STATE DAIRYMEN TO HONOR THIS COUNTY

Washington county will be signally honored during the month of June, 1923, by the dairymen and business men of the state of Wisconsin. Each year a State Field day is held at the home of some breeder in the state, who has contributed materially to the advancement of dairymen in Wisconsin. After consultation with the state dairymen the committee in charge has chosen the farm of Mr. C. A. Schroeder of Washington Co. who is a national figure in dairy circles, as the place of honor in 1923.

This ought to be a warning to other young boys, who are in the habit of walking across the road without paying particular attention to approaching autos.

CAST ALL READY FOR THE PLAY IN OVERTIME

All is now in readiness for the home play, "Country Folks", to be presented by members of the Y. P. A. Society of the "Ev. Peace congregation" at the Kewaskum Opera House next week Tuesday evening, Dec. 12, 1922. The cast will have dress rehearsal on Monday night. They are anxiously waiting for the time to come when they will rise on Tuesday evening to demonstrate what has been accomplished during the past few weeks of rehearsals. The play is a clean-cut comedy drama, full of pep, action and excitement. Everyone who attends cannot help but enjoy every bit of it. The cast has worked hard and in the manner in which they go at the work of acting is surprising. The reserved seats, which are on sale at the Bank of Kewaskum, are selling fast and from present indications it appears that the hall will be taxed to its capacity. Mr. Backhaus, owner of the Opera House will have the hall heated all day Monday so it will be plenty warm enough by the time the curtain rises. The Schellinger orchestra of Plymouth will furnish the music. The cast of characters is as follows: Josiah Dean, an old farmer. Alfred Schaefer, his wife. Isabelle Backhaus, Nat. Dean, Armon Bath, Polly Dean, Lazedra Ranthun, Lorna Lane, a seamstress. Goldie Krahn, Ozias Schuyler, the postmaster. Prudence Schuyler, his daughter. Clara Barth, Peter Patch, the chore boy. Horatio Finch, a country lawyer. Ruben Backhaus, Alvin Berry, neighbor. Mariam Schaefer, Jake Diemer, the village barber. Norton Koerble, Time of play 2 1/2 hours. Curtain rises at 8 o'clock sharp.

LOCALS LOSE IN OVERTIME CONTEST

In what proved to be the fastest, snapest, interesting and most exciting and thrilling game of basket ball ever played on the local floor, was witnessed here on Tuesday evening, when the Kewaskum Alumina five lost a very hard fought battle to the Plymouth Legion team, composed of such basket ball wizards as Bert Elliott, Steffen, Wetzel, and White, by a score of 23 to 29. Last Tuesday's game goes down in the history of Kewaskum's basket ball sport as being the first contest in which the score was so close throughout the entire game. The first half ended in a tie 13 to 13, and when the final whistle blew for the second half, the score was again a tie, 23 to 23. It was in the five extra minutes of play that the visitors were able to score three field goals and also hold the locals scoreless. The game went far beyond all expectations. Both teams played high class ball, and had it not been for a miss throw on the part of one of our own players, the score would have stood 21 to 23 in favor of our boys, the game would undoubtedly have been won by the home team, as the ball was continually in their hands at this stage of the game. During the first five minutes of play it looked as though the visitors would have an easy time of it, scoring three field goals in quick succession. Our boys then settled down to business, Spatz Miller was the first to score through the entire game, dropping the ball from a long distance, through the basket for a two counter. A personal foul on the part of the visitors netted two more points for the locals. The local squad kept right after their opponents, and in about a half an hour the local boys were successful in caging another field goal, tying the score. The large crowd of fans by this time had practically gone wild with excitement, both teams were heartily applauded for their splendid display of high class ball. The visitors were successful in scoring another field goal, which was followed by a field goal made by the local team, making the score 8 to 8. A foul called on both teams at the next minutes, which brought the score up to 9 each. The visitors were first to make two more points, only to be tied by the Alumina after a minute of play, 11 to 11. In the last two minutes of the first half both sides scored two points, which brought the score up to 13 each. The excitement at this stage of the game was at its height, and before long the side line rose to 1 in favor of Kewaskum. The second half started with a rush, both teams realizing that it was a matter of what side would get the last basket which would undoubtedly be the winning points. The Legion started the scoring by getting a field throw, which was again tied in the next minute by the Alumina, making 15 to 15. By this time it seemed that our boys had caught onto the visitors style of playing a little more, and went after them with renewed vigor, and determination, scoring two field goals in rapid succession. Their opponents after a few moments, what happened called time, changing their plays almost completely, which netted them two field goals against our boys, making the score 19 to 21, with Kewaskum at the long end, Plymouth making the score 23 to 21. The locals kept up their speed, scoring two more points from which time on both teams fought hard, making use of a three, four and five men defensive in an effort to stop the home boys. The home team, during the last minute of play when one of our boys who was in a position where he was forced to make a quick delivery, accidentally passed the ball into Elliott's hands who dropped same through the basket, thereby tying the score 23 to 23. In the five minutes of extra playing, the locals were held scoreless, while their opponents piled up three field goals, winning the game by a 23 to 29 count. Tonight (Saturday) the locals go to Hartford to play the Legion team at that place. We will venture to say that if our boys put up the game they did last Tuesday evening, Hartford will get one of the worst trimmings in their basket ball career. The Alumina at Fillmore last Sunday evening by a score of 20 to 15.

The evening was spent in playing various games and social conversation. At midnight a delicious lunch was served. The guests departed wishing Mr. Krahn many happy returns of the day.

BARTHEL GETS FIVE YEARS

Edward Barthel of Cleveland, Wis., auto bandit, who was captured at the Simon Stoffel home, located about two miles west of this village on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 14. After a running gun battle with detectives, was sentenced to 25 years in the house of correction on five charges in municipal court last week Friday. Barthel will serve only five years, because the sentence imposed is to run concurrently. The charges brought against him were automobile thefts, to which the bandit pleaded guilty. Barthel's wife, Mary, who was in the courtroom during the trial, was asked to leave the room before sentence was imposed. She is expecting to become a mother soon. Gustave Barthel, a brother of the sentenced man, was put on probation for three years on charges of receiving stolen property on the promise that he would support his brother's wife and two children. It was recommended by the detectives that he be put on probation because he had assisted them in the case against the automobile thief. We were unable to learn if any charges were found against Walter Reidt, who was with Barthel at the time he was captured, and who claimed to be ignorant of the fact that the bandit was wanted by authorities. Undoubtedly no evidences were brought against him.

