and Happiness into the homes of over 150 families in our community by installing Delco-Light and power plants. Every user is satisfied, and why should they not be? Can you imagine anything nicer on the farm than a LIGHT where ever you may need it, ready for you at any time, or a handy little power motor, to turn your wash machine for you on a Monday morning, tumble the butter churn, turn the grind-stone and fanning mill. What is nicer than an electric flat iron, or a handy water system operated by your Delco Electric plant—bring the water to your kitchen, bath room, laundry and barn? Dear friends, Delco is not only nice but it does work for you, and when it saves you labor it earns money and soon PAYS FOR ITSELF.

We are proud to say our many users are all satisfied, and tell us their light now costs them less than when they burned kerosene in their lamps and lanterns. There is a Delco user near you, why not ask them if this is true.

By all means do not deny yourselves this necessity. If you haven't the ready money on hand you can buy the Delco on time payments. We are ready at any time to give you a figure on the plant and wiring, and make satisfactory arrangements as to how you can pay for it.

The Regular Delco plants are now selling at $295.00 and up, and are made in various sizes to fit the large or small farm. If you are in any way interested in a Light or Power plant let us hear from you. It costs you nothing to get a figure and we may be able to help you in many other ways. Hoping you will soon see fit to join the "Big Happy Delco Family," we remain,

Yours truly,
L. ROSENHEIMER

This Lad Earned All His Medals

Nebraska Youth Has Wonderful Record of Heroic Deeds in World War.

WAS DECORATED FOUR TIMES

Wins Distinguished Service Cross for Extraordinary Bravery in Action, Also Gets Croix de Guerre and Military Medal.

Omaha, Neb.—Here's a veteran of the World war who carries about all the medals that could be crowded on one brawny chest and the best part of it is that he actually earned every one of them. He is Carl M. Lange of Hartington, Neb., and has the distinction of being Nebraska's most decorated soldier. Recently his state awarded him the highest honor it could bestow upon a soldier. He was selected by the state commander of the American Legion to represent Nebraska at the burial in Arlington cemetery, Washington, on Armistice day, of an unknown soldier, killed in France.

Lange enlisted from Hartington, April 17, 1917, just 12 days following declaration of war by President Wilson. He was one of 11 boys volunteering from that town and was sixteen at that time.

He was assigned to Company B, Second Machine Gun battalion of the First Division.

This unit embarked June 15 and landed in France, June 26, 1917. It was among the first 1,000 American troops to enter the war zone.

Parade on Bastille Day.

At the time of their arrival the morale of French citizenry and troops was badly shaken, and at the invitation of the French government,

Carl M. Lange.

Lange's unit paraded in Paris on Bastille day, July 14, 1917, heralding the coming of American troops to the aid of the allies.

Following a brief preliminary training in the rear areas, the First Division was assigned to the lines and the unit to which Lange was assigned fought successfully in six major and a large number of minor engagements. From all of these the young soldier emerged unscathed.

It was in Candigny that Carl Lange assisted in carrying the body of Marie May from the trenches. May was the first town boy killed and one of the first three American boys killed in the war.

Awarded Four Medals.

Carl Lange received four medals and the French cord, awarded units for gallantry. The following is the list of medals and donors:

Distinguished Service Cross, awarded at Montabaur, Germany, by General Pershing, with the following citation: "Private First Class, Carl M. Lange, Co. B, second Machine Gun battalion. (For extraordinary bravery in action near Fleuveville, France. Seeing that his first line was being held by machine gun fire from the woods, Private Lange, with another soldier, voluntarily made his way through a terrific barrage and entered the woods, cleared out three machine guns, killing several of their crews and captured about twenty prisoners. Failing in his attempt to communicate the success of his mission to the attacking force, he himself went back and, finding his officers had all become casualties, assisted in the organization of a small force and leading it to the objective."

