SPECIAL SCHOOL MEETING LARGELY ATTENDED

The special school meeting held by the Joint School District of the Village and Town of Kewaskum, Wednesday evening, was the largest ever held here and probably in this vicinity. Over 400 voters being in attendance. The purpose of this meeting was to vote on the question of a bond issue to the amount of $72,000 for the purpose of purchasing a new school site and building a new school building. There was considerable opposition at the meeting, because, undoubtedly the proposition came to the foreground rather suddenly to a good many of the voters and who in turn did not thoroughly understand the reason of this sudden proposal. The question of voting on the site and the school building, was therefore dropped at this meeting and the entire time taken up in explaining matters and the necessity of building a new school house at this time. Although many heated debates were in evidence during the forepart of the meeting, most of them however were cooled down when the matter was explained in detail by the members of the school board. Many of the voters who attended the meeting with the intention of voting the question down have changed their opinion and are now strongly in favor of the proposition. A second meeting will be held at the Opera House next week, Wednesday evening, April 19, 1922 at 8 o'clock sharp, at which time the question will again be taken up and voted upon. Following is a letter received by L. D. Guth from State Supt. of Schools John Callahan, which gives his views in full, as to the conditions and necessity of building a new school here. A table of the rate of taxation if the bond is carried is also published below.

MILK CAMPAIGN FOR COUNTY

The biggest event before our National holidays is the coming Milk Week Campaign of Washington County from May 1 to May 6. The worth whiteness of this week is indicated by its purposes. There is a big idea behind this movement; it is to interest the people of Washington County in the great food value of milk and milk products. The plans for this campaign are being fostered by the milk producers of the county in cooperation with the County Nurse, County Supt. of Schools, County Agent, Wisconsin Agricultural College, and the Dairy Division of the United States government. A last year's survey conducted by the University of Wisconsin, showed that 10% of the children in the public and parochial schools will gain information as to the present consumption of milk by children. Reports from health workers and dentists show that 10% of the children in the public schools are under weight, and in many cases these are the ones who are doing poor work in school. Experiments conducted in the schools of Hartford and West Bend reveal that milk is the most important food item that may be remedied by the drinking of milk, and a consequent improvement in the standard of work done by the children is noticeable. Vitamins are they? Are you aware that they are the factors of health, and that they are in the milk. The other elements keep us warm and produce energy, but vitamins are the vital elements which help us make our way in life. These vitamins have not been generally made known. This campaign will bring this information to every child in every school, public and parochial in Washington County by business men and by the University of Wisconsin. These speakers are specially trained to present this subject in an interesting way that a lasting impression will be made upon the little children's minds. A last year's survey on an essay contest is now on in all the schools. All children old enough to take part are included in this contest. Liberal prizes will be awarded to the winners in both contests. The subjects of the essays are: (1) The importance of milk to the pupils, but all will deal with the food value of milk products. The posters designed by the young artists of the county will be used in stores and business places advertising milk during Milk Week, May 1 to 6. Milk and its products are not for children alone, and plans are being laid for a campaign that will emphasize to parents the food value of milk. Business men of Hartford, West Bend, Kewaskum and Slinger are making plans for attractive window exhibits that will bring the food value of milk and its products to the attention of all. The Commercial Club of West Bend and the Chamber of Commerce of Hartford are planning "milk banquets" at which every dish served will be made of milk. Mr. A. J. Glover of the Wisconsin Dairymen's Association has been asked to address these meetings. Evening meetings are being planned to be held in every town, village, and city in the county. These meetings will be held at West Bend, Hartford, Allenton, Richfield, Thompson, Kewaskum, Slinger, Jackson, Germantown, Kohlsville, Boltonville, Plat, Fillmore, Barton and Newburg. At each of these meetings there will be a special milk program and a distinctive feature of each meeting will be a representative of the University of Wisconsin. This will be a week where everybody regardless of age or industry can join in one grand movement to boost milk as the most perfect of all food. It is the greatest agricultural product; to boost it as nature's perfect food to improve health. To know more about milk and to drink more milk will be the week's slogan.

YOUNG MOTHER CALLED AWAY

The sad news was spread over this village and community last Sunday afternoon, April 9th, 1922, that Mrs. Joseph Schoofs, residing a mile west of this village had passed into eternal sleep at 1:45 P. M. Cause of illness was not given by the physician, but it is believed that a complication of diseases, Mrs. Schoofs was born on April 10, 1859, in the town of Ashford, where she spent her childhood days and where she received her elementary education. On April 1, 1907, she was united in holy bonds of matrimony to Joseph Schoofs, making her home on the farm where she lived until her untimely death. Six children were born of this union, namely: Theodore, 14; Joseph, 12; Egidius, 9; Agnes, 10; Kathryn, 8; and Anna, 6 months. Although the end was expected almost momentarily during the last few days of her life, death came as a great shock to the family and the entire community. It is indeed a severe blow to her grief-stricken husband. Her early death in the prime of life, away from the midst of a happy family circle by the untimely hand of death, is an the Rev. Vogt officiated. Interment was made in the congregation's cemetery. The Statesman joins the many friends of the deceased in extending heartfelt sympathy to the sorrowing family in this their hour of deep affliction.

NEW DRUG STORE NEARLY READY

A deal was closed some time ago, whereby a building was rented to Otto Graf of Milwaukee, who will conduct a modern drug store and up-to-date drug store. The L. L. Koenig building located on the corner of Main street and Fond du Lac avenue, formerly owned by Mrs. John Guth and used as a saloon, better known as the American House, has been leased to Mr. Graf. The part of the building formerly used as the bar room and also a room leading to the north of it used for sitting room, have been remodeled. Partitions have been torn out and the floor space of such rooms will be used as the drug store. The south wing of the bar room has been torn out and a large plate glass window put in its place. Instead of gaining entrance to this part of the building on the south or west sides, a large door has been built at the southwest corner of the place, so that there will be only one entrance to the store. Mr. Graf comes here highly recommended as a first class registered druggist having obtained a degree in registered pharmacy in the state of Wisconsin and also in the state of Michigan, having a 760 in this profession up to the last twenty years. The play will be presented on Friday evening, April 21, 1922. It is a two-act comedy full of fun and laughter. It is an engaging comedy of society life of Solitaire Doucette Villa. Mrs. Selton's match-making proclivities, which are a highly amusing entanglement. The committee in charge, as well as the cast have been working hard in an effort to bring the play to a most successful conclusion and judging from the rehearsal they are progressing, they will not fall short in their good intentions. Time of playing one and one-half hours. Curtain rises at eight o'clock sharp. Admission 25 and 35 cents. A list of good music will be furnished. The proceeds of this entertainment will go toward the benefit of the East Valley church.

TO PRESENT HOME TALENT PLAYS

The young people of the Holy Trinity congregation at this village will present a home talent play, "The Service" at the Kewaskum Opera House on Friday evening, May 4, 1922. The play is a three-act high class comedy drama, written by Walter Ben Hart, in which he vividly pictures the joys and sorrows of life. It is full of many thrilling and exciting scenes, the style and characteristic part of which is different than any ever shown here by home talent in a number of years, it is bound to please both young and old. The cast which is being coached and directed by Arthur Schaefer, have been hard at work rehearsing some for the past two weeks, and are now well under way in their work, at least so far that one can readily see, that it promises to be a grand success as far as offering wholesome and social entertainment for both young and old is concerned. The cast of characters is composed of the following young people: Rudy Casper, Ralph Wollensak, Bernard Brodzeller, Philip Brodzeller, Aloysius Runte, Herbert Beisler, Loraine Casper, Cresence Stoffer, Sylvia Marx, Cresence Harter and Isabelle Miller and several utility characters will be chosen. The committee in charge of the entertainment have engaged the West Bend Symphony orchestra to furnish the music before and between the acts. Large posters will soon be printed, giving full details of the entertainment. Reserved seats will be on sale at the Bank of Kewaskum in the near future, the time and price of admission will be announced later. Watch the columns of this paper every week which will give you full details of the play and the progress the cast is making.