CAMPBELLSPORT LADY FOUND DEAD IN BED

Mrs. Alice Ward, aged 57 years, a widow of Jas. E. Ward of Campbellsport was found dead in bed by her husband Wednesday morning at her home in Campbellsport. Death was caused by heart failure. She was apparently in her usual health when she passed on Tuesday evening. Deceased was born Sept. 5, 1865 in the town of Eden. She has made her home in Campbellsport for the past 12 years. On Jan. 20, 1886 she was married to James E. Ward, who survives her. Besides her husband she leaves, the following children: Wallace Ward and Mrs. Walter Bronk of Milwaukee; James Ward of Columbus and Mrs. R. E. Flood and Leo Ward of Campbellsport; three sisters, Mrs. L. L. Johnson of Campbellsport, Mrs. Anna Mahoney of Eden and Miss Agnes Curran of Campbellsport; and five grandchildren. The funeral will be held at 10 a. m. Saturday from St. Matthew's church at Campbellsport. Rev. July will officiate. Deceased was a devout member of the R. C. church.

MRS. CATHERINE HESS

Death came as a welcome relief to Mrs. Catherine Hess, wife of Nicholas Hess of Kewaskum, who after a lingering illness of 10 months with a complication of diseases brought about by the infirmities of old age, passed peacefully away at her home on Thursday at 8 p. m. at the age of 68 years, 5 months and 17 days. Mrs. Hess was born June 20, 1854, in the town of Ashford, where she resided for 44 years, coming to Kewaskum 12 years ago, and where she has since resided. In 1876, she was married to Nicholas Hess. Three children were born of this union, as follows: Josephine at home, John of Oakfield and Nicholas Jr. of Hortonville. One grand child and two sisters and one brother also mourn her demise Mrs. Hess was a lady of good character, one who endured all the hardships of pioneer days. She was a kind and devoted wife and mother. Taking great pride in her home duties. Her death, although expected hourly by those near to her, came rather sudden. The funeral will be held Monday at 10 a. m. with services in the Holy Trinity church. Rev. Vogt will officiate. Interment will be made in the congregation's cemetery.

"HUMAN HEARTS" AT THE OPERA HOUSE, SUNDAY

"Human Hearts", the Universal Jewel production starring House Peters, which played at the Opera House Sunday evening, has taken rank with the really great photoplays of the year. From coast to coast newspaper critics and public alike have joined in terms of a masterpiece. House Peters in the role of Logan gives a remarkably convincing performance, and great credit goes also to Edith Hallor for her handling of a difficult part. The other members of the cast are ideally fitted for their characters, and this perfect balance helps greatly in putting the famous old Hal Reid play over as a cinema production. The action of "Human Hearts" is laid in the Ozark Mountains, but it could just as well have been in any other locality, for the type of people of the type found in any hamlet. The Logans are hard-working Americans, and Tom and his father run the village smithy. The elder Logan's property being extensive and quietly supported by a certain coal deposit, Tom, Barbara Kay and Benton, two crooks. Barbara marries Tom but her plans are nipped in the bud when the elder Logan cuts Tom off without a dollar. Tom makes an effort to reform, but the old life and life to Tom and she yields to persuasions of Benton and runs away with him. Logan, Tom tries to halt the pair and is killed. Tom thinks his wife is the slayer, and silently assumes the guilt. He is convicted when he returns to the picture moves on with lightning speed to a remarkable and thrilling climax. Gertrude Claire as the mother does some of the finest acting seen on the screen in many a day. The play is directed by King Doolittle, who played the stellar role in stock many times in bygone days. The play always was a prime favorite with Baggot and he welcomed the opportunity to make it his action in his most measure for the success the production is scoring. An added attraction will be Charles Chaplin in a screaming comedy. Don't miss this big double show.

BEE-KEEPERS' ATTENTION

The annual meeting of the Washington County Bee-keepers' association will be held at the court house at West Bend on Saturday, Dec. 9th at 1:30 in the afternoon. Every beekeeper, and especially the members are urgently requested to attend the meeting. Some of the questions to be considered are: Standard honey containers and labels for the state or county; buying of supplies cooperatively; Educational work of the association; Cooperation in the fight against American foul brood. The bee-keepers' association of Washington county is one of the strongest and most progressive in the state and with proper cooperation of the bee-keepers we should continue as such.

SANTA CLAUS AT KEWASKUM

Santa Claus, has again paid his annual visit to the stores and business places of Kewaskum, and left an unusual large assortment of Christmas toys and candies, for the kiddies. The youngsters, however, were not asleep at the switch, and no sooner had the large assortment been put on display, when they were busy going through the different departments, enjoying themselves in looking at the big variety left by Santa. With the big crowd on hand no one unless you do your shopping too late, ought to get what you want. An extra force of clerks have been engaged to take care of the Christmas rush, and prompt service will be given to all who do their shopping at Kewaskum.

Twenty-five Killed and 200 Are Wounded in Capital.

Crowd Demonstrating Against Lack of Water Is Fired Upon by Machine Guns.

Mexico City, Dec. 2.—More than 25 persons were killed and 200 were wounded when a crowd of working people who were demonstrating in front of the city hall against the lack of drinking water.

Inflamed by the first fusillade from the police, the workers rushed at the city hall and succeeded in gutting it by fire.

More than 20,000 persons had gathered to demonstrate vigorously but peacefully against the mayor and the city council, which were charged with dishonesty and the general inefficiency that had culminated in the lack of water.

Without warning the mounted police, who were lined up in front of the city hall, fired on the crowd, which scattered, but soon reassembled in a furious mood. Machine guns were fired on the police by machine guns stationed on the palace roof and in the open galleries.

STEAL 60 BARRELS WHISKY

Thirty Men Raid Warehouse at Pekin, Ill., and Escape in Motor Trucks.

Pekin, Ill., Dec. 5.—Thirty men early in the evening raided the plant of the Liberty Yeast corporation at Pekin, Ill., held up the employees and guards and escaped with 60 barrels of bonded whisky. The yeast corporation formerly was the Globe distillery and the liquor had been stored there since before the Volstead act went into effect.

The bandits loaded the liquor on motor trucks and drove away swiftly south on the hard road toward Springfield. Each truck was loaded with 12 barrels.

