

CENSUS OF WIS. ROADS TAKEN

Wisconsin now has 57,178 miles of improved road not including that added during last season, according to the report of the Wisconsin State Department of Public Roads, United States Department of Agriculture, which has completed a complete census of the State's improved roads. The total mileage of the State's improved roads in 1922 was as follows: Graded, 37,484; Sand Clay, 3,860; Drained, 12,987; Water, 1,287; and macadam, 879. Surface-treated roads, 14; Bituminous macadam, 879; Bituminous concrete, 1,091; Cement concrete, 1,091; and gravel, 6.

The total mileage of the State's improved roads, as compared with 76,707 miles in 1914, and during the seven-year period from 1914 to the graded and improved mileage has increased from 37,484 to 57,178, and the surfaced and improved roads from 13,399 to 19,714 miles.

The total road revenue in 1921 amounted to $41,728,601 or $755 for each square mile of area, $530 for each mile of road, or $15.85 per capita.

LETTER FROM CALIFORNIA

Our esteemed and genial landlord, Mr. F. Schultz, received an interesting letter from his friend, Frank Dickmann, from Chico, Butte Co., California, which may be interesting to a number of his friends in this vicinity. Mr. Dickmann is also a brother of Otto and Gust. Dickmann of the town of Auburn. The letter in part reads as follows:

"I take the liberty to send you a few letters describing the country around Chico, California, where I am now living. I have a four room house and lot, the lot here are 50 x 150 feet, for which I paid $850. The house is equipped with electricity, and water works. I sell you Mr. Schultz if this isn't the garden spot of the world, then I don't know where it is. Last winter I was all through Los Angeles and the Imperial Valley. But nothing doing there, it is too hot. In March it was 96 in the shade and it often gets up to 100. While Chico it rarely gets up to 90. If there is anyone at Kewaskum who would like a change of climate tell them about this country. We have room here for all the people in Wisconsin and then some. A man with about $2000 need not work much here. I have my garden almost planted for the first crop. I also planted 20 trees, some grapes and roses. I have some climbing roses from the Statesman, who says they climb to a height of 20 feet the first year, and that they have got to be clipped every year or they will grow to a height of 40 feet or more. Please have the Statesman staff send me their paper regularly as I like to get the news from my old home community. I am a life member of health and am enjoying my beautiful climate."

Send on 10.00 or more Wisconsin postage and we will take care of them.—F. D.

Have a New Modern Cafe.

The White House theatre building North Main-st., one of the city's oldest movie show houses, which has been closed for the past year, was leased last evening by the owners, Frank Haupt and sons, to Christ, Karros and Nick Atherton, two young men of Chicago, experienced operators of large city cafes. A long term lease has been secured upon the building by the Chicago men, who have taken the whole of the building, from the basement to the attic. The gentlemen came yesterday to close the deal after having spent the previous week here looking over the city and trying to secure a suitable location.—Hartford Times.

CAMPBELLSPORT BAND ELECTS OFFICERS

The following officers for the ensuing year were elected by the members of the Campbellsport Brass Band, at a meeting held by that organization in the I. O. O. F. hall last Thursday evening: Secretary—George Braun. Treasurer—Bernard Ulrich. Marshal—Alfred Van de Zande. Leader—Dr. P. A. Hoffmann. First assistant leader—Walt Schaefer. It was agreed that a series of concerts be given by that musical organization throughout the year, the first one to take place Easter Monday.

KEWASKUM IN GRIP OF SEVERE STORM

In what probably was the worst snow storm, accompanied by a high wind, and which caused thousands of dollars worth of damage throughout the state, swept over this section on Tuesday and Wednesday. The storm started about four o'clock Tuesday afternoon, when a high northwest wind accompanied by a heavy snow fall swept down upon this section and raged until an early hour Thursday morning.

Kewaskum, as far as traffic and mail was concerned, was completely shut off from the outside world from Wednesday until Friday. All public highways were completely blocked by the high drifts. Business was practically at a standstill, in fact all business places could have been closed as far as business was concerned. The public schools as well as parochial schools were closed from Wednesday on, because the children were unable to wade through the high drifts. Mail carriers, as well as the bus line service had to abandon the idea of covering their routes from Wednesday till Saturday, when the main highways were again opened for traffic.

The only persons taking any chances to venture out into the country roads were the local doctors, who experienced extreme difficulty in battling through the frozen snow before reaching their destination.

The Chicago & North Western Railway, has undoubtedly suffered the heaviest loss. The right-of-way was entirely closed. Trains together with snow plows were stuck in deep drifts along the line between Milwaukee and Fond du Lac. No trains were operated on this division from Wednesday morning until Thursday night. This village and vicinity was without mail for forty-eight hours.

Extreme cold aided in hampering traffic, as the snow was frozen hard making the work of shoveling same a difficult task. Kewaskum was lucky as far as fire hazard, which frequently accompanies such storms. A chimney fire was reported at one of the local garages Tuesday evening but by prompt action of the fire department, no damage was reported.

The storm which held Wisconsin in its grip for forty-eight hours, is considered by the older people to have been the worst experienced here in years. Although, only a few years ago a severe snow storm blocked traffic in every respect, but not to such an extent and of such long period. It is reported that as the storm was general, it will take some time before things will be moved along on schedule time.

CAMPBELLSPORT MEN HAVE THRILLING EXPERIENCE

Lost in the blinding blizzard all night, Frank Bauer and Floyd Sackett of Campbellsport struggled through snow drifts north of Kewaskum for more than eight hours, finally reached the home of Frank Volz at Five Corners on Wednesday morning, and telephoned to anxious families at Campbellsport just as a rescue party was leaving in search of them.

Deputy Sheriff Bauer and Sackett were out with a milk truck. They left West Bend on the return trip about 5:30 Tuesday night and had been on the way only a short time when the storm hit them on the county line. Inside of thirty minutes, the big truck was completely covered with snow, they said. They started out to walk, but were so blinded by the blizzard that they could scarcely stumble through the big drifts. After fighting their way for many hours, they finally reached Five Corners early Wednesday morning—just three and a half miles from where they abandoned the truck.

Friends in Campbellsport knew that the two had left West Bend late in the afternoon, and when nothing was heard from them, worried for fear they might be frozen to death. A rescue party was organized and was just about to start out this morning when the telephone call came in from the Volz residence, stating that the two were quite safe.—Fond du Lac Commonwealth.

DEATH OF FORMER WASHINGTON COUNTY RESIDENT

Mrs. Sophia Johann, aged 59 years, wife of Peter Johann, died at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday at her home in Fond du Lac. Mrs. Johann was born February 10, 1864 in the town of Wayne, Washington county. Besides a widow, she is survived by three sons, Louis and Frank of Fond du Lac and Edward of North Fond du Lac, a daughter, Mrs. Marie Thornburg of North Fond du Lac; two brothers, Henry and Andrew Kintzler of Fond du Lac and a sister, Mrs. Fred Reuter of Milwaukee. The funeral was held Friday at 1 p. m. from the residence and at 2 p. m. from the Fond du Lac Baptist church. Rev. Gordon officiated. Burial was made in the Estabrook cemetery.

Just What He Needs

POPULAR LOCAL PEOPLE WED

The parsonage of the Ev. St. Lucas congregation, was the scene of a quiet wedding last Saturday afternoon, at 1:30 o'clock, February 11, 1923, when Miss Esther Raether, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Raether, became the bride of Harold Petri, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Petri of Campbellsport. Rev. F. Greve tied the nuptial knot. The bride, who was dressed in a dark blue Bolivia suit, with hat to match, and who wore a corsage bouquet of premier roses, was attended by Miss Catherine Petri, sister of the groom as bridesmaid. She wore a dark blue canton crepe suit, and corsage bouquet of colonial roses. The groom was attended by William Kumrow, cousin of the bride, as best man. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, after the ceremony, where a five course wedding dinner was served with only immediate relatives of the contracting parties in attendance. The home was prettily decorated with natural flowers.

The bride is a popular young lady of Kewaskum. She is a graduate of the Kewaskum High School, with the class of 1920. Shortly after completing the high school course, she accepted a position as telephone operator for the Theresa Union Telephone company, which position she has fulfilled in a most efficient manner for the past three years. She was also a member of the Kewaskum Girl's Club, in which organization she held a responsible office.

The groom is a well known, respected and industrious young man, who for some time has been employed as electrician for the Delec light plants sold by the L. Rosenheimer firm. Since December 1st, last he has been employed as maintainer for the Badger Service company, and only recently he purchased the electric shop from the Kewaskum Electric Light Company. Previous to his coming to this village, he attended an electrical school at Dayton, Ohio, and at Milwaukee.

Mr. and Mrs. Petri will make their future home in Kewaskum. They have the well wishes of their many friends for a happy and prosperous married life.

NOTICE

Holstein Gives Birth to Triplets.

Besides being a heavy milk producer a full blood Holstein cow belonging to Albert R. Hollnagel, proprietor of Forest Edge Farm, gave birth last Saturday to triplets, three heifer calves.

The three calves are healthy and normal and Mr. Hollnagel guesses their weight at from 50 to 60 pounds each. Many freaks have been reported in the past but this appears to be a natural birth of three calves.—Randolph Advance.

