WRECK VICTIM HAS MILITARY FUNERAL

In one of the largest and most impressive funerals ever held in Fond du Lac, Herman Loomans, North Western railway fireman who was killed in the wreck near West Bend last Thursday morning, was laid to rest Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

The funeral was held at 1:30 o'clock from the residence of John Loomans, 221 1/2 West Second street, and at 2 o'clock from the Protestant church, the Rev. A. W. Brown officiating. Musical numbers at the church services were rendered by Brown and Earl Brown. The church was crowded to the doors and the funeral offering was very large and beautiful.

The American Legion, post had charge of the military rites at the grave. Herman Loomans, son of John and Helen Loomans, was born Aug. 21, 1889 at Green Lake, Wis. His death occurred as the result of a train wreck near Barton, Wis. at 5:30 A. M. Thursday, Dec. 14th, 1922. His age was 33 years, 2 months and 23 days.

While he was yet a little child his parents moved to Arpin in Wood County, where he spent most of his early years and received his common school education. When he was 21 years of age he came to Fond du Lac and began work on the railroad, commencing with the West Line with whom he was employed for the first two years as fireman. Since that time he has been in the employ of the Chicago & North Western R. Co. He has worked for them for a period of 11 years.

"UNDER TWO FLAGS" AT THE OPER HOUSE

Older's immortal romance, "Under Two Flags" is probably the best known tragedy in the world. It first achieved fame as a work of fiction; then as a play with that remarkable actress Blanche Bates in the role of Cigarette, and now in the service of making a long expected public as a photoplay. The producing company is fortunate in having under contract the one star that could do full justice to the part, that is Priscilla Dean. The picture will be shown here for the first time on Monday evening, December 25th, at the Kewaskum Opera House.

Mastery direction by Ted Browning, unequalled fire and nerve of the star, and a splendid supporting cast, all in conjunction with the strength of the new story, make of this production one of the greatest pictures ever shown. Miss Dean is a never-ending surprise each picture she makes seems to be the best work in histrionic ability, yet she comes the next just a trifle better. It is not such a difficult task selecting vehicles for such a star, because there are plenty of magnificent stories available when one has the ability to play the parts.

James Kirkwood, a star in his own right, and Stuart Holmes, villain-deity of the screen, carry the burden of the support, and give flawless portraiture. Tribute must also be paid to William Fildes and his battery of cameramen for the remarkable "shots" by the use of a desert sand storm is impressive.

The plot deals with the adventures of an English nobleman, an exile from his own country because he shouldered his brother's crime. He goes to Alcatraz, where he is known only as "Vic." Ralston, under the French flag, this union, Harry aged 8, and Ruth, aged 1, who together with their mother survive. Besides these he leaves to mourn, his grief stricken parents, Mr. and Mrs. Christian Struabling of Elmore, and the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Mary Brough of Wayne, Albert, Charles and Robert of Elmore. Mr. Struabling was a man well liked by his fellow associates, he not only took great pride in the upbuilding of his home, but of the community in which he resided as well. He was a faithful Christian man, and for a number of years held responsible church offices. His death will be greatly mourned by all who knew him. The funeral was held on Friday afternoon at one o'clock from the family home, with services in the German Reformed church at Elmore. Rev. H. K. Hartman officiating. Burial was made in the congregation's cemetery.

OPERATED FOR GALL STONES

The operation was a successful one and the patient is recovering rapidly. He was accompanied by his wife and daughter. The operation was performed by Dr. J. H. H. Hartman, who is a specialist in gall stone cases. The patient is expected to be home in a few days.

LOCAL FIVE LOSE HARD GAME

The Kewaskum Aluminum basket ball team met their Waterloo last Sunday afternoon, when they clashed with Green Bay Packers at the Opera House, going down to defeat to the tune of 20 to 30. The local quintette started the scoring by getting two field goals in the first few minutes of play. During this period of the game it appeared as though our boys were going to have an easy time of it. But it was right after these points were scored that the visitors settled down to business, and an exhibition of real professional basket ball on the part of the Packers was the outcome. Perfect control of the ball, accurate pass work and basket shooting, were the outstanding features of the game. Any open chance on the part of the visitors was almost certain of a field goal. The first half ended 8 to 16 in favor of the visitors. The second half was nothing more than a repetition of the first. Although our boys were outclassed, they put up an excellent game when one stops to consider the strength of their opponents who make basket ball a business, playing practically every night in the week. The average weight of the team was about 170 pounds. Games of this kind, playing the best in the business, give the locals excellent practice and knowledge of the game placing them by far in a better position to play for the county championship against Slinger.