BIDS FOR SEWERAGE BELOW ESTIMATE

The Village Board of the village of Kewaskum, opened the bids for the letting of the sewerage contracts, on Wednesday, and were extremely fortunate in receiving some very low bids at least far below expectations. There were seventeen contractors who handed sealed bids for the job, which large number is probably one of the reasons in getting low bids. The lowest of which being handed in by F. E. Kaminsky of Berlin, Wis., it being $15,812.16, which is $2,187.84 lower than the estimate cost, excluding the cost of the tank. The three lowest bidders will be given consideration by the village board, one of which will be given the contract. The three lowest bidders were: F. E. Kaminsky of Berlin; Szulalski Co., of Milwaukee, $15,478.72 and J. M. Donohue of Stevens Point, $15,828.46. Following is a list of the contractors who handed in sealed bids and their respective bids: Gray-Robinson, Manitowoc, $16,776.83; E. R. Harding, Racine, $21,501.19; J. M. Donohue, Stevens Point, $15,828.46; R. B. Kuehne, Aurora, $15,666.58; R. J. Wilson, Appleton, $15,994.61; Walter Bahr, Manitowoc, $15,994.61; Pastoret Cons. Co., Duluth, $16,838.18; W. F. Ribbons, Mayville, $16,130.96; F. E. Kaminsky, Berlin, $15,812.16; Charles E. Hughes, Racine, $18,941.61; Schaefer & Thompson, Marshfield, $16,000.64; Geo. LOCAL COMPANY TO EXTEND THEIR ELECTRIC LINE

The Kewaskum Electric Light Company have a crew of men at work extending their electric line from New Fane to what is known as the "Beechwood Hill", but the plans were cancelled at that village, where they will furnish power for a gravel crushing plant owned and operated by Sheboygan county. The "Beechwood Hill" is said to contain good gravel for road building purposes, and the Sheboygan County State Road and Bridge Committee have decided to do considerable amount of road construction in the southern and southwestern part of the county; this year it was found advisable and a good move on the part of the county officials to purchase this hill, wherefrom to get their crushed stone, it being favorably located and easy to get at. A large crew of men are already at work moving the gravel crushing plant to the above named place, where it is being set up and where it will be ready for operation within a few weeks time. The Sheboygan State Road and Bridge Committee has learned that the most economical way to operate a gravel crushing plant is by electric power. The plant was last year operated at Greenbush, Sheboygan county, where the present satisfactory results, both in the saving of fuel and the amount of work turned out per day. The crusher will be operated by two motors, one a 75 horse power and the other a 25 horse power. The voltage of the electric line leading from Kewaskum to New Fane and thence to the gravel plant will be increased from 2400 to 6600 volts which is thought will furnish enough current to run the plant very economically. By extending the electric line from New Fane to within a half mile of Beechwood, the citizens of that village and immediate vicinity, are well supplied with electricity. This is now under way and are contemplating on having the Kewaskum Electric Light Co. extend their line from this hill directly into Beechwood and thus furnish the current for their future plans. The village of Beechwood, owned by Kuerst, owner and manager of the Forest Lake Resort as well as a number of other resorters who own cottages at Forest Lake, are also seriously planning to have the company extend a branch line to Forest Lake to furnish current for lighting and power purposes for that place. This can be done at a reasonable cost, as the resort is located only a mile north of the main line. From the village of Beechwood, two places will in the near future be able to enjoy all the comforts of modern city life as far as lighting and other electrical purposes are concerned. If an agreement is reached the work of extending the line to the aforesaid places, will be done as soon as same has been completed to the "Beechwood Hill".

YOUNG HUSBAND CAUSES TROUBLE BY TOO MUCH TRUST IN PRETTY WIFE

Supreme trust is regarded as being the greatest proof of true love, but it is apt to cause mischief if it is persisted in too far. A prominent lawyer in New York tells a story of a woman who came to him seeking a separation from her husband, to whom she had been wedded less than a year. Knowing that she had almost idolized her husband at the time of the marriage the lawyer inquired carefully into the reasons. "I have him more than ever," said the young wife, sobbing, "but he cares nothing for me. He is interested in nothing I do. Last night I stayed over at a friend's house until nearly midnight, just to see if he didn't care a little bit, and when I came in he never even asked me where I had been." The lawyer was also personally acquainted with the husband, and decided to risk a snub by asking him the reasons. "I have been worried about her," admitted the husband. "She has been away so much, but if I asked her where she had been it might make her think I did not absolutely trust her." The lawyer remarked that a job was ripe for advising the husband to go home and give his wife a scolding for her unexplained absences. Bob Milton, a young artist, loved Inga Sanderson, a model, so much that he never told her he was in love with her. His trust was not sufficient to encompass the fact that he saw her entering a man's apartment, with her arms around the man himself, in the early hours of a morning. The reason for this situation, with the events leading up to it and how Inga and Bob both found happiness, is the story told by Norma Talmadge in "The Woman Gives," which will be the attraction at the Opera House Sunday, April 16.

ENVOYS OF 33 LANDS AT MEET

Premier Facta of Italy Opens Parley of European Nations at Genoa.

MUST FORGET WAR HATREDS

Italian Leader Declares There's No Longer Friends and Enemies, Victors and Vanquished—Lloyd George Evokes Laughter.

Genoa, April 12.—The hatreds and resentments of war must be forgotten here. There are no longer friends and enemies, victors and vanquished; but only men and nations striving in common for the attainment of a lofty ideal.

With these words as the keynote, the greatest conference ever held for the reconstruction of the world's business was opened by Premier Facta of Italy in his address of welcome here.

A salute went for everybody must be the watchword of this conference. We must depart from the old caste system. There can be no distinctions between great powers if we are going to get anywhere in this conference.

For the first time in five years communist Russia was eye to eye with the capitalist Western world across the conference table. Emphasizing the democratic character and the basic equality of all nations, the Premier of Scandinavia and other superior races sat down with the scowling Albanians, and the latter were given the place of honor at the head of the voting list because of the name of their country, begins with the first letter of the alphabet.

Prime Minister Lloyd George of Great Britain proposed that Premier Facta be appointed permanent president of the conference. Louis Barthelemy, head of the French delegation, immediately seconded this proposal, which was approved by acclamation.

Prime Minister Lloyd George evoked applause and continued laughter when he said: "Genoa did America a great service by sending Columbus to discover the new world and she can do America no other great service by helping America to rediscover Europe."

The British premier said he was positive America would come to the aid of Europe if Europe settled its own affairs.

A complete list of the nations and states represented, with the size of their delegations, follows: South Africa, 4; Albania, 4; Austria, 6; Australia, 14; Belgium, 14; Bulgaria, 15; Canada, 2; Czechoslovakia, 20; Denmark, 10; Estonia, 25; Finland, 7; France, 80; Germany, 80; Great Britain, 128; Greece, 22; Ireland, 6; Italy, 400; Latvia, 6; Lithuania, 7; Luxembourg, 4; Norway, 3; New Zealand, 10; Holland, 10; Poland, 40; Portugal, 9; Rumania, 22; Russia, 12; Jugoslavia, 12; San Marino, 15; Spain, 10; Sweden, 10; Switzerland, 8; and Hungary, 7.

BONDS NOT COUNTERFEITS UNVEIL MEMORIAL TO PEARY

Federal Reserve Banks Turning Back to Treasury Duplicate Government Securities. President, Mrs. Harding and Others Attend the Ceremony at Arlington.

Washington, April 12.—Federal reserve banks are turning back to the Treasury department duplicate government bonds printed at the bureau of engraving and printing. This startling disclosure was made when government investigators admitted that numerous instances had come to light where the federal reserve banks had discovered in their vaults bonds of equal face value bearing duplicate numbers. The returned bonds are not forgeries. In appearance, workmanship and signatures they cannot be told apart from the genuine, even by trained agents with years of experience in detecting counterfeits.

Farmer on Bank Board. Washington, April 8.—Favorable report of the senate bill providing for the appointment of a farmer as a member of the federal reserve board was ordered by the house banking committee. The vote was 13 to 8.

May Tie Up Shipping. London, April 8.—A grave possibility is arising of a holdup of shipping due to a deadlock in the dispute over the duties of wireless operators. The companies are requiring them to assist in loading and discharging.

SHUT UP U. S. PRINTERY

To Take Inventory at Plant Where Money Is Made.

Largest Establishment of Its Kind in the World—Action Follows Dismissal of 29 Bureau Chiefs.

Washington, April 12.—Divisions of the bureau of engraving and printing, engaged in the production of bank notes, bonds and postage stamps, was closed Saturday for an indefinite period for the purpose of taking an inventory of the plant from which James L. Winnech and 29 chiefs, superintendents and foremen were removed by presidential order one week ago.

Decision to close at least the principal portions of the big plant, the largest of its kind in the world, was disclosed following a conference between Louis Hill, the newly appointed director, division chiefs of the bureau and treasury officials.

The closing was effected under an order issued by Secretary Mellon of the treasury, under which department the bureau operates.

The purpose of the closing order, as stated by officials, is to enable the taking of an inventory, the repairing of machinery in use almost continuously since the entrance of the United States into the World war, and to allow the transfer department of the bureau to issue new plates such as are used in the printing of the nation's currency.