French Croix de Guerre, with palms, designating a citation, awarded him by General McGoughlin, commander of the First Division.

Military Medal, presented by Marshal Petain.

Military Medal received from French government later through the mail.

New York Magistrate Establishes Ratio for Distribution of Husband's Income.

New York.—Magistrate John Kochendorfer of Queens has established a ratio of three-fourths of a man's income for his wife and one-fourth of a man's income for himself. Husband's brought before the magistrate by their wives on the complaint that they fail to properly support them will have to observe this division to meet the approval of the magistrate.

Walter Woerner was before the magistrate charged by his wife with failing to support her.

"Woerner can pay only $7 to his wife, because he has to pay $15 a week for his own room and board," said his attorney.

"How do you figure that a wife can support herself on $7 a week when the husband himself spends $15 a week?" asked the magistrate. "I earn $8,000 a year, and $6,000 of this I

Copper Serpent Found Near Noted Monk's Mound

East St. Louis, Ill.—A copper serpent, believed to have been the object of worship by prehistoric inhabitants, has been found in a plowed field near Monk's mound, the largest of the Cahokia group of Indian mounds near here.

Dr. W. K. Moorhead, scientist, who is directing excavation work on the mounds, pronounced the find important. He said only three other similar serpents have been found in American mounds.

FOR GIRL IN HER TEENS; BLOUSES TAKE TO COLORS

The girl in her teens looks well in anything, but frocks of taffeta seem to suit her best of all. There is a sort of demure gaiety about the brightness in dresses made of it, and perhaps that is why it is written into the history of every season's styles. The simple taffeta frock is a good investment when it is cleverly made—a very adaptable and versatile possession.

We must concede cleverness to the maker of the unpretentious, but alluring, dress for a young girl as pictured here. It has a plain straight underskirt as a foundation and above this a wide tunic with tucks bordering it, finished at the edge with narrow, picketed ribbon. The neck is cut out in a deep square, revealing a vestee of lace. Straps of velvet ribbon, ending in little buckles at each side, make of this vestee a brilliant feature, and the neck is finished with a pretty lace collar. A frock like this in black, or dark shades of color, is equal to doing service for many occasions more or less formal, according to the accessories worn with it; it is at home against many backgrounds.

Another fabric that seems suited to youth is plain crepe de chine, and frocks made of it have fine wearing qualities. It is a great favorite this season, especially in golden brown, which shade makes an effective background for colored embroideries and looks well with the fashionable high colors as flame, henna, orange and certain tones of blue. Used in facings or linings for girdles and floating panels, they give the liveliness required. Another pretty color combination for young girls is found in bright, strong blue, embroidered in gray.

A little journey among new blouses leaves two or three of their style features for this season well impressed upon the mind. The first thing to be noted is the prevalence of color and color combinations in them, and the trend toward dark shades. Colors are the same as those employed for frocks—as brown, beige, pheasant, blue and black or gray, with contrasting color in high tones to brighten them. Among these are henna, flame, orange, lighter blues, and rich red tones. It is evident that the white or flesh-colored blouse must give place to colored ones. Materials are georgette and other crepes, satin and other silks, with georgette holding first place. The long waistline is favored for blouses, as for frocks, and the popular and tie-back styles are convenient modes for exploiting it, therefore the majority of models are one or the other of these. Two examples of the tie-back blouse are shown in the illustration. They are representative styles. The blouse at the left, made of georgette in a dark color, extends its giraffe at the front into a deep scallop, suggesting a peplum. It is cut in the graceful, slip-over fashion, with kimono sleeves, and has an odd and pretty decoration of braids, in which small wooden beads and long bugle beads are effectively used with embroidery silk. them. These are also made to be warm as an entire dress, the panels extending to the bottom of the skirt, which can be either a petticoat of the same shade or a slip.

Don't Neglect Veils. If you're doing a great deal of motor-ing your veils are bound to become very dusty and if the dust is left to rub on your skin when the veil is again worn, the latter will soon be greatly injured. After every long run, wash the veil.