Hughes Barn Consumed by Fire Last Sunday

The large barn on the Manley farm in the town of Mitchell, was totally destroyed by fire Sunday afternoon. Mr. Hughes was working in the barn with a blow torch endeavoring to thaw out some water pipes which had frozen when the flame from the torch ignited some inflammable material. Before he could check the fire the blaze spread and was soon beyond control. As a result the structure, measuring 110 ft. by 40 ft. was totally destroyed. A three-year-old sire and three calves also were burned to death and 1,400 bushels of oats with a quantity of other feed consumed. The structure was modern in practically every respect and was erected at a cost of between $6,000 and $7,000. Though insurance was carried the loss will no doubt be quite heavy. Not only was there a property loss, but some money was also burned up. Mr. Hughes had on a coat, containing thirty dollars in currency. When the fire spread, he threw off the coat and tossed it on a milk wagon. Later the flames reached the wagon, which was soon ablaze and the coat and currency went up in smoke with the other things.—Plymouth Reporter.

Removed Carp From The Hustisford Pond

Last week we published an article about the fish at Hustisford pond being killed off by the thickness of the ice and we are informed by Dept. Game Warden Lisko that the latter part of the week he got permission from the department to allow a lot of carp being taken from the river at night with dip nets. He says that on three nights about 40,000 pounds of carp were taken out of the lake in that way and that farmers came from long distances to get some of them, which were sold at a cheap price. The removal of this lot of carp will help the other fish some in their fight for life but other means will also have to be taken to save the fish in the pond. Mr. Lisko also cut several large holes in the lake at different places, but a lot more ought to be cut by the fishermen of that vicinity if they wish to save the fish from being smothered by the thick ice and snow.—Hartford Press.

New Northwestern Depot?

A petition recently was circulated numerously signed and, we understand, has been sent to the State Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, praying for a new, modern railway depot at Port Washington. The petition recites the condition of the shack that serves the community at present as a depot and it is said that a report by an inspector of the State Board of Health, dealing with its alleged unsanitary condition, accompanies the petition.—Port Washington Star.

The citizens of this village and community were greatly shocked, when the sad news reached here this week that Fred A. Schaefer Jr., of West Bend, had passed away to his heavenly home at the Soldier's Home Hospital, Milwaukee, on Wednesday morning at 12:45 o'clock, February 14th, 1923, after an illness of two months with acute cardiac dilatation, thought to have been brought about during his services over seas.

Deceased was born July 13, 1893, at Milwaukee, where he spent his childhood days, coming to Kewaskum with his parents in 1912. After residing here eight years, he moved with his parents to West Bend, where he lived up to the time of his death. He leaves to mourn his untimely death, his sorrowing father, Fred Schaefer, Sr., and the following brothers and sisters: Ralph, Milton and Helen at home, Elsie (Mrs. Math. Regner) at West Bend. Besides these he leaves a large number of relatives and friends and his affianced bride, Miss Hattie Deiger. His mother preceded him in death nearly three years ago.

Fred was a popular young man of a kind, jovial and friendly disposition, a favorite among his many friends and relatives. Always willing to extend a helping hand, and to assist those in need. When the United States entered the World War, he stood ready to answer his country's call, enlisting on May 16, 1917 at Milwaukee, in Headquarters Company, 5th Cavalry. From Milwaukee he was transferred to Camp Douglas, where he was in training for several months, when he was sent to Waco, Texas, where he was transferred in the 120th Field Artillery 32nd Division. From here he was sent over seas, being in one of the first contingents to leave for France, where he served fourteen months, fighting in the front lines continually with the exception of three days. While in battle he had experienced several close calls, it is thought that it was while engaged in one of those battles that he contracted a disease which later develop into a serious case, and finally spelled death. After the war was over he was honorably discharged, and returned to his home at West Bend. While at home he made every effort to do his best, but his ailment was such that he had to refrain from many of his good intentions. Although he suffered intensely, he never complained, always seeking to make the best of life and to comfort those nearest to him. While at the hospital, to which place he left three weeks ago, as a last resort to save his life, and where he endured his suffering with patience to the end. Deceased, as a citizen, was an honor to his family and community in which he lived; as a soldier he served his country and served it well, although he is gone, his memory will live on in those who were nearest to him. His absence will be felt most keenly by one and all.

The body was shipped to this village on Thursday evening, and transferred from the North Western depot to the Republican House, where the body lay in state until today (Saturday) from which place the funeral was held at 2 P. M. with services in the Ev. Peace church. Rev. H. L. Barth officiated. Interment was made in the congregation's cemetery.

LOMIRA PIONEER DIES

August Walters, aged 70, of Lomira, died Monday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Edward Schwebke, at Fond du Lac, where the deceased had made his home for the past five weeks. He was born Feb. 14, 1853 in Germany coming to Wisconsin when a small boy his first home being in Lomira. On Feb. 18, 1876, he was married to Mary Rose, who preceded him in death eight years ago. Mr. Walters leaves five children to mourn his demise, as follows: Mrs. Ida Falk, Auburndale, Wis.; Mrs. Louise Schwebke, Fond du Lac; Mrs. Leona Adelmeyer, Oakfield; Albert and Arnold Walters of Oakfield. 18 grandchildren and one great grand child also survive. The funeral was held Thursday at the home of his son Albert at Oakfield. Burial was made in Avoca cemetery.

HATLESS HIKER ARRIVES HERE

Hatless, coatless and penniless, covered with ice and snow, in company with his large Airdale dog, in the midst of a severe snow storm, Leonard Day, Californian author and writer, arrived in this village Monday, shortly after twelve o'clock noon, from West Bend. He was a guest of the Kewaskum Fire Department, making his stopping place at the Republican House. Mr. Day, who has neither money, nor the right to accept money, who may be hungry but may not ask for food, who may be tired but cannot accept a lift, is making his way afoot around the rim of the United States, a distance of 10,586 miles, from San Francisco and back. He started his journey on November 20, 1921, and upon arriving at Kewaskum had traveled 7,200 miles, he was on his way to Campbellsport, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, and then northwest to St. Paul, to the state of Washington and back to San Francisco. He states that if all goes well he will be able to complete his unique trip by July next.

Day's strange hike all started about a story he wrote, entitled "The Unsolicited Generosity of the American People". In which he named "Leonard Day" as the character which accomplished this journey. The publisher refused to print the work on the basis of its absurdity. Day then forced his printers into a contract, by which he was to make the trip, prove his contention that it could be done, and further discover first hand the real attitude of the American people toward the wanderer. As a result he is now traveling the United States unable to ask for a single thing other than a match, a drink of water and a comfortable station. Everything else in the way of clothing, food, shelter and other necessities and luxuries must be given him free will by those with whom he comes in contact. Mr. Day states that he has made a most remarkable trip, since his journey he was forced to sleep out side three times, and missed thirty-one meals, two of them in Wisconsin. He has been greeted with kindness and curses.

Thoughtlessness is the greatest evil which he has to battle, he states. Unable to ask for things he needs or wants, he must rely upon the intuition of his hosts on the journey to provide those things.

When he completes his journey he will receive a sum of $6,500 which covers all rights to a new book which he will write after his return, and for which he has his gathering data. Kewaskum will certainly be put on the map as far as his story is concerned. Mr. Day stated, for the kind hospitality shown here, is rare to be found in villages of this size. The only weapon Mr. Day carries is a dried stalk of cactus which he picked up in the Yuma desert in Arizona. This cane is tacked full of fire company badges, given to him by the different fire companies he has visited on his journey. The local company badge now also has a prominent place on the cane. Mr. Day says he was offered $3,000 for the cane. This was refused because he wants the cane himself and because the $3,000 would be of no earthly use to him on his journey.

Mr. Day is a man of intelligence, and the trip he has undertaken is of such nature that he is glad when he has finally completed same. Never again will he undertake another proposition of that kind. He says.

With the snow banked up from six to ten feet, completely hampering traffic on the public highways, and the thermometer registering from 16 to 20 below zero, the local fire company did not take a chance in sending Mr. Day on his journey, but held him here until such time when traveling conditions were more safe, which perhaps will be some time today (Saturday).

ASSEMBLYMAN DIERINGER PRESENTS BILL

Assemblyman Thomas J. Dieringer, of Campbellsport, has presented a bill to the Wisconsin legislature at Madison, the provisions of which creates a new code of constitutional rights. The bill as drawn up reads as follows:

"The liberty of the press shall forever remain inviolate and all persons may freely speak, write and publish their sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of such right.

"The right to organize in unions, associations or organizations of such form as the members thereof may determine and for such purpose and in such manner as the members thereof may determine is hereby guaranteed to all men and women within this state, such organizations, unions or associations and the members thereof being responsible for the abuse of that right.

"The right of any union, organization or association and the members thereof to be represented by those whom they may choose as their representatives, shall not be denied or abridged.

"The right of peaceful assemblage and free speech in this state, whether in time of peace or war shall not be infringed or denied, and no peaceful assemblage shall be molested or disturbed by any person or persons, organization, association nor by any official of any county, township, city or village within this state.

"No person shall be hindered or discriminated against in his employment by his employer or otherwise because of his membership in any organization specified in this bill.

The foregoing are hereby declared to be fundamental civil rights without which no real liberty security or protection of the people can exist."