The inventory, it is said, will be undertaken by treasury accountants and Department of Justice agents. It is also said that during the closing the bureau would be further reorganized or "hardened" as one official put it.

Installation of the new steel plates, it is said, will be for the purpose of preventing counterfeiting of the various bank notes and bonds printed in the plant as the old plates had become so worn that it was found that prints taken from them were comparatively easy to counterfeit.

The bureau employs about 6,000 persons, and it was estimated that about 4,000 of the total would be affected by the closing. The total employees number about 1,500 above the prewar personnel and it was suggested in some quarters that during the suspension reduction to the prewar level would be brought about.

He was arrested upon his arrival here from Washington by Sheriff Nagle and a force of deputies. The general is accused of misappropriating $475,000 in Siberia from the Yourovetta Home and Foreign Trade company, Inc., a bankrupt concern which had offices here.

JURY TELLS DAY HE DID RIGHT

Former Oklahoma Judge Exonerated When He Tells How Beck Died.

MRS. DAY ALSO TESTIFIES

Coroner's Jury Declares a Man Is Justified in Protecting His Wife and Home, Even Though It Results in Slaying.

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 11.—Jenn P. Day, former member of the Oklahoma Supreme court, commissioner, wealthy oil man and Democratic politician, was exonerated by a coroner's jury of the killing of Lieut. Col. Paul Ward Beck, U. S. army aviation officer.

Day shot and killed Beck when he found Mrs. Day struggling, according to the testimony of both the wife and husband, in Colonel Beck's arms early last Tuesday morning. The coroner's jury delivered its verdict after deliberating just 38 minutes.

"We find," the verdict said, "that Paul Ward Beck came to his death at the hands of Jenn P. Day and, from the evidence, we conclude that said Jenn P. Day was justified in the defense of his wife and his home, even though the unfortunate affair resulted in the death of Paul Ward Beck, and we recommend and advise that no charges be filed nor prosecution be instituted against Jenn P. Day."

Mr. and Mrs. Day both expressed their gratitude for the action of the coroner's jury at their home.

"I feel that this verdict has vindicated my honor and has cleared my name," said Mrs. Day. "It was the honest act of an honest jury."

"The jury did their duty," said Judge Day. "They could not have done anything else with the facts in this case. It not only absolves me from blame, but it is vastly more vital, wipes away any possible reflection on Mrs. Day."

Norman Pruitt, Day's attorney, predicted that the coroner's verdict would ring down the curtain on the Day-Beck case.

"Hughes cannot prosecute further and justify himself following this verdict," Pruitt said.

County Attorney Hughes said he would decide definitely later, but he indicated plainly that he would possibly drop the matter.

The stories of the tragedies told by Mr. and Mrs. Day were dramatic.

Neither the former judge nor Mrs. Day was asked to take the stand. After the state had presented evidence from a dozen or more witnesses and apparently built up a case against Day, both volunteered to tell their stories.

"Mr. and Mrs. Day will waive all immunity," Norman Pruitt, their counsel, said. "They wish to tell their stories."

Lieut. Paul Ward Beck, son of Colonel Beck, and the other army men apparently were bitter over the verdict.

"This thing has just started," Lieut. Beck said. "They may think they can whitewash this man, but they can't. We're going through with this thing."

Colonel Beck's body will be shipped to Washington where an army court of inquiry will be officially held.

$525 IN PRIZES FOR THE BEST RHYMES

A new contest is just being started which will interest every woman and girl who reads this paper. Any woman or girl can enter this Contest—anyone can win! All it is necessary to do is to write a 4-line rhyme on Dr. Price's Phosphate Baking Powder, using only the words which appear either on the label of the Dr. Price can (front and back) or on the printed slip which is found in each Dr. Price can.

Isn't that easy? Everyone likes to make rhymes and here is a chance to spend a fascinating hour or two writing rhymes on this popular Baking Powder and perhaps winning a substantial prize for your efforts.

For the rhyme selected as best a prize of $100 will be given; for the second, third and fourth best rhymes prizes of $75, $50 and $25, respectively will be given. And besides these prizes there will be 55 prizes of $5 each for the next 55 best rhymes.

As Dr. Price's Phosphate Baking Powder sells for only 25 cents a 12 oz. can at grocery stores, some rhymes could play up the remarkable economy of this pure and wholesome baking powder which contains no alum.

Write plainly on only one side of a sheet of paper and be sure to give your name and address. Send your rhyme before May 1st to Independence Blvd., Chicago, Ill.—Advertisement.

Peets Laureate. There is no poet laureate of America and no such appointment has ever been made. The first and only state to appoint a poet laureate is Nebraska, which in 1921 declared John G. Nelhart, a native of that state, entitled to that honor.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer.

A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

Not a Debatable Point. The woman was calling on her next-door neighbor, and while seated in the living room the front doorbell gave a sharp ring. As it happened to be the maid's day out, the small daughter of the house answered the ring.

Mary Ellen's shrill treble was a mingling of astonishment and indignation. "My mother engaged! No, ma'am; she's been married for years."

Council Bluffs, Iowa.—"A few years ago after childbirth I could not gain back my strength. I developed quite severe case of woman's trouble, suffered with bearing pains which would be so severe I would have to lie down. I became so weak that all I wanted to do was lie and rest. It seemed that every spark of vitality had left me. I consulted a doctor and he said nothing but an operation would help me, but I would not consent. I had seen Dr. Pierce's medicine advertised, so I once began taking the 'Favorite Prescription' and it was not long until I could eat, so I knew the medicine was doing me good. I took about twelve bottles and it was well worth it to health, without the operation."—Mrs. W. H. Avis, 314 S. 19th St.

THE DEBATE.

Synopsis.—With his grandfather, small Ramsey Milholland is watching the "Decorations Day Parade" in the home town. The old gentleman, a veteran of the Civil war, endeavors to impress the youngster with the significance of the great conflict, and many years afterward the boy was to remember his words with a startling vividness. In the afternoon, a few years after, Ramsey is not distinguished for remarkable ability, though his pronounced dislikes are arithmetic, "recitations" and German. In sharp contrast to Ramsey's backwardness is the precocity of little Dora Youcum, a young lady whom in his bitterness he denigrates as "Teacher's Pet." In high school, where he and Dora are classmates, Ramsey continues to feel that the girl delights to manifest her superiority, and the vindictiveness he generates becomes alarming, culminating in the resolution that some day he will "show" her. At a class picnic, Ramsey is captured and baggage by Miss Rust, the class beauty, and endures the agonies of his first love. Ramsey's parents object to Miss Rust, and she is taken up with Dora Youcum. Ramsey kisses Miss Rust. She marries, Ramsey enters the state university and there is Dora Youcum again.

Concluding his reading, which was oral, the volatile Mitchell made use of his voice in a manner of heathenish boisterousness, and presently reclined upon a lounge to laugh the better. His stricken comrade, meanwhile, recovered so far as to pace the floor. "I'm going to pack up and light out for home," he declared over and over. And even oftener he read and reread the card to make sure of the actuality of that fatal coincidence, "D. Youcum, '18."

"If I could do it," he volunteered. "If I could stand up there and debate one of their darn ole debates in the first place—if I had the gall to even try it, why, my gosh! you don't suppose I'm going to get up there and argue with that girl, do you? That's a hot way to get an education: stand up there and argue with a girl before a couple of hundred people! My gosh!"

"You got to!" his prostrate companion cackled, weakly. "You can't get out of it. You're a goner, ole Buddy!"

"I'll be sick, I'll be sick as a dog! I'll be sick as the sickest dog that ever—"

"No use, ole man. The frat seniors'll be on the job. They'll know whether you're sick or not, and they'll have you there, right on the spot to the minute!"

The prediction was accurate. The too fatherly "frat seniors" did all that Fred said they would, and more. For the honor of the "frat," they coached the desperate Ramsey in the technique of Lumen debate, told him many more things to say than could be said in six minutes, and produced him, despairing, chastity and bedewed, in the large hall of the Lumen society at eight o'clock on Friday evening.

Four other "twelve-minute debates" preceded his and the sound of these, in Ramsey's ears, was the sound of Gabriel pealing on his horn in the early morning of Judgment day. The members of the society sat, three rows deep, along the walls of the room, leaving a clear oblong of green carpet in the center, where were two small desks, twenty feet apart, the positions of the debaters. Upon a platform at the head of the room sat dreadful seniors, the officers of the society, and, upon benches near the platform, the debaters of the evening were aligned. One of the fraternal seniors sat with sweltering Ramsey; and the latter, as his time relentlessly came nearer, made a last miserable squirm.