The next game will be played at Plymouth. Manager Rosenheimer is negotiating with the management of the Milwaukee Bright Spots, who if satisfactory arrangements can be made will appear here some time in January.

HIGH SCHOOL WINS

The Kewaskum High School boy's team defeated the Fillmore Juniors at the Opera House last Saturday evening, by a score of 31 to 19. The game was very interesting and full of pep. The high school has some real fast players in its lineup, full of pluck and ready to battle against their opponents with the determination of winning no matter how strong the opposing team may be. This is the boys' first victory this season, and the outcome of same has given them renewed life and encouragement.

In the preliminary game the Freshmen and Sophomore girls defeated the Senior and Junior girls by a score of 10 to 0.

NOTICE OF ANNUAL MEETING

The German Mutual Fire Insurance Company of the town of Auburn will hold their annual meeting in William Herz hall on Monday, Jan. 8, 1923 at 10 o'clock A. M. All members are urgently requested to be present. 2c. Frank Schultz, Secretary.

Our Greeting In the Spirit of Christmas

CHRISTMAS DAY brings us the consciousness that whatever our personal animosities may be, whatever the strife between nations—merely neighborhood quarrels greatly magnified—there is this sublime occasion devoted to peace and good will. Its spirit is the lamp which lights to higher life; its influence largely supports civilization and prevents a lapse into barbarity.

Christmas spirit means Christian spirit. In testing its effect, one has only to reflect upon the positions of races, the most advanced being those of Christendom. China, the oldest entity among peoples, has an admirable occasion upon which the citizens strive to liquidate all their debts. It is a national pay-up day, and in spirit somewhat resembles our Christmas. In Japan they have an annual event somewhat like our New Year's celebration, during which the people go about expressing good will and promoting good cheer. But Christmas has a more elevating effect than either, in that it not only typifies peace and good will, but carries the essence of unselfishness and pure love, the most common expression being the bestowal of gifts. When the Christmas influence gains to the point that its spirit shall permeate the affairs of every day in the year, the millennium will have arrived.

We have this day, and if we mar not its ideal its leaven will produce other days of the kind. In the making of a newspaper we have an opportunity to view the many forces operating upon the character of humanity. We see the good and bad, the sincere and insincere, the selfish and unselfish. We believe the leaven of good is more active than that of the opposed forces. If we have been able to assist the right, much has been due to your co-operation and we earnestly solicit a continuation of the same. Our Christmas greeting to you is one of optimism, good cheer and hearty good wishes.

THIS FAMILY HAS FOUR GENERATIONS GREETINGS FROM AN OLD FRIEND

This time the town of Waukesha steps into line with the four-generation families of Washington county. The family represented in the above picture are: Mrs. Henry Kohl Sr., the great-grandmother, born March 21, 1852, in the town of Ashford, Fond du Lac county; Mrs. John Blian, the grandmother, born August 29, 1875, at Kohlsville; Mrs. Carl Friedeman; the mother, born March 7, 1897, at Kohlsville; and Arleen Friedeman, the baby, born March 7, 1922, also at Kohlsville. All, from the oldest to the youngest, are hale and hearty, bidding fair to keep this long chain of life intact for a long time to come.

Christ Tischehauser of Madison, So. Dakota, a former resident of Elmore, writes an interesting letter to the Statesman, and which we take pleasure in publishing for the benefit of the readers:

Dear Editor:— "I am to stay your stand-by as long as life remains, as I would not be satisfied without the old home news. Although they are sometimes so sorrowful, when I read in one issue especially the last one of two school mates passing away into the heavenly home above. I am blessed with the best of health, however, have lost my sense of hearing so much since last summer, caused by an automobile accident.

We had an exceptionally "good" season here. Had two heavy rains in July which helped in giving us a heavy crop. During the months of August and September it was rather dry, rain fell at long intervals to settle the dust. October was also a dry month, no rain fell until in November. On November 4th, about six inches of snow fell. This melted away in few days, and made the fall plowing for the farmers much easier. The weather remained nice until December 4th when we had the first frost.