WISCONSIN HAPPENINGS

Important News of the Badger State Arranged in Condensed Form

Milwaukee—Postal authorities predict that this year's Christmas mail will be the heaviest in the history of the country. According to E. L. Ormsby, Chief Clerk of the Railway Mail Service at Milwaukee, energetic preparations are being made in Wisconsin to meet this situation. He states, however, that the Christmas mail problem is largely one of sorting and routing, at which very little extra help can be used to advantage.

Monroe—Miss Veva Divan is Wisconsin's champion girl pork raiser. Not only did she walk away with blue ribbons at the state fair this year, but she topped a total of seventy-six prizes for showing her "six little pigs" at five fairs. Veva lives on a farm near Brownlow, in Green county. She is 17 years old. She won championship honors this year in competition with more than 1,100 other pig club boys and girls all over the state. She has been proclaimed by T. L. Bewick, state boys' and girls' club leader, and by several prominent livestock officials, as the greatest pig club exhibitor of all times in Wisconsin.

Madison—Jacob L. Erickson, head of the Erickson Brewing Co. of La Crosse, arrested recently on an indictment charging violation of the volstead prohibition enforcement act, will be called to answer the indictment in court at Madison, it was announced. A previous report that Mr. Erickson had been arraigned and pleaded not guilty was in error. He was released when bond was provided before a court commissioner in La Crosse.

Madison—The eradication of tuberculosis from dairy cattle herds in Wisconsin will cost the state $2,108,000 during the next two years, if the legislative approved budgets submitted to the state board of public affairs by C. P. Noergard, commissioner of agriculture. An expenditure of $700,000 was made in the last biennium. The request for a trebled appropriation is made, Mr. Noergard said, because of the inability of his department on present funds to meet demands of counties for tuberculosis eradication among their cattle.

Wisconsin Rapids—Action of the state highway engineer and the county road and bridge committee in providing for the storage of 25,000 barrels of cement early last spring, combined with the establishment of two rock crushing plants in the country, saved the taxpayers of Wood county at least $30,000 in the construction of concrete highways this year, Edward Marshall, county highway commissioner, told the county board in his annual report.

Kenosha—Kenosha county board after a three-days' debate gave its endorsement to the state highway commission plan for raising money for highway improvement. The only serious division of the board was on the provision to tax gasoline 2 cents a gallon. This provision was finally adopted by a large majority vote.

Burlington—A third pair of twins was born on Nov. 17 to Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Ferguson, who live near Burlington in Walworth county. Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson were married on Jan. 1, 1902, and have nine children, six of whom are twins and all in good health. Walter, the oldest child is 18 years old.

Monroe—One of the largest hogs ever brought to Monroe to be shipped to market was brought in by Peter Gerber, Green county farmer. The animal weighed 530 pounds. As a rule hogs weigh from 250 to 350 pounds, but they seldom tip the scales at 500.

Manitowish—Fourteen cows, three calves and four horses were burned to death when fire destroyed two large barns on the farm of William England, causing a loss of $20,000, only partly covered by insurance. The farm is five miles north of Two Rivers.

Madison—While riding toward Madison the engine of the automobile driven by Emil Barbers and Henry Hindrichsen of Darwin station, blew up at Windsor, burning to death when the small building took fire. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Manitowish—As compensation for the death of John Koppdansk, Manitowish county fireman, who died from injuries received while on duty, the city must pay $5,250 to the dead man's sister, the Wisconsin industrial commission has ruled.

Manitowish—Two fines and a workhouse sentence were handed out in police court following a week end activity by Manitowish police to "clean up" all soft drink parlors alleged to be selling illicit liquor.

Manitowish—Robert Kevin Drew, supervisor for the Janesville high school, won first place for Wisconsin in the American Legion essay contest, writing on How the American Legion Can Best Serve the Nation. He wins a medal and will be entered in the national contest at Indianapolis soon.

Medford—A total of $2,416 has been paid out by the county clerk's office in Medford on bounties for foxes and wolves killed in Taylor county this year.

MISS LULU BETT

By ZONA GALE

"MY WEDDED WIFE"

SYNOPSIS—General factotum in the house of her sister, Ina, wife of Herbert Deacon, in the small town of Kewaskum, Wis., Lulu Bett leads a life of constant activity, though she is constantly at odds with her lot. Apparently content with her lot, she is actually secretly envious of the life of her sister, Ina, who is an approaching bride. Ina's life is a life of ease and comfort, and she is a perfect example of a woman who has everything. Lulu, on the other hand, is a woman who has nothing. She is a woman who has to make her own way in the world, and she is a woman who has to be content with what she gets. The story is a comedy of errors, and it is a story that is full of fun and frolic. It is a story that is full of life and interest, and it is a story that is full of love and affection. It is a story that is full of hope and optimism, and it is a story that is full of faith and belief. It is a story that is full of courage and determination, and it is a story that is full of strength and power. It is a story that is full of beauty and grace, and it is a story that is full of charm and wit. It is a story that is full of joy and happiness, and it is a story that is full of peace and harmony. It is a story that is full of love and affection, and it is a story that is full of hope and optimism. It is a story that is full of faith and belief, and it is a story that is full of courage and determination. It is a story that is full of strength and power, and it is a story that is full of beauty and grace. It is a story that is full of charm and wit, and it is a story that is full of joy and happiness. It is a story that is full of peace and harmony, and it is a story that is full of love and affection.

They developed this theme exhaustively. Dwight usually speaking in the third person and always with his shoulder turned a bit from his wife. It was inconceivable, the gusto with which they proceeded. Ina had assumed for the purpose an air of distrust, casual, attentive to the scene about them. But gradually her cheeks began to flush.

"She'll cry," Lulu thought in alarm, and said at random: "Ina, that hat is so pretty—over so much prettier than the old one!" But Ina said frostily that she never saw anything the matter with the old one.

"Let us talk," said Ninian low, to Lulu. "Then they'll slumber down." He went on, in an undertone, about nothing in particular. Lulu hardly heard what he said, it was so pleasant to have him talking to her in this confidential fashion; and she was pleasantly aware that his manner was open to misinterpretation.

In the nick of time the lobster was served. Dinner and the play—the show, as Ninian called it. This show was "Peter Pan," chosen by Ina because the seats cost the most of those at any theater. It was almost indecent to see how Dwight Herbert, the immortal soul, had warmed and melted at these contacts. By the time that all was over, and they were at the hotel for supper, such was his pleasurable excitement that he was once more playful, teasing, once more the irresistible. But now his Ina was to be won back, made it evident that she was not one lightly to overlook, and a fine firmness sat upon the little doubling chin.