"Look here, Brother Colburn, I got to get out of here."

"No, you don't, young fellow."

"Yes, I do!" Ramsey whispered, passionately. "Honest, I do. Honest, Brother Colburn, I got to get a drink of water. I got to!"

"No. You can't."

"Honest, Colburn, I got to—"

"Hush!"

Ramsey cast his dilating eyes along the rows of faces, the debaters, but saw but as blur, swimming, yet he was aware (he thought) of a formidable and horrible impassive scrutiny of himself, a glare seeming to pierce through him to the back of the belt round his waist, so that he began to have fearful doubts about that belt, about every fastening and adjustment of his countenance, and many other things jangling together in his consciousness. Over and over he whispered supplicatingly to himself the opening words of the sentence with which a senior had advised him to begin his argument. And as the moment of supreme agony drew close, this whispering became continuous: "In making his first appearance before this honorable membership I feel restrained to say—" where she stood compositely, a slim, pretty figure in white. Members in Ramsey's neighborhood were aware of a brief and hushed commotion, and a fierce whisper, "You can't! You get up there!" And the blanched Ramsey came forth and placed himself at the other desk.

He stood before the silent populace of that morgue, and it seemed to him that his features had forgotten that he was supposed to be their owner and in control of them; he felt that they were slipping all over his face, regardless of his wishes. His head, as a whole, was subject to an agitation not before known by him; it desired to move restlessly in eccentric ways of its own devising; his legs alternately limbered and straightened under no direction but their own; and his hands clutched each other fiercely behind his back; he was not one cohesive person, evidently, but an assembled collection of parts which had relapsed each into its own individuality. In spite of them, he somehow contrived the semblance of a bow toward the chairman and the semblance of another toward Dora, of whom he was but hazily conscious. Then he opened his mouth and, not knowing how he had started his voice going, heard it as if from a distance.

"In making my first appearance before this honorable membership I feel restrained to say—"

He stopped short, and thenceforward shook vis-

bly. After a long pause, he managed to repeat his opening, stopped again, swallowed many times, produced a handkerchief and wiped his face, an act of necessity—then had an inspiration.

"The subject assigned to me," he said, "is resolved that Germany is morally and legally justified in Belgium—Belgium!" This subject was assigned to me to be the subject of this debate." He interrupted himself to gasp pitiously, found breathing difficult, but fattered on again: "This subject is the subject. It is the subject that was assigned to me on a postal card." Then, for a moment or so, he had a miraculous spurt of confidence, and continued, rather rapidly: "I feel constrained to say that the country of Belgium—Belgium, I mean—this country has been constrained by the Imperial German Empire and my subject in this debate is whether it ought to or not, my being the informative, affirmative I mean—that I got to prove that Germany is morally and legally justified. I wish to state that—"

He paused again, hesitatingly, then struggled on. "I have been requested to state that the German Empire—Empire—that it certainly isn't right for those Dutch—Germans, I mean—they haven't got any more business in Belgium than I have myself, but I—I feel constrained to say that I had to accept whatever side of this debate I got on the postal card, and so I am constrained to take the side of the Dutch. I mean the Germans. The Dutch are sometimes called—I mean the Germans are sometimes called Dutch in this country. Well, and so—so, well, the war began last August or about then, anyway, and the German army invaded the Belgian army. After they got there, the invasion began. First, they came around there and then they commenced invading. Well, what I feel constrained—"

He came to the longest of all his pauses here, and the awful gravity of the audience almost suffocated him. "Well," he concluded, "it don't look right to me."

"Four minutes!" the chairman announced, for Ramsey's pauses had worn away a great deal more of this terrible interval than had his eloquence. "Opening statement for the negative: Miss D. Youcum. Four minutes."

As Dora began to speak, Ramsey experienced a little relief, but only a little—about the same amount of relief as that felt by a bridegroom when it is the bride's turn to "respond," not really relief at all, but merely the slight relaxation of a continuing strain. The audience now looked at Ramsey no more than people look at a bridegroom, but he failed to perceive any substantial mitigation of his frightful consciousness. He had not the remotest idea of what he had said in setting forth his case for Germany, and he knew that it was his duty to listen closely to Dora, in order to be able to refute her argument when his two-minute closing speech fell due; but he was conscious of little more than his own condition. His legs had now gone wild beyond all control, and he had to keep shifting his weight from one to the other in order even to hope that their frenzy might escape general attention.

He realized that Dora was speaking rapidly and confidently, and that somewhere in his ill-assembled parts lurked a familiar bit of him that objected to her even more than usual; but she had her own half of her time, at least, before he was able to gather any coherent meaning from what she was saying. Even then he caught only a fragment, here and there, and for the rest—so far as Ramsey was concerned—the Swedish alphabet.

In spite of the rather startling feebleness of her opponent's statement, Dora went at her task as earnestly as if it were to confute some monster of casuistry. "Thus, having demonstrated that all war is wrong," she said, approaching her conclusion, "it is scarcely necessary to point out that whatever the actual circumstances of the invasion, and whatever the status of the case in international law, or by reason of treaty, or the German oath to respect the neutrality of Belgium, which of course was grossly and dishonorably violated—all this, I say, ladies and gentlemen of the Lumen society, since, as I have shown, all war is wrong, the case may be simplified as follows: All war is morally wrong. Quod erat demonstrandum. Germany invaded Belgium. Invasion is war. Germany, therefore, did moral wrong. Upon the legal side, as I began by pointing out, Germany confessed in the retracting the violation of law. Therefore, Germany was justified. In the invasion neither morally nor legally; but was both morally and legally wrong and evil. Ladies and gentlemen of the Lumen society, I await the refutation of my opponent!"

Her opponent appeared to be having enough trouble with his legs, without taking any added cares upon himself in the way of refutations. But the marvelous Dora had calculated the length of her statement with such nicety that the chairman announced "Four minutes," almost upon the instant of her final syllable; and all faces turned once more to the upholder of the affirmative. "Refutation and conclusion by the affirmative," said the chairman. "Mr. R. Milholland. Two minutes."

Therewith, Ramsey coughed as long as he could cough, and when he felt that no more should be done in this way, he wiped his face—again an act of necessity—and quaveringly began: "Gentlemen and ladies, or ladies and gentlemen, in making the refutation of my opponent, I feel that—I feel that hardly anything more ought to be said."

He paused, looked helplessly at his uncontrollable legs, and resumed: "I am supposed to make the refutation of my opponent, and I feel that I ought to say quite a deal more. In the first place, I feel that the invasion has taken place. I am supposed—anyhow I got a postal card that I am supposed to be here tonight. Well, in talking over this matter with a couple of seniors, they told me I was supposed to claim this invasion was morally and legally all right. Well—" Here, by some chance, the recollection of a word of Dora's flickered into his chaotic mind, and he had a brighter moment. "My opponent said she proved all war is wrong—or something like that, anyhow. She said she proved it was wrong to fight, no matter what. Well, if she wasn't a girl, anybody that wanted to get her to fight could probably do it." He did not add that he would be the person to make the experiment (if Dora weren't a girl), nor did he thought enter his mind until an hour or so later. "Well," he added, "I suppose there is little more to be said."

EVERYDAY GOOD THINGS

A good dish of beans may be prepared in a short time if the following is used:

Baked Beans.—Wash and soak a pound of lima beans over night. In the morning put them on in plenty of water and simmer until tender; then drain and put into a bean pot or baking dish with salt, pepper, and one-fourth of a pound of bacon which has been put through the meat grinder, a tablespoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of molasses and one tablespoonful of grated onion. Add enough water to come to the top of the beans and bake until a golden brown.

Lemon Butter for Tart.—Put over one cupful of water in a saucepan; when boiling hot add one tablespoonful of flour mixed with a little cold water to pour, cook until smooth, then boil ten minutes. Add an egg which has been beaten with one-half cupful of sugar and a little salt. Bring to the boiling point, add the juice from a lemon finely grated and three tablespoonfuls of juice. Remove at once from the heat and beat two minutes. When cold it is ready to fill tart shells.

Crinkle Cakes.—Work one-half cupful of almond paste until smooth, add to it one cupful of washed butter and when creamy add slowly three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, one egg, one tablespoonful of mixed flavoring, one teaspoonful of lemon, one-half teaspoonful of almond and the rest of vanilla. Add two and one-half cupfuls of flour and mix well; force this mixture through a pastry bag and a rose tube and bake in a moderate oven.