The bill as presented by Mr. Dieringer would punish by a fine of not less than $500 nor more than $5,000 or by jail sentence of not less than 90 days nor more than one year any person violating the civil rights law. Any person violating the measure could also be held liable for civil damages resulting from his acts.

If it occurred that a public official violated the Dieringer measure he could be adjudged by a court unfit to hold any other office of public trust for a period of 10 years.

EUGENE O'BRIEN COMING TO MILWAUKEE IN PERSON

"Steve", proclaimed by all of the dramatic writers a distinct and picturesque theatrical novelty, with Eugene O'Brien, the noted stage and screen star in the title role, will be presented at the Davidson Theatre, Milwaukee, the week beginning Sunday, Feb. 18. The play, which is in three acts, is from the pen of Robert L. Dempster, and is a charming romantic comedy with the scenes laid on an island off the coast of Maine, a place noted for its picturesque and historical beauty. Unless its sponsors and dramatic critics experienced in the ways of the theatre have lost all sense of proportion, "Steve" is sure to make its appeal through its romantic charm and sweetness and it is promised that playgoers as well as dramatic commentators who bewail the lack of new and interesting things in the theatre have a most delightful surprise coming to them when it is presented in Milwaukee.

It would not be poetic in advance to go too much into detail as to the character of the entertainment, for playgoers take exception to being told the story of a play, claiming that it oftentimes removes the keen enjoyment thereof. The chief charm of "Steve" lies in the highly ingenious manner in which it is presented, the scenic effect entering vitally into this feature of the performance. As for the story itself, it may be stated that it's decidedly romantic and comedy tendencies and the whole offering comes under the classification of perfect and wholesome amusement.

Mr. O'Brien will be assisted by Mrs. Thomas Whiffen, the youngest old lady of the American stage, and a cast including Vivian Ogden, Helen Weir, Ann Winston, Isabel Winlocke, Peggy Whiffen, Homer Barton, Wm. McFadden and Duncan Penwarden and others of equal note. The play was staged by Laura Hope Crews, herself a well known star, who is making her initial bow as a stage Directress.

Matinees will be given Wednesday and Saturday.

Mail orders are now being filled in the order of receipt. A remittance and self-addressed stamped envelope for return of tickets should accompany such orders. Add 10% tax to all prices.

Nights: $2.50, $2.00, $1.50, $1.00
Popular Matinee Wednesday $1.50, $1.00.

Saturday Matinee: $2.00, $1.50, $1.00.

RUHR EMBARGO CLAMPED DOWN

France and Belgium Bar All Exports of Germany.

FACTORY PRODUCTS SEIZED

Premier Poincare Plays His Trump Card in Tightening Noose Around Germany's Throat—Britain to Protect Rights.

Paris, Feb. 12.—Premier Poincare has played France's trump card, simultaneously the Belgian and French governments will prevent the export of manufactured products from the occupied Ruhr factories into unoccupied Germany.

The action is the result of an agreement between M. Jassier, Belgian foreign minister, and Premier Poincare.

General Degoutte, arriving at Paris, assured Premier Poincare that tightening the noose around Germany's throat by stopping the shipments out of the occupied territory will materially shorten the time necessary to bring Germany to its knees.

Lord Crewe, British ambassador, called at Quai d'Orsay after hearing of the new measure, and it is understood that he made representations in behalf of the British government, insisting that the rights of England's commercial and financial interests in Germany be protected if they were found compromised through the measure.

The Franco-Belgian plan is to sell the Ruhr production of manufactures wherever purchasers can be found, applying the funds received, after deducting the costs, to the reparations account.

The seizure of manufactured goods may produce two important developments—employees of the factories may strike, requiring additional troops to preserve order, and the Germans may refuse to pay wages when the production is seized, necessitating the French issuance of special money, as was contemplated when the Berlin government threatened not to pay the miners.

DEMANDS FRENCH QUIT RUHR

British Labor Party Says Branch of International Law Has Been Committed.

London, Feb. 12.—The Independent Labor party issued a manifesto asking that a "constructive program by the party" replace the "government's policy of inaction." WISCONSIN NEWS Important Events of the Week Around the Badger State.

Madison—A controversy being carried on in northern Wisconsin over the highest point of land in the state, was settled by Prof. W. O. Hotchkiss, state geologist, who announced that Rib hill, near Wausau, had the highest altitude above sea level of any elevation yet measured in Wisconsin.

Madison—Bumper crops of corn, hay and potatoes, an oat production 60 per cent greater than in 1921, a rye crop 40 per cent in excess of that grown the previous year, and a production of canning peas twice that of 1921 feature the summary of crop production during 1922, made by the state crop reporting service.

Madison—Miss Zona Gale, Portage, and Senator C. B. Casperson, Fredrick, were appointed to the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin by Gov. Blaine. Miss Gale, widely known author, will succeed Mrs. Florence Q. Buckstaff, Oshkosh, the recent incumbent. Her term is for six years. Senator Casperson succeeds Peter Eimon, Superior, as the recent representative from the Eleventh Congressional district. His term likewise is for six years.

Neillsville—Trustees of the Clark county insane asylum report that there are 212 patients now being cared for there. A number of them are from counties other than Clark. The capacity of the asylum is 300 and the trustees expect that it will all be filled before many months. The county receives $4.24 a week for each outside patient, which leaves a small margin of profit. When the asylum farm is fully developed it is predicted that there will be a still larger margin of profit in caring for out-of-county patients.

Elkhorn—Contracts for construction of nine miles of concrete road on two different jobs were let at Elkhorn by the Wausau county highway department in what is probably the first job of the year in the state. A Madison firm got the contract for the four miles on highway 12 between White-water and Elkhorn on a bid of $85,888, or $21,222 a mile. A Racine contractor was awarded the contract for building five miles on the Elkhorn-Darlington rd for $113,210.

Franklinville—Members of the Racine County Milk Producers' association went on record as unanimously opposed to daylight saving at a meeting in Franklinville attended by more than 200 farmers. A resolution to pledge members against using oleomargarine and discourage its manufacture and sale was also adopted. The association accepted a flat price for February milk of $2.60.

Fond du Lac—The third country schoolhouse since the opening of school last September destroyed the James Oeis school in Fond du Lac county. The fire is believed to have been started by an overheated stove. Two schools in Byron township burned earlier in the year, one under circumstances that pointed to incendiarism, and the other under circumstances that were peculiar. County officials declare that the number of school fires in rural districts this year is unusual.

Tomah—Wolves have been reported near Tomah and several parties have been out hunting them. Few have been killed, however, although John McCurdy is reported to have shot one in the vicinity of Water Mill, seven miles north of the city.

New London—The Rev. Walter D. Sharratt, pastor of the Holy Trinity English Lutheran church, New London, for three years, has resigned to accept a position in Cleveland, O., doing field work.

Marquette—Miss Ella Boettcher, of Rat River, Marquette, was severely burned by hot coffee. She was standing near the stove when her apron strings caught on the handle of the coffee pot, overturning it.

Green Bay—County Agent J. N. Kavanaugh has mailed out twenty-five checks to farmers of Brown county who won cash prizes, aggregating $75, at the De Pere grain show held during January.

Janesville—George Moore, Rock county farmer, suffered a $10,000 loss when fire destroyed his barn, 14 head of cattle, several tons of hay and fodder, and farm machinery. Insurance partly covers the loss.

Manitowoc—Permission has been granted by Manitowoc for the placing of the memorial to the soldier and sailor dead of the late war in the parkway drive at the entrance to Evergreen cemetery.

Madison—To enable him to go home to take care of a purbred Percheron stallion that hasn't been given of the barn since Sept. 29, Gov. Blaine pardoned Edward Ehnman, Pepin county farmer, serving one year for making moonshine.

Madison—The industrial commission announces that during the calendar year of 1922, 112,665 persons secured positions through the eleven public employment offices maintained jointly by the state and federal government.

Juneau—Otto Cleason, recently released from prison after serving 10 years for an attempted assault on a young woman, was arrested again on the charge of attempting to assault a young woman at Beaver Dam. He was arraigned at Juneau and held in default of $1,000 bail.

Shell Lake—William Semm, 72, pioneer resident of Washburn county, died at his home in Shell Lake. Mr. Semm was one of the first settlers of Washburn county.

La Crosse—Escorted by six units of the national guard and militia officers representing every command in the state, the body of Adj. Gen. Orlando Holway, head of the Wisconsin National guard, was borne to La Crosse, in Oak Grove cemetery at La Crosse, following services in the Christ Episcopal church. It was the largest and most imposing military funeral ever held in La Crosse. Funeral volleys over the grave were fired by a detachment of the One Hundred Twenty-eighth infantry and the salute by a platoon from the One Hundred Twentieth field artillery.

Green Bay—More than 2,000 dairy farmers of Brown county will back the movement to advertise Wisconsin dairy products when a campaign is opened in Green Bay, in the near future, to raise funds for the purpose, it was stated by County Agent J. N. Kavanaugh. There are possibly 2,000 farms in the county that could be called dairy farms. It is expected that a large majority of the owners will donate receipts from two days' sale of milk toward the $200,000 fund which is to be spent in a national campaign through publications and various other forms of advertising.