Black Cord Sautiers. Women who do not like the bend necklaces are wearing the conservative sautiers. The newest ones are of black cord. Sometimes there are tiny pearl beads inserted in sections. One is a simple cord has the tasseled pendant, which is the latest thing in pendant effects, composed of pearls held together by a cap of silver.

Children's Dresses. Bright wool fabrics, either in one color or in checks or plaids, are much used for children's dresses, with embroidery and braiding as the trimming. One chic frock recently seen was of red and white in about a half-inch check. It was trimmed with a scroll design in narrow red soutache braid.

Colored Shoulder Scarfs. Marabout shoulder scarfs are made in colors now other than the usual, natural and black which are customarily used for this material. Henna, soft French blue and a yellow brown also appear.

Simple Explanation. Mary and her cousin Susan were placed in a room by themselves to play with their dolls and picture books. For half an hour all went well, then there was a sound of lamentation. Mary's mother opened the door to learn what the trouble was and found Susan seated on the floor loudly proclaiming her grief to the ceiling while Mary, leaning on her elbows, chin resting on her hands, was gazing nonchalantly into the back yard.

"Now, what's the matter?" mother asked.

"Well," answered Mary, turning her face toward her mother, "both of us wanted to look out at the day, and both of us couldn't."

An Opportunity. "I never saw the equal of those Jagsby's next door," said Mr. Bibbles. "They are always wanting to borrow something. I honestly believe we've lent them everything in the house except the piano and our twin beds."

"I'm sorry you are so wrought up," said Mrs. Bibbles. "Mr. Jagsby has just sent over to know if—"

According to University Authority, the Next Generation Need Not Worry About Its Food.

Miss Lillian Herman of the University of Michigan is an authority on chemical analysis. Addressing the Byerson library class at Grand Rapids recently she said the time is coming when a man, becoming hungry, will simply take a shovel and go into his yard and get a shovelful of dirt, take it into his private laboratory, put it into the family "hopper," pour in concentrated essence of sunshine, turn a crank, and then go around to the other side and wait for the spout to catch his eggs, tomatoes, cucumbers or radishes, whatever he desires.

This food, she said, will come out in the form of small lozenges, concentrated and convenient. A chemical analysis of them will show they contain all the ingredients of our vegetables, and will also have the same taste.

Miss Herman believes that the next generation will see the start of it and that the following generation will use it habitually.

Why should you follow a crooked path?

Often a cowpath has been allowed to become a village street, and as the village expanded, tradition has made the winding way an expression of a cow's will.

Habit is always forging chains to enslave us, so that what has been found bearable by the fathers is accepted by the sons.

Who cannot recall the coffee-pot Mother put on the stove early in the morning, warning us not to let it boil over?

As children, we were not permitted to drink tea or coffee, because it would stunt our growth or make us nervous and irritable. When older, however, we craved a hot drink with meals, and custom gave us our tea or coffee.

Finally upon the instructions of the doctor, Mother gave up her tea and coffee. But that meant nothing in our young lives. Our vitality was then strong enough to throw off any ill effects.

But our time came, and we learned by experience that we could not drink tea or coffee. When we had it for breakfast it put our nerves on edge. When we drank it at the evening meal, we tossed about in wakefulness most of the night.

And then we found Postum, a pure cereal beverage, free from the harmful drug, caffeine, in tea and coffee. We liked the rich, satisfying flavor of Postum—and also the better health which resulted. And, too, we were surprised to find how many of our neighbors had made the same discovery—had learned the value of "health first."

Postum comes in two forms. Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes. Sold by all grocers.

COUNTRY PAPER GUARDS NATION

Rises Promptly and Capably to Every Emergency.

IS NOT ALWAYS APPRECIATED

Cements Interests of Mass of Population—Avoiding Sensationalism, in Its Clean Wholesomeness Is Its Appeal to Best Class of Citizens—Country Press a National Power.