Corn Bread.—Take one cupful each of yellow cornmeal, white flour and sour cream, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of soda and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Mix all the dry ingredients, add the cream in which the soda has been stirred. Mix all together, adding one tablespoonful of sugar. Beat well and spread in a sheet iron baking pan and bake in a slow oven for an hour.

Mixed Lamb Sandwiches.—Take two cupfuls of lean cooked lamb chopped, add two tablespoonfuls of capers ground with the meat, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of paprika, one-half teaspoonful of dry mustard and one teaspoonful of salt. Mix well and spread on slices of bran or whole wheat bread which has been buttered.

Raisin Drop Cakes.—Take one-third of a cupful of shortening, two eggs, one cupful of raisins, one cupful of sugar, one teaspoonful of vanilla, one cupful of milk, two and one-half teaspoonfuls of baking powder, two cupfuls of corn flour and a little salt. Mix and chill, drop by spoonfuls on baking sheet and bake in hot oven.

Frosting.—Take three cupfuls of confectioner's sugar, one whole egg, three tablespoonfuls of cream. Add the sugar to the other ingredients a little at a time. Spread on the cookies when nearly cold.

THE POPPIES

"Hello, Red Poppy," said the Pink Poppy, "and how are you?"

"Handsome," said the Red Poppy, "and feeling very gay and happy, for I am going to be so beautiful while I am here. I am not going to waste my time in giving my sweetness to the air, and I'm not going to bother about rare perfume, I'm simply going to be beautiful."

"That is all I am going to be," said the Pink Poppy. "I do not care to be anything else but beautiful."

"The way I feel about it," said the White Poppy. "I am wearing this lovely simple frock, but you know how simple things are very beautiful and fine."

"We know that," said the other poppies.

Then all the poppies began nodding their heads and talking to each other and every one agreed with the other.

"Let us have a dance," said Red Poppy.

"Oh, do let us have one," said Pink Poppy.

"I think it would be the very thing," said White Poppy.

So all of the other poppies said that they agreed, too.

"We will have to have some music," said Red Poppy.

"We will have to have some, it is quite true," said White Poppy.

"Without music we couldn't dance," said Pink Poppy.

"What will we have for music?" asked Red Poppy.

"What will we, indeed?" asked White Poppy.

"I'm sure I don't know, but I wish I did," said Pink Poppy.

A few minutes went by and then Pink Poppy said, "I know."

"What?" asked Red Poppy.

"Something," said Pink Poppy.

"We hope it is about the music we might have," said White Poppy.

"That is what we all hope," said the other poppies.

"It is," said Pink Poppy. "It is about the music we can have for our dance."

"Good," said Red Poppy.

"How bright you are," said White Poppy.

"Tell it to us, tell us what you know about music for our dance," said all the poppies.

"I thought of asking the Winds to play on their flutes and their clarinets and their horns."

"Then I thought of asking the Breeze Brothers to whistle some of their tunes."

"I thought of asking the birds to sing and of asking the Sun to keep

POTATO COOKERY

Potatoes are a common food upon our tables but in the average home are not prepared in the most interesting way to lend variety to the food.

Potato Soup.—Boil four medium sized potatoes in salted water until soft, then put them through a flour. Slice one small onion and put it in a quart of milk to scald. Remove the onion and add the milk to the mashed potato. Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, add two tablespoonfuls of flour, cook for two minutes, add to the milk with salt and pepper to taste, boil up one minute and serve sprinkled with parsley.

Stuffed Potatoes.—Take six medium-sized long potatoes, bake until done. Cut a slice from the side of each, scoop out the potato in a shallow way, blend, then add the whites of two eggs beaten until stiff. Refill the skins and bake five to ten minutes in a hot oven. The potato may be sprinkled with cheese, paprika, or parsley before serving.

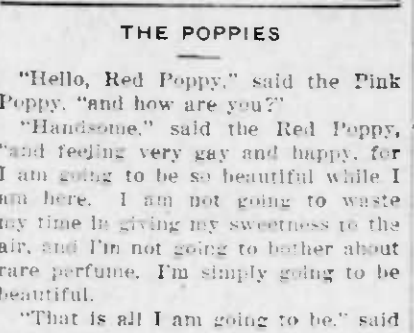

Franconia Potatoes.—Peel potatoes and cut into quarters, parboil ten minutes, drain and place around the roast an hour before serving time. Baste often to give the potatoes a rich brown color.

Plain boiled potatoes, if sliced and carefully fried in butter, keeping the slices whole, is a most attractive manner of serving them.

Pokeweed, common in the South and Middle states, may be served cooked in bunches as one does asparagus, or a soup prepared as any cream soup, will make a most dainty dish.

Self-Supporting.
An attorney for Los Angeles advertised for a chauffeur. Some twenty-odd responded and were being questioned as to qualifications, efficiency and whether married or single. Finally, turning to a negro chap, he said: "How about you, George; are you married?"
"Now-sir, boss, now-sir. Ah makes mah own livin'."—From Judge.

A man's tendency to give advice in inverse ratio to his ability to find his own business.

---and we are a healthy, happy family now

—Louis Gingras

TINGLING with abundant energy, appetites hearty, nerves strong and steady and their faces radiant with the glow of perfect health, the entire family of Louis Gingras, 9 Harrison Ave., Providence, R. I., are an eloquent tribute to the powers of Tanlac, the greatest family medicine the world has ever known.

"I've put Tanlac to the test four times right in my own family and it hasn't failed me once," declared Mr. Gingras. "My wife, my son and my daughter, as well as myself, have all been built up from a half-sick, run-down, worn-out set of people into a healthy, happy family brimful of new life and energy."

And the experience of this family is only typical of thousands of others whose statements are on file in the Tanlac offices. Hardly a day passes that does not bring scores of such messages of praise from every part of the United States and Canada from families where mother, father, son and daughter have all found health, contentment and the joys of living through simply taking a course of Tanlac.

Take, for instance, the case of John Widner, 1571 Roosevelt Ave., Los Angeles, Calif., who says: "My wife, myself and little boy are now as healthy, happy family as you will ever see—and it's all due to Tanlac."

Or that of Mrs. John Marquis and her family of sixteen living in Manchester, N. H., at 292 Belmont St. She says: "Tanlac has been the only medicine used in our house for two years and it has kept every one of the sixteen here in the best of health."

In Chicago, Frank L. Richards, of 441 South Wood St., writes: "We will never be without Tanlac in our house after the remarkable way it has done for my wife, my son and myself to whom we are the very picture of our health."

time and to let us know when the day was over, for we do not want our hall to last longer. What do you think of these ideas?"

"They're gorgeous," said Red Poppy.

"They're quite perfect," said White Poppy.

So the poppies, all as happy and excited as could be, began to ask the Wind and the Breeze Brothers and the Sun and the birds to do as Pink Poppy had suggested. And the Wind and the Breeze Brothers and the Sun and the birds all agreed.

What music the poppies had for their dance. And they waved their heads and danced about on their stems which were the only ball-rooms they had and thought it was the loveliest dance that had ever been given.

All of the poppies danced, every one of them.

"We don't care if our petals are all off before tomorrow. We use to be beautiful and happy for a short time. That is what we care for," they said.

"We like to be gay and handsome and admired, but we don't care about blossoming for any length of time. In fact we told Mr. Sun to let us know when the day was over and then he could tell the Wind to play harder than ever and blow many of us off and that the Breeze Brothers then could play tag with us."

"But oh, what a dance we're having. What a lovely dance!"

And some people who saw the poppies waving their bright heads in the wind said:

"How gay and pretty those poppies look!"

But the people didn't know that the poppies were having a ball!

He was learning his ABC's at fifteen months!

THAT the well-nourished, healthy child is mentally alert and forward, has been the contention of child experts for years. Mrs. Sparr has had this experience with her young son, Villiar, now two and a half years old.

Eagle Brand Milk has always been Villiar's food. He has had constant good health all of his short life—"full of vim and pep"—his mother calls it. And he has been strong and well developed too. He walked at ten months, and at fifteen Mrs. Sparr began teaching him his ABC's. He "has been intelligent," she says, and "he learns exceedingly fast." Today at the age of two and a half he can use a tooth brush to perfection!

Of course, Mrs. Sparr is an unusually thoughtful mother and has given her child the best of care. But she insists that Eagle Brand deserves the credit for his splendid vigor.

If you wish your baby to get a fine start in life, don't experiment with his food. Thousands of other mothers have had Mrs. Sparr's experience. For Eagle Brand has been the accepted baby food for generations. Every day letters come in from grateful mothers testifying to its benefits. Doctors recommend it in difficult feeding cases—because of its digestibility.