Madison—Miss Zona Gale, Portage, and Senator C. B. Casperson, Fredrick, were appointed to the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin by Gov. Blaine. Miss Gale, widely known author, will succeed Mrs. Florence Q. Buckstaff, Oshkosh, the recent incumbent. Her term is for six years. Senator Casperson succeeds Peter Eimon, Superior, as the recent representative from the Eleventh Congressional district. His term likewise is for six years.

Marshfield—James A. Chapman, victim of the Christmas package bomb that killed his wife, was discharged from St. Joseph's hospital, Marshfield. He was taken to his farm home at Klondike by his nephew, James Tarr, who was with him when the bomb exploded. Chapman is still unable to walk without assistance and there are pieces of the bomb still in his left leg. Injuries to his left arm, suffered when the explosion tore off his left hand, have healed.

Madison—Another outbreak of influenza in the state is feared by the state board of health, which began a state-wide survey to determine what headway the epidemic has gained during the last few weeks. Schools at West Allis, Sturgeon Bay and Antigo have been closed, as well as many schools in rural districts in various parts of the state, according to the board. At Sturgeon Bay the ban was extended to theatres and other public gathering places.

Sheboygan—The Sheboygan city council has passed a resolution asking congress to make an appropriation for the erection of a postoffice and federal building in that city. The present postoffice was erected in 1895 and is inadequate to the demands made upon it, the city fathers have decided.

Washburn—The trophy offered by the De Pont Powder Co. to the plant making the best record for freedom from accidents, has been awarded to the Barksdale dynamite plant at Washburn. The period covers the past thirty-three months. During that time just one major accident occurred at the Barksdale plant.

Tomah—Wolves have been reported near Tomah and several parties have been out hunting them. Few have been killed, however, although John McCurdy is reported to have shot one in the vicinity of Water Mill, seven miles north of the city.

New London—The Rev. Walter D. Sharratt, pastor of the Holy Trinity English Lutheran church, New London, for three years, has resigned to accept a position in Cleveland, O., doing field work.

Marquette—Miss Ella Boettcher, of Rat River, Marquette, was severely burned by hot coffee. She was standing near the stove when her apron strings caught on the handle of the coffee pot, overturning it.

Green Bay—County Agent J. N. Kavanaugh has mailed out twenty-five checks to farmers of Brown county who won cash prizes, aggregating $75, at the De Pere grain show held during January.

Janesville—George Moore, Rock county farmer, suffered a $10,000 loss when fire destroyed his barn, 14 head of cattle, several tons of hay and fodder, and farm machinery. Insurance partly covers the loss.

Manitowoc—Permission has been granted by Manitowoc for the placing of the memorial to the soldier and sailor dead of the late war in the parkway drive at the entrance to Evergreen cemetery.

Madison—To enable him to go home to take care of a purbred Percheron stallion that hasn't been given of the barn since Sept. 29, Gov. Blaine pardoned Edward Ehnman, Pepin county farmer, serving one year for making moonshine.

Madison—The industrial commission announces that during the calendar year of 1922, 112,665 persons secured positions through the eleven public employment offices maintained jointly by the state and federal government.

Juneau—Otto Cleason, recently released from prison after serving 10 years for an attempted assault on a young woman, was arrested again on the charge of attempting to assault a young woman at Beaver Dam. He was arraigned at Juneau and held in default of $1,000 bail.

Shell Lake—William Semm, 72, pioneer resident of Washburn county, died at his home in Shell Lake. Mr. Semm was one of the first settlers of Washburn county.

With the Wisconsin Legislature

Madison, Wis.—Dance hall regulation by Wisconsin counties is asked in a bill introduced in the upper house by Senator Eldo T. Ridgway, Elkhorn. The measure has the backing of social organizations and county boards throughout the state, as a move to block the growing vice menace of public dance halls in country districts.

Regulations through dance hall inspectors, chosen by the county health committees, is called for under the proposal. Its comprehensive provisions give the county board control over dance halls, amusement parks, carnivals, street fairs and bathing beaches. Heavy penalties are provided for violation of its sections, in addition to power to revoke licenses of amusement places.

Passes for Pensioned Rail Workers. Free passes for railroad men and their families after being pensioned or disabled in the service was asked by Assemblyman Henry Nein, La Crosse, in a bill introduced in the legislature.

The bill would amend the statutes to permit railroads to grant free transportation to employees who are furloughed or pensioned or who have become disabled in the service and their families. Wives of employees killed in the service would also be granted passes during her widowhood as well as minor children.

"Railroaders do not look upon this as favoritism," Mr. Nein said. "They consider it only fair compensation for their services to the railroad companies."

Asks Primary Requirement Cut. Amendment of the 10 per cent clause in the Wisconsin primary election law to require that but 5 per cent of the votes cast for a party candidate in the last general election would give the party a place on the next election ballot was proposed by Assemblyman Richard Kamke, Merrill, the only Democratic member of the legislature. His bill is introduced as a result of inability of Democratic candidates to comply with the restrictive regulation during the last election.

Faith Healers Target of Bill. Faith healers, offering treatment in Wisconsin while not possessed of a scientific knowledge, would be barred from the state under provisions of a bill introduced in the legislature by Senator Theodore Benfer, Sheboygan. The measure is understood to include chiropractors within its scope. This measure would require that any person desiring to practice healing in the state must first pass an examination conducted by a state board in the four basic sciences of anatomy, physiology, pathology and diagnosis.

Dahl Withdraws Tax Bill. Owing to errors in printing, Speaker John L. Dahl withdrew his taxation bill in the assembly. When the errors were disclosed it was at first reported that the bill would be reprinted in correct form. The bill bill repeals the personal property offset. Petitions have been pouring in from small merchants and farmers protesting against the offset repeal. It is hinted that further conferences on this point may be held before the new bill is introduced.

The wet members of the Wisconsin legislature have organized preparatory to their introduction of bills affecting the law of the state. Senator M. F. White, Winnebago, was elected permanent chairman and steering and publicity committees were appointed. A majority from the lower house was present at the meeting, as was a large share of the senate.

Direct nomination of the president and vice president by popular vote is asked in a resolution by Senator O. H. Johnson, Grant, recommended for adoption by the senate judiciary committee. The resolution memorializes congress to submit to the people the question of an amendment to the constitution to permit choice of presidential candidates.

The Wisconsin senate sent to engrossment the Barber bill including women under provisions of the state eminent law. This proposal, accepted without a dissenting vote in the senate, would require that women submit to an anti-nuptial physical examination in the same manner as men, before being granted a license to marry.

An all year open season on rabbits in Rock and Sawyer counties is asked in a bill by Assemblyman Summer-ville, who also introduced a bill giving a bounty of 25 cents on ground hogs and woodchucks.

The state affairs committee of the senate recommended for passage a bill by Senator Garey making Armistice day a legal holiday in Wisconsin. Without recommendation, it sent a bill by Senator Garey, making Big Bill on the Rock river a state park, to the finance committee.

Employers or their agents would be prohibited from soliciting contributions from their employees under a bill by Senator Bernard Gettleman, Milwaukee.

SESSION SIDELIGHTS.

Retests for bovine tuberculosis under the area plan in Wisconsin were asked by Assemblyman C. H. Liehe, Chippewa Falls, in a bill introduced in the legislature. The bill would permit the livestock sanitary board to cause any or all cattle in any county where the tuberculin test is provided for to be retested whenever the board deems it necessary. An appropriation of $25,000 annually for two years, beginning July 1, is asked to pay the expenses of retesting.

Counter Attack Hits Tax Bills.

Two moves to defeat the Severson income surtax bill and the Dahl general income tax bill, are evident in the contention that the income tax proposals now before the legislature would endanger industry.

Senator George Czerwikowski, Milwaukee, introduced a resolution calling for appointment of an interim committee of three members from the senate to study the entire tax question and report to the 1923 session of the legislature. In the meantime he would have proposed tax legislation held up.

Senator Herman Bilzniec, Iron Ridge, announced he would have a substitute amendment to the Severson surtax bill, making drastic changes in that proposal, which he declared to be antagonistic to the interests of industry in Wisconsin. He said he would oppose both the Dahl and Severson bills.

Make Auto Drivers Pass Test.

The most stringent legislation yet proposed on the control of automobile driving for the protection of the general public was asked in a bill by Assemblyman Michael Laffy, Milwaukee, introduced in the legislature. Drivers of motor vehicles would have to pass an examination on the operation of an automobile and the ordinances of the city applicable to automobile operation, before getting a license from county clerks of the state, who, under the direction of the railroad commission would act as licensing commissioners.

On each license stub would be the signature of the person, fingerprints and a dated photograph. Before issuing a license, the operator of the car must be insured against personal injury and property damage that might be caused by his car, under terms of the bill.

Ask Release of $1,500,000.

Federal aid for highway construction to the extent of $1,500,000 would be made immediately available by a bill recommended through the joint highway committee of the legislature. This will enable the highway commission to proceed at once with its plans for the present year, if the bill is passed.

Under its provisions $711,000 of highway money now lying in the general fund out of use will be appropriated to the commission for road building in addition to $788,000 appropriated from the general fund in anticipation of excess highway funds after all expenditures legally allowed from license fees on automobiles are made.

Has Bill to Curb High Rents.