"Why Not Say the Wedding Service?" Asked Ninian. The dog-kennel part—wasn't that the queerest thing? Nothing to do with the rest of the play. The one with the hook—he was my style," said Dwight.

"Well, there it is again," Ina cried. "They didn't belong to the real play, either." "Oh, well," Ninian said, "they have to put in parts, I suppose, to catch everybody. Instead of a song and dance, they do that."

"And I didn't understand," said Ina, "why they all clapped when the principal character ran down front and said something to the audience that time. But they all did."

Ninian thought this might have been out of compliment. Ina wished that Monona might have seen, confessed that the last part was so pretty that she herself would not look; and into Ina's eyes came their loveliest light.

Lulu sat there, hearing the talk about the play. "Why couldn't I have said that?" she thought as the others spoke. All that they said seemed to her apropos, but she could think of nothing to add. The evening had been to her a light from heaven—how could she find anything to say? She sat in a daze of happiness, her mind hardly operative, her look moving from one to another. At last Ninian looked at her.

excellent," he said, with the frown of an epicure. "A tiny wee bit more Athabasca," he added, and they all laughed and told him that Athabasca was a lake, of course. Of course he meant tabasco, Ina said. Their entertainment and their talk was of "this sort, for an hour."

"Well, now," said Dwight Herbert when it was finished, "somebody dance on the table." "Got to amuse ourselves somehow. Come, live up. They'll begin to read the funeral service over us."

"Why not say the wedding service?" asked Ninian. In the mention of wedlock there was always something stimulating to Dwight, something of overwhelming humor. He slouched a derisive endorsement of this proposal.

"I shouldn't object," said Ninian. "Should you, Miss Lulu?" Lulu now burned the slow red of her torture. They were all looking at her. She made an anguished effort to defend herself.

"I don't know it," she said, "so I can't say it." Ninian leaned toward her. "I, Ninian, take thee, Lulu, to be my wedded wife," he pronounced. "That's the way it goes!"

"Lulu, take thee, Ninian, to be my wedded husband." "You will?" Ninian cried. "I will," she said, laughing tremulously, to prove that she, too, could join in, could be as merry as the rest.

"And I will. There, by Jove, now have we entertained you, or haven't we?" Ninian laughed and pounded his fist on the table. "Oh, say, honestly!" Ina was shocked. "I don't think you ought to—oh, things—what's the matter, Dwight?"

Dwight Herbert Deacon's eyes were staring and his face was scarlet. "Say, by George," he said, "a civil wedding is binding in this state." "A civil wedding? Oh, well!" Ninian dismissed it.

"But I," said Dwight, "happen to be a magistrate." They looked at one another foolishly. Dwight sprang up with the indeterminate idea of inquiring something of some, circled about and returned. Ina had taken his chair and sat clasping Lulu's hand. Ninian continued to laugh.

"I never saw one done so offhand," said Dwight. "But what you've said is all you have to say according to law. And there don't have to be witnesses." "I say!" he said, and sat down again. Above that shroud-like plaited lace, the veins of Lulu's throat showed dark as she swallowed, cleared her throat, swallowed again.

"Don't you let Dwight scare you," she besought Ninian. "Scare me?" cried Ninian. "Why, I think it's a good job done, if you ask me."

LUXURIOUS WRAPPY COATS; GRACEFUL DINNER GOWNS

THERE have been times when to wear a cloth coat was almost a frank declaration of not being able to afford a fur wrap. Not so this season! It is a question which is the more fashionable right now, the all-fur coat or the wrap styled of luxurious delectable fabric. There never has been a time, at least in the memory of this generation, when so many magnificent cloaking materials have been shown. The very names of these marvelous weaves are suggestive of elegance, such, for instance, as velveteen, fashion, marvella, panneline, luxura, bolivia, and so the list might be continued. Coats masterfully draped of these soft rich cloths are furred in handsome pelts. The greatest success is registering for brown. Dark brown, with matched fur, leads all else in reigning. Marvella, that triumph of deep-velvet weaves and which will wear a lifetime, was selected for the patriotic coat to the left. It is in that wonderful new Mohawk shade, which is a glowing red brown. Dyed wolf, col-

Of course creative genius must have some point of expression, and this season it is the girlish who boasts of decorative features. "And it was trimmed in fur," applies to the majority of hard-core dressy gowns. In this instance the fur is genuine marten, which bands the downy sleeves twice around, as if to call attention to the embroidery between exquisitely done in dull gold and silver threads. It is a matter of fashion, that in place of the beaded crepe dinner frocks the beaded velvet gown is preferred. These charming dresses are designed ored in a relative reddish brown, is lavished on collar and about the sleeves. If you will observe closely, you will note there is an inner forearm sleeve, furred snugly about the wrist. There are amber settings in the tortoise buckle which holds the new-style drape in pose. The all-over tie tucks in the brown velveteen coat to the right established this model as very advanced style. According to fashion's calendar we have arrived at the dinner gown season. The private details of winter coat, street suits and utility jacket having been attended to, our fancies lightly turn from the prose to the poetry of dress. To the call for a in straight slender silhouettes and they are rich in warm tones of henna, the new shade of indhawk (reddish brown) and bright blue. In the modish broad-cloth velvet frocks, gorgeous coloring prevails and there is practically no trimming, except perhaps a touch of fur or a garniture of metal flowers at the waist, according to the formality of the occasion. Almond Bread—Make a sponge at night with a quart each of water and gluten flour, add a yeast cake dissolved in a little water, let rise in a warm place overnight. SOUPS AND GARNISHES

Soups will never grow passe, for with too many a soup is the attractive dish of the meal. There are such varieties that he is indeed hard to please who cannot find one to his liking. Vermont Chicken Soup—Take six cupfuls of well-seasoned chicken stock, add a little grated onion, a head of lettuce sliced and one cupful of peas. If the peas are fresh, simmer until they are done. Beat an egg, add enough bread crumbs to make a paste and shape into balls. Drop the balls into the soup and simmer until well heated; serve hot.

Quick Bouillon—Cut fine one pound of fresh beef and a slice of fat pork. Put into a saucepan with one cupful of cold water, one carrot, one onion finely minced, and cook fifteen minutes; then add two cupfuls of boiling water. Simmer for an hour, then press through a fine sieve. Season with salt, pepper and celery salt. Cheese Balls—Take one-half cupful of flour, half a cupful of milk, a tablespoonful each of butter and cheese. Mix in a double boiler, cook until smooth and thick, add one egg well beaten and cook long enough to set the egg. Set aside to cool. Form into balls the size of hickory nuts, drop into boiling soup, cook five minutes and serve immediately.