Eagle Brand is always pure and safe, always uniform, on sale everywhere. It is a special

NEGROES WERE IN FLORIDA IN 1528

Two Africans Were Members of Narvaez' Expedition of That Year, According to History.

The first record of negro slaves within the present boundaries of the United States is found in an account of the Spanish expedition of Narvaez to Florida in 1528, which included two negroes. But the negro was not in Florida to stay until 1563, when a few Negroes, colonists. It landed with Memede's colonists. It is believed the Spaniards had negroes with them in their unfortunate colony of San Miguel de Guadalupe in 1526, which J. J. Shea locates in the neighborhood of Jamestown, Va. H. H. Bancroft, in his "Arizona and New Mexico," makes it clear the negro was in some of the early exploration and missionary parties to that territory. Doubtless the negroes continued in the province until the Spaniards were driven out in 1569. ("Introduction of Negroes into the United States," by C. A. Stankely, in Magazine of American History, November, 1891).

Treasurer, owned by the earl of Warwick, and a Dutch vessel brought slaves to Jamestown in 1619. The Treasurer is supposed to be the first slaver fitted out in America. The first American-bull slaver was the ship De Witt, a vessel of 120 tons, built at Marblehead in 1638. ("The American Slave Trade," by J. B. Spears.)

The Horse in Painting.
No real interest is taken in the horse until Van Dyke's time, he and Rubens doing more for it than all the previous painters put together. Rubens was a good rider, and rode nearly every day.—Ruskin.

Praise of the Pitiful.
There is no surer way of steadfast peace in this world than the active exercise of pity; no happier temper of mind and body than the lowly watching to see if we can lessen any misery that is around us.—Francis Paget.

Dependability An Essential Element

Dependability means the possession of those qualities that make you able to depend upon a man—or a bank. It can't be measured in money, or in promises. It's the day-in and day-out testing of it that determines its value to you. We ask you to put this Bank's dependability to the most severe test. EASTER FLOWERS

Dear blossoms, once again you come
Your story to repeat,
Too often, dears, you cannot bring
The Easter message sweet,
Of beauty springing ever new
From loss, and grief, and gloom;
Of joyful resurrection from
The darkness of the tomb

Easter in Switzerland

To those who have journeyed in Switzerland the word "Easter" conjures far more than a vision of towering peaks or snow-clad mountain ranges shining in an eternity of snows, and of lakes as blue as lapis lazuli, framed by emerald vineyards climbing up Alpine meadows. It recalls to one vividly the popular faces and national dances of the people which bring joy to their hearts after the long, hard Alpine winter is past.

Despite the shadow of their mountains and their eternal struggle with nature in the form of disastrous avalanches or similar catastrophes, the Swiss are a buoyant people and supply themselves to marrying with the same zest they display in their work. Next to August 1, when they celebrate the birth of their confederate, much as we do our Fourth of July, to which it is equivalent, Easter is looked forward to more than any other festival of the year.

From the time the first blossom appears on the meadows preparations for Easter are in progress in every isolated peasant home and in every hamlet in the haulets and towns meeting at the foot of the mountains. One of these Swiss homes is typical of all the rest. If it is old enough it has acquired the rich sepia and burnt sienna tones characteristic of the country, and frequently on its front walls is a motto or a legend in black gothic letters that proclaims, to all who behold, the sentiments of those who dwell therein, or it tells the year in which the owner caused it to be built by what master-builder.

In addition to the garden space about it there is a pear tree trained up in front against the balcony, while the ledges of the two-story balconies are adorned with potted plants blooming profusely. It is in just such a comfortable peasant home that Vrenell, the eighteen-year-old daughter, can be pictured in the act of announcing that she has found the first "Alpenrose," as the little Alpine rose is called.

Revels of Easter. Instantly there is great excitement in the family circle, and all its gather round her to view the rich red blossoms.

"Now comes Easter!" cries the grandmother excitedly. "Behold our resurrection flower!" she adds reverently, leaving her chimney corner for the first time in months. She has had a busy time through the hard Alpine winter knitting woollen stockings, and there are many pairs of feet to provide for.

"Mother, aren't you glad?" asks Vrenell. Mother smiles and sighs good naturedly as she thinks of the busy days ahead, not only for Easter, but the preparation for Vrenell's wedding soon thereafter, judging by the attentions of one Jean.

The boys are already dancing a jig with their smaller brothers and sisters—Kathli, Jaggi, Babeli and Seppi—while Vrenell with shining eyes takes her place at her spinning wheel to weave more treasures for her beloved "hope chest."

Grandmother, mother and Vrenell ransack all the boxes and trunks in the attic for bits of colored fabrics to dye the children's Easter eggs which will figure so conspicuously in the egg contest on the last school day before Easter. But at last they are all colored, dozens of them, and the glad day arrives. It is an exciting event for old as well as young, and they all go to the school house to witness it. Even father leaves his cows and sheep long enough to indulge in this pleasure.

Few Eggs "Go the Limit." The teacher stands the children in a row and then divides them into two rows. Each child has a basket of eggs. At last the fateful moment arrives. Little hearts beat pit-a-pat as the opponent's egg is smartly tapped against the one held aloft. Aias! There is an ominous crack which proclaims the rainbow-hued egg as the weaker. Fortunately, there is always one egg in the multitude that remains intact despite the vicious raps and taps, and the match-winner naturally captures all the others. Old and young are supremely happy.

That evening just after dusk there is enacted a pretty little Easter tableau they have been anticipating. Jean has been absent for more than 24 hours, and they suspect that he has gone up the mountains with some of the other Easter swains to find his chiltblenne or courting flower. Behind the easement of her room Vrenell awaits his arrival with a beating heart. Suddenly she hears the soft yodeling of a well loved voice. She discreetly remains in the background, however, until the shadow on the balcony passes, then she throws open the window and gathers from the sill the precious star-shaped Edelweiss bloom, trembling a bit still as she thinks of the dizzy heights he hazarded to obtain them for her. Well she knows that they symbolize love through death and eternity, and she knows, too, that not far distant in the shadow of the pine tree her Jean has had her answer in that she has designed to gather them to her breast. She yodels her welcome, whereupon he dashes forward with all the impetuosity of the Swiss lover.

Formal Sign of Engagement. In addition to the courting flower Jean has planted under her window a young tree which he has gaily decked with ribbons and blossoms. Vrenell is now engaged. She invites Jean in. The family crowd round the young pair with congratulations, greatly impressed by all Jean's signs of devotion. They all sit round in the "three yoke hour" drinking from their jugs of milk and eating Vrenell's cakes.

"It was not thus with another maiden," reminds the father. "I knew her and her lover well. She was wicked and sent him up so high a cliff that he was dashed to death before he ever found his chiltblenne!"

"Nor yet like the puppet hung in the window of Nardh when I was young," says mother, "because she held her head too high, looking for a match outside our village."

Father looks at the tall grand-father's clock, the same one that mother's father used to look at when he stayed too long. He does not mean to be impolite, but tomorrow will be Easter market day and they must all get an early start for Lucerne. Just a few hours of sleep will be theirs, then the candles will begin to flicker throughout the valley and further up the Alpine meadows. Jean departs, for he is to join them on the morrow.

Grandmother and mother remain at home, for their day of going a-larking is past. They must live in their memories aside from the weekly church service and the fetes of their hamlet. Women are not spoiled by their men folk in Switzerland—after they are married. There are cows, pigs, sheep, chickens and usually goats to feed; cooking, washing, ironing and mending to be done; spading, gardening, planting, hoeing and weeding, and invariably embroidering and weaving to eke out the family exchequer.

EASTER IN THE HOLY CITY

When the Nations of the Earth Turn to the Sacred Springs as to a Common Home.

Easter, the most extensively observed of all Christian celebrations, may be said to have had its true origin previous to any authentic history of mankind. True enough, it is kept in commemoration of the resurrection of Christ, and is the most elaborately celebrated at Jerusalem, around which centers much of the history of the life, teachings, death and resurrection of the Savior. Year by year many nations of the earth go up to this ancient city. All turn to the sacred shrines as a common home, there to celebrate the ceremonies of holy week.

In the Church of the Holy Sepulcher there is a spot invariably pointed out by the guides as the center of the world. This the devout people who make their yearly pilgrimages believe implicitly to be the exact spot, for Jerusalem is the center of the religious world, and for Christians of every description the Church of the Holy Sepulcher is the center of interest.

The rites of holy week are presided over by a patriarch, who is the recognized master of ceremonies. He appears in gorgeous robe with diamond-set cross and iron upon his breast, and bowed crown of gold upon his head. The whole scene of the gospel story is portrayed with ceremonies during the week. One remarkable ceremony is that of the holy fire, which takes place on Saturday. It is claimed by the patriarchs that fire comes down from heaven on that day to light their lamps, and if extinguished they will be immediately rekindled.