By WRIGHT A. PATTERSON.

The country communities—the village, the small town and the small city—are the backbone of the American nation. They are the communities to which the nation turns in times of distress and emergency. They are even more than the backbone of the nation. They are the backbone of our modern civilization. Just at the close of the World War, Mr. Balfour, foreign minister of Great Britain, said to the writer in London that the entire civilized world must look to the small towns of America to preserve for the world the civilization that it had taken centuries to build, because the small towns represented a substantial solidarity that the tremendous upheaval of the war had not affected, and it was only such a foundation that would preserve the structure of civilization.

The cement that keeps the people of these country communities together, working and thinking along uniform lines and safe lines, that makes of them that "substantial solidarity" on which world civilization can rely for a foundation, is the country press—the village, the small town and the small city newspaper.

Country Paper Wholesome.

The country newspaper goes to its readers devoid of that sensationalism that is so prominent in the metropolitan papers. It carries to its readers the news items that represent the joys and sorrows of their friends and neighbors, and keeps the hearts of the people of the community beating in unison. It goes to its readers with that sane and kindly advice on local, state, national and world problems; advice that is the result of thought and study beside the heartiness of the nation, and not in the selfish murmur of trade or the bright lights of city frivolity. It goes with the influence of a known and respected member of the community—its editor back of its every word, its every opinion. It goes to a people, the people of the country communities and the farms, that are more capable of thinking along sane, unselfish and practical lines than are those who are surrounded by the selfish and many times evil influences of the large cities.

But the influence of the country newspaper goes far beyond the community in which it is printed. National legislators in the halls of congress realize that this influence is a power to be reckoned with. That when the country press speaks in unison on any national subject it is but voicing the sentiments of that mighty force, the people of the country communities, the people in whose hands, says Mr. Balfour, rests the destiny of world civilization.

Fights for Entire Country.

The country press represents and fights for those things that are of value to the country communities, realizing that in doing so it is fighting for those things that are best for the nation and for the world. It works and fights to uphold the country community, to prevent its falling a prey to the selfish greed of the cities. It champions the business, the social, the educational, the agricultural, the industrial interests of the country communities.

The Satellites.

OF ALL the sheets from East to West the local paper is the best. Deep in our love and deep our debt to Record, Journal or Gazette. When first I landed on this ball, a bit of flesh wrapped round a squall, it welcomed me with joy and pride my life has never justified. It follows me my whole life through, with words all kind and mostly true; and even after I am hoisted 'twill tell my best and hide my worst. When in Oshkosh or Waukegan, wander homeward as a pup, or if in foreign lands I roam, it brings me pleasant news of home. Across the sands, across the sea, the old home paper comes to me. It is a friend both true and tried, and to it, gentle, I point with pride; yes, I will lock my Sunday pants to pay up six years in advance.

FOUND HOME PAPER IN HEART OF THE ROCKIES

And Through It Peddler Learned That Family He Had Known For Twenty Years Were His Relatives.

"Publishing a country newspaper reminds me of tossing a pebble into the ocean. We never know how far the circles which it sets in motion will reach," said Williston Manley, publisher of The Plaindealer of Canton, N. Y., the other day, in speaking of "Subscribe for Your Home Town Paper Week," which is to be observed the country over the week of November 7-12. "I had a good reminder of this not long ago," he went on. "One day there appeared in the Plaindealer office a short, stubby, robust man of probably sixty. I know the minute I saw him that he had come in from the big outdoors in some section. He told me that he had taken the paper for many years, probably forty, ever since he had left Canton, where he was born. He told me where I would find the paper, going and I found it. His post office was in a little town way out in the Rockies. He said he had come back to the old town to live. He paid what he owed and a year over for good measure, and then he sat down and I knew something was coming."

Forty Years in the Mountains.