To curb high rent charges Senator Howard Teasdale, Sparta, introduced a bill in the state senate providing heavy penalties for landlords who charge unreasonable rentals. The proposal establishes that an unreasonable rent is any charge in excess of 10 per cent of the market value of the property plus operating costs. The actual market value is set at not in excess of 120 per cent of the assessed valuation.

Any landlord charging rates in excess of the maximum would be fined $500 for each offense.

Would Probe Affairs of State.

Investigation of all state departments by the legislature is provided under a "compulsory interpolation bill" introduced in the lower house by Assemblyman Anton M. Miller, Outagamie county. Under Mr. Miller's measure, all heads of state departments would be required to appear before the legislature during the first five weeks of the session and submit a detailed report as to the cost and work of each department. Failure to appear would render the official liable to summary dismissal.

Senate Adopts Huber Resolution.

After extended discussion, the Wisconsin senate adopted the Huber resolution providing for an amendment to the state constitution to establish the initiative and referendum. The vote was 18 to 11.

For the last eight years attempts have been made to get such a proposed constitutional amendment before the people, following their rejection of the plan at a referendum in 1914. This is the first success since that time.

Officials or employees of the state would be barred from accepting pay, either directly or indirectly for writing any article concerning a state official with whom they may come in contact, by Senator Garey's latest bill. The manufacture and sale of oleomargarine or other butter substitutes would be prohibited in Wisconsin under a bill drawn by Assemblyman Anton Hully, Kewaunee county.

A joint resolution to amend the national bank act to prohibit branch banking by national banks was introduced in the legislature by Assemblyman Robert Caldwell, Lodi.

By a unanimous vote William G. Johnston post of the American Legion of Eau Claire, voted an indignant protest against a bill pending before the Wisconsin legislature providing for the abolition of the National Guard.

A bill amending the game laws so as to permit an all-year open season on crane was introduced in the lower house of the Wisconsin legislature by Assemblyman Charles H. Liehe, Chippewa Falls.

To The Glory Of Womanhood

No greater tribute has ever been paid to the women of America than is found in the calm analytical report of the University of Wisconsin which dispassionately discloses the fact that widows and self-supporting mothers sent 153 sons and daughters to the University this fall to join the freshman class. Mothers registered 93 sons and 60 daughters.

Now learn the story of the self-sacrifice of these mothers. One hundred and twenty-five were housewives, 5 were nurses, 3 dress-makers, 3 milliners, 2 matrons, 2 stenographers, 1 dramatic critic, 1 a librarian, 1 chaperon, 1 club manager, 1 retired farmer, 1 caterer, 1 hotel proprietor, 1 saleswoman, 1 beauty parlor operator, 1 canner and finally, one telephone operator. Truly of such mothers are as well as children is the Kingdom of Heaven.

Fathers who sent boys to college embraced a variety of the most menial callings.

Such is the American melting pot. Such is the hunger for education to provide education that will fit the rising generation for better things than father or mother ever knew. From the seeds of sacrifice may come to us in a single generation development that will spell a newer and a better America. Let these youngsters not forget.

LENTE RULES ARE ANNOUNCED

Lenten regulations for the archdiocese of Milwaukee were read by pastors of the Catholic churches on Sunday.

The rules of abstinence and fast which apply to all members of the Catholic faith follow:

- 1.—"The law of abstinence forbids to eat meat or the juice of meat; but not eggs, milk and its products, and any seasonings from the fat of animals." By this last is meant what are usually called the "drippings" from animal fat and lard used to season the meats, especially vegetables. Drippings are the liquid drops from heated fat or lard. In strict law the solid fat or lard by itself is not allowed, for instance, as a greasing for bread.
- 2.—"The law of fast demands that only one full meal a day be taken; but it does not forbid to take some food morning and evening, provided the amount and quality of the food be observed according to the approved custom of the place." In the United States custom and indulg allow coffee, tea, chocolate with a piece of bread in the morning, and eggs, butter, milk, etc., in the evening.
- 3.—"It is not forbidden to mingle meat and fish at the same meal, or to exchange the dinner with the evening collation." The former prohibition of eating flossmeat and fish, oysters, crabs, turtles, etc., at the same meal on fast days, is now entirely abolished. One is free, even without special reason, to take the collation or light luncheon at noon and the dinner or principal meal in the evening.
- 4.—"The law of abstinence alone must be observed on all Fridays." The old law is abolished which made all Saturdays also days of abstinence.
- 5.—"The law of both, abstinence and fast, must be observed on Ash Wednesday, the Fridays and Saturdays of Lent, the Ember days, and the vigils of Pentecost, Assumption of the Mother of God, All Saints, and Christmas." This is now the general law. But by papal indulg for the United States we transfer the Lenten abstinence from the Saturdays to the Wednesdays, so that for us during Lent the Wednesdays are meatless days while on Saturdays, meat is allowed, except the Ember Saturday, February 25, and the forenoon of Holy Saturday.
- 6.—"The Fridays in Advent are no longer days of fast, but simply of abstinence."
- 7.—"On Sundays and Feastdays of obligation the law of abstinence, or of abstinence and fast, or of fast alone ceases, except on feastdays during Lent; nor are vigil fasts to be anticipated. It also ceases on Holy Saturday after noon." Whenever outside of Lent a feast of obligation falls on a Friday or any fast day, meat and full meals are allowed on that day. In virtue of an apostolic indulg we hereby grant the same privilege to those parishes where the feast of the Patron Saint (titular) of the parish church is observed with solemnity and a large concourse of people on the proper day assigned in the Order. In this case, however, the solemnity cannot be transferred to the Sunday following.
- 8.—"By the law of abstinence are bound all those who have completed their seventh year of age."
- 9.—"By the law of fast all are bound who have completed their twenty-first year of age, until the beginning of their sixtieth year of age."
- 10.—"Feastdays as well as the days of abstinence and fast must be reckoned from midnight to midnight."
- 11.—"The new law fixes the Paschal-time from Palm Sunday till Low Sunday; but it grants bishops the power of extending the time so as to make it run from the fourth Sunday of Lent until Trinity Sunday. To the bishops of the United States Pope Pius VIII. in 1830 granted the privilege of extending this time still more by making it to begin on the first Sunday of Lent. We hereby profit by this privilege."

AUTOCASTED

THAT'S THE LAST TIME I EVER GO TO A PARTY WITH YOU! THE LOOK THEY GAVE YOU—OH!

YOU MEAN WHEN I LAUGHED AT THE FINE FELLOW WHO GOT CHEWING GUM IN HIS WHISKERS!

NO—I MEAN WHEN YOU MADE THAT WISE CRACK REMARK ABOUT THE BRIDE BEING A GOOD LOOKER.

WELL! IT'S TRUE—SHE LOOKED FOR YEARS BECAUSE SHE FOUND HIM!

—AND WHEN THAT WORRIED LOOKIN' MAN TOLD YOU HIS TROUBLES I HEARD YOU TALKING TO HIM ABOUT A DIVORCE!

YOU'RE WRONG I ADVISED HIM TO GIVE HIS WIFE A FINE PRESENT. HE SAID THAT.

SHE HADN'T SPOKEN A WORD TO HIM FOR WEEKS—I TOLD HIM HE WAS A LUCKY FELLOW—THAT HE'D NEVER GET ANOTHER WIFE LIKE THAT!

HAVE YOU A HOME HABIT? SEND IT IN—AND WE WILL PRINT IT! MESSING SENT THIS: "AN HUSBY LIED TO HIS WIFE UP THE GRASS—ICE LEFT IN HIS GLASS."

INCOME TAX FACTS, NO. 2.

In the making of his income tax return for the year 1922, a taxpayer, if single, is allowed an exemption of $1,000. A married person, or head of a family, whose net income for the year 1922 was $5,000 or less is allowed an exemption of $2,500. The exemption allowed a married person or head of a family whose net income was in excess of $5,000 is $2,000. A head of a family is a person who actually supports one or more persons living in his or her household who are closely related to him or her by blood, marriage or adoption.

An additional credit of $400 is allowed for each person (other than husband or wife) dependent upon the taxpayer for chief support, if such person is under 18 years of age or incapable of self support because mentally or physically defective. A single man whose net income for 1922 was $2,000 and who supports in his home an aged mother would have no tax to pay, but would nevertheless be required to file a return. The fact that a person's income may be nontaxable by reason of the exemptions does not nullify the requirement to file a return if his income was within the prescribed figures—$1,000 if single and $2,000 if married.

The normal tax is 4 per cent on the first $4,000 of net income in excess of the exemptions, and 8 per cent on the remaining net income. The tax may be paid in full at the time of filing the return, or in four installments due on or before March 15, June 15, September 15, and December 15.