Leftover Meat Dish—Put through diamond-sized potatoes, season well, add one small onion also ground through the meat grinder. In a little pork sausage fat cook the potato and onion until well scalded—then place in a well-buttered baking pan with a layer of chopped roast beef and garnish with halves of cooked pork sausages. Bake until the potato and onion are cooked. Serve from the dish. See that all the potato water and onion juice is added for it will be needed for moisture. Rice Soup—Cook one-fourth of a cupful of rice in three cupfuls of boiling water with one teaspoonful of salt, one slice of onion and a stalk of celery. When the rice is cooked add two red pinnettes and press through a sieve; add two cupfuls of cream and the same of chicken or veal stock, one-eighth of a teaspoonful of pepper and three tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour cooked together and added to bind the soup. Bring to the boiling point, sprinkle with chopped celery and serve piping hot.

ALL KINDS OF THINGS

When making the fruit cake for the winter use any recipe desired, place in round pans or use the cooker after 15 minutes to let the steam escape, or after the steaming dry off for half an hour in a moderate oven. The cake has a much better flavor and texture steamed first, then baked. At the time of this season of the year bacon with green peppers makes a most appetizing breakfast dish. Wash the peppers and cut them in rings, removing the seeds. Soak for twenty minutes in salted ice water, drain, dry and fry in the bacon fat. Keep the well-drained bacon hot in the oven and serve the peppers when tender in the center of the platter with the bacon arranged around them. Gluten gems are liked by others than those who find it necessary to diet. To two cupfuls of gluten flour allow a teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one egg and two cupfuls of milk or half milk and half water. Sift the dry ingredients, beat the egg, add the milk and flour and beat again until light and foamy. Have the pans hissing hot when the mixture is poured in. When the appetite needs coaxing cut the bread for toast in finger-sized pieces, toast and butter and pile log-cabin fashion when serving. A sprinkling of salt on the breakfast grapefruit is an improvement in serving instead of sugar. The salt brings out the flavor of the fruit. This is good news to those who are denied sugar.

Almond Bread—Make a sponge at night with a quart each of water and gluten flour, add a yeast cake dissolved in a little water, let rise in a warm place overnight. In the morning add two teaspoonfuls of salt, one cupful of blanched almonds finely chopped and enough gluten flour to mold. Knead well, mold into loaves and bake when light. This makes two loaves. A DOZEN GOOD REASONS WHY YOUR ENGINE Should be an International

- 1) It does all kinds of work cheaper and easier than it can be done by hand.
- 2) It is backed by a Company that is in business to stay.
- 3) It is simple in construction and has few wearing parts.
- 4) It is a safe engine—fuel is pumped to mixer, excess is returned to fuel tank.
- 5) FOUR piston rings hold compression perfectly.
- 6) It is reliable—you can depend on it to do your work when you want it done.
- 7) A farmer—his wife or his boy can operate it with ease and safety.
- 8) It is economical—it cuts your fuel bills in half because it operates on KEROSENE.
- 9) The fly wheel keys are so protected that they cannot catch clothing.
- 10) Ignitor points are easy to get at—easy to adjust.
- 11) All working parts are readily accessible and all are thoroughly ciled.
- 12) It can be equipped with speed reducing gear for operating small machines—the small engines can be mounted on hand trucks, the large on horse trucks. Made in three sizes, 14, 3 and 6 Horse Power.

"Human Hearts"

The Greatest American Drama

A Story the Whole World Loves

The story of stories—playing upon the heartstrings with its throbbing, poignant drama—replacing with tender smiles the tears it will bring, as its gentle, homely humor sinks deeper and deeper into your heart! It is a story of home, of a wonderful, beautiful love, of pathos and humor, of a wife who was an outcast, of a son who suffered because of his love for The One Woman. A story for you, for your children, for your father or mother, for the whole world. Don't Miss It.

CHRISTMAS MORNING CONFERENCE

The Long Distance Telephone

By Christopher G. Hazard

THESE days, when fires stretch from pole to pole and wireless messages fill the air like auroras, Santa Claus is not left without hints and suggestions as to the desires of his beneficiaries. They come in from all quarters and tax even the resources of his prodigious spirit.

So, when Tim had suggested a letter to Santa, Maggie had replied, "Why don't you use the 'rel-em' phone?" and Nora had said that wireless was better.

But the line was busy. Moreover, it was likely to be busy for the next two weeks, Central said, which rather discouraged the boy, but at the same time gave him a bright idea: Why not put up his own wireless telephone? Then he could ask for all that he wanted!

The neighbors, and especially the neighbors' boys, were much interested in Tim's experiment as it progressed. The stock of materials was limited, but with friendly help the two wires were contrived and the boys imagined that they heard things as they listened in.

Among others, old man McKeeffrey heard the news. McKeeffrey was a peculiar old chap. He lived alone in a rather dilapidated house on the edge of the village and had little to do with anybody. Once in a while he would give his views on the one subject that employed his thoughts to an evening company at the corner store, but no one paid much attention to them. His own idea was that charity began at home, and the popular opinion that in McKeeffrey's home it stayed there. There was also a general opinion that in McKeeffrey's home it was not very much needed. The old man was not much on dress and he seldom went anywhere or seemed to indulge in any of the non-necessaries or luxuries of life, but he was supposed to have means enough to purchase the best of these, should he desire to.

It was when he had been descending, to a few listeners who sat about the store stove, upon the folly of sending Christmas things to soldiers that he heard about Tim McKeeffrey's hopeful electrical efforts.

The old man was at once interested. In earlier years and before his retirement to Apple Center he had known the ambitions that are a common thing in the world and had compelled fortune to yield him some of his favors. A dishonest partner and something that went wrong in a love affair had embittered him, however, and caused his misanthropical retirement into his useless obscurity. Reacting against society, he had more and more turned his thoughts inward and inclosed himself in a shell of selfishness.

But now McKeeffrey was strangely interested. Something of old sympathy and youthful feeling stirred in his crusty heart. He was touched by the thought of boyish anticipations and afraid for the disappointments that he foresaw. He remembered that once his own heart had been warm and hopeful, that he had made effort for good and sent out dreams into the future. There came back to him a sense of the bitter and blighting frost that had chilled and deadened him, and there shined in his soul a faint hope that happiness might visit him again in his effort to bestow it upon others. It seemed a sweet and desirable thing to him to honor the faith that was causing Tim to reach out into the world for a blessing.