Early potato crop was a good one, corn was about a half of a crop, hay river the crop was exceptionally good, because a great deal more rain fell there.

I was glad to read about the birthday celebrations of Henry Schmidt and John Damm, and Mr. and Mrs. Struabling's golden wedding anniversary. May they remain healthy for a number of years more, for some day I hope to be with them for a hearty handshake.

Before I close I wish you all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, with God's blessing to you all, your loving friend, Christ Tischehauser.

PARENT-TEACHERS CLUB ORGANIZED

At a meeting held in the assembly room of the Kewaskum High School on Tuesday evening, a Parent-Teachers' association was organized. This is indeed a good move, and shows an advanced step in the standard of education in the local schools. The function of this new organization is a co-operation between the teachers and the parents in school work. It is a step by which the parents and teachers can meet on common ground, get acquainted with each other, and thus obtain a mutual basic understanding of each other and each others problems. It gives the teachers a better opportunity to learn much more about the home conditions of the pupil. Through the perfection of the parent-teachers' association, a more uniform policy can be adopted on all questions of mutual work, such as the passage of the pupil to and from school. Means for guarding the pupil's health can be worked out to far better advantages. It will also enable teachers and parents to obtain and deepen the interest of the pupil in school.

The following officers were elected: President—L. P. Rosenheimer; Vice-President—Elwyn Romaine; Secretary—Mrs. Elwyn Romaine; Treasurer—Mrs. E. C. Miller; Chairman of program committee—Miss Elsie Christensen.

PRELIMINARY PLANS MADE FOR "FIELD DAY"

"Satisfactory" is a word that fittingly describes the meeting held at the West Bend Commercial Club Rooms, Friday, Dec. 15 to organize for the State Field meet to be held at the C. A. Schroeder farm next June. The meeting had in it representatives from all parts of the country, among them being delegates from the Hartford and West Bend Commercial clubs, Holstein Friesian Association, The Washington Co. bankers' association, and a representative of the Wisconsin Live Stock breeders' association.

The meeting organized by electing Milton H. Button, Co. Agent, chairman and Aug. E. Schroeder secretary; Ried Murray, secretary of the Wisconsin Live Stock breeders' association and Tom Campion from the Milwaukee School of Agriculture outlined the program of last year's field meeting and made suggestions for the coming event of next year.

Their representations of the facts and proposed program brought to the audience the magnitude of the task that faces us. Supt. of schools, M. T. Buckley, Mr. Bucklin, Mr. Schowalter, Mr. Sauerherring, Mr. Bast and others gave short addresses bringing forth the idea that although the undertaking was a large one, Washington County has produced men large enough to carefully plan and execute a program for the day.

The following committee of nine was appointed to name the permanent committees that will have charge of the day: Frank Bucklin, E. A. Sauerherring, Paul Bast, Erwin Banzhaf, Milton H. Button, Franklin Salter, Newton Rosenheimer, Wm. Gruhle and Mr. Claussen. This committee will meet the 3rd week in January.

STATE HIGHWAY POLICE PROPOSED

State highway police and heavy penalties or violations of the state speed laws are urged by Secretary Frank Cannon of the Wisconsin Good Roads association as a means of reducing the number of fatalities caused by automobiles. Mr. Cannon declared that 10,000 are killed annually in this country and 1,500,000 are injured as the result of automobile accidents and that Wisconsin has her share of these accidents.

"The reduction of these numbers," declared Mr. Cannon, "is primarily a matter of law enforcement. Our present speed laws are adequate if they are enforced. It should be the duty of highway officers to prevent the breaking of the laws, rather than laying for men who exceed the speed limit."

Mr. Cannon believes that state and county highway officers in uniform should be employed on the important trunk highways. For the present, however, the only feasible plan is to have such officers employed by the sheriffs of the counties.

Fines are proving inadequate as penalties for offenders against the speed laws, believes Mr. Cannon. He suggests that after a person has been apprehended two or three times on such a charge that he have his license revoked. Such a plan, he declares, is meeting with success in Eastern states.

"The proper control of automobile traffic is proving to be a big problem today," says Mr. Cannon, "because these machines come upon us so suddenly and in such large numbers. We have not had time yet to work out an adequate solution of the problem."—Hartford Press.