"Says," said he, "newspapers are great things. You can never tell what they are going to do for you. I have been a peddler out in the mountains for forty years, making my trips, me and the little burro, about once in six months. There were a lot of long jumps between houses. For fifteen years I had been going out on my trail, about five miles to one side, to sell to a family that had moved in. You get rather well acquainted with people if you see them once in six months for that long, so when I got there one afternoon and didn't find anyone home—just the door unlocked, as all doors were there—I went in and made myself comfortable, and when supper time came I didn't hesitate about hunting around for grub. And while I was doing it I found a copy of the Plaindealer on the kitchen shelf, and one or two more around the house—the Plaindealer, mind you, the paper I was taking right from the old home town! And I wondered who these fifteen-year-old friends of mine were. I suddenly realized we had never talked over our pedigrees any."

"When the family got home that evening I asked questions, and what do you think?—that wife was a sort of grandchild of mine. She hadn't heard of her old uncle off stubbing around in the rocks of the Rockies, and I hadn't ever heard that anyone related to me had ever married and was out there living under another name. Your paper introduced us to each other. I just thought you might like to know about it."

"As Poor as Job's Turkey."

"As poor as Job's turkey," a simile often used to indicate extreme poverty, has reference to the deplorable state to which Job was reduced, when delivered by God into the hands of Satan. "Job's turkey," according to the popular notion, had but one feather in its tail, and was obliged to lean against the fence to gobble. The originator of the saying apparently did not realize it would have been impossible for Job to possess a turkey, since that bird is a native of America. Thomas Chandler Halliburton, of Nova Scotia, who used the pseudonym of "Sam Slick" and wrote about the doings of "Samuel Slick of Slickville," refers to "Job's turkey" in some of his writings.

SOME COMPANY DISHES.

Though chicken is almost universally liked we tire of having it served in so few ways. The following will be a slight change: Chicken Stew.—Cut up a chicken as usual, add a clove of garlic and two small onions; cook until half done, then add the following sauce: Melt two tablespoonsful of butter in a frying pan, add a tablespoonful of flour and a generous sprinkling of cayenne. When well cooked add salt and a cupful of tomatoes; stir and cook, add sage and salt, if liked.

Drop Nut Cakes.—Take a cupful of shortening and sugar, four tablespoonfuls of sour milk, two teaspoonfuls of soda, two eggs, cinnamon and cloves to taste; add one cupful each of nuts and raisins and flour to make a dough. Drop on baking sheets and bake in a moderate oven.

A most appetizing sauce to serve with cold roast of beef is: Spanish Sauce.—Put two tablespoonfuls of butter into a saucepan, one clove of salt, one onion chopped, one clove of garlic, half a green or red pepper, all finely chopped. When this mixture is well cooked and brown add one pint of tomatoes and simmer twenty minutes. Add cayenne, a few drops of tabasco sauce and a tablespoonful of Worcestershire sauce.

St. James Pudding.—This is a simple pudding without an egg: Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, add one-half cupful of molasses, one-half cupful of milk, one and two-thirds cupfuls of flour, one-half teaspoonful of soda, one-half teaspoonful each of clove, allspice and nutmeg, and one-half pound of the dates cut in pieces. Steam in pound baking powder cans for two and one-half hours.

I believe if we had a larger conception of our possibilities, a larger faith in ourselves, we could accomplish infinitely more. And if we only understood our divinity, we would have larger faith. There is no inferiority about the man that God made. The only inferiority is what we put in ourselves. What God made is perfect.

EVERYDAY IDEAS.