Here It Is!—The New

International Manure Spreader

Run Your Eyes Over These Best-yet Features:

1. Roller Bearings. Roller bearings at seven points—the only spreader so equipped.
2. Double Ratchet Drive. Walking beam transmission from main axle eccentric and extra large ratchet wheel give easy, strong, steady feed. No pounding or jerking, due to extra-long movement of pawls on ratchet wheel—only two power impulses on ratchet for every revolution of 46-inch drive wheels. Box tapered to eliminate friction on bar sides. Six feed speeds.
3. Oscillating Front Axle. Auto-type, permitting short turn. No pole whipping. No strain on frame.
4. Power: Both Wheels. Power is transmitted direct from main axle to beaters, wide-spread spiral and manure conveyor—not through beaters to conveyor or vice versa.
5. Wheels Track. Rear wheels track with the front wheels, lightening draft.
6. Tight Bottom. There is no clogging, jamming apron, because the spreader has a tight bottom. Spreads anything. Retains all liquid manure.
7. Two Beaters. Two all-steel beaters with chisel-pointed square teeth work from both top and bottom of the load. Allow extra-high load.
8. Wide-Spread. The spiral behind the beaters gives the manure a third beating, and spreads it finely and uniformly beyond the wheels.
9. All-Steel Main Frame. Does not check, rot or warp. Wood box sides hold only the load. Frame holds operating mechanism independently of box; keeps alignment perfect.

The New International—made in two sizes—is unquestionably the best spreader value on the market today, and when you consider it in connection with its price, it is so far ahead of all others that there is really no comparison.

We have a sample spreader set up for your inspection. Come in and look it over.

PICTURE THAT NEEDS NO LABEL

A recent test of high-school children revealed that many were unfamiliar with the features of a present-day great American statesman, but it would be hard to believe that any child in the country would fail to recognize this picture of George Washington.

Majestic Figure in Nation's History Is That of Washington

Set in the forefront of the nation's history, the figure of Washington looms none of its majestic proportions as the years recede. Rather, is our perception of him clearer, as when moving out from the city streets into the distance of perspective we realize the grandeur of a noble edifice. Moreover, the recent international conferences have done more to bring to the front the full purpose of his utterances and his personality.

Yet the very fact that this august figure suffers naught in the passing of the years, while his fame refuses oblivion, may bind us to the helpful symmetry of his full humanity. His was so well balanced an organization of body, mind and spirit that we are apt to dwell upon his lofty serenity and majestic poise, forgetting those phases of his personality that cheer and uplift the average man. For this otherwise peerless worthy representation of Washington our art is largely responsible. In literature, also, the historian rightfully dwells upon and sets in high lights those traits that assure the populace and those mental acquisitions that are as rare as snowy peaks.

Yes, there are fertile valleys and flower-bordered paths through the level meadows. While we say, Away with Weems! it can be proved that Washington, because he had the "merry heart that doth good like a medicine" was very near to the people who called him Father. In this case family traditions are not to be despised. There are persons living who talked with eyewitnesses who themselves saw and talked with Washington. These have told us that whether in military or in civic life Washington was the admiration not only of warriors and statesmen but even of little children and rosy maidens.

Washington Very Human. We have the story from those reared in the same household with those who as very young girls had seen Washington at Valley Forge. Later as eager maidens robed in white and standing in the throng along the Old York road they welcomed with music and garlands the President-elect on his way through Philadelphia to New York. As young ladies they later attended the receptions of the Chief Executive on Market street. No White House then, but a commodious dwelling when the Quaker city was the nation's capital. They saw or served the commander in chief when he was in the vigor of his early forties and the President when in the wisdom of his late sixties, and all of them told the same intimate story of a gentleman at perfect ease without affectation. When these little girls of Valley Forge went to Philadelphia for their education they used to slip out of the Lutheran church at Fourth and Cherry streets and his across the then green fields to Christ church at Second and Market streets with double hope: They might see the President put Lady Washington in her carriage and they might catch his smile and bow to the people. Then—and how they did tell it with girlish volubility interlarded with many superlatives—they attended the presidential receptions on Market street where the Republican club assembled.

When Great Man Unbent.

Did the Father of His Country unbent? Yes, and literally so. Nothing better did those strains love than toward the end of the formalities to get his excellency in a corner, tell him stories and even make pert remarks about the visitors and social appraisals which were not always reverent. Then it was that an august form assumed more and oftener the curve of a bow than the rigidity of a ramrod. When Washington went sleighing, a pastime in which he indulged often, it is remembered that his laughter could be heard rods away.

Of other emotions—not hidden in that armor of reserve with which he froze the all too numerous climbers and impostors—sympathy with his soldiers and tears even when, without condensation, but himself suffering the pain of a comrade's sorrow, he visited the unlucky financier of the Revolution, Robert Morris, then shut up in a debtor's prison, contemporary testimony tells.

Of Washington's sense of humor, one who reads his dispatch to congress comparing fault-finding gentlemen in armchairs with real patriots shivering on the bleak slopes of Valley Forge, or the letter to Colonel Reed, when in Boston the premature salutes of the British and Tories revealed their misunderstanding of the hauling down of the crossed flag at Cambridge and the raising of the thirteen-striped flag, criticized readers know well. Washington enjoyed a joke. Indeed, while in outward mien and methods, with perhaps extreme formality of dress and manners in the one case and easy nonchalance in the other, the two men differed greatly to the eye, they were in soul one to the other.

Lessons From His Life.

To the average man or woman, or boy or girl, what is Washington's message? No psychoanalysis, metaphysics or esoteric philosophy is needed here. Everything lies on the surface. Hard work, faithfulness, honesty, self-control, perseverance, honor, but of the common carbon of character was this flawless diamond crystallized. It was because he made his own opportunities that men saw in him initiative and called him to high station. Now the world waits for men like him, called and gifted not by advantage of birth or wealth but by the right use of such talents as those which our Maker has given to all.—New York Herald.

UNDER INDICTMENT FOR PERJURY

Story That Will Be Something of a Shock to School Boy Admirers of Washington.

The school boy who has been brought up on the story that George Washington never told a lie, gets a jolt when he first hears that this hero was once indicted for perjury. This statement is substantiated by a most old court record in the county clerk's office of the quaint old Fairfax County Court house, 18 miles from Washington. The entry was made in 1754. It is a blanket indictment, containing the names of a number of Virginia's eminent citizens, including George Mason, one of Washington's fellow signers of the Constitution. The indictment charges that these citizens failed to make a proper return of the number of vehicles on their premises to be assessed for wheel tax. There is no record that the defendants ever were brought to trial. The county clerk, in whose family the office has been for eighty years, generally as-ures visitors that the Father of His Country really did not lapse from the standard established by the cherry tree story, but that the return which caused the trouble was made by an overseer, out of sympathy with the wheel tax.

President Washington's Cabinet.

President Washington's cabinet had just half as many members as are in the cabinet today. His advisers consisted of a secretary of state, a secretary of the treasury, a secretary of war, a postmaster general and an attorney general. In his first term Thomas Jefferson was secretary of state; Alexander Hamilton, secretary of the treasury; Henry Knox, secretary of war; Samuel Osgood and Timothy Pickens, postmasters general, and Edmund Randolph, attorney general. The cabinet in his second administration was composed of: Edmund Randolph and Timothy Pickens, secretaries of state. Alexander Hamilton and Oliver Wolcott, secretaries of the treasury; Henry Knox, Timothy Pickens and James McHenry, secretaries of war; Timothy Pickens, postmaster general, and Edmund Randolph, William Bradford and Charles Lee, attorneys general.

Washington.

No gilded dome swells from the lofty roof to catch the morning or evening beam; but the love and gratitude of united America settle upon it in one eternal sunshine. From beneath that humble roof went forth the brave and unshrinking warrior, the magistrate who knew no glory but his country's good; to that he returned. There he lived in noble simplicity, there he died in glory and peace. While it stands, the latest generations of the grateful children of America will make this pilgrimage to it as a shrine; and when it shall fall, it will be just the memory and the name of Washington shall shed an eternal glory on the spot.—From an address of Edward Everett.

The Kitchen Cabinet

The men of the past overcame because they had convictions. We of the present frequently fail because we have nothing but opinions.

LUNCHES AND DINNERS

If children carry a lunch to school, it should be carefully packed with food that is wholesome and also substantial. Sandwiches should be used sparingly, though. A surprise in the form of a cake, a few dates, or pieces of candy, or a little fruit in season, hidden in a corner, is a source of keen pleasure to a youngster.

Sandwiches are the usual food first put into the basket. These may be varied as to fillings, making some sweet, some sour, or filled with meats, cheese and eggs.

Pickles are not especially good food for the young, but a good homemade dill pickle sliced very thin, and only one or two slices used, will help to make a meat-filled sandwich tasty. Lay the slice of pickle over the meat. Oil cucumber pickles, finely minced and mixed with chopped meat makes another good sandwich. Jelly, jam and preserves are all good, and when used the piece of cake may be omitted.

Molded Chicken.—Remove all the meat from the bones of an uncooked fowl and put it twice through the meat chopper. Into a saucepan place one-half cupful of bread crumbs and one cupful of milk; heat, stirring until a paste is formed. Take from the heat and gradually beat in the chicken, adding a teaspoonful of salt, pepper and paprika to taste and a tablespoonful of minced parsley with three well-beaten egg yolks. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites, turn into a buttered baking dish, stand in hot water and bake in a moderate oven for 40 minutes. Turn out and serve with a white sauce.

Beets with cardinal sauce are delicious with this dinner. Roll the beets until tender, chop and serve with the following: To three tablespoonfuls of melted butter, add three tablespoonfuls of red liquor from the beets, boil until thick, then add one-fourth cupful of vinegar or the juice of a lemon. Roll up again, add one-half cupful of cream and pour over the chopped or diced beets.