HARDING O. K.'S BONUS, REPORT

Tells Ex-Service Men Proposed Law Must Be Properly Financed.

VETERANS ASK SALES TAX

National Council of Foreign Wars Acts After Plea by Head of National Bureau at Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 18.—A direct message from President Harding, pledging his support to a bonus for ex-service men, provided a feasible means was presented by Col. C. H. Forbes, director of the Veterans' bureau at Washington before a joint conference of national and state executives of Veterans of Foreign Wars here.

In the conference were the members of the National Council of Administration and the department commanders of the veterans' organization.

Immediately following Colonel Forbes' address, and discussion which resulted in strong approval of a sales tax, the executives unanimously adopted a resolution endorsing a sales tax, with foodstuffs exempted, as a means of raising the necessary revenue to finance a bonus.

C. Hamilton Cook, Buffalo, national commander of the disabled American Veterans of the World War, who was attending the conference by invitation, said his organization would take immediate action to support the resolution.

The American Legion, which is the largest of the veterans' organizations, was not represented at the meeting.

Colonel Forbes called President Harding by telephone before going into the conference.

International Bankers Propose to Raise Billion and Half Dollars with United States Aid.

Washington, Dec. 15.—The floating of an outside loan of approximately a billion and a half dollars, through the agency of the international bankers, is under consideration as the only visible way of saving Germany from going over the precipice, and of saving off the acute reparations crisis which is hanging over the chancelleries of Europe.

American bankers and the United States government are taking a direct interest in the loan project, and it was learned that J. P. Morgan's visit to Washington and his conference with Secretary of State Hughes was connected with the reparations situation, the acute crisis in Germany and the plan for a mammoth loan.

Mr. Hughes refused to state what question he had discussed with Mr. Morgan, but the evidence was overwhelming that the loan question has again come into the foreground of the situation, that the international bankers are considering ways and means of raising it and are seeking the active co-operation of their respective governments.

TREASURY PAYS BILLION DOLLARS

Huge Amount Is Passed Out During a Single Business Day.

GREAT FINANCIAL OPERATION

Day's Transaction Also Included the Flotation of $300,000,000 and $400,000 Treasury Notes and Certificates.

Washington, Dec. 16.—The treasury closed Friday night one of its great post-war financial operations, which included a payment in one day of $3,000,000,000 to holders of Victory notes called for redemption and maturing certificates of indebtedness and in interest on the public debt.

The day's transaction also included the flotation of $300,000,000 in two and one-half year treasury notes and $400,000,000 in certificates of indebtedness, part of which mature in three months and the remainder in one year, and the collection of $275,000,000 in income and profit taxes.

Preliminary figures received by the treasury indicate that certificates would reach about $800,000,000. This was the basis for statements by officials that the two and one-half year notes had proved attractive as investments. It was said also that the over-subscription indicated a healthy condition in business and finance.

The tax payment proved about equal to expectations, it was said. If that amount were added to the receipts for two issues of government securities, the treasury's ledger theoretically would carry a larger balance.

The outlay for the day, which included $700,000,000 to the holders of Victory notes called for redemption, $200,000,000 to pay off maturing certificates of indebtedness, and $100,000,000 in interest on the public debt is set against receipts of approximately $1,075,000,000.

THE STORY

Victor, a dervish in Algiers, shakes dice with Cigarette, the Daughter of the Regiment, to determine whether he shall fight with France or with her enemies, the Arabs. Cigarette wins, and subsequently learns to love the quietly forceful Victor, who is a man of mystery. Princess d'Amague arrives from England at the height of the intrigue against the Chasseurs promoted by the Arab Sheikh Ben Ali Hamed, and it is revealed that Victor is in reality a British nobleman. His favor with the Princess earns him the hatred of his colonel, who conspires to have him shot for treason. Cigarette, apparently accepting the advances of her enemy, the Sheikh, learns of this and riding wildly with a stay of execution, arrives just at the crest of the Arab attack. What follows both in the way of stupendous action and beautiful love scenes helps to make this a picture that will live forever in the memory of all who see it

Legacy Is Now 231 Years Behind

Will of Col. Lewis Morris Left Six Pounds Sterling Annually to Quakers.

DISCOVERED IN OLD RECORDS

Assets Without Any Interest Total $648—No Record Is Found of Any Payment From Bronx Lands of Testator.