So it was that there were signs of strange activity about McKeeffrey's house and mysterious arrivals at McKeeffrey's house. And when, on Christmas morning, the McKeeffrey's awoke to the very liberal response that Santa Claus had made to their specifications, Mrs. McKeeffrey's pessimism was retired in confusion. "I wouldn't have believed it," she said, "that old McKeeffrey could be that changed, the cratur; that he could be a Santy Claus, the omnibum. It do beat th' devil. It is more wonderful than all your phones and wires. These do be great times we do be livin' in. I niver thought electricity could go that far."

It was Tim's first step in science, but he went a good deal further than that. Now he can put you into real communication with all the best of the world, if you like. But he owes it all to that change of heart that came to old Mr. McKeeffrey.

As for the old man—he has never been able to get back into his old house and hard shell. Charity has taken him out into a large and happier world!

War on Disease Full of Thrills

Many Victories Won in Bitter Battles Waged for Conquest of Contagion.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST HOOKWORM

Not a Person in Virginia County Has Enough Hookworms in His Body to Produce Any of the Symptoms of the Malady.

Washington.—"If persistent echoes of wars disturb one's peace of mind it is a wholesome antidote to turn attention occasionally to another sort of world struggle, a beneficent war—the war against disease," says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society based in a communication to the society from William Joseph Showalter.

"In all the stirring history of man's effort to make himself master of his environment, there is no more thrilling chapter than that which tells of the bitter battles he has waged for the conquest of contagion.

"These announcements of almost unprecedented success in malarial are expected to be made at no distant date. "The first of these, chronologically, at least, will be that yellow fever has at last been banished from the face of the earth, and that the germ which causes it has become extinct, along with the mosquito, the dodo, the great auk and the passenger pigeon.

"The next in order will probably be that hookworm disease, which has been called a 'handmaiden of poverty, an associate of crime and degeneracy, a destroyer of energy and vitality, a menace and an obstacle to all that makes for civilization,' and which is endemic in a zone that embraces half of the earth's population, can be driven from any community which has the will to get rid of it.

"Last will come the statement that large-scale demonstrations 'have proved that malaria can be eradicated from almost any community that has enough vital force left to push a thorough, though inexpensive, campaign for its extirpation.

Virginia Early Campaign Center.

Richmond county, Virginia, where the war on the hookworm as a world-wide fight had its inception, stands out as an example of what may be accomplished and as an evidence that it can be accomplished with much less difficulty than was formerly supposed.

"When the work began there, about thirteen years ago, 82 per cent of the people had the disease. A few years later a resurvey showed that this had been reduced to 35 per cent. A more recent resurvey reduced it to 2 per cent, and in 1922 it can be announced that there is not a single person in the entire county in whose body the worms are numerous enough to produce any of the symptoms of the malady.

"There are two kinds of hookworms that invade the human body, an Old World species known as Ancylostoma duodenale and the 'New World' form known as Necator americanus.

"The New World species of hookworm is a small parasite creature about as thick as an ordinary pin and half as long. The adult female worm, inhabiting the small intestine, lays thousands of eggs daily. After these pass out of the body they hatch within one or two days. They are microscopic in size when hatched and never grow larger as long as they remain in the ground.

"Then comes along a pair of bare feet or hands, or some other part of the body touches the infected ground, and the little villains make the most of their opportunity. They promptly begin to bore their way through the skin, causing a severe irritation known as 'ground itch.' Once under the skin, they travel through the tissues until they come to the lymphatic system, and thence into the blood. "Finally, after passing through the heart and lungs, they reach the throat and pass thence through the stomach, ultimately landing in the small intestine, to whose wall they fasten themselves, and for as much as seven years, if not disturbed by treatment, take their fill of the victim's blood and intestinal tissue.

How They Do Their Work.

"They develop in their salivary glands a substance that has a marked power of inhibiting coagulation of the blood. Attaching themselves to the surface of the intestinal wall, rasping and sucking away the delicate inner walls on which they feed, they lay bare the deeper tissues, and the wound continues to bleed for a long time, even after the worm has deserted the spot to which it was attached.

Luckiest Man Picks 161 Four-Leaf Clovers

Rockland, Me.—The luckiest man in Maine, if luck depends on four-leaf clovers, is Alfred Benner of The Meadows, this city, who has a record this season of 161, besides 45 of the five-leaf variety and 33 of the six-leaf, with three of the seven-leaf for good measure.

Recalls First White House

Street on Which Washington Lived in New York Is Now Dingy Byway.

HOME WAS ONCE SHOW PLACE

First President Lived There When inaugurated First Time—Mrs. Washington Wrote That She Found Life There Very Dull.

New York.—A walk in Cherry street recalls that in the seventeenth century when the little Dutch settlement of New Amsterdam passed over into the hands of the English and was called New York, there came one Richard Sackett in 1671 and possessed himself of land out in the country, amid green lanes and fronting for about 400 feet on the West river. He planted cherry trees along the bank, then planned a pleasure garden, which should have a bowling green, like the gardens in old England. Tables were placed and tea was served, with rum or arrack, or even good madeira to drink the health of King William and Queen Mary. The owner called the place Cherry Garden. A lane led to it from the town. This soon took the name of Cherry lane, and in the springtime, under the blossoming trees, young men and maidens strolled.

As the years went on the lane became a street and was extended until it ended in what was then St. George's now Franklin square. Houses were put up along its length, and in 1770 a fine one was built of brick by Walter Franklin, a rich merchant who traded with China and left his name as a legacy to Franklin square. He left a rich widow as well, who married again, this time Samuel Osgood, and the big brick house, three stories high, belonged then to them. In 1791 George Washington, lately elected President of the newly-formed United States, was to be inaugurated here.

Pole-Cats Used to Find Still-Hunting Sleuths

Prohibition officers who search the wooded hills near Parkersburg, W. Va., for moonshiners declare that these liquor makers are using skunks to defeat the ends of justice. Officers Bee and Summers reported that they destroyed one distillery and broke up a skunk kennel, and that they found evidences of other distillers who were using polecats to scent the scenery and thus prevent "dry" agents from smelling the brewing operations.