Gingerbread is a cake that most children like, and with a dish of apple sauce and one of cottage cheese one can, with a bottle of milk, make a good meal.

Chopped raisins and nuts mixed with a teaspoonful of any fruit juice makes a delicious cake filling which the children will like again and again.

MORE GOOD THINGS

Date Balls.—Stone and chop three cupfuls of dates, add one cupful of black walnut meats, one teaspoonful of syrup and a tablespoonful of the preserved ginger, finely chopped. Make into balls, roll in coconut.

Sour Cabbage.—Cut a two-inch cube of fat salt pork in dice and fry until light brown. Add one cupful of boiling water, two quarts of shredded cabbage and one sour apple cut fine. Cook for an hour very slowly. When half done add one-half cupful of not too sour vinegar.

Buttermilk Bran Bread.—Mix a pint each of bran and white flour with one cupful each of brown sugar and raisins and one teaspoonful each of salt and soda. Beat up with a pint of buttermilk and bake in a moderate oven an hour.

Chestnut Sauce.—Take one cupful of chestnuts cooked as above, add to a rich brown sauce prepared by thickening the fat in the pan, with two to three tablespoonfuls of flour; brown, well season and serve with the roast or fowl.

Chestnut Cakes.—Cook a pound of chestnuts for fifteen minutes, shell and skin them, then cook in boiling water until tender. Rub through a sieve and to every cupful add the yolk of an egg, white pepper, celery salt, onion juice and salt to taste. Make into neat cakes, dip in egg and fry in butter and serve with broiled steak.

Baked Hash.—Butter a shallow baking dish, pile in the hash loosely, smooth the top, dot with bits of butter and bake until brown and crisp. Turn out on a platter or serve from the baking dish.

Orange Frosting.—Take one cupful of confectioners' sugar, mix with one tablespoonful of cream, pulp and rind of an orange and a little orange extract with some yellow vegetable coloring. Beat until smooth and spread over the cake.

Sardine Scramble.—Add the juice of half a lemon to one cupful of finely-cut sardines. Use the oil from the can instead of butter, beat six eggs, mix well with the sardines and cook in the oil.

WISCONSIN NEWS NOTES

Edward F. Williams, president of the Citizens' bank of Delavan, first mayor of Delavan and member of one of the oldest families in Walworth county, died at St. Luke's hospital in Chicago. A lively muskrat meandered down the length of Main-st. Park Falls, avoiding traffic and finally turned in at the door of a hardware store. The animal was captured and put on display for an hour and then released. Two fires that destroyed a storage warehouse and a coal and grain warehouse in Madison caused damage estimated at $100,000. A license of $3 on male dogs and $10 on female dogs is provided for in an ordinance passed by the Debon city council. Miss Julia Hutchinson of Waupaca, who is state secretary of the W. C. T. U., has been chosen editor of the official paper of that organization. The Odd Fellows' lodge at Benton has purchased the residence of the late James S. Looney and will remodel it into a hall and lodge room. The Rev. George Bradford, for the past two years pastor of the Clinton Congregational church, tendered his resignation to take effect May 1. The Rev. Bradford came to Clintonville from Mellen, Wis. Toll rates on telephone calls between Rice Lake and Barron have been reduced from 20 to 14 cents. The reduction saves the subscriber war tax. Thirty beekeepers from various parts of Green county attended a meeting at Monroe of the Green County Beekeepers' association. Officers of the American Legion post of Platteville have tracts with agents of two separate ranches in the west for a big double competitive rodeo to be held in Platteville, on the Badger fair grounds, July 4 and 5. George Cook has acquired the Milltown Herald, Milltown, and renamed the publication, The Milltown Newsman. The paper will be devoted to the district near Milltown. Plans are under way for a farmers' institute to be held at Klondike Feb. 27 and 28. An extensive program is planned.

Winter Find You Tired and Achy?

DOES winter find you miserable with an aching back? Do you get up lame and stiff—lag through the day tired, weak and depressed? Do you know why you are so run down?

There's good reason for your condition and likely it's weak kidneys. Winter's colds and chills throw a heavy burden on the kidneys. The kidneys fall behind and poisons accumulate. It's little wonder, then, that you suffer backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness and bladder irregularities.

Don't risk serious kidney disease. Use Doan's Kidney Pills before it is too late. Doan's have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

"Use Doan's," Say These Good Folks:

Joe Sanderman, 1233 Armstrong St., Marinette, Wis., says: "Exposure to extreme cold, as well as heavy work in a lumber camp, put my kidneys in bad shape. This last winter with a bad back and when I bent I could hardly straighten again. I got such a sharp pain through my back. There was a constant dull ache across my kidneys. Moreover, I was sore across my shoulders and back. My kidneys were weak and irregular, so I got Doan's Kidney Pills. After I used Doan's I was entirely cured."

CHARACTER TELLS THE STORY!

People throughout this country are giving more thought to hygiene and to the purity of remedies on the market, but no one doubts the purity of Doctor Pierce's vegetable medicines, for they have been so favorably known for over fifty years that everyone knows they are just what they are claimed to be. These medicines are the result of long research by a well-known physician, R. V. Pierce, M. D., who compounded them from health-giving herbs and roots long used in sickness by the Indians. Dr. Pierce's reputation as a leading and honored citizen of Buffalo, is a sufficient guarantee for the purity of that splendid tonic and blood purifier, the Golden Medical Discovery, and the equally fine nerve tonic and system builder for women's ailments, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Send 10c for trial pkg. tablets to Pierce's Invalids Hotel, Buffalo, N.Y.

Aspirin. I overheard a remark the other evening which would form a good addition to that remarkable series of popularly satisfied drawings by Dr. Moore in "Punch," entitled "Things one can't rather have left unsaid." A very obliging lady and her daughter were in a room and up to a little lady was standing there and said: "Oh, sweetest you look this evening so turned to her daughter, would it be a very suitable time, 'My dear, I must have been lovely when you were young?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

HOW TO MOVE THE DECIDUOUS PLANTS

Trees and Shrubbery Should Not Be Disturbed While Showing Growth.

Deciduous plants are ordinarily moved when dormant or during the period from a little before the leaves drop in the autumn, until growth starts in the spring. With extra care they may be moved at other times. The secret of successful transplanting is getting a good root growth started before top growth makes too heavy demands upon the roots. In cool moist climates there is not the same care demanded in warmer or drier ones. If possible, plants should be put in their permanent places immediately. Otherwise, they should be put in the ground temporarily to prevent their drying out, states the United States Department of Agriculture. The soil must be so dry that there will be no danger of its packing hard enough about the roots to bake or become bricklike on drying, and will spring apart again after being squeezed tightly in the hand.

The holes should be dug sufficiently wide to take all the roots without doubling them back, and deep enough to set the plant a little deeper than it grew before and still have 2 or 3 inches of good new soil under it. The good top soil should be saved for putting back in the hole about the roots of the plant, the sub-soil should be taken away and be replaced by good soil. Well rotted manure and ground bone or cottonseed meal may be liberally mixed with the earth about the roots of the newly set tree. These should be well mixed with the soil but should not come in direct contact with the roots.

The roots should be placed as nearly in the position they grew as is possible, care being taken not to leave them in layers without fine soil between. The plant should be gently worked up and down to be sure there is no opening left under the place from which the roots branch. After the hole is partially filled, the soil must be well tamped to bring the roots and soil into close contact with one another. If the earth is very dry water should be applied before the hole is finally filled. After it has soaked away the balance of the soil should be replaced but without any tamping or firming of any kind. When the work is done in the fall it is well to make a mound about the plant to prevent wind from swaying it and loosening it in the soil.

The top of the plant must be pruned somewhat in proportion to the amount of roots that were destroyed in digging. This usually means that one-half of the top should be cut away when the plant has been well dug and handled and three-fourths or more if it has been poorly handled. As far as possible this should be done by removing whole limbs or branches rather than by cutting back the ends. In order that the general shape or character of the plant may be kept. It is often a help in protecting the roots from drying out too rapidly and assisting them in coming in immediate close contact with the soil to dip them in very dilute clay and cow manure just before planting, or even in dilute clay alone.

POTTING YOUNG PLANTS

When pots, cans or other vessels are used for potting the young vegetable or flowering plants, preparatory to transplanting in the open when the time arrives, it is necessary to have drainage. A small amount of coarse gravel at the bottom is a good plan. After the plant has grown to a fair size, before the roots begin to mat, it is advisable to remove to a larger pot, to give the roots every possible advantage. Then, when transferred to the open the roots should not be injured.

TO HAVE FRUIT IN THE HOME GARDEN

Bearing Trees, Bushes and Vines May Be Had Within a Very Short Time.

Fruit in the home garden is taken as a matter of course by many cottage gardeners—if they have it, they have it—and if they don't—they don't.

To have fruit, especially the smaller kinds, where the family orchard usually set out by the pioneers of the vicinity, is not considered, the occupant of the property is the one who usually supplies the vines and bushes.

Within a couple of years it is a very easy matter, with proper care, to have a very good bearing strawberry patch, a good blackberry, raspberry, gooseberry and currant patch, and grapes in three or four years.

Two or three hundred everbearing strawberry plants should, under normal conditions, supply berries for the family throughout the season—until frost. A couple of dozen of the larger berry bushes would produce well after the second year; the same with currants and gooseberries.