Services of the week close with Easter Mass, in the Church of the Holy Sepulcher, beginning at midnight. Easter eve and extending well toward the dawn. At the sound of bells announcing the close of the service the pilgrims go out into the fresh morning air to watch the coming of Easter day and dream of the beauties and mysteries of religion as it has come to them through crude teachings and ancient superstitions of the eastern churches.

Season's Special Significance.

To the Christian the special significance of Easter lies in its triumphant assertion of the fact of immortality. Not the impersonal, unconscious merging of the individual in impassive humanity which Buddhism teaches; not the mere prolongation of physical and sensual life which the Koran promises, but the true immortality of the spirit, that nobler part of man which distinguishes him infallibly from the rest of creation.

A hope, a trust, a confidence, even in the future life is common to all races of men. It is no reproach, therefore, that our Easter day has been identified with the old pagan festival of returning spring and resurrected life.

liberally misrepresented. But there are other things that reap no reward now because they lie in another sphere. Some day without limitations and with divinely clarified vision he will see the reasons for things and reap what he has sown.

The Abundant Grace. For all things are for your sakes, that the abundant grace might through the thanksgiving of many redound to the glory of God.—II Corinthians 4:15.

Suppose everybody would recognize the fact that there's no gain but much loss in keeping up hostilities with the stomach!

Suppose the ancient aggravation of improper food on indignant digestive organs should be settled with guarantees of sensible diet and tranquil digestion!

The saving would be beyond all possibility of counting.

Yet millions go on declaring war on the stomach and accepting war in return—loading up on starchy, heavy, unbalanced and highly-seasoned food at breakfast or lunch—and wondering why comfort, happiness and efficiency are out of reach.

A Distinct Benefit. "The world conference will result in many benefits," remarked the observer. "True," rejoined Senator Sorghum; "and one of the most important of them lies in the fact that a number of gentlemen from abroad were detained long enough to get actual information before going home and writing their impressions of America."

HAIR NETS AND ARMENIANS MADE POOR RENT COLLECTOR HAD TO HAVE CONSERVATORY

Interesting Comparison Between Cost of the Former and the Clothing of the Latter.

The hair net millady wears would clothe several orphan children in Armenia for more than six months. That is, the cost of them would. Even Armenian orphans are sometimes more modest than millady.

Experts have figured that $1.50 will completely attire in unbleached muslin garments a child of the Far East relief orphanages of the Transcaucasian famine zones for six months. And experts also figure that millady's bill for hair nets during a like period would be in considerable excess of that amount, depending upon—well, upon several things. Hair nets are of uncertain durability under any circumstances. And millady is not always over cautious. Even an expert hesitates to hazard some guesses.

The Near East relief has just purchased 300,000 yards of unbleached muslin for summer garments for its wards in Transcaucasia. Where is there a bill-madded household head uncallant enough to remark that a country full of orphans is not the greatest liability in the world?—Chicago Evening Post.

Thinkers, not tinkers, get the most from their machinery. A self-conqueror is a man who never gets mad on a street car.

Indianapolis Man Evidently Too Good-Natured to Succeed in That Line of Business.

Bachelor Joe Stokes, the druggist, never gets peace from his story-telling friends.

Joe owns some rental property in one of the industrial districts. Things have been a bit slow in industry lately and Joe has had trouble collecting his rents. His real estate broker constantly was returning word that he could not collect.

"I'll go out and collect it myself," Mr. Stokes said, a bit preciously—that is, if Joe ever gets that way.

Anyhow, a day or two later Joe started out on a rental collection tour. Late that afternoon he returned to his drug store. An unusual little smile was working at the corners of Joe's mouth.

"Any luck?" one of the clerks inquired.

"Any luck? Boy, you're crazy! Instead of paying me, they borrowed money from me everywhere I went!"—Indianapolis News.

Somehow, the average man doesn't feel called upon to worry over the loss of his neighbor's money.

The girl with the dreamy eyes is not apt to put men to sleep.

Most men who don't would be glad to pay a large income tax.

Charles M. Schwab said at a reception in New York: "The world is hankering after disarmament and universal peace as the househunter hankered after a conservatory."

"A househunter was looking for a cheap, smallish house with a large conservatory. The agent showed him a number of houses, but as they all lacked conservatories the hunter turned them down. Finally the agent said in a disgusted tone: "Of course I thought your conservatory idea was just a whim. A cheap nine-room house with a conservatory! Why, man, it ain't to be found. What's the reason you're so crazy after a conservatory, anyhow?"

"Well, confidentially," said the househunter, "it's like this. Wife and I have got six daughters, and all six have had young fellows kind of sparkin' round 'em for a long, long time; so what we need, you see, is a conservatory. The girls want somewhere to do the ripenin' off in."

No Doubt. "Put and take isn't always a gamble. It's sometimes a sure thing. When you put more effort into your business you'll take more profit out of it."—The Kodak Salesman.

When Will There Be A Disarmament of Dining Tables? Suppose everybody would recognize the fact that there's no gain but much loss in keeping up hostilities with the stomach! Suppose the ancient aggravation of improper food on indignant digestive organs should be settled with guarantees of sensible diet and tranquil digestion! The saving would be beyond all possibility of counting. Yet millions go on declaring war on the stomach and accepting war in return—loading up on starchy, heavy, unbalanced and highly-seasoned food at breakfast or lunch—and wondering why comfort, happiness and efficiency are out of reach. The restaurant that advertises home cooking is not appealing to the man whose wife's culinary talents are confined to operating a can opener. A lot of men are sure they could make their household budget go if it did not take so much money to keep the car going.

George's Future Home. She was one of the richest widows in Washington and owned a magnificent house. Therefore the marine considered himself very fortunate when he won her heart.

They sat side by side in the Honeysuckle house at Quantico, while the leather necks and lassies swayed to the music of the latest waltz.

Finally she murmured: "George, dear, will I always have as fine a home as I've got now?"

George looked worried. "Why, you see, things of mine, are you?" he asked.—The Leatherneck.

THE COTTAGE GARDENER

FLOWERS AND VINES BEAUTIFY THE COTTAGE

Posies and Clinging Green Afford an Air of Refinement and Pride in the Home. The Variety of Easily Grown Flowers is Unlimited and Majority Are Excellent Producers.

TO HAVE POSIES ADORN THE HOME

Variety in Garden Annuals Will Assure Choice Blossoms Throughout Season.

MANY WILL SEED THEMSELVES

When Once Established Numerous Splendid Flowers Will Grow Year After Year—Endless Combinations Are Possible.

Sufficient variety in planting the garden annuals will assure cut flowers all summer, suggests the United States Department of Agriculture. There are so many different garden flowers that are easy to raise, that almost endless combinations may be selected.

One would surely want an abundance of blue cornflowers, sometimes called "bachelor's buttons," "ragged sailor," "ragged robin," or a variety of other names. When placed in water after cutting, the flowers increase in size. The seeds of these annuals should be sown in the fall or in the spring from the time the ground is fit to work until the last of May in the North and the last of June in the South. They may be started earlier under glass. The young plants should be thinned to 4 to 6 inches apart. They thrive well on all moderately rich garden soils. When once established they will usually reseed themselves year after year.

Scabiosa, often called mourning bride, pin-cushion flower, and sweet scabiosa, is an easily grown old-fashioned half-hardy annual that is very attractive and satisfactory both for cutting and for borders and beds. The flowers, which vary from white through rose, crimson and blue to almost black, are borne on long stems and keep a long time either on the plant or when cut. The seed should be sown in the open ground after danger from hard frost is past and the plants will bloom in about 12 weeks. There are also hardy perennial kinds.

The Popular Zinnia. The home garden is not complete without zinnias, sometimes called "youth-and-old-age." They are easily grown from seed sown in the open ground. When sown as soon as the ground is fit to work, the plants will bloom abundantly and continuously through the entire season. Of late great improvements have been wrought both in the color and form of the flower. Their colors are white, yellow, orange, pink, rose and scarlet.

To secure large flowers and a profusion of bloom the plants must be given ample room for full development as well as an abundant supply of food. Strong rich soils suit them. If the seeds are sown in a dwelling house or in a hothead and the young plants are pricked out once or twice before being placed in their permanent situations more satisfactory results will be secured than from outdoor sown seeds, unless equal care in thinning or transplanting is given. The plants can be used for groups, beds, borders, garden lines and summer hedges. Their average height is 2 1/2 feet, ranging from 2 to 3 feet.