New York.—Through a search of the oldest records of the Surrogate's court, it has just been discovered that the will of Col. Lewis Morris, dated December 7, 1767, an annual legacy of six pounds was bequeathed to the Society of Friends in New York.

Members of the Friends were very much surprised to hear of this old legacy, as there is no trace today of any such fund among the records of either the meeting on Twentieth street or in the libraries of the Hixlites on Fifth street.

An investigation is planned to aid in the present of past and future accounts due from such a bequest, in the event that it should be possible to effect it. John Cox, Jr., the custodian of the records of both meetings was very much interested in the news of the old legacy, and stated that he had never received such a sum from the Morris estate.

In 231 years have elapsed since the will was filed. The total amount due, without interest, would be $6,480.

Col. Lewis Morris was one of the most distinguished men of his day, and was the predecessor of a long line of noted statesmen, through his brother, Capt. Richard Morris, who fought under Cornwall.

Among the descendants were Lewis Morris II, chief justice of New York and governor of New Jersey; his son, Robert Morris, governor of Pennsylvania and chief justice of New Jersey; while the four sons of the succeeding generation included Morris II, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence and a general in the Revolutionary war, and his brother, Governor, minister to France, patriot and United States senator.

Converted by George Fox, the founder of the Quakers, during a successful mission in the West Indies at Barbados, where Colonel Morris and his brother, Richard, had large plantations, the legacy to the Friends in New York was a result of the conversion of Col. Lewis Morris to that faith.

The will reads, in part as follows: "I give and bequeath to my honored friend, William Penn, my Negro man, Yaff, provided the said Penn shall come to dwell in America."

"I give and bequeath unto the Meeting of Friends in the Province of New York the Sum of six pounds per annum, to be paid out of my Plantation over against Harlem in the same Province, by whomsoever shall enjoy same."

"On every twenty-fifth day of the month called March, yearly and every Year, forever unto such Friends as shall be appointed by the General Meetings of Friends (Quakers) in ye said Province, to be employed as they shall judge on Friends' need."

It is especially interesting to note, in view of the high offices and influence which later on by his nephews, Lewis Morris II, in what has been held by his uncle, Colonel Morris, for the will continues:

"And whereas I formerly intended to have made my nephew, Lewis Morris, my will, Executor, his may and Great Misericordies and Disobedience towards me and my wife, and his careless Absenting himself from my house and Adhering to and Advising with those of Bad Life and Conversation, Contrary to my Direction and Example" * * * following which, Colonel Morris leaves him 2,000 acres in the Shrewsbury district in New Jersey, "one of my best manes Running in the Woods" and 2,000 acres of land known as "Ironland" on the north of the Harlem River.

Charged Against "Bronxland." It was from this property that the six pounds left annually to the Friends Meeting was to be drawn. Jonas Bronck, the original settler in 1639, had received a charter from the Dutch West India company, and Lewis Morris, on receiving his inheritance, procured from Governor Fletcher in 1697 a royal patent and founded the Manor of Morrisland.

Whether the bequest to the Quakers was ever made is difficult to say, and almost impossible to trace at this late date, as the New York records of the Friends do not go back that far. There undoubtedly was ample provision in the estate left by Colonel Morris, for in the accounting made following the proving of the will 1844 alone was due from the total of negroes held by the Morris estate.

Good Reason. "Jack isn't the same to me any more." "Did you see him with another?" "No; he saw me with another."

"I think you're both wrong, at that," interrupted Aunt Beth, with great firmness. "He was wrong in one sense for being selfish, for he has not the final claim. But the blame really rests upon you, for you probably teased him. I know you, Junie. I'm afraid you did wrong. He has a right to be selfish. I think Jack is a fine man, and you know it. You're rather temperamental, Junie. Think it over."

Junie sighed, opened her mouth as if to speak, but changed her mind. She sat down very decisively in the window-seat and glanced out of the window. Suddenly Junie looked toward her aunt, and what she saw in that face made her speak.

"Aunt Beth! I'll admit I was wrong. Oh, Aunt Beth! You make me feel so ashamed! How I need you! Just think of what I've done—sent him away! But it's over now, Aunt Beth, and Junie suddenly stood erect. "I'm not going to worry about it. But it'll be so hard. I suppose I'll be an old maid now. No one could ever take Jack's place."