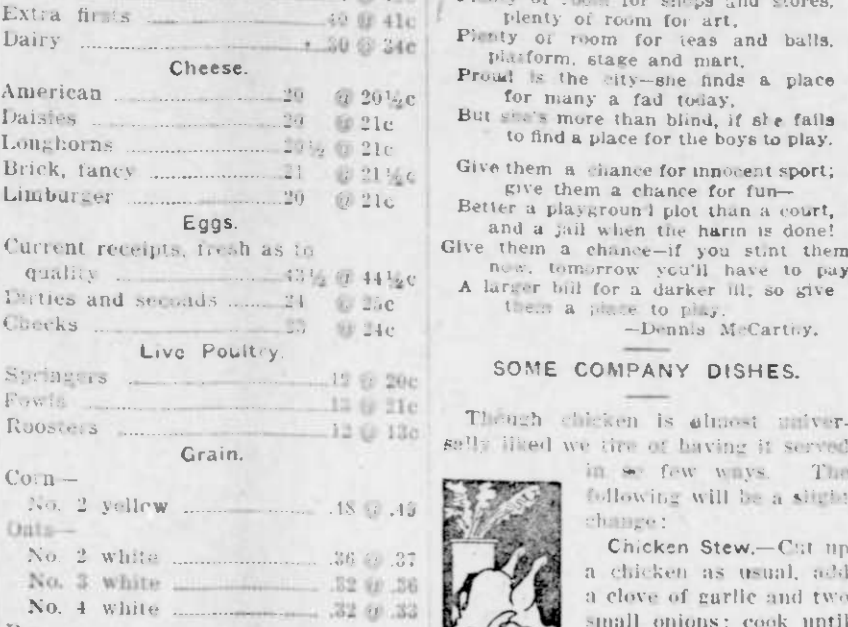

A most delicious cream cheese may be prepared from a cupful or less of grated cheese mixed with hot cream to make a paste. Pour into jars to cool. Gingerbread baked in sheets and when cool cut in rounds and put together with the above cheese makes delicious little cakes. Cottage cheese may be used.

Add a little left over orange marmalade to mince-meat. It improves the flavor.

When preparing a plain custard, before adding the sugar or flavoring remove enough for a salad dressing. Add mustard, salt and pepper and a good dressing will be easily made. The remainder of the custard may be sweetened and flavored as desired and with one mixing and cooking one has a dessert and a salad dressing.

DARLING BABY BRIGHTENS HOME

Children's Laughter a Pleasing Sound

Altoona, Pa.—"I am writing to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. We had six children die almost at birth. From one hour to nineteen days is all they have lived. Before my next one was born I took a dozen bottles of your Vegetable Compound, and I can say that it is the greatest medicine on earth, for this baby is now four months old, and a healthier baby you would not want. I am sending you a picture of her. Everybody says 'That is a very healthy looking baby.' You have my consent to show these few lines to anybody."—Mrs. C. W. BENZ, 131 3rd Avenue, Altoona, Pa.

Mrs. Janssen's experience of interest to childless wives. Millston, Wis.—"I want to give you a word of praise for your wonderful medicine. We are fond of children, and for a considerable time after we were married I feared I would not have any. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it strengthened me so I now have a nice, strong, healthy baby girl. I suffered very little at childbirth, and I give all the credit to your medicine, and shall always recommend it highly."—Mrs. H. H. JANSSEN, Millston, Wis.

Mrs. Held of Marinette, Wis., adds her testimonial for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She says: Marinette, Wis.—"I was in a nervous condition and very irregular. My doctor advised an operation. My husband brought me one of your booklets and asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It overcame my weakness so that I now have a healthy baby girl after having been married nine years. I am glad to recommend your medicine, and you may use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. H. B. HELD, 330 Jefferson St., Marinette, Wis.

There are many, many such homes that were once childless, and are now blessed with healthy, happy children because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored the mother to a strong and healthy condition, as it acts as a natural restorative for ailments as indicated by backache, irregularities, displacements, weakness and nervousness.

Women everywhere should remember that most of the commoner ailments of women are not the surgical ones—they are not caused by serious displacements or growths, although the symptoms may be the same, and that is why so many apparently serious ailments readily yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it acts as a natural restorative. It can be taken with perfect safety and often prevents serious troubles.