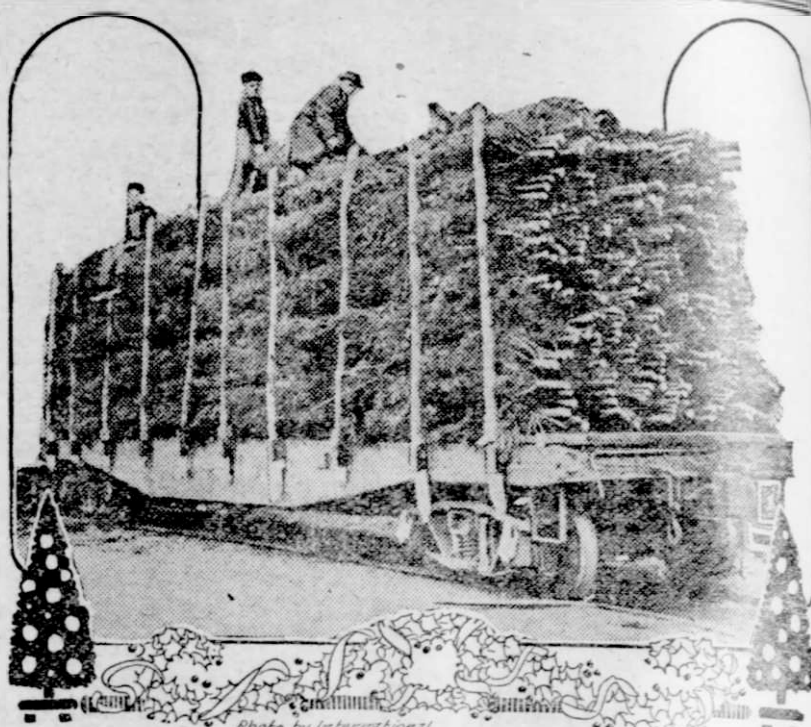

"But they go even farther than that. By some method not well understood, they cause the blood to undergo a change, reducing the amount of hemoglobin—the element that makes us red-blooded, and which constitutes the ingredient that tends to render healthy blood an infertile soil for the seeds of infection sown there through lack of sanitation.

"Yet, owing to the fact that its every stage is so well known, that the methods of combating it are so dramatically effective, and that those who are cured so quickly begin to experience the joys of living once more, it makes itself the most readily and successfully used of all diseases with which to point a community toward a goal of better health."

At Least One of the Causes.

Every year sees one-time luxuries added to our list of necessities. That is the main cause of the high cost of living, directly as well as indirectly.—Exchange.

CHRISTMAS TREES READY for SHIPMENT

Supplying the country with its Christmas trees is no small job these days. A million or more trees are sacrificed every year and they come mostly from the woods of northern Vermont, and are of two species of pine, the Norway spruce and the balsam fir. People of the Middle West and southern states demand the Norway spruce, while eastern people want the balsam. Here are the trees ready for freight shipment, 2,500 of them to the car, tied up in bundles of three to five trees, according to size.

WILL the Christmas tree become a thing of the past? There are tendencies which would seem to indicate that a substitute may usurp the throne this green harbinger of merriment and good will has held in the hearts of the people for many decades. One of these influences is the danger of a conflagration in the home where Christmas trees are lighted with candles, although this danger is being partially overcome by the use of electricity for illuminating purposes. Another restrictive tendency is the cost of Christmas trees and the growing difficulty of obtaining them.

Moreover, a conviction is growing in the public mind that it is poor economy to cut Christmas trees from the tops of mature trees or take down a tree that has been growing for 15 to 30 years for a one day's celebration. The availability of artificial substitutes and the natural trend toward a change in the customs of the people

The Wishing Buttons

By CHRISTOPHER G. HAZARD

(© 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

TO US children there was a mysterious charm about old Mr. Uplook. He used to spend a good deal of his time in the back part of his shop, turning bits of mahogany into little bobs and telling us stories while he chipped and polished. He had a small person and he would make him grant out answers to our questions in a wonderful manner. His vot buttons were connected with several insects, and when we touched them there would come out now a bee, then a mosquito, and once in a while a bug that would snap off our noses. The buzzing of the bee, the piping of the mosquito, and the dangerous assault of the snap bug gave us many a thrill and him much enjoyment.

One Christmas time, being rather short of rich relatives and very long on hope, we conceived the idea of drawing upon the fairy resources of our good friend, by suggesting a button that would connect with the good genius of the holidays and bless our wishes. So we asked Mr. Uplook if he thought the first two buttons on his coat could by any possibility have anything to do with the Christmas case. He said that he would have to go into his back room and see about it first, but when he came out we knew by his looks that it would be all right.

We wanted to press the buttons several times, but Mr. Uplook thought that once would be enough, and said that in each case we might whisper two desires, whispering loud enough for him to hear, so that he might be sure we were getting the thing straight. So we pressed and whispered it in that perfect faith that Mr. Uplook always inspired in us.

We were not surprised on Christmas morning when things happened just as we had expected, and kind Mr. Uplook seemed just like a real Santa Claus as he stood by the roadside with his camera, taking a picture of one boy with red-topped, copper-tipped boots, riding on a new sled; and of another who was trying a pair of

THE INVISIBLE GIFT

THERE'S a gift on the Christmas tree that we cannot see, but we know it's there. There's something that gives value to all the rest and we feel it. With the rich there are fifty gifts to one baby; with the poor, fifty babies to one gift; with both there is this something that makes an equal happiness, something that gives riches nothing over and poverty nothing lacking, something that gives light without candles and warmth without fire. The tree itself springs from it, the Christmas festival sings of it. We are all excited by it and about it. It fills the shops with beautiful things, gathers crowds to buy them, hangs garlands in the windows, carols on the air. It makes the church bells ring and kindles devotest worship. It is love that hangs upon the Christmas tree. Without the Cross the Christmas tree had never been.—C. G. Hazard.

Molten Fire Is Burbank's Latest Plant

Luther Burbank, the plant wizard, keeps right on devising new plants and flowers. He is here seen in a bed of his latest, "Molten Fire," an ornamental flower he has perfected. The plant, when the sun shines on it, glows a beautiful crimson. The photograph was taken on Mr. Burbank's farm at Santa Rosa, Cal.

COST OF LIVING IN VIENNA SOARS

Prices in Austrian Capital Now Said to Be Higher Than in Any City on Continent.