She stopped speaking. Was Aunt Beth listening? What did that far-away look mean?

"Aunt Beth, why didn't you ever marry?"

"Well, to make a long story short, I was in a far-off country when I met him—we were to be married—we quarreled—just the same as you and Jack did tonight. Well, we made up, but he went to war—and the next thing I knew he had gone to the land of the unknown. So, you see, I never was claimed. I suppose I am what they call an 'old maid' or as your father puts it, 'unclaimed blessing.' However, all but the blessing."

"Why, Aunt Beth! But I'm glad you told me! How sacred it all is! Why, I really wouldn't mind being an unclaimed blessing if I could be like you!"

Long hours after Aunt Beth had retired, Junie remained in the library. Try as she might, she could not stay awake. She went to sleep, and dreamed—dreamed of a wonderful book opening before her—a golden book, with printing of gold! Then it suddenly came to her that this must be God's own book of lives! Yes! There were names there that she knew—and loved. And then she read with amazement:

Your dear Aunt Beth. One of many of my children—A happy, sacrificing woman—A devoted wife and mother—An unclaimed blessing? Oh, claimed in heaven and in earth. I thought not wife of mortal man. My child Beth—

Startled, Junie awoke. The fire had gone one. She sat in the great armchair perfectly rigid, not daring to move.

"But she may be ill. I must go and see if she's all right," she said over and over again to herself.

She rose and turned on the lights. At that moment who should enter the room but Jack! How haggard he appeared! "I'm sick away in fright!"

"What—how—why are you here? How did you get in?" she stammered. "I just couldn't leave at once. I was passing through the garden there under the window when you and your aunt were talking hours ago. After that I lingered. I don't know why. Then I heard a sudden cry of some one in pain. You see, I couldn't help answering that call—being a doctor. And I got along well—I didn't need you at all. So I let you rest."

"Oh, Jack! How wonderful! I'm so glad! Is she all right?"

"Yes—and guess what I found under her pillow. A little book entitled, 'The Unclaimed Blessing.' I wonder—"

He held it forth.

"Yes, she wrote it. Oh, bless her! She's just the sweetest woman, Jack! And I thank you so much, too. Let's go up and see her again together."

In a certain distinguished-appearing home, a noted doctor and his wife cherish with a love that knows no words a little golden-leafed volume entitled "The Unclaimed Blessing."

"Dead as a Door-Nail." According to Archbishop Trench, the noted British philologist, in the old days a broad-headed nail was driven into the front door of a dwelling and the hinged knocker fastened above it. When the latter was used it struck the head of the nail. It was through this circumstance that the expression "as dead as a door nail" came to be employed, meaning that if you had been knocked on the head as often as the nail you wouldn't have much life left in you.

Making Sure. The mistress felt anxious about the mushrooms. "You haven't forgotten," she said, "to put a silver quarter in with the mushrooms to prove that they aren't poisonous?" "No, indeed, ma'am," said the cook, "an' to make certain, I put in a 50-cent piece."

Mountains of Earth and Moon. Mountains of this earth are continually being worn down by water, ice and frost, but there are none of these agencies working on the 3,000 steep peaks of the moon.

24 Children, All Living, Swiss Family's Record

Geneva.—The family of a public servant named Hagelin, of Mousingen, in the Canton of Zug, has recently been increased by a twenty-fourth child. All the children are living and none of them are twins. The eldest, twenty-four, is to enter the priesthood. The agricultural syndicate of the locality has requested the favor of being god-father to the newcomer.

THE BLESSING

By ARIA E. CUTTING

"There! Everything's all over with!" cried vivacious Junie as she hurried into the library.

"What's all over with?" inquired Aunt Beth, who sat reading by the fire.

Aunt Beth was loved by everyone. She was a woman of talent and of worldly experience, and in her travels at home and abroad she had made many lasting friendships.

June often went to Aunt Beth for consolation and advice. Her mother was so taken up with social duties that Junie had always seemed to be left "dangling" somewhere. And it really was lucky for Junie that Aunt Beth made her home with them some of the time.

"I've broken the engagement, Jack was so angry because I danced with others at the dance the Forbes gave the other night. I don't see why he should be so silly—"

"I think you're both wrong, at that," interrupted Aunt Beth, with great firmness. "He was wrong in one sense for being selfish, for he has not the final claim. But the blame really rests upon you, for you probably teased him. I know you, Junie. I'm afraid you did wrong. He has a right to be selfish. I think Jack is a fine man, and you know it. You're rather temperamental, Junie. Think it over."