There is as good an argument in favor of freshly picked berries as there is in favor of fresh vegetables taken from the ground just before they are to be used.

Berry crops, of course, cannot be hoped for without some labor; for the bushes must be pruned, fertilized, kept free from weeds, and the dead wood must be removed every season.

Warms must be expected, especially on the currant and gooseberry bushes. The other berry vines have their respective scientific names.

Man's Length of Life. According to the president of Cornell university the average length of life in North America is fifty-six years. In 1870 it was forty-one and in 1910, fifty-two and one-half years. Students of this interesting subject say that the average life could be prolonged twenty years if all people could learn and profit by what health experts know. Health education has a lot to do with it. In tropical India the average man is destined to die at twenty-four. Longest lived people in the world are the progressive New Zealanders. They are said to live sixty years on the average.

Rev. Edmund Heslop Calls It A Blessing

The Rev. Edmund Heslop of Wigton, Pa., suffered from dropsy for a year. His limbs and feet were swollen. He had heart fluttering, rufal appetite, was heavy and sleepy after meals. There were dark circles round his eyes, which were swollen and puffed. He became exhausted at the least exertion, was dizzy and suffered very much from shortness of breath. His limbs were heavy and he had such a dragging sensation across the loins that he had no power to move. His skin was dry and harsh. His hands and feet were cold. He had used five boxes of DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS, and the swelling is all gone, and he looks like himself. He says he has been benefited and blessed by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"On December 29, 1910, I write to say that I have not changed my faith in the value of your remedy since the publication of the above statement was authorized, and I have no change to make in the same."

(Signed) REV. EDMUND HESLOP, Wigton, Pa.

NOTE.—In April of this year, Rev. Heslop wrote us that at 84 years of age, he is still hale and hearty.

A U. S. Judge in Trouble

"I took about six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills for heart trouble, from which I had suffered for five years. I had dizzy spells, my eyes puffed, my breath was short and I had chills and backache. I took the pills about a year ago and have had no palpitations. Am now 63 years old, able to do lots of manual labor, am well and hearty, weigh about 200 pounds. I feel very grateful that I found Dodd's Kidney Pills."

I had other symptoms showing that my kidneys were affected, so I took Dodd's Kidney Pills. They were the means of saving my life."

USE WOOD ASHES

Do not waste any wood ashes from the grate. Strew them over the garden. They are rich in potash fertilizer. It will leach into the ground, but, unlike nitrate, will remain there in suspension and the plants can get the full benefit. You are throwing away money when you throw away wood ashes. They are especially valuable for daffodil and tulip beds.

SAWDUST AS FERTILIZER

Sawdust is not a good fertilizer and should not be spaded into the garden until it has rotted so that it almost disintegrates. It is a favorite breeding place for certain kinds of insects. Burn it and use the ashes.

TRANSPLANTING

Transplant tomatoes twice if it can be arranged. This checks the growth and prevents their growing leggy. They are much sturdier and stockier when twice transplanted before going into permanent quarters.

PLANTS NEED AIR

Give seedling tomatoes air whenever it is possible, to make them stocky. No plant goes sprindling faster than the tomato. Open the window a little way on any day when the temperature is above freezing, but do not expose to cold winds. Fresh air whenever possible goes a long way toward making fine, strong tomato plants in the seed boxes and frames.

CELERY SEED

Celery seed for successful germination, must never be allowed to get on the dry side. It requires more moisture to germinate successfully than many other seeds. Don't wash out the seeds or let the seed box become waterlogged, however.

EGGPLANT SEED

Eggplant seed must not be kept too wet when it is germinating. It also should not be allowed to get cold. They do not require as much moisture in their early stages as other vegetables.

"For Vision's Sake"

SECRETS OF HEALTH

Headaches are in the majority of cases caused from Eye Strain. Normal eyes use 15 per cent of the vital energy generated by the human system—Strained eyes must use more. Daily they rob sons' other vital organs of its share—but not without protest—for head aches and "stomachs" are but nature's warning of abuse. LOOK WELL TO YOUR EYES.

Camphor & Hydrastis
Fine For Sore Eyes

It is surprising how QUICK eye inflammation is helped by camphor, hydrastis, witchhazel, etc., as mixed in Lavoptik eye wash. One lady whose eyes were weak and watery for three years was helped AT ONCE. Another case of red, inflamed eyes was also benefited. One small bottle Lavoptik usually helps ANY CASE sore, weak or inflamed eyes. Aluminum eye cup FREE.—Edw. C. Miller, Druggist.—Advertisement.

COMING!

to Fond du Lac DR. DORAN

Specialist in internal medicine for the past twenty years.

DOES NOT OPERATE

Will Give Free Consultation on Monday, Feb. 26th

Palmer Hotel, from 10 a. m., to 4 p. m.

ONE DAY ONLY

Dr. Doran is a regular graduate in medicine and surgery and is licensed by the State of Wisconsin. He visits professionally the more important towns and cities, and offers to all who call on this trip consultation and examination free, except the expense of treatment when desired.

According to his method of coming to your nearest city to see patients he gives all sick people an opportunity to obtain the best that medical science can offer right at home. He does not operate for chronic appendicitis, gall stones, ulcers of the stomach or other chronic diseases.

He has to his credit many wonderful results in disease of the stomach, liver, bowels, blood, skin, nerves, heart, kidney, bladder, bedwetting, catarrh, leg ulcers and rectal ailments.

If you have been ailing for any length of time and do not get any better, do not fail to call, as improper measures rather than disease are often the cause of your long standing trouble.

Remember above date, that examination on this trip will be free and that his treatment is different.

Married ladies must come with their husbands, and children with their parents.

Address Medical Laboratory of Dr. Doran, 335-336 Boston Block, Minneapolis, Minn.

REPORT OF HEALTH EXAMINATION

Following is a report of the recent health inspection in the Kewaskum Graded and High School by the county nurse, Miss Giesing.

A number of the children were absent on account of the grippe.

109 children were examined; of these 28 were found with defective teeth; 31 with enlarged tonsils; 11 with defective vision; 6 with defective nasal breathing and five with goitre. It is commendable that many of the children with enlarged tonsils are under the doctors observation, and a great percentage of the pupils are receiving dental treatment, but it happens to be the case too often that parents do not deem it of significance to have the children's teeth looked after until about the tenth or twelfth year and this is how the first molar tooth meets its fate. The first of the permanent teeth to make its appearance, but it is also the largest of the teeth. This tooth is to play a very important part in dentition as it must sustain the stress of mastication during the period in which the temporary teeth are being replaced by permanent teeth and it also largely determines the position of the permanent teeth which follow it in normal dentition. Considering the part it should play in years to follow, its loss can be regarded as nothing short of a calamity. Our slogan should be "Every child a tooth brush" and twice a year an examination by a competent dentist.

Kewaskum can boast of "Heavyweights" among the 109 pupils examined 9 are 10% overweight, but we in this same group we also find the other extreme; 14 are 10% underweight, and 17 5% underweight. It is rather striking and at the same time appalling that of the 14 who are 10% underweight 7 were found among the 29 high school students and the remaining 7 among the 80 grade pupils, which shows that the percentage of underweights is much greater among high school students than among grade pupils. This seems a poor way of fitting the students for either college or work and it will be well worth our time to study the cause.

OPENS DELICATESSEN STORE.

Frank Keyes, until recently the owner of the Carnation lunch rooms in this city, has leased the Wagner store property on Main street for the purpose of conducting a first-class delicatessen store. He opened up for business on Tuesday, and having had previous experience in that line and being familiar with delicatessen goods of all kinds, Mr. Keyes undoubtedly will work up a paying business. He has our best wishes for success.—West Bend Pilot.

Money in Coconut.

In the last few years a strong and growing interest has developed in coconut culture in the Philippine islands. Not only are the native plants, but the advantages of modern methods, but foreign capital and enterprise see a prosperous future in the industry. It is virtually impossible for the prospective planter to either purchase or lease a bearing coconut grove, but large areas of virgin land are available for new plantations, more especially in the Moro provinces, where conditions are ideal for coconut culture.

OUR SALES TALK

Any kind of advertising, which is honest, has merit. But when it comes to public sale advertising, the STATESMAN has most of them sitting on the street with a tin cup in their hand, playing a wheezy accordeon.

The rural subscriber is always in need of something. There never was a time when he was "all filled up" with farm utensils, horses, cattle, pigs, hay, or something, and believe you us, he isn't stopping along the roadside to read a notice which has been stuck up on a corner post.

No sir! he knows that if it is a real public sale he will find it advertised in the STATESMAN and when he gets home, he cocks his feet up on the piano—or some other piece of furniture, gets the STATESMAN and reads about that public sale from the date line to the place where it talks about the terms.

And if there are a thousand farmers reading your sale notices in the STATESMAN you can almost gamble that 90% of them are going to find something listed which they want—and you know that is what makes a sale successful. If you are contemplating a sale, and do not know what the expense of advertising will be, come in and talk it over. We will take care of all advertising for you. You give us the date, location, auctioneer, terms of sale, and a list of your property, and let us do all the worrying for you. We even do your out-of-town advertising for you. You to name the papers.
