

Get More Out of Your Clothes

Some men buy clothing only as a "necessity"; something to cover them, that's about all they look for; that's about all they get. They miss the biggest and most important things good clothes can give; the personal satisfaction you enjoy in getting good style; the pride one feels in fine fabrics and expert tailoring. These are some of the points we cover—in Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes.

Because his folks would never let him go near the water and for the same reason many a boy or girl will never study music—"Their parents will neglect to get a piano and the services of a good music teacher."

Piano is the foundation musical instrument and you never have to carry it around with you because practically every worth while home has one.

Learn the piano first for its social aids are greatest and any small instrument is easily mastered after acquiring a good knowledge of music by means of a piano.

An Ever Growing Surplus

An accurate gauge of the growth, earning power, service, efficiency and conservative management of this bank is found in its ever enlarging surplus because an increasing surplus shows that some of its earnings have gone back into the business—earnings more than sufficient to pay dividends to its stockholders and running expenses, too.

Therefore the security back of the depositor's money here is growing stronger and stronger all the time—reinforced by a larger reserve. Therefore also we solicit checking or savings accounts from timorous people who seek solid, substantial and quick resources which are continually bettering themselves.

How to Play the Game

In the closing game of a minor league two teams were contesting for the pennant. The benches were crowded with rival fans. The score was 5 to 4. The team at bat was four. The last half of the 9th inning was in play. There were two out, three men on bases, the best batter up. He held them. The left fielder ran close to the tall grass close to the far fence as he tried to get the ball home. The three base runners before him. Into the tall grass the ball and the fielder fell. The grandstand rose a hubbub. Out from the tall "Did he catch it?" was the thought on thousands of tongues. High the ball. A grass into which he had stumbled the fielder rose, holding high the ball. A mighty cheer arose. The four runners had touched home plate without a score. The fielder who held the ball had given his team the pennant. The cheers continued, wave after wave of cheers,—until,—the fielder lowered his head with his hand on his forehead and raised the other hand in protest, dropped the ball upon him read the notation and shook it "no." At once the thousand eyes upon him read the sign. The ball fell to earth, not into his hand but into his eye. No one but he had stumbled when he saw it. One never-to-be-detected falsehood would give himself and his team the pennant. The pennant at bat was but a VICTORY was not wrapped up in the pennant. The pennant at bat was but a VICTORY was not wrapped up in the pennant. The pennant at bat was but a VICTORY was not wrapped up in the pennant. The pennant at bat was but a VICTORY was not wrapped up in the pennant.

MERCHANTS BACK TOWN'S WELFARE

Co-operation of Business Men Contributes to the Uplifting of Our Community PROSPERITY WITH US
The ambition of every merchant in Kewaskum is to make this town the best along the line. This may be a selfish object on his part, but the fact remains that he can prosper only if all the city thrives, for it is obvious that little money will be passed over his counters by people who have no money to spend. On the other hand, if there is no idleness among the people, if the factories and mills are running at full capacity and all the families in town are living in comfort, with every prospect of good times in the future, their well-being is reflected in the trade that comes to the merchant's store. No Kewaskum merchant, however, depends on mere wishing to bring prosperity to this town and to make it grow. He does not doze in his easy chair and dream dreams about outsiders coming in to settle and help him to create a magnet to attract them. When he argues for better schools and improved streets, it is not in the expectation that his share is to be mere words while other property owners foot the tax bills.

Every merchant in this town backs up his confidence in this town, in its prosperity and its future as a rising member of this splendid commonwealth, by his hard-earned dollars. Before he can obtain a cent of profit, he must offer a big stock of the goods the public wants, attractively displayed in a conveniently arranged store of adequate size, with all necessary equipment for handling his goods expeditiously, and with well paid, courteous sales people whose paramount purpose is to render service to the trade. Not until this investment has been made and this plan is set in all its completeness before the people of the town can he hope to get back even so much as one cent of profit.

It is a big risk to run. If immediate profits were his only object, he never would take this chance. He could invest his money in dozens of other propositions, make more money and make it without waiting so long. FAITH IN TOWN'S FUTURE
At the prevailing prices of merchandise in the big city markets and at the values of property in Kewaskum today, it is easy to calculate the dollars and cents equivalent of the faith which every businessman in town has in the future of Kewaskum. If you look closely, you will find that every one goes the limit of his ability in this direction. This holds for the general store, the grocer, the dry-goods merchant, the flour and feed store, the tinmith, the furniture man, the notions and specialties store, the jeweler, the shoe store, the harness shop, the garage man and all the rest.

Their investment is such that there can be no question of days, weeks or months with them as to when they can quit with a "pile." Theirs is no get-rich-quick scheme. Once they locate they become fixtures and nothing short of a considerable term of years suffices to win for them even a fair return for their money. To leave before their business, and the business of the town were squarely on their feet, would be poor business policy; to leave after prosperity had come would be folly.

Does not such a citizen deserve your co-operation? SPELLS REAL PROSPERITY
If a new factory has to be moved from Kewaskum to a neighboring town, the merchant digs down into his pocket and helps raise a larger bonus, bringing a new industry here. Whatever this means to him, it means more work for the people of Kewaskum. It means more money. It spells prosperity for every family here.

MAKING FOR CONVENIENCE
The farmer must drive his team or his truck to the merchant's store, whether the road is good or bad. Thus it is not self-interest that prompts the merchant to urge good roads. Besides, he is taxed for them more than the man with a smaller property. The same is true of the sidewalks for those residing within the town's limits. Corner lights are in the same class to mention also other lighting for homes, water and sewer. All these make for safety, comfort, convenience and a higher standard of living for all. Fire protection is another civic boom which the merchant urges and for which he pays his just proportion, sharing its benefits with all.

Get Rid of Those Things You Do Not Want

There isn't a day but what some housewife picks up something she wishes she could dispose of. There isn't a day but what some housewife in another household is wishing she had exactly what the first housewife wishes she could dispose of. And there isn't an issue of the STATESMAN goes off the press but what would carry a notice "for sale" of what the first lady wants to get rid of and would just as soon say "wanted" for the lady who wants that same article. You can't get away from the laws of supply and demand. If there is a large number of people who want to sell stoves, and the demand is not great the price will be lower. But any one, who has anything they wish to sell, can place a small classified ad in the STATESMAN. The price is almost nil, and if the demand is not so great that you can get the price you ask, you are only a few cents the loser, while if you sell, you are that much money ahead, and have pleased some one by selling them something they want. No matter what you want to sell—no matter what you want to buy—run a small ad in the STATESMAN and get satisfaction. The want ads are read just as carefully as the news columns and in many cases they are read more carefully. You can call us—our number is 281, or you can send your ad by mail