Junie sighed, opened her mouth as if to speak, but changed her mind. She sat down very decisively in the window-seat and glanced out of the window. Suddenly Junie looked toward her aunt, and what she saw in that face made her speak.

"Aunt Beth! I'll admit I was wrong. Oh, Aunt Beth! You make me feel so ashamed! How I need you! Just think of what I've done—sent him away! But it's over now, Aunt Beth, and Junie suddenly stood erect. "I'm not going to worry about it. But it'll be so hard. I suppose I'll be an old maid now. No one could ever take Jack's place."

She stopped speaking. Was Aunt Beth listening? What did that far-away look mean?

"Aunt Beth, why didn't you ever marry?"

"Well, to make a long story short, I was in a far-off country when I met him—we were to be married—we quarreled—just the same as you and Jack did tonight. Well, we made up, but he went to war—and the next thing I knew he had gone to the land of the unknown. So, you see, I never was claimed. I suppose I am what they call an 'old maid' or as your father puts it, 'unclaimed blessing.' However, all but the blessing."

"Why, Aunt Beth! But I'm glad you told me! How sacred it all is! Why, I really wouldn't mind being an unclaimed blessing if I could be like you!"

Long hours after Aunt Beth had retired, Junie remained in the library. Try as she might, she could not stay awake. She went to sleep, and dreamed—dreamed of a wonderful book opening before her—a golden book, with printing of gold! Then it suddenly came to her that this must be God's own book of lives! Yes! There were names there that she knew—and loved. And then she read with amazement:

Your dear Aunt Beth. One of many of my children—A happy, sacrificing woman—A devoted wife and mother—An unclaimed blessing? Oh, claimed in heaven and in earth. I thought not wife of mortal man. My child Beth—

Startled, Junie awoke. The fire had gone one. She sat in the great armchair perfectly rigid, not daring to move.

"But she may be ill. I must go and see if she's all right," she said over and over again to herself.

She rose and turned on the lights. At that moment who should enter the room but Jack! How haggard he appeared! "I'm sick away in fright!"

"What—how—why are you here? How did you get in?" she stammered. "I just couldn't leave at once. I was passing through the garden there under the window when you and your aunt were talking hours ago. After that I lingered. I don't know why. Then I heard a sudden cry of some one in pain. You see, I couldn't help answering that call—being a doctor. And I got along well—I didn't need you at all. So I let you rest."

"Oh, Jack! How wonderful! I'm so glad! Is she all right?"

"Yes—and guess what I found under her pillow. A little book entitled, 'The Unclaimed Blessing.' I wonder—"

He held it forth.

"Yes, she wrote it. Oh, bless her! She's just the sweetest woman, Jack! And I thank you so much, too. Let's go up and see her again together."

In a certain distinguished-appearing home, a noted doctor and his wife cherish with a love that knows no words a little golden-leafed volume entitled "The Unclaimed Blessing."

"Dead as a Door-Nail." According to Archbishop Trench, the noted British philologist, in the old days a broad-headed nail was driven into the front door of a dwelling and the hinged knocker fastened above it. When the latter was used it struck the head of the nail. It was through this circumstance that the expression "as dead as a door nail" came to be employed, meaning that if you had been knocked on the head as often as the nail you wouldn't have much life left in you.

Making Sure. The mistress felt anxious about the mushrooms. "You haven't forgotten," she said, "to put a silver quarter in with the mushrooms to prove that they aren't poisonous?" "No, indeed, ma'am," said the cook, "an' to make certain, I put in a 50-cent piece."

STRANGER IN THEIR MIDST

Gap Johnson's Progeny Naturally Resented the Presence of Interloper in the Family.

"A short distance up the road," said a tourist who had halted his car in front of the residence of Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge, "I met a small boy begging it for his life, with a howling mob of children of assorted sizes pursuing him and fairly raining stones, clubs and blistering epithets around him."