There are two forms of "baby's breath" of which the perennial is sometimes considered best, but the annual type may be used with good effect for combining with other cut flowers. It is sown in the open ground as soon as freezing weather is past.

For Fall Blossoms. The China aster is certainly one of the most satisfactory of the annual flowering plants. Its habit of growth adapts the China aster to close planting for cut bloom, for window boxes and also for bedding. It should not be confused with the attractive native, hardy perennial asters.

Plants from seed sown in the open ground in May and supplied sufficient moisture bloom abundantly in September and October, when the flowers are seen at their best. For July and August gust blooms, the seeds should be sown in March or April. When frosts occur during this season the planting will need to be done in a coldframe, a spent hotbed or in pots or boxes in a living room. Cover the seed about half an inch deep with rich light soil, and when the plants have three or four leaves transfer them to thumb pots or to other boxes, setting the plants about two inches apart.

After all danger of frost is past transplant the plants so treated to their permanent home, where they should stand about eighteen inches apart each way in well-prepared beds. Fresh manure or manure used in too large quantities sometimes proves injurious to them.

In the galliardias, or blanket flowers, are found both annual and perennial plants of easiest culture, offering a wide selection of varieties and a profusion of bloom over a long period. The blooming period begins early and continues late in the autumn. These are plants well adapted to mixed borders and are very satisfactory as cut flowers. The stems are of good length, carrying the orange and crimson flowers well, while the cut flowers keep fresh for a long time when placed in water. The perennial types are often preferred.

LITTLE WRENS DO GOOD WORK

Birds Should Be Encouraged to Make Their Home Near the Back Yard Garden.

Wrens are among the most valuable of the many insect-eating birds. These little invaders of the worm family scout hither and thither in such a lively fashion that they can hardly be detected—but they are very busy, and worms of all kinds, especially the worms that devour vegetables, are their choice morsels.

Two or three wren boxes about the back yard garden will prove a good investment. Only a little encouragement is necessary to induce the wrens to build. Give them a little house with a three-fourths inch opening, and away from cats, and they will be with you regularly every season. Other birds are just as anxious to help you, despite the fact that some wish to be rewarded later in the season when the cherries and berries ripen.

WATERMELONS

The cultivation of the watermelon is the same as for the cucumber and muskmelon except that the plants require more space. Plant watermelon seed in rows eight to ten feet apart and thin to single plants three feet apart, or plant in hills eight to ten feet apart each way.

HOW TWO WOMEN ESCAPED OPERATIONS

Doctor Advised Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Happy Results in Both Cases

St. Joseph, Missouri.—"Both of my sides sweeled and hurt me so that I could not move or do any of my work. There was heavy pressure and pains through my lower organs and the doctor told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for these troubles. He said I had this one chance, and if the Vegetable Compound did not help me nothing but an operation would. After taking several bottles I felt it was helping me and now I am able to do my own work. If my testimonial will help others I shall be glad for them to read it and hope your Vegetable Compound will do them as much good as it did me."—Mrs. Wm. LOCKMAN, 513 N. 4th St., St. Joseph, Mo.

Pinkham's Blood Medicine, also Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills and Wash and the capsules and prescription recommended. I am doing all my work and have gained twenty pounds. I am taking the medicines still, but I feel fine. You have my permission to use this letter for the good of others."—Mrs. MARY MARSH, Hamilton Ave., White Plains, N. Y.

White Plains, N. Y.—"I had such a pain that I could hardly walk and the doctor said that I needed an operation. I was sick for a year before I started taking your medicine and I could not work. I saw your advertisement in a little book and that is how I came to take Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine. I have been taking the Vegetable Compound and Lydia E.

When disturbing ailments first appear, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve the present distress and prevent more serious troubles. Many letters have been received from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after operations have been advised by attending physicians.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

Catch as Catch Can. "Don't rush away, old man." "I must. My wife is sitting up and if I miss the last train I shall catch it, but if I catch it I shall miss it; that is, what I would catch if I didn't catch it, therefore I don't want to miss it because I don't want to catch it. Catch on?"

Important to Mothers. Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, that famous old remedy for infants and children, and see that it bears the Signature of Dr. J. C. Fletcher In Use for Over 30 Years. Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria

One Man Not Henecked. "Does your husband ever take your advice?" "Only as a joke." "Who is the man who catches at the right time and lets go at the psychological moment."

Cucumber's History. A strange recipe was once given for the use of cucumbers. It stated, peel off the cucumber, slice it, pepper it, put vinegar to it, and then throw it out of the window. It is, of course, difficult to account for tastes; but this rather suggests advice prompted by an enfeebled digestion. The cucumber has for centuries had a place in the world's dietary table. We have biblical authority for the statement that when the Israelites complained to Moses, he said: "We remember the fish which we did eat in Egypt; the cucumber and the melons." There may be imaginative minds who will see here a link with that popular English dish of today, salmon and cucumber.—Chicago Journal.

LUNCHEON OR SANDWICH ROLLS

4 cups flour 1 tablespoon salt 6 teaspoons Dr. Price's Baking Powder 1 tablespoon shortening 1 1/2 cups milk

Sift together flour, salt and baking powder; rub in shortening; add milk, and mix with spoon to smooth dough easy to handle on floured board. Turn out dough; knead quickly a few times to impart smoothness; divide into small pieces; form each by hand into short, rather thick tapering rolls; place on greased pans and allow to stand in warm place 15 to 20 minutes; brush with milk. Bake in very hot oven. When almost baked brush again with melted butter. Bake 10 minutes longer and serve hot. If a glazed finish is desired, before taking from oven brush over with yolk of egg which has been mixed with a little cold water.

These rolls make excellent sandwiches, using for fillings either lettuce and mayonnaise, sliced or chopped ham, chopped seasoned cucumbers, egg and mayonnaise with a very little chopped onion and parsley, or other filling desired.

Dr. Price's Baking Powder is guaranteed to contain no alum. It is the most wholesome low-priced baking powder you can buy!

The McClaren "Mileage Strip"
what it is and what it means to you

A WIDE, continuous strip of solid rubber running through the center of the tread and around the entire tire—that is the well known McClaren "Mileage Strip."

The greatest wear on any tire is in the exact center of the tread. It is at this point that the tread wears fastest, as it comes in full contact with the road and receives all shocks. This is why the McClaren "Mileage Strip" was designed, and is embodied in all McClaren Tires.

In the Autocrat Cord or the Allroad Fabric this "Mileage Strip" bears the load—prolongs the life of the tire and gives greater mileage.

Come in and let us show this construction of the McClaren Tire in detail—let us show you how the "Mileage Strip" makes both the Autocrat Cord and Allroad Fabric leaders of their class, in extra long life and extra mileage.

Abundant vitamin now contained in small yeast tablet

Yeast Foam Tablets are from 4 to 5 times as concentrated as the ordinary baking yeast. The necessary vitamin potency, therefore, is contained in a much smaller dose.

"CONGRATULATE YOU," writes a well-known physician, "on your new therapeutic yeast. I am sure it will be welcomed by the medical profession and by thousands of people who dislike eating such large quantities of fermentative baking yeast—as well as by countless others who sought in vain for any appreciable tonic benefits in many drug-laden and untested 'vitamin' preparations."

This yeast supplies what modern foods lack

Yeast Foam Tablets correct a serious deficiency in present day diet by supplying the essential vitamin which is found in many raw foods but which is completely eliminated, in many cases, by the time these same foods reach our table.

This vitamin is necessary to digestion and the conversion of foods into healthy tissue and bodily vigor.

Without sufficient quantity of vitamin your body goes sick and you are only too aware of it in such signs as loss of appetite, failing strength and endurance, nervousness, slow skin and other definite signals of vitamin starvation.

Yeast richest source of vitamin

In the yeast plant is an abundant store of this indispensable vitamin and in Yeast

Foam Tablets there is nothing but pure whole yeast—millions of these tiny plants being concentrated in each tablet.

The vitamin potency of this new yeast is therefore high and, consequently, its tonic and reconstructive properties are most unusual.

Yeast Foam Tablets are made by the world's largest manufacturers of dry yeast, the makers for 45 years of the famous baking yeasts, Yeast Foam and Magic Yeast.

They are the result of two years of experiment conducted under the guidance of some of the country's leading medical scientists. Recommended by physicians and sold by druggists everywhere.

Extraordinary advantages of Yeast Foam Tablets

The only pure, whole yeast in easy-to-take tablet form.

They contain no drugs or other ingredients. They do not form gas nor cause belching.

They are the only pure, whole yeast suitable for children; they do not cause fermentation.

Each lot is tested to insure high and uniform vitamin potency.