Therefore if you know of any woman who is suffering and has been unable to secure relief and is regretfully looking forward to a childless old age, ask her to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it has brought health and happiness into so many homes once darkened by illness and despair.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent to you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

Everything is going lovely so far with the exception of one holdup and that wasn't so bad, for after all an investigation is proved to be a black and white animal without a pedigree. Jansen of Campbellsport, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Wondra and Mr. and Mrs. M. Meixner of Lomira, Mr. and Mrs. W. Jannus of Ashford, Leo Kaas and Mrs. Ant. Strobel of New Fane, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. G. U. G. GERMANIA

On October 9th, 1921 a real "G. U. G. Germania Day" was celebrated in Sheboygan. The G. U. G. Germania, a well known fraternal insurance organization, is at present conducting a membership campaign through the state. To arouse the interest of every "Germania Brother" and to make the campaign more interesting, the membership was divided into five groups. The group securing the largest number of new members, will receive a cash prize of $1000.00. This large meeting on October 9th, was a gathering of all societies belonging to Group No. 4. The two Germania societies in Sheboygan, Germania Society No. 13 and South Sheboygan Society No. 12, were present with almost the entire membership. The Kewaskum Society No. 59 was also largely represented and large delegations were present from Manitowish, Billion, Century, Chicago, Clintonville, West Bend, Fredonia, Centerville, Kohler, Kiel and Plymouth, also belonging to Group No. 4. After a lengthy parade, led by the Sheboygan Band of 16 pieces through the main streets of Sheboygan, the meeting was held in the Eagle Hall, which was filled to its capacity. The main speakers were Herman Zwick, president of the Central Society, Charles Wolf, Secretary of the Central Society and Anton Lohr, Ex. Pres. of the Sentinel Society No. 1 of Milwaukee. The speeches in all the German and American languages and were very interesting and impressive. The Sheboygan Band rendered several beautiful selections and the famous "Rheingold Quartette" of Milwaukee entertained with wonderful songs. That they made a "big hit" was shown by the applause they received. The meeting was without doubt a great success. Every member which attended the meeting, grew so enthusiastic that they are now working hard to secure new members. They are sure that they will try their very best. Wouldn't it be grand if Group No. 4, the societies in our vicinity would win the prize?

BALLYHOONG FOR OUR OWN CAUSE

It wasn't here in Kewaskum this happened, but it was considerable less than a year ago in the city of New York. We'll give it to you for what you think it is worth, and take our pay in ivory dust off a pink elephant. The man of which we want to speak was one of the old school, was in the mercantile business, and had recently taken in his eldest son, who had just returned from college, as a partner. Things were going from bad to a doggone sight worse with the firm, and the old gentleman began praying for business to pick up. The son used all the persuasive powers he had in command of, trying to convince his father that they ought to advertise, but he opined that advertising cost more money, and besides the bible taught him to believe that his prayers would be answered—eventually—and one day the son overheard the senior member of the firm putting on a prayer that would bring tears to the eyes of a package of sewing machine needles. The son slipped down to the newspaper office, and the printer laid him six up a page ad, quoting some prices that convinced the readers that the war was over, and business began to pick up so fast that the firm had to hire a mechanic to come in and oil up the cash register. Of course the son had to finally show the venerable believer of prayers that it was advertising—in conjunction with his prayers—that made business pick up so wonderfully, and that he was convinced that "the Lord helps those who help themselves," and that prayer without reasonable self-support got a concern just what they had coming.

Besides the increased milk yield—which averages two pounds per cow per day—they will save you time and labor in herding the cows out to the tank; will save you tank-out to tank; will save you tank-heater fuel and tank-heater trouble; will prevent the spread of disease resulting from contaminated drinking water. If you put in cups now they will have paid for themselves by February 1st. After that, the extra profit is clear velvet.