Vienna.—The cost of living in Austria, particularly Vienna, is now higher than in any country of Europe except Czechoslovakia. Prices generally have risen with incredible rapidity, until now hotel rates are equal to Paris, while restaurant prices are above those of any city on the continent. The result is an exodus of foreigners.

Blows Up House by Doorbell

Berlin.—During the absence of her husband, a laborer, a housewife in a Berlin suburb committed suicide by turning on the gas. The returning husband rang the bell and receiving no answer pushed it so violently that a short circuit was caused inside the gas-filled house. The front door was blown off, knocking the husband down. The interior of the house was wrecked.

Austrian crown is now 73,000 to the dollar.

Another factor in the stagnation of high-class business is an increase in the tax on the retail sale of articles of luxury from 7 per cent to 12 per cent. This tax produced in June 200,000 crowns, in July 1,400,000, and in August, 3,300,000 crowns.

Unknowning Christmas Cheer

By Mary Graham Bonner

(© 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

SHE was neither young nor old. But life had been pretty rough with her, raking many whom she so dearly loved, leaving more and more gaps which could not be filled.

Yet it was Christmas time and she must think of the Christmas presents she should give and the Christmas letter she must write. How could she not cheer into her letters when she did not feel it herself? Sternly she reproved herself for this. She must give Christmas. She simply must. So, quite by herself, she went to a big toy shop. There she mingled with the crowds, heard the children's cries and shrieks of delight and surprise, saw their eager excitement. Her children were grown up, they had got away, some would never come back. But it all brought the wonderful Christmas memories back to her. She felt again the glow and warmth of Christmas cheer. Tears came to her eyes, but there was happiness in their hot blur. It wasn't the same as one's own, to go and see happiness as though it were a play. But Christmas happiness was different. It touched those who even stood on the outskirts. Yes, all unknowning these many stranger children had given her the echo of their laughter and of their delight, and it was singing a little Christmas melody in her heart!

Matter of Choice

Ted—There's nothing like kissing under the mistletoe.

Ned—For my part I prefer it under the rose.

The Hostage

Walter de la Mare, in Poem.

IN dead of dark to his stern North Saint Nicholas drew near. He had ranged the world this wintery night. His eyes gleamed brightly. Now biter more woe was to be. And weary of making, for few had shown him love or courtesy.

His socks lay empty—all save one— And this, to his afflict. Stirred as he stood with fingers numb. A blaze with boot-foam bright. A phase he stood. Showed lurching thumb. Small shoulder, a wig—what stowaway Was this, and whence was it come?

And out there crept a lovely Thing— Half angel and half child. "I, youngest of all Heaven, am here. To be thy joy," he smiled; "Oh, Nicholas! Our Master, Christ! Thy friend, but soon, and He shall bidden me come and keep His tray. And bring His love to thee. To serve thee well, and sing Nowell. And thus was one to be."

CHRISTMAS RIBBONS

IF CHRISTMAS ribbons could express themselves they would say that people were thrifty, for some ribbons claim to have been doing business every Christmas for many, many years. They are often pressed and made to look their best, but they're the same ones used again and again. However, if they could philosophize they would rejoice that they were the means of adding gaiety, color and cheer to Christmas packages year after year!

Christmas Means More.

Christmas means more than merely extending the hand to give or receive something.

MILK-MARKETING PLANT PROBLEMS

VALUE OF MANURE REDUCED

Pronounced Detrimental Effect Noted at Geneva Station by Adding Wheat Straw.

Surprising results have been obtained by soil and crop experts at Geneva, New York, in a series of tests recently completed, from the use of wheat straw with horse manure.

The best results appear to follow the use of acid phosphate with manure in the stables. A couple of handfuls of the acid phosphate is scattered in each stall each day and the animals are allowed to trample it into the manure.

KEEP PUMPKINS ALL WINTER

Only Well-Ripened Specimens With Thick Rinds Should Be Stored—Keep Them Dry.

It isn't as easy a matter as it seems to keep pumpkins, squash, etc., all winter if they are stored properly.

EXTENSION WORKER IS HELP

Found Most Successful in Conducting Demonstrations of Farm and Home Practices.

ALFALFA IS PREFERRED CROP

Heavier Yield of Hay Produced on Fertile, Well-Drained Soils Than of Sweet Clover.

Sweet clover is not recommended in preference to alfalfa for heavy, fertile, well-drained soils that are well supplied with lime, and free from quack grass, or June grass, unless the cost of seedling must be considered.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

SANTA CLAUS ARRIVES

The children of a school were having a performance for parents and visitors during the Christmas holidays.

And when some of them forgot to make their bows some one from behind gave them little pushes so that they made their bows then.

A play was given, too, and that was very fine, and everyone looked so handsome in costume.

The very naughtiest little boy of all took the part of an angel, for when his face was still and he wasn't up to any prank he did have quite an angelic face!

And at the end of the performance it was told about that Santa Claus was going to appear.

Oh, what excitement there was. "Santa Claus is coming," every one said. "Santa Claus is coming."

They did hope Santa Claus would not lose his way in the storm.

But then they were comforted in thinking that no one had ever heard of Santa Claus losing his way before.

They heard sounds of an approaching sleigh or whether the noise was all made by the wind.

Just as they were almost giving up hope of his coming some one shouted: "I hear sleigh bells!"

And there were many bells—just as though all the reindeer had come.

Everyone listened. Everyone was very quiet. Not a sound was made.

And yes, yes, there was no mistake about it. The bells that could be heard were the bells of the reindeer—of many reindeer.

Oh, how excited everyone was. The sound of the bells came nearer and nearer and nearer. The sleigh could not be far away now.

Then some one called out and said: "Let's turn out the lights so we can see him coming up the steps of the building."

So the lights were turned out and the great room was in darkness.

THE DYSPEPTIC

By VIVIAN G. HAYES

Dinner street was deteriorating sadly. There was no doubt about it. Miss Lucinda Lee, from the veranda of her stately ancestral home, cast a withering glance across her own fair expanse of green lawn and graceful shade trees to the unsightly yard and weather-beaten house beyond the iron fence.

The singing was lovely and the recitations were very fine. Some of the very small children who recited could not pronounce very well, but that didn't make much difference. They were so cunning.

And when some of them forgot to make their bows some one from behind gave them little pushes so that they made their bows then.

A play was given, too, and that was very fine, and everyone looked so handsome in costume.

"I began picking up soon after I started taking Tanlac, and now I have a fine appetite, sleep like a log and that tired, worn-out feeling has all left me. I could not do otherwise than recommend Tanlac."