"Eh-yah!" replied Mr. Johnson. "The party of the first part was Gabe Giggery's boy, and the mob was composed of some of my children, chasing him home. You see, their man washed 'em all up a spell ago, and when they looked each other over they found that kid of Gabe's had been amongst 'em for nobody knows how long, eating, drinking and making merry, as it were. Whurrup they gave a united yell of fury and started to swarm all over him, and he let off a screech of terror and defunct out of yur as the crow flies!"—Kansas City Star.

HAD GOOD REASON TO WAIT

Traveler Surely Was in a Predicament That Afforded Cause for Mourning.

The conductor on the California Limited between Chicago and Los Angeles noticed that one of the passengers sat in his section hour after hour and sobbed. The first night out of Chicago the conductor was tempted to ask what the trouble was, but having learned from previous experiences that one is better off minding one's own business he did not do so. On the second day, as the passenger continued to weep and wail, he was even more strongly tempted to go to the man's aid, but still he refrained. On the third day, however, the sobs of the traveler were so great that he could not resist any longer and he approached him politely with the question: "Please tell me what is the trouble?"

"Oh, oh," sobbed the passenger. "I've been on the wrong train for three days!"—Exchange.

Yes, But Did She?

Martha Ann's dignity was ruffled when her mother, tray in hand, unceremoniously bumped into her. Following her mother to the kitchen, she blurted out: "When the ladies is gone I'll stick out my tongue at you, mother."

Martha Ann was very sorry a moment later.

FREEDOM FROM LAXATIVES

Discovery by Scientists Has Replaced Them.

Pills and salts give temporary relief from constipation only, says an eminent medical authority. Science has found a newer, better way—a means as simple as Nature itself.

In perfect health a natural lubricant keeps the food waste soft and moving. But when constipation exists this natural lubricant is not sufficient. Medical authorities have found that the gentle lubricating action of Nujol most closely resembles that of Nature's own lubricant. As Nujol is not a laxative it cannot grip. It is in no sense a medicine. And like pure water it is harmless and pleasant.

Nujol is prescribed by physicians; used in leading hospitals. Get a bottle from your druggist today.—Advertisement.

PLENTY OF FOX FURS IN ALASKA

Huge Numbers to Be Sent to United States Markets by Island Farmers.

And Lind Island, Alaska.—The biggest crop of fox fur ever produced in Alaska in a single season is expected to be harvested when fox farmers on the hundred-island in the Prince William sound district begin their annual trapping of prime skins.

to the mainland in the icy waters. Foxes have been known to try this, but not being strong swimmers have drowned. During the warm summer months the animals are left to make their own food, but in winter the ranchers stock feeding stations with dried salmon. About Christmas time the foxes are trapped, skinned and the pelts salted down and shipped to the fur markets of the United States.

The islands are leased to the ranchers by the government and cannot be sold. Neither can they be homesteaded.

IN MEMORY

In loving memory of Verneda Dubbin, who died one year ago Dec. 24, 1921.
She was our joy and pride,
We loved her, ah perhaps too well,
And now she slept and died
All is dark within our dwelling,
Lonely are our hearts today,
For the one we loved so dearly,
Has gone one year today.

Her little bed is empty now
Her little clothes lie by,
A mother's hopes, a father's joy
In the grave yard softly sleeping
Lies the one we loved so dearly
God took her home it was his will.
We miss thee here, but soon will come
Where thou hast gone before.

Dearest Verneda, thou has left us
And our loss we deeply feel,
But 'tis God that has bereft us,
He can all our sorrows heal,
Yet again we hope to meet thee
When the day of life is fled
When in heaven in joy to greet thee,
Where no farewell tear is shed.

Thy gentle voice now is hushed,
Thy warm true heart is still,
And on thy young and innocent brow,
Is resting death's cold chill.
Thy hands are clasped upon the breast
We have kissed thy lovely brow,
And in our aching hearts we know
We have no darling Verneda now.

Those little lips so sweet to kiss
Are closed forever now
Those sparkling eyes that shone so bright,
Beneath that pretty brow,
That little heart that beat so light,
Freed from all care and gloom,
Are hidden now from those she loved,
Beneath the silent tomb.

Dear little Verneda we miss you so
All thru the day or wherever we go
All thru the night how lonely it seems,
For no little girlie wakes us out of our dreams
We miss you so thru the lonely nites
We miss you as others do sunshine and flowers,
Daytime or nighttime wherever we go
Dear little Verneda we miss you so,
Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dubbin.
